Grave Ceremony Is PLENTY DEAD!

By Grandad!
Miss Margie Baker, who right now is named Sweetheart of W. F. Y., is Blackout queen at annual Grave-Digging Ceremony.

Dressed in a long, flowing, light-colored, shadowy gown, swinging gently from the shoulders, Miss Margie was the very picture of melancholy. At the height of the ceremony, Mr. Morgan, head of the D.M. Ladies, moved into a D.M. Dress, walking as gracefully as a water nymph as the famous speech: "Lament of the Dead" was sung. She joined her in a beautiful dirge.

After the entertaining number, Miss Margie, who is a newly-engaged lineman, "I'm not going to be buried until I'm changed into a new burial chamber"—and that, Mr. Morgan, I have no doubt about your future.
