Hollow Triumph Awaits Summer Graduates—Diploma Covers to Be Empty: No Sheepskin

When the more than 900 persons scheduled to graduate next Friday night receive their degrees, the triumph will be somewhat hollow.

Not only will the diploma cover be empty, but when the sheepskin finally is mailed to them after the end of the 12-week term, it will be paper, not sheepskin at all.

Those receiving bachelor's degrees will get a "linen white parchment" certificate about the size of an ordinary sheet of typing paper. Each one costs 24 cents.

The advance-degree students will receive, through mail, a "genuine sheepskin parchment." They cost $1.05 each.

The covers to be distributed at the ceremony are "the prettiest part of it all," says Frank C. Adams, chairman of the Convocations Committee.

They are hard paper material in black or maroon

"imitation leather, with white silk moire." The University's name is stamped on them in 24-carat gold. They cost 74 cents each.

But then they will only be given to the graduate students who will march across the platform for the conferring of their degrees.

Degrees will be conferred on the undergraduates en masse while they stand at their seats, according to Frank Adams.

Commencement exercises will be at 7:30 p.m. next Friday in McAndrew Stadium. The Summer Band will present a brief concert starting at 7:20 p.m. and will play for the academic procession.

Ralph Micken, chairman of the Department of Speech, will be the speaker.

The summer commencement speaker traditionally is selected by members of the student body. Micken was asked to speak by the admini-

Prof. Bell Named To Geology Group

Frank J. Bell, assistant professor of geology, has been appointed to a committee to screen applicants from Illinois for membership in the newly organized American Institute of Professional Geologists.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Bell has been a member of the SIU geology faculty since 1957.

Marvin Kleinau, assistant professor of speech and workshop director.

Most of the workshopers are from Illinois, but states such as Virginia, Oregon, Kansas, Mississippi and Missouri have been represented.

"The caliber of students has been very fine this year," Mrs. Kleinau said. "It is amazing how much they have accomplished in a short time."

The workshops—in speech, journalism, photography, and theater—have been conducted by the corresponding divisions within the SIU School of Communications. The workshops opened July 5.

Friday night, the workshopers participated in a "last-night" dance at Lentz Hall at 8 o'clock.

Today, they meet at 9 a.m. at Furr Auditorium for a final assembly. The plans include turning in of identification cards and receiving attendance certificates.

One of the highlights planned for this morning's assembly is the showing of a five-minute motion picture made by members of the photography workshop. Its showing was scheduled for 9 a.m.

The workshops will be formerly closed at an awards luncheon today. Mrs. Kleinau said the luncheon at Lentz Hall will be started at 10:30 a.m., with the program following at about 11:15 a.m.

This earlier starting time will permit some workshopers to board trains, she explained.

Mrs. Kleinau said this year's program received "wonderful cooperation" from dormitory personnel, and the resident counselors "have done a marvelous job."

She said she was also "very pleased" with the behavior of the workshopers, whom she called "a very enthusiastic, cooperative group."

Touch of Perfection

Mrs. Geoffrey Gullett of London Tutors 'Fair Lady' Cast in Cockney

Around a college campus there are all sorts of instructors: history, English, math, chemistry, But Mrs. Geoffrey Gullett holds the distinction of being the only instructor of the Cockney accent at SIU.

Don't rush to the Advisement Center to sign up for her course, though, because it isn't offered for credit.

Mrs. Gullett, a delightful Londoner, coached the cast of My Fair Lady in the accent, giving the play that "final touch of perfection."

Raised in Colchester, England, Mrs. Gullett received her B.A. and M.A. degrees at Oxford and taught history for five years in London until she and her husband came to SIU last October.

"Cockney is only spoken in the Eastern section of London or as they say, 'by those born within the sound of Bow Bells,'" explained Mrs. Gullett. "Actually in London there are three dialects; the Cockney; regular, which is what I speak; and the aristocratic."

In the opening scene of the play, the Costermonger (fruit seller) says, "Whata tike me fer, a fool?" Typical of Cockney, the vowels are distorted and the h's are dropped. In Cockney, "half" sounds like "auf," "talking" is "talkin'" and strong emphasis is placed on t's, as in Doolittle.

Since the play includes all three dialects, the lead characters were coached privately. This helped avoid learning the wrong accent. The part of Eliza, played by Mary Jo Smith, involved all three accents.

The only real problem in reaching the accent, according to Mrs. Gullett, was that spoken as it is in London, the accent at times would be almost impossible for the audience to understand, especially in a large auditorium. To overcome the problem, some parts were somewhat modified and spoken more slowly.

Mrs. Gullett is a librarian at the Carbondale Public Library. "I'll just be working there until fall," she said.

"Then I will have an assistantship in history. In December we're going back to England."

As far as her year in the United States goes, Mrs. Gullett has enjoyed it very much, but it's "ever so humid here," she exclaimed.

the first show are Balcombe Green, Patrick Heron, Elizabeth Frink and John von Wicht.

Immediately following this show will be an exhibition of prints by distinguished artists of the 1950's, entitled "The Fabulous Decade." The etchings and lithographs will be representative of a "golden era" of print making in Europe and America. The work of Stanley William Hayter and Mauricio Lazansky and their many successful followers provide a treasury from which the many fine examples in the exhibition are selected.

The American artist Fairfield Porter's paintings will be shown in a large scale retrospective exhibit during the month of November. About 30 paintings will be borrowed from private collections and from the Ribor de Nagy Gallery in New York. Porter, a distinguished poet and art critic as well as a painter, has developed a personal manner of painting that largely ignores the abstract expressionists and "Pop" artists of recent years. Porter's painting has been compared to that of the Frenchman Edouard Vuillard.

An invitational exhibition of ceramic pieces is planned for three weeks in December. Potters, mostly in the Midwest, will be invited to send work for this show. Emphasis will be put on high quality, small-scale work that can be modestly priced. It is hoped that the Galleries can acquire several pieces for its own collection.

Tentative plans have been made for an exhibition in January or February centering around the design and production of fine books. The University Press will cooperate with the University Galleries in making selections and arrangements. The show will endeavor to illustrate the step by step production of a book, including the contributions of typographical designers, illustrators, and the various crafts involved. Original art work will be shown and the reproductive techniques required will be demonstrated.

Other shows now in the planning stages include "The Spirit of New Berlin in Painting and Sculpture," sponsored by the City of Berlin and The German Arts Council and circulated by The American Federation of Arts. This exhibition, heralded as a magnificent exposition of contemporary West German art, will be one of the most extensive shows ever held in the Mitchell Gallery.

Johnson Narrows Choice in Race for No. 2 Spot

Cabinet, Including Kennedy, Out of the Running

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON (AP) -- In a spray-gun action Thursday only six hours after telling a quickie news conference he had not decided on a running mate, President Johnson made a sweeping knockout of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and others from the lineup of vice presidential possibilities.

Johnson included on his non-candidate list all cabinet members and those in government who have access to the White House for such gatherings.

By this spray-gun elimination, speculation was focused on Minnesota's Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Eugene J. McCarthy as his probable choice for a running mate.

Others left out of consideration, in addition to Kennedy, were Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The consensus among many knowledgeable Democrats was that Johnson, calculating that he has established his own political image strongly, wants to win elective office without leaning on any Kennedy.

The feeling was that to eliminate any emotional surge for Atty. Gen. Kennedy, the President was willing to eliminate a whole lineup of possible candidates he never really had considered.

Among those who hit the dust, only Shriver, a Roman Catholic and a brother-in-law of the late Presi-

Chile Waits Until After Election

Mexico Opposed to OAS Sanctions Against Cuba

By Jack Harrison

Mexico is the only member nation which has indicated it definitely will not go along with the Organization of American States sanctions against Cuba.

The vote was 15-4 this week as the OAS conference of foreign ministers approved a diplomatic break and trade embargo against Cuba.

Mexico, Chile, Bolivia and Uruguay voted no. Bolivia and Uruguay later indicated they would go along with the majority decision.

Chile holds an election in September and might break relations with the Castro regime if anti-Communist elements are voted into office. Lame-duck President Jorge Alessandri's government felt that a break with Cuba now might benefit a pro-Communist candidate in the election.

Mexico, whose minister spoke out strongly against the sanctions at the conference, is not likely to adhere to the resolution.

But Mexican trade with Cuba is not likely to be a big help to Castro, for commerce between the countries is slight. In fact, none of the Latin American republics has much trade with Cuba. Only the U.S. has in the past carried on a large amount of trade with Cuba, and such trade has been cut off for some time.

The resolution states that the OAS member states:

1. Should not maintain diplomatic or consular relations with Cuba.

2. Should suspend all trade, direct or indirect, with Cuba, except in foodstuffs, medicines and medical equipment that may be sent to Cuba for humanitarian reasons.

3. Should suspend all sea transportation between their countries and Cuba, except that needed for humanitarian reasons.

Venezuela was author of the resolution, which resulted from Cuban aid to Communist terrorists in Venezuela.

The resolution also gave a warning against future subversive activities by Cuba and authorized any American state to put down such activity with armed force.

A ban on air transport was eliminated from the proposal. Thus the OAS avoided an individual indictment of Mexico, which is the only Latin American nation that has regularly scheduled air service with Cuba. This deference to Mexico was thought advisable even though Mexico voted against the sanction.

A possible reason for not trying to halt the air service is that refugees have used this route to flee Cuba.

Castro greeted the resolution with a tirade against the American states who voted for it. He said that he would continue to provide all available resources to pro-Communist revolutionaries throughout the hemisphere.

Castro's statement came from Chairman Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.), who, with other members of the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, watched monsters and murderers perform on a screen in a darkened hearing room as they renewed an inquiry into television programming.

of those who personally notified, who wasn't given a chance for the nomination in any event, was Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Another who was accorded a personal "no, thanks" was Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Commenting on his action, Johnson said he had decided it would be inadvisable to pick as a running mate any member of the cabinet has softened that opposition in recent years.

McCarthy, just as liberal as Humphrey, has not made much noise on major issues. But he is a Roman Catholic and the Republicans picked one of his faith for second place in naming Rep. William E. Miller of New York as their vice presidential candidate.

Humphrey issued a statement in which he said that "the matter of selection of a Democratic vice presidential candidate is in the hands of the President."

McCarthy said Johnson's announcement "obviously eliminates people who are in the cabinet and other offices he included." But McCarthy said the qualifications of "prudence and experience and acceptability" the President laid down "still apply to a very large or those who have cabinet status. Aides said Johnson felt that all of these men were working so hard in essential jobs that their endeavors would suffer if they were called upon to take on the burden of campaign roadwork.

An Associated Press poll of convention delegates was released, by coincidence, at the time of Johnson's announcement. It showed that Humphrey was a 3-to-2 choice for vice president. He got 341 first choice votes. The attorney general, in second place, got 230.

Humphrey and McCarthy were soul-searching to try to determine if they could fill Johnson's requirements that his running mate be attractive, prudent, progressive with a compassionate consideration for the people's welfare and still be welcomed into every state of the union.

Humphrey has been anathema to many in the South because of his strong stand on civil rights, but

Rabid Lumpas Massing Again

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia—Determined disciples of the fanatic Lumpa religious sect were reported massing Friday in another area of Northern Rhodesia after government forces mopped up their headquarters village.

Floor Fight Seen For Appalachians

WASHINGTON—The House Public Works Committee has approved a $1 billion revised version of President Johnson's Appalachian program and plans to ask the Rules Committee next week to schedule it for floor debate.

Republicans who fought the 11-state aid program in committee served notice they would fight the proposal on the House floor.

The bill would aid West Virginia and parts of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The program, scheduled to run until June 30, 1970, would provide an $840 million highway program for the 11-state area and $237.1 million during the first two years for public works, mine restoration and vocational education.

Noises Lift Hopes For Buried Miners

CHAMPAGNOLE, France—Feeble tapping heard again Friday from the limestone mine beneath Mt. Rivel heightened hopes that a 10th—and possibly an 11th—miner may have survived the cave-in four days ago.

The tapping was heard for more than four hours at irregular intervals last night, then resumed again at 6 a.m. A large drill was hurriedly installed above the spot.

Nine miners who escaped Monday's rockfall are being supplied with food, clothing and other necessities and appeared in no immediate danger.

He said there is "always the possibility that someone may make the attempt to kill dad. It's just one of those things we have to live with."

Ranger 7's six cameras were programmed to return 4,000 still pictures made from 1,300 miles above the moon's surface right down to the moment of impact.

The first photographs, Schurmeier said, are expected to be released within 24 hours after a board of scientists studies them.

The last shots, he added, were taken a fraction of a second before impact and would cover an area of about 60 square feet.

Ranger 7 smashed into the Sea of Clouds just below the equator on the left portion of the moon's lighted side. This is one of several vast plains on the moon surface.

It is in such an area that astronauts may land in a few years.

President Hails Ranger's Success

WASHINGTON -- On behalf of the nation, President Johnson expressed congratulations and thanks Friday to the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in California on the successful shot at the moon by Ranger 7.

"This is a basic step forward, in our orderly program to assemble the scientific knowledge necessary for man's trip to the moon," Johnson said.

He gave his congratulations by telephone to Dr. William H. Pickering, director, and Dr. Homer E. Newell, associate administrator of space science and application.

The Workshop Journal

WRITTEN AND EDITED BY STUDENTS IN THE HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISM WORKSHOP

Journalism Clinic Helpful for Advisers

Fifteen high school teachers left the SIU campus with new ideas concerning journalism techniques, after attending the High School Journalism Clinic which began July 12 and ended July 24.

The teachers attended classes with the journalism workshopers and acted as advisers in the afternoon lab sessions. In the newspaper

Students See Williams' Play Set in Mexico

Workshoppers viewed Tuesday night a shabby hotel in Mexico during the 1940's as the setting for Tennessee Williams' play "The Night of the Iguana." The main characters were Rev. T. Lawrence Shannon -- Charles Gilroy; Hanna Jelkes--Jo Ann Forte; Grandfather -- Richard Boss; Maxine Falk--Ramona Nail.

Mexine, who has recently become a widow, is the manager of the hotel. She is a friend of Shannon.

Shannon has given up the ministry because of scandals surrounding him. He admits at times that he wishes to "confess his sins" and return. But because he hasn't confessed, he gives the effect of a confused man in search of something.

Hanna Jelkes and her grandfather are artists who arrive in the first act. Hanna is a spinster, whose paintings and sketches have been peddled around hotels and streets without much success. Grandfather is a poet. Hanna is faced with the problem of Grandfather's loss of memory.

The play ended with the death of Grandfather after the completion of his poem.

Asked about the play, speech workshop student Carolyn Grune replied, "That's Tennessee Williams for you. There was excellent stage scenery and effects."

"I didn't like the acting," said Noraine Bortz, Journalism Workshop student, "except for the schoolteacher."

Bill Trammel, workshop student, commented, "I thought it was very good. Especially the subject of the play. I like naturalism."

58 Workshop Students Prefer Southern As School for Advanced Study Program

Four weeks ago 142 members of the Communications Workshops arrived at the SIU campus. During this time, 58 of the workshopers have decided tentatively to continue their education at SIU after graduation.

A newspaper staff of 43 and yearbook staff of 34 make up the Journalism division of the workshop. Twenty-nine students are considering SIU as the college they would like to attend.

Eleven of the 14 "shudderbugs" in the photography division consider SIU as their college choice.

SIU is regarded as the top division they corrected copy and assisted students in news writing exercises. They advised the JuLion staff on layout and copy, helping them to meet deadlines.

The clinic was designed to instruct teachers who will serve as advisers to their school publications.

Advisers in yearbook classes included: Mr. Robert Weld, Osceola, Iowa; Mrs. Joan Corcoran, Infield, Ill.; Miss Rona Talcott, Chicago; Mrs. Yvonne Neunlist, Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Mr. Allen Boudreau, Jacksonville, Ill.; Mrs. June Walters, Campbell, Mo; Mrs. Louise Winkler, Dietrich, Ill.; Miss Martha Leber, Mascoutah, Ill.; and Mr. Donald Peery, Roanoke, Va.

The following advisers were enrolled in the newspaper division: Miss Pauline Crader, East St. Louis, Ill.; Mrs. Clea Connell, Karnak, Ill.; Mrs. Allen Boudreau, Jacksonville, Ill.; Mrs. Helen Taylor, Mt. Carmel, Ill.; Mrs. Geneva Heitman, Sparta, Ill.; and Mrs. Phyllis Hedge, Bradley, Ill.

Mr. Bill Hollada, adviser of the Centralia High School newspaper, served as director of the newspaper clinic while Mr. W. Manion Rice and Mr. Weld headed the yearbook division.

Last Nighter Fling Provides Dancing

An informal last nighter dance brought the curtain down on the social activities for the Communications Workshop last night in Lentz Hall.

The dance, which started at 8 p.m., was soon underway as a group of college students provided the "swing" music.

Punch and cookies were served throughout the evening.

Bob Bremer, recreation director, presented the recreation tournament awards to winners of the individual tournaments. Bob Hall and Ken Whitener won the top honor in pool, with Paul Banger taking second place, Doug Hartmann and Nancy Schewe comprised the top two winners in the ping pong tournament, with Julie Payne placing second in the girls' division.

The evening ended at 11 p.m.

Journal Staff

Editor-in-Chief.....Bonnie Scholar

Associate Editor.....Sue Axelrod

Copy Editors...Pat Neubarth, Nancy Schewe

Presentation of Divisional Awards Ends Communications Workshop

Climaxing the four-week Communications Workshop, an awards banquet will take place in Lentz Hall cafeteria at 10:30 this morning.

Mr. Marvin Kleinau, director of the Speech Workshop; Mr. Manion Rice, director of the Journalism Workshop; Mr. Walter Craig, director of Photography Workshop; and Mr. Charles Zoekler, director of Theatre Workshop, will present awards in their divisions.

Scholarship awards will be given by Dr. C. Horton Talley, dean of the School of

Johnson Wins In Mock Poll

Lyndon B. Johnson, "shoo-in" candidate for the Democratic nomination, is by far the favorite of Communications Workshop students. In a recent survey they gave him more than a three to one lead over the Republican contender, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

When asked, "In this presidential election will you support President Johnson, Sen. Goldwater, or neither candidate?" they replied in this manner:

Johnson. . . . .67%
Goldwater. . . . .15%
Neither one. . . . .18%

Even though Mr. Johnson piled up such a tremendous lead over Mr. Goldwater, it was Charles Percy, the Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, who was in the lead over the incumbent, Otto Kerner. However, the percentages were not as overwhelmingly in favor of Mr. Percy as they had been for Mr. Johnson.

Percy. . . . .56%
Kerner. . . . .44%

Communications, and Mrs. Kleinau will present the citizenship awards.

A gold medal and a one-Staffers to Distribute Workshop Publication

JuLion yearbooks will be distributed at the final assembly this morning. The JuLion staff will sigh with relief, for the publication is the result of hard work and worry.

For example, after the lab sessions for the first deadline, the staff realized it had not sent page numbers. Mr. Robert Weld came to the rescue with magazine page numbers and sent them in time.

Co-editors, Mimi Sandifer and Darlene Koenig, attribute early problems to inexperience of many staff members.

Veterans returned to work, completing copy two days prior to the July 24 deadline.

RF's Show Courage In Search of 'Prowler'

"Kay get up. There's a prowler in the basement."

Gathering up her robe, flashlight and courage, Kay Satterfield and Gwen Townsend, resident fellows at Abbott Hall, began a nocturnal search for a prowler of questionable existence. Not lacking in bravery, Kay marched down the basement stairs with Gwen reluctantly following. After making a thorough search of the lounge, laundry room and steam tunnel, the two found nothing more suspicious than a toy fire engine under the stairs.

Gwen later remarked that she was "the last down the basement stairs and the first up."

year, full tuition scholarship to SIU will be awarded the outstanding student of each workshop.

Silver and bronze medals will be awarded to first and second place winners in both newspaper and yearbook. All five winning journalists will receive subscriptions to "The Grassroots Editor," a quarterly magazine of articles selected from weekly newspapers.

A first and second place award will be presented in speech for novice debating, varsity debating and overall in individual events.

Photography Workshop will sponsor medals for first and second place in still life and moving cinema photography.

The Theater Workshop will award first and second place medals to students for talent, and service.

In addition to the individual workshop awards, a first and second place girls' and boys' citizenship award will be given.
