Pilot lost path 1 mile from runway

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

An investigation into the plane crash that killed three University students last month has revealed that the pilot veered off course a mile from the runway.

Edward McAvoy, an investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board, said the plane turned left one-half mile before it reached the runway's middle marker, an audio beacon, which tells the pilot he is on course for landing. The marker is located one-half mile before the runway.

The marker sends a fan-shaped signal straight into the air above it. McAvoy said the plane never reached the marker.

McAvoy said a pilot who cannot see the runway is to climb and ask the control tower for further instructions.

Visibility at Southern Illinois Airport the night of the crash was between three-eighths and five-eighths of a mile, McAvoy said. Fog from the Big Muddy River cut visibility at the crash site to zero, McAvoy said, quoting Jackson County sheriff's deputies.

However, McAvoy would not speculate on the cause of the crash. "That is reserved for the board in Washington," he said in a telephone interview from the safety board's Chicago headquarters.

The crash killed Matthew P. Brady, 19, of Kankakee, freshman, pre-major; Darion E. Deuschle, 18, of Bradley, freshman, pre-major; and Darrel L. McClure, 21, of Bourbonnais, freshman in aviation maintenance and technology.

McClure was piloting the plane. The control tower cleared the plane for an instrument-guided landing on runway 11R, McAvoy said.

McAvoy said McClure was qualified to make an instrument landing. McClure had private, multi-engine and commercial instruments licenses. The plane's engines will be examined Wednesday in Memphis, Tenn., he said.

McAvoy and four investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration concluded the on-site investigation last week. McAvoy said findings were sent to the safety board's Washington office, which soon will issue a preliminary report.

Red Cross schedules blood drive

By Edward Rahe
Staff Writer

The Red Cross will hold a blood drive this week to make up for a shortage of blood caused by an increase in the number of surgeries performed in Southern Illinois last month.

The drive will be held Wednesday and Thursday in Ballroom D of the Student Center between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. On Friday, the drive will move to the City Hall Annex at 607 E. College St. and be conducted there from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The goal of the drive is 925 pints of blood, Vivian Ugent, blood drive coordinator for Southern Illinois, said.

"We're especially in need of blood at this time of year," she said. "More surgeries are scheduled in January than any other month."

Ugent said the Red Cross is seeking volunteers to help in the drive. Registered nurses and emergency medical technicians are needed to take blood pressure and pulses. Student volunteers also are needed, Ugent said.

"We always count on student participation as both workers and donors," she said.

Donors may make appointments in the south end of the Student Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Members of the Delta Zeta sorority, Delta Chi fraternity and Mobilization of Volunteer

Board to consider using arbitration

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees will decide Feb. 11 whether to submit a grievance by an electrical engineering professor to an outside arbitrator.

This is the first request the Board of Trustees has received to submit a grievance to binding arbitration. Under binding arbitration, a case is heard by a neutral party from outside the University. Traditionally, the board has been the final arbiter of all grievances.

"We're quite anxious to see how the Board of Trustees will dispose of the grievance," Charles Zucker, an organizer for the Illinois Education Association, said. The IEA is one of two unions vying to represent faculty members if they decide to unionize.

Zucker said he was surprised the board is considering whether to go to an outside arbitrator. Zucker and organizers for the University Professionals of SIU-C, the other union, have criticized the University's grievance policy, saying it favors the administration.

But University officials said there is no reason to be surprised by the decision.

Richard Grunz, legal counsel for the Board of Trustees, said, "This is the first time the board has received a request of this type. Therefore, this is the first time the board has considered such a request." Zucker said, "We have no indication that the Board of Trustees will in fact submit Professor Goben's grievance to binding arbitration. We'll be much more surprised if that happens."

Chancellor Lawrence Pettit said binding arbitration "is something that has to be considered on a case-by-case basis."

"I certainly am not against it as a decision-making tool," he said. "The danger of arbitration is that you let someone outside the University, who may not understand the University community very well, decide the matter."

"On the good side, both parties have a part in choosing who decides the matter."

Charles A. Goben said he was unfairly denied compensation after a Judicial Review Board panel decided in December 1986 that some of Goben's achievements had not been properly considered for merit salary increases.

Farmer returns home from Nicaraguan jail

CARLINVILLE, (UPI) — A weary James Denby returned to his central Illinois farm Sunday and said "it's wonderful to be home" after spending nearly two months in a Nicaraguan jail, accused of aiding Contra rebels.

"I'm a little tired. I feel fine and it's wonderful to be home," Denby said. "I had a long day, a lot of first-class traveling."

Denby was greeted at dawn Sunday by his wife, Marie, and son, James Jr., under a red, white and blue hand-painted banner reading

"Welcome Home" at the farmhouse.

Denby, 58, left the house Thanksgiving day en route to his farm in Costa Rica, but was shot down in his private plane over Nicaragua Dec. 6 and accused by the Sandinista government of aiding the Contra rebels. He was released from jail Saturday and returned on a chartered, private plane to the United States.

"It was a nightmare and I think it's over," Marie Denby said.

Denby credits his release to the efforts of Bill Press, a Los Angeles attorney and former television commentator who is a candidate for the U.S. Senate in California.

"I got out through the efforts of Bill Press and some of his friends who are very close to the powers that be in Nicaragua," Denby said. "They arranged for my release, primarily as a gesture by the Nicaraguan government, in an effort to change the vote on the Contra aid that comes up this Wednesday."

"They told me from the very first that I would probably be traded," he said.

"I talked to Bill Press and several others last Monday and they said they were going to try to affect my release. They said first they wanted to check that there wasn't going to be a hooker — that I was really guilty or working for the CIA or something like that — and I assured them that I wasn't."

Denby declined to comment on whether his release would affect the vote on an ad-

Ortega arrives in Sweden seeking European support

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega arrived Sunday to meet with Prime Minister Ingvar Carlsson in a continuing attempt to gain European support against further U.S. aid to the Contras. Ortega is on a four-nation European tour trying to mobilize support for his campaign against more U.S. aid to the Contra rebels fighting his government.

Panamanian ship hit by missile in Persian Gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — An Exocet missile ripped into a small Panamanian freighter Sunday morning in the Persian Gulf, setting it ablaze and adrift off the Saudi Arabian coast, and shipping officials said Iraqi warplanes may have hit the vessel by mistake. The crew of the 9,112-ton Panamanian-flagged MV Mare abandoned ship after the 9:00 a.m. strike and the vessel was seen six hours later drifting about 62 miles north of Bahrain in the central gulf.

El Salvador's army, rebels call 1-day truce

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas and the army agreed to a "day of peace" Sunday to clear the way for health workers trying to vaccinate some 200,000 children in a national campaign organized by UNICEF. The one-day truce comes after a wave of violence in the past 24 hours by guerrillas of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front and right-wing death squads.

West Bank fighting claims 1st civilian casualty

NABLUS, Israeli-occupied West Bank (UPI) — Nearly two months of violence in the Israeli-occupied territories claimed its first Israeli civilian casualty Sunday as the army clamped a curfew on Nablus, the largest city in the West Bank, and wounded four Palestinian demonstrators. Dov Kalmanovich, 35, a Jewish resident in the West Bank settlement of Beit El, suffered severe burns when a Molotov cocktail exploded in his car as he drove on a road near Bira, 9 miles north of Jerusalem.

House debate on aid to Contras nears climax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The arguments over Contra aid boiled down to a choice Sunday between an "insurance policy" to keep Nicaragua honest or the specter of a "proxy war" fought with U.S. bullets and Central American bodies. With a showdown House vote scheduled Wednesday on President Reagan's latest aid proposal, Democratic leader Rep. Tom Foley of Washington said, "We're going to have enough votes to defeat Contra aid."

Commercial interests influence foreign policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A look at the labyrinth that led to a failed $1 billion Iraqi pipeline project exposes the influence private commercial interests can bring to bear on U.S. foreign policy, The New York Times said Sunday. The tangled dealings surrounding the project that drew in top U.S. officials, foreign dignitaries, international investors, a giant corporation and the CIA smack "of a novel you'd pick up at an airport," the newspaper added.

New York City gets OK to distribute needles

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City has obtained state permission to become what is believed to be the nation's first city to distribute clean needles to intravenous drug addicts in an effort to stem the spread of AIDS, officials said Sunday. The program would involve between 200 and 400 intravenous drug addicts at first, and could be expanded if successful, Joseph said. Addicts will be chosen for the program from waiting lists of methadone maintenance clinics.

Simon leads race in state, Jackson follows in second

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois is leading the race for the Democratic presidential nomination in his home state and civil rights leader Jesse Jackson is in second place, a poll published Sunday showed. The Chicago Tribune poll showed 43 percent of the Democratic voters surveyed favoring Simon and 25 percent supporting Jackson. The survey also indicated Jackson could win the March 15 Democratic primary in Illinois if Simon stumbles in earlier primaries in other states.

How To

Getting to Chicago during the winter can be frustrating, if not impossible. But not if you take Amtrak.

After all, our trains run in all kinds of weather.

And instead of tensing up behind the wheel, you can just sit back in one of our roomy, reclining seats. Have a tasty snack or beverage on board.

Our low price won't put you in a spin, either. It's only $36.50 each way, based on the round-trip excursion fare.

Amtrak leaves Carbondale for Chicago at 5:20 AM and 4:00 PM every day.

Some restrictions may apply. For more information, call your travel agent or Amtrak at 1-800-USA-RAIL.

And don't let a little bad weather come between you and Chicago.

Students raise funds for March of Dimes

Students collected $2,308 for the the March of Dimes Saturday during the "Students Help Mother's March" campaign. The total surpassed last year's collection by $500.

More than 200 students from six fraternities, three sororities and seven dormitories solicited the contributions by going door to door in the community. The campaign came on the eve of a nationwide fund-raising drive for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

"It gets better every year," Jonni Murray Asbury, publicity co-chairman and President of the Public Relations Student Society of America, said.

About 50 more students marched this year than last, Ken Carr, supervisor of medical records for the Student Health Service, said.

The march kicked off a month-long campaign to collect $6,000 locally for the March of Dimes. The collection total will be announced March 1, during a party at Stone House celebrating the March of Dimes' 50th anniversary.

Profs to talk academic exchange with Soviets

By Steven Starke
Staff Writer

A group of about 20 emeritus professors will visit the Soviet Union in May to explore the feasibility of exchanging teaching and research methods with Soviet universities.

The group, led by Emeritus College Director A.J. Auerbach, will meet with Soviet university faculty and administrators in Moscow, Leningrad, and universities in the Caucasus region between the Caspian and Black seas. Discussions will focus on the recent trends of "perestroika" (restructuring) and "glasnost" (openness) and their effects on Soviet society and education policies, Auerbach said.

The professors hope to study how the Soviet educational system is being restructured to accommodate new ideas, Auerbach said. They also will explore the possibility of starting an exchange relationship, he said.

"The Soviet system today appears to be moving to a more open society and open community as the West knows it," Auerbach said. "The Soviets seem to be relaxing their oppressive policies, and the current atmosphere between U.S. and Soviet governments may make a mutual arrangement possible".

In relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union, human rights are becoming more important than the differences in economic systems, Auerbach said. There is a great deal of interest in how this may be affecting Soviet higher education, he said.

Auerbach said he would like to see not only an exchange of ideas, but of students and emeritus professors as well.

West Bank turmoil must be eliminated

THE MARCH TWO weeks ago by students opposed to violence in the West Bank and Gaza Strip brought the de stable reality of the situation a little closer to SIUC students.

While the group of about 70 protesters, mostly Palestinians, Arabs and Moslems from other countries, stood silently with their signs and banners in the Free Forum Area, most passersby found themselves amid an awkward silence of their own.

Some, no doubt, were privately conjuring menacing images from the footage seen on evening newscasts: ugly images of young Palestinian men bloodied by Israeli clubs, sorrowful images of women weeping for their men and for the bloodshed and hatred that does not end. And there are the nauseating images of leaders on both sides who refuse to see the horror in anything but political terms.

THE ISRAELIS, PERHAPS better than any other people on earth, understand the evil, dehumanizing forces of oppression. From the Diaspora to the abominable crimes of the Holocaust, they suffered as no people should ever suffer, yet they persevered.

This makes it all the more lamentable to see state-sponsored terrorism being used against Palestinians. Given the complexities of the religious, social and political climate of the area, diverse proposals for solutions are to be expected, and welcome. But all sides should understand that violence begets violence, and that peace can be reaped only after it has been sown.

IF IT TAKES the United States to usher in an official peace between Israel and the dispossessed refugees, — as President Carter did at Camp David between Israel and Egypt — then America should see it as a privilege, not a hindrance.

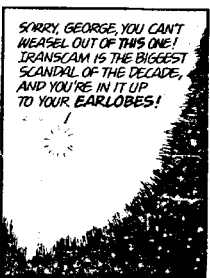

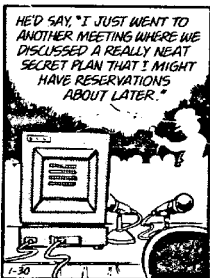

But advice is like going to Thanksgiving dinner at Grandma's house; it's free and you usually get more than you want. Perhaps the best advice anyone can give on such a complex issue is that if there's going to be confusion, let it be at peace talks where it can be sorted, not in the streets where it only can swell.

Bush should tell the truth about Contra connections

Poor Vice President Bush — at least that's what most diehard Bush followers are saying. But I say poor Dan Rather.

Rather is a reporter — a man trying to do his job and get answers for the American people. But it seems most Americans are not interested in hearing the answers.

It seems they would rather listen to the simple facts. You know, facts such as what the vice president ate for lunch two weeks ago or what he did on his last vacation.

They don't want to hear his answers concerning the Contra controversy and whether he had anything to do with it. Not now, while he is running for president. These staunch Republican diehards would rather see him get into office first. Then, if evidence later were found that he was involved, he already would be in office.

By the polls that were taken after the television interview it does seem that Bush got exactly what he wanted. The figures show most felt sorry for him. Maybe Bush has nothing to hide, but it certainly does not seem that way.

Reporters like Rather give Americans the ability to know the whole story and I am grateful for this. I only hope that, after this incident, Rather does not get wimpy.

There is one thing I want to know. Why was Bush so defensive and why didn't he just answer Rather's questions? Vicki Aponte, Carbondale

Contra support needed to sustain democracy in Central America

In her rather caustic letter to the editor, Georgann Hartzog questioned U.S. involvement in Nicaragua. While Hartzog certainly is entitled to her opinion, I disagree with some of her statements.

Hartzog brushed aside the fact that Daniel Ortega is building an army of 600,000 men by describing the militia as "minimally trained" and "widely scattered." But the facts state otherwise.

In the Jan. 15 St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Stephan Chapman wrote: "By 1995, Ortega's country will have an army and militia of 600,000 people, with advanced Soviet-built fighters, missiles and artillery — making Nicaragua a garrison state almost without peer."

Considering the fact that Ortega is trying to ward off 12,000 to 16,000 rebels, it is hard to understand the need for a 600,000-man regiment.

Hartzog quoted Costa Rican President Oscar Arias as saying, "Let Central Americans decide the future of Central America." Oh, yes, the ideal solution. To date it has worked wonderfully.

In fact, Jeane Kirkpatrick wrote in the Jan. 26 Post-Dispatch: "... eight days after the signing of the accords, the Nicaraguan government broke up a peaceful demonstration and arrested Lino Hernandez of the Permanent Commission on Human Rights, and Alberto Saborio, president of the Nicaraguan Bar Association."

Miguel Cardinal Obando y Bravo of the National Reconciliation Commission has observed "a vast range of human rights violations, ranging from physical and psychological tortures to atrocious murders and including persecutions, unjust imprisonments, mistreatment of prisoners, kidnappings perpetrated by state security agents, etc." (National Review, Feb. 5, 1988)

How is that for compliance with the peace plan?

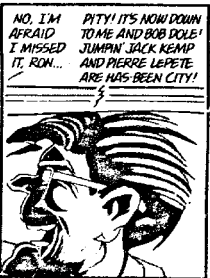

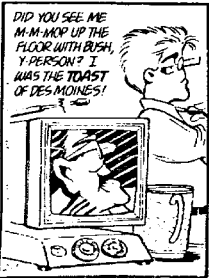

Concerning Honduras and El Salvador, presidents Hoyo and Duarte took their firm stances against Nicaragua not because of U.S. "encouragement," but because they feared that, without U.S. support of the Contras, the Sandinistas would be able to ravage the rest of Central America.

Susan Purcell of the Latin American Project said this "strong stance enabled the formation of the united front of Central American democracies against Sandinista efforts to evade compliance with the peace plan." (Post-Dispatch, Jan. 26) The Sandinistas were forced to come to the bargaining table through the efforts of rebel forces.

The Sandinistas are Marxists who respect force and strength, not weakness. Continued support for the Contras and their democratic allies is absolutely necessary to give democracy a chance. Let us not be fooled into thinking otherwise. Kurt E. Pecker, freshman, Radio-Television

Former GM supervisors: Plant OK'd faulty brakes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPD) — About one-third of the cars produced at General Motors Corp.'s Fairfax plant during four months of 1986 left the plant with faulty brake systems, according to two former employees who plan to file a lawsuit this week against the carmaker.

Ben Staponki and Fred White Jr., both former production supervisors in the Kansas City, Kan., plant's chassis department, allege they detected brake fluid leaks in 30 to 40 percent of the cars that passed through their line from June to November 1986.

Evidence of the problem continued through April 1987, they said, although they were by then prohibited by plant management from keeping records of serial numbers of defective cars. They also claim their desks were rifled, and some records were stolen.

The men allege bolts connected to a brake hose were tightened in one of several immediate steps taken to stop the leak, but neither that nor replacement of the bolts corrected the problem and instead, resulted in stressed and distorted bolts.

Dee Allen, director of GM's Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada division in Detroit, denied the allegations, saying tightening the bolts halted the leaks.

A brake fluid leak, as well as stressed bolts, can cause partial to full loss of brakes.

During the period of the alleged safety hazards, the Fairfax plant produced 1986 and 1987 models of the Chevrolet Caprice, Pontiac Parisienne sedan and wagon, Buick LeSabre wagon and the Chevrolet Caprice sedan and wagon. Sixty cars were produced an hour at the plant, located in the Fairfax district of Kansas City, Kan., that has since been replaced by a new plant.

A brake fluid leak, as well as stressed bolts, can cause partial to full loss of brakes, said a spokesman for a private auto consumer group.

"It's clear what they're describing is a safety hazard," Clarence Ditlow III, director of the Center for Auto Safety in Washington, said.

In their lawsuit, to be filed in U.S. District Court in Kansas City, Kan., Staponki and White claim they were wrongfully discharged because of their "whistle-blowing activities," said their attorney, Given B. Caranchini. A second claim alleges GM libeled and slandered them by telling prospective employers they were troublemakers.

The two seek at least $2 million each for lost wages and retirement benefits, she said.

White and Staponki claim they went to plant management and corporate officials about the faulty brake systems only to be told it would cost too much to correct the problem. They also say they were told to keep the matter quiet or they would lose their jobs.

White said the plant production manager told him and other salaried employees not to discuss the brake leaks with hourly employees "or anyone outside this plant as this was likely to shut down the plant and cause a recall."

The two men, however, continued to monitor the problem and were fired because they did so, said their attorney.

Staponki, 39, of Greenwood, Mo., worked 21 years for GM and White, 40, of Olathe, Kan., had 12 years GM experience.

separately.

Gruny said that if the trustees vote against submitting the grievance to an outside arbitrator, Goblen can request an appeal.

dinonal $36 million in U.S. aid to the Contra rebels.

Denby said a gift of hospital supplies to the Nicaraguans also helped his release.

"I understand the sponsor of this plane had taken down some $250,000 worth of hospital equipment as a present, which I am sure was part of the arrangement," Denby said. "I had no value except to the (Contra aid) vote."

A press spokeswoman, Kim

Pentacost, said the plane, chartered by a human rights watch-dog group, called the Humanitarian Law Project, carried more than $300,000 in medical equipment and supplies from Medical Aid, a Los Angeles-based organization that uses private donations to help Central American war victims, to El Salvador.

Pentacost said the medical supplies were "part of the humanitarian mission. We didn't want to go down with an empty plane."

Denby, who denied ever aiding the Contras, said he was treated well by the Sandinista government.

"I really had no fear (for my life). Of course, they took away my liberty when I had no reason to be deprived of it, which I would not call good treatment. But physically I wasn't mistreated."

The FAA will not issue a separate report, FAA Springfield manager Bernadette Bauer said.

McAvoy said tapes of radio communications between the control tower and the twin-engine Piper Aztec indicate McClure's last transmissions were inquiries about weather conditions.

McAvoy said the tapes were "informal," and he said he did not know when the tran-missions were made or how far the plane was from the airport at the time.

McAvoy said McClure asked whether the runway lights were on when the plane was five miles from the runway.

Faculty and staff members who wish to donate may return sign-up sheets from the Joint Benefits Committee to the personnel office by campus mail.

Walk-in donors will be welcome, Ugent said. However, people with appointments will be given priority in the preparatory process, which includes a mini-physical examination.

Those with appointments will be able to go through the process in 30 to 40 minutes, Ugent said. Depending on the number of people wishing to donate, the process could take an hour for walk-ins.

According to Ugent, those who gave blood at last November's drive at the Student Center are eligible to donate this week.

"As always we're looking for first time donors," said Ugent. "A donor must be seventeen years old, and weigh 105 pounds and be in good health."

"It's a good idea for people to eat before donating blood," said Ugent. "Sandwiches, juices and cookies will be available to donors before and after they donate."

Those wishing to volunteer to work at the drive or donate blood may call Ugent at 457-6258 or the Jackson County Red Cross at 529-2151.

High schoolers take classes to cut time spent in college

NEW YORK (UPI) — Record numbers of high schoolers — some 262,000 — hit the books harder last year, taking college-level work that enabled some to cut the four-year trek for a bachelor's degree to three, according to a new College Board report.

Through good scores on College Board Advanced Placement exams taken after they completed the harder courses, many of the students also shaved a year's tuition, room and board charges off the cost of an undergraduate sheepskin.

The College Board's Advanced Placement program that makes such time and fiscal magic possible now is in that third of the nation's high schools that graduate two-thirds of the nation's college-going seniors, the report said. It operated in 7,776 high schools last year, up 575 over the previous year.

"At a time when more people are lamenting the state of American education, this rigorous program of academic studies is being adopted by more schools every year," said Donald M. Stewart, College Board president.

"What is more, advanced placement is challenging students in all kinds of schools, with its greatest growth among schools serving black, Hispanic, and other minority students," he said.

He said the growth of minority students taking college-level AP exams has outpaced total program growth since at least 1984, the year ethnic data were first published in the program's "National Summary Reports."

Over the past four years the total of participating students grew 47 percent. But Chicano-Mexican American participation increased 99 percent, black 83 percent, and Oriental-Asian American 85 percent.

Last year, the College Board report said 19 percent of participating students who identified themselves ethnically were members of non-white ethnic groups, up from 16 percent in 1984.

College Board's Janice A. Gams said research has shown around 18 percent of students entering college with AP credit toward a degree say they will try to graduate sooner — the way to save both time and money.

Research, by William R. Koch, assistant director of the Measurement and Evaluation Center, University of Texas at Austin, also showed that 14 percent of the students use the time earned by high school college-level credits to study abroad.

Other findings: 17 percent spend the time and credits earned to complete either two degrees in four years or to complete a double major.

Here's how the College Board Advanced Placement Program works:

—High school and college faculty collaborate to develop AP course descriptions and examinations, grade the exams, and participate in training workshops and institutes for high school teachers (who don't draw extra pay for the extra effort.)

—Course descriptions and tests are offered for 26 introductory college courses in 15 subjects, including art, music, science, English, foreign languages, history, mathematics, computer science, government and politics.

Playwright's drama takes first in field of 13 at theater festival

By Lauri Milbrath
Staff Writer

As a little girl, Sherry Strain often spent time alone, creating and acting out scenes to amuse herself.

Today, as a graduate student in Speech Communication and Theater, Strain is creating plays for others to perform before large audiences.

Strain's play "Maid of Honor" won first in the play writing competition held by the American College Theater Festival in Madison, Wis.

Strain competed with 13 other playwrights for the honor. Seven of the entries were from SIUC.

Although she has always been involved with acting and directing, Strain said she has only just begun to think of herself as a playwright.

"It's only since I've written this, and people have said it is a good play that I've begun to think I have a talent for writing," Strain said.

"Maid of Honor" originally was produced in the laboratory theater on campus last spring.

"The play deals with the

"The subject matter is a little difficult to deal with, but people have accepted it just as a story of love even more than a story of love between two women."

—Sherry Strain

relationship between two women who were roommates and lovers in college. Conflicts arise when one of them decides to get married while the other has been away at graduate school.

"The subject matter is a little difficult to deal with," Strain said. "But people have accepted it just as a story of love even more than a story of love between two women."

Strain said she received some valuable information from the festival's judges in their critiques of "Maid of Honor" and the play soon will be ready for a fourth revision.

Ideas for play scenes often come to Strain as she goes through her daily routine.

"I often work them out when I'm driving or anytime I'm alone," she said. "I will talk to myself and hear dialogue and create characters that would talk to each other. It usually starts with the big emotional scenes like arguments and reconciliations."

"Putting it out there for people to look at and possibly reject is a very frightening thing, but when they accept it, it's wonderful," Strain said. "The story is very close to my soul."

Strain is looking forward to her career in theater, wherever it may lead.

Press building dedicated

The University Press building was christened with the name of its founder, the late Vernon A. Sternberg, Friday.

Sternberg founded the press in 1956. He and a secretary were the only staff members for the first year. They did everything from editing manuscripts to shipping books.

The press now employs 24 people and publishes about 60 titles a year.

The 16-year-old press building is located on McClafferty Road on the west edge of campus. Sternberg served as press director for 23 years. He died in 1979.

Press Director Kenney Withers said many people thought the pre-fabricated steel building was not elegant enough to dedicate to Sternberg. But the "building reflects the founder — it's no-nonsense," he said.

Matthew J. Bruccoli, an advisor to University Press, said Sternberg was the most dedicated publisher he ever worked with.

"Vern said, 'If people see you sitting down, they'll think you aren't serious.'"

Greek council to award $500

The Inter-Greek Council will present its "Service-To-Southern" Award to an outstanding graduating senior in recognition of service contributions to the University. The award is $500.

Applications for the award are at the Office of Student Development, Student Center, 3rd floor. The deadline is Wednesday, Feb. 10.

International Festival '88 sets events

By Edward Rahe
Staff Writer

Twenty-five foreign student associations representing more than 100 countries will take part in International Festival '88, Feb. 16-21.

Organized by the International Student Council, the five-day festival includes eight major events, beginning with the Grand Opening Ceremony in Student Center Ballroom D and the International Lounge.

The main event will be the International Cultural Show, Feb. 21, 3-6 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Other events will include a fashion show in which students will display their native costumes, a sports exhibition and an international artifacts display.

Four hundred students, mostly international, took part in last year's festival, which was attended by 8,000 students, faculty and community members.

"Judging from the reviews, last year's international festival was the best one we've ever had," said Fabian De Rozario, president of the International Student Council and general administrator of the festival. "We hope to have the same success at the festival this year."

This year's festival may have a domestic flavor, De Rozario said. Coordinators are working with the American Indian Center of the Midwest in St. Louis to bring American Indian dancers to the festival.

"I think this is the first time in the history of the international festival that we've had something American," De Rozario said.

About 2,250 international students attend SIU-C. Coordinators hope the international festival will bridge the gap between people of different cultures.

Iowa newspaper endorses Simon, Dole in primaries

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — The Des Moines Register, with a week to go before Iowa's first-in-the-nation caucuses, endorsed in its Sunday editions Sens. Robert Dole and Paul Simon for their parties' 1988 presidential nominations.

The editors said Simon, a senator from Illinois, is the best qualified of the seven candidates because of his unwavering record "capitalized in his one-liner: 'I'm not a neo anything; I'm a Democrat.'"

The editors compared Simon to Abraham Lincoln, saying the nation "... turned in troubled times ... turned to an unpretentious man from downstate Illinois."

discovered: an up-tempo, fast-break offense isn't the only way to defeat the Salukis. Muscle aimed at the Salukis' big players works, too.

SIU-C can't count on a front line that averages 6-foot-2, 180-pounds per player to intimidate opponents.

To compete in the Gateway, the Salukis will have to do what they showed glimpses of in the second-half comeback against Bradley. They have to get mean.

The Salukis ... have to get mean.

That doesn't imply the Salukis should resort to unsportsmanlike play.

To get mean the players have to develop mental toughness and be willing to stand their ground.

Even though that may be personally distasteful to many of the players who don't have a mean streak in them, if they are going to capture the Gateway title they must refuse to be intimidated.

There's no room to back down now.

Peace Corps On-Campus Interviews

Your first job after graduation should offer you more than just a paycheck. In science, education, agriculture, forestry, home economics, industrial arts and other areas, Peace Corps volunteers are putting their degrees to work where it's needed most while gaining the experience of a lifetime:

- Currently 34 graduate schools across the country reserve scholarships and assistantships specifically for former Peace Corps members. Many graduate schools offer academic credit for Peace Corps service.
- Quality work experience recognized by employers.
- Non-competitive eligibility for U.S. Government jobs.
- Language skills.
- Postponement of educational loans.
- $4,200 completion-of-service allowance.
- Opportunity to travel and to experience new cultures.
- And much more. Contact your Placement Office for an interview appointment today.

three-point goal. Steve Middleton high-fived Nurnberger so hard that he left a bruise on Nurnberger's right forearm.

"I was kinda glad they (Drake) called a timeout so I could get a little bit of feeling back in my hand," Nurnberger said. "He slapped me pretty hard. I tried to rub it and get some feeling back in my wrist."

Middleton took over in the third OT. He scored all nine of the Salukis' points.

After Walter James missed two three-pointers for Drake, the Salukis played for the last shot with the score tied at 98.

Middleton drove down the right side of the lane, fired a 10-foot shot and was fouled by Drake center Bart Friedrick with three seconds left.

"I just went one-on-one," Middleton said. "I forced a little contact and got the call."

Middleton hit the first free throw to put the Salukis ahead, 99-98, then missed the second. Drake's Sam Roark made a desperate attempt for

Triple-OT game a first for Arena

Saturday's triple-overtime game was the first ever played by the men's basketball team at the Arena.

Since the team started playing there in 1964, they have had only three double-overtime games:

JAN. 21, 1984 — Coming off an overtime win over Bradley, the Salukis defeated Wichita State 84-79 in double OT. Then Coach Allen Van Winkle called the victory "our biggest win in three years."

MARCH 3, 1983 — Darnall Jones sank two free throws with eight seconds left in the second OT for the 106-104 victory over West Texas State.

FEB. 15, 1982 — The Salukis outscored West Texas State 11-6 in the second OT to win 84-79.

a goal, but missed.

"It was a great, great victory for us," Saluki coach Rich Herrin said. "It tells you what kind of basketball team we have. We're not a super team but we do play hard and aggressive. We just don't quit."

The win gave the sixth-place Salukis an 8-11 overall record and a 3-4 mark in the Missouri Valley. Drake, 13-7 overall and 4-3 in the Valley, dropped into a fourth-place tie with Illinois State.

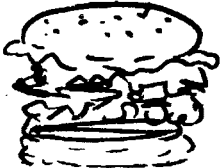

In regulation, the Salukis led 68-58 with seven minutes remaining but Drake came back to tie the game at 72.

The first overtime ended at 78 after Drake's Berger and Roark missed three-point attempts.

Middleton scored a game-high 35 points. Nurnberger had 25. Tim Richardson had 13 rebounds for the Salukis.

Drake received career highs from Roark with 28 points and 22 rebounds and from Friedrick with 27 points.

Washington skins Denver's pride

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Doug Williams overcame a poor start, a leg injury and a sore jaw Sunday to initiate one of the most electrifying quarters in pro football history and rally the Washington Redskins to a 42-10 rout of the Denver Broncos in the Super Bowl.

Williams threw four touchdown passes to lead a dizzying 35-point outburst in the second quarter and bring the Redskins back from a 10-0 deficit to gain their second NFL championship of the decade.

The 32-year-old quarterback broke Super Bowl records for most touchdown passes and passing yardage in a single quarter to conclude a remarkable season that began in hard luck and obscurity.

Williams, whose career has been marked by repeated setbacks and personal tragedy, started the season as a marginal backup who had lost his job when the USFL folded. And, even at the outset of Sunday's game Williams appeared headed for defeat.

Recovering from the effects of root canal work on an abscessed tooth Saturday night, Williams endured an ineffectual first quarter. Shortly before the second quarter, he suffered a hyperextended knee that sent him briefly to the sidelines.

But on his first play back in the game, he hit Ricky Sanders with an 80-yard touchdown pass and the Redskins proceeded to reverse the tide of the contest at a speed never before seen in a Super Bowl.

Sanders scored twice, as did rookie running back Tim Smith, who made the first start of his career and gained a Super Bowl-record 204 yards on 22 carries. The Redskins also set Super Bowl records for touchdowns (6) and points in a quarter (35), continuing the event's tradition of one-sided games. Williams threw for more yardage than any Super Bowl quarterback, needing only 18 plays in the second period to lead his team on five touchdown drives, gaining 357 yards.

Williams faced a pressure-cooker of attention the past week as he answered a myriad of questions about his role as the first black to start a Super Bowl and the hardships he faced because of his wife's death from cancer in 1983.

But before a crowd of 73,302 at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium and a national television audience of some 120 million, the spotlight proved fitting for Williams when the second quarter began.

Scott can't let team back down

The women's basketball team, which dominated the Gateway Conference the last two seasons with an imposing lineup, isn't doing the intimidating this year.

In Saturday's game, an outsized Bradley club almost won with a push-comes-to-shove defensive philosophy.

SIU-C, which still purports to like physical play, backed down offensively when confronted by Bradley's toe-to-toe tactics.

For much of the first half, Bradley continued its assault. True, its smaller players were being bounced around, but the Salukis became tentative as a result. The players stopped going to the goal with aggressiveness.

The hand-checking out front, the shoving underneath and the pushing for position continued for the remainder of the game.

Three minutes before halftime, Bradley's Shelli Braud was knocked to the floor with the wind knocked out of her. She spent the rest of the half on the bench recovering. Bradley coach Lisa Boyer was asking the official why a foul wasn't called.

Then it was Cathy Kampwerth's turn to take an elbow in the gut. While Kampwerth was bent over, gasping for breath, Coach Cindy Scott was off the bench telling the ref he had swallowed his whistle.

Boyer understood what the rest of the teams in the Gateway have

Nurnberger does it again

Salukis win in triple OT

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

What's next Kai Nurnberger?

Nurnberger, a blond-haired, 21-year-old shooting sensation from Wolfenbuttel, West Germany, once again saved the men's basketball team from the brink of disaster. This time, he made a miraculous four-point play.

Without Nurnberger's heroics and Steve Middleton's free throw with three seconds left in triple overtime, the Salukis would not have defeated Drake 99-96 Saturday night at the Arena.

The Salukis were trailing Drake, 90-86, with 15 seconds remaining in the second overtime. Even Nurnberger wouldn't be able to pull this one out with one of his patented three-point shots.

Nurnberger stepped back behind the three-point arc and launched a seemingly meaningless shot. But Drake guard Eric Berger fouled out when he clobbered Nurnberger as the ball fell through the basket with six seconds left.

Nurnberger sank the crucial free throw to tie at 90 and send the game into a third overtime.

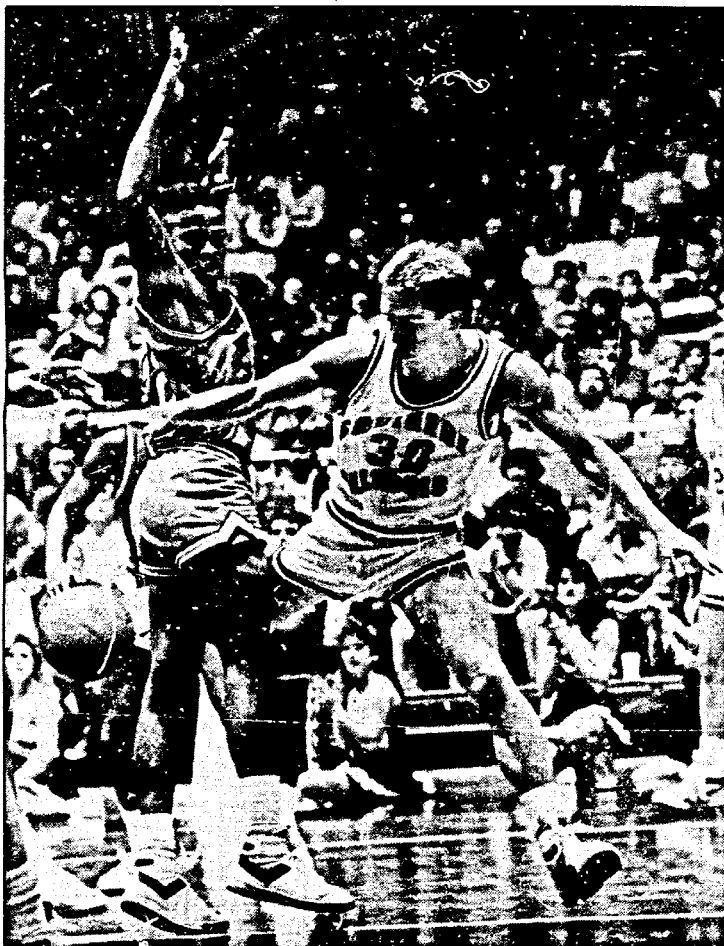

"I couldn't believe he fouled me," Nurnberger said.

Drake coach Gary Garner couldn't believe it either.

"That's just above and beyond stupidity," he said. "It's extremely difficult to swallow when you play that stupid on one play. This one's going to stick with me for a helluva long time. You just don't play that stupid. You just don't."

To celebrate Nurnberger's

Women's team taken to the wire by Bradley

In the final second, members of the women's basketball team were relegated to the role of spectators, as they watched the flight of one ball toward the basket.

Bradley's Nancy Zoros heaved an off-balance three-point attempt from 24-feet straightaway to the goal. The ball dived off to the left and missed, giving the Salukis a 52-49 victory over the Bradley Lady Braves Saturday at the Arena.

"It went down to the wire," SIU-C assistant coach Julie Beck said. "When that last shot went up I said: 'Oh, no, it's going to be an OT.'"

Coach Cindy Scott, who had been ill since Friday, did not attend the post-game press conference. She left the Arena at the end of the game with a 100-plus degree fever.

Having won three consecutive Gateway Conference games, the Salukis, 13-6 overall and 9-2 in the league, remain tied with Eastern Illinois and Indiana State for first.

"I thought we did a pretty good job," Bradley coach Lisa Boyer said. "I think we should've won the game. We've struggled all year. Today we deserved it."

Bradley, which led by seven points in the first half but fell behind by seven early in the second half, got within one, 50-49, on Carol Baresch's three-point goal at 13 seconds.

Baresch immediately fouled Saluki guard Tonda Seals. Seals made both free throws and finished five-of-nine from the line.

"I choked on the free-throw line today, but I guess I hit it when it counted," Seals said. She led the Salukis with 17 points.
