Psychology Prof Planning Four-Week Project To Aid Those Wanting to Break Smoking Habit

Do you really want to stop smoking?

If so, you can become part of a study to be conducted by Edward Lichtenstein, assistant professor of psychology.

"We think there are psychological principles which can be applied to the problem of smoking," says Lichtenstein. He added that psychological principles have been applied to the problem of alcoholism with success.

Individuals who decide to become part of the study will be informed of what lies in store for them at the onset of the study.

Lichtenstein emphasized that the study is not to be confused with psycho-therapy. According to him, the subjects will be motivated to want to stop on their own accord.

Volunteers will be asked to participate in one or two sessions a week for a period of from four to six weeks. The study is limited to males 21 or older.

Lichtenstein said they have no limit on the number of persons who apply and that they are hoping for at least a dozen volunteers.

Further information may be obtained by calling 3-2044 between 3-5 p.m. daily and asking for "Smokers' Project."

EXHIBITORS EAGERLY DISPLAY THEIR AIDS TO EDUCATION

At University Center

Books Continue To Dominate SIU Exhibit Of Newest in Materials for Education

No matter what his parents may think, junior is still using books in his schoolwork.

Of the 83 displays at the 28th Annual Educational Materials Exhibit, which closes at noon today in the Gallery Lounge and Ballrooms of the University Center, 47 have books, either as a main exhibit, or incorporated with other school supplies into an exhibit.

Types of books ran from those on handwriting to textbooks for all grades, library books, teachers' handbooks, encyclopedias, children's books, dictionaries and periodicals.

In addition to the books, a variety of other school supplies is being exhibited. Included are maps, projectors, duplicating machines, art supplies, library furniture, caps and gowns, films, pens and pencils and many kinds of charts.

In previous years as many as 3,500 persons, including area school teachers, University faculty members, school administrators and summer school students interested in education have attended the exhibit.

Besides the displays, demonstrations have been scheduled by some of the companies to show their newest supplies. The demonstrations and lectures are given in the River Rooms of the University Center.

The exhibit, which is open to the public, is being sponsored by the College of Education and Division of University Extension.

It is being held in conjunction with the 15th Annual Summer Education Conference, which is also sponsored by the College of Education and the Division of University Extension.

The conference was held Wednesday in Furr Auditorium of University School.

Plans to Help Retarded Discussed

Albert J. Shafter, coordinator of the Governor's Council on Mental Retardation, spoke Wednesday about a proposed statewide program of special education for the mentally retarded.

Shafter said the council's report will be submitted next month and that it is a "blueprint for the future."

The council began its study of the possibilities for special education in Illinois in 1964. The study grew out of the late President Kennedy's 1961 plan to have every state establish a program for the mentally retarded.

The council's report includes a recommendation for mandatory special education in public school districts throughout the state. A bill to provide for this was under consideration in the legislature, which adjourned Wednesday.

Shafter's address was part of the 15th Annual Summer Education Conference, sponsored by the College of Education and the Division of University Extension.

Plan Would End Tax on Property

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois House agreed Wednesday night to a Senate amendment for a new state revenue article, assuring that it will appear on the ballot in 1966.

The proposal, if approved by the voters, would permit the General Assembly to levy a flat 3 per cent income tax, this could be boosted to 6 per cent through a statewide referendum.

The Senate amendment which was agreed to by the House provides that enactment of an income tax would completely abolish the personal property tax.

The proposal was given final approval by a 133-17 vote.

The House also voted final passage Wednesday of a bill to create a six-member Senate committee to investigate bribery allegations.

A similar bill asking for a separate House investigation was before the Senate for approval.

If Gov. Otto Kerner signs the legislation, the committees will look into charges raised by tapes purportedly recording conversations of three Chicago currency exchange lobbyists.

Rushing toward final adjournment, the House also approved a bill granting a state bonus to Illinois servicemen or their survivors for action in Viet Nam.

Legislative passage was completed on bills creating a public junior college program, hiking pay of state's attorneys and replacing the family court by a new juvenile court.

The junior college program will provide state aid of $11.50 per pupil for each semester hour to newly formed and existing schools. The latter group will drop back to $9.50 after the first year if they don't meet master plan requirements.

Shafter said one of the key problems in special education was the recruitment and training of personnel. He cited a study on the fact that only one out of five graduates in special education remain in the state of Illinois.

SIU has tripled its output of special education graduates in the past few years but this number is only about 70.

Shafter said the outlook for the success of the council's proposals was good, but he emphasized that the report

Summer Theater Offers Variety of Drama, Musicals

Stage Season Opens With Tennessee Williams' Only Comedy

Variety is the spice of life and the theatrical activities at Southern this summer will offer a spicy fare in the form of three musical productions and four plays.

The Southern Players will open their playbill with Tennessee Williams' first and only comedy, "Period of Adjustment," at 8 p.m. July 7-11. This is the first of four plays to be presented in the air-conditioned Southern Playhouse.

"Period of Adjustment" is about husbands, wives and honeymoons. The setting for the play is in a suburb south of Cape Girardeau on Christmas Eve.

The second play of the season is Stephen Vincent Benet's classic American epic, "John Brown's Body," which will be presented Aug. 4-8.

On the nights of Aug. 11-15, the cast will present "Inherit the Wind," about the famous "Monkey Trial" concerning the teaching of evolution in Tennessee schools.

The fourth and final play is the dramatized version of Helen Keller's life story, "The Miracle Worker," which will be presented Aug. 18-22.

All seats for the 8 p.m. performances at the playhouse are reserved. Single admission price is $1.25.

Season coupon books for all four plays are still available at $3 a book. The theater box office is open weekdays from 10-11 a.m. and 3-4 p.m. and on show nights at 7.

Southern's summer stock company, selected from theater students around the country, will spend July at New Salem State Park in Springfield. The group will present the young-Lincoln play, "Prologue to Glory," by E.P. Conkle.

The company will return to the SIU campus in August to present the last three plays on its schedule.

The musical productions will be presented by high school students who are members of a three-week camp session of Music and Youth at Southern, under the direction of William K. Taylor, assistant professor of music.

These students, actors, singers and dancers were selected to attend the camp after auditions in the Chicago, St. Louis, Central and Southern Illinois areas.

Melvin L. Siener, assistant professor of music, directs the summer camp. That Felts Hall-Woody Hall marathon phone call was still going strong late Wednesday.

At last report, about 10 p.m. Wednesday residents of both halls had chalked up some 45 hours of small talk, chit chat, giggling and an uncounted number of long pauses, punctuated by heavy breathing into the mouthpiece.

It all started at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday, when the boys from Felts, first floor, called the girls in Woody. They are attempting to break a record of 21 1/2 weeks of uninterrupted conversation which reportedly was established at the University of Illinois.

Carbondale Mayor On Applicant List For Postmaster

The name of D. Blaney Miller, Carbondale's mayor, was on a list of persons who have applied for the postmastership in Carbondale. The list was released Wednesday by the Civil Service Commission.

Miller said he had been asked "a long time ago" to submit his name and that he had forgotten about it. He said he couldn't say, at this time, whether he would accept the appointment if offered to him.

Others on the Civil Service list were Lewis E. Adkins, Royal L. Dillinger, William L. Dodge, Hubert L. Goforth, James T. Montgomery, Marion Ernest Search and Walter E. Sullivan.

The first production is "The Flower Drum Song," a musical about Chinese family life in San Francisco's Chinatown. "I enjoy Being a Girl" is one of the popular songs from the musical hit. "The Flower Drum Song" will be presented July 16 and 17 in Shryock Auditorium. Tickets are $1 and $1.50.

The second offering of the season is "Little Mary Sunshine," the off-Broadway hit about Mary Sunshine, the adopted daughter of the Kadota Indians of Colorado. The musical is a lighthearted spoof of the operettas of the 20th century. It will be staged in Muckleroy Auditorium at 8 p.m. July 22-25. Tickets are $1.25.

"The Sound of Music," the final presentation, will have a three-day run, Aug. 20-22. Showtime is 8 p.m. and tickets are $1 and $1.50. All seats for the three productions are reserved. Tickets will be sold from 11 a.m. to p.m. and 3-5 p.m. daily at the box office in Shryock Auditorium.

The boys talk in 30-minute shifts during which each attempts to establish a friendly relationship with the young lady on the other end of the line in hopes that he can call on her in person later.

Conference Hears Plan for Retarded

The plans call for a program, operated through the public school districts, which would include diagnosis, evaluation, day care centers, shelter workshops and classes for pre-school children 1- to 6-years old.

The council also will recommend cooperation with universities and colleges throughout the state to provide research and personnel.

The plan also calls for the division of the state into eight zones, each to have an advisory board to review the needs of that area. The Carbondale zone would encompass the 16 southernmost counties.

Shafter said in closing, "We have made more progress in the past five years than we had made in the previous 50. The success of this program depends on the support of the people. That support appears to be forthcoming."

Shafter was an SIU staff member from 1957 to 1961, serving as assistant director of the Rehabilitation Institute.

Need Advice? So Do Advisers

"When a man comes to me for advice, I find out the kind of advice he wants, and then I give it to him."

Josh Billings

Now, good readers, let's play a game. Let's pretend you're going to graduate this quarter. All set?

You've just picked up your cap and gown from the bookstore, and when you get home your roommate says, "You got a letter from the Registrar." And you say, "Probably congratulations." Right?

Wrong: "The final check of your academic record reveals that you are lacking one quarter of physical education. This is a flagrant violation of University Regulations and thus you will not graduate this quarter. Better luck next time."

Maybe this illustration seems a bit much, but such things have happened, and will continue to happen under our current overworked advisement system.

More frequently, you discover that you have taken three required courses that you didn't have to take—your adviser said you had to take them, but you really didn't. Nine hours or more down the drain. Nine hours shot when you could have taken three courses you really wanted to take for your own enjoyment and interest. There really are enjoyable and interesting courses, but nobody takes them; they're too busy with courses their advisers insist are required.

How about the poor guy with limited funds and a burning desire to get out into the real world and make some money? He invariably gets stuck with an adviser who gets him so fouled up that he has to go for three extra quarters (on borrowed money) to graduate.

Most students could probably advise themselves quite handsomely if they only knew the tricks of the trade. But they don't know all the tricks—and neither do their advisers.

There is a fairly simple solution to the advisement problem. SIU, like so many universities, needs professional advisers. Let the instructor instruct, and hire advisers to advise.

Each professional adviser would be given a maximum number of students, say 300 or 400, or whatever the optimum number might be. Then each student would have one adviser for as long as he is in school. It would be the duty of his adviser to assist in all university-oriented problems: classes, sectioning, housing, finances, etc., etc.

We feel that this would be money well spent. It may not be in the same class with the acquisition of a multi-million dollar building or a valuable piece of art, but it would help put SIU on the map.

"MADAME, I WISH TO INTRODUCE A BRILLIANT YOUNG MAN IN NEED OF SUPPORT."

By Fortunatus L. Masha
(Editor's note: Fortunatus L. Masha, a March, 1965, SIU journalism graduate, is employed by his government's Ministry of Information. He discussed Tanzania's plans for the future in last Tuesday's Egyptian.)

Tanzania is based on ethical principles that guide all her political, economic and social organizations. These principles were proclaimed by President Julius Nyerere and form the basis of the new constitution that established a One-Party Democratic State. These principles are:

The fundamental equality of all human beings and the right of every individual to dignity and respect.

Every individual citizen has the right to freedom of expression, of movement, of religious belief, of association within the context of law, subject in all cases only to the maintenance of equal freedom for all other citizens.

Every individual has the right to receive from society protection of his life, and of property held according to law, and to freedom from arbitrary arrest. Every citizen has the corresponding duty to uphold the law, constitutionally arrived at, and to assist those responsible for law enforcement.

All the citizens of the country together possess all the natural resources of the country in trust for their descendants, and those resources may therefore not be surrendered in perpetuity to any individual family, group or association.

It is the responsibility of the state, which is the people, to intervene actively in the economic life of the nation so as to ensure the well-being of all citizens of Tanzania, and so as to prevent the exploitation of any person.

The nation of Tanzania is unalterably opposed to the exploitation of one man by another, of one nation by another, or one group by another. It is the responsibility of the state therefore to take an active role in the fight against colonialism wherever it may exist, and to work for African unity.

These principles summarize Tanzania's concept of African Socialism.

To dispel any intimations of political implications in the assistance Tanzania receives, I quote from a speech by Minister for Finance Paul Bomani when he addressed the Dar es Salaam Chamber of Commerce May 27, 1965: "Tanzania would not wish for one moment to become a satellite or puppet state of a particular group of countries simply because it has obtained economic aid from them. As a government, we are determined to formulate our politics, both domestic and foreign, in the best interests of our people and of the people of Africa. This is an essential part of the political liberty for which we fought; this is part of our political heritage which we shall never surrender."

President Nyerere has said repeatedly, "We will not let our friends choose our enemies."

Once again Tanzania is guided by African Socialism. Those interested can preoccupy themselves with attempting to determine how far left or right that is.

Freedom, Responsibility at Issue In Ouster of Lieutenant in Viet Nam

Last Saturday an American Special Forces Lieutenant in Viet Nam was dismissed from the service for refusing to accept a new assignment on the grounds that the Viet Nam war is "not worth a single life."

Lt. Richard B. Steinke, 27, refused to comply with a direct order under conditions of war. He directly criticized the fundamental rationale of his government that the war is "worth the effort"; he implied that all that has passed in Viet Nam denotes that most monstrous of military horrors: death in vain.

From what is known, these were not the acts of a chronic malcontent, a frenzied radical, a publicity seeker—or even an anti-militarist. Lt. Steinke graduated in the top 10 percent of his class at West Point. He had already served 11 months in Viet Nam.

Let us suppose that what we know to date is the whole story—that Lt. Steinke is rational, sober and intelligent. And that he acted in good faith.

Is he a traitor? A coward? Is he that anomaly that occasionally comes to light in time of stress—the peacetime militarist who cannot stomach the fact of war?

Or is he the ideal citizen for a society based on rights? Has he courageously forfeited his career and jeopardized his reputation in service of conscience? Has he transcended conventional "duty" and "honor," in view of a truer honor and a higher duty?

One may regret the breakdown of military discipline evidenced in Lt. Steinke's actions. One may lament the national embarrassment at hearing a young American supply verbal ammunition for Communist propaganda.

But one would be unjust to pass judgment on either Lt. Steinke or the ideological course he pursues. The lieutenant's dismissal is militarily necessary, but it tells nothing about Steinke the man, nothing about Steinke the principle.

The questions raised are as ancient as political philosophy:

What are the rights and responsibilities of the individual toward (1) himself, (2) toward the society in which he is a citizen, (3) toward mankind, or (4) toward some transcendent authority?

In a society such as ours it boils down to a question of freedom and responsibility. Freedom to what? Freedom from what? Responsibility to whom? Freedom and responsibility, or freedom versus responsibility?

Lt. Steinke is a one-man representation of the essential questions that concern us daily in the areas of student rights, civil rights, national policy, international policy and military policy.

At what point does an appeal to conscience, duty or honor take precedence over practice, policy, or law? At what point does the exercise of rights constitute an abuse of privilege? Of freedom? Of responsibility?

One by one, bit by bit, we must solve these questions. Until we do, such men as Lt. Steinke will serve to remind us that equitable solutions to the questions of freedom and responsibility have yet to be determined.

Chicago's American

Myths Won't Even Fade Away

Old soldiers may not die but they do, according to the legend, at least fade away. Apparently myths not only do not die, but they even refuse to retire from the scene.

Consider a few of the myths in the world of political affairs.

For years there was the myth that the Republicans were not winning elections because they were nominating "me-too" New Deal type candidates. If only they could field a strongly conservative slate they would rally strong popular support. So ran the Old Guard case.

That myth was tested in 1964 when the Republicans nominated Goldwater and Miller as their standard bearers, who then proceeded to humiliate publicly the progressive leaders of the party. Notwithstanding the arch-conservatism at the top of their ticket—or more probably because of it—the Republicans went down in one of the worst defeats in political history.

In Their Minds It Persists

Yet already the rightist elements are demanding the nomination of even more reactionary candidates next year. In their minds the myth persists.

Then there is the myth about the federal budget. According to this myth Washington is spending the taxpayers' money hand over fist, feeding an ever-expanding bureaucracy while state and local governments tighten their belts and practice economy.

Facts Show the Opposite

The facts add up to just the opposite. For the last 10 years federal employment and federal payrolls have held proportionately steady. Meantime state and local budgets have soared higher and higher.

This is not because the governors and mayors have deliberately set out to waste tax revenues. It is because the fastest growing functions of government are at these levels. Local governments are the units primarily responsible for coping with mushrooming suburban developments which require new police, fire, health, and sanitation protection. And so local and state budgets, rather than the federal bill, are shooting up.

There is the myth that the state legislatures must consist of two branches as does Congress. But Nebraska, under the leadership of the great Sen. George W. Norris, led the way with a one-house legislature in 1934 and in the intervening 30 years has saved itself hundreds of thousands of dollars in legislative session expense alone.

Gov. Morrison of Nebraska sees no need for two houses. He says there are ample checks and balances via the veto, the courts, and the referendum. Some day other states, forced to seek out ways and means of economy, will follow Nebraska's sensible example. Then another myth will disappear.

June 21 and will end Friday. It is being conducted by William Spence, chairman of the Industrial Education Department at Kansas State College, Pittsburg, Kan.

His topic is "A Review of Recent Industrial and Educational Research."

The four-part course, sponsored by the School of Technology, is designed to help area teachers brush up on the latest developments in teaching industrial education. Nationally-known persons are brought to the campus to teach the various sections.

The entire course or any one or more of the two-week sections may be taken for graduate credit.

Mildred Fenner, editor of the National Education Association Journal, will conduct the third section on writing

Viet Cong Destroy 3 Airplanes In Mortar Attack at Da Nang

DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP)— Viet Cong mortar fire slashed into strategic Da Nang Air Base in a sneak attack early Thursday and destroyed three U.S. planes on the ground. A U.S. Air Force policeman was killed.

Three other planes were damaged in the barrage of about thirty 81mm mortar rounds that hit this key launching point for U.S. air strikes against the Viet Cong and Communist North Viet Nam. The Viet Cong pounded the southern end of the air strip with guns of 3,000-yard range for about five minutes and then fled.

At least 10 and probably more U.S. personnel were wounded in the attack, reliable sources said.

Two U. S. F102 pilots camped where the mortars fell, were slightly wounded. U. S. Marine perimeter areas extend around most of the base. A total of 9,500 Marines guard the Da Nang area, 380 miles northeast of Saigon and 80 miles from the North Vietnamese border. Security forces fired a counter-barrage and the sky above the air base was red with explosions and flares from flare ships.

The attack began about 1:30 a.m.

A U.S. spokesman said two C130 transport planes and a F102 Delta Dagger interceptor were destroyed in the barrage. One C130 and two Delta Daguers were damaged.

The other Delta Dagger interceptors were dragged to the center of the airstrip by tractors.

"A lot of brave people went in there," a U.S. Air Force spokesman said.

The mortared area was immediately evacuated after the initial barrage.

The busy Da Nang Air Base has been one of three main centers in the country for mounting attacks against targets in North Viet Nam as well as for air strikes into the country.

U.S. Marines began pouring into the area last March with their main objective described as providing security for the air base.

The Viet Cong attack here was one of a series of mortar assaults that Communist forces have launched this week in stepped-up offensives over wide areas in South Viet Nam.

On Monday military installations in Nha Trang were hit. Nha Trang is 200 miles north-east of Saigon on the South China Sea.

Red and Black Ink

Deficit Financing, Prosperity Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — At midnight, the United States enters its 53rd straight month of rising prosperity and its sixth straight year of deficit financing.

It closes the books on fiscal 1965, the crucial testing year of what President Johnson calls "expansionary fiscal policy," with a smaller than expected budget deficit—$3.8 billion or, quite possibly, less.

The $3.8-billion estimate was reported by Johnson in mid-June. But encouraging reports have continued to come in, and some fiscal experts now expect a $3.6-billion or $3.7-billion red ink figure when the final accounting is done.

The deficit might be smaller if huge revenues had not been lost in last year's $14-billion tax reduction. The administration insists that just the opposite is true—that the deficit would have been greater.

Except for the tax cut, says Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, fiscal 1965 probably would have seen a recession instead of unparalleled prosperity.

If so, tax revenues would have slumped drastically, as they did in each of the four postwar recessions, and the deficit would have ballooned, he says.

Instead the red ink is fading slowly. The deficit is at least $2.5 billion smaller than the $6.3 billion which Johnson predicted in his budget message last January.

Illinois Senate Approves Hitt

SPRINGFIELD (AP)— The Illinois Senate confirmed Tuesday the appointment of F. Guy Hitt of Benton to the SIU Board of Trustees.

Hitt will succeed John Page Wham of Centralia for a term ending in 1971.

The Senate also confirmed the reappointment of Robert Schneider, agriculture director; and Howard McWard, assistant director.

Wiretap Bill Defeated

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP)— A Wiretapping bill designed to strike at organized crime was defeated Wednesday by the Illinois Senate.

Opponents contended it would lead to a police state and that the intended aim of getting evidence on hoodlums might involve innocent persons.

The bill was backed by the Chicago Crime Commission, Chicago Police Supt. Orlando

Wilson and other crime authorities.

It would have allowed state's attorneys and the Illinois attorney general to order wiretaps with court approval. The taps would have been placed on phones of persons suspected of engaging in criminal activities.

The Senate passed a bill increasing the state police force 100 men a year for the next two years.

SPLASHING CRASH — A Tennessee man was killed Tuesday when the tractor-trailer he was driving collided with a highway line-painting truck near Lafayette, Ind. Three highway department employees were injured. After hitting a paint-supply truck, the semi-truck hit the paint applicator truck before skidding across the berm and rolling over. (AP Photo)

Hungary Grants Aid to North Viet Nam

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)— A Communist North Viet Nam delegation touring Eastern Europe in quest of economic aid has signed an agreement for unspecified economic assistance from Hungary, the news agency MTI reports.

It noted this is one of the countries pledging help against South Viet Nam and the United States.

IRENE HAWORTH WILL BE COMPETING IN CANADA

Unresolved Question

SIU Woman Gymnasts Will Seek AAU Title If Team Enters Despite Eligibility Squabble

Coach Herb Vogel and his women's gymnastics team are in Cleveland, Ohio, for the national AAU championships, but whether the team will compete in the championships is still uncertain.

Vogel was unable to receive full reinstatement of Judy Willis by departure time, but was told by the central association of the AAU that he could enter her in the meet under protest.

In a political move, Vogel plans to press the issue of eligibility of his entire team during a meeting tonight of the AAU gymnastics committee.

Vogel is trying, through this action, to break through the AAU eligibility rule. Most of his performers have participated in meets not sanctioned by the AAU but all but Miss Willis have been given permission to compete in the national championships.

This rule does not allow a male or female athlete to participate in amateur meets of his choice.

"This choice of competition of the team or athlete is a major concern in the future development and success of our gymnasts in the 1968 Olympic games," said Vogel. "Our opportunities for competition are so few that we must be allowed to compete in all available competition with the primary basis that the contestants are always amateur," he concluded.

Vogel is still hoping that he can get Miss Willis reinstated. He plans to meet tonight with Donald Hull, executive director of the AAU, who ruled Miss Willis ineligible. But Vogel admits that the chance of getting her reinstated appears slim.

Meanwhile his two Canadian gymnasts, Gail Daley and Irene Haworth, are in Saskatoon, Canada, competing in the Canadian AAU National Championships.

Both will be competing for the all-around championship. Miss Daley has won it three years in a row, and Vogel expects her main threat to come from Miss Haworth, who finished fourth last year.

Sports Car Club To Meet Tonight

The Grand Touring Auto Club will hold its first meeting of the summer quarter today at 8 p.m. at Epps Motor Co., Illinois 13, east of Carbondale.

Agenda for tonight's meeting includes discussion of plans for events for the summer. The sports car group sponsors regular rallies, gymkhanas and autocrosses.

Anyone with an interest in sports or grand touring cars is invited to attend.

Foe's Coach Rumored as SIU Prospect

It could be a busy weekend for Coach Joe Lutz when he brings his Parsons College baseball team to Carbondale July 16 for a four-game series with the Salukis.

Lutz, who has been rumored as one of the top candidates to replace retiring coach Glenn "Abe" Martin, may be spending some of his time house hunting.

SIU and Parsons College officials have indicated they are aware of the rumor but have declined to comment at this time.

It has been rumored for some months that Martin wanted to step down as coach but continue as head of the intramural program. However, any definite action must await approval of the Board of Trustees. The Board cancelled its regular June meeting earlier this week and no meeting has been scheduled for July.

Martin's career at SIU spans some 27 years. Since 1938, in addition to his 17 years as baseball coach, he has served in the following positions on the staff: athletic director, head football coach.

Park Renaming Contest Announces Winners

Winners of the contest to rename the Reservoir Park have been announced by the Carbondale Park District.

After the demonstration Tylek will talk individually to persons who have questions about Polaroid photography.

district championship and in 1958 he was named to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Hall of Fame.

Martin organized the summer baseball squad to take part in the Midwest Summer Collegiate Baseball League. However, when it became apparent that Rich (Itchy) Jones would be available to coach the squad, Martin turned the job over to him.

Jones, who was graduated from SIU in 1960, was returning to campus anyway to complete work on a master's degree in physical education.

He will return to Jacksonville High School in the fall to continue his duties as head basketball coach.

Summer League Led by Parsons

After two weeks of play Parsons College of Fairfield, Iowa, leads the Midwest Collegiate Summer Baseball League.

In the two weekend series with the Illini Club, Parsons won six of eight games. St. Louis University and Southern, who started their season one week late when Southern did not have enough players, are in second and third place. The Illini Club is last.
