MERRY XMAS - HAPPY NEW YEAR

1st Xmas At War Brings Realization Of Why We Fight

By JAMES GRAVES Here in Carbondale, 1942. Our first Christmas at war really, since last Christmas we were still so stunned to realize we were at war. We realize that now, the fact that we are at war. For the last year we have been asked to give up one luxury after another to help our boys in the front. There is no more Christmas Eve, no more Christmas morning, no more Christmas gifts. There is only the "Hill Bill," with which our country desperately try to bolster their courage.

Little Gallery Draws Art Enthusiasts At Opening Sunday

More than one hundred art conscious citizens from Carbondale and environs enjoyed the first gallery exhibit of any importance to be held on this campus in many years. Since most of the exhibitors are well known modern American artists, the people who ventured out for the exhibit were pleasantly surprised by the magnitude of the whole affair.

Works Displayed Among the things exhibited Sunday afternoon was a few of real merit, along with many mediocre pieces. Aaron Bohrod had three pictures in the show. One of them, a painting of a Negro girl called "Dreams," is quite well done.

A very light vote was cast in the freshman election last week. Although this is the SNU's largest class, only 47 members voted. The purpose of the election was to nominate five boys and five girls as candidates for freshman Council members.

DARK MUSINGS

By EARL BROOKS

This country has assumed a position which compares almost unfavorably with the role of "mighty Casey" of baseball fame. They will have to fight in a war in the most important sense which has been a critical point. We are in a position where the deciding factor in this game, Army or Navy, they allowed two strikes to pass before he decided to bat. Then in his own day, it was too late. With the fate of the nation dependent upon him, Casey struck out! He fell a hummer and his team at a time when failure was most detrimental.

A MESSAGE TO THE S.I.N.U. STUDENT BODY FROM DIRECTOR OF U. S. MINT

An of you have been reading, I know, of the "official" statements in this country of certain metals and of how greatly needed for war purposes are planes, the big guns and much other equipment of fighting men must have to win the war. In the conclusion I lay before you a way in which you young people in the schools, in cooperation with your friends of the Mint can render a service as important as really to drive a shaft into the armor of the German and Japanese, and that is by assisting in our attack upon the hoard of idle money which is being hidden in piggy banks, silver boxes, glass jars, boxes and barrels drawers in homes all over the country, lying as useless as dead metals.

TRiumPH OVER DENOMINATIONALISM

A fine triumph over narrow-minded denominationalism will be reached at S. I. N. U. in January with the opening of the inter-denominational Student Christian Foundation. Realizing that any one denomination on the campus would not have the finances to set up a foundation, with the exception of the Baptists who have already contributed an excellent one, the Student Christian Council has been working for years for the establishment of a foundation to include all students here.

BOOKS IN REVIEW

By DELBERT W. HAMILTON

LOOK TO THE MOUNTAIN. One of the finest novels that we've read in a long time is Le Grand Cannon's "Look To The Mountain." This is the romancing story of Whit and Melissa, a young couple who carved a home for themselves in the wilderness of pre-Revolutionary New Hampshire. It is definitely more than an historical novel—it is a war and tender romance, a moving chronology of man's fight against the wilderness, and above all, it is a distinctive creation, carefully planned and constructed.

NINE C. P. T. CADETS RECEIVE SILVER WINGS AT THURSDAY DINNER

On Thursday night, December 10, 1942, nine C. P. T. Cadets received silver wings at a banquet given at Anthony Hall. The Cadets were: James Carter, Grant Harold Hill, Harold E. Gibbs, Taylorville, Eugene Lepinski, Robert M. Clark, Florida; David Hopkins, Mulberry Grove; Edward M. Kussner, Springfield; Henry Lutz, Carbondale; and Gerald A. Vroman, Carbondale.

Young English Program
At the dinner, D. O. H. Young, of the Physics department and Coordinator of the 1942 Academic Achievement Week, presided over the affair. He explained the purpose of the banquet, read the resolutions governing the distribution of the silver wings, and felt that approximately 125 trainees had successfully completed the C. P. T. program at S. I. N. U. Professor Potholm then presented the wings to the trainees.

The Wings
The wings are similar in design and appearance to those of our Navy and Army Air Corps. They are presented to a trainee following his first solo flight and are to be his property to keep as a reminder of his first step in aviation. Should the trainee fall along the way and Advisory Board action is necessary to discontinue him from the program, he must return the wings to the Coordinator. The wings are the insignia of the Enlisted Reserve

Four men of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board of St. Louis were here December 16 to install the new system and outline the procedure of the Navy Air Corps, of which our trainees are a part. They are: Lieutenant Tabbot, Lieutenant Seme, Lieutenant Klamm, and Pharmacist Mate Strafel.

THIS WORLD OF MUSIC

By BEETHOVEN
Musicians as Artists
When musicians take to brush and easel, they apparently are not interested in music. Or at least that seems to be the lesson of the first annual exhibition of art by musicians which took place recently in the Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Center.

The exhibition contained eighty-nine pictures. Only sixteen of them have any reference to music, and six of these are connected with music only in that they are portraits of musicians. There is not a single attempt to interpret a piece of music through pictures. And when musicians paint still-life groups, they seem to prefer flowers, apples, and the conventional wintertime to their musical instruments.

When musicians do draw each other their artistic instincts are apparently aroused. Aldo Ricci's portrait of the backs of two violinists, called "Local No. 2," is certainly not very patterning. Nor is Xavier Coetzee's caricature of Benny Goodman playing the clarinet. The satire of Vladimir Solinsky's two series of sketches, "Symphonic Anatomy, No. 1 and 2," is underlined by his titles.

It is surprising to pose death scenes of books playing a tuba as an expression of his love is to be published, although many of them are actually his own drawings and that is heartening.

It is to be feared for the printed word that the music's water by most of the artists who paint have not that the water level in the musical instrument, New York Phylharmonic, is a low level indeed from the New York University of Music. The exhibition of the exhibition in these days.

While at the Institute Miss Babcock will have an opportunity to observe the complete situation of these things. She will supervise the same management practice here and teach classes in a department which has an enrollment of four hundred students.

Coming here in 1929 to help organize the Smith-Hughes teacher-training program, Miss Babcock taught previously in the University High School, College of Education, at the University of Minnesota.

Arrangements for a substitute teacher during her absence have not yet been announced.

Babcock Leaves to Teach at Drexel Inst.

Miss Gladys Babcock of the householders' department will take leave on absence beginning with the new year to teach in the Drexel Institute of Technology at Philadelphia. She will return to her regular duties at S. I. N. U. for the first semester term.

A plan is before officials of the United States Army to organize a 150,000-man corps from among the thousands who have become soldiers and the services of famous could be used. The Army is planning to send it to the country to help money for Army Warpage Letter.

The argument is that if the Army can do it with a musical show such as "This is the Army." It can also do it with a symphony orchestra. Certainly if the proposed orchestra were to be the best talent in the army, it could create as fine an orchestra as any in the country, for men have been drafted from all the major orchestras. Confiding itself to its own ranks, the Army could probably find all the necessary soloists for guest appearances.

(From the Dec. 13 New York Times)

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 13—Old-fashioned woodchopping is helping Cornell University professors to keep the home fires burning and put themselves in good physical condition.

Each weekend sixty-six anthropologists, botanists, chemists, economists, linguists and mathematicians head to university woodlots and soon the ring of their axes fills the air. They are volunteer participants in a Saturday drive to pile up wood for fuel and to conserve the forests.

In teams of two the faculty members tackle trees marked for being by Cornell foresters in assigned areas. They are limited to one cord of wood each. Professor Robinson said that their effort may approximate the tonnage equivalent of sixty tons of anthracite coal.

SOUTHERN CAGERS DEFEAT INDIANS 53 - 43

SINU MAROONS BEAT CAPE 47- 42 IN DRAMATIC OVERTIME BATTLE

During Nip and Tuck Fray Millspaugh Scores 17 Points

Southern's fighting cagers came home victorious Thursday morning from Cape Girardeau after copping a thrilling overtime battle 47-42. The game was nip and tuck all of the way, and Southern held only a bare margin of three points, 23-20, at half time. Bill Millspaugh, the Maroon center, scored 17 points.

Inability to sink baskets cost Carbondale their first game defeat at the hands of Evansville, but Wednesday night proved a different story. Coach McAndrew was well pleased with the play of his cagers and is confident of further victories.

First Half
Southern gained the lead early in the game and managed to stay on top throughout the first half. The starting team composed of Sebastian and Echols, forwards, Millspaugh, center, and Moody and Earle, at the guards played the full 20 minutes. The half time score read Carbondale 23, Cape Girardeau 20.

Second Half
Cape moved into the lead after two minutes of the second half elapsed, 25-21. They held the lead throughout the second half until the last two minutes of the game when Southern surged ahead, 40-33. But two quick baskets by Beltrons and Lardgraf put Cape into the lead once again, 42-40. Less than a half minute of playing time remained when Bill Millspaugh, after receiving the ball from Moody, jumped high into the air, twisted his body and dropped the all-important two points into the hoop. The regular playing time ended with the score tied, 42-42.

In the five minute overtime period, Carbondale scored five points while holding Cape scoreless. Sebastian led off with a free throw, Moody also dropped in a charity shot, and Don Sheffer sank his last shot. Southern clinched the scoring by dropping a short shot into the basket after a

REMEDIAL READING WORK AIDS AS WELL AS TRAINS BETTER READERS AT SINU

The diagnostic and remedial reading work at Southern Illinois State Normal University has three objectives: (1) the correction of the most serious reading difficulties among members of the Freshman class, (2) determination of the characteristic weaknesses in reading instruction in the public schools from which the university draws its students, and (3) giving teachers in training some understanding of diagnostic and remedial techniques in the improvement of reading at the secondary school level.

Attainment of the first objective entails the isolation of reading deficiencies through the use of suitable reading achievement tests, substitution of these reading deficiencies to small groups, and the provision of remedial instruction based upon adequate individual diagnosis of reading techniques, and of the physical, mental, and educational conditions which might act as causes of low ability in reading.

How Instruction is Provided
In order to provide this instruction at Southern it has been necessary to train overclassmen to use the simpler techniques, and to give these students to a select remedial teachers of the small Freshman groups. A member of the Education Department trains the upperclassmen in a combination lecture-laboratory-practice class listed as Education 338, in which the lecture-laboratory work is done two hours each week. Each senior student who takes this course is expected to spend three hours each week with his or her remedial group, administering corrective practices as determined by individual and group needs. Reading techniques which are given special attention in these courses are (1) effective oral reading, (2) phrase and thought unit mastery, (3) an understanding of paragraph structure in relation to comprehension

NORMAL REDBIRDS TO MAKE STRONG BID FOR I. I. A. C. CHAMPIONSHIP

Bloomington, Illinois Dec 14.—Coach Joe (Red) sent the State Normal Redbirds after their third successive victory when Illinois College invaded the State Normal court last Monday night. The victorious Cardinals defeated Milligan, the Illinois College conference champion, 47-35 in their last game.

Although Coach has only three letters, apparently the sound is going to make a strong bid for the Illinois Intercollegiate Conference title when the race opens later in the season. Teams coached by Coach have won the championship four consecutive times.

Two of last year's recruits, Bob Cross, center, from Carlin and Bob Mahone, guard, from Williamson, probably will start with the veteran Captain Dave Walker, guard, and Jerry Frieberg and Joe Swank, forwards, against Illinois College.

There is a wealth of excellent freshman material. Bob Lockhart of Wellington, and Bill Day of DeCATUR were impressive in the Millsaps clash. Lockhart made three baskets and a free throw. Merlins Belle of Freeport is probably the best ball handler on the squad, and it will be difficult to keep him from winning a first string berth after a game experience.

REPORTER ON THE RAMPAGE

"A general halfhearted that Sheriff B." Coach McAndrew said as he indicated Don who was at the moment on the floor displaying very apparent by his "ability to know where the ball is and slip it down. The referee is also Mr. S."

Don Sheffer, for the benefit of those as yet unacquainted with the likable, well-built Zeiler had played four years of high school basketball, better in the last two. Also in talking to the cinders, Don lettered in track, the mile being his specialty in prep camp games he played forward, but here at Southern Sheffer has been working out as guard in the practice sessions. Don is eighteen, registered last June for Uncle Sam's, plans to major in P. E. and has coaching in view as a future.

Another freshman to bear watching on the hardwood is Calvin Kirk from Mt. Vernon, Cal. who is expected for the winter term and won't be eligible for a time yet.

Jimmy Cornelius is, or was, or maybe still is a football coach and is very versatile, one of his admirers reports. Could this favorite funny story (1) of his offer a "clue"? Certainly it shows signs of versatility or something—if not lie.

Two drunks were standing before a butcher shop regarding a sign on the window which read, "Weiners 25, Hamburg 27" (underlined) (over-days). One turned to the other and exclaimed thickly, "Look! Another close game!"

Instead of Lana Turner or Rita Hayworth in person, the boys in the armory services may get a real treat (What am I saying?) Branch Rieley, new Deqator head, suggested that major leaguers should be allowed to travel from camp to camp and play

DEAL INDIANS 2ND STRAIGHT DEFEAT IN 48 HOURS; MILLSPAUGH HIGH MAN

By Telephone From Carbondale

Last night the S. I. N. U. Maroons dealt the Cape Girardeau Indians their second straight defeat in two days by the score of 23-12, proving that the unfortunate start of a week ago against the Evansville Aces was just a bad dream. With the heights of the players from both teams being pretty well distributed, Southern was able to assume the offensive throughout the game. Leading scorers for both teams were: Klosterman of Caps, 13 points; and Millspaugh of S. I. N. U., 15 points, making him top scorer of the evening.

In order to avoid absences from classes on Monday following Christmas vacation, students should get return reservations in their home towns immediately upon arrival. It is advisable to secure return tickets. If a student plans to return by bus and a reservation cannot be secured, he should leave home in sufficient time to be assured of a seat. Students should take a mature point of view of the transportation situation, realizing that the bus companies and railroads are doing what they can to adjust heavy demands.

Duncan Is Commissioned Ensign at Corpus Christi

Mr. Robert Wayne Duncan of Marlon, formerly a student at Southern Illinois Normal University, was recently commissioned an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve and was designated a naval aviator at the weekly graduation ceremony held at the Naval Air Training Center, Corpus Christi. Immediately following the ceremony, during which the graduates were addressed by Rear Admiral Alfred E. Montgomery, U. S. N. commandant, Mr. Duncan was issued his "gavy wings". Before attending Corpus Christi or training, Mr. Duncan received primary instructions at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base in St. Louis, Mo. His training at Corpus Christi, the largest naval air training center in the world, included an intensive ground course covering navigation, radio code, gunnery, and other related subjects, together with flight training in various types of naval aircraft.
