COLLEGE MEN AND WAR

"We don't want pity, but we do hope that the older men of this nation will use their wealth of experience and wisdom to show us how to fight if necessary. However, these men must be found in their policies. We don't want the type of leadership that succumbed to Hitler in the past eighteen months. We want clean-cut, honest, sincere, and decisive action. We reject the glorification of war itself. Perhaps here lies the greatest difference between us and our German contemporaries, whose ideals are blood and iron. We will not fight just for the sake of fighting, but convince us that war is the best means of serving our American ideals and we will follow you anywhere. We must have a guarantee that peace will be rational and permanent." Charles Jondak, president of the student body and captain of the football team at the College of William and Mary, gives his version of youth's challenge to today's leaders. "War or peace does not change, by one jot or tittle, the boundaries of academic freedom. War lays upon the university no obligation to surrender its essential functions of truth in teaching and the enlargement of the borders of truth. Only as those who teach feel confident that they can express their truth as their minds see it, only as they have firm assurance that in their search for new truths they will be unhampered, can either the perpetuation or the expansion of knowledge really be effective." President Henry M. Wriston of Brown University pledges maintenance of freedom of thought and of teaching regardless of world conditions.—Southern California Daily Trojan.

WHAT THE STUDENTS ARE THINKING

ALL OUT FOR ELECTIONS A Student Council election, such as we will have a week from Tuesday, surely marks a place where we should stop and take stock of the faults of our system of student government. Let us not be smug about our democracy. Chief among these faults, we believe, is the niggardly fifteen to twenty per cent of the student body who avail themselves of their right to vote. Eighty-five students out of a hundred do not take part in the campus elections and therefore are not really represented on the Council. Naturally this small turn-out leads to other faults. Charges of cliques and backbiting are hurled at the Council; organized houses are accused of attempting to dominate the entire school. The only way to combat the possibility of this becoming true is to perform our duty as members of a democratic group and to vote. The Council is often criticized for its lack of real effective power in school affairs, and for its lack of genuine responsibility. This, too, could probably be helped by demonstrating that the students at Southern stand solidly behind their governing body. At the risk of repeating, may we suggest that everyone vote next Tuesday, May 20. —R. B.

PITY THE POOR YOUTH

The banquet-meeting of the "Prince" Alumni Association last Friday night was intended to stir up discussion of vital and compelling problems. The questions put to the evening's speakers indicated just how baffled American youth is at this time. Those questions pointed-out clearly and unmistakably that this country's youngsters are at sea, that they have no unified opinion on international affairs, and that they are just a bit desperate. That, however, is not youth's fault—though its elders are inclined to overlook that important fact. Men and women of college age are accused of all manner of unpleasant tendencies because of their present indecision, but they are not entirely to blame. What the older generation is so apt to forget is that 1940's youth has, in twelve month's time, been asked to junk all its old principles and accept an entirely new set. That's a big order. No large group in history has been expected to forget the teaching of a lifetime and adopt an entirely different philosophy in such a short time before. Not of their own free will, at any rate. It is not surprising, therefore, that America's youth is "confused". The residuum of approximately fifteen years of study has left it extremely suspicious of European politics and "just" causes. It was the older generation that taught youth its skepticism; now it is the older generation that asks youth to discard that for a new philosophy—and quickly, too. The older generation needn't worry too much. America's youth will make up its mind. But don't expect it to do so overnight. You just can't rush fifteen years of study out of their brains in a moment.—The Daily Princetonian.

IN PROTEST

We are rapidly sinking into a war hysteria which can have only one result—that of sending the flower of our youth to be destroyed by the flames of war. It isn't enough that we're paying for our part in a conflict to maintain the status quo in Europe and to preserve the British Empire, itself amass by force. With socialized medicine, with better schools, with more aid for the aged, with better highways, and with conservation, many are advocating the sending of our young men into a hell from which none will return the same. I beg of you advocates of an active participation in a "shooting war" to consider the results of such a step before adding your voice to the chorus of the war-maddened. If you wish to save democracy and civilization for the world you must preserve the seeds which you hold here in your hands. If we enter into the conflict you will see that democracy and that civilization which you are doing so much to destroy in your efforts to save vanish before your eyes like a dust particle on the wings of a wind. You cannot destroy force by the use of force without having your force turn upon you and destroy you in the end. In spite of the ever increasing number of those desiring war, there comes from all sides cries of protest. "No! No! No! Leave our young men at home and let them enjoy that civilization which is so dear to them. Prepare for our national defense, but leave those instruments of Hell at home for our own protection. Don't send them overseas to prolong a war which is causing needless suffering among millions of innocent people." And I raise my voice in protest. "No! No!" Lovers of peace, join it! —ARTHUR HALFAR.

COUNCIL ELECTION APPEAL...

In the process of all our elections, political as well as our campus ones, there is the ever present verbal tussle to persuade our voters that it is their sacred right, duty, and privilege to exercise their voting powers. And it is! Of course, voting in the coming student council election is that which is herein referred to. Our student council organization is based upon the assumption that the student body as a whole, not as a body of competing cliques, will in a democratic manner nominate and elect to office those who stand as the most promising for the council positions; those who can shoulder the burden of student government responsibility with all seriousness and with ethical purposes. In the recent past, elections have witnessed the voting of a have one-third of our students. This exemplifies a take-it-for-granted attitude among many of us; or maybe we just forgot about the election when we really intended to vote all the time. Let us forget that we have the right to elect our council members here at Southern, (the way they are oftentimes condemned one might think they are a band of autocrats and not elected representatives), a record vote would be a welcome addition to our accomplishments at S. I. N. U. this year. The newly elected members would even feel better if they were elected by a majority of their class members. If, in fact, they were voted in by a few who made it a point to patronize the polling place. Tuesday, May 20, is another council election and at that time we ought to be able to show that we have measurably increased our appreciation of our democratic ideal and turn out in record numbers to choose the student representatives for next year's Student Council.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Pat— While strolling around the campus the other day I noticed something which I believe should be brought to the attention of the student body. Probably most of the college folks have already noticed this, but I didn't make much of an impression on them. What I am referring to is the papers you find blowing all over the campus between the Main building and the gymnasium. I believe that much of this debris comes from the automobiles parked around the campus. Many of these papers are blown up by the wind, the remains on the campus. Maybe it is because there are not enough containers handy. Whatever the reason is, I think we should all take enough pride in our campus to put forth a special effort to see that it isn't littered up with stray papers and refuse. Perhaps when this fact is brought to the attention of the students and the administration, more waste containers will be provided and we can all make a special effort to keep the campus clean. Thanks, Ed. —RUFUS.

Open Letter to American Students

To Members of the Student Body: I would urge all our students who had planned to continue their work in the University next year, or who have been in doubt as to their plans, not to interrupt their training unless it is imperatively necessary. We shall need in this country, as never before, all the trained personnel that can be mustered to cope with problems that will inevitably follow in the train of current world-wide distress and disorder. The nation's most valuable reserves. We must not unnecessarily deplete this reservoir. For better for your own good and the country's that the training you are now receiving be carried forward as smoothly and without interruption as possible to logical objectives than that it be thrust aside for some more immediately appealing pursuit. Those whose current training is in fields directly related to national defense, e. g. medicine, dentistry, engineering, advanced work in the biological, chemical, geological and physical sciences, and other substantial educational programs may, in the judgment of local draft boards, seem more important for the time being to the national need than the immediate bearing of arms, are urged to continue the preparation and to request cooperation with the Convoys Shipping Boards have been properly considered to give due attention to such applications. Likewise, the University administration is advised and stands ready to endorse all applications for deferment that come within the latitude of existing laws and regulations. It is to be noted that this procedure is the part of patriotism, and it is on that basis that we invite the cooperation of our students concerned. We must not permit tension of the times unnecessarily to disrupt normal procedures. We are moulting the University program at every turn, and we are doing so with a clear conscience, and we are doing so with a clear conscience, and we are doing so with a clear conscience. —H. W. Chase, Chancellor, New York University.

HERRIN HIGH SCHOOL AND S. I. N. U. STUDENTS IN PANEL DISCUSSIONS

Panel Groups Discuss Current Problems in Series of Meetings Southern Illinois Normal University students from Herrin have taken part in a series of panel discussions held at the Herrin High School under the joint sponsorship of the Herrin High School, the Adult Education Division of the W. P. A. and Extension Division of S. I. N. U. The first panel discussion on "Should the draft be extended to include persons from 18 to 21?" was held before the high school students with high school and S. I. N. U. students participating. John Reed, Robert Meyer, Bill Reynolds, and Bruce Bradford represented S. I. N. U. The second panel was presented at night, with more than two hundred persons present. Dr. W. G. Swartz led the discussion and Annamaria Bowen, Bill Reynolds, Charles Morgan, and Elmer Foyard represented the college. The topic was "After the War, What for America?" Two weeks later a third panel was conducted on the topic, "Should we have a conscription law?" approximately five hundred people attending. College students participating in the discussion were Maxine Ford, Isabel Marshall, and Wesley Reynolds. The policy has been to have the panel made up of students from the college who come from Herrin, Herrin high school students, and adults from the community. Next Monday, May 12, a fourth discussion will be held. The topic selected is "What can be done to increase attendance and support of the church?" Mr. Zipp, head of the Adult Education Division of the W. P. A., has made preliminary inquiries at Benton and Harrisburg, and it is possible that similar programs will be held at these two places yet this spring. By next fall Mr. Zipp expects to have similar programs going in many Southern Illinois towns.

Should America Convoys Ships to Britain?

There is a serious problem facing the American people today. Before this problem can be efficiently solved, several things must be given careful and serious attention. Probably the most serious protest to the proposed convoy system is that this might throw the U. S. into the war. But I maintain that America is already in the war. Certainly we are not neutral. Of course our men are not in actual combat, and I do not wish to see them so. Personally I do not wish to be shot, to be killed, or wounded, now or at any time, if it can be avoided. But my pride will not allow me to stand by and see a friend, who is fighting for me, as well as for himself, be defeated by a malicious enemy without giving all the help that I possibly can. If my physical aid is needed, then I feel that there is nothing for me to do except to help. We have promised aid to Great Britain. Are we going to keep that promise? Congress passed a bill, numbered 1776, by which we are to give Britain seven billion dollars. I think that the American people including my fellow students will agree with me when I say that we could have used that vast sum of money 40 a great advantage in the U. S. But since we have already given it away, I think that we should see that Britain gets the gift. This great sum of money will do no good for either Great Britain or the U. S. if we allow the British to take it out into the Atlantic Ocean inadequately guarded where it can be used as target for German submarines and sent to the bottom of the ocean. This would be foolhardy. If we are going to give warships, etc. to G. B., and it is evident that we are, then it is our duty to see that they get to their destination. We have already taken sides in this war. We will have to face Hitler sometime in the near future. It is evident that Britain is on the losing end of the war at present. If we do not make sure that our goods get to Britain, Hitler will probably win. Churchill, himself, said that Britain cannot win without the help of America. If Hitler wins, then we shall have to face Germany and the whole of Europe without the aid of the R.A.F., B.E.F., and the Royal Navy. This has been admitted by Germany, through the axis' blue prints of Hitler's peace terms. On the other hand, if we help keep the "Atlantic life line" open, Britain stands a good chance of winning; that, from the minds of military experts. This can be done, according to the same men, without our help. Then if Germany declares war on us, we will have both the British and the Americans to whip. It hardly seems likely that Hitler will do anything drastic enough to draw the U. S. into the war. It seems to me that the convoy system is our only chance to avert war if war is to be averted. It is our last straw—our only hope. —Robert Leathers.

LET'S LOOK BEFORE WE LEAP...

At a time when man seems to have lost all sense of fairness and decency to his fellowmen, shouldn't we college students become the leaders and try to keep this world a sane place to live? We have been taught that the twentieth century has brought about one of the most highly developed forms of civilization, yet we are about to plunge madly into another struggle that will again destroy the youth of today. In last Wednesday's issue of the St. Louis Globe Democrat, glaring headlines proclaimed "Senator Urges U. S. to Go to War Now." Senator Pepper of Florida even urged seizure of the Azores and bombing of Tokyo. Could any man be in his right mind and make such a daring statement. Haven't we been damning Hitler for his ruthless seizures of Austria and Poland? Don't we eringe in horror at the merciless bombing the Nazis have been doing to London. Should we follow suit and become one of the wholesale slaughterers of the world? What has Japan done to us that we should bomb her civilian population? Senator Clark of Missouri was right when he said Pepper was "one of the most adept and vociferous advocates of Hitlerism in the world." Many of the people of today are accused of playing the part of the ostrich. We are sticking our head in the ground and are not facing reality. Maybe we should believe Lindberg. Didn't he warn Great Britain and France what was coming three years ago? Of course, Wendell L. Willkie has been to England recently and saw conditions but do you think the British are dumb enough to tell and show Willkie everything, if they are seeking aid from America? Who is fighting Germany's war for her? We have been sending ships to England and now there is a bill before the House to seize foreign ships and transfer them to Britain. Probably the convoy situation brought this all about. First we give England seven billion dollars worth of goods and now we are going to take it to them. This is like giving candy to a baby. The minute one of our ships conveying another ship gets sunk, "puff" we're in another war fighting for what? Nobody knows. What has become of the thinkers and brains in Congress? They couldn't possibly make such quick decisions and still make wise ones. Haven't we any Borah's left today? Everyone is agreed that we should arm America. Keep some of this material we're sending across. If as much money were spent in trying to keep peace as is spent in fostering war this world would be a happier place to live in. There still is a Power stronger than Hitler. This may still seem as an ideal of old fashioned religion but don't you think men still love one another enough to overcome some ruthlessness that is leading them to destruction. Many times in times like these we need to turn to someone for help. Let's think this time before we stumble into some black abyss that may turn monster and wipe us out.

PERSONAL GROOMING WEEK ENDS TODAY

Personal Grooming Week at Southern ended Thursday with a tea for freshmen women at 4 o'clock in the Little Theatre, under the direction of Miss Mary Crawford. In recognition with the Carondelet School of Beauty, Miss Helen McLane was in charge of a style show. The week's program began Tuesday in the Little Theatre with a talk on skin, hair and nails, by Mrs. Marion Robertson of Groves Beauty Shop. Wednesday Miss Gladys Babcock discussed Personal Grooming as reflected in clothing. Her lecture was illustrated by charts and models. Guest speaker for Personal Grooming Week was Miss Alice Pfeiffer, fashion designer from the Sprague-Vanderhoof-Barney department store in St. Louis. Miss Pfeiffer addressed the college women during the three-hour Thursday to Skyrock Auditorium. Her subject was "The Rule of Four". In her address she gave suggestions on personal grooming, accessories, and costume colors. She used a model to illustrate her lecture.

This is the second in a series of articles written of graduating seniors of Southern.

Ray Bjorklund, senior from Rockford, is another Maroon football man that will hang up his cleats when this year's graduation class bids their alma mater goodbye.

Ray has been a member of the varsity team for four years although he has been awarded the coveted "I" only two of these four years.

Bill Brown has been a member of the Chi Delta Chi fraternity for four years and a member of the "I" Club.

Huntley is only one of the many athletes that have been under the supervision of "Doc" Jingle and have carried his success on the cinder track to their own high schools.

GYMNASTS REMAIN UNSUNG HEROES OF SOUTHERN

Of all the athletes on the Southern campus, probably the least mention is given to the gym team's "little Samsons".

Southern's gymnasts have a chance to get only one letter a year instead of three: Football, basketball, and track are the main sports.

Even in the face of the strenuous workouts resulting in torn hamstrings, broken ribs, and swollen tendons...

The Egyptian gymnasts have done much in the past few years to put Southern on the map.

Even greater laurels go to the group that competed at Chicago when the fact was revealed that the boys went to the "Windy City" via the thumb route.

Uncensored Nonsense by JOHN J. WHITESIDE

After the funny papers, what? Millions of Americans face this question every Sunday afternoon. I've read Blondie and Dagwood fifty times. I read to think of something to do. Kite flies out of ten I go to sleep, and if I don't the afternoon usually goes by without my doing anything.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS BY CARL SANDBURG, ILLINOIS PULITZER PRIZE WINNER, TO BE A FEATURE OF YEAR'S GRADUATION CEREMONIES

By ELLEN MAYNARD.

Carl Sandburg? What student or faculty member of S. I. N. U. is not looking forward eagerly to the commencement address by this man of Illinois whose writings interpret humanity in Illinois and in the world? The only limits he knows are those of human life and experience.

And speaking of limitations, a rule would be to give him 2000 when his work on Abraham Lincoln won the Pulitzer prize. Biographies of Lincoln or Washington are excluded from the competition because they are considered as "too obvious" examples of patriotic and unselfish service to the American people, which to the best of his ability, Sandburg has brought out the romance of his topic. His style is history in his stinging style that is practically poetry, and we see and feel with his characters.

The reader of either poetry or prose by Sandburg is able to find the characters in himself or in his world. He is able to see them and their surroundings, because the whole scene actually exists. It exists everywhere, and Sandburg has merely pointed out the significance of its details, whether pleasant or unpleasant, or simply or only in the conventional sense of these terms. To Sandburg the whole is poetic. He sees poetry in sweat, and milkmen, and fried eggs, because these things have significance in the human scheme. He has worked as a milkman and a number of other unexalted occupations, and found their meaning. He sees beauty in all human endeavor and in the enduring sweep of the prairie which mocks that endeavor. He takes life as he finds it, and all of life is poetry.

As a part of his interest in history and its continuity and its consciousness, he has become widely known as a collector and stinger of the ballads that have risen from the American people since the earliest times.

During his visit to Southern ten years ago, he sang many of these to the accompaniment of his guitar, including some of local origin, such as the one concerning the ferry at old Shawneetown.

So, although his birthplace is Galesburg and Chicago is his home, his interest has extended over the whole of the region, and he has already been stated, this Illinois poet, who looks like a farmer, has become known internationally because he combines genius with understanding and sympathy. He is enjoying the privilege not too common to geniuses of seeing his life as it is dictated and his work appreciated in his lifetime.
