Stratton Agrees To Raise Budget Additional $750,000

Gov. William Stratton for the second time agreed to raise his recommendation for SIU's operating expenses for the 1955-56 biennium at two meetings with the Board of Trustees and Pres. LeRoy W. Morris Thursday.

The second addition of $750,000 raised the total recommendation to $13,327,405. This will be $194 less per student than the 1951-52 biennium appropriation afforded.

"This is still a tight budget, but now we will be able to work out many of our problems whereas the earlier budget would have made this impossible," said Dr. Charles D. Tenney, vice-president for instruction. Dr. Tenney emphasized, "During the past two weeks, a tremendous number of people—students, newspaper editors, clubs, business associations, private citizens—have been concerned with our problem and have supported our budget request.

As a result, we have impressed the state administration with the acuteness of our problem."

The added amount of $750,000 has not been specifically distributed yet, according to Tenney.

No plans have been made by the trustees for another meeting with the Governor.

He assured 11 SIU students Wednesday that he would bring the financial crisis at Southern to the attention of the State Legislature in a meeting Thursday morning in Springfield.

Liberal Arts, Sciences Names Committee

A five member student committee has been organized at SIU to meet weekly with the dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and discuss problems and policies of the college.

The five are Richard Chapman, Pat Hicks, James Lindsey, Edward Stueber and William Urban.

Dean T. W. Abbott said the students will be asked to voice their opinion on the program and personnel of the college at the weekly sessions. He pointed out that the committee, unlike the Student Council, would be concerned only with the educational problems of the college in which its members were enrolled.

"Members of the first committee were chosen by faculty members, but he hopes that student elections on committee membership could be held starting next fall," said Abbott.

Cape Council Members Meet With Ours

Eight members of the Southeast Missouri State College Student Council were on campus as guests of the SIU student Council Thursday night.

This was an exchange meeting of the Councils in which they discussed handling of mutual campus problems.

After the meeting the Cape Council members were guests at the Aquettes' water show, "South Bound."

At the business meeting, another proposal, in addition to one last week, was made for changing Student Council election procedures.

Earl Walker introduced a proposal that the Council have 12 members.

One representative to be elected from each of the living groups—Woody Hall, Men's Residence Halls Council, Pan-Hellenic Council and Interfraternity Council—plus one man and one woman to be elected by each class. The class polls are to be filled by nominees elected by classmate other than those living in a residence belonging to the classmates, other than those who live in residences belonging to the living group organizations.

The proposal will be voted on after two weeks' review.

Pat Priest, Charles Jansen and Bob Stearns were absent.

FTA Elects Duke Mueller President

The Egyptian Chapter Number One of the Future Teachers of America installed Duke Mueller as the new president for 1955-1956 at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the studio theater of University Hall. Refreshments were served after the installation of officers.

Other new officers for next year are: Pats Birker, vice president; Joyce Williamson, secretary; Arthur Carr, treasurer.

11 Students Talk It Up To Governor Stratton

Gov. William Stratton assured 11 SIU students meeting with him Thursday morning in Springfield that Southern's financial crisis would be brought to the State Legislature's attention.

Pat Bruce presented Stratton the Circle K sponsored petition with consideration of Southern's budget request.

Other students at the meeting were Marilyn Liebig, Lou Ann Hart, Ann Travelstead, Bonnie Bunch, Jim Aiken, Dave White, Dave McAfee, Carol Van Dam, Bob Edgell and Harlan Sears.

The group arrived in Springfield Wednesday morning and was introduced to the State House of Representatives by Rep. Paul Powell of Anna.

Bob Edgell presented Sen. Crisenberry, Alburghboro, a letter on behalf of Southern students thanking him for his long service to SIU's interests.

Sen. Crisenberry then took the group to the State Senate gallery to listen to debate, but the opportunity for introduction to the Senate never arose.

The purpose of the trip was not only to present the petition, but also to meet state legislators and officials and impress them with the students' faith in SIU, spokesmen said.

Board Re-elects John Wham

Officers of the SIU Board of Trustees were reelected at a meeting in Springfield Thursday.

They are John Page Wham, Centralia, president; Lindell Sturgis, Metropolis, vice-president; and Melvin Lockard, Cobden, secretary.

Wham remained on the executive committee, but Kenneth Davis, Harrisburg, and Sturgis were succeeded by Robert Kern, Belleville, and H. R. Fischer, Granite City.

25 Go To Pot Twice Weekly

Tools Include Bats, Elephant Ear Sponges

By Kathy Hooker

Twenty-five students go to pot here every Tuesday and Thursday night.

Pottery 135 and 302 meet together then. It would be hard to find a more unusual class anywhere.

Fashion-wise pottery students wear Levi's caked with clay, plaid sport shirts and old shoes.

Some unusual expressions and names can be heard there. Students called "chovy pots" and use tools called elephant ear sponges, bats and chesey cutters.

Clay, from Monmouth, is used intact, says Leon Moberg, potter making the pots. It is put on a bar, made of plastic, and thrown on a potter's wheel. The pot is shaped with the hands while your it is on the wheel. Then it is taken to a damp room, where it remains two to four days. The pot is then put on the wheel again and trimmed. It is now ready to be bisque fired at 1,700 degree Fahrenheit.

After firing, the pot is pink-white and porous. It is now ready to be glazed. After glazing, it is fired-tried at 2,174 degrees. After that it's ready for use.

Vases, ash trays, bowls and picture frames have been made in this class. They are very durable, called elephant ear sponges, bats and chesey cutters.

This meager beginning of a stand became Theta Xi's "Dave Vender Turkey Show" which won first prize as the best booth on the midway. The co-owner caps worn by Jack Barnett, kneeling and Russ Peithman were later added to diversion clothing and missiles to become part of an act to draw customers to the stand.

Spring Salute

Hats-off to the guys and gal-thats were responsible for this year's Spring festival.

The Dixie Jubilee was an example of cooperation. Most all parts of our university contributed. Teamwork was the key.

Groups such as the Aquettes and the Singing Squadron were the basis for the "all school" atmosphere that prevailed throughout.

Since right after Christmas, a small group of individuals contributed time and ideas toward the spring celebration. As festival time grew nearer these co-chairmen enlisted scores of students to help on various committees. They produced what is said to have been Southern's most outstanding Spring Festival.

Perhaps the "unsung heroes" of the whole affair are the university coordinators responsible for a lot of the manual labor that goes with festival preliminaries. We think the physical plant staff deserves a special salute for their untiring and outstanding contribution toward the "jubilee." D. P.

New Peithman Book Authentic, Interesting

By Jim Aiken

A picturesque archaeological and cultural survey of Southern Illinois is introduced in Irvin M. Peithman's recently published book "Echoes of the Red Man."

Peithman, curator of archaeology at the SIU Museum, spent much time seeking out and collecting archaeological sites and artifacts in southern Illinois. He is considered one of the best authorities on area archeology.

He writes with authority and shows a love and thorough knowledge of his subject matter. "Echoes of the Red Man" is divided into three main divisions: "The Red Man," "Cultures," and "The White Man and the Indian."

The "Red Man" gives French explorer's descriptions of the area and discusses the topography and climate.

"Cultures" tells how the early prehistoric Indians migrated from Asia to North America and how culture developed and survived in Southern Illinois.

The prehistoric and historic cultures — Archaic, Woodland and Hopewell and Mississippian — are discussed briefly. Another section in this division is devoted to Indian religion, mythology, transportation, medicine, languages and dialects, magic and traditions.

"Topics Varies in Other Sections"

Anchored section of "Cultures" discusses flint industry, salt industry, rock shelters, Indian trails, art and agriculture.

"The White Man and the Indian" tells of the coming of the French and British and finally, the subjugation of the Indians.

Peithman's book is by no means a complete treatment of the southern Illinois Indians. He said he hoped to make the work more detailed, but the technicalities of publishing forced him to shorten it.

Orders for the book have been received from as far away as Alaska, South American and Europe.

This volume should be of particular interest to natives of Southern Illinois. It is the only published work that presents the "ancient history" of the area in such a graphic form.

'Baseball Field A Stage'

Emmet 'Red' Ormsby Meets All Kinds of Players

The baseball field is "a stage" for the players, "heroes" and "villains." Emmet B. "Red" Ormsby, retired veteran American League umpire told "freshmen" consultation Thursday morning. "We never know what's going to happen," Ormsby said. "When I went on stage to speak at Festi-Val, I had the whole audience sit up and hiss and booed and I didn't know what to think. My speech didn't take me 7. But when the crowd exploded they'd booed it all afternoon, and I took it."

On the baseball field it's a hard job to do. I've had everything from pop bottles to seat cushions thrown at me, and even live. I had police escorts to get out of the park.

"Once you have cops come to escort you out there's a game. They're supposed to protect you from the fans who didn't like a decision I'd given at it. We've just gotten off the field when one of the cops tripped me. And there I lay with dirt all over me. He didn't like that decision either."

"And you should hear all the things these players used to say to me."

But despite the trials and tribulations, "Red" has fond memories for the players he's worked with and mentioned in a deep, hazy tone, has once mentioned from 19 years of telling "Ver Out" behind the plate about personalities he met and experiences he had while with the American League from 1925 to 1941.

"The Cubs was the greatest ball player I ever worked with — perhaps the greatest that ever played ball." He said, and went on to tell the story about Babe Ruth. Bob Felt, a big leaguer just takes a little less. Lou Gehrig, Ted Williams, more chort."

Mixed Emotions Rule Midway

By Gert Pittman
Dances in distress, discordant jazz, bathing beauties, thrills, and excitement—all were featured on the Spring Festival Midway.

Chivalrous males gleefully played firemen and threw buckets of water on four bathing beauties trapped in a burning house.

Danger! Unwary onlookers were forced into booths by two sinister looking hillbilly hoodlums.

Laughter—that of a 3 year old future speedway winner as he drove his jolopy around the kiddie car track, or of a middle-aged man riding the ferris wheel with the small fry.

There were tears, too, when a 2 year old lost a hard-won balloon prize.

The more elite were entertained at the Club Mardi Gras and the Plantation Inn. The backwoods element met at the Cotton Pickling Corner or the Davy Crockett Still.

Hop-along music ruled at the "Guess the Girl and Win the Garter" booth.

The Camp Town Races furnished a Kentucky Derby touch. Professional riders—Ferris wheel, airplane for the kids, and the dance music rule—also attracted the more daring.

In the middle of all the noise, a small girl in a crumpled petticoat stood with her hand over her ears, watching with wide eyes her first, and perhaps Southern's first, Spring Festival Midway.

Willard Talks C. 'Leaves of Grass'

Dr. Charles B. Willard, associate professor at University School, discussed various editions of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" Thursday in connection with a "Leaves of Grass" exhibit currently on display there.

The display, one of many being held throughout the country, notes the 100th anniversary of the publication of "Leaves of Grass"—"probably the most important book of poetry ever published in America," according to Willard.

Phi Tau's, Chamness And Weber Grab Vaudeville Show Honors

By Patt Files

Phi Kappa Tau fraternity walked off with the first place trophy at the annual Spring Festival Vaudeville Show Friday night.

The winning act was a parody of "Swan Lake," with Jack Barban as the fragile little princess, Jack Thatcher as the villain and Bob Boyd as the hero.

The boys dressed in identical white ballet costumes tripped lightly and gaily across the stage, leaving the audience in a state of hysteria.

First place individual trophy went to Chamness and Weber for their take-off on Spike Jones "Tennessee Waltz."

Second place group trophy went to Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority for its "Come With the Wind." The highlight of the act was when Scarlet, Ruth Ann Eagan, called Tara back to mind and Jami Hall team, held the audience in suspense as they proved just what muscular coordination can do.

Rich McElfresh was one of the cutest little show girls in the "Confederate Convention" in Shryock Auditorium Friday.

The tickets were suspended in balloons and hidden under seats. Pres. Delvie W. Morris gave the kickoff speech. Pat Cook pantomimed "I Can't Say No," and the SIU Band played "Western One-Step" and "Chachonne."

Curt Hookway, emcee, played a tape recorded message from Jan Garber.

Spring Festival steering committee members and "Miss Southern" candidates were also introduced.

Baseballers Take 2 From Huskies 11-8, 8-4

Saluki baseballers took a doubleheader, 11-8 and 8-4, from Northern Friday at DeKalb to take over second in the IAC baseball race.

Northern got off to a five-run lead in the first frame of the opener. Starter Bob Myers issued three walks and gave up three hits, along with an error by Doubles to cause the damage.

Four Huskies errors, due to Vogel and Stevens and singles by Schiebel and Sandrin enabled the Salukis to push across three runs in the fourth and two more in the fifth to knot the score at 5-5.

The Salukis pushed across five rallies in the eighth and one in the ninth to come up with the win even though the Huskies scored three times in the ninth.

Bob Ems' two-hit relief pitching for more than five innings along with a homer and a single were the highlights of the nightcap.

Three Huskie errors and hits by Schiebel, Vogel, Sandrin and Wayne Williams gave the Salukis a 5-2 lead over two innings. Williams' blow was a home run with two men on base.

The Salukies scored in the sixth when they pushed across a single and then again with a pair in the ninth.

The Huskies came up with two in the eighth and Ems, who Vogel replaced, led the hitters for the day. Schiebel and Sandrin each had three sateties while Williams and Ems supplied the strong arm staff by piloting homers.

O'Brien Granted Year's Leave

Bill O'Brien, SIU football coach for the past three years, has been granted a sabbatical leave to complete work on his doctorate at Indiana University by the SIU Trustees Thursday. The leave will be from Sept. 1, 1955, to Jan. 17, 1956.

There were a number of things which influenced O'Brien requesting the leave. One is the new system of recruiting players. He said, "Southern is starting out on a new program under new leadership. Frankly, I don't know whether I could be a help or a hindrance. My loyalty is to the school first, and I think perhaps it will be best if football makes a fresh start all around."

He also realized he could not complete his doctorate by continuing coaching. A kidney stone attack which laid him low during the Rolla game last fall was another factor in his decision.

O'Brien coached spring practice this year and worked as hard as he would if he were going to handle the boys next fall.

The athletic department is now trying to find a successor for O'Brien. No definite action has been taken yet according to Carl Erickson, Director of Athletics.

Top Scoring Rifleman To Get 'Colonel's Cup'

The highest scoring member of the AFROTIC rifle team at Southern will be awarded a cup, which has been presented to the detachment by Col. Alexander R. Mac Millan.

The trophy, to be known as "The Colonel's Cup" will be retained in the school's trophy case, with the name of each year's winner to be engraved on it. The score will be figured for all competitive matches during the year.

SOUTH ILLINOIS

The Campus Crier

Northern Illinois State Teachers College has one of the outstanding athletes in the United States on the track squad. He is Floyd Smith, sensational freshman high jumper from Mt. Carroll.

His best effort so far this year is a towering 6'8 1/2". This leap ranks him second to Ernie Shelton of Southern California in college competition.

The SIU cinder squad will defend its Illinois State College crown Saturday at Bloomington.

The Salukis will be relying on the talents of both veterans and newcomers to pull them through to another crown. Sam DeNeal, Ed Hayes, Jack Soars and Capt. Vernon Sprehe in the 440, shot put, pole vault and sprints respectively.

Intramurals

Tau Kappa Epsilon won the Intramural volleyball Championship Thursday night defeating the Ramblers of the All-School League.

The TKE's won three straight games to win the best-of-three series.

The first two games went to the TKE's easily, 15-5 and 15-3. The Ramblers gave a stronger battle in the last game, but were defeated anyway, 15-11.

Final Standings:
All-School League

The 1955 Saluki cinder squad. The Salukis will defend their state college crown Saturday at Bloomington. In four meets so far this year, they have split even.

Ray White of Eastern is a safe bet to bring home the bacon in the hurdles and broad jump for the Panthers. North's Smith is almost assured to taking the high jump. Andy Halle of Northern is the defending discus champ and is a favored to repeat.

This little closing message is almost becoming a fixture in this column. I am still waiting for some sort of response to my plea for more information or criticism. I would greatly appreciate anything. G.C.
