RAM Asks Administration to Forum

★ Ad Hoc Body, Morris Meet; 5 Stay Away

Five student representatives from the Carbondale campus chose not to attend a meeting of the ad hoc committee for the study of student government, on Sunday. President Delyte W. Morris did.

With only eight of the 15 members attending, the committee passed the following resolution:

"The ad hoc committee for the study of student government remains to the campus student councils for their consideration and recommendation the following:

"That in the May, 1965 elections 24 students from Carbondale (22 representatively and 2 at large) and 16 students from Edwardsville (14 representatively and 2 at large) be elected to the SIU Student Council.

"During its term of office the Student Council will determine its internal operational structure through further study of the proposed working papers which have already been reviewed by the ad hoc committee, with any additional working paper it

Policy Restated: Morris Available

The following statement was made to the Daily Egyptian Monday afternoon by President Delyte W. Morris:

It has been my policy to make myself available to any student or group of students of the University who may have a problem or important concern which is not capable of being solved within the usual channels of organization of the University. This policy continues unchanged.

The students' statement which I have just seen is a statesman-like document.

'It's About Time'

Spectators at RAM Rally Express Interest In Action Program for Variety of Reasons

By Fred Beyer

"It's about time something like this started," said one of the crowd of students gathered in front of Morris Library as they heard leaders of the Rational Action Movement (RAM) discuss the purposes of the movement and present their students' "Bill of Rights."

"I came just to see who is behind the group and what it is for," said Terry L. McDonald as he explained his interest in the outdoor meeting.

Ron W. Hari said his interest in the movement was motivated by RAM's concern with fraternities and sororities at SIU.

"Almost every national fraternity," Hari said, "has petitioned to get on campus and Morris won't approve them. He seems to be waiting for a chance to kill them and doesn't realize their importance."

Don Ihde, assistant professor of philosophy, said that he is "always interested in seeing students interested in items of concern in which they are grasping their own responsibility."

Ihde added, as the meeting was going through a rock 'n' roll interlude, "It's a healthy show of interest in life."

Mary Ann Quick responded in more emphatic terms: "It's the greatest thing that ever happened at Southern Illinois University."

"A lot has been said about motorcycles, rocks and bad food in the University Center," concluded Gary Sans Souci, "but this is the first time that any one has been actively concerned with the personality of the student and his rights."

A graduate student who did not wish to be identified commented that "students don't have anything to say about the administration . . . the administration seems to be for only the perpetuation of faculty salaries."

Dwight Smith, a resident fellow at Thompson Point, commented that he attended the rally because: "When I read about the meeting, I was in full agreement. I wanted to get involved and this is a way I can start."

Donald E. Lukasik said he attended because he "just objects to the fact that students don't have anything to say about the way things are administered."

Proposal Made At Campus Rally

By Frank Messersmith

An invitation for an open forum discussion between the administration and members of the Rational Action Movement was made at a rally on the Morris Library lawn Monday.

The invitation was given by Bryan R. Shechmeister, a member of RAM, addressing the rally. Estimates of the size of the crowd ranged from 300 to 1,500.

Shechmeister said that it is imperative to know what the administration thinks of the proposals made by RAM.

The Monday meeting marked the first big rally by the group, and was held mainly to inform students of the plans, purpose and responsibilities of RAM. The speakers also were soliciting student support by asking them to sign petitions backing RAM.

It was stressed throughout the meeting, which lasted from 10 a.m. to about noon, that RAM is in no way trying to start a riot or violent action. According to Charles R. Novak, Intergovernment Council president and a speaker at the gathering, "this is not going to be another Berkeley."

Those listening and observing in the crowd Monday included student members of RAM, other interested students and just curious passersby. Several members of the faculty and the Security Office were also present in the group.

Aside from the speakers, entertainment was provided for the meeting by the Chessmen, a rock and roll band, and John Strawn, a member of RAM who wrote and sang

RAM Committee Names Corrected

The names of two of the 20 members of the Rational Action Movement's coordinating committee were misspelled in Saturday's Daily Egyptian.

Efforts had been made to get the correct spelling of each name. However, a member of the RAM committee refused to provide the correct spelling. As a result, the Enrollment Center was unable to find the two students on its rolls.

The two students are Earl (Rod) Rees and Michael Hartly. Rees is a student. However, according to the Enrollment Center, Hartly is not, despite claims to the contrary by a RAM spokesman.

Another member of the committee, Thomas A. Dawes, has withdrawn and been replaced by Alan C. Purvis.

Stephen E. Wilson, a member of the committee, is still a student. Due to a typographical error he was erroneously listed as a former Park, will be held at 2 p.m. today.

After services at the Thornton Funeral Home in Stonefort, the student's home town, burial will be at Salem Cemetery, near Salem.

Ozment apparently fell to his death from a 70-foot cliff in the state park. His body was found at the base of a cliff near the Makanda entrance to the park by a picker, Mike Boegler of Carbondale, about 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

The time of death was set by Jackson County Coroner Harry Flynn as some time the preceding day.

No foul play was indicated in the death, Flynn said. An autopsy has been performed and the coroner is waiting for a report in the cause of death.

Ozment lived alone at 622 N. Almond St., Carbondale. A candidate for his doctorate in botany, he received his bachelor's degree in zoology in 1961 and a master's degree in botany in 1963, both at SIU. He was the top student among those receiving bachelor's degrees in August, 1961.

He was a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Delta Phi, honorary scholastic fraternities, and holder of a National Science Foundation Cooperative Fellowship which still had two years to run.

He was born Aug. 28, 1939, and was graduated from Carrier Mills Community High School in 1957. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Ozment, live in Stonefort.

French Diplomat to Give Talk On His Nation's World Policy

Jean-Louis Mandereau, French general in Chicago since 1964, will give a public address on "French Policies in World Affairs," at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Morris Library Auditorium. The event is sponsored by the International Relations Club.

Group to Discuss Adult Education

More than 75 teachers, public aid case workers and county superintendents of public aid are expected to attend a one-day Adult Education Conference at SIU Tuesday.

Keynote speaker at the conference in the University Center will be Lee Chapman of the Illinois Board of Vocational Education and Rehabilitation.

Reports and projections of future activity in pre-vocational and vocational adult education programs in progress will be given.

Glenn E. Wills, SIU supervisor of adult education, is in charge of conference arrangements.

fessor of government and IRC advisor, describes Mandereau as a diplomat with a distinguished career. In 1948 Mandereau headed all Marshall Plan operations for France in America. In 1949 he was appointed as permanent secretary to the French delegation of the European Organization of Economic Cooperation.

Mandereau has worked in the U.N. Secretariat as director of a division of the Technical Assistance Administration. He has also served as First Secretary of the French Embassy in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, and as a consul of the French Embassy in Oslo, Norway.

Mandereau has been awarded the Croix de Guerre from his country, the Medal of Freedom of the United States, and the King's Medal by the British government.

Reviewer's Finding

'Trojan Women' Will Appeal To More Than Greek Purists

While Euripides' play "The Trojan Women" is probably of greatest interest to students of early Greek drama, the Southern Players' performance of the work is generally well-enough done to make it enjoyable to the casual playgoer.

If nothing else, even the comedy-oriented playgoer is unlikely to grow bored in the course of the 80-minute, intermissionless production.

Primary mention should go to Joanna Hogan, who, cast as Hecuba, played far and away the most dominant role in the play. While she seemed just a bit unsure of herself at the outset, and spoke her early lines with more than a little lack of feeling and direction, she soon moved into the role and seemed more to live it than play it--though with an occasional lapse into her earlier difficulty, seeming, at times, to be a little uncertain whether she was addressing her lines to the cast or the audience. Nonetheless, she did an outstanding job of handling a difficult role.

It's a pity, however, that with the several references to her being old and gray, the makeup people didn't see fit to lighten her dark hair. If they did it didn't show from the stage.

Richard Westlake, as Talthybius, did an outstanding job, coming across well as something of a messenger of doom more than a little unhappy with his task. He played his role with a depth and maturity which contributed greatly to the success of the play.

Kathy Holland, as Cassandra, also deserves of praise, putting genuine warmth and feeling into her portrayal, and evidencing, in her relatively brief time on stage, probably the brightest sparks of brilliance of the presentation.

And we musn't forget Yvonne Westbrook as Helen. She was quite a swinging chick--no wonder Menelaus went to war to get her back. Somehow, however, we had never thought of Helen as a blonde--but Miss Westbrook combined her acting talent with her other obvious attributes in a real cool portrayal enhanced by what sounded like a decidedly southern (and we don't mean Southern Illinois) accent. If any of the audience had begun to doze, we're sure she woke them up (male, at least).

Maurie Ayllon, as Andromache, also did an outstanding job, putting a life and warmth into her role. We hope the Players consider her for bigger and better roles in the future.

Richard Barton, as Menelaus, was anything but regal or Greek in the traditional sense. If his portrayal of Helen's former better half was anywhere near accurate, it is little wonder she fled to Troy seeking something better.

Generally, with the exception of the deus ex machina opening, which was almost bad enough to revive silent movies, "The Trojan Women," directed by Sherwin Abrams, was well done and well worth seeing when it returns to the Playhouse Tuesday.

Today's Weather

Partly cloudy with showers and thundershowers over 50 per cent of the area and not much temperature change. High in the 80s. According to the SIU Climatology Laboratory, the high for this date is 91, set in 1949 and 1959, and the low is 32, set in 1940.

Registrar Posts Honors List

A listing of students eligible for recognition on Scholastic Honors Day is now posted in the hall outside the Registrar's Office.

To be listed, a student must have been registered full time for fall, winter and spring quarters. Students being credited with 120 or fewer hours must have a 4.5 overall average at SIU. Students with more than 120 quarter hours must have achieved a 4.25 overall average.

Students who consider themselves eligible should check the list and report any change to the Records Section of the Registrar's Office by May 6.

Moslemi to Help With Symposium

Ali Moslemi, assistant professor of forestry, will participate in a forestry symposium on "Density: The Key to Wood Quality" at the Forest Products Laboratory in Madison, Wis., today through Thursday.

Moslemi, a specialist in wood technology, joined the SIU faculty in January.

He is preparing a wood technology testing laboratory in the Department of Forestry for teaching and research.

Eulogy for James E. Ozment

Last weekend a promising great young botanist was lost. James Eckert Ozment, second-year doctoral student in the Department of Botany, tumbled from a cliff at Giant City State Park and fell to his death 60 feet below. He had been sitting alone on the ledge, studying for an upcoming German examination and communing with the Great Outdoors, which was his first love.

It was ironic for Jim to go this way, because he was the most adept, agile, sure-footed field botanist I have ever known. He had waded the swamps of the Everglades, climbed mountains of the Great Smokies and Mexico, and camped on 1,000-foot precipices overlooking the Pacific Ocean in El Salvador.

Jim was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Ozment of the tiny southeastern Illinois village of Stonefort. His interest in nature developed early at home, and Jim spent all spare moments in his short life exploring for animals and plants.

Jim's brilliance is attested to by his scholastic achievements. He ranked No. 1 in his Carrier Mills High School graduating class in 1957 and No. 1 in his SIU graduating class in 1961, where he majored in zoology and minored in botany.

He received a master's degree in botany in 1963, writing a brilliant account of the plants which grow on limestone cliffs in Southern Illinois. Jim was currently in his second year of doctoral study in plant taxonomy at SIU. He had received two graduate fellowships from the University and a National Science Foundation Summer Fellowship. He currently was holding a two-year NSF Cooperative Fellowship.

Jim Ozment traveled extensively in search of plants and animals. He had gone on collecting trips to Mexico each of the last three years to collect plants for the University herbarium. On one of these trips he found a snake new to science. He discovered scorpions for the first time in Illinois along the limestone bluffs along the Mississippi River. During the last three years he had found seven new kinds of flowering plants for Illinois.

He was chief collector for the Illustrated Flora of Illinois project and a contributor to some of the manuscript. He had coauthored one paper with Dr. Howard J. Stains of the Zoology Department and three with me. In addition, he and I were in the midst of three other manuscripts, and he was working with Dr. W.C. Ashby of the Botany Department on still another.

Because of his quiet, unassuming nature, Jim probably was not too well known on campus, but those who had the opportunity to get to know him found him intellectual, friendly, and with a sense of humor.

Last weekend the world lost a young botanist. I lost even more. I lost a close, personal friend.

Letter to the Editor

ROTC Has a Role in Education

In reference to the letter entitled "Why Have ROTC at All?" which appeared April 22 I would like to straighten out a few misconceptions.

If the true purpose of a university is education, tell me how a voluntary ROTC program does not fit into this purpose. It is a department of the University, just as chemistry and English are. A student has the right to choose his field of education. Therefore, what right have you to refuse a field, such as AFROTC, to a student who wishes to pursue it?

The writer of the letter wonders why we tolerate an institution which decrees men's decisions by order from authority. Who is this authority? I would think it is other men who have thought out a problem and passed on their decision to a subordinate the same way it occurs in this University or any business firm. In order to achieve any degree of efficiency, a line of authority is necessary. Try running any organization without it. There are certain procedures prescribed for efficiency and standardization, but, in case you don't know, the military does not have all the answers in a book.

The Air Force could not have made the scientific and technological advances that have been made by using pre-conceived and dogmatic answers.

In effect, the letter is saying that the job of educating future AF officers and leaders, who are willing to serve and defend our country, should be left to someone else, and SIU should not serve the country in this capacity.

If you don't like ROTC on campus, go to some other school. There are some people who would like to be in the program and no one should have the right to refuse this course of education to a student who wishes to follow it.

Also, in case you have not heard, we have a Defense Department not a War Department.

Democratic Process in Action

The "Students' Bill of Rights" has now been presented and the ball is clearly in the administration court.

It wasn't a mob or angry demonstration as RAM, the Rational Action Movement, presented and explained its statement of students' rights, and responsibilities to a crowd of more than 1,000 students Monday in front of Morris Library.

It is hoped that the movement can remain a group dedicated to the resolution of these issues without, as Charles Novak, Inter-Fraternity Council president, said, turning Carbondale into "another Berkeley."

Now that the proposals have been presented and a sizable proportion of the SIU student body and faculty have expressed approval of the proposals by signing the RAM petition, a meeting should be arranged in the immediate future between RAM leaders and key administration members in an effort to arrive at the real differences between the administration and the movement.

After the issues have been determined, a public discussion of the issues between RAM and the administration should take place so that a course of action resolving the differences could be established.

It is hoped that resolutions can occur without administration squelching of the movement or use of devices, such as demonstrations, which serve only to create more problems.

It is the consensus of the Daily Egyptian editorial conference that the issues that have been presented by RAM warrant the attention and immediate consideration of the SIU student body and administration.

'CONGRATULATIONS, YOU'RE A FREE MAN'

Long Arm of the Law Weighed in Scales of Justice

By Roland Gill

Law, as a protective, corrective and regulatory factor in society is a medium as necessary as it is frightening. On the college campus law might be more necessary, perhaps, than in most areas.

But there is a condition thriving in the Carbondale legal system which merits the idea that perhaps the arm of the law is a bit too long.

This condition lies in the practices of the Carbondale Police Department in relation to students of Southern Illinois University.

I have recently been subjected to the blow from Carbondale's justice and the effects of this blow are imprinted on my records for eternity. My case is not a rare one—rather it is indicative of the condition which exists and continues unchecked and uncorrected.

I, along with two other students, was involved in a peace disturbance case at 516 S. University Ave., on April 21. A large number of students had congregated in front of the building, but when the Carbondale police stopped to investigate, that large number of students fled the scene. Only three of us were left to shoulder the blame for whatever the charge would be. We were arrested and jailed by the Carbondale Police Department. We were held responsible in circuit court for the theft of a police hat of which we knew nothing. It was later discovered that the hat was taken previously at a different location—we had nothing whatsoever to do with the hat, although we were held responsible for it.

The judge (who set the fine at $10, plus $5 costs) did not ask if we were represented by a lawyer in court—and we did not have proper representation from the University Security Police. My observations of this experience are here related.

The Carbondale Police Department must be aware of the situation in which the student dwells and makes frequent use of this situation. The department is aware that the students are, in a large percentage of the cases, their first step into the world of freedom from home rule, and as such are going to act accordingly.

But, consider the situation in which the student is arrested by the Carbondale Police Department (and this is a frequent occurrence, regardless of whether or not a law has been broken). The student is confused as to his course of rights, and no effort is made to inform him of his rights. From my observation this is how it's handled: The students are arrested. The charge is not disclosed until the students are safe within the bounds of police headquarters. They are then tossed (figuratively) into jail.

Ah, yes! The jail.... surely the slaves who were imported on the black ships had conditions no more sanitary—in fact, more comfortable,—than the poor distraught souls who pass the time in the Carbondale jail. The stench of the place is enough to nauseate a buzzard! It would be enlightening to almost anyone who hasn't been fortunate enough to spend the night there to visit the place and see the conditions some students have to endure.

After the morning coffee (served in tin cans) the students are calmly directed to the courtroom. It is 8:30 a.m. The students surely got little sleep in their accommodations for the night. They are still a bit confused over the whole matter. But their one desire is to meet their foully declared charge and leave the environment in which all these unbelievable horrors have occurred. A smiling judge asks, for a plea, and because the students are fearful of complications with parents, fearful of academic pressures which would ensue were they to go through a trial—but above all else, because the students are uninformed of their rights, they enter a plea of guilty. The fines are assessed, and the students are finally placed in the hand of those who should have had control of the case from the beginning, the University Security Police.

When an SIU student is arrested by the Carbondale Police Department, he is entitled to immediate and continuous assistance, counsel and most surely action from the Security Police. The University officers will make clear to the student his rights in the matter for which he has been arrested—again regardless of whether or not he has committed the crime for which he has been charged.

Joseph F. Zaleski, coordinator of student general affairs for the Office of Student Affairs, said the University Security Office has developed a set condition with the police departments of surrounding cities and Carbondale which dictates that the Security Police be consulted and involved when a student is arrested.

"This agreement is designed to protect the student," he said, "as well as to create an atmosphere where we can better work together."

As a victim of this blow from the arm of Carbondale's law, I am, as you might surmise, bitter. But, I am in a position to offer the proposal that this situation be corrected and to point out that there are primary steps to be taken. The most important step would be for all of you SIU students to become acquainted with the procedures of the law as it affects you (information is readily available at the Office of Student Affairs or from the Security Office) and to become aware of your rights as students of this university in relation to the law. This is imperative for all students, for, as I now realize, no one is exempt from action by the Carbondale Police.

One other note: If the Carbondale Police Department continues to arrest students and toss them in its jail, why not clean it just a little?

Prof. Moulton Chosen for Internship

Wilbur N. Moulton, associate professor of chemistry and assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, will serve as an intern in academic administration at Brown University at Providence, R.I., during the coming year under the auspices of the Ellis L. Phillips Foundation.

Jerome W. Jones, professor of history and coordinator of the liberal arts program at Winston-Salem State College, Winston-Salem, N.C., will serve internship at SIU under the same program.

Jones and Moulton are two of 11 men and two women to be selected by the foundation as persons of exceptional leadership in fields of higher education.

This is the fourth and final year of the program, which is sponsored by the Ellis L. Phillips Foundation of New York and the Edward W. Hazen Foundation of New Haven, Conn.

The institutions which will host the interns have been selected as providing the best opportunity for the individual interns to develop administrative skills and to observe and participate in the operation of the host school.

The foundations pay a stipend equal to the salary the intern was receiving during the time of his appointment plus travel and other necessary expenses.

The award winners were selected from 161 persons nominated by high administrative officials of their particular institutions to serve during the 1965-1966 academic year.

Lecture by Nevins Wednesday to Note End of Civil War

"The American as Fighter, 1861-65," a lecture by Allan Nevins, Harnsworth professor of American History at Oxford, will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the ending of the Civil War this Wednesday.

The lecture is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Morris Library Auditorium.

Admission will be by complimentary tickets available at the Department of History Office. After 7:55 p.m., those without tickets will be allowed to occupy remaining empty seats.

Nevins is generally conceded to be the principal living authority on the Civil War.

EDUCATION CONFERENCE—W. Fred Totten (left), director of the graduate training program in community education in Flint, Mich., talks with two members of the Southern Illinois University faculty, Leslie J. Chamberlain (center), director of Admissions, and, George S. Counts, distinguished professor of education, prior to community education conference held recently on the Carbondale campus.

Putting Adults in School

Community Education Development Should Be on Large Scale, Director Says

Putting the community into the school can solve many of our social problems, the director of a large community education program told an SIU audience.

W. Fred Totten, who heads the graduate training program in community education in Flint, Mich., spoke to educators and other interested persons in the Morris Library Auditorium Friday.

Totten advocated development of large-scale community education programs, using existing school facilities. Schools could be used during the evenings, and weekends, and during vacations to educate adults, including those in their 70s under Totten's plan.

The program at Flint is used by people throughout the United States and from foreign countries as a model laboratory for study, observations and research in the field of community education.

"A community education movement which should be supported by colleges and universities is important," Totten said, "because it will help with such problems as poverty, school dropouts, illiteracy, mental health, and attitudes of bigotry, hatred, intolerance, and inertia."

"With an educated community we could cure most of these problem," he said.

"We have the people, the Bill of Rights, and enough wealth. Our task is to find ways for these resources to help with the problems." To approach the job, he said, "education must take a broad look at the task."

Totten said community education puts the home, school, and community together for a

Journalists Name Scroggins as Workshop Head

Albert T. Scroggins, dean-elect of the School of Journalism at the University of South Carolina, has been named director of the second annual Journalism Administration and Education Workshop.

Scroggins, currently on the faculty of the University of South Florida in Tampa, was named to the post at the wind-up of the first two-day workshop here Saturday.

Approximately 60 educators and administrators from 19 states took part in the first workshop. Verne E. Edwards Jr., chairman of the Department of Journalism at Ohio Wesleyan University, was the director.

The workshop was devoted to discussions of problems of administration as well as teaching journalism in colleges and universities.

De Gaulle Rebuffed

Bonn Claims Right To Nuclear Arms

BONN, Germany (AP) — Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder asserted Monday West Germany has a right to take part in nuclear deterrence against Soviet attack. Last week Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said he and President Charles de Gaulle of France had agreed that West Germany should not have atomic arms.

So far, plans of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have been to incorporate West Germany in a system of Atlantic nuclear defense — but not to let the Germans have their own weapons.

In an exclusive statement to the Associated Press,

Schroeder said this problem has to be settled if the alliance is to hold together.

He said the West German government is ready to talk with the Russians about European security and a peace treaty whenever any chance for success appears. He did not mention what was once a West German condition for such talks: that they must lead to reunification of Germany through free elections.

Quake Hits Capital Of El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A killer quake jolted this Central American capital and two neighboring towns before dawn Monday. Government officials said 43 persons were killed and about 300 were injured.

Many homes were destroyed and at least 4,000 were damaged. The quake cracked part of the runway of San Salvador's airport and damaged the new multimillion-dollar terminal building.

Klan Leader Attends Trial In Alabama

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — With a Ku Klux Klan leader at the defense table, a young Alabamian went on trial for his life Monday in the slaying of a white woman freedom marcher.

The defendant is Collier Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, a self-employed auto mechanic. He is the first of three defendants to go to trial on first-degree murder charges in the March 25 shooting of Viola Gregg Liuzzo.

Conviction carries a penalty of life imprisonment or death, assessed by the jury.

"I'm here in the interest of seeing that these individuals get a fair trial," Robert M. Shelton Jr. told newsmen upon his arrival at the 133-year-old Lowndes County Courthouse. He is imperial wizard of the United Klan of America, Inc.

At issue at the trial's outset was President Johnson's castigation of the Klan during a televised announcement of the arrest of the three defendants.

The defense called the President's remarks prejudicial to a fair trial. Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard overruled a defense motion for dismissal of the murder charge.

Mrs. Liuzzo, 39, took part with 25,000 white and Negro civil rights demonstrators in a march that climaxed a highway trek from Selma to Montgomery.

U.S. Asks Allies For Help in War

LONDON (AP) — The United States charged Monday the Vietnamese war is being escalated by the Communists from guerrilla fighting to head-on warfare.

With this accusation came an urgent plea from the Americans for more military help from allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to enable hard pressed South Viet Nam to roll back the Northern Communist invasion.

But France and Pakistan, having chosen to be neutral in the conflict, brushed aside the American call for help made by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

New Zealand's Defense Minister, Dean Eyre, said his government would study the American request carefully. Australia last week announced it was sending an infantry battalion to South Viet Nam.

Philippine Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, Librado Cayco, without committing his country, said the struggle in Viet Nam "involved all civilized nations."

Paratroopers Arrive in Saigon, Boosting U.S. Forces to 36,000

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Sixty U.S. Army paratroopers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade arrived in Saigon Monday as the vanguard of 3,500 assigned to security duties that will free Vietnamese guards for combat. The rest are due in a few days.

The paratroopers, the first U.S. Army ground unit committed to the war, will boost American strength in South Viet Nam to about 36,000 men. They were ordered in from Okinawa.

Two battalions of infantry, a battalion of artillery and the equivalent of one battalion of support units are involved.

U.S. officials said the paratroopers, like the 8,500 Marines on duty at the Da Nang airbase and the Hue Phu Bai area in the north, will be used to "increase security at key installations and press the war more effectively."

Cambodia Breaks Ties With U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cambodia broke diplomatic relations with the United States Monday, raising doubts if it will be possible now to hold a nine-nation international conference to guarantee its neutrality.

The State Department, expressing regret at Cambodia's action, made it immediately clear the United States still is prepared to participate in a Cambodian conference.

The conference, which both Britain and the Soviet Union favor, has run into objections from Communist China and North Viet Nam which do not want the Vietnamese situation to be discussed there.

PROTECTIVE ZONE - The rectangular area indicates the international zone established by U.S. troops for refugees in Santo Domingo to protect them from civil war fighting. The supply corridor was secured about half a mile north of New City, the rebel stronghold. (AP Photo)

Assure Flow of Supplies

U.S. Troops Establish Corridor, Push Dominican Rebels to Sea

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) - U.S. Marines and paratroopers cut a supply corridor across the remaining exposed edge of the rebel stronghold in Santo Domingo Monday and left the insurgents with their backs to the sea.

U.S. and Organization of American States diplomats, along with the nuncio of Pope Paul VI, pressed their peace efforts inside the stronghold of rebels demanding the return of ex-President Juan Bosch. They were seeking new contacts with a three-man military junta established to keep Bosch out.

Peace mission sources said the negotiations met resistance on both sides in the talks Sunday and Monday. However, they did not describe their efforts as deadlocked and still held hope for a peaceful settlement of the civil war that has split this beleaguered capital for nine days.

The announced purpose of the corridor sliced by the Marines and 82nd Airborne Division paratroopers was to assure a flow of supplies to an international safety zone set up by U.S. forces for the protection of foreigners who desired it.

Up to now, supplies had to be flown across the city to the international zone by helicopters.

U.S. military spokesmen called the corridor push a linkup operation, with the Marines spearheading at midnight from the eastern part of the city and the paratroopers from the west.

The spokesmen said they secured a corridor 2 1/2 miles long about half a mile north of the rebel stronghold in Ciudad Nueva.

Pro-Bosch rebel leaders claim they have 18,000 civilians and military men under arms in Ciudad Nueva.

More U.S. troops poured into the San Isidro air base as President Johnson ordered American military strength boosted to 14,000 men. He said Sunday night the action was taken because the pro-Bosch revolt had fallen under the control of Communist conspirators directed from abroad.

OAS Secretary-General Jose A. Mora of Uruguay and his five-man peace commission said the Bosch rebels and the junta had accepted them as a mediating body.

U.S. Intervention Policy Gets Varied Reaction From Latins

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States urged Latin-American nations Monday to send troops to the Dominican Republic in support of President Johnson's announced stand against a Communist takeover there.

Congressional leaders of both parties generally rallied behind Johnson's action.

The Organization of American States delayed a decision on the request for an international military force after a closed meeting of the general committee representing foreign ministers.

Argentina and Brazil were reported to have approved the U.S. request, while Chile, Venezuela and one or two other countries raised questions.

In Montevideo, Uruguay's ruling government council instructed its representative at the OAS to demand withdrawal of U.S. troops from the Dominican Republic.

High Court Sanctions Travel Ban to Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court ruled Monday the secretary of state has the power to bar U.S. citizens from going to Communist Cuba - or other areas - in peacetime as well as wartime.

The tribunal rejected a contention by Louis Zemel, a Middlefield, Conn., ski resort operator, that a refusal to permit him to travel to Cuba violated his constitutional rights. He said he wanted to go to become a better informed citizen.

"The right to speak and publish does not carry with it the unrestrained right to gather information," Chief Justice Earl Warren said for the 6-3 majority.

The court left unanswered whether criminal penalties can be imposed on those who go to restricted areas without valid passports.

The dissenters contended Congress never has specifically authorized the secretary to bar travel in peacetime.

One Justice Hugo L. Black, said a 1926 law on which Monday's decision hinged gave the executive branch broad and constitutional lawmaking power reserved for Congress. The law says "the secretary of state may grant and issue passports - under such rules as the president shall designate and prescribe for and on behalf of the United States."

Justice William O. Douglas, joined by Justice Arthur J. Goldberg in another dissent, quoted the late Pope John XXIII - saying the world "is filled with Communist thought; and Communist regimes are on more than one continent. They are part of the world spectrum; and if we are to know them and understand them, we must mingle with them."

The State Department has ruled the only persons who can go to Cuba are those whose travel might serve this country's best interest - such as newsmen and businessmen with previously established dealings.

Rational Action Movement Outlines Students' Position

Here is a statement of student rights and responsibilities issued by RAM:

We students of the Carbondale Campus of Southern Illinois University believe that certain rights and their implicit responsibilities are necessary prerequisites in order for us to:

1. Define clearly our position in the University community;
2. Lend status and dignity to our existence in that community;
3. Participate fully and effectively as students in that community and,
4. Allow for a free and creative self-development as individuals in the larger community of man.

We believe these rights to include:

1. The right to define, establish, and operate a Student Government free from unilateral changes in the charter which defines its organization and competence;
2. The right to adequate procedural safeguards in alleged violations of University rules and regulation, these safeguards including, but not limited to (a) hearing by a board of peers, (b) a defined appellate system free from unilateral administrative interference, (c) freedom from prosecution by the University for actions which are subject to civil or criminal prosecution;

3. The right to establish our own publications and to conduct them free from censorship or of faculty or administrative determination of content or editorial policy. Prevention of violation of civil or criminal laws against libel, pornography, or indecency, does not constitute censorship or determination of content or editorial policy.

4. The right to freedom of expression, as individuals and organizations, in the classroom, in the University community, and in the larger community of man and to be free to promote the causes we support by distributing literature, circulating petitions, picketing, or by taking any other peaceful action on or off the campus;

5. The right to establish what activity fee we shall pay and to have final authority in the administration and allocation of these fees.

6. The right to be informed in writing of all rights, regulations and responsibilities pertaining to student life, and to be informed of any proposed changes therein prior to their final approval.

The enumeration in this document of specific rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage other rights retained by the students.

Simon Addresses RAM Meeting, Praises Attempt to Gain Rights

By Robert Smith

Here are some quotes from speakers at the Rational Action Movement Rally held in front of Morris Library Monday morning:

William Simon, instructor in sociology: "The buildings you see are going up are not a sign of the University's growth; you gathered here this morning are the signs of its growth."

"When I came here two years ago I was given an idea that the students were provincial and that the University had to try to pry them loose. I don't think it is true any longer. I think maybe the people who were earlier fighting the provincialism are now the provincials themselves."

"If the faculty would think," Simon continued, "they would take pride in the fact that they have developed in students a sense of competence to

Edwardsville's Student President Supports RAM

"From what I have heard and read of the Rational Action Movement and from acquaintance with the leaders of the movement, it appears to me that RAM has good, well-informed leadership," Michael Hurt, president of the Edwardsville campus student body commented.

"Their aims and views are shared by student leaders at Edwardsville, and Edwardsville students have been expressing discontent with many of the same University policies."

"If RAM is the only way to get serious concern and consideration for student opinion and desires, then RAM is necessary."

"I do feel that Vice President (Ralph W.) Ruffner and (Robert W.) MacVicar have gone out of their way to work with students. Pat (Micken) and I have been able to present our views and get consideration since their arrival," Hurt said.

"However, administrative processes are slow and change is not initiated rapidly. Student discontent in situations such as the final exam procedure and General Studies has reached a climax."

"The immediate action which is strongly requested by students now should have been honored long before," Hurt remarked.

attempt to gain their rights."

Pat Micken, student body president: "There has been a lot of talk of open doors. I've been through a lot of open doors and there is not much inside for us."

Citing a specific case which led to "inefficient student government this year," Micken pointed to the All-University Council's ad hoc committee "which we had no choice in forming. I withdrew from the committee because I didn't want to help perpetrate a hoax on the students."

Sheldon Sklare, a graduate student in sociology: "What has been born this week is a consciousness of ourselves as responsible citizens. The administration has preempted autocratically...what we feel to be student rights everywhere, namely the right to take an intellectual part in making those decisions which directly affect our lives."

"We must convince the administration that their policies against the ideas of a free, self-determining society."

may require. The Student Council shall have the duty to complete a final working paper for student government at SIU."

"The ad hoc committee requests reactions to the above recommendations from the present campus student councils so that a final recommendation can be made to President Morris and the University Council."

Members from Carbondale who refused to attend were Pat Micken, student body president; Don Grant, student body vice president; George J. Paluch, Pamela Newberry and Micki Goldfeather.

Small Group Housing Complex Dates Back to 1952 Meeting

By Tina Nelson
(Fourth in a Series on Residence Areas)

Because of poor housing conditions for Southern's fraternities and sororities, the Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils of SIU met in 1952 with President Delyte W. Morris and I. Clark Davis, dean of student affairs, to discuss the possibility of University-owned housing for Greek letter organizations.

The result of this first meeting was the Small Group Housing complex, located west of campus.

Much planning went into the construction of Small Group Housing. A committee composed of the Office of Student Affairs and fraternity and sorority officers made specifications concerning the physical plan which the houses have today.

Dormitory, kitchen, and dining room plans were all proposed by this committee.

Funds were then borrowed from the federal government and plans were laid for two phases of building, the first to be completed in 1958, the second in 1962.

The first groups to move into the area in the fall of 1959 were Tau Kappa Epsilon and Sigma Pi.

Delta Zeta and Delta Chi moved in during January, 1960, followed by Sigma Kappa, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Theta Xi.

In 1962 when the second stage of building was completed, Alpha Kappa Alpha, Kappa Alpha Psi, Alpha Phi Alpha, Phi Kappa Tau, and Sigma Tau Gamma moved into their houses in the complex.

International House was also filled in 1962.

Hours for women and all other university housing rules apply to the residents of Small Group Housing. Cleanliness standards are set by the University, and internal and external maintenance of the houses is performed by the University.

Each house has a resident adviser, but such things as maid service and internal housekeeping are up to the discretion of each individual group.

When the fraternities and sororities were housed off campus, food was purchased from local dealers on the customary cash-and-carry basis, according to a cook in one of the houses. Now food is purchased from a wholesale food dealer and delivered to the houses, and dairy products are purchased on a cooperative basis.

Housing plans for fraternities and sororities vary in different universities. Some universities lease only the land to the group, while others, such as Bowling Green and Southeast Missouri have houses split into living quarters for several groups with a common dining area.

At Northwestern University and the University of Illinois, each fraternity and sorority has complete ownership of both house and land.

"The trend is for the university to provide physical facilities for fraternities and sororities," commented Elizabeth Mullins, coordinator of student affairs. Miss Mullins added that the plan is relative to each individual situation.

Two transfer students were asked to give their opinions on the plan here at Southern as compared with those on other campuses.

Virginia L. Tikkala, member of Delta Zeta Sorority and transfer from Parsons College said, "At Parsons, our sorority house was owned by the college, but we could paint and redecorate as we wanted. Our house had no kitchen facilities. I prefer the dining facilities here at Southern, but I prefer the decorating policy at Parsons."

Thomas L. McClelland, a transfer from the University of Illinois and member of Delta Chi fraternity, commented, "Everything at the University of Illinois is owned by the fraternity. A private house is better if the financial setup is adequate, but there are more responsibilities, as well as more freedoms."

Today there are 15 buildings in the Small Group Housing area, which house approximately 600 members of 13 fraternities and sororities.

SIU Has No Plans at Present To Limit Fall Registration

Applications for admission are running two months ahead of last year's rate, but there is no plan to close the doors to qualified students, says Leslie J. Chamberlin, director of admissions.

Chamberlin said that even though there is a big increase in applications, every effort is being made to process them quickly to notify applicants of their acceptance or rejection. He said that SIU entrance requirements have, in the past, successfully spread new student enrollment throughout the school year, while year-around scheduling of classes—including night and Saturday sessions—has enabled the University to meet demands of the heavy enrollment surge.

"We have no plans at this time to limit fall quarter registration," Chamberlin said, "except as it already is limited by our entrance requirements."

Under SIU's admissions policies, Illinois high school graduates in the lower third of their graduating classes and out-of-state students in the lower 60 per cent are not eligible for fall quarter admission.

Chamberlin said applications for the summer quarter also are running far ahead of last year, but urged that students planning to enroll in the fall consider summer registration. In any event, he said, those planning to apply for admission who have not done so should file their applications immediately.

Tentative admission can be granted on the basis of seven semesters of high school work, he said, with final semester records to be supplied later.

San Jose Sweeps Judo Meet; Southern Team Takes Second

The Judo National Championships were started four years ago and since that time San Jose State College has completely dominated it.

Saturday was no exception as the little California college won its fourth straight championship by scoring 57 out of a possible 60 points. The only division that they lost was the 195 pound class which was won by SIU's Ron Hoffman.

Hoffman's finish helped Southern end as a strong second with 30 points, followed by Ohio State, Virginia Military Institute and the University of Puerto Rico with 13 points.

Field Trip Planned By Dairy Class

Howard H. Olson, associate professor of animal industries, and members of his dairy production class, will be on a field trip Wednesday to Saturday to visit dairy farms.

Those making the trip will include:

James E. Benz, William J. Carter, Olan Copple, Ronald L. Tretter, William H. Brass.

Donald J. Dawson Jr., Keith W. Howland, Robert A. Godke, David Q. Jackson, Dean F. Doughty.

David D. Breckenridge, Paul E. Mealiff, David J. Worthington, Bob E. Epplin, William J. Debatin.

Phillip L. Johnson, John H. Spears, Christopher, Mc-Millen.

The Air Force Academy, University of Minnesota, Knox College, Texas Western University and Washington University rounded out the top 10.

The battle for the grand champion saw Hoffman finish third behind Yuzo Koga and Howard Fish both from San Jose.

Motohisa Suzuki, Roger Bloodworth, Jerry Frericks, and Jim Peterson were other scorers for Southern.

Suzuki was second in the 165 pound division while Bloodworth and Frericks were third in the 135 and heavy-weight division respectively. Peterson finished fourth in the 150 pound division.

4 Evansville Buffs Win in Autocross

A group of visiting sports car enthusiasts from Evansville, Ind., won first places in four of six classes in an autocross staged Sunday afternoon by the Grand Touring Auto Club of Carbondale. The event was held on the Murdale Shopping Center parking lot.

In addition to the Evansville victories, another first place went to a driver from East Alton. Only area entrant to win a first was Mrs. Frances Walker of Murphysboro, with the best time in the women's class driving an MG Midget.

A total of 37 drivers competed in the test of highspeed driving skill. It was the largest event yet held by the sports car club.

The club plans its next meeting on Thursday at 8 p.m. at Epps Motor Co., on Route 13, east of Carbondale. A rally is planned later this month.

You meet the nicest people on a Honda

Maybe it's the incredibly low price. Or the fantastic mileage. It could be the precision engineering. Or the safety and convenience features. But most likely it's the fun. Evidently nothing catches on like the fun of owning a Honda. Join in. The first step is a demonstration ride. Why not today?

Lumsden Out After Making Semifinal Bid

Coach Carl Sexton's top singles player, Lance Lumsden advanced the farthest of any SIU tennis player in the Buccannear Invitational Tennis Tournament, but it wasn't far enough to win. Lumsden reached the quarterfinals Saturday at the tournament in Corpus Christi, Tex., but lost to the top-seeded player in the tournament, Antonio Palafox, in two sets 6-1, 6-2.

Lumsden had previously defeated Don Fuller 6-1, 6-1, Ernie Rodriguez 6-2, 6-2 and teammate Jose Villarete 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 in opening matches. Villarete, only a freshman, got as far as the third round by beating Mike Wiel in the first round and Billy McCandless in the second by identical 6-0, 6-1 scores.

Thad Ferguson, SIU's number two player, and Vic Seper, number three, each got to the second round.

Ferguson defeated Gene Templeton 6-2, 6-0, but lost to the fourth-seeded player, Gabino Palafox 6-1, 16-14. Seper defeated Fulton Liss in the first round 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, but then lost to George Ken 6-3, 7-5.

Larry Oblin, number four player, lost in the first round to Miguel Osuna 6-2, 6-4.

Two other SIU freshmen who competed, Mike Sprenglemeyer and Johnny Yang, each lost to opponents in the first round.

Sprenglemeyer lost to Woods Mathews 6-4, 13-15, 6-3 and Yang lost in two sets to John Phelps 7-5, 6-3.

The next match for the racket men will be this weekend when they will compete in the varsity-freshmen-alumni tournament at the University tennis courts.

5 Chem Students Get Science Grant

Five SIU chemistry students have been selected to work with faculty researchers under a program sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Four of those selected will begin work this summer, and will spend more than 40 hours a week on faculty assigned laboratory research work. The research, for which each will receive a stipend of $600, will be of the same type expected of masters degree students.

Those selected are Joseph P. Hoppesch, Decatur; Mary A. DiPietro, Marion; Robert F. Hanzlik, Chicago, and Alice W. Chin, Hong Kong. A fifth student, John A. Waicukauski of Carbondale, will begin work in the fall.

Albert L. Caskey, associate professor of chemistry, is in charge of the research participation program. He said two other openings are available for students meeting rigid qualifications.

2 Botany Students To Give Seminar

Charles Korunka, graduate student in the Department of Botany, will speak on the historical aspects of fireblight at a botany seminar at 4 p.m. Wednesday. John M. Dabler, graduate student, will also give a talk on the importance of tobacco mosaic virus crystallization.

Saluki Golfers Avenge Setback, Spill Aces; Billikens Also Victims in Triangular Meet

Southern's golf team got its revenge at the expense of Evansville and added to the victory celebration by defeating St. Louis University Friday at the Crab Orchard Golf Course.

In defeating the Aces, 101/2-41/2, and the Billikens, 12-3, the Salukis as a team shot a 438 series, the lowest of the year.

The double victories upped the golfers' record to 13-5 and atoned for the one stroke defeat they suffered at Evansville three weeks ago.

The Muehleman brothers, Bill and Tom, shot the two low scores in the meet as both came up with a one under par 71 for 18 holes.

Bill shot a one over par 37 for the first nine holes but it was his low round of 34 on the back nine that enabled him to defeat Evansville's Darrell Jackson and St. Louis' Joe Pearce.

Tom shot a 35 on the first nine and a 36 on the second nine, and defeated Rick Martin of Evansville and Rich Hummel of St. Louis.

In the first match John Krueger's 74 tied him with Gene Vanstone of Evansville but it was good enough to defeat Dick Pearce of St. Louis.

The second match found Le-on McNair with a 75 losing to the Aces' Dave Mead but winning over John Hartmann. John Phelps in the fifth match shot a 73 and defeated both Mike Hoffman of Evansville and Dave Overhauft of St. Louis.

The sixth match found Southern's Jerry Kirby with a 74 defeating Manie Marquord of St. Louis. Evansville did not have a man entered in this match.

Southern will be back in action today as the golfers travel to St. Louis to meet Washington University at the Norwood Country Club. The Bears have beaten St. Louis University this year and currently own a 9-5 record.

$50 Fine Is End Of Scooter's Trail

A freshman from La Grange lost his motor vehicle privileges after he was fined in Jackson County Circuit Court for reckless driving.

Ludwig Skog, 23, was fined $50 and $5 in costs on the charge, according to a spokesman for the Student General Affairs Office.

The spokesman said Skog was ticketed when he tried to outrun a police car with his motor scooter after he was ordered to stop.

Crippled Trackmen to Battle Powerful Lincoln U. Here

SIU's depleted track squad began bracing itself for another powerful foe Monday, while still feeling the sting of Saturday's 108 1/2 to 31 1/2-point loss to powerful Kansas.

The Salukis will be hosts to Lincoln University Saturday night in their second home meet of the season.

SIU meanwhile will have to try to reassemble forces this week after losing the services of high jumper Tom Ashman Saturday.

The junior from Murphysboro pulled a back muscle although he won one of the four events that the Salukis nabbed, the high jump. The injury is expected to keep Ashman out of action for about a month.

Another Saluki also became a big question mark. Middle-distance runner Gary Carr continued to be bothered by sore legs. The junior from Mt. Vernon, Ind., won the 440-yard dash but was edged out in a photo-finish, as he anchored the Salukis' mile relay team.

Kansas won the event although both teams were clocked in 3:16.1. In the relay Robin Coventry was timed in 49.5, Bill Cornell in 50.1, Jerry Fendrich in 48.9 and Carr in 47.6.

Cornell turned in the best performance for the Salukis with a 4:09.9 mile in his first try at the distance, outdoors this season. Considering the strong wind, the effort was equivalent to about a 4:04, according to coach Lew Hartzog.

Hurdler Herb Walker also looked good. The senior from Springfield, who was sidelined most of the indoor season with a leg injury, won the 330-yard hurdles with a 39.5 despite running against strong wind down the straightaway.

Ross Franklin turned in one of his best performances in the triple jump with a leap of 43 feet 9 inches to finish third.

The Salukis' bid for a national record in the freshman four-mile relay fell short, however. Kansas ran away from the SIU quartet winning in 17:21.8 compared to the Salukis 17:52. The national record is 17:11.

tie for third in the high jump; Joe Beachell, second in the javelin and Bob Ingstad, third in the same event.

Three meet records were set, all by Kansas. Glen Mar-

Other SIU finishers were Fendrich, third in the 440; Coventry, third in the 100 and second in the 220; Joe Janezic, tin set new standards in the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 4 3/4 inches and in the triple jump with a 46-10 1/2 leap. Tom Furma set the other standard with a javelin throw of 226 feet, 8 1/4 inches.

Seventh-Inning Rally Gives Salukis 11 - 3 Victory Over Arkansas State

SIU's baseball Salukis came roaring back for the third time in a week Monday afternoon to notch their 10th victory of the season, an 11-3 conquest of Arkansas State College.

The Salukis exploded for seven runs in the seventh inning to break a 3-3 pitchers' duel and send the Indians home with their third loss on a four-game tour.

Washington University defeated Arkansas State in a single game over the weekend, the Indians split with the St. Louis University. The Salukis had won their only encounter against Southeast Missouri State 13-8 Friday.

Indian righthander Bill Perkins held the Salukis pretty much in check until the seventh, although the Salukis picked up a pair of runs in the first on a triple by Kent Collins and a sacrifice by Al Peludat, threatened in the third, and got one in the sixth.

But everything broke loose in the beginning as the Salukis ripped three Arkansas pitchers for five hits.

Consecutive singles by Gene Vincent, Bob Bernstein, and hot-hitting Al Peludat were the big blows along with a two-run single by catcher Bill Merrill.

Salukis' ace John Hotz went the route to win his fifth game in six starts. The righthander, pitching with his parents in the stands, got stronger as he progressed. He didn't allow a hit after the fifth and scattered only four all afternoon.

Peludat, Collins and Merrill provided the artillery, collecting 10 of the Salukis' 13 hits, with Peludat leading the way with two triples, a pair of singles and a sacrifice fly.
