Housing Office Hearing Complaints

By Tim Ayers

Tom Schuneman and Deb Frailey moved into their off-campus apartment on Sept. 19. It took only a few minutes to discover that something was wrong.

They had no water. They called their landlord and informed him of the situation. He assured them that the problem would be corrected immediately.

About two weeks later, they still had no water and were tired of going to friends' houses for baths and to filling stations for toilets.

They took their complaint to the off-campus housing office. There, Bill Niemeyer, the area head for apartments and trailers, heard their complaint and gave the landlord a call.

He said that he wanted the situation corrected by 4 p.m. the next day.

The problem wasn't solved by the next day, but a contractor was hired and Schuneman and Frailey's front yard is now being dug up in a search for the rotted pipes.

As Niemeyer explains it, this is only one of a large number of problems that his office is asked to resolve.

His office handles complaints from students, landlords, interested and disinterested parties.

Sometimes the cases demand immediate action, but often it takes a good deal of time.

When the off-campus housing office receives complaints it conducts an investigation and questions the other parties involved.

Then often a deadline is set for the situation to be corrected.

In the case of student versus landlord, the property owner is urged to correct any situation detrimental to the student's environment.

Should the situation not be resolved, the office will help the student void his contract if he wishes and even help relocate the student if necessary.

If the situation is turned around and it's the landlord filing a complaint against the student, officials will investigate the situation and, if necessary, recommend disciplinary action against the student.

Niemeyer explained that the official's job is very subjective and he relies primarily on arbitration. Sometimes just getting the two warring parties into the same room for a calm conference can settle the situation.

But soon automation will even hit the complaint department.

Dennis Balgemann, off-campus housing coordinator, explained that a system was now being developed to assure that a record is kept of the complaints.

In the future the complaints will be classified according to type. It will be noted who is making the complaint and whom the complaint is against.

Senate Schedules Action on Housing, Free School Issues

The Campus Senate tonight is scheduled to hear a resolution calling for the immediate withdrawal of University administrative authority from student housing regulations.

The resolution, to be submitted by Al Blumenthal, west side dorm senator, for Ray Lenzi, student body president, states that "the student government, not the administration is the government of the students. . . therefore. . . the Student Senate denies the legitimacy of the administration's authority in this area and calls for its immediate withdrawal from the area of student housing regulations."

The resolution recommends that student government evaluate all student housing with the power of recommendation, not approval or disapproval.

Also scheduled on the agenda is the reading of a resolution calling for an investigation into the student government sponsored Free School.

The resolution, drafted by Gary Krischer, east-side non-dorm senator, is footnoted, Krischer said, by a letter to the editor which appeared in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian. The letter questioned Free School's usefulness to the University by questioning several of its particular activities.

Krischer said he would request the chairmanship of the investigating committee. He served on the Free School executive board during the 1966-67 school year.

He said if the resolution is passed and the committee finds that the allegations against Free School are true, he would recommend that the committee ask for senate withdrawal of supporting funds.

A bill requesting that Morris Library be opened "continually every week, except for vacation periods, from 2 p.m., Sunday till 11 p.m. Friday," is also scheduled on the agenda.

The bill, drafted by Bard Grosse, west-side non dorm senator, was scheduled for discussion at last week's senate meeting but the discussion was postponed due to a time shortage.

Jerry Finney, Thompson Point senator, has a bill scheduled which calls for the student body president's executive assistant being put on student government's student payroll.

Daniels Out; Mandel Named Commissioner

Ray Lenzi, president of the student body, has tentatively appointed Larry Mandel, a freshman from Milwaukee, to replace Rick Daniels, a senior from Warson Woods, Mo., as student government housing commissioner.

Lenzi said the appointment came after he had been unable to reach Daniels this quarter. He expressed concern over the fact that Daniels has in his possession all the complaints pertaining to student housing conditions and pricing.

Lenzi voiced his confidence in the new commissioner. He said Mandel had been a real estate broker in Wisconsin "...highly qualifying him for the position."

Gus Bode

Gus says student government workers could hardly be expected to handle off campus housing when they can't even find the complaints sent in—or the guy who was placed in charge of them.

Study for New Medical School Includes SIU as Possibility

Wall Street Sidewalks Approved

The City Council approved construction of two sidewalks on South Wall street at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Two students were killed and another critically injured when struck by car as they walked in Wall Street Sept. 22.

Details of the sidewalk motion, as well as other City Council business, are on page 10.

Board of Higher Education has ordered that a study be made to decide if another medical school is needed and where one should be located.

Dr. Randolph Tucker, director of research for the site feasibility study sponsored by the board, will reportedly visit Decatur and Champaign-Urbana this month.

Bianchi said the board will make the decisions concerning establishing and locating a school after the study is completed.

Presently all five medical schools in Illinois are located in Cook County.

According to Bianchi there are conflicting notions from educators and those in the medical profession as to what type of area is most desirable for a medical school.

"Educators prefer a medical school be placed in an area with a high concentration of population," he said. "Doctors want such schools to be isolated from these centers."

Cities studied or to be studied include East St. Louis, Peoria, Rochford, Springfield, Decatur, and Champaign-Urbana.

Bianchi said a decision to locate the school at SIU, should it ever come, would not necessarily mean the Carbondale campus. The Edwardsville campus is also a possible site.

The study, which was approved by the General Assembly in 1965, began last October. Questionnaires have been mailed to members of the medical profession, and administrators have been consulted by the group.

New Police Methods Policy To Govern Action of Officers

Richard Wilhelmy, director of Public Safety in Carbondale, has issued a statement of policy on Police Methods of Enforcing the Law. The official actions of the officers of the Police Department will be governed by this policy, according to Wilhelmy.

The new director emphasized that all officials will enforce the law and perform their other duties impersonally and impartially. The policy states that all violations of this policy will result in prompt disciplinary action and, if warranted, even criminal action against the department member.

The new policy added that police officials shall be diligent in protecting all citizens in the exercise of their civil rights so long as their conduct does not violate the law.

Wilhelmy said that it is the responsibility of the department to prevent crime, insofar as possible, to search out violators of the law and arrest them and also to present the facts of the case to the prosecuting agencies.

"It will be necessary to assign officers for police duty to those places and times where experience shows the need to be most prevalent," said Wilhelmy.

The policy also stated that all persons who furnish the police with information or who make complaints will receive courteous and serious attention. All complaints will be evaluated carefully and investigated thoroughly.

Although the police do not make the laws, they are obliged to enforce regulations as called for by laws and ordinances for the sole purpose of preserving public order, peace and safety, Wilhelmy said. This will be done in the public interest within the framework of the law, the public safety director concluded.

Off-Campus Housing Listens To Student, Landlord Grips

This information will be turned over to computer programmers for processing and storage.

Then a periodic print will give a profile of the types of problems that are frequent in a certain area.

Balgemann said it will also give a clear picture of which landlords and which students are the most frequent causes of complaints.

There will also be a more finely developed system of reporting the complaints, Balgemann said.

A copy of the complaint will be sent to the party against whom it is made and an answer will be requested.

Balgemann said he thought most of the problems could be settled on an area level.

However, he hopes to set up a committee by the end of this quarter to deal with appeals.

This committee would be made up of off-campus management, students and faculty.

Balgemann said he hopes the student government will be able to help him in the appointing of students.

The committee would also be able to help in other areas, such as the setting up of standards for damage assessments.

Balgemann indicated that the off-campus housing office was in for some hard work.

"We've identified the problems and the assets; now we have to identify the solutions," he said.

Those Library Hours

Extending Morris Library hours to a round-the-clock basis during the week, even for only a trial period, could prove embarrassing to the Campus Senate.

West Side Non-Dorm Senator Bard Grosse has proposed that library hours be extended on a trial basis for the remainder of the quarter. The proposal will be aired again at Wednesday night's meeting of the Campus Senate.

Grosse has said that such a change in library hours would permit students living in poor study conditions to utilize the facilities and research materials in the library 24 hours a day. If adopted, the program would be evaluated at the end of the quarter.

Ferris S. Randall, director of Morris Library, however, feels that the experiment would not be worth the effort to hire additional workers to keep the library open. He said that he would be forced to ask the administration for a student pay raise because civil service employees probably would not tolerate extended hours.

Last spring quarter Morris Library extended its hours from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m. every night two weeks prior to finals week.

Randall said that towards the end of each night, the library was cleared of most students well before the extended closing time.

If students do not take advantage of extended library hours before and during finals week, how can you expect them to take advantage of a round-the-clock service during the entire quarter?

If students must use the research facilities at the library, they can certainly use them before the 11 p.m. closing time. If conditions are not conducive to study in off-campus living areas, the Housing Office should be asked to re-evaluate conditions and to appoint additional resident managers or resident fellows to see that order is kept.

Randall said that he would not refuse to extend library hours if the Senate proposal is approved by the administration, but he feels at the same time that there is little justification for such a proposal.

The Campus Senate has postponed consideration of the proposal to this week's Senate meeting. The Senate should consider postponing the issue permanently.

What to Do With a Pad

Every collegian's dream includes visions of his living in a room, apartment, or trailer which justifiably represents his personality.

SIU undoubtedly begins each academic year with no fewer than 10,000 confident interior decorators, each striving for ultimate domestic self expression. Each seeks that little something that will distinguish his dwelling place from the many others exactly like it.

The aim is not to make a house a home, but to make a room a "pad."

Unfortunately this enthusiasm is often shortlived and ends in rather trite actions.

Among male students the most common room decoration is, of course, the "Playboy" foldout. This not only reveals one's outstanding aesthetic taste but also leaves one's virility unquestionable.

The sad part of this is that everyone seems to choose the same month and jealousy often results.

And there is the poster craze that is sweeping the college campuses. The tough guy loners are the most popular. Instant atmosphere is created by the mere image of the "cool ones." The atmosphere usually leaves, however, with the poster's novelty which sometimes lasts until the glue hardens.

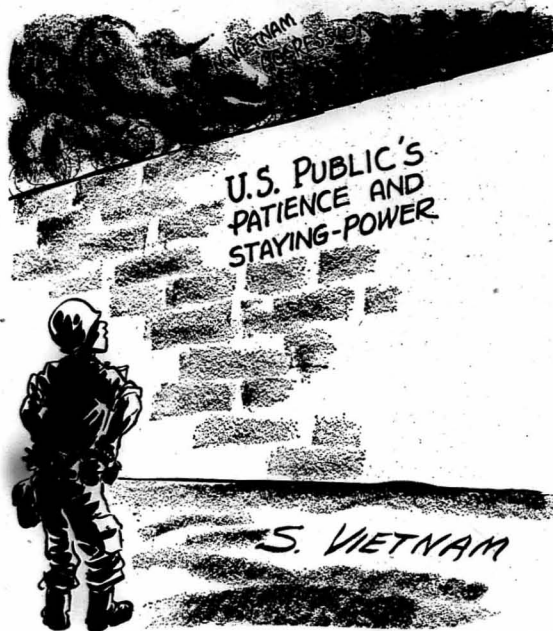

Then there is the student who has outgrown the stage of pin-ups and hero worshipping. He is interested in the more platonic aspects of human existence. A Picasso type decoration is inevitable. The problem here is that self expression of this nature is sometimes confused with extreme untidiness.

There is obviously no sure solution to the decorating dilemma. Even the installing of a gas meter wouldn't be totally unique.

The most important thing the eager room decorator can keep in mind is that his damage deposit will come in mighty handy next Spring.

Letters to the Editor

Why Pick on Negroes?

With characteristic flawlessness Jenkin Lloyd Jones has again sidestepped the issue. In his most recent piece (Sept. 27) he has accused the television industry of brain-washing white America into accepting a refurbished image of the Negro American, that is—from halfwit to hero.

In Jones' mind where heroes and villains abound and where black is black and white is literally white, there is a natural tension between his own emotional bias and his demonstrated ability to reason. His reasoning power allows him to concede that "in an overwhelmingly white country, a white villain is not looked upon as a white man but merely as a villain." His bias prevails, however, and he is content to settle for "brainwashing" as an acceptable rationale.

But my purpose is not to castigate Jones for his viewpoint or even to question his right to voice it, but to place the whole question in its proper context.

Were I to subscribe to Jones' viewpoint I would have to admit that there exists a giant conspiracy in the T.V. industry to surround the Negro with an aura of fantasy which in due time would become an acceptable image. The real question in my viewpoint has not only to do with Negroes or other minority groups but with the nature of television today.

The fact is, very little that is transmitted through that medium resembles reality.

If the Negro's image is unreal on television, are we as viewers to assume that the American Indian cultures that existed (sometimes in harmony with the white man) were nothing but a collection of howling bands of painted cutthroats? Are we to conclude that the Italians are fairly portrayed as machine gun specialists? And doesn't television tell us that the Germans in World War II were the brutes who turned torture into an art? Strangely enough these stereotypes have existed on television without a word of dissent from Jones.

Jones then has seen the trees clearly but has completely missed the forest. From my point of view the answer lies not in selecting a single minority as a subject of improper television representation, but in realizing the necessity for upgrading the entire television fare, including the news. But I suspect that even this would not satisfy Jones who would like nothing more than seeing a Negro on television get slapped by a white man for being "sassy."

Forced Integration No Answer

I am a SIU student. I am not a member of any racial organization, violent or non-violent. I am a white person because of my skin-color. I am an independent and at present have no fraternity affiliation.

In the Thursday, September 28th issue of the Daily Egyptian, I was informed that the SIU administration recently told fraternities and sororities that they must lead in the "problem of integration."

I agree that no fraternity or sorority should discriminate. Just as a member of a minority group should not be restrained from choosing the house in which he wishes to reside, he should not be restrained from joining a social order of any kind because of race, creed, or religion.

The Egyptian, however, omitted that the administration has also proposed that a "substantial number" of minority group members be accepted by each fraternity and sorority. I was told this by several fraternity members.

A Progressive Idea?

A new contract system between student-tenant and landlord may very well help the student housing situation; however it does not hit the root of the problem—insufficient amount of decent off-campus housing available to undergraduates, especially women.

The new contract has good points, such as the University receiving an itemized list of damages within a week after a student has left the housing or the damage charge is waived. Also, in the new contract, a student expelled for academic reasons cannot be held to a housing contract.

The new contract enables the University to establish local address control.

This is a step in the right direction, but SIU officials may have had the right idea when lack of University housing forced them to permit students to live in unsupervised housing rather than the University dormitories.

Now that SIU is more prosperous and dormitories are plentiful, students must be carefully scrutinized before allowed to live in off-campus unsupervised housing. The University has built a number of dormitories and they must be "100 per cent filled; therefore, stricter regulations on freshmen and sophomores," according to Dennis Balgeman, Housing Office supervisor.

A rash of trailer courts and old houses have sprung up around Carbondale to try to compensate for the lack of more or newer unsupervised housing. But now very few of these trailers are accepted living centers for undergraduate women because both single or married males live in the same court.

It is ironic that SIU is implementing stricter housing laws at a time when this idea is becoming old-fashioned. Perhaps they had a progressive idea and didn't realize it.

The Housing Office is doing more for the student by insuring him and the landlord of a fair contract and tolerable standards. But where are some new complexes for students mature enough to live on his own? Perhaps if some were built some of the landlords who rent decayed "houses" to students now would be forced to improve or rebuild.

Letters Welcome

The Daily Egyptian solicits letters to the editor. Any subject may be discussed. However, letters should be brief; if possible, they should be limited to one and a half typewritten pages, double spaced.

All letters must be signed, including the writer's address and, if possible, telephone number. The editors reserve the right to apply routine editing procedures to make the contributions conform to the law, decency and space.

Besides, I never saw a poster on campus which read, "Rush Week. Rush so-and-so fraternity. No Negroes allowed."

DREW PEARSON

At Convocation

Drew Pearson to Speak

Drew Pearson, judged by many colleagues to be Washington's top reporter, will be University Convocations speaker at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday. The general public is invited.

Pearson has criticized and fought government officials, members of Congress, and important business leaders whenever he felt they were not acting in the public interest. Time Magazine once wrote: "His is the kind of journalistic vigilance that keeps small men honest, and forces bigger men to work in an atmosphere of caution that frequently cramps their style."

Contrary to his investigative reporting, Pearson is quiet, almost retiring personally, and shows strong traces of a Quaker background.

R.P. Hibbs, coordinator of Special Programs at SIU, said the general public is welcome to all University Convocations, which last 45 to 50 minutes. Admission is free.

Applications for Sphinx Club Available at Information Desk

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Sphinx Club should pick up applications at the information desk of the University Center.

Men and women can be accepted into the club. The Sphinx Club is made up of two memberships. The first is the active membership with 30 members. The second is the honorary membership which presents awards to those who have given great contributions to the advancement of SIU.

Students must have 125 hours and at least a 3.00 overall grade average. Applications must be completed and returned to the Student Activities Office by 5 p.m. Oct. 18.

House decorations, parade floats and stunts must revolve around the theme.

Competition among house decorations will be judged in four divisions: men's singles, women's singles, single groups, and combined groups.

Petitions for the 1967 Homecoming queen, attendants and Mr. and Miss Freshman are available at the Information Desk in the University Center. Each petition requires the names of 50 students. Only freshmen may sign the petitions for Mr. and Miss Freshman.

Queen candidates must be juniors or seniors, in good standing with the University and have at least a 3.0 grade point average.

Homecoming candidates for queen attendants must be freshmen or sophomores, in good standing with the University and have at least a 3.0 grade point average.

To be eligible, Mr. and Miss Freshman candidates must not have completed more than 48 credit hours of University work.

All petitions of the various candidates must be returned to the Student Activities Office in the University Center by 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13.

Split Widens Among U.S. Sociologists

By Charles Springer

Among a group of demonstrators photographed last August by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation during an anti-Vietnam peace vigil at San Francisco was Dr. Charles R. Snyder, chairman of SIU's Department of Sociology.

Most of the protestors, like Snyder, were sociology professors from the nation's leading colleges and universities attending the annual convention of the American Sociologist Association in San Francisco.

The protest action has been called "shocking" by elder statesmen of the profession who have been trained to view the role of the sociologist as a detached professional.

The event climaxed an apparent widening split between older and younger members of the sociological profession. Previously, the role of social scientists was regarded as seeking only to understand social phenomenon rather than attempting to make decisions concerning appropriate action. But indications are that the profession is top heavy with younger men regarding sociology as a tool for special reform.

Snyder's participation in the Vietnam protest would seem to place him among those advocating an involvement with the social issues of the day. But he himself sees little new in this field of involvement.

"There's really nothing new about sociologists becoming involved with the important social questions," Snyder said. "Take a look at the social reformers during American colonial history. What kind of government would we have today if they hadn't spoken out?"

CHARLES SNYDER

"Today's problems are essentially the same faced by sociologists throughout history," he said. "In my opinion, those who have thought they could remain aloof in their objectivity really didn't know what the word objectivity meant."

The New York Times, in an article Sept. 3, questioned whether sociology should be value-free to remain scientific.

"There's no such thing as a value-free science," said Snyder.

"Science in itself is a value," he said. "People who

British Biologist Consults With SIU Scientists

A British biologist concerned with research in microbial spoilage of foods conferred this week with two SIU scientists, Carl C. Lindgren, yeast geneticist and William D. Gray, botanist and fungus specialist.

Robert D. Stanton, a researcher with the Tropical Products Institute, Ministry of Overseas Development, London, is developing constructive uses of a new class of fungus poisons caused by such organisms as the aspergillus fungus, which infects grains, other foodstuffs and animal feed.

"So far we have not determined their toxic danger to humans," he said.

Lindgren, originator of yeast genetics, is trying to breed yeast strains richer in protein and with greater potential as a food enrichment, while Gray has developed a process for producing a protein-rich food from fungus grown on waste plant material.

engage in science are bound to have values and to think they're going to forget them in their work is absurd."

The sociology chairman agreed with Irving Horowitz of Washington University who is quoted by the New York Times as saying that affluence had created a radicalization of sociology.

Horowitz said in the past only dry, decorous studies could be made from limited amounts of funds which had been the only way up for aspiring sociologists.

"The situation is wide-open now with all kinds of funds available for research," Snyder pointed out. "More useful studies can be made when sociologists are not obligated to present the side their sponsors want to hear."

Is the movement radical? "It might be considered radical when you take into account that today's younger sociologists aren't awed by established institutions or practices in the United States," Snyder said. "These fellows are going to be critical and are not going to assume what had been handed down to them is right."

"Younger men are going to seek the right answers if they're there," he added. "If they don't find the right answers, they'll take action."

Senators Clash Over War Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., clashed heatedly Tuesday over whether a Communist takeover of Asia hinges on the outcome of the Vietnam war.

Dirksen, the Republican leader and defender of President Johnson's Asian policies, and Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and a critic of the President's policies, climaxed a day of explosive debate over Vietnam.

In a dramatic, arm-waving speech, Dirksen told the Senate that the defense of South Vietnam is essential to the security of the United States. If Vietnam falls, he said, the shadow of Communism will darken all Asia.

"Then the whole Pacific coastline of the United States is exposed," he said.

Rising directly across the center aisle, Fulbright replied softly "I don't agree at all."

He argued that the security of this country lies at home and elsewhere in the world, not in Vietnam. He said continuing the war will weaken the United States at home and lessen its ability to defend its own security.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., sparked the debate with a proposal for a U.S. ceasefire to test Hanoi's peace intentions.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, Dirksen's GOP leadership assistant, quickly opposed any American "stand-down that would permit the North Vietnamese unilaterally to improve their position" while the United States grounded its planes and silenced its guns.

Dirksen said the Communists mean to liquidate the freedom of South Vietnam. If they do, he said, "our flank will be turned."

Fulbright challenged Dirksen's assertion that the loss of South Vietnam would force the United States to bring its western defense line to a point "between Alaska and Hawaii and then San Francisco and Los Angeles."

Dirksen and Sens. George Murphy, R-Calif., and Democratic Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Warren G. Magnusen of Washington rallied behind Kuchel's assertion that the United States must not abandon its Asian commitments.

They supported his declaration that this country must not "throw away what free people have fought valiantly to achieve in Southeast Asia" by accepting some "nameless settlement" to end the conflict.

Fulbright backed Symington's call for a suspension of all American military operations on a fixed date, to learn if Hanoi would respond.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—State Rep. Carl B. Stokes, bidding to become the first Negro mayor of a major U. S. city, won the Democratic nomination for mayor of Cleveland Tuesday on the basis of unofficial returns.

Stokes scored an upset victory over three-term Mayor

Ralph S. Locher, who had the backing of local Democratic party leaders, and will face Republicans Seth Taft in the Nov. 7 general election.

The vote from 875 of 901 polling places gave Stokes 103,637, Locher 91,369 and Frank P. Celeste 8,440.

Texas Safe as Fern Weakens

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Little Hurricane Fern weakened late Tuesday as she continued on a course that would bring her to landfall north of Tampico, Mexico, sparing the storm-whipped Texas Coast.

The Weather Bureau said the storm would strike between Tampico and the Soto la Marina River with hurricane force winds in squalls, tides up to six feet and heavy rain in the Mexican state of Tamaulipas.

Resignation Heightens Space Programs Lag

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Discouraging delays in the Apollo man-to-the-moon project and sharp budget cuts have cast a gloomy cloud over the U.S. space program.

Launch schedules are slipping badly and it may be another year before American astronauts fly into space. Thousands of aerospace workers are being laid off. Good men are leaving the program.

Much of the trouble stems from the Apollo 1 fire which killed three astronauts last January and which continued to haunt the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The spotlight was focused on the problem Monday when Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., NASA's deputy administrator and No. 2 man, announced he is resigning effective Jan. 1.

For seven years, Seamans, 48, has headed the agency's research and development projects. He is one of the most respected executives in NASA, and Administrator James E. Webb said, "His departure will leave a wide gap in the leadership."

Seamans said he was leaving because of his desire to either return to industry or to accept a university appointment.

The general feeling is that Seamans is discouraged with the state of the space program. Insiders say he and lesser officials have resigned because of one or more of these reasons:

1. The program is so far behind schedule that, as Seamans noted last week, the possibility of landing U.S. astronauts on the moon in this decade is decreasing rapidly.

2. Pressure has been heavy on NASA and contractor officials because of the fire, especially from Congress.

City Council to Construct Sidewalks

By George M. Killenberg

Carbondale's City Council last night approved the construction of sidewalks along a stretch of South Wall St. where two SIU students were killed and another seriously injured Sept. 22.

Council William Eaton called the lack of sidewalks on South Wall St. a "public emergency" and urged that the city take immediate steps to remedy the situation.

"It took a tragedy to point out what we already knew—that sidewalks are needed to carry the heavy pedestrian traffic between the dorms on Wall St. and the Eastgate Shopping Center," Eaton said.

After the Council approved the sidewalk motion, Mayor David Keene instructed City Manager C. William Norman to see that construction begins "immediately."

The sidewalk construction on South Wall St. will be included into a contract the Council had previously approved for sidewalk improvements in another section of the city.

The new sidewalks will run from East Main St. to East Freeman St. on both the east and west sides of South Wall St. An already approved road widening project on Wall St. south of East Freeman will include sidewalks.

In the discussion of the sidewalk problem at last night's Council meeting, the Council moved to accept a recommendation by Council member Frank Kirk that a citizens' advisory committee be organized to study sidewalk problems.

Kirk suggested that the committee could determine where sidewalks are most needed and the means for financing sidewalk construction.

Mayor Keene said that he would form the committee immediately and see that it reports back to the Council within 30 days.

During the debates, Councilman Joseph Ragsdale pointed out the need of an "established policy" for future sidewalk construction.

House 'Warns' LBJ to Cut Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fiscally worried House refused Tuesday to order President Johnson to cut the budget, but indirectly told him that if he doesn't it won't consider his tax boost request.

The dual action came on the House floor and in its tax-writing Ways and Means Committee.

The House sent to the Senate by voice vote a bill to provide temporary financing, until Oct. 10, for more than a score of federal agencies which technically went broke last Saturday midnight. Their money for the fiscal year that started July 1 is tied up in pending appropriation bills.

But first the House turned back, 213 to 205, a Republican drive to add to the financing measure a mandate to the President to cut at least $5 billion from the current fiscal year budget. This was a reversal of last Thursday's 202-182 vote that re-committed another temporary financing bill because it didn't include a spending-cut angle.

While the House was engaged in debate over whether the President or Congress should take the lead in cutting spending, the Ways and Means Committee, by a 20-5 vote, laid aside consideration of the President's tax increase proposal "until such time as the President and the Congress reach an understanding" may be reached before the end of this month, for the Senate is expected to extend the life of the House-passed temporary financing bill to Oct. 31 or longer.

That would give the House Appropriations Committee to the President for spending.

The administration has claimed it can't cut spending until all the appropriation bills become law and the President knows how much money will be available.

Rap Brown Loses Extradition Case

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Black Power advocate H. Rap Brown lost another round Tuesday in his battle to avoid extradition to Maryland to face charges of inciting to riot and inciting to arson.

Corporation Court Judge Franklin P. Backus turned down a motion for a habeas corpus writ, sought by Brown's lawyers on grounds he was arrested illegally and could not get a fair trial in Maryland.

Brown's lawyers said they would appeal to higher Virginia courts, thus blocking the rearrest of Brown. The judge's denial technically turned him over to the custody of Alexandria police.

But the Black Power leader, who was not present for the hearing, was reported out of Virginia. He is free on $10,000 bail from a federal court pending disposition of the extradition proceedings, but is restricted to New York City except for court appearances elsewhere.

Backus said the only issue as far as he was concerned was whether Brown was actually charged and was in Maryland at the time of the alleged felony. The Maryland charges involve the July 24 rioting in Cambridge, where a school and other buildings were burned.

more time to work on the premise of its chairman, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., to review past and current appropriations with the hope of cutting back money available

Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, had spoken to a crowd of Negroes shortly before the rioting erupted.

He was arrested July 26 by Virginia state police on a federal fugitive warrant, and Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. ordered his extradition.

Bishops Name Canon Group

Vatican City (AP)—The Roman Catholic synod of bishops prolonged its debate on canon law Tuesday.

In the first discordant notes within the historic assembly since it opened Sept. 29, prelates clashed over how authoritarian the law should be for the world's half-billion Catholics and whether it should cover both the Church's western and oriental rites.

After 41 of the nearly 200 prelates had taken the floor on the issue in two days, the synod moved to set up a commission to further explore canon law during the month-long meeting.

It was also understood that more speakers would be heard on canon law on Wednesday.

This would move back debates on the synod's other subjects—seminaries, liturgy, dangers to the faith and mixed marriages.

Foundation Experiment

New Program to Aid Graduates

An experimental program seeking to unlock both private and public money available for graduate fellowships for prospective college teachers will be set in motion by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation this year, William E. Simeone, SIU dean of Graduate Studies and Research, has been informed.

At the same time, he said, the Foundation again will offer 200 dissertation fellowships to enable students in the humanities and social sciences already in graduate schools to complete their doctoral studies "with all deliberate speed."

Dean Simeone, campus representative for the Wilson Foundation, said both programs are made possible through a $2.4 million grant to the Wilson group from the Ford Foundation. Sir Hugh Taylor, president of the Wilson Foundation, said the Ford Foundation grant will be used to:

1. Designate through selection committees 1,000 young people in the U.S. and Canada best qualified as potential college teachers and identify another 1,000 for honorable mention.
2. Award 100 first year graduate fellowships to candidates from U.S. and 50 to candidates from Canadian institutions.

3. Establish a program of 200 doctoral dissertation fellowships in the humanities and social sciences to graduate students who are able to complete their doctorates in four years after entrance into graduate school.

Sir Hugh explained in a news release how the new program would operate:

Through its 15 regional committees, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation will choose 1,000 top candidates as Woodrow Wilson Designates. The names of those deemed to merit graduate fellowship support, together with a list of those recommended for Honorable Mention, will be forwarded by February 15, 1968, to the deans of all graduate schools in the United States and Canada, many of whom have already pledged to make offers of financial assistance to the selected candidates.

Direct grants of Wilson Fellowships for first year graduate study are expected to be made to 50 candidates on the Designate List from Canadian colleges and 100 from United States colleges.

SIU Anthropologist Reports On Research With Eskimos

Good relations with the white men have replaced traditional hunting prowess as the necessary quality of Eskimo leaders in the Hudson Bay area, according to Lee Guemple, SIU anthropologist who spent the past summer on the Belcher Islands.

These findings bore out in part some predictions he had made when he spent a year on the islands in 1962-63, Guemple said. During the first trip to the islands, some communication with the white men had been necessary to a tribal leader, but native skills, wealth, and a large family had been comparatively more important.

On this summer's trip, he discovered that the leadership pattern had become more completely dependent on the leader's ability to work and negotiate with the white men; especially agents of the Canadian government charged with administering the territory and aiding the Eskimos.

Guemple left for the Belcher Islands, about 70 miles off shore in Canada's Hudson Bay, at the end of June and returned in mid-September. He was accompanied by an SIU anthropology student, David Born, and by a University of Chicago anthropology student, Joseph Maxwell. Their research was sponsored by the National Museum of Canada.

Born's project was studying the educational systems for the islands. The government maintains one school on the islands, with some of the students transported to the mainland for classes. Guemple said many of the parents were dissatisfied with the transport arrangement because they believed their children lost touch with the Eskimo culture and heritage in the mainland schools.

Maxwell's project was photographing all of the 185 islanders to determine which islanders knew which others.

War in Vietnam Not Choking Loan Funds, DeJarnett Says

The Vietnam War apparently has not curtailed funds made available to college students under the National Defense Student Loan Program, according to Raymond P. DeJarnett, assistant director of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

"This year we have a little more money available to students than last year," DeJarnett said. "During the 1966-67 period, SIU was allocated slightly more than a half million dollars, but this year we have about $570,000 available as defense loan funds."

The National Defense Student Loan Program is available to any college student who is financially in need and maintains good academic standing, DeJarnett said. "The only problem we have is that many students fail to apply before the May 15 deadline. As a result, some qualified students do not get loans because the funds available have all been allocated to students who may be less qualified but who applied before the deadline."

During the 1966-67 academic year, 1,060 students at both campuses of SIU received loans under the program, ranging from $150 to $1,500.

Key Players Injured

Stine to Lead Attack; Salukis Face Pirates

By George Knemeyer

The in-again, out-again battle for the SIU quarterbacking spot was won by Barry Stine at the Lincoln University game and as a result, Coach Dick Towers has named Stine to start against East Carolina Saturday.

"Stine looked better against Lincoln than he did the previous week against Louisville," Towers said. "He is now the number one quarterback."

Quarterback will not be the only change in the SIU lineup against the Pirates. Injuries, as in the past weeks, will play an important role in choosing the Salukis' starting lineup.

End Tom Massey twisted his ankle in Saturday's game and will probably not see action. In his split end position will be Gene Pace, who Towers said "had a good game and blocked well," with John Ference as backup. Ference suffered a strained and bruised knee in Saturday's game. Moving into Ference's normal tight end spot will be Terry Cotham, who started against Lincoln at right tackle.

Hill Williams, Saluki halfback who has been sidelined all season following an appendectomy, will suit up for Saturday's game and may see action. If he does, Doug Hollinger, who has started at fullback the past two weeks, will be backup man to Roger Kuba at right halfback.

Kuba was injured in the nose in the Lincoln game and it required seven stitches to close the wound, but he definitely will play in the East Carolina game. Towers pointed out that Kuba's removal from the Lincoln game hurt the Salukis' chances against Lincoln.

Three players suffered mild concussions — halfback Keith Liegh, center Jim Mallone and defensive halfback John Goro, but they will be ready for Saturday's game.

Bob Hudspeth, offensive guard who sat out most of the Lincoln game, should be at full strength against East Carolina, Towers said.

Ralph Galloway, who has had ankle injuries through all of fall practice and the season so far, will be starting at right guard with Dick Joyce. Towers said Joyce played an outstanding game and will be at the left guard slot, replacing Bill Sanders.

Freshman player Jack Aushing, 225-pounder from Kankakee, may see action at center or guard and Rick Pittman, a defensive end, may see action in Saturday's game.

After three games this season, Southern shows an edge in some offensive categories.

The Salukis have 51 first downs to their opponents 42. They have gained 592 yard net rushing as compared to the opponents 399.

In the passing department, Southern has 32 completions in 77 attempts, good for 360 yards. Five passes have been intercepted. Their opponents, however, have completed 37 of 71 passes, or 52 per cent, good for 440 yards. Southern has picked off five opponents' passes.

The Salukis have lost six fumbles, as compared to two by their opponents. The Salukis have scored 28, while giving up 52 points.

In individual statistics, Charlie Pemberton has 222 net yards rushing in 45 attempts, for a 4.9 average. His nearest competition in yardage on the ground is John Quillen, who has 93.

Gene Pace and John Ference lead the receiving corps with eight receptions each. Pace's are good for 94 yards and Ference's are good for 93 yards.

Barclay Allen is having another good year in the punting department, with his kicks averaging 38 yards. Last year his SIU record-setting average was 38.9 yards per punt.

Doug Hollinger is the lead punt return and kickoff return man averaging 13.4 and 20.4 yards respectively per return.

Tom Wirth, Quillen and Hollinger each have scored six points to lead the Saluki scoring.

UP, UP AND AWAY -- MAYBE—Cris Middleton (86), punter for Lincoln University, gets a good right foot into the ball during the third quarter of Saturday's game. However, two Salukis, Carl Mauck (52) and Bob Roberts (62), both linebackers, rushed in an attempt to block the punt. Roberts did block the punt, which flew out of the Lincoln end zone, and gave Southern its second safety of the game. (Photo by Norman Boettcher)

St. Louis Prepares for World Series

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ground-keepers are sowing instant grass inside Busch Stadium and hanging crepe paper bunting outside the stadium as St. Louis prepares for the World Series.

A special "three-day" grass was planted today in the outfield to help repair the damage caused by the St. Louis Cardinals football game Sunday with the Detroit Lions. The rye-blue grass mixture is scheduled to sprout Friday, a day before the first of the three games set for St. Louis.

Ground crews also began rebuilding the pitching mound, made up of two tons of clay on a steel plate. Plywood field boxes for the series were under construction in front of the regular field boxes.

Meanwhile, World Series decorations began sprouting in the city. Crews began attaching red, white and blue streamers.

'El Birdos,' Red Sox Ready for Series Opener

BOSTON (AP) — Jose Santiago, a talented graduate of Boston's bullpen, will face the favored St. Louis Cardinals' Bob Gibson Wednesday at ancient Fenway Park in the opening game of the Red Sox's first World Series since 1946.

A standing room crowd of over 35,000 will shoehorn into the old park in cloudy 70-degree weather with only a slight chance of showers late in the day.

Game time is 1 p.m. EDT with network National Broadcasting Company radio and television coverage.

Both clubs worked out in warm sunshine Tuesday afternoon after digesting the scouting reports from the team of bird dogs who have been watching the other league for weeks. Each manager announced he would go with his regular line-up.

"I told the boys to keep their eyes on the ball and forget the wall," said Manager Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals. He was referring to the handy left field wall, known as the Green Monster, 315 feet down the left field line and 37 feet high, so tempting to right handed batters. Most of the Cards never had seen it before.

"I told them 'don't try to knock it down, it's put up there to hold,'" said Schoendienst with a grin.

When Mike Shannon, an

Irishman with a deep love of the Emerald Green, was asked what he thought about the wall, he said, "It's a beautiful color." Orlando Cepeda, the Cards' big power man, took one look, grinned and said, "I like it."

Dick Williams, Boston manager, said he would follow Santiago (12-4) with Jim Lonborg (22-9) Sunday's hero, in the second game. Gary Bell (13-13) will be Boston's third pitcher in Saturday's game at St. Louis. Lee Stange (8-10) will be the long relief man.

The Cards will follow Bob Gibson (13-7) with Dick Hughes (16-6) and then pitch either Nelson Briles (14-5), or left-handed Steve Carlton (14-9) in the third. Schoendienst said Briles would be the third pitcher if he wasn't needed in the bullpen in the first two.

Williams, a hunch player, went along with the same lineup that beat Minnesota Sunday in the final frantic game.

Jerry Adair, recovered from his spike wounds of Sunday, will lead off playing second base and Dalton Jones, a fellow with a solid bat, will be at third base. Ken Harrelson, the $75,000 beneficiary of Charley Finley's wrath, will play right field and bat fourth. Russ Gibson, a 28-year-old rookie, will catch instead of the experienced Elston Howard.

Salukis Get Early Start

Snow, Baseball Team to Get Together--Again

By Tom Wood

Two things have become pretty standard during Carbondale winters—snow and SIU's baseball team practicing in it.

The Salukis started preparations for the 1968 season two weeks ago and will continue practicing right up until their spring trip in late March.

Coach Joe Lutz intends to make this the most colorful SIU squad in history. He's ordered new uniforms, which include white shoes and batting helmets, and right now his biggest problem is finding a double play combination to fit those white slippers.

A strong-armed, veteran pitching staff is one of the big reasons Lutz rates this year's club "a better all-around team than the 1967 team."

Skip Pitlock spent the summer pitching in the Midwest

Collegiate League, where his 7-1 record and 2.96 earned run average made him the loop's most effective hurler. He will be joined by Ron Kirkland, 9-4 and 1.96 last year; Howard Nickason, 6-2 and p.18 in 1967; and Bob Ash, who is momentarily hampered by an arm injury.

This foursome was the nucleus of SIU's staff last season.

Adding depth to the mound corps will be Arnie Larson, Jack Nelson, Terry Spaniak, Terry Paetzhold and John Susci.

"We look pretty solid pitching-wise," Lutz said. "I may even switch Kirkland to the infield."

Such a move of last year's staff ace points up Southern's biggest weakness, the infield. The last major league draft took second baseman Tom Mason and shortstop and most valuable player Rich Hacker from the Saluki fold. Both players had eligibility left when they signed.

Now Lutz must look to Bill Clark, Mark Newman, Terry Brumfield and Barry O'Sullivan to plug up the hole that exists.

The catching chores appear to belong to Randy Coker at this point, a veteran with a good arm.

"We have real good speed and some good arms in the outfield," Lutz said. "Jerry Bond, a very fast boy from Waukegan, will be the first Negro to play intercollegiate baseball for Southern; Mike Rogodzinski, Evanston; Jerry Snyder, Murphysboro; and Preston Pratt, a transfer from Miami Dade Junior College; round out the outfield candidates."

Lutz expects the Salukis to be better than last year's squad in every facet of the game.

They will play an improved schedule, which unofficially has the Salukis going against New Mexico, Arizona, Arizona State, Florida State, Memphis State, Air Force, Ohio State and Wyoming.

For the second straight year the Salukis will meet the defending NCAA champs. Last year it was Ohio State, and this season Arizona State.

Eighteen hundred new bleacher seats will be added to the varsity field and Lutz hopes to get an organ and organist for home contests.

And, yes, the batgirls will be back. The varsity and frosh squads will play a practice game every Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. on the varsity field, weather permitting.

Among Lutz's freshman recruits are: outfielders—Bob Blakely, Springfield; Dennis Janick and Ron Micholak, Mendel High of Chicago; Jerry Smith, Rapid City, S.D.; infielders—Mark Kirkpatrick, Cape Girardeau; Doug Murray, Mendel; and B.J. Trickey, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; catcher—Bob Sedik, Highland Park; and Al Hosdson, Peoria.

Smith was the outstanding high school athlete of 1967 in South Dakota and Lutz considers Sedik "one of the finest prep catchers in the state of Illinois."

Pitching is a sad story for the frosh. Most of the 14 prospective players Lutz lost to the big league draft were hurlers. Among those drafted and signed were: Jerry Reuss, by Tulsa, a Cardinal farm team; John Hankhammer, by the White Sox; John Howard, also by St. Louis; and Jim Brunsworth, by the Dodgers.

Reuss was one of the top AAA pitchers in the minors, Hankhammer led the Florida League and Brunsworth was the top hurler in the Pioneer League.

Richard Coble of Jacksonville is the only SIU frosh pitcher who was drafted by a major league club and did not sign.

Soccer Hurt by Lack of Support

By David Palermo

Members of SIU's International Soccer Club, which has suffered from the lack of financial and moral support from the university, face the biggest hurdle in their short history today at 4 p.m. when they meet St. Louis on the soccer field east of the Arena.

The Billikins, third place winners in last year's NCAA finals, have won the championship five times since 1959.

"We'll make a good account of ourselves," said Colin Bishop, manager of the club, "we've got a good defense."

They boast an undefeated record in six matches played last year, their first on a competitive standpoint, with wins against Indiana State and Southeast Missouri State.

Bishop, the primary reason for the club's success in scheduling opponents, sent out over 50 letters to various midwestern schools requesting matches. Only Illinois, Southeast Missouri State and Indiana State agreed to play.

"The big breakthrough," said Bishop, "was the match with the University of Illinois in which we tied. Illinois," Bishop added, "has played soccer since the Second World War."

Lutz Announces

Batgirl Openings

Several batgirl openings for the 1968 Saluki baseball season have been announced by Joe Lutz, head baseball coach. All girls interested should contact Christy Gee at 3-4587 or Linda Swoboda at 9-2017 for further information.

This year the club boasts a vastly improved slate with matches against such big name schools as Notre Dame, St. Louis, University of Illinois (Chicago Circle) and Murray State. Also included in this year's schedule are re-matches with Southeast Missouri State and Indiana State.

While successful on a competitive standpoint, last season was extremely difficult for club members. Hardships in obtaining transportation, purchasing uniforms and equipment and providing a practice conveniently scheduled so as not to interfere with the players' classes still plague the efficiency of the team.

The uniforms, according to Bishop, are paid for by the players themselves. The same is also true of the majority of transportation.

Frank Lumsden, team captain, commenting on the practices said, "We've been practicing so little, due to circumstances, compared to the schools we've played it's amazing we're still undefeated."

Dickie Coke, a defensive standout on the team, said "Due to the fact it is merely a voluntary club and no scholarships are awarded, the only incentive is enjoyment."

Bishop credited Clarence Hendershot, Department of History, and the International Students Organization for assistance in the success of the club.

The club began in September, 1966 when four soccer enthusiasts began a sandlot match near the physical plant south of campus. "All of a sudden," Bishop said, "people came from all around wanting to play soccer."

The sport was taken under the reigns of the Student Activities in January, 1967 and since then has expanded to over 60 students from 27 different countries.

Other officers for this year's team include; Fireman Kasaato, president, Ian Beatie, coach, Joseph Chu, adviser, Duncan Mitchell, acting treasurer, and Mary Mitchell, acting secretary.

The next home match for the club will be at 2:30 p.m. this Saturday.
