'Tis The Season For Final Exams

Library, University Center
Holiday Hours Announced

If the merry spirit of Christmas seems a bit slow in descending on the campus, there's a reason why.

If, when meeting a fellow student, you should be acknowledged by a mumbled grunt and a Scrooge-like frown instead of a warm, jolly greeting, there's an explanation.

Before students can rush home to upholster their mantles with stockings, they have one task, commonly known as final exams, to complete.

Until these are completed and typewriter ribbons can be traded for tinsel and midnight oil replaced by colored lights, visions of final grades instead of sugarplums will be dancing in their heads.

After exams are over, campus activities will slacken. The hours of Morris Library will be altered during the vacation period. The library will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 19 to Dec. 31, Monday through Saturday.

The library will be closed on Sundays, Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Regular hours will be resumed Jan. 2 as students come back for classes.

The University Center will open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 19-21. The entire building will be closed Dec. 22-25.

Again on Dec. 26-28, the Center will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., with the building closed from Dec. 29 to Dec. 31. On days when the University Center is open, the Oasis will be serving from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

On Jan. 1, the University Center will be open from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. but all facilities will be closed. The Center will go back on its regular schedule Jan. 2 when classes resume.

Four Preps Set Shryock Concert For January 12

The Four Preps, popular recording group, have been signed for a concert at SIU on Saturday, Jan. 12.

Two performances, at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m., will be presented in Shryock Auditorium, according to Steve Wilson and Frank A. Steward, co-chairmen. Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity is the sponsoring organization for the show.

Tickets will be available Jan. 3 at the Information Desk in the University Center, Wilson said. Prices are $1.50 and $1, he said.

Annexation Is Council Topic

The Student Council wrapped up its meetings for the fall quarter after discussing what benefits students might ask of Carbondale if SIU annexed into the city limits.

Elizabeth Mullins, coordinator of Student Activities, said Carbondale would receive gasoline tax benefits if SIU was annexed.

Faculty advisers and Miss Mullins suggested Council members might want to ask for such things as fire protection while refusing police jurisdiction on campus grounds.

Committee members agreed to mandate Student President Bill Fenwick to compile a list of student body and Council concerns which would be presented to President Delyte W. Morris.

Wendel O'Neal, out-in-town senator, reported unfavorably on a bill which would direct Fenwick to either abolish the polling committee or establish scientific safeguards.

The Council discussed a new bill which states it had allocated funds to the Egyptian with the understanding that it would publish four days a week. The bill would seek reasons why the Egyptian comes out only twice a week.

Two faculty advisers, Miss Mullins and Gerry Howe, Junior Class President, criticized a resolution asking for Council commendation of Parallax, a literary magazine.

In other action, a bill was introduced which would direct Fenwick to comply with the articles of the constitution and appoint with all deliberate speed the full complement of members to the Campus Judicial Board the Campus Journalism Council and the Student Elections Commission.

SIU Asks For $43.8 Million For Capital Improvements

A capital funds budget request for $34,400,000 has been approved and forwarded to state officials by the Board of Trustees.

It deals primarily with the second stage of planned construction at the Edwardsville campus. The budget is for the 1963-65 biennium.

In presenting the budget figures to the board President Delyte W. Morris called attention to enrollment projections for the new campus at Edwardsville, where $25 million from the State Universities Bond Issue has been allocated for buildings designed to accommodate 5,000 students.

This construction, termed the "first phase" at the Edwardsville campus, is scheduled for completion in 1964.

"However," Dr. Morris told the board, "enrollment projections in this densely populated region of Illinois indicate that by the fall of 1965 there will be an additional 5,190 students seeking admission. Because of this, we think it necessary to request funds to start the second phase of construction."

Capital improvements at the Carbondale campus, meanwhile, were requested for the biennium in the form of one new building--Physical Science--and a power plant addition which would total an estimated $4,900,000. The sums of $1 million for land acquisition, $1.5 million for renovation of existing facilities, a half million each for planning and public improvements and $1 million for funds to match outside grants brought the total request for the Carbondale campus to $9,400,000.

Capital improvements planned for the Edwardsville campus would include seven new buildings at a total estimated cost of $18,100,000; a half million for land acquisition, $3.5 million for land development to include utilities, $1 million for planning funds and $1.5 million to match outside grants.

New buildings planned for the second phase of construction at Edwardsville would include Science and Technology, general classroom, utilities plant, specialized classroom, physical training and education, service, and communications.

Student activities were nearly stopped this week. The go light is for study. Final exams for the fall quarter start tomorrow.

Matters of interest to students from the coordinator of student activities, Elizabeth Mullins, include renewal of student activity cards, a raise in train fares, and a change in postal mailing regulations. Students may now renew their activity cards for the winter quarter. To do this, paid fee statements should be presented at the Student Activities Office.

The Illinois Central has announced that train fares will go up after Jan. 4. The new rate to Chicago and back will be $12.15. Round trip to St. Louis will be $4.25.

The annual School of Agriculture staff Christmas Party will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday in the Agriculture Building seminar room.

Refreshments will be served and entertainment is planned for the children.

John O. Anderson, research projects coordinator, will lead the discussion at an Agriculture faculty meeting at 10 a.m. Dec. 18 in the Agriculture Building seminar room.

All freshmen or transfer students who have not taken American College Testing exams can return to campus Dec. 31 and fulfill the requirement.

The Testing Center, explaining all of these students must have an A.C.T. testing score for future registrations, advises the tests be taken as soon as possible.

COMMUNICATIONS BUILDING - This is on the west side of the campus in the Chautauqua artist's sketch of the proposed new School of area. Bids will be sought in 1963 and completion is expected in 1965.

Construction Begins Next Summer On Two New Classroom Buildings

Architects' plans for two new buildings on the Carbondale campus were reviewed by the Board of Trustees at its December meeting Friday.

Both are scheduled for construction next summer, financed with money already allocated from the State Universities Bond Issue.

The buildings are a general classroom group designed to seat more than 2,700 students and a School of Communications building to feature classroom, laboratory and production facilities for journalism, speech, theater, speech correction, printing and photography.

The general classroom group will be on the western edge of the campus and will feature four large lecture halls radiating out from a central audio-visual projection and closed circuit TV program control center. The halls, ramped like movie theaters, will seat 300 students apiece.

Also receiving audio-visual fare from the central control room will be six smaller conference classrooms designed to seat 80 students each.

Adjoining the lecture hall complex will be a three-story wing with classrooms for 1,000 students and offices for 130 faculty members.

The Communications Building, also to be constructed on the western edge of the present campus, will include a 375-seat theater, replacing the present Southern Playhouse, as well as 25 classrooms and radio, television and closed circuit TV studios. The main part of the building will be two-stories high, with an exterior treatment of buffed brick and pre-cast concrete "fins" along the east facade. A fly gallery behind the theater stage--for props and equipment--will rise 82 feet.

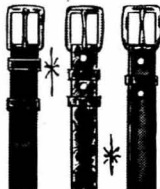

A projected second stage of construction, when other funds are available, would include a 5,000 seat auditorium.

Freshman Wins 2:

Swim Team Takes 11 Firsts In Fourth Annual AAU Open

Ray Padovan, Jack Schiltz and Thom McAnaney each won two events for SIU in the fourth annual SIU AAU Open swimming meet Saturday night.

McAnaney turned in the top individual performance of the meet with a 3 minutes 54 and 4/10 seconds time in the 100-yard freestyle. Only four other men in the world have made the distance faster.

McAnaney is only a freshman and Ralph Casey, SIU swimming coach, expects even bigger things from the 18-year-old 6-5 swimmer before the season ends.

He also won the 500-yard freestyle with a 5:10.6 clocking. His time was one and 5/10 seconds off his record set at Oklahoma earlier this season.

Padovan won both the 100 and 200-yard freestyle events easily. His 48.4 seconds time in the 100 is better than at any time last season.

Padovan has set 47.5 seconds as his immediate goal in the 100. His best career time in the hundred was :47.9 during his sophomore year.

Schiltz, SIU's team captain, won both the 100-yard butterfly and 200-yard individual medley events.

The 100-yard butterfly is a new event for the junior swimmer from Harvey. All last season he swam the breaststroke events.

SIU's other first place winners were John Robbins, diving; Dave Winfield, 600-yard freestyle; Darrell Green, 100-yard backstroke; Ed Moy, 400-yard individual medley and Andy Stoodly, 200-yard backstroke.

Sorority Council Revising Setup

The Panhellenic Council's constitution is being revised, council officers said this week.

The revision, it is hoped, will give better organization to Panhellenic committees and draw all sorority members into the organization's activities.

Up to now, it was pointed out, the council's influence was largely felt by only those who served on it.

The organization also plans to widen its scope of activities beyond sponsoring rush and sorority workshops. According to Pam Worlie, Delta Zeta social sorority, the group is considering a winter term project that would involve sorority members in work at St. Joseph's Memorial Hospital in Murphysboro.

In other activity, Charlene Lucas, Sigma Sigma Sigma, was selected to represent the council at the NSA convention.

Voluntary ROTC Coming

The Department of Defense has a plan for the reorganization of the Reserve Officer Training Corps. The proposed Officer Education Program is scheduled to be presented to Congress in January.

According to plans, the OEP would be an option to current university ROTC programs. Only juniors and seniors would participate under the OEP and it would be on a voluntary basis.

If passed, universities with Army or Air Force ROTC could retain their present programs, either under a voluntary or compulsory basis, or they could incorporate the OEP into their curriculum. The decision would be up to the university.

There have been indications from many areas that a change in ROTC is necessary. The cost of financing Army or Air Force ROTC programs for almost 300,000 students has not been paying off in the number of commissioned officers hoped for.

There are some problems that would have to be solved for the OEP to be successful. If a university should choose to adopt the OEP, the loss of contact with basic ROTC cadets would hamper the military services in recruiting personnel.

The military services would then have to publicize the program in high schools and to freshmen and sophomore university students. The OEP also calls for substantial pay raises to volunteers, improved classroom curriculum and two summers spent in camp, to attract students into college military training programs.

One of the major factors SIU will consider when making their decision for change will be whether the merits of the OEP are greater than the value of basic training to freshmen and sophomores under compulsory ROTC.

However, the disinterest of the students in college military training, and the resentment instilled in them by the compulsory system, tends to destroy the merits of exposure of students to the aspects of a space-age Air Force.

Erik Stottrup

General Studies Explained

A total of 232 students have taken proficiency tests in the General Studies program this quarter. The exams offer students an excellent opportunity to move ahead more rapidly by omitting courses.

The tests are available to students who have taken extensive work in a subject in high school, those who were in the upper ten per cent in the American College Testing program, and students who have undertaken self-study programs.

Proficiency examinations are a means to avoid duplication in education. But a major obstacle to the success of the program has been lack of knowledge on the part of students concerning the availability and opportunities of proficiency exams.

The directors of General Studies are currently putting together information about General Studies and proficiency exams. The information will be printed on separate sheets by subject and will seek to explain as simply as possible the purpose of General Studies, the requirements and the opportunities available, such as proficiency tests.

The information will be distributed during winter quarter advisement and should be of interest to all General Studies students. The explanation sheets should make clear the opportunities of proficiency tests and the General Studies program.

Christmas Suggestion

A problem that is still a part of the SIU campus is the use of pedestrian paths by bicycle riders.

Numerous people have spoken out about the danger threatening students everyday by the growing number of bicycles. Solutions have been offered, but as yet nothing has been done about it.

In analyzing the problem more thoroughly, it appears that one of the greatest complaints is that bicycles have no means of warning students of their approach. Obviously, if a student could hear a bicycle approaching, he would have time to dive into the woods out of the way.

With Christmas coming up, it might be apropos for SIU cyclists to include on their Christmas list an order for one, large bell--to be attached permanently to each bicycle.

Fraternities Will Stay!

Editor:

For the past several weeks we have read your series of articles concerning the precarious situation of the fraternities on the SIU campus. As of late these articles have increased in intensity and have begun to nauseate us.

Our first reaction to these articles was one of a negative nature. Most will agree this reaction was quite normal. Then we began thinking about what was said and realized, for the most part, it was true--the fraternities aren't very high scholastically.

To quote Erik Stottrup, "Scholarship must be the greatest concern of a University student." The apparent question here is whether or not the social element can be mixed with a higher academic interest. It is our opinion that there is more to a college education than a grade average.

As of late, the fraternities seem to be getting "it" with both barrels. We haven't been able to ascertain the source whether it be a jealous minority or a misinformation group. On the surface it appears the upper echelon of the University's administration is for the fraternities' case in point, the ultra-modern housing provided for said organizations.

Previous articles have mentioned and made quite point of the downfall of fraternities across the country. However, only two examples have been cited. When in fact statistics show fraternity membership to be on the upswing.

Would it be possible for the Egyptian to publish some merits of the Greek system? We know you are surprised to hear there are good points. Be brave! Take a look around. Behold your environment. Fraternities are here to stay.

Working Conditions Unfair

Editor:

I believe that a privately owned company, such as the one now operating the cafeteria, should not be allowed to operate in a student financed building. The students who must pay an activity fee and now also pay the profits of a private company are thus paying twice for use of cafeteria facilities. Not only have food prices been increased, but the student workers and several employees have voiced dissatisfaction at the labor conditions which now exist.

As a student worker working for this company, I feel that other students should know what has happened since the Slater organization took over operations. In the middle of the term, without consulting students who were involved, work schedules of several of the students were changed. In some parts of the cafeteria the Slater company, by intimidating some students until they quit because of such practices as changing work schedules and work procedures, has also refused to hire new workers to replace those who quit. This then places a double burden on the students who remain. When Slater took over management of the cafeteria it was stated that they would honor student worker commitments. I feel they have not done this. I also believe that once their contract is firmly established they will engage in other such bad practices.

For this reason and others I believe that the contract should be ended when the 90-day trial period ends.

Scores 18 Points:

Henson Leads Salukis To Second Cage Win

Dave Henson scored 18 points to lead SIU to its second basketball victory in three starts Saturday night with a 63-58 win over Central Missouri State.

Saturday night's game was the first one at home for the Salukis in 15 games. SIU played its last 12 games of last year and its first two this year away from home.

The Salukis' performance before the home crowd was below their near-perfect showing a week ago against the St. Bonaventure Brown Indians.

Both teams were ice-cold at the start and the shooting never did reach boiling point. Southern shot .323 from the field, hitting 23 of 71 field goal attempts.

The Salukis only made 17 of 31 free throws in the win. Against St. Bonaventure, SIU hit on 15 of 18 charity tosses and 29 of 59 field goal tries.

Central Missouri's Bud Vallino tied Henson for game scoring honors with 18 points.

Other than those two creditable scoring performances, no other player could find the range with any consistency.

Paul Henry scored 10 points for the Salukis. It was the third straight time this season that he scored in double figures.

Harold Hood came off the bench to get eight points.

Ed Spila, SIU's top rebounder last season, grabbed 12 rebounds Saturday night to set the pace in that department. Henry came down with 10 rebounds from his guard position.

Only nine points were scored in the first five minutes of play, but two Henson layups pushed SIU out to an 11-4 lead. The Mules cut the deficit to four points at one time midway in the first half, but the Salukis held on for a 28-23 halftime margin.

Jack Hartman, SIU's new basketball coach, emptied his bench after the Salukis took a commanding 13-point lead with less than three minutes remaining. Central Missouri scored eight straight points to close out the scoring at 63-58.

Southern's top showing of the game came at the start of the second half. Spila dropped in a jump shot from the side. Frank Lentfer added a free throw and Henry nailed a shot from the corner that gave SIU a 33-23 lead.

A record number of men and teams are participating in SIU's men's intramural basketball program, according to Glenn Martin, intramural director.

Ninety-eight teams are playing basketball this season. Three leagues have been set up with 54 teams entered from off-campus housing.

Men's Residence Halls have entered 35 teams. SIU's fraternities have nine teams entered.

There are 1,625 men participating in the intramural program.

Orientation for students starting classes in the winter quarter will be held in MucKelroy Auditorium starting at 8 a.m. Jan. 2.

Saluki Teams To See Action Over Holidays

SIU's basketball, wrestling and gymnastics teams will be in action during the Christmas holidays.

The basketball team has games scheduled with Ball State (Dec. 15), North Dakota State (Dec. 20) and Western Michigan (Dec. 22). All the games are away except North Dakota State.

The North Dakota State game will start in Men's Gymnasium at 8 p.m. Even number activity cards will permit students to secure tickets for the game.

After Christmas the Salukis will compete in the Evansville Holiday tournament. SIU's first opponent is Fordham and Evansville faces Harvard in the other first round game.

The winners will meet for the championship and the two losers will play for the third place trophy. It is the first year for the Evansville tournament.

Last year the Salukis won the Southeast Missouri Christmas tournament.

Western Michigan is the third major-college opponent which SIU will face this season.

Jim Wilkinson's SIU wrestling team will compete Saturday in a quadrangular wrestling meet at Oklahoma. Teams which will compete are Wyoming, Kansas State, SIU and the host Oklahoma Sooners. Oklahoma is favored to win its meet.

Bill Mead, SIU's gymnastics coach, has been named to coach the East all-star team at the Western Gymnastics Clinic during the Christmas holidays.

The clinic is sponsored by the AAU and will be held at the University of Arizona.

The best gymnasts in the country compete in the meet.

Meade is expected to use Fred Orlofsky, Bruno Klaus, Dennis Wolf, Rusty Mitchell and Bill Hladik on his East team. Swimming is the only SIU team idle during the vacation and gets back into action Jan. 5 with the Big 10 relays.

Scant Plant No Excuse For Missin' Kissin'

The kissing season is here again. For those who favor a quick buzz or two under the twig of a mistletoe plant, this story should be of interest.

To the chagrin of many an American romeo, the custom of imparting a kiss upon the rosy cheek of a fair damsel under the mistletoe comes not from the land of milk and honey, but from those misty isles across the Atlantic called Great Britain.

Yes, originating among a people often thought to be conservative, the art of "mistletoeing" is said to have started shortly after the British landed on the eastern shores of America.

It is said that the British servants of early American bluebloods instituted the idea. However, the sport was quickly adapted by the local gentry, and kissing under the mistletoe became a Christmas, New Years, etc., etc. custom.

For those SIU males (or females) who desire the seasonal spring of romance, there may be a little difficulty. According to Robert Mohlenbrock, assistant professor in the Botany Department, mistletoe grows almost entirely out of reach.

He pointed out that in this area mistletoe is most often found high in the American Elm, the Sweet Gum and sometimes in the oak.

For decorators, if they really want to use mistletoe for this purpose, they should keep in mind that the plant is dioecious. That is, male and female flowers are borne on separate plants. The pink or red tipped berries are grown by the female, and the other is the male of the species.

For the "kissables" of SIU though, alas . . . there is great sadness at the University Center. No where is mistletoe to be found.

Have heart though. With or without the holiday merriment of mistletoe, American ingenuity will surely win out.

Cram Early - Avoid The Rush

Want the inside story on cramming for finals, complete with information on coffee drinking, sleepless nights and the forbidden benzedrine?

If so, read on because we've collected some interesting information from University Physician Joseph Miranti and psychologist Nell A. Carrier.

Normal cramming procedure is to wait until finals are looming close, then really "hit the books" as you have been planning to do all quarter. With exam time fast approaching students will usually make a pot of coffee and drain the contents cup by cup until the wee hours and give in to sleep for a brief time, if at all.

Dr. Miranti warns that drinking an usually large amount of coffee, such as a pot or two, "could produce a toxic effect." He added that resistance varies with individuals, but the five grains of caffeine in every cup of coffee could add up to trouble. He is against all forms of stimulants to keep students awake.

In regard to benzedrine, Miranti warned, "a student using it is playing with fire, not just because it is against the law, but also because its effect is so quick and extreme." He emphasized that its use produces extreme anxiety.

But even well-rested students feel that apprehension of taking finals and many students, whether well rested or not, think the anxiety before a test affects their performance. So we checked on this with a psychologist.

Neil Carrier has done some work in this field. He said, "I don't know that anxiety before a test has effect on a student's performance in the examination." His work has shown little effect on multiple choice type examinations. There is probably a greater effect on performance of essay questions but he points out that the "evidence is not conclusive."

"Cramming does improve short term retention," said Carrier who favors only limited cramming. The psychologist pointed out that cramming with material already reviewed is in fact re-learning while many students who cram are going over the material for the first time.

In short, a student is wise to cram if he gets a good night's sleep. If he must carry cramming to an extreme to pass, he is better off not taking the final. The real secret of doing well though is to allot your time well during the quarter. It sounds trite but it's true and that's why it has been repeated so often.

We're taking the advice and next quarter we're really going to hit the books....

SIU Gets Two Jets As Training Aids

SIU has received two Air Force jet planes for instructional purposes.

One will be used for training aid. The other one will be stored at the airport for use in an aviation technology program planned for VTI.

GLEE CLUB ACCOMPANIST - Donna Kratzner, piano accompanist for the male Glee Club, confers with club director, Robert Kingsbury.

Coed Discovers:

Two's Company 45 Is A Throng

"And what girl wouldn't like a date with 45 guys twice a week" said Donna Kratzner, piano accompanist for SIU's male Glee Club.

"I enjoy playing for the boys for more than one reason," said Donna, "Not to mention the attention I receive, my accompaniment is beneficial to my education, pocketbook (she receives student wages from a special fund that is provided for the Glee Club), and weekends, if you know what I mean."

The 5'4" blond novice chose Southern for her education because she won the right (through a high school contest) to solo in Music Under the Stars in 1959.

Since then she has participated in such musical organizations as the Chamber Choir, University Choir, and various other instrumental ensembles.

Donna has also played the piano in the 1959 Freshmen

Talent Show, given a recital in her junior year, and been a rehearsal accompanist for the last two summer operas.

Hailing from Flora, Illinois, Donna started piano when she was six years old. Practicing from three to four hours a day, the music major and psychology minor has now progressed to the point of being able to read and concentrate on another subject while she practices her piano drills.

Donna thinks the music department is "warm" and challenging to her aptitudes. Upon graduation she intends to work in the field of musical therapy; that is the planning and teaching of recreational programs for the mentally ill.

Besides music, Donna enjoys golf, tennis, and the beach. She plans to graduate this year and will give her senior recital on January 13, including pieces by Bach, Brahms, Chopin, and Liszt.

New Personnel Director Inherits Old Problems

The two-story white frame building at 209 West Harwood, known as the Personnel Office, houses a wide array of problems.

Ranging from the task of updating employee records and positions to the common space limitations found all over the campus, the job of trying to solve them has fallen on the shoulders of a newcomer to the SIU campus.

Gene C. Turner, a former registrar and supervisor of the Personnel Office at the Edwardsville campus, has taken over the job of personnel director for the SIU office.

Sitting relaxed in his improvised office—prescribed by the bounds of a removable partition—Turner leaned forward on his desk, smiled and explained that his goals are similar to those of the former personnel director Max M. Sappenfield.

"I have a great deal of respect for the policies of Sappenfield. Many of his policies are very sound, but they need revision," Turner said.

As far as procedure is concerned, Turner pointed out, "it basically will be the same thing, but revised and brought up to date."

"The biggest problem for me is getting my feet on the ground. The problem is becoming organized with particular problems on this campus. There are a unique set of problems on this campus," he said.

One of these is the size of the SIU campus, Turner said. "It's about five times as large as the Edwardsville campus, and there are five times as many problems."

"The classification of civil service employees is a continual problem," he explained.

"Where the position has changed, we have to make an evaluation and bring it up to date."

Other problems the SIU alumnus faces are space limitations, personnel and equipment.

"We have to take the existing space, personnel and equipment and do the best possible," he said.

"Another, I guess this is a personal problem," Turner added, "is getting to know various labor organizations in the area. Area labor relations is a never ending problem."

The crew-cut, pleasant looking new director indicates that this is one of the easier problems to deal with. "I was pleasantly surprised with labor relations in this area," Turner added.

"The men are very reasonable, very intelligent. From my viewpoint the relations are very excellent. They're not out to stick the University. They want to work with the University," he said.

Born in southern Illinois, but reared in East Alton, Turner said he has found this part of the state to be an

Graduate Named Health Educator At Alton Hospital

Jim Wiggs, a graduate of SIU, has been appointed mental health educator at the Alton State Hospital. A native of Benton, he majored in journalism at Southern.

Wiggs worked about four years as a reporter for the Southern Illinoisian. He replaces Kenneth Jaeger, also a graduate of the SIU Journalism Department.

Summer Institutes Scheduled For Biology And Math Teachers

High school biology and mathematics teachers will be offered updating courses through summer institutes at Southern again next year.

The institutes will be made possible by grants totalling $123,300 made to SIU for that purpose by the National Science Foundation.

One grant for $59,700 was earmarked for an eight-week institute for biology teachers to be directed by Isaac Schechmeister of the microbiology department. Between 45 and 50 teachers will be accepted for this program.

Another 50 teachers will be accepted for a mathematics institute under the direction of Morton Kenner. A grant of $63,600 was designated for this purpose.

Doctoral Fellowships Available Now In Elementary Education

The National Defense Education Act will make possible two doctoral fellowships at Southern for students who want to work in the field of elementary education.

The awards are set up to allow full-time work.

Under terms of the fellowship, a student would receive $2,000 for the first year,

$2,200 for the second year, $2,400 for the third year, plus $400 for each dependent.

Applications are invited from students experienced in elementary education and with superior grades in graduate school.

Deadline for applying to Dr. J. Murray Lee, Elementary Education Department, is Feb. 1, 1963.

DECK THE HALLS

When you think of Christmas gifts you naturally think of Marlboro cigarettes, leading seller in flip-top box in all fifty states—and if we annex Wales, in all fifty-one—and if we annex Lapland—in all fifty-two. This talk about annexing Wales and Lapland is, incidentally, not just idle speculation. Great Britain wants to trade Wales to the United States for a desert. Great Britain needs a desert desperately on account of the tourist trade. Tourists are always coming up to the Prime Minister or the Lord Privy Seal or like that and saying, "I'm not knocking your country, mind you. It's very quaint and picturesque, etc. what with Buckingham Palace and Bovril and Scotland Yard, etc., but where's your desert?" (Before I forget, let me point out that Scotland Yard, Britain's plain-clothes police branch, was named after Wally Scotland and Fred Yard who invented plain clothes. The American plain-clothes force is called the FBI after Frank B. Inehcliff, who invented fingerprints. Before Mr. Inehcliff's invention, everybody's fingers were absolutely glassy smooth. This, as you may imagine, played hob with the identification of newborn babies in hospitals. From 1791 until 1904 no American parent

... Some of them well over eighty ever brought home the right baby from the hospital. This later became known as the Black Tom Explosion.)

But I digress. England, I was saying, wants to trade Wales for a desert. Sweden wants to trade Lapland for Frank B. Inehcliff. The reason is that Swedes to this day still don't have fingerprints. As a result, identification of babies in Swedish hospitals is so haphazard that Swedes flatly refuse to bring their babies home. There are, at present, nearly a half-billion unclaimed babies in Swedish hospitals—some of them well over eighty years old.

But I digress. We were speaking of Christmas gifts which naturally put us in mind of Marlboro cigarettes. What could be more welcome at Christmas time than Marlboro's flavor, Marlboro's soft pack, Marlboro's flip-top box? What indeed would be more welcome at any time of year—winter or summer, rain or shine, night or day? Any time, any season, when you light a Marlboro you can always be certain that you will get the same mild, flavorful, completely comfortable smoke.

There are, of course, other things you can give for Christmas besides Marlboro cigarettes. If, for example, you are looking for something to give a music lover, let me call to your attention a revolutionary new development in phonographs—the Low-fi phonograph. The Low-fi, product of years of patient research, has so little fidelity to the record you put on it that if, for instance, you put "Stardust" on the turntable, "Melancholy Baby" will come out. This is an especially welcome gift for people who have grown tired of "Stardust".

Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night.

When you think of Christmas gifts you naturally think of Marlboro cigarettes, leading seller in flip-top box in all fifty states—and if we mean Wales, in all fifty-one, and if we annex Lapland, in all fifty-two. This talk about annexing Wales and Lapland is, incidentally, not just idle speculation. Great Britain wants to trade Wales to the United States for a desert. Great Britain needs a desert desperately an account of the tourist trade. Tourists are always coming up to the Prime Minister or the Lord Privy Seal or like that, and saying, "I'm not knocking your country, mind you. It's very quaint and picturesque, etc. what with Buckingham Palace and Bovril and Scotland Yard, etc., but where's your desert?" (Before I forget, let me point out that Scotland Yard, Britain's plain-clothes police force, was named after Wally Scotland and Fred Yard who invented plain clothes. The American plain-clothes force is called the FBI after Frank B. Infield, who invented fingerprints. Before Mr. Infield's invention, everybody's fingers were absolutely glassy smooth. This, as you may imagine, played hell with the identification of newborn babies in hospitals. From 1791 until 1904 no American parent

Assignment: find new ways to reduce vehicle weight

Action: Now under Army test, a Ford-designed glass filament torsion bar that's lighter, stronger, more flexible than steel

"Looks like you've got something there," the Army Tank Command said in effect to Ford Motor Company engineers. "Let's do a feasibility study on tracklaying military vehicles." The story begins in 1957 when Ford engineers conceived the idea of a plastic bonded glass filament torsion bar for vehicle suspension systems. It was a revolutionary departure from the use of solid steel. It promised dramatic savings in battle tanks, in personnel carriers and other military vehicles. For example, as much as 1,000 pounds in medium tanks.

Compared to steel, the tubular shaped glass filament composition has greater energy storage potential—is stronger and more flexible under heavy load. It may well prove to be the automobile suspension material of tomorrow—cars suspended on glass!

Another example of engineering leadership at Ford and new ideas for the American Road.

ever brought home the right baby from the hospital. This later became known as the Black Tom Explosion.

But I digress. England, I was saying, wants to trade Wales for a desert. Sweden wants to trade Lapland for Frank B. Infield. The reason is that Sweden to this day still don't have fingerprints. As a result, identification of babies in Swedish hospitals is so haphazard that Swedes flatly refuse to bring their babies home. There are, at present, nearly a half-dozen unnamed babies in Swedish hospitals—some of them well over eighty years old.

But I digress. We were speaking of Christmas gifts which naturally put us in mind of Marlboro cigarettes. What could be more welcome at Christmas time than Marlboro's flavor, Marlboro's soft pack, Marlboro's flip-top box? What indeed would be more welcome at any time of year—winter or summer, rain or shine, night or day? Any time, any season, when you light a Marlboro you can always be certain that you will get the same mild, flavorful, completely nondescript smoke.

There are, of course, other things you can give for Christmas besides Marlboro cigarettes. If, for example, you are looking for something to give a music lover, let me call to your attention a revolutionary new development in phonographs, the Low-fi phonograph. The Low-fi, product of years of patient research, has so little fidelity to the record you put on it that if, for instance, you put "Stardust" on the turntable, "Melancholy Baby" will come out. This is an especially welcome gift for people who have grown tired of "Stardust."

Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night.

The Anatomy Of A Professional Criminal

Cockney Crook Tells Feelings About His Life

Tom Parker and Robert Allerton. The Courage of His Convictions, p. 182. New York: W. W. Norton and Co., 1962. $3.95

Since Oscar Wilde penned The Ballad of Reading Gaol in the late Nineteenth Century, innumerable "inside" stories of prisons and the criminal mind have been written by inmates of penal and correctional institutions. Most have been billed as "exposes", "firsts" or "required reading." Few have contributed new insights and understandings. None have excelled The Ballad for sheer beauty and emotional impact.

Now comes Tony Parker, a writer and interpolator of six months extended conversations with a confirmed British criminal, Robert Allerton, cocky Cockney, reared in London's East Side slums, proclaims his way of life: "I'll willingly gamble away a third of my life in prison, so long as I can live the way I want for the other two-thirds."

At 33, he has served 12-17/2 years in institutions for an assorted array of offenses ranging from theft to house robbery, through assault on police to safe blowing.

What manner of man is this who says, "I've no intention of going straight, I'm just being more careful, that's all"? The book is concerned with that precise question. To get at the answers, Parker spent innumerable evenings in tape recorded conversations with Allerton after his latest release from prison. From the recordings he has skillfully extracted and edited a unique story of the development of that tragic enigma in our society, the professional criminal.

Allerton's father was his only relative who was "straight", that is, vocationally non-criminal. A pseudo intellectual, he was perennially unemployed. The grandfather was an accomplished pickpocket. Six uncles, all brothers and friends were thieves. The immediate family of mother, father, and six children lived in a two room cold water flat anchored in a deteriorated, bug-infested, delinquency-ridden neighborhood. In that social cesspool, Allerton was born and bred, learned his first survival lessons in a social culture destined to produce a pattern of existence consistent with his slimy slum surroundings.

The book reveals the natural development of a criminal career. One must accept the logic of the subject's behavior and his responses to the stimuli of his surroundings. For him to have become an accepted leader, a scholar, a government clerk, a teacher, would have been the miracle of Robert Allerton. His career ran the gamut: hatred of cops, school dropout, truant, petty thief, hater of teachers, contemptuous of religion, con- niver, carouser. He was expelled from school, court martialed in the Royal Army, behavior problem in prison, defiler of women. His entire life is an ethical photographic negative. The blacks are white. The whites are black. All chromatics are reversed from the normal.

The self-recital of his development is handled unusually and successfully by Tony Parker. Steadily, the tragedy of a distorted life unfolds as the subject tells his story. In a later chapter Allerton responds to direct questions on his life, morals, attitudes and relations to other people he has known: family, friends, police, judges, prison officials, fellow criminals.

I find this fellow Allerton an all too familiar and tragic figure, repeated again and again in every major prison. The first confirmed professional criminal I ever knew was Sam, a mail robber serving 25 years for his latest caper. Sam's life began in the slums of Philadelphia. When I first knew him more than thirty years ago, he was an inmate clerk assigned to my office in the Atlanta Penitentiary. Sam knew more of the prison how-to-do-it than did I. He was of, inestimable help to me, a young caseworker who had been injected into the prison over the wishes of the old conservative warden. Sam had a phenomenal intellect and memory. (He could recite back correctly the car numbers of every boxcar in a long train after it had sped by the prison on the nearby Southern R.R. tracks.) With only a formal fifth grade education, he knew literature, something of art, was a master at chess, an erudite cynic of government policies, stimulating and sparkling in conversation. One could only think again and again: If Sam only would have used his talents constructively! But to Sam and to Bob Allerton they are using their talents to the only end consistent with their unhappy and distorted life experiences. They are remarkable and depressing men to those of us who can see only tragedy and pathos in their distorted value systems.

Then why read The Courage of His Convictions? Why experience the sense of loss and human tragedy which can only follow the reading? Delinquency and its later life pattern or criminality remains one of the great social concerns of our society. The problem is of deepest concern to the United Nations Commission on Social Defense, to President Kennedy's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and to the many foundations pouring millions of dollars into demonstration projects and research in the exploration for new answers. To any person who would understand the tragic distortion of human personality which produces delinquent behavior, this book, in a few short hours, will do the job.

Lastly, all things considered, including the nature of Bob Allerton's courage, the book might have been titled more appropriately "The Convictions of His Courage".

Right Book, Wrong Reviewer

The above review of the book "The Courage of His Convictions" is reprinted in today's Egyptian in its entirety because the reviewer was incorrectly identified when it appeared in last Friday's Egyptian.

Myrl E. Alexander, director of SIU's Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Correction, wrote the review. However, it was incorrectly credited to Orville E. Alexander, professor of government and chairman of the Department of Government, in Friday's Egyptian.

The Egyptian regrets the error and any embarrassment it may have caused either Myrl E. Alexander or Orville E. Alexander.

Civil Engineering Major Helps Build Southern Between Classes

James Randles not only is a student at SIU -- he's helping built it.

Randles is a full-time civil engineering major and works at the same time as a field engineer for the J. L. Simmons Construction Company which is building the new College of Education building.

He averages about 30 hours a week on the job during the school year while taking a full load of courses and he works full time during the vacation periods.

"I have been working my way through school for five years by working on engineering projects," says Randles.

One of Randles bigger jobs has been the engineering of the five new Thompson Point dormitories.

Working can create problems if you have classes to attend.

"On Monday, Wednesday, Friday, I work in the afternoons," he said, "and on Tuesday and Thursday I work all day."

Changing clothes gets to be a chore, but I've gotten use to it. Usually I have time to change, but I often go to class in my work clothes."

When asked if he enjoyed his work, Randles replied: "I sure do. I love the experience I get out here, and the people I work with. Really I'm quite a lucky guy because I get to apply what I learn in my classes to my job."

He expects to graduate this spring, and is planning to go into structural steel erection with the American Bridge Company.
