Textbooks For Spring Issued On March 27

Textbooks will be issued for the spring quarter on Wednesday, March 27, according to Elizabeth O. Stone, assistant director of libraries for public service. All students are to get their books on that day.

Books will be issued at the hours designated to students whose names begin with letters listed: S through Z from 8 a. m. until 11 a. m.; L through R from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m.; E through K from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m.; A through D from 5 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Miss Stone said that between 5 and 9 p. m. books will be issued to any student who has a Wednesday night class. Students working on campus who cannot obtain their books on March 27 may get them on Tuesday, March 26.

Service Open Evenings

Next term the textbook service will be open one week in the evenings from 6 until 9 p. m. for those students who are enrolled in only night classes.

Students should consult the list of textbooks which is at the circulation desk in the Library, in the

Applications Out For Obelisk Staff Positions

Applications for paid editorial positions on the 1958 Obelisk are available at the Obelisk office and Student Union desk, according to Dick Hunsaker, Journalism Council chairman. All students, regardless of experience on the Obelisk, are eligible to apply.

Obelisk editors for next year will be appointed by the Journalism Council at a meeting to be held during the first week of spring term.

Changes in the composition of the Obelisk editorial staff and salary increases were approved by the council at a meeting earlier this week. Formerly made up of an editor and two associate editors, the Obelisk staff as approved by the council will, beginning next year, have three associate editors and an editor.

The new salary scale approved by the council pays $575 a month to the editor and $40 a month to associate editors. Salaries will be equal each month, a change from the former sliding scale plan where by salaries increased each term.

Following a Journalism Council decision at a January meeting, new Obelisk editors will be allowed to hold no other paid job and will be limited to participation in other than honorary societies. They may not hold major office in any campus organization.

New editors appointed by the Journalism Council will take office at the beginning of spring term and begin work on planning the 1958 Obelisk almost immediately.

Editors of the 1957 Obelisk, finishing out their terms of office are Don Hargus editor and Myra Edelman and Jo Falkenstein.

Journalism Council Names Hecke New Egyptian Head

IRC Goes To Midwest Meet

A delegation from the SIU International Relations Club will attend the Midwest Conference of International Relations Clubs this weekend at Hope College in Holland, Mich.

Several members of the SIU club will participate in the program. Dr. Donald Grubb, assistant professor of journalism, estimates that the conference will attract more than 300 student journalists from the southern 31 counties of Illinois.

Program plans for the day will include 16 group discussions on all phases of high school publication.

The theme of this year's conference has been designated as "The School Press and Southern Illinois." Guest speaker at the affair will be Gifford Hughes, executive secretary of Southern Illinois Incorporated. SII is a fact-finding organization.

Dr. Howard R. Long, chairman of the journalism department, has announced that selected candidates for the six SIUSPA scholarships will be interviewed during the conference. Deadline for scholarship applications is March 15.

LADIES' LIDS

Anything from Hank's oversized ash tray to wife's mischievous bowl can be used as a prop in the Dames Club Crazy Hat Show Sunday at the Student Union from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Hats must be made from any household object, and judging will be based on original creation.

This is the third meeting of the term for the Dames Club, which has a current membership of more than 100. Also, on the program, the Arts and Crafts group will model individual created straw hats for spring.

One example of a crazy hat, designed by one of the members, is a lampshade, filled with grass. Lester eggs and an Easter bunny. Others are expected to be equally as zany, with first prize being a bracelet and matching earrings. Second and third prizes will be earnings only.

Judges for the fashion show will be Rita Whisler, Mrs. Carlton Rasche, Mrs. W. A. Thalman, and Irene Lewis of Irene's Florist Shop.

Coffee and cake will be served.

MRH To Hold Open Houses

The annual Men's Residence Halls Open House "will be the most spectacular in SIU's history as far as an all MRH function goes," according to Jack Buckle, supervisor of Men's Residence Halls.

No central theme has been selected, however. Instead, individual house themes will be chosen.

All of the houses including Men's Residence Halls, with the exception of Southern Arts, will hold their open houses on Friday from 7:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. Southern Arts has scheduled its open house on Saturday afternoon, April 13.

The night cap for the two-day open house will be a dance at the new Thompson Point Cafeteria. The dance starts at 8 p. m. and ends at 12 midnight.

An appropriate theme for the dance has been announced. It's called "April in Paris."

The cafeteria area will be decorated to resemble streets of Paris. There will be sidewalk exhibits, wandering minstrels, continuous music, by both recorded and live bands, and the outside will be decorated in French cafe style.

The Eiffel tower, symbol of Paris, will also be constructed on a miniature scale to closely resemble Parisian scenes and settings.

"We are going all out to make thorough out decorations, theme and atmosphere," Gary Clark publicity chairman said.

Judging for the open house will be based on originality for best decorations and theme. Trophies will be awarded for the best room.

Chinese Writer, Counselor Here For Speeches

Mr. Chaun-Nua Lowe, writer, lecturer, and public relations at present chairman of the Chinese Embassy in Washington, D. C., will appear on Southern's campus this Wednesday and Thursday by invitation of Dr. H. J. Rehn, Dean of Business.

Mr. Rehn and Lowe have been personal friends since they met in 1930 when Rehn was inaugurating a new school of business in Shanghai, China, at the University of Chiao-Tung.

The Chinese International Relations Club will sponsor a talk by Lowe at a public meeting at 7 p. m., Wednesday, in the University Studio Studio Theater.

Mrs. Lowe, an expert on Chinese-American relations, will talk on the various problems of China today. She will give a first hand-information received while he was in Formosa last summer.

A reception was being arranged by Dean Rehn at his home, Thursday night, where Lowe will meet with the 15 Chinese students and faculty members on campus. Lowe will show and discuss slides taken in Formosa.

Mrs. Lowe has had 33 years of experience in public affairs and been head of the industrial department of the Chinese National Committee of China; Director of the Shanghai office of China International Famine Relief Commission; representative of the Chinese Government Information Office in Hong Kong, Burma, India, South America and Canada.

From 1949 to 1952 Lowe was consultant on Oriental Affairs for a Canadian airline. Before he was appointed counselor in the Chinese Embassy in Washington, Lowe served two years as executive director of the National Association in Berkeley, California.

Mrs. Lowe is also the author of many books which include: "Factory Legislation in China," "Facing Labor Issues in China," and "China's Twenty Four Year Struggle Against Communism."

Sorority Women Vie Tomorrow In Ole-Impics

Flying eggs, three-legged races, and a new queen will highlight the first annual Ole-Impics tomorrow in McAndrew Stadium.

The first in what is hoped to be an annual event, SIU's sorority coeds will compete in a series of games vying for a gold traveling trophy.

The candidates for Ole-Impics are Margie Walker, Alpha Kappa Alpha; Bernice Barker, Delta Zeta; Jerry Kugel, Pi Kappa Sigma; Pat Cook, Sigma Kappa; Peggy O'Brien, Sigma Sigma Sigma; and Bob Brackelmann, Nu Delta Sigma.

The list of events which promise to be the most exciting of the year will be the crowning of the queen.

The queen will be elected by popular vote. A voting booth is set up in front of the Student Union today.

High School Press Meet Here April 13

The seventh annual conference of the Southern Illinois High School Press Association will be held at SIU April 13. It will be a one-day meeting.

Dr. Donald Grubb, assistant professor of journalism, estimates that the conference will attract more than 300 student journalists from the southern 31 counties of Illinois.

Program plans for the day will include 16 group discussions on all phases of high school publication.

The theme of this year's conference has been designated as "The School Press and Southern Illinois." Guest speaker at the affair will be Gifford Hughes, executive secretary of Southern Illinois Incorporated. SII is a fact-finding organization.

Dr. Howard R. Long, chairman of the journalism department, has announced that selected candidates for the six SIUSPA scholarships will be interviewed during the conference. Deadline for scholarship applications is March 15.

Wesley Group Considers Church In Communities

At the regular meeting of the Wesley Foundation Monday, Dr. John Barnes, field representative for the six SIUSPA scholarships, discussed the "Role of the Church in Improving of the Community." After the talk, a discussion was held.

Working students a block of time and choice of classes is a possibility to be given classes in three of the spaces of time (morning, afternoon, evening, and Saturday), but no student should be given classes in all four periods.

The Student Council polled 100 living groups to find out how many students have classes through the noon and evening meal times and cannot eat. They found that 137 students out of 927 who replied had classes conflicting with their meals.

A subsequent poll to find out the circumstances involved in scheduling meal time classes showed that out of 70 students with class through the noon or evening meal time 14 wanted the schedule changed and 56 had no alternative because of single-sex classes. In 39 cases, however, an alternative was available, but was denied to the student by the Sectioning Center.

Dr. McGrath, University registrar, examined a random sample of class schedules and found similar conditions.

The Student Council, with the approval of President Morris, has recommended a full-time public relations man to work in the Sectioning Center, advising students who are not satisfied with the schedules given them.

President Morris and Dr. McGrath plan to discuss solutions and proposals at a meeting of the

Mu Phi Epsilon Meet On Campus Saturday

The east-central province of Mu Phi Epsilon will hold its district conference on campus Saturday.

Mu Phi Epsilon is a national honorary music sorority.

"Five points of the National Program" will be discussed at a round-table meeting at 10:30 a. m. The moderator will be Pauline Baker, national third vice president of the organization. She is the alumni adviser and governor of the east-central province.

Among the things to be discussed at the meeting will be pledge training, office training for the collegiate chapters, and participation in national projects by college and alumni chapters, according to Marilyn Rains, general chairman of the local chapter.

Miss Baker will speak on the activities of the organization at 12 p. m. At a luncheon in the cafeteria Roy Harris, visiting professor of music, will speak on the "Influence of Women in Music." At 4 p. m. Henry A. Bruinsma, chairman of the music department, will give a talk.

Film, Immortal Love

A film entitled "Immortal Love" was shown, yesterday at the Wesley Foundation. It was one of a series of films that have been shown on television as part of the program. "The Way" movie concerns an important crisis arising in a particular family and how they solved it, with the help of God's love.

Two USA Men Speak At JSA Meeting

Bert Masterson and Francis T. Leary of the United Press will be the guest speakers at the Journalism Students Association meeting on Wednesday night, March 13.

This is the third "Jobs in Journalism" lecture this quarter.

A brief business meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. There will be election of officers, and the new officers will be announced at the Journalism Day Dinner, April 19.

The meeting will be held in the University Studio Theater.

The other two men who have spoken to the group this quarter are Ben Hartley of the Post Mill Magazine and Louis Roper of De Soto, Mo. Jefferson - Republic Masterson and Leary are with the United Press in the Chicago office. Leary is news manager and Masterson is division manager.

Council Meets With Morris About Sectioning Problems

By Ruthann Reeves

"We have had two meetings with Dr. McGrath and President Morris," Sonnie Unger, Student Council president, said by way of explaining the situation of the class scheduling problem.

"They wanted to tell us the circumstances which make Saturday and evening classes necessary," Miss Unger said. "They told us that lack of classroom space is forcing departments to offer as many Saturday and evening classes as they offer during the daytime."

Dr. McGrath explained that the method of scheduling students under one of the three plans A, B, and C, is no longer possible.

The policy now is to give working students a block of time and choice of classes. It is possible to be given classes in three of the spaces of time (morning, afternoon, evening, and Saturday), but no student should be given classes in all four periods.

The Student Council polled 100 living groups to find out how many students have classes through the noon and evening meal times and cannot eat. They found that 137 students out of 927 who replied had classes conflicting with their meals.

Complacency Or Apathy

Is the entire campus so complacent with the fact that the SIU budget request will pass the legislature without opposition or so apathetic toward it that they don't feel there is any need for effort to insure passage?

If it is the case, then the situation is truly a sad one.

Contrary to popular belief, there is opposition to the measure both upstate and in Southern Illinois, and these opponents are making an active campaign against passage of the budget as it stands now.

In 1955, the original budget was trimmed to what the legislature thought was necessary. As a result there was need for an emergency appropriation to enable SIU to finish out the biennium.

Also in 1955, there was an active, organized campaign on the part of the students to help the budget over the rough points.

In spite of this student activity, the budget was less than requested when it finally was passed. So far this year there has been no conceivable movement, at least no noticeable one, toward the objective.

There must be student activity in support of the budget. If the students aren't wholeheartedly in back of this institution, how can the legislators, especially the upstate ones, be expected to find it worthwhile to approve it?

There are several groups, the Student Council, APO, Inter-Fraternity Council, Pan-Hellenic Council, Girls' Rally, Student Union Board, ISA and others, with a little activity in that direction.

The groundwork has been done; the final labor rests with the students. How much is done could be the difference between success and failure.

'King Solomon's Mines' Shows Twice Tonight

"King Solomon's Mines" starring Deborah Kerr, Stewart Granger, and Richard Carlson, will be shown in the University School auditorium, Friday, March 8, at 6:30 and 8:30 p. m.

The movie brings to the screen the adventures of two men who venture into Africa to find the fabulous treasure of King Solomon's mines. The movie is based on H. Rider Haggard's novel of a woman who penetrates darkest Africa in search of her lost husband, only to be thrown into a cave, which is then sealed to leave her and members of her party to a slow and miserable death.

MAIL BOX

To The Editor:

I would like to congratulate you and your staff for the stir of interest which your series of comments contributed by the students has aroused. The attitudes as displayed by both readers and contributors have been healthy ones. It seems to me as a fan that the only really unhealthy attitude would be one of indifference.

Since this seems to be a "voice your opinion" year for the Egyptian, I would also like to voice mine. In answer to such people as Mr. Bowers and Mr. Chitry, it is a prerequisite to a knowledge of basketball or any other sport that the person voicing an opinion be either a Physical Ed. major or a varsity letterman? I don't think admirers of Adolph Rupp would concur with that theory. In addition, I agree with some of my peers in saying that there is valuable material within the ranks of the intramural program which holders would not play for Mr. Holder or were passed over during the first few practices. One worthy supporter of the coaching regime stated naively that anyone who had the talent could feel perfectly free to contact the coaches and try out; oh come now! Agreed, Mr. Holder is a fine man, but what in the world has that to do with his capabilities as a basketball coach? I feel that anyone who goes into the coaching profession has to expect this sort of thing from his sports fans. I have, in the past, been in contact with at least five former SIU basketball players, all of whom agreed that when they played here at Southern it was (and I quote), "alley ball." Now don't tell me that any fan with a normal amount of experience cannot tell by observation when a team is or is not well-coached. As a long time fan and student (who, naturally is not expected to know much, as one who is in a field not allied with Physical Education), I say that what the fan who attends a game here at Southern sees is not basketball. The game involves more than bringing the ball down and shooting it; the theory being that the team which gets the most shots is the more likely to win. This is probably true enough.

The recent victories over Normal and Western can, in my humble opinion, be attributed mainly to hustle, spirit, and sheer determination to win. This cannot be credited to good coaching, Western, at least, had infinitely more individual talent on the floor. By logical reasoning the conclusion to be drawn is since Western had more talent, and since Southern won the game, it must have been because of good coaching. I don't feel this was true. I understand "Six" Morely has never won a game on Southern's home floor, and it has been a long time since Western has won here. No one can honestly say the best team won, but the indomitable spirit of Southern's team just would not admit defeat.

Granted, Southern cannot offer the kind of "deal" which would induce players of the caliber of Archie Dees or Don Oll to come to school, but I don't really see anything wrong with the talent available here. I won't embarrass anyone who participated in the intramural program by naming names, but there were many of various caliber (the opinion of "laymen," of course).

Thus, I have joined the other brave gentlemen who have harangued against the coaching regime. Probably it will do no good since Mr. Holder has been here eleven years now. How long will this go on?

Residence Hall Officer Injures Ankle Dancing

Gary Clark, president of Thompson Point No. 3 executive council, fell while dancing at an exchange party last Sunday, suffering a swollen and possibly broken ankle.

He was taken to Doctors Hospital where X-rays were examined. It was disclosed that further X-rays would have to be taken to determine the absolute nature of the injury.

He was with a group from Thompson Point which was holding an exchange party with Johnson Co-op. They had just returned from an ice skating party at the Murphyboro Ice Rink where Egyptian managing editor, Jack Thacher, broke his ankle last week.

Johnson Hall Nips Woody In House Tourney

Two games were played on Monday night in the women's house basketball tournament. Johnson Hall nipped Woody Hall 34-28 in the opener, thanks to a 25 point scoring spurge by Lane. Darlene Wenner led the Woody team with 13.

In the second contest, Woody Hall A-3 defeated La Casa M-2 29-21, behind free 23 points of Nella Hammack. Johnson Point netted 12 for the losers.

Finger-vagging townspeople confronted the impostor, Gianni Schicchi, in a climactic scene of Puccini's comic opera, "Gianni Schicchi," scheduled to be staged by the SIU Open Workshop at SIU during the First Arts Festival April 12. Robert Walker plays the lead others in the photo are: Ruth Batts, Philip Falcone, Burke Fry, Jo and David Davidson. The group will also present Vaughn Williams' "Riders to the Sea" in both appearances.

Dorms To Name 'Miss Thompson Point' April 6

At a joint meeting of the Thompson Point units, plans were initiated for the first annual "Miss Thompson Point" contest, according to Gary Clark, co-chairman of the Queen's Selection Committee.

Official crowning of the queen will come during a dance at the Thompson Point Dining Hall Saturday night April 6, following a gala weekend of the Point's first open house activity, which starts on April 5.

Entry blanks will be sent out to all women's organized houses. Any candidate must send a picture along with the application to Gary Clark, Room 309, Thompson Point No. 3. Also, residents may pick their own candidates.

A Queens Selection Committee, composed of 6 residents from each of the units, will select 12 finalists on Friday, April 5. The Queen and her four attendants will be chosen by the entire body of the two dormitory units by a voting process.

On Sunday, Mar. 31, four days prior to the elimination finals, all candidates are to attend a coffee hour at the Thompson Point Dining Hall to get acquainted with the residents of the area.

The queen's identity will be announced during the latter part of the dance. She will represent Thompson Point in the "Miss Southern" contest in the spring term, and will represent the Point on all other occasions.

Summer Jobs Available Work Office Has Job Openings For Students

"A number of jobs are available now to students with specialized skills who are looking for summer work," Mrs. Alice Reur, Student Work Office, said recently.

"We have received several offers for full-time work for students in chemistry, physics, engineering, and applied science," Mrs. Reur said.

Following are some of the positions made available to students. Interested persons can get more information at the Student Work Office.

American Association of State Highway Officials needs junior, senior, and graduate engineering students to help them with their road test from June through September. One of the purposes of the test is to determine the feasibility of varying types and construction of pavements to known weights and speeds of traffic.

Anderson Prichard Oil Corp. of Chicago wants juniors majoring in chemistry and physics to work in its laboratories.

Applicants for these civilian jobs must be citizens of the United States, a high school graduate or have the equivalent in education and experience, pass a physical examination, and make a statement of varying types and construction of pavements to known weights and speeds of traffic.

Typists must be able to type 40 words per minute; stenographers must be able to type 40 words per minute and take dictation at 80 words per minute.

"What's it like to be in ## BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION AT IBM?"

Two years ago, Robert Everett asked himself this question. Today, as Administrative Assistant to the Divisional Controller, Bob reviews his experience at IBM and gives some pointers that may be helpful to you in taking the first, most important step in your business career.

Filtering out the "hot" projects

Promoted the same year

Fy December of the same year, Bob was promoted to his present job: Administrative Assistant to the Controller of the Data Processing Division. "The first function of an Administrative Assistant," says Bob, "is to filter out the 'hot' projects from those that can be handled later. You follow through on projects assigned by the controller and keep him posted on their progress." Bob's new position affords a pleasant diversification of work: charting divisional responsibilities of the controller's function... plans for decentralization... costs of regionalization... summarizing key financial and statistical information for presentation to top management.

Bob points out that there are many areas in Business Administration at IBM for men with an M.B.A. or a B.S. in accounting: corporate, general, and factory accounting; internal audit; methods; payroll and taxes. Administrative and management positions constantly open up at World Headquarters, IBM's 188 branch offices, many plants and laboratories.

Why Bob picked IBM

Bob made a careful study of existing opportunities before selecting IBM for his career. He had a dozen campus interviews; took nine company tours. IBM's M.B.A. program interested him—because, as he says, "It gave me a chance to review the entire company before starting an actual line assignment." He was intrigued by the increasing use of data processing equipment in finance and he knew that IBM was a leader in this field. Salary-wise, he found IBM better than many, but it was company growth potential that motivated his choice. "Opportunity certainly exists at IBM," he says. "Growth factors alone will account for many new executive positions. A second factor is the trend toward decentralization, which also creates new jobs. These factors, plus IBM's 'promote-from-within' policy, add up to real opportunity."

"Opportunity certainly exists at IBM"

IBM hopes that this message will help to give you some idea of what it's like to be in Business Administration at IBM. There are equal opportunities for E.E.'s, M.E.'s, agronomists, mathematicians and Liberal Arts majors in IBM's many divisions—Research, Product Development, Manufacturing Engineering, Sales and Sales Assistance. Why not drop in and discuss IBM with your Placement Director? He can supply our latest brochure that tell you when IBM will next interview on your campus. Meanwhile, our Manager of College Relations, Mr. P. H. Bradley, will be happy to answer your questions. Write him at: IBM, Room 10002, 690 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y.

—BECAUSE I'M SKIPPING CLASSES TODAY AND I DON'T WANT ANY OF THESE PROFS TO RECOGNIZE ME.

Winter Exam Schedule

Final exams for the winter quarter will start on Thursday, March 14, and continue through Tuesday, March 19.

Examinations will begin at 8:00 a.m. and run for one hour and 50 minutes except for classes which meet only once or twice a week. Examinations for these classes will begin at the hour or the half hour, and will run for 50 minutes.

When an examination conflict occurs, the student is to take the exam that has the most credit hours. The instructor of the course that has the fewer number of hours is to arrange another time for the student to take that exam.

Any student who must miss the final exam may not take it before the time scheduled for the class. In such a case the instructor records a "W" followed by the tentative grade with an "I" indicating the number of weeks at risk. A "W" grade must be completed within one year from the end of the term. If not, it will be recorded as an incomplete grade.

Potential Drafts Check Status With Registrar

Students whose academic year ends this quarter and who have to keep an I-S or U-S deferment must go to the Registrar's Office and request a new 109 form.

This form must be forwarded to their draft board if they are to keep their status.

Any student who is unsure of his draft status should contact the Registrar's Office.

Profs Write

An exhibit of books written since 1940 by SIU faculty members are on display in the Library. About 36 books are being shown.

This does not represent all of the books by faculty authors, according to Ruth Bauner, assistant education librarian. She said that letters were sent to faculty members asking them for the title of their books and only those who replied are having their work exhibited.

Mrs. Bauner said that because of space limitations only one book per author is being shown. The books include text books, workbooks, a novel, research reports, and collections of papers and lectures.

The exhibit committee arranged a different display each month. Miss Bauner said that in the future there may be another exhibit of faculty work set up.

Man Behind The Scenes

Alexander Boosts Southern From Springfield Post
By Warren Talley

The existence and growth of Southern Illinois University is the product of a favorable understanding of its problems by the legislators in Springfield.

For the past 15 years, Southern's legislative representative to Springfield has been Dr. Orville Alexander, chairman of the government department.

Southern's rapid growth from a small teachers college to a large state university is reflected in Alexander's record as technical adviser to the legislators on school matters.

"In the 15 years I have handled University legislation, almost all bills favorable to Southern have been passed... the only one of importance that was defeated was the bill concerning dropping the restriction on offering summering degrees here," said Alexander.

HQ In Old Main
Dr. Alexander, a small and robust man, has his headquarters in a long, narrow office on the second floor of the Old Main building.

"I do not consider myself a lobbyist, in the traditional sense of the word," Alexander said, "for this implies spending a lot of money and having parties... this I do not do."

"Actually I have a three-fold reason for being in Springfield," said Alexander. "For the past several years I have been Director of the search of the Illinois Public School Commission. This job, and my work for the Superintendent of Public Instruction gives me an excuse to be in Springfield where I can look after the interests of Southern Illinois University."

"My actual job is to be spokesman for and to explain bills which affect the University," said Alexander, "yet the University does not pay for my activities in Springfield other than my regular professor's salary."

Travels Every Week
For the past three or four years, Alexander has traveled to Springfield every week when the legislature was in session.

"In the past five years I have not been able to remain home for the entire seven days of the week because of my work in Springfield," said Alexander.

Alexander is pointing out the importance of having a representative in Springfield to explain and advise Southern's position to legislators.

"It is relatively easy to get bills passed if no one is against them," Alexander said, "so there must be a representative of every interest to keep legislators informed so they don't unintentionally cut your throat."

The interview was cut short when Dr. Alexander had to get ready to go back to Springfield to again play the part of the man behind the scenes in Southern's development.

Don Gilliland, Miller, Frank Wilhelm, Miller, wife: Mike Purrell, Prince; George Wudke, Gohart; and Linda Love, Lady in waiting, were all playing their first roles in a college production of "The King and I" at the grade school audience with her fancy costumes and equally as fancy love-making with the Prince.

Other members of the cast were: Dan Bailey who played the King, and Linda Adams who played the role of Mother India. The production centers around a tragic, albeit dwarfed little character, Rumpelstiltskin, who resides in a "world of his own" and, with the help of the equally as hideous Mother Hulda, schemes to make life miserable for the rest of the world.

Rumpelstiltskin decides one day that he will have a baby of royal birth to bode in his pot. The dwarf does not know how to obtain this baby. Then the opportunity arises.

The Miller's Daughter, while walking near the palace, decides to pay a royal visit. Her parents follow her and all are caught in the King's private grounds of Gohart. Then the King enters. In order to make the King's daughter visit was purposeful to the Miller and his wife offer what they have with them as gifts.

The daughter has no gift, but the overly proud parents tell the King that she could give him some of her excellent weaving.

Somewhat, the King misunderstands the conversation and thinks the Miller's Daughter is able to spin straw into gold.

The King offers her queenship and marriage to the Prince if she spins gold for him money bins and death if she does not.

Although, unsure of herself, through the urging of her parents, she accepts the challenge.

'Rumpilstilskin' Foiled In Pliers Presentation For Area Children

By Gary Heape

Diane Finley did a fine job of bringing Rumpilstiltskin to life on the stage of the Southern Playhouse last Monday and Tuesday afternoon. The small brunettes, who seems always to be cast as a boy, played the title role in the children's play to a completely enraptured audience of grade school children.

Dorothy Beck, graduate student in theater, did an excellent job of set designing and the directing of the play. This is one of Miss Beck's first plays. It was Don Gilliland, Miller, Frank Wilhelm, Miller, wife: Mike Purrell, Prince; George Wudke, Gohart; and Linda Love, Lady in waiting, were all playing their first roles in a college production of "The King and I" at the grade school audience with her fancy costumes and equally as fancy love-making with the Prince.

Madrigals and Faculty Give Concert Sunday

Music of the Renaissance will be presented by the University Madrigal Singers and the Faculty Recorder Quartet Sunday in Shroveton Auditorium at 4 p.m.

The recorder is the ancestor of the flute. It is an old instrument but it is becoming increasingly popular. The quartet consists of made up of music instructors. Larry Norris plays the soprano recorder; Arthur Barnes, also recorder; Phillip Olson, tenor recorder; Robert Forman, bass recorder.

The Madrigal group will sing "Fair Phyllis I Saw Sitting 'On the Plains," "The Silver Swan" by Gibbons; Morley's "April is in My Mistress' Face," "Non ti amo" by Gesualdo; and "Il Biondo Cenero" by Arcadelt.

The quartet will play "Pastime with Good Company," Henry VIII; "Barley" from "My Ladye Nevell's Booke," by Byrd; "Godwin's" "Whisker Do Me No Harm," "Good Man," "Green-sleeves" by Ballet; "The Cuckoo Dance" by Valerius; and Byrd's "Lord Willoughby."

The Madrigal Singers will also present "Bauer Was Traged in Sackel" by Dr. Lasso; "Sie Ist Mir Lieb" by Schenker; "Tanten and Springen" by Hassler; Arne's "Which is the Properest Day to Sing," Vaughn Williams' "Fain Would I Change That Note;" and "It Was a Lover and His Lass" by Stevens.

Gamma Deltas Attend Session

A trip to St. Louis is in order for Harold Burrow, senior, from Alamo, who will preside as president over the annual Gamma Delta midwestern regional convention. The convention will be held at the Roosevelt Hotel March 8-10.

Gamma Delta is a Lutheran student association represented in various colleges and universities throughout the midwestern states. Alpha Delta is the chapter in Carbondale.

Twelve colleges and universities will take part with Washington University, St. Louis University and Harris Teachers College acting as hosts.

Local chapter delegates attending the convention are: Carleen Todd, Grand Tower; Larry Kupper, Decatur; and Charlene Robinson, Litchfield.

Dr. Carl Dauter, founder of the convention, will be the main speaker.

Dr. Jacob Bach, sponsor of Gamma Delta, and the Rev. Rist, pastor of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Carbondale, will serve as advisers.
