Trustees Suggest Approval of Bid On Morris Library

The low bid received by the Illinois Building Authority in Chicago Feb. 20 for completion of Morris Library has been recommended for acceptance by the SIU board of trustees.

Board members, polled at their homes, agreed unanimously with the IBA's selection of the R. and R. Construction Company, Alton, as the low bidder for completion of the top four floors of the library building. The bid was $1,624,202. Next scheduled meeting of the SIU board is April 19.

The construction will be financed by the Illinois Building Authority.

The Illinois Central Railroad has announced that three special trains March 14, 15 and 24 will be run to provide additional transportation between Carbondale and Chicago over the spring break.

rive in Chicago at 11 p.m. The train will make only three stops enroute.

The other special train will leave Chicago on Sunday March 24 at 4:40 p.m. and arrive in Carbondale at 9:45 p.m.

Students Nearing Graduation Must Apply Now

Students planning to complete degree requirements at the end of this quarter or spring quarter this year should apply for graduation immediately, according to Sue Eberhart, assistant to the registrar.

The graduation forms may be obtained at the Registrar's Office in the records section. They must be returned to the records section after fees have been cleared.

Students who are completing teacher certification requirements for Illinois and plan to teach should apply for entitlement cards right away at the office of the dean of the College of Education.

6,527 Students Respond

Women's Poll Tallied

A total of 6,527 students, including 3,351 females, completed student government questionnaires on women's hours, final tallies show.

Coeds voting represent 72 per cent of the women affected by hours regulations, according to Ray Lenzi, student body president.

Voting totals from living areas: University Park, 896 males, 774 females, total 1,670; Woody Hall, 391 females; Small Group Housing, 440 males, 265 females, total 705; Thompson Point, 484 males, 595 females, total 1,078; off-campus, 1,356 males, 1,326 females, total 2,682.

In the voting, 5,115 said the concept of women's hours is not useful; 5,633 said they do not agree with current regulations; 6,001 said women's hours should be more liberal; 3,496 said hours should be self-determined; 1,074 said hours should be self-determined for some; and 1,079 said hours should be extended for all.

Altogether, 4,922 voted against women of any age, class or average having self-determined hours with parental permission.

3,273 said women of any age, class or average should have extended hours with parental permission; and 3,087 said hours for women of any age, class or average should be extended without parental permission.

Extended hours should apply only to those of a certain age and class according to 1,060, while 1,000 said extended hours should apply only to those of a certain age and grade-point.

Self-determined hours should apply only to those of a certain age and class, said 1,639, while 1,011 said they should apply to those with a certain age and grade-point.

Hours should not be made more liberal from quarter to quarter, 4,988 declared and 1,162 said they should.

Extended hours, if enacted, should begin with first term freshmen, said 3,403 and 1,124 said they should begin with first term sophomores.

Self-determined hours, if enacted, should begin with first term sophomores, according to 4,688.

A grade-point of 3.0 should be the average at which liberalized hours should take effect, if grade-point were considered, 3,997 declared.

Altogether, 3,248 said they believe the age for liberalizing hours should be 18, and 1,769 said 19; some 1,210 said 17.

Giving opinions on extended hours, if self-determined hours were not adopted, 3,213 said 1:30 a.m. should be hours on weekdays, and 2,977 said weekend hours should be after 3 a.m. while 1,574 said they should be at 3 a.m.

Sophomores on up should have fewer restrictions, 4,341 questionnaires showed, if some would have fewer restrictions than others.

Yet 4,046 would agree to a sign-out procedure if it were to be used only to indicate girls were not going to return by regular hours, and where girls might be reached.

A total of 5,133 said they would not sign a contract for an off-campus residence that had more restrictive hours than on-campus housing.

Six thousand said they currently live in housing with 30 or more students; 1,199 said they would man the door after regular hours once a month; 1,401 said they would

Good Job, Security

There is debate over whether the audience conducted itself properly while listening to Nazi Leader Matt Koehl last week, but there is little room for argument about one thing—SIU's administration and security officials did a meritorious job.

It is not conceivable that the entire affair could have been handled better.

We would like to mention that the officials who were responsible for the enforcement of order at the event gave students of SIU a real reason to be proud.

Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, along with Thomas Leffler, SIU security head, and enforcement officers, deserve our admiration and thanks.

It is regrettable, however, that the program did not get to continue to its planned conclusion. It did not continue due to the behavior of some of the audience, and not due to the incompetence of the security staff.

Ironic Twist To Incident

To the Daily Egyptian: Isn't it ironic that the Negro, rightfully demanding equality and freedom, failed to give just that to Nazi Leader Matt Koehl?

For one to believe that Koehl's speech would have a profound effect on the students and faculty of SIU is an absurdity, and a slap-in-the-face of this intellectual community. James L. Zegar

Fans Apathetic

To the Daily Egyptian: It appeared from the recent crisis at the basketball game against Kentucky Wesleyan that the SIU fans have much to learn about good spectatorship.

The evening was characterized by shouting, booing and throwing trash onto the floor. But the saddest thing about it was that the extent of the fans' discontent remained at that unenthusiastic level.

The audacity of that referee who didn't take Judy Willis' harmless overtures in good spirit! How is it possible that we let him slip away from us? He was only guarded by two policemen!

And what about those Confederate flags? Why weren't they seized and torn to shreds? And those Kentucky Wesleyan players riding out on the shoulders of their cohort . . . In the good old days at the "Garden" that would have precipitated, shall we say, greater school spirit.

It's time for us, the athletic supporters at SIU to dispel the curse of apathy in the stands. Let us turn over a new leaf and show those boys that we're really behind them . . . all the way.

John P. Finn
William O. Dwyer

Championships

We hope that someday we shall come across a compilation of silly records. Who sat longest on a flagpole? Who swallowed the most goldfish during that short-lived college craze? Which boy had the most freckles? Who ate the most slices of pie at one sitting?

All most unimportant. But sometimes relaxing, especially so in these awesomely serious times.

Senate Can't Improve Egyptian

To the Daily Egyptian:

I support any plan to make the Daily Egyptian more responsive to the needs and desires of its readers. I can not agree with Ray Lenzi's proposal that by putting Senate-appointed members on the Editorial Board, the quality of the Egyptian would improve.

Certainly the quality of KA is evidence of this. KA, while slightly more daring, is nonetheless a dull thing.

Few would deny Steve Talley's statement that professional guidance improves the end product.

The question is: Is the end product that which is desired by the readers? This I doubt.

Most of the stories have little direct interest for a student. And certainly the super conservative pseudo-intellectualism of Robert M. Hutchins or the idiotic cleverness of Arthur Hoppe have little value for a University audience.

The Egyptian's coverage of cultural events, even with professional guidance, is next to worthless.

Typical of the coverage was that of Nazi Leader Matt Koehl. While the descriptive prose style told us what went on and who walked out, we still don't know what Koehl said to make them angry (although it isn't difficult to guess.)

I would suggest that such talks be taped and then edited so that the entire story and speech occupy a whole page.

In this way people unable to attend can still get some benefit from the man's appearance.

Perhaps the most appealing thing the Egyptian has done recently is to print many more sexy pictures than ever before. This month's Femme Fatale is as near to a fold-out as possible.

If the Department of Journalism wants a real training ground for their majors, why not make the Daily Egyptian self-supporting by trying to sell the paper for five cents a copy. This will quite quickly indicate if the Egyptian is meeting the needs of its readers.

David Brook

Freedom of Speech

To the Daily Egyptian:

Last Monday night I was present at the speech given by the Nazi party leader, Matt Koehl and was disturbed by the outbreaks of disturbances which led to the final halting of his speech. I hate to be put in the position of even seeming to defend this man much less his ideology, and I don't intend to, but what I intend to defend is his right to speak.

We as University students are thought to possess the capability as well as the ability to rationalize intelligently any speech given on any subject but Monday night was an example that struck close to heart. Mr. Koehl, and it offends me to even address him in that manner, was brought here to speak, and in a sense was refused that right when the University police felt it unsafe for him to continue and caused him to depart early.

Monday night I heard cries that he shouldn't have been allowed here in the first place, because he is offensive. I would defend this by asking whether Stokely Carmichael or Rap Brown should be allowed here?

There is only one answer to both, and that answer is yes. In a way, the University is filling a part of its function by exposing us to certain elements that exist, even though we don't like to recognize this fact, elements like Matt Koehl of the American Nazi party.

What I've been trying to say all along, is that no matter what a man believes in, he should always be guaranteed the right to express that belief, even if it's like Koehl's or Rap Brown's, because the time to worry is when this is denied.

These people, as well as you and I, have as much a right to speak and express themselves as anyone in this country. The students who acted tough, both physically and verbally, had better analyze the situation, take a little closer look at themselves, and hope that a little of what Matt Koehl preaches hasn't rubbed off on them.

Robert McCoid Hodge

Letters Welcome

It is the policy of the Daily Egyptian to encourage free discussion of current problems and issues. Members of the University Community are invited to participate with members of the news staff in contributing items for this page with the understanding that acceptance for publication will depend upon the limitations of space and the apparent timeliness and relevance of the material. Letters must be signed, preferably typed, and should be no longer than 250 words. Contributors should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and the rights of others and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. It is the responsibility of the Egyptian to select the material to be used. ### Reardon Report Controversy

Gap Widens Between ABA and Press

By George Knemeyer

Recently the American Bar Association took a step to limit coverage of criminal trials by news media.

In passing the Reardon Report, the controversial paper drawn up by the ABA committee headed by Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, the ABA ended the long battle that had been fought between news media and Bar Association members concerning trial coverage.

Or perhaps the battle has just begun. In essence what the ABA hopes to do is limit trial information released to the news media by the various persons connected with the trial.

There are many specific restrictions the Reardon Report would like to enforce. These include suppression of prior criminal record, existence or contents of a confession and possible plea of guilty. All this suppressed information may be released by the police, but the suppression of it would make the policemen, in effect, the judge of what people should know about the trial instead of the reporter.

The purpose of the Reardon Report, of course, is to prevent the news media from influencing a jury's verdict.

This would seem to imply that jurors cannot decide a case fairly if they read about it in a newspaper. Charles C. Clayton, professor in the Department of Journalism and faculty adviser to the campus chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, has this to say:

"The entire argument of the bench and bar breaks down at this point. The muzzle the ABA would impose on the news media achieves nothing but places a premium on ignorance and insults the intelligence of the average citizen. The fact is that neither side in a law suit, criminal or civil, wants intelligent jurors."

The report says that there is no data available on the actual impact of potentially prejudiced pre-trial publicity on the jury. Both Justice Reardon and the news media would like to have further investigation along these lines.

Actually, various universities have conducted limited surveys, but perhaps because of the limited scope of the surveys, the ABA apparently ignored these studies in making the report. The news media, in attempting to present arguments against the report, apparently ignored the studies also.

The ABA-press controversy points up the conflict between the first and sixth amendments of the Bill of Rights. The first amendment provides for freedom of the press, while the sixth states that "the accused shall enjoy the right to a quick and speedy trial."

In an article to be published in "Grassroots Editor," a magazine published by the International Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors, headquartered at the SIU Department of Journalism, Professor Clayton makes this point:

"Both amendments to the Bill of Rights are fundamental rights of the American people and either morally or legally cannot be subject to bargaining by either the bar or the press."

While many journalists are expressing concern about the report, another member of the Department of Journalism, Bryce W. Rucker, director of journalism graduate studies, feels differently.

"The (St. Louis) Post-Dispatch expressed it very well in a recent editorial," Rucker said. "You couldn't say the Reardon Report seriously threatens freedom of the press. It is clearly an overreaction (by the ABA). There aren't many newspapers that give that much pre-trial publicity. I don't think it (Reardon Report) is necessary."

It should be made clear that the report is not a law; it is just a recommendation.

Rucker pointed out that the report and its restrictions may not be put into effect by many judges until an appeal is filed and the trial is sent to a higher court. This was the basis for appeals after the first Sam Sheppard murder trial and the basis for the Billy Sol Estes appeal. Both appeals were based on alleged pre-trial publicity influence.

Whether the news media will continue to fight the report is debatable. The media started late in its attempt to stop passage of the Reardon Report.

One point is known, and that is the present split between the news media and the ABA is not new. It has been many years in the making. With the passage of the Reardon Report, the widening gap between the two forces may have reached the proportion of a canyon.

Good Deeds of Mr. Liberal

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Scene: The Pearly Gates. St. Peter stands, the Heavenly Roll in hand, as a weary figure trudges somewhat hesitantly up the marble steps.

St. Peter: Your name, please.
Mr. Liberal: Liberal. J. Alfred Liberal. (nervously) But I'm not at all sure I belong here.

St. Peter: We'll be the judge of that, Mr. Liberal. Now, if you'll begin reciting your Good Deeds...

Mr. Liberal: Good Deeds? Let's see, Good Deeds. Well, when I was young, I used to attend a lot of Benefit Banquets. You know, for starving Armenians and things. And then I danced a lot at Charity Balls. Like for crippled children and...

St. Peter (making notes): Ate for the starving, danced for the crippled. What about the poor?

Mr. Liberal (brightening): Oh, I was always for the poor. I hardly remember a cocktail party where I didn't argue very strongly for any kind of welfare legislation.

St. Peter. (making a note): And drank for the poor.

Mr. Liberal: Not only the poor. I always defended the underdog, too. The Loyalists in Spain, the Jews in Germany, the Vietnamese in Vietnam and of course the Neg... Excuse me, the Blacks.

St. Peter: The Blacks?

Mr. Liberal (enthusiastically): Oh, yes! The really one big thing in my whole life was treating Neg... -- excuse me, Blacks -- as equals. (proudly) I'm a life-long member of the NAACP. Why, back in the Forties I was the first person on my block to have a Neg -- excuse me, a Black person -- to dinner. Ah, those were the days.

St. Peter (making a note): And fed the Blacks.

Mr. Liberal: As they advanced toward equality, I tried to keep up. I joined the Urban League and then CORE and then the Friends of SNCC. But they didn't ask me to speak any more. Young men in overalls would stand up instead and call us all a bunch of yellow-livered Honkies.

St. Peter: What did you do?

Mr. Liberal: Oh, I applauded, of course. They were absolutely right. (frowning) Then they threw me out. Quite rightly, though. It was time they went it alone.

St. Peter: What did you join then?

Mr. Liberal (shrugging): There wasn't much left. ADA split up. The labor unions were fat. And though I opposed the war in Vietnam, I never was much for demonstrations. So none of the groups of young militants wanted me. In fact, my name got to be kind of a dirty word. The end came in the 1968 elections. You know, Nixon versus Johnson.

St. Peter: You voted for the loser?

Mr. Liberal: Oh, I always liked voting for losers. No, the thing was that for the first time in my life I didn't have anyone to vote for.

St. Peter (swinging open the Pearly Gates): Enter, please, Mr. Liberal, and take your seat on the right of the Heavenly Throne.

Mr. Liberal (surprised): But I did so little good!

St. Peter (smiling): True. But you did so little harm.

(From below a red glare blossoms upward amid the shouts of rioters, the sirens of police and a rising crescendo of wars and revolutions.)

St. Peter (looking down sadly): And you will be sorely missed.

In 1965, D'Avino's "A Finnish Fable" was presented at film festivals in many European countries including Poland, Germany and France. His production entitled "Minestrone with Music" was shown at the New York Film Festival last year and at the London Film Festival this year.

D'Avino received a Ford Foundation Grant in 1964.

Transplant Involving Mammals

Students Conduct Surgery

By Jo-Ann Leber

While prominent surgeons throughout the world are transplanting hearts, two graduate students at SIU are conducting their own heart surgery.

John Mickus and Michael Nudd, both physiology doctoral students from Chicago, have been working in the field of cardiology for the past six months.

Their research began with a project to study the possibility of blood circulation by-passing the heart outside the thoracic cavity and reducing the work load.

Mickus and Nudd are now centering their endeavors on profusion of the heart. This approach stemmed from the "by-pass" project.

Profusion refers to the passing of fluid through the heart. Mickus and Nudd are using a salt solution which they hope will mimic blood without actually being blood.

In effect, they are working with the idea of a possible "artificial blood." Investigating the feasibility of "artificial" blood is only part of their research.

Another part of the project is profusion of the heart outside the body for indefinite periods. The men work with a variety of mammals. To date, their most successful effort has been the profusion of a rabbit heart outside the natural system for 9 1/2 hours.

Mickus explained, "It is not hard to keep cold-blooded hearts alive for long periods of time." Therefore, only mammals are being used in this project.

According to Mickus, it is easier to sustain some hearts than others. In the project, the men would like to rule out the difference in ease to that someday it may be applicable to clinical conditions.

Ideally, Mickus said, success of the project could be beneficial regarding heart transplants. At present, only a brief period lapses between the times the heart is taken from the donor and transplanted in the recipient. Indefinite profusion and sustenance of the heart would eliminate the necessity of "rush" operations. Heart patients on the West Coast, for example, could receive hearts from donors on the East Coast. Ability to maintain the heart outside the circulatory system for indefinite periods would also enable scientists to study the heart regarding heart disease and defects.

The ideal test of the project would be to put the heart back into a natural circulatory system after sustaining it externally, Mickus said. However, "very few people can do that sort of operation," he said, "perhaps only 15 in the entire world."

Fred Zabest, instructor in the Department of Physiology, is teaching the two graduates the surgical techniques.

"He is responsible for the successful removal of the hearts," Mickus said.

In animal heart surgery no less than three persons are necessary at all times. Two perform the actual surgery, while the third watches and records vital data such as temperature and heart rate. Mickus, Nudd and Zabest alternate as "surgeons" and technical recorders.

Alfred W. Richardson, Professor of Physiology, is mentor for the group.

Fine Performances Highlight 'Phaedra'

By Nancy Baker

Death by suicide and by the trampling horses accompanied Celebrity Series' seventh attraction, "Phaedra," Sunday night in Shryock Auditorium.

Presented by an American Theatre Productions cast, the Greek tragedy tells the story of Queen Phaedra, who fell in love with her stepson, Hippolytus.

Shirley Cox sometimes excelled as the lustful, passionate Phaedra, a woman who loved deeply but could not fulfill her desires when rejected by Hippolytus.

The jealousy and hatred accompanying her frustration seemed to project from the voice and eyes of Miss Cox when Phaedra learns that the object of her affections is in love with the young Princess Aricia.

Upon the return of Theseus, King of Athens, and husband of Phaedra, the Queen claims that Hippolytus has assaulted her.

This tale precipitates, in turn, the suicide of Oenone, Phaedra's nurse and the one who first devised the lie, the demise of Hippolytus, who is dragged to death by his horses, and, finally the self-inflicted poisoning of Phaedra.

The Greek tragedy closed with Theseus naming the Princess Aricia his daughter.

Audrey Ward as nurse Oenone, Robert Blackburn as Theseus and John MacAllan as Hippolytus all crafted noteworthy performances as witnessed by the applause they received following the final curtain. Nancy Donohue gave a respectable performance as Aricia, the girl smitten by love for Hippolytus.

Perhaps the audience would have preferred more action than the somewhat static staging provided. Movement for the most part was limited to the climbing of a staircase, the only set for the entire production.

Nevertheless, the Robert Lowell translation of the Jean Racine classic was a well spent evening.

'Letter From Pueblo' Received by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has received a letter purportedly signed by all the Pueblo crew urging him to admit the U.S intelligence ship was spying inside North Korean waters and to apologize.

The letter addressed to Johnson was telegraphed from South Korea after it was turned over to U.S. and South Korean negotiators Sunday night, the State Department disclosed Monday.

The President, it was learned, is personally studying the unusual letter, as are high other officials.

State Department officer Robert J. McCloskey, in answering questions, merely said the letter is being studied.

Asked whether the letter is a device through which North Korea is telling the United States the Pueblo crew will be released if the United States apologizes, McCloskey said:

"We're working continually to obtain the release of the crew and the ship. I'll let it stand at that."

The letter put the crew in the position of telling Johnson it is legitimate for North Korea "to insist that before our repatriation can be realized, the necessary amnities be made by our government under whose orders we operated."

"Specifically," the letter went on, "we believe that since the real facts of the Pueblo case have been fully revealed to the world our repatriation can be realized only when our government frankly admits the fact that we intruded into the territorial waters of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and committed hostile acts and gives assurance that they will not be repeated."

Senate Votes to Restrict Debate on Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders finally corralled enough votes Monday to restrict further debate on a compromise civil rights bill, apparently assuring passage of legislation carrying some form of open-housing guarantee.

On the fourth attempt to invoke cloture, the Senate voted 65 to 32 in favor of imposing the debate-limiting rule.

This gave cloture adherents the bare two-thirds majority they needed. Three previous attempts starting Feb. 20 fell short by 7, 6 and 4 votes respectively.

The vote seemed to assure Senate passage of the administration-backed civil rights protection bill with its addition of open-housing provision. But it remained uncertain just what form the housing provision will take.

Opponents still might resort to unlimited debate to block final passage of the measure, but supporters expressed confidence that this would not happen.

Technically, Monday's vote was on "perfecting" the bill with some 80 amendments that have been offered during the seven weeks the measure has been before the Senate.

Three of the key votes that put over cloture, the rule restricting each senator to one hour's speaking time on the bill as amended, were withheld until the last minute.

These were cast by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, Frank Carlson, R-Kan., and E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska.

All three announced their votes as the roll call was being recapitulated and just before the announcement of the total. The three senators either had been voting against cloture before or were announced as against it.

Two senators who have been voting for cloture, Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J. were absent.

The third absentee was Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who is recuperating from a heart attack. Pastore has been announced as favoring cloture.

Much of the opposition was based on the bill's open-housing amendment. As originally proposed by Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn. and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., this would have outlawed discrimination in the sale or rental of an estimated 97 per cent of all housing in the country.

The coverage was whittled down to about 70 per cent in a compromise version worked out last week.

Just before the vote was taken Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told the Senate that the nation "is in the most difficult period in its history, and I include the Civil War in that statement."

British Debaters Scheduled

A British style debate using such tools of persuasion as logic, emotion, ethics, humor and two English debaters will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Furr Auditorium of University School.

The two British debaters scheduled to perform are Andrew Parrish, who has done post-graduate study in chemical engineering at King's College, University of London, and Nicholas Wall, a barrister, who received a bachelor of arts degree in literature and law from Trinity College in Cambridge, England.

Robert A. Lapp, a graduate assistant in debate who is working toward his master's degree in speech, Ag Official to Speak will debate for SIU. He has participated twice in the National Finals Debate Tournament.

John Sims, a junior majoring in speech, will be the other SIU debate participant. He was the top speaker in the 1967 Illinois State Debate Tournament.

One Britisher and one American will compose the affirmative team while the other two will provide the opposition on the negative team.

The topic will be: Resolved that this House has no need of Gods. The topic concerns whether man needs an organized religion revolving around the concept of a deity of some sort.

The objective of the British-style debate is persuasion, and the decision is rendered through a post-debate poll of the audience. Logical analysis of the debate question is still an essential factor, but the debaters must also be concerned with the psychological ingredients of persuasion.

According to Dan Salden, graduate assistant in debate and doctoral candidate in speech, the debate question can be concerned with policy and/or value, but the principal criterion is that it be controversial and appealing to the audience.

"I feel that we have such a topic this year," he added. Each team will be given two 10 - minute constructive speeches and two 5-minute rebuttal speeches.

This program will serve as convocation credit for all students.

"I joined IBM in June, '65, in operations research.

"I liked the work well enough, but after a year and a half, I began to think that the ideal field for me was computer programming. (This is Alvin Palmer, an Associate Programmer at IBM.)

"But by this time, I was making a pretty good salary. So I was faced with a big question. Would IBM be willing to let me move into a new field which would mean going to school and not being productive for a while?

"The answer was 'yes.' I went to programming school full time for three months. And IBM continued to pay my full salary.

"I get a tremendous kick out of programming. You're telling a computer how to do its job, and it really gets you involved. Maybe because you're continually solving problems."

Ex FBI Man Studies Legal Mental Illness

Robert H. Dreher, assistant professor in the Department of Government and a staff member of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections at SIU, has been appointed by Gov. Otto Kerner to a newly formed committee to study mental illness as a defense in criminal trials.

The committee was formed by the governor as a result of a recommendation by the director of the Illinois Department of Mental Health, to study state laws dealing with the competency of certain individuals to stand trial on criminal charges. Kerner explained in a letter to Dreher that the study would explore revision of certain Illinois statutes.

Dreher came to SIU in June, 1967, from California where he practiced law and taught at the University of California at Berkeley. He earned his law degree at the University of Illinois, but also attended the University of Texas at Austin and Harvard University. At one time he was a special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In addition to his faculty duties, Dreher is a member of the board of directors of the Legal Service Bureau of Jackson County and a legal consultant to the Illinois Youth Commission.

Desert Preserved

Big Bend National Park, established in 1944, preserves some 708,000 acres of desert wilderness along the Rio Grande River. The land once was in grave danger of being destroyed by overgrazing and overhunting.

PHYSICAL SCIENCES II-Site clearing for construction of the second stage of the Physical Sciences Building at SIU is underway, even though Illinois Building Authority bonds for the project have yet to be sold. The bonds will be offered today and unless they are sold below the legal five per cent interest limit, the IBA may suspend all state building projects it has authorized. Minner Construction Co. of St. Louis is the general contractor on the $2 million addition. The $3.7 million first stage is nearing completion. In background is the SIU School of Technology complex.

W. G. Kammlade, Jr., associate professor of animal industries at SIU, has been selected for a Fulbright Award to support an invitation to be guest professor of animal science at the Institute of Animal Production and Genetics in the University of Gortengen, West Germany. He plans to be on leave from his duties at SIU to take the six months' assignment beginning April 1.

In addition to lecturing and conducting seminars at the Institute, he also will have opportunities for study and research in the University's Institute of Animal Physiology, and to observe teaching methods and problems in undergraduate and graduate student instruction in German universities.

Kammlade is one of 13 U.S. scientists in all fields selected for assignments in Germany this year. The University of Gortengen is considered one of the oldest distinguished universities in Germany.

Split Track Competition Proves Sound Decision

A victory at Champaign and a "good showing" at the Knights of Columbus Invitational at Cleveland, Ohio, made this past weekend an enjoyable one for Track Coach Lew Hartzog.

The thinclads were split into two groups with one group participating in the Knights of Columbus Invitational in Cleveland and the other meeting the Illinois Track Club in Champaign.

At Champaign, Southern was victorious 96-44 in winning 14 events and placing second in seven others.

John Vernon and Mel Hohman each captured two firsts.

Vernon, who rates among the top triple-jumpers in the world, topped 50 feet for the third week in a row as he won that event with a leap of 50-1 1/2. He also won the long jump with a respectable 23-4 3/4.

Hohman won the mile with a time of 4:23.4 and the two-mile in the time of 9:25.0.

Rich Ellison tied the school record in the pole vault he set in 1966 by vaulting 14-6 to capture a first in that event.

At the Knights of Columbus meet, Ross MacKenzie fell running the quarter mile and finished fourth.

He slipped into the outer lane to pass the leader but the two runners collided and fell behind the rest of the field.

Jeff Duxbury finished fourth in the 1,000 yard event in the time of 2:13.2.

Mitch Livingston, Southern's fine high jumper, had an off-day and could only manage a 6-6 in finishing fourth in that event.

SIU's mile relay team ran what Hartzog called, "the best they've run all year," in placing third with a clocking of 3:22.

At Champaign, Saluki high jumper Rich Leischner sprang 6-2 to win a first in that event.

SIU finished first, second and third in the 60-yard dash with Charles Goro, Sylvester West and Allen Deppe dominating the event for Southern. Goro won with a time of 6.5.

Fil Blackiston threw the shot 49-6 and Jim Thomas ran the 70-yard high hurdles to place first in their respective events.

Dennis Gomez, a sophomore from Orange N.J., won the 440 in 50.5 while Dale Gardner captured the 600-yard event in 1:13.3.

In the 300-yard event SIU completely dominated the field with Deppe finishing first with a time of 32.2 and West and Goro tied for third with a 32.8 clocking.

In the 70-yard low hurdles Bill Buzard finished first with a highly respectable 8.2 followed closely by Thomas with an 8.4.

Steve Thomas won the 880 in 1:56.8 and the mile relay team composed of Buzard, Gomez, Gardiner and Deppe placed second with a 3:30.2 clocking.

The next scheduled event for the team is the Milwaukee Journal Games in Milwaukee, Wis.

Other upcoming events for indoor thinclads include the United States Track and Field Championship on March 9 and the NCAA Championship meet on March 15 and 16.

The outdoor team will open up its 1968 schedule with the Arkansas Relays at Fayetteville, Ark., on March 30.

TIES HIS OWN RECORD—SIU's Rich Ellison had the distinction of tying his own record school in pole vaulting competition Saturday at the Illinois Track Club meet in Champaign. He vaulted 14-6 to capture first place in the event.

Women Gymnasts Sparkle in Canada

Two SIU women gymnasts finished among the top 10 all around performers at the North American championships in Vancouver, British Columbia, over the weekend.

Donna Schaezner finished third and Joanne Hashimoto finished 10th as the U.S. Women's Gymnastics Team won easily. The U.S. team total 355.95 points compared to its nearest competitor, Canada, with 331.25 points.

The U.S. swept the top four spots in the competition. Linda Metheny of Chambana Gymnastics Club was first with 7,335 points; Kathy Gleason of the University of Buffalo was second with 7,260 points; Miss Schaezner was third with 7,055 and Joyce Tannek of Seattle with 7,035. Marie Walther of the U.S. tied for sixth with Sue McDonald of Canada with 6,910 points. Miss Hashimoto totaled 6,730 points.

Miss Schaezner was fourth in balance beam, tied with Miss Metheny for fourth in vaulting, fifth on the uneven parallel bars and sixth in floor exercise.

Miss Hashimoto was sixth on the balance beam.

The Cuban delegation threatened to pull out of the competition three times before it got underway but did compete.

SIU's Women's "B" team competed against Indiana State Saturday and won, 77.17 to 53.92.

Coach Herb Vogel changed his mind at the last minute and said the meet would count in SIU's season record. He had previously said it would be an informal meet and the outcome would not be counted in the team total.

SIU swept all four firsts in the Indiana meet. Eva Domulki won floor exercise; Donna Bascomb won balance beam and Karen Smith won the vaulting and uneven parallel bars. Miss Smith also won the all-around competition with 30.69 points.

The gymnasts now have a season record of 6-0 and a string of 49 consecutive victories. Their next meet is March 23 against Centenary College.

Cyclists Ride For Trophies At Trials Run

Observed trials events at Horseman's Point on March 10 will mark the beginning of 1968 activities for Cyclesport, Inc., a southern Illinois cycle club.

Cycle riders from five states are expected to converge to vie for points awarded toward trophies which will be awarded at the end of the meet.

The Observed trials consist of each rider trying to negotiate a series of 10 sections of rough terrain, sometimes crossing knee-deep waterholes, while trying to avoid touching his feet on the ground or stopping the forward motion of the bike.

This trial event is one of the 10 AMA-sanctioned events scheduled for the year.

College Cager Upstages Son In Delivery Room High Jinx

Columbia, S.C. (AP)—After helping turn back Wake Forest with his pinpoint passes earlier this season, South Carolina basketball guard Jack Thompson quipped:

"My wife got so excited in the stands, she'll probably have her baby tonight."

A few hours later, Thompson rushed his wife Christi to the hospital where she later gave birth to an 8-pound, 7 ounce son.

"I wasn't worried," said Christi, "until the doctor walked right past me in the delivery room before the baby was born and shook Jack's hand to congratulate him on the great game he had played."

Lack of Team Leader Hurt SIU During Season

By Dave Palermo

Your team is the defending NIT champion. Every team you run up against will be out to beat you. Four of your five starters of last year, including one of the top collegiate players in the country, have graduated.

You also have only one established player and the university you coach for has a tradition of fine basketball teams; they expect the same this season.

These are a few of the cold, hard facts Coach Jack Hartman woke up to every morning this winter.

The 1967-68 Salukis had more talent than the NIT champs according to many sources but they lacked the experience and the ability to play as a team. They also lacked a player with the leadership abilities of Walt Frazier.

Hartman said it best during a post game conference: "We need a player who can score the basket at the right time and can come through with the key rebound. We don't have that kind of a ball player this year."

Before the season began Dick Garrett was the mandesignated to fill Frazier's shoes. He was the man counted on to win the close game.

Garrett produced, finishing the season with a 20.1 scoring average and a 6.2 rebounding average, but his lack of experience kept him from being the leader the team needed.

Howard Keene was the next candidate. A veteran, Keene possessed the maturity, but not the ability to come up with the key play. He spent the majority of the season getting into condition and regaining his confidence and didn't reach his peak until the end of the season.

With no one to assume the team leadership, the Salukis lost the close games.

In the games against Arizona, Evansville, Michigan State, Kansas, and Southwest Missouri State, to name a few, all could have been reversed had the Salukis a player who could come up with the key play to keep up the momentum.

The Salukis inability to win the close game put a great deal of pressure on the SIU mentor.

"What few people realize is the fact that we're not going to blow anybody off the court this year," Hartman said.

Next season Hartman's problem could be alleviated.

The entire starting lineup with the exception of center Keene will be returning. This will leave only the center and one guard position up for grabs.

Opposite Garrett will be Chuck Benson, a 6-4 forward who leaps like a gazelle. Benson, who led the team in rebounds with an 8.5 average and averaged 11.9 points a game, was one of the most consistent players on the team and possesses a deadly turnaround jumper.

Willie Griffin, at guard, is probably the fastest player on the team and has the moves of a professional. According to Hartman, Griffin's main problem is "putting his game together."

Despite his inability to score consistently, Griffin finished the season with a 10.8 scoring average, third on the team.

The other guard spot is a tossup between sophomores Rex Barker, junior Craig Taylor and freshmen Roger Westbrook and B.J. Trickey.

Taylor and Barker have shown flashes of brilliance this season and both are good shooters.

Westbrook led the freshman team this year but connected on less than 40 per cent of his shots.

Bruce Butchko started most of this year at the pivot before yielding the position to Keene when he went into a scoring slump.

While the native of Crete is lacking in the speed department, he has a good shot and if he can avoid another slump, could possibly regain the form he showed as a freshman when he broke many of Walt Frazier's records scoring 23 points a game.

LED SALUKIS—Sharpshooting Dick Garrett wound up on top of the scoring column for SIU this past season with a 20.1 scoring average. His most memorable game was Friday night when he established an individual scoring record of 46 points against Centenary College.

Judo Club Excels, In U of I Meet

The SIU Judo Club fared well in an invitational meet last weekend at the University of Illinois campus.

Paul Berdatus captured a first place finish for Southern in the lightweights. He wears a white belt.

Rich Azzaro, owner of a brown belt, won two out of three matches.

Steve Crawford, a white belt, split two matches.

Drew Wickham, a brown belt, lost during his only try by only a pin.

SHOP TALK—SIU Baseball Coach Joe Lutz took time out during spring baseball training yesterday to chat with two of his players—

The players are Jerry Sawyer (3) and Les Pitlock (21). The season opens with a double-header March 16 at New Mexico.

SIU Wins Despite Low Point Total

SIU's Male Gymnasts scored one of their lowest totals of the season Friday night, but still easily defeated Indiana State, 187.6 to 179.5.

The winning score was about 1 1/2 points below their season average.

The Salukis captured five of the seven possible firsts, but placed only third in what is considered their strongest event—the trampoline.

Dale Hardt, who had been averaging between 9.2 and 9.3 in the event, managed only an 8.45. He finished sixth. Skip Ray took third with an 8.85 and Joe Dupree took fourth with an 8.7. That gave the Salukis a total of only 26.0 for the event, the second lowest they have scored this season.

The first place finishers were Paul Mayer in floor exercise with 9.25; Wayne Borkowski on still rings with 9.25; Larry Ciolkosz and Paul Mayer in the long horse vaulting with 9.25; Pete Hemmerling on the parallel bars with 9.0, and Fred Dennis on high bar with 9.4.

Mayer won the all around competition with a total of 52.7 points. In addition to his two firsts, he scored a second on side horse (8.85) and tied for fourth on high bar with Hemmerling (8.85).

The Salukis jumped to a 27.35 to 26.10 lead after floor exercise as Mayer, Hemmerling and Gene Kelber all scored above 9.0.

After the side horse and rings competition, Southern had a 5.55 point lead. Indiana State gained a point on the tramp, outscoring SIU 27.05 to 26.00, but SIU got that point back on the long horse and led after those five events, 133.85 to 128.80.

Neither of three scores that counted from both teams on the long horse were below a 9.0, with all three Sycamore performers scoring an even 9.0 in the event to tie for fourth. Southern padded its lead another 2.05 points in the remaining two events to make the final victory margin 8.10 points.

The victory raised the season mark to 11-1 with only the University of Illinois left on the schedule.

There is a possibility that the Illinois meet, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Arena, may be called off.

The Illini have several gymnasts injured as a result of the Big 10 championships this past weekend. Illinois finished fourth.

Iowa had been expected to win the meet and thus be eligible for the NCAA. There was, however, a three-way tie between Iowa, Michigan, and Michigan State. This means all three will advance to the NCAA championships.

Senators Ink Howard

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Outfielder Frank Howard came to terms with the Washington Senators Monday for an estimated $47,500 which would make him the highest paid player in Washington baseball history.

The big left fielder accepted General Manager George Selkirk's offer after another lengthy telephone conversation.
