Hamilton, Williams, And Oshel Awarded Radio Scholarships

Will Attend Workshop in Milwaukee This Summer

Charles Hamilton, Rosemary Oshel and Tommy Williams, all S.I.N.U. students, have been granted scholarships for a summer session of training at the National Radio Drama Guild Workshop in Milwaukee this summer. They will attend the second summer session, beginning July 20. Hamilton, a junior from Carbondale, has for the past year been president of Little Theatre. He carried the leading role in the Homecoming play, The Man Who Came to Dinner, in the present season's summer session, beginning July 20. Williams, a junior from Carbondale, has for the past year been president of Little Theatre. He carried the leading role in the Homecoming play, The Man Who Came to Dinner, in the present season's summer session, beginning July 20. Williams, a junior from Carbondale, has for the past year been president of Little Theatre. He carried the leading role in the Homecoming play, The Man Who Came to Dinner, in the present season's summer session, beginning July 20.

Williams, a sophomore from Carbondale, also appears regularly as news commentator on the Sunday radio program. He is a member of Little Theatre and played in the winter production Everyman. Miss Oshel, a Junior from Herrin, carried roles in both The Man Who Came to Dinner and Everyman. She is a member of Little Theatre.

All three students hold membership in the local chapter of the National Radio Drama Guild.

"SO YOU'RE IN COLLEGE" FROSH ORIENTATION BOOK IS LAUDED BY COLLEGES

The S.I.N.U. Freshman orientation book, So You're in College, was displayed at a recent meeting of the National Association of Deans and Advisors of Men. It has since been gaining much popularity and recognition as many requests have been made for this book by other colleges and universities. The most recent letter requesting the book was received from Wesley P. Lloyd, the Dean of Men of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Comments of the orientation book include matters of interest and importance to incoming freshmen such as S.I.N.U. traditions, expenses, religious activities, athletics, campus organizations and general college conduct, with cartoon illustrations throughout the book.

Owens Elected as New Head of Dunbar Society

Frank Owens, a Junior from East St. Louis, was elected to the presidency of the Dunbar group for the coming year. Owens is completing a major in Government and minors in History and Physical Ed. He has been active in the Roland Hayes chorus, the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, the N.A.A.C.P., and a member of the popular Roland Hayes quartette. Other officers are: vice president, Mario Knochel; secretary, Marion Barron; treasurer, Charles Turner; and program chairman, Jo Lipe.

SPECIAL BULLETIN SIGMA BETAS BEAT SPIRITS

—By Telephone from Carbondale—

In the most thrill-packed game of the current season and in duplication of a feat set in the last two years, the Sigma Beta Mus downed the superb pitching of "Pep" Puleo downed the Spirits of '76 for their initial defeat of the year, 4-3. With the score tied in the first half of seventh, or the last inning, and with runners on second and third, no one out, Puleo struck out one, walked one to fill the bases, and then proceeded to strike out the last two remaining batters.

QUENTIN FILE RECEIVES MASTER'S DEGREE IN PSYCHOLOGY AT PURDUE

Quentin W. File, S.I.N.U. '40, was awarded a Master of Science degree in psychology at Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., on May 3. For the last two years File had been an assistant instructor there, in addition to working toward his degree.

WELCH, BARTON, COX AND HILL GO TO ACADEMY

Dr. Thomas F. Barton, Mr. Finnis Cox of the geography department, Dr. Walter D. Welch of the botany department, and Mr. Collin Hill, a senior in zoology, presented papers at the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Illinois State Academy of Science, held Friday, May 8, at Urbana. Dr. Joseph Van Riper, who was chairman of the geography section for this year, also attended the meeting.

Dr. Barton's paper, "The Subtropical Landscape of the Subdry Tropics," was presented before the geography section. Mr. Cox gave his paper, "The Colonial Question," before this same section. Dr. Welch's paper was "A Study of the Phytoplankton of Crab Orchard Lake" and was presented to the botany group. Mr. Collin Hill spoke before the zoology section on "A Southern Illinois Heronry."

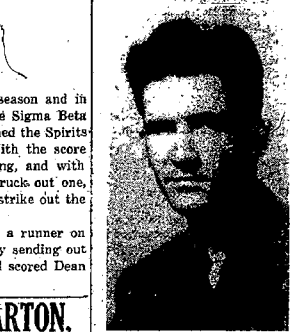

Miss Amy Jones, a Junior in botany, was elected as a member of a committee to make plans for the collegiate section for next year. The collegiate section met for the first time this year. It is the third state to give recognition to collegiate research as well as to high school and professional work.

NEW COURSE

Introduction to Public Health (355) is a new course given for the first time this summer and will continue the first six weeks. The class will meet as follows: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, the 1st and 4th periods. The course will receive four hours credit.

The course will include general health problems which are universal; community sanitation; public health laws; communicable diseases; child and maternal welfare; dairy supervision, herd testing and milk inspection; public and private water supply; venereal disease control; immunization; education of public in preventive measures and individual health. Stress will be placed especially upon public health as it applies to our public school program. Attention will be directed to the need for public health workers and the opportunities for service at attractive compensation. The class members will be urged to present problems which may be peculiar to their own experience, of theoretical health situations they wish to discuss.

Final Student Council Election Today; 82 Votes Ratify New Constitution

Margrave Has Leave Extended For Another Year

Wendell Margrave, former band director and member of the S.I.N.U. music department, who was granted a year's leave of absence from the campus for the second term of this year, in order to complete his work on the Doctor's degree in music at Cornell University, it was announced this week. Mr. Margrave will return to the campus for the second term of this year, and will take over his regular teaching duties for that term. In the fall of '43, he will resume his position as full-time member of the music department and director of the college band.

CPT Will Offer Primary Course This Summer

The Elementary Course of the Civilian Pilot Training program will be offered again at S.I.N.U. this summer term. It is sponsored by the department of physics and Astronomy. This will be the eighth time the course has been taught at Southern. The course is offered as a national degree service in the Civilian Pilot Training program of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The ground school work consists of 72 hours of class room instruction. The class will receive instruction in meteorology, civil air regulations, aircraft operation, and navigation. Flight work will be given at Marquette by the Valentin Air Service and consists of a minimum of 36 hours of flight training.

Record Primary Brings Out Over 600 Voters; 5 Dunbar Candidates Nominated

Thirty men and women of Southern were nominated for Student Council positions in the relatively heavy voting of last Friday's primary. While exact figures of past primaries are not available it is apparent that the students who were nominated received more votes than ever before in the history of a school preliminary.

Eligibility of the nominees was determined on the basis of the new constitution ratified last Tuesday by a vote of 82 to 20. Some students who would have been ineligible under the 3.5 grade requirement of the old constitution have been nominated under the provisions of the new constitution which requires only a 3.0 average for council membership.

McDONAGH GETS PH. D. DEGREE THIS JUNE

Edward C. McDonagh, a member of the S.I.N.U. Sociology department since 1940, two weeks ago was awarded the title of Doctor of Philosophy by the University of Southern California. The degree will be conferred June 6.

Dr. Emory S. Bogardus of the U. S. C. in a letter to Dr. Bowen announcing Mr. McDonagh's success, wrote as follows:

"I am writing to tell you that Edward C. McDonagh did splendidly in his final examination yesterday. Dean R. D. Hunt of the Graduate School presided. Seven or eight professors participated in asking questions of the candidate, first on his dissertation, and second on his knowledge of sociological thought. Mr. McDonagh did equally well in both phases of the examination, and altogether reflected credit on your department, on himself, and on our department."

President Pulliam, in commenting on Dr. McDonagh's achievement in the Faculty Bulletin said: "We extend our congratulations to Dr. McDonagh and rejoice with him in a big job well done for himself and for the college."

Spanish Club Fiesta

A special noche de fiesta will be given by the Spanish Club next Wednesday evening, May 20, at 7:30. Music, songs, games, and movies will be shown in the Y.W.C.A. room during the first part of the program, followed by a dance in the Little Theatre.

Pulliam Publishes Guidance Articles

Two addresses of President Pulliam are reported to fall in a recent issue of the Proceedings of the Sorenth Annual Guidance Conference published by Purdue University. One is entitled "Implications of the Defense Crisis for Guidance" and the other "New Frontiers for the Guidance Movement."

Dunbars Nominated

Of special interest in view of the recent efforts of Southern's Negro group to gain better representation on the Student Council is the fact that five Negroes were nominated, Dewitt Haynes, Ruth Farrer, Earl Brooks, Katherine Winkler and Stewetta Harrel.

Two Juniors who received nominations Pat Lill and Victor Hickox have declined to run because of their intention of not returning to school next year. One freshman, Davis Redelberger, was nominated but was ineligible.

A Junior, Sarah Lou Cooper, was nominated both as a sophomore and as a junior. Her name will appear on the ballot of the junior class.

The names of the nominees are listed below with the number of votes each one polled. In cases where one of the highest five students was not listed on the ballot, the sixth highest-ranking students are named.

WATSON NEW PUBLICITY AGENT FOR SOUTHERN COLLEGIANS DESCRIBES GYRATIONS OF BAND

By S. ALLAN WATSON

In some strange fashion I have become a new job. This job seems to have just grown up. What is this position? Well, it seems that I am considered to be press agent for the newly formed "Southern Collegians". I arrived at this conclusion after being talked to Mr. Ludwig a couple of weeks ago. Then this week, the Boss says "Since you are the publicity relations expert for the 'Collegians', how about doing up a feature on them this week? I have a picture and everything all set. Now, all you have to do is to write something." Simple as all that.

Since I needed some inspiration, I had a hair-cut. I started for town. A familiar voice boomed: "How about a statement for the press?" For weeks that voice had haunted me. It was Ted Ludwig, the man I was looking for, and I had found him. It seems that Mr. Ludwig is now in the bookkeeping business as well as fronting for the "Southern Collegians". Mr. Ludwig can book for you any type of band you desire. He now has under his wing four bands including one named "Southern Collegians", and for Chuck and the Checkered Five. He is confident he can deliver any type of band any organization would desire to have.

After Ludwig had finished his little spell about his exploits as bookkeeper, I managed to get a word in about my assignment. His face lighted up, and he said:

PAUL MERCER

The gist of this week's mail was a typewritten letter of great appreciation from John P. May, who graduated last June and is now in the Naval Reserve at Chicago.

"First of all, I may say that the spineshattering little novelette will beget a doubt last longer than any of the other articles you sent. In fact, I had no doubts when you wrote the article, and the penultimate of eleven roommates pounced on the language and consumed them in less time than it takes Preacher Watson to decide to cut a class.

"I read some of the letters you've been getting from other recipients. I think they're the best. What causes them to write such common stuff? I remember a little short story by James Thurber about a jerk that flew around the world and wasn't at all modest about it. In fact, the President had to push him out of the window to shut him up. Any resemblance to me? I'll be over in Carbonate sometime between the 14th and 31st to complain about the package. Next time I want a chocolate cake at least three feet square.

"I've been leaving here at the middle school. I mean you're doing it over soon and all we will be doing is recovering from the regimental ball and waiting patiently for graduation." John P. May, U.S.N.R., Middleburg School, 111 E. Pearson St., Chicago, Ill.

From Louise, Tom reported:

"For those of you who know me personally, I am happy to write that I have been made a corporal. 5th class technician. I am quite proud of this as I have been in the army only three months. I am proud you that you are in college education, are receiving the select jobs in our branch of service, the Medical Corps, college men receive most of the ratings. I was the only one without a 4 year college education in my outfit to receive a rating as high as I will in the first release. The promotion is—Opl. BOOKS IN REVIEW

By DELBERT HAMILTON

PIED PIPER

The best of the crop of war novels is several months—is Nevil Shute's latest, "Pied Piper" (Win. Morrow Co., $2.50).

"Pied Piper" is the story of an old Englishman, John Howard, who is drafted in France in June, 1914, by the Nazi Goliath, the worst south of the tank and the little group of reform children who he picks up before the way makes a gripping, exciting story.

The novel is set in the devastated France in that tragic summer. Reading it one gets a clear picture of the unpreparedness, apathy, inefficiency and indifference of the French people.

Nevil Shute, who is now on active service with a R.C.F.P. "warrior", tells a simple and yet dramatic story. His novel easily equals any of the others that have been inspired by the French debacle.

MORE ON "WAR AND PEACE"

While our speaking of war novels has been a R.C.F.P. "warrior", the greatest one that has been written is Tolstoy's "War and Peace" (Barnes & Noble, $3.00).

Most of the facts about the novel is known to the reader because this story of Napoleon's Russian campaign and the old Hitler is now engaged in "Palmbush" has a personal interest—he has written the introduction to the new Simon & Schuster edition of the novel. We haven't seen this edition, but the ads tell us that besides Tolstoy's novel, some new maps and the brand translation, all for $3.00.

For our money we bought the 1935 Simon & Schuster edition for $1.45, with the German translation, which critics say is the most accurate but also the most dull. . . O'NEILL, FAULKNER Bennett, Curt, whose Random House is to give good editions of these says Eugene O'Neill is going to bring Broadway up from the depths to which it has fallen recently (this is on the authority of numerous drama critics) when he gets around to producing his new play, "The Ice Man Cometh"; William Faulkner, the deep South writer, has a new collection of short stories—"Go Down, Moses" (Random-House, $2.50). Some of them have appeared in the Saturday Evening Post but don't let that scare you. Reviewers say the book is up to Faulkner's standards. . . MAGAZINE-BEST Republishing from Voltaire, Gibb's profile masterpiece of Ralph Ingersoll in the New Yorker were immediate. Gibb, who does the New Yorker "Theatre" column, pointed out that Ingersoll, who edits the weekly New York daily, had been more than to throw his by-lines all over the pages of that journal. PM cracked back with an item in the New Yorker style which pointed out that Mr. Gibb had bylines himself on pages 34 and 32 of the magazine.

Anyway Gibb's two-institution sketch of PM's energetic effort was one of the best profiles we've seen. Gibb says that PM is here to stay and that genetics who labeled it as "Marshall Field's folly" will have to come back into their holes. . . HOW TO READ A year or so ago Mortimer Adler, of the University of Chicago, astounded everyone by telling them they couldn't read, and then proceeded to suggest mysteriously to teach them how to read. "How to Read a Book" (Simon & Schuster). Now up goes A. A. Richards of Harvard, with "How to Read a Page" (Norton, $2.50). Next we can expect "How to Read a Sentence." What would be more valuable to the war effort would be "How to Read Mein Kampf" by anyone who wants to try, preferably Joe Stallo, who is doing all right so far.

Uncensored Nonsense

By JOHN J. WHITESIDE

BULLETIN

It has been officially admitted by the Japs that General Nuisance has made a clean sweep on the Isle of View. His aide, Major Disappointment, and Corporal Punishment were two of the leaders in the battle. Private Affairs has been cited for serious leaviness under fire.

DR. KNOCK (pronounced Karock)

The French movie in the auditorium the other night was really something. For 20 cents Miss Roussey had a chance to see two pictures and a full length picture. The only thing missing were popcorn and English.

DISASTER

A dozen young women are doing their exercises. They are now doing a one week stretch, and two are trying a two week stretch. It seems like an awful waste of time, because there is only two more weeks of school. A half an hour is pretty bad, if you don't believe it, disaster.

BEAUTIFUL

Congratulations, Tri Sles, on your beautiful singing. Congratulations, Save your Eyeballs and other papers. Waste aside the Axis.

SPEAKING FOR MYSELF

By MORRIS POLAN

WHAT IS AN AMERICAN?

A popular and prominent professor has said to me that what this country needs is one hundred per cent white. Said he: "The hell with Jews, Negroes, Methodists, Irishmen, Hungarians, etc., etc. We have room in America only for Americans."

What that well-meaning professor said has worried me for some time and I now bring myself to write about it only because of a conviction that such well-meaning talk is dangerous and un-American at the same time that it has a quick and common appeal to patriotic (or perhaps chauvinistic) feelings.

These are exceedingly critical times for America. We need unity above all things now. It is not the time of victory. Yet we shall do ourselves irreparable injury if, in the hysteria of wartime, we allow or make to be imposed upon this great land of "unity within diversity" a unity that is actually uniformity, and hence the sterile standardization of our energies.

For at all that is an 100% American. He is in the line. He is not a Broun's phrase, "an Indian in a blanket." The rest of us whether Mayflower descendants or today's refugees are really "foreigners" in the sense that we are descended from immigrants. Even the Daughters of the Revolution came from somewhere and we have not yet heard of one of those grand dames whose name was Prochobos. So if we have room in America only for Americans one fears that we shall have to heed the advice of a song popular not so very long ago and actually "give it back to the whites."

But if the statement I have quoted is meant to imply Americanism our problem is not so simple. For then we have to consider an idea or an ideal or, better yet, a dream—the great American Dream. Now the D. A. R., for example unfortunately does not understand the American Dream. At least it misunderstands it. For the D. A. R. which incidentally has Mrs. Anderson from Constitution Hall would do what all "professional Americans" would do. It would make America a thing for itself alone in the manner of the Nazis who would make the world for the Herrnhovk alone. It would be the beginning, as Louis Adams tells us in "The American," this country has been one of many strains. Today there are some two score strains represented in the population. They came "from many lands to one land; they stand for many cultures that is our American culture. It is the many aspirations forming the one American dream, known as the American Dream."

Once, and even yet to a too prevalent extent, we looked upon this all human power for greatness and beauty and applied to it the ignominious title of "The Melting Pot." But the Melting Pot is not the American dream. For it has the Nazi tendency on conforming to standard and would harden human diversity into the mold of uniformity. This primitive idea of Americanism has had deleterious effects of a most serious nature among the immigrants of the early twentieth century. It has been the cause of what was expected of them, and under the lash of ridicule aimed at "green horns," they set out to "adjust to their environment." They were told to forget their old lives with all its customs, traditions, and beauty and to become "one hundred per centers." They tried, many of them, and the result ended up being what Adams calls "cultural zeros." For they were uprooted from their old soil and found no new richness into which they might transplant themselves.

That is the great tragedy of the Melting Pot. It is one of the reasons why so many immigrant-descended Americans of the second or third generation lack depth and appreciation of the beauties of life. They have been denied their inheritance by the toll of one hundred per centers, and the loss is not only theirs but America's also.

In view of all this it seems to me in every way unreasonable to speak

RICE, FORMER EDITOR OF EGYPTIAN SAYS TO FORGET 'PEARL HARBOR' WHY RECALL DISASTER IS PLEA

By WILBUR RICE

Research Fellow-in-Rural Sociology, State College of Washington and Editor of Egyptian, 1940-41

One wonders how a phrase so filled with defeatism as "Remember Pearl Harbor" could have caught the mind of the American public. Why should we want to remember a disaster as ignominious as the Hawaiian incident? Far better that we should forget Pearl Harbor! There are more important things to remember.

God help us if we don't remember that after we have won the war we have a greater battle to win. Winning the war comes first, but in the back of all our minds is a lurking fear of what is going to happen after the last shot is fired. Are we coming home after this war to discover there are no jobs for millions of us, that we will just have to wait 'till things work themselves out?

Let's forget Pearl Harbor as soon as possible and let us have time to recall the past. Let's remember what has been happening in America during the last 25 years and on the basis of these trends attempt to predict what kind of problems we shall be faced with after the war.

Problems

In the first place, there are no frontiers to turn to after the war. The government hasn't disposed any free land for half a century and Mississippi is still beyond our reach. In other words, a back-to-the-land movement on any large scale is no longer practicable in America. The number of farm workers needed to support the population has been decreasing since 1910. So we shall have to find some other outlet for the estimated 27 million men who will be released from war industries and the armaments factories when the victory is won.

In the second place, as we remember the advanced technology and the consequent displacement of workers. Since about 1926 most experts agree technology has been throwing men out of work faster than it has been creating new industries to absorb them. The exigencies of the present war will magnify this trend because it is important that we also as few men as possible in war factories. In short we can expect technological unemployment to become an even greater problem after the war.

Interdependence

In the third place, let us remember our growing interdependence. We have learned the hard way how each part of American life is a vital cog in a gigantic machine and that all parts must function smoothly together if the machine is to be kept from falling apart.

Jobs For All

What we hope to find most of all is a job to return to. With the enormous productive capacity the country now has, there ought to be jobs for millions of men and women. It is allowed to drag after the war. With increased efficiency of machines and the decrease in demand for men to run them, we see no reason why employers should insist on an eight-hour day employing only a few men. We hope to see a shorter work day. If a shorter working day does not provide employment for all of us, we shall have an enormous backlog of schools to clear, parks, hospitals, and schools to build. These tasks should give a great many of us out of idleness. We hope to see a shorter work day. We are aware that this type of enterprise does not attract private capital. So be it. Let it be financed by social capital.

We hope we shall not have to return to a world torn by struggles between labor unions and short-sighted employers. We hope a smooth, if a working plan will have been devised in which emphasis has been placed on the hallowed dollar and placed on decent living standards for all.

No More Waste

We hope there will be no more senseless wars and other foolish sources, and no more wastage of natural and human resources. If this waste is necessary to maintain the system of private enterprise, let's put private enterprise on the shelf. The price of maintenance is too dear.

We hope and we should be glad to see a new era of peace and plenty. We hope for us and we hope for you by a popular dictator or any other kind of totalitarian government. We expect to find a strong government in Washington; we hope it will be strong enough so that we can plan our own future. We hope we will be strong enough to say "no" to our voices and answer, "Yes, your voices are heard and heard. Let us all work together to build a better world—a world completely free of the paradox of need amidst plenty, poverty amidst wealth.

"N" NATURAL

By BEETHOVEN

Andre Kostelanetz recently commissioned three composers to paint a series of "musical portraits." The first three were presented to the public Thursday when Mr. Kostelanetz at the Grand Central Orchestra in its home city "A Light in the Darkness" by Aaron Copeland, an orchestral work with a narrator who will speak some of Lincoln's actual words and the narrative Mr. Copeland had written to go with his score; "Portrait of Beethoven" by Mark Twain; Jerome Kern which is based on four episodes in the author's life; and "The Mayor La Guardia Waltzes" a portrait by Virgil Thompson, who has also composed a portrait of Dorothy Thompson.

The members of the Philadelphia Orchestra were recently asked to pledge sums of their own choosing for purchase of war bonds and stamps. When the sums were added it was found that they had pledged 15 per cent of the Orchestra's total annual payroll. They have since received a flag and a plaque from the War Relocation Department. . . Every week, units of the WPA Music Project give concerts at the Brooklyn Museum. Since the restriction on admission charges to public buildings makes it impossible to attract large numbers of people to the museum, has prepared this message which is distributed to all audiences: "In accordance with the wishes of President Roosevelt, may we urge you to express your patriotism and your appreciation of the NYC-WPA concerts by purchasing war stamps at the booths in the Sculpture Court."

SIGMA BETA MU

The alumni of Sigma Beta Mu met at Collinsville April 12 to discuss forming an association. Plans were set up for the organization. Active committees headed by J. T. English at Carbondale, and Bill Beck at Centralia, were appointed by William Randolph, Monitor of the governing committee located at Collinsville.

The association, through Secretary Paul Hale, will be in constant touch with every alumnus of the fraternity, and with the chapter at Carbondale. The association will edit a quarterly bulletin of news and business.

April 26th, the governing committee met with the officers of the fraternity to discuss the present standing of the chapter. Plans were made for an all-alumni steak dinner, preceding the Inter-Fraternity dance, at the Chapter house, at 6:00 p.m. May 16. Sunday, the 17th, the alumni will attend active meeting and formal initiation of the fraternity.

CHI DELTA CHI

Chi Delta Chi fraternity formally pledged two men last Monday night. They are Robert Pulliam, a freshman from Carbondale, and Noble Barker, a freshman from China.

Both of these men had been entertained at a rush party and smoker earlier, this term and were guests at the Chi Delta Chi Stardust Swing.

College Film Service Offers Outstanding Films

The College Film Service has and is securing a new all-time high record for films brought to the campus for use in college and laboratory science classes, clubs and civilian defense groups this week.

Thirty or more four hundred foot reels, more than three miles of film of the best films obtainable were obtained by the College Film Service for the use of a score of teachers in their classes on the campus. Such titles as "Machine, Master or Slave", "Valley Town", "Bomber", "Men and Ships", "Dr. Kneek", "Western Movement" and many others are numerous to mention have been on the campus this week.

The College Film Service, along with the College Film Library, is one of the outstanding departments on the campus and also one of the fastest growing departments.

disparagingly of the various component parts which make up the fabric of our beautiful society. It is a gross, vulgar comparison. It is a little as if a baker were to say "I'll hell with wheat and flour and yeast and lard; I am only interested in bread".

I am afraid that such a foolish baker would never get his bread; and I am likewise afraid that if we are shallowly foolish we shall never come to realize our American Dream.

Edna Norton Now Bacteriologist at Wayne Univ.

Miss Edna Norton, former student of Southern, who completed her Master's degree at the University of Tennessee, is now employed as a bacteriologist by the National Research Council in the college of medicine at Wayne University, Detroit, Mich.

Her work consists of experimenting with the treatment of contaminated wounds with the various sulfadiazine drugs to determine their effectiveness. The results of this research work will be turned over to the Army and Navy Medical Corps immediately.

Miss Norton graduated from S. I. N. U. in 1923 with a major in biology. After having taught school for one year, she returned to obtain a major in zoology. She has spent several summers at the Biological Station at Reception Lake and has had published several articles on the lake and its surroundings.

Commerce Club Toured St. Louis Wednesday

Members of the Commerce Club, and Tracy Bryant, sponsor, visited a number of points of interest in St. Louis Wednesday, including the Federal Reserve building, the Civil Courts building, and Swift Packing company.

Other places visited were National Stockyards, and the city police headquarters. In the evening the group attended a movie at the Ambassador theatre.

The journey was made by bus, with a police escort attending the group through the city proper.

All girls interested in entering nursing school or interested in pre-nursing education are urged to meet Miss Jane Graves Friday, May 15, at 7 o'clock in Shryock Auditorium. Miss Graves is president of the Tenth District Nurses Association and also a member of the executive board of the Illinois State Nurses' Association and superintendent of the Alton Memorial hospital.

 Mrs. Bert Bloodworth

The Illinois Association of School Boards will hold a regional meeting in Shryock Auditorium, May 15, 7:30 p.m. All board members in Southern Illinois are urged to attend. The meeting is under the direction of Mr. Glenn K. Kelly, State Educational Director for the Association. The chairman for this region is Mr. D. F. Dudenbostel of Christopher.

At this meeting the following questions will be discussed: Do you know what the schools of Illinois are doing to help win the war? Do you know what other school boards are doing to meet the problems of finance, teacher shortage, curriculum changes, and adult education? What do you think the association should do about plans for the post-war period?

Bunting and Schaefer to Be Married in June

Kate Bunting, '41, of Alton, and Pvt. Isaac Schaefer, formerly of Crossville, now at Scott Field, have announced that they are to be married in June.

Miss Bunting was a music major and was accompanist for the MacDowell Club. She was a member of the honorary education fraternity, Kappa Delta Phi, and served on the Student Council in her sophomore year.

Mr. Schaefer was a member of the highest scholastic fraternity, the Sphinx, and belonged to the Future Teachers of America.

Like Schaefer, who would have graduated this year, belonged to the Egyptian, Obelisk, and Southern Alumni staffs. Mr. Schaefer was a member of the honorary Journalism fraternity, Mu Tau Phi, as well as the honorary education fraternity for men, the Kappa Phi Kappa. He was on the basketball squad and belonged to the "F" club. Mr. Schaefer served on the Student Council as president of the Epworth League, and was the head of the Student Employment Bureau. Previous to his present position as clerk in the Reception Center at Scott Field, Mr. Schaefer held a civil service position in Washington, D. C.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

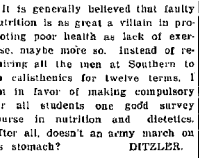

Dear Editor:

From the feminine point of view I should like to add a bit of comment on the subject of the routine which hangs over the head of the stronger (?) sex at S.I.N.U.—namely, four years of required physical education.

The poor fellows have my deepest sympathy. As a notoriously non-athletic though robustly healthy individual, who at the end of my junior year have one more term of P. E. to go on a mere six quarter plan. I don't feel that my physical fitness has been improved by doing something for which I have neither direct interest nor ability.

Most college students get plenty of exercise mowing the landlady's lawn for their room rent, tripping the light fantastic in the local night spots, or galloping up three flights of stairs of Old Main at 7:30 a.m. daylight saving time.

It is generally believed that faulty nutrition is as great a villain in promoting poor health as lack of exercise, maybe more so. Instead of requiring all the men at Southern to do calisthenics for twelve terms, I am in favor of making compulsory for all students on a food survey course in nutrition and dietetics. After all, doesn't an army march on its stomach? DITZLER.

Here's How to Make Clothes Last Longer!

Frequent cleaning at Peerless Cleansers frees clothes from dirt and perspiration so harmful to the fabric.
