Keep Democracy On The March!

"Democracy" is an accepted American ideal. Practically all Americans give "vocal support" to democracy. But in our population at large there are two widely differing attitudes toward democracy.

1. One large group of Americans views democracy as an established fact in this country. "Democracy" and the status quo are inseparably linked. Any reforms or changes of the status quo are generally inspired by "unAmerican" radicals. All praise for our "American" system of government should go to the founding fathers and our heavenly-inspired Constitution. The struggles to create democracy in this country is over. Now all we have to do is to fight off any changes in our present system and combat unAmerican "isms."

2. Another large group of Americans feel that democracy should mean equality of opportunity—and that that ideal has not yet been attained. This group points out that democracy does not exist for the child of the slums, for the southern Negro, or for the tenant farmer. This group would combat "unAmerican isms" by strengthening our democracy through social reforms and a higher standard of living for ALL Americans, regardless of color, race, creed, or social status.

The EGYPTIAN subscribes to the latter attitude. The EGYPTIAN believes that the best way to combat fascism and communism in this country is to KEEP DEMOCRACY ON THE MARCH!

CARBONDALE IS ORGANIZING GROUP HOSPITAL SERVICE

According to Mr. David S. McIntosh, head of the S. I. N. U. music department, a number of Carbondale citizens are now organizing and promoting a group hospital service plan similar to the one now in operation at Barnes' hospital in St. Louis.

"The community of Carbondale is being organized to take advantage of Group Hospital Service, Incorporated," The Jackson County Medical Association is not opposed to the group hospital plan. The Holden hospital and St. Andrew's hospital at Murphysboro are cooperating," said Mr. McIntosh.

Tuesday afternoon, November 15, Mr. T. J. McGinty met with faculty members who are interested to explain the plan. The meeting was held in the Auditorium at 4 o'clock.

"This is the same plan that is in operation in Barnes' hospital in St. Louis and in nine other hospitals in St. Louis. It provides hospital service at very reasonable monthly rates for members of cooperating groups and their families," declared Mr. McIntosh.

Plea For Originality
There will be nothing so inspiring in the classroom as a thought from the mind. writes Julian Daniel, a top in an address to teachers. Fire will kindle fire. Your originality will be challenged and it will have its response in the minds of your pupils.

Another Advantage For Southern
We believe that there are many students and even a few members of the faculty who are not familiar with the recreational advantages, to which only Southern has ready access, and which may be enjoyed at little or no cost to the individual.

Both the federal and state governments have gone to a great deal of expense in creating for us a beautiful park located just eight miles south of the campus. Here one may follow winding foot-paths through colorful trees and rocks, over rolling hills, and across low peaceful valleys under the deep blue autumn sky.

During the next few weeks we have made arrangements to meet at 1:00 p. m. each Saturday at Makanda, a quaint little village which slumbers contentedly as it nestles snugly against the bosom of a bearded old hill that gives beckoning nods in the Autumn breeze to the wanderer crossing a picturesque dale near the entrance to the park.

SEGA WILL TEACH
NEW ECONOMICS
COURSE NEXT TERM

Dr. Melvin J. Segal, member of the economics department, is teaching a course entitled "Economic History of the United States" or Economics 317, the fourth hour this winter term. This is the first time the economics department on this campus has offered such a course. It has been introduced with the hope of giving a background to students of economics and to help round out the training along this line that they have already acquired. This course is also accepted by the geography department for credit on a major or minor.

In this course an economic analysis is made of the colonial development, the westward movement, industrialization, and the United States as a world power. The historical background of the economic problems of agriculture, transportation, banking, manufacture, and labor is stressed.

'We Will Not Have Peace in the World As Long as Men Have Greater Concern For the Dollar Than For the Welfare of Their Fellow Man' Says Dr. Sipprell

By JEANNETTE MILLER.
"When we come to the time when we shall have a more understanding law, we will not allow starving millions to struggle on where they have not room to live," said Dr. Sipprell. He spoke at a luncheon at the Far East, which spoke at Shryack auditorium Friday night.

"It is impossible for Japan to meet the needs of her people by cultivation of the soil and by fishing from the sea, although she is the most self-contained of any nation that I know of in the world," Dr. Sipprell continued. He was addressing a meeting of the Institute of International Understanding, sponsored by the Cordell R. Borel Rotary Club, on the subject, "America's Problems in the Pacific." This was the third number of the Institute's program.

Dr. Sipprell was for thirteen years president of Columbian College in Canada. He has studied in Germany, Scotland, and England, and during his four trips to the Orient has made many contacts with both the Chinese and the Japanese.

"It is our duty as also our privilege and obligation to try to understand, if we can, the national ideals of the oriental people across the sea . . . so that we shall ultimately bring peace to mankind all over the world," said the speaker, appealing for the removal of prejudice from the minds of the occidental people. "If, at the time of the world war, there had been an effort made to try to understand the viewpoint of the nations of the world, there would not be the problem of international war facing us today. I trust a new international friendship shall develop between the nations of the world."

Dr. Sipprell explained the needs of Japan, saying: "Japan has a very pressing need so far as her population is concerned. In the agricultural area, she is the most densely populated country in the world. Nineteen per cent of the land of Japan is capable of cultivation and fifteen per cent is cultivated.

"Japan needs raw materials—especially coal and iron, and oil—she has some and has found some in Manchukuo, but they are not enough. When she tried to buy, Japan found that the nations which have these had raised their tariffs. The depreciated currency of Japan made it impossible for her to buy these resources from the nations that had them. One of the reasons that she is in China to night is to try to get these raw materials."

The speaker went on to list other reasons for the Japanese attack on China, including the growth of Chinese nationalism, the fear of Communism, and the need of a market for her goods. One of the reasons that she is in China to night is to try to get these raw materials.

FRENCH STUDENTS DISCUSS NATIONAL NETWORK PLAYS

The students belonging to the advance classes of French continued this fall to maintain a French Club organization on the campus. In its last meeting at the home of the sponsor, Dr. Vera L. Uencock, the club resumed its discussion of the French play "Cyrano de Bergerac," written by Rostand. The club has been discussing this play all term along with a variety of French literature.

A National Network program is presenting a series of broadcasts called "The Great Plays" during the winter and spring terms of this year. Six of these plays are of French origin and to be presented in English, therefore the club will discuss them previous to their presentation so that the students may acquire a more thorough understanding and appreciation of the essential parts of the plays. The first of these is "The City of Cornouaille," followed by a second "Bourgeois" by Gentilhomme. Everyone is privileged to attend these meetings and French students are especially urged to be present.

Band Squads For Parents Day in Tomorrow

The small squads of the 18 B. B. band will report on formations to the Austin Post-Southern game here tomorrow afternoon. It is expected that they will present something new to the fans.

The small squad is composed of members of the band who are particularly interested in the work who plan, work out, and present new formations to their director, Wendell Margrave, for his criticism and approval. Final touches are then put on the work.

Formations are marked out on graph paper, first in the band's regular marching formation, then on an other sheet of graph paper using the same scale, the letter of formation is designed. Next, a master sheet showing the next of the formations are worked out.

Sidelights On the Southern-Eastern Game

By IKE SCHAFFER.
The W. A. A. Hockey team stopped in Charleston, on route to Cham-paign, and had a exciting session of its own on the eastern side of Schabus Field. At the start of the first quarter some very enthusiastic yells emitted from that section of the field but they soon lost their pep. Before the game was over a set of them were sitting in the East-ern section probably hoping to see the cry of some of those East-erners.

It was the last college football trip for Captains Harlan Cole and Kenneth Melrose. Dave Allen and Harold Watt. However, it was not their last college football game as they will all probably see action next Saturday against Austin Post. Normal we hope that their last game will be a victory for S. I. N. C.

Just prior to the opening kickoff the Eastern band paraded onto the field and played "The Stars-and-Stripes." During the intermission between halves the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps drilled, and the American Legion drum squad marched to the middle of the field and had three volleys. Following

Spent Time in the Theatre

Spent time in the theatre to give final rate performance of opera.

"The Barbered Bride," a comic opera of Bohemian origin, will be presented in Bryrock Auditorium on Wednesday night, December 14, at 8:00. Admission to the opera will be fifty cents to adults, and students holding activity tickets will be admitted for thirty-five cents.

Critics assert that this opera will be well worth the time and money that it will cost to see it. Libuska Bartak, English translator of the "Barbered Bride," has this to say about Bedrich Smetana, the author.

"Smetana, Bohemian founder of modern Czech music the man who dared create an art in the Czech idiom, who said such an expression was close kin to treason. Smetana a true nationalist is felt in all his compositions. It is most strongly emphasized perhaps, in the best known of his eight operas, the "Barbered Bride." Every phrase of this masterpiece is an inspired outpouring of a Czech-minded soul asserting its nationalism."

This musical comedy in three acts is supported by an excellent cast and many singers in the chorus and dances. The cast is composed of: Goshawk.....Dave Allen, Zenger, Ludmila.....Evelyn Daily, Du Quon Marie.....William Gaet, Du Quon Hala.....Eather Ayers, Anna Vasek.....Woodrow Corday, Shalby Villa Jentik.....Edward Melvin, Tamara Prater.....Helen Kline, E. St. Louis Emeralds, Miriam Bowden, (dale Indian).....Robert Liph, Berwyn

The story which gives the continuity to the "Barbered Bride" is an interesting one. The scene is set on a Bohemian village the day that Kezal, marriage-broker, has chosen for the meeting of the Kuzmins and Michka families. The object is to arrange a marriage between Marie, daughter of peasant Kruhshina, and Vashok, the son of Michka, the wealthy landowner. The bride is to be taken to the home of Michka's who has left home and who Marie really loves. Jenik prevents the marriage of Marie to her brother, and wins her for himself.

The cast of the opera is supported by the following chorus and dance groups:

Display Will Depict History of Little Egypt

The S. I. N. C. museum is preparing an outline exhibit for the first and second floor corridors of the main building of S. I. N. C.

This exhibit is to be prepared according to modern museum standards, telling the history of Little Egypt from geologic times up to the present day. It will include such things as dioramas showing typical Indian villages and the first French village in Southern Illinois pioneer settlements, spots of historical interest, and so forth. It will also show pictorially the development of the various industries of Southern Illinois and give a complete history of the people of the region illustrating the social rather than the biological sciences. The story of Little Egypt is the theme of the exhibit and the purpose of the museum is to present it.

H. Bratgard, artist, probably the outstanding dramatic writer working in the United States, has expressed his willingness to cooperate completely with the museum here in carrying on that particular project. A man who is interested in working with Wright will be chosen in the near future. Several persons have applied for this work.

The preparation of this exhibit is part of a larger program which the museum staff under the guidance of Fred K. Eagle, director of the museum. The program includes as one of the most important projects the collection and preservation of materials for school, home, service, display and research collections.

Material illustrative of all forms of plant and animal life in Southern Illinois including specimens of the fauna and flora of the area will be collected. These specimens will be used in school, home, service, display and research collections. Duplicate specimens for exchange and for research collections will be prepared. Other projects are also being planned.

Miss Charlotte Zimmerman of the physics department, and Dr. Mary M. Stouffer of the zoology department made a business trip to St. Louis on Saturday of last week.
