Officials Doubtful of Funds For Student Work Union

By Charles Springer

Some administrative officials apparently aren't too concerned over a Student Government announcement to form a student workers' union.

They are wondering, however, where the students plan to get the additional funds which would be needed to increase the minimum wage from $1 to $1.50 per working hour.

The higher figure was set as a target by Student Senator John Foote, chairman of a group hoping to found the "Carbondale Area Student Workers Union."

"If we suddenly increased the individual student wage to $1.50 from University allotments that would increase the payroll by about 20 per cent," said Frank Adams, head of the Student Work Office.

"This would sharply decrease the amount of funds which are already limited," he pointed out. "At this rate, we would start laying off some of our students now and all of them probably would be without jobs by March."

"It's like a piece of string," Adams said, "you don't increase its length if you tie a knot in the middle of it."

John S. Rendleman, vice-president of business affairs, said an announcement by a student senator that the increase would amount to no additional cost to the University did not jibe with his understanding of the federal work-study program.

"Our whole program has been geared to help students by providing them with work opportunities," Rendleman said. "If there are any working conditions that need improving, I would personally like to know about them."

"If the students think they could be better served by such a vehicle, then I'm for them," he added. "We want to be helpful to all students working their way through the University."

Rendleman doubts that the students would be aided by existing unions on campus since, he says, that is the biggest area of complaint about student workers his office receives.

"I would be very surprised if the AFL-CIO would be interested in such a proposition," he said, "where workers are employed only for short periods of time."

"A student who starts out at $1 can work up to as much as $1.50 or $1.75 an hour," he emphasized, "depending upon the time worked and the quality of his performance."

The Fair Labor Standards Act recently released by the Labor Department provides for minimum wage increases yearly until 1971. Now at $1 per hour, the rate will be increased to $1.15 in 1968, $1.30 in 1969, $1.45 in 1970 and $1.70 in 1971. Adams

Whirlpool of Action Keeps Girls Busy at Information Desk

By Dan Van Atta

They move about behind the desk with the swiftness of a flower petal caught-up in a whirlpool.

People come at them from every side, hurling questions, demanding answers, thrusting money. Yet the stalwarts hold their own and, somehow, manage to gain ground.

"Yes sir."
 "Can I help you?"
 "That will be 15 cents please."
 "I'll check up on that for you."

Backward and forward, from side to side, the girls who work at the University Center information desk are in constant motion most of the day.

"I'd like two tickets please."

These words are passed across the desk hundreds of times each week.

"Tickets to what?"
 It could be the dance, the play, the musical, the football game.

"The stage show."
 "I'm sorry, this is all we have left."

Tickets are one of the most perplexing parts of working at the information desk, according to Marsha Purcell, a pretty junior from Hillsboro.

"We are often selling tickets to three or four shows," she said, "with several different performances sometimes, and it gets pretty hectic. One of the biggest parts of the job is getting all of the tickets straight."

But tickets comprise only one sector of this many-sided job. The girl behind the desk is expected to be a walking directory, with available information on any subject.

"Can you locate an address for me?"

"What time does Savant start this week, and can you tell me if it will be shown twice?"

"Do you know where the party is tonight?"
 Lois Edwards, a senior from Edison, N.J., said that between selling tickets and answering questions there are always the lobby loiterers around for her amusement.

"We are always getting guys who stand around and eventually ask us what we are doing when we get off work. Especially on the weekend nights," she said.

"Things have perked up since we began selling Playboy (magazine). We sold almost 300 copies the first week!"

"I like meeting new people," Miss Edwards said, "and this is the place to meet them."

Student Union to Recruit Members

Recruiting for members of the student union will begin Monday at 9 a.m., according to student body president Ray Lenzi. A table will be set up in Room H of the University Center until 5 p.m. to distribute information and recruit students, Lenzi said.

Government Prof Sees Re-election of Johnson

Ikuo Chou, professor of government, predicted last night that Lyndon Johnson would be re-elected to the presidency in 1968 and the war in Vietnam would last as long as he remains in office.

Chou spoke before the Young Democrats Club in Davis Auditorium of the Wham Education building.

The speaker went on to say that he would "not be a bit surprised to see Johnson take Gen. James Gavin as his running mate next year in favor of Hubert Humphrey." Gavin is an outspoken critic on the war in Vietnam.

Chou explained that Johnson's selection of Gavin would enable him to talk to the hawks about escalating the war while the general could appease the war critics with hopes of a peace settlement.

He said Johnson's re-election would paint a "gloomy picture" for the people of the U.S. until at least 1972 when he is forced to leave office.

"Once we (U.S.) lose the support of the South Vietnamese people, the war is lost," Chou said. He feels that the vast majority of the South Vietnamese people are no longer with us. "They are either siding with the Viet Cong or else indifferent to the war," he added.

The former Chinese resident said that Johnson's war problems began last year when he was misinformed by the military experts in Vietnam. The experts told Johnson there were only 50,000 Viet Cong in Vietnam in 1966.

RFK Wins Pre-Primary With Nod Over Johnson

Robert F. Kennedy was overwhelmingly elected president of the United States in a special pre-primary mock election Thursday.

The campus "election" was sponsored by the Citizens for Kennedy in '68. Altogether 441 people voted in the election held at the University Center.

And 341 voters gave their endorsement to Kennedy, U.S. Senator from New York, while only 95 indicated that they preferred President Lyndon Johnson. Five of the ballots were voided.

Al Blumenthal, spokesman for the Kennedy group, said, "We were very impressed with the turnout, considering the lack of publicity and the type of election."

He said he thought this type of election appealed mainly to Democrats.

"We feel that the overwhelming vote for Robert Kennedy over Lyndon Johnson in the pre-primary election is a clear indication of the growing dissatisfaction with Lyndon Johnson, his domestic politics and his foreign policy," said Blumenthal.

This same type of election will be held Saturday and Sunday in most of the major cities and large universities throughout the country, according to Blumenthal.

He said residents of southern Illinois will be able to vote in Carbondale at two polls.

One will be at the Murdale Shopping Center, but the location of the other polling place has not been decided.

Integrated Media Subject of Upcoming Workshop

College teachers will learn the integrated use of media in undergraduate teacher education during a workshop on campus Sunday through Wednesday.

The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, under contract with the U.S. Office of Education program, will provide the selected group of educators with an extensive two-and-one-half-day learning experience.

The workshop will be presented by a team from AACTE headquarters and four university professors active in teacher education

At 9:30 a.m. Monday in Ballrooms A and B of the University Center Leonard Kraft of the University of Georgia will discuss the interaction analysis system for analyzing the manner in which the classroom teacher uses his verbal behavior as an influence in the classroom.

Charles M. Galloway of Ohio State University will present a system for analyzing the teacher's non-verbal behavior at 9:30 a.m. Monday and Tuesday in Ballrooms A and B of the Center.

The micro-teaching technique will be presented by Robert Kibler of Purdue University at 2:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in Ballrooms A and B of the Center.

Kibler will explain how a teaching episode is videotaped and played back with the pre-teacher and supervisor for analysis. The pre-teacher then re-teaches the same concept to a new group of students and the process is repeated until competence is gained.

Also at 2:30 p.m. in the Ballrooms, Roy Bubb of the State University College in Brookport, New York, will present the simulation process of making the pre-teacher more sensitive to the kinds of problems he will be confronted with in real classroom situations.

Bubb's presentation will include a series of visual, verbal and role playing incidents which require decisions on the part of the pre-teacher.

says the pay rates are set by law.

SIU workers are divided into five classes and paid accordingly. They include pre-professional, clerical, service, pre-skilled and semi-skilled, and temporary workers.

Rendleman and Adams agree also that a union would hurt opportunities for student employment in Carbondale.

"There has already been a reluctance by some employers here to hire students," Rendleman said. "When you start dealing with a third party which sets working conditions, the opportunities will be decreased even more."

"If union officials set their rates high," Adams added, "student jobs will cease to exist in many cases. You would be putting, in many cases, unionized workers where unions don't exist."

"The University could hire civil service workers at a lot less expense than students," Adams concluded. "But that's a price we're glad to pay to help them get an education."

at the Department of Theater's children's play, "Dick Whittington and His Cat." The play is presently being shown at the Theater of the Communications Building for a very select audience.

The SRO crowd was served a tale of a poor boy making good, replete with heroes, heroines, rats and a cat.

No one would doubt that holding the attention of several hundred grammar school children is definitely a challenge.

But, the players did amazingly well. The kids booed the villains, warned the hero of impending danger and cheered heartily the happy ending.

An even greater measure of the players' success is that the children were quiet when they were supposed to be. (At least, as quiet as several hundred kids can be).

Al Johnson, as Dick the hero; Anita Hosford as the cat; Bill Stiegle, the bumbling father; Carol Montgomery, the blushing heroine; and Kristen Onken, the black-hearted Irish cook, all brought a good deal of energy and enthusiasm to their parts. These five main characters were supported by a very athletic cast that got enough exercise in the chase scenes to last all year.

They worked against the very fine sets of Gerald Patt, who had the problem of transporting the action from the London streets, to shipboard and then to an Eastern potentate's palace in the Spice Islands.

After the play, the actors went to the lobby to meet their public. They had a good indication of their success as they were swept against the wall by the waist-high crowd.

"A TALE OF TWO CITIES" SPECTACULAR DRAMA BASED ON CHARLES DICKENS' GREAT NOVEL

With Ronald Colman at the head of a cast of 112 speaking players and some 5,000 extras, "A Tale of Two Cities," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen version of one of Charles Dickens' most powerful novels, is a motion picture of absorbing interest and spectacle.

Colman plays the role of the adventurous and heroic Sydney Carton, with other prominent parts portrayed by Elizabeth Allan, Edna May Oliver, Reginald Owen and Basil Rathbone. Colman's performance was named the best of the year by the Screen Actor's Guild.

The story of "A Tale of Two Cities" is well known to the millions who have read Dickens' immortal classic. Faithfully depicted in the screen version, it tells of the joys and sorrows, the adventures and the trials of a little group of people, English and French, who are caught in the maelstrom of the French Revolution of 1789. Specifically, it tells of the love of Sydney Carton for Lucie Manette, played by Elizabeth Allan—a love that was doomed to frustration in life but which transcended death.

The tremendous spectacle scenes of this film are in the tradition of "Ben-Hur," "Quo Vadis" and other giant panoramic productions. Swinging the focal point of interest between London and Paris, the action depicts the slow fomenting of revolt among the masses of the French peasantry, shows the intimate events that touch the flame to the powder, and then crowds the screen with such stirring scenes of tumult as the storming of La Force prison and the Bastille, scenes of the Revolutionary Tribunal, scenes of the famous Old Bailey trial in London—all spectacular highlights of a memorable screen production.

"A Tale of Two Cities" was directed by Jack Conway. It was produced by David O. Selznick, the producer of such epic pictures as "Gone With the Wind," and "David Copperfield," another great Charles Dickens classic.

Congressional Generosity

With a national deficit of $340 billion, the United States is very likely to increase that sum by several billion dollars in the next fiscal year.

Several administration officials have urged a cut in the federal budget, but thus far Congress has been unwilling to make a significant slice in expenditures.

Congress did cut more than $1 billion from some of the President's non-defense programs recently, but reductions will have to be much greater to combat the coming blizzard of expected expenditures.

The "pork barrel" legislation is catching the eye of many officials and voters. The spending goes at such a pace that many agencies have been unable to spend funds as fast as they are allocated. And new programs are springing up at a rapid rate with federal funds footing the bill.

Surely some of the federal spending can be reduced. The defense dollar takes a big chunk out of the budget, but several other projects could probably stand the economy ax.

The House did try to make some reductions recently in the President's Model Cities Program, but members of the Senate saw fit to put the bulk of the proposed cut back into the project.

The way Congress is spending money, taxation in the years to come will probably have to be greatly increased. And the hike will likely be more than the President's proposed 10 per cent surcharge.

At present, a cut in the budget is very unlikely. Congress is in a money-spending mood. In the end, taxpayers might take a different view of the free-spending legislator, many of whom will be up for election next year.

More Reliance Upon Military

While the United States continues to fight the Vietnam War on the terms of the enemy, at the cost of thousands of American lives, the Joint Chiefs of Staff in America strongly criticize the political implications that are governing military decisions.

Every day there are news reports about how we are stepping up the bombing in North Vietnam and indicating the number of air strikes made against their targets. What isn't clearly stated is how strategically important these targets are in our effort to win the war in the very near future.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have pointed out the farce of the situation--that a primitive nation can withstand the onslaught of the greatest military power in the world.

Of the 242 targets which the Joint Chiefs of Staff considered militarily significant, only 22 were struck.

This lengthy war shows no signs of ending. Many more lives will be needlessly lost before it's over. It is about time that the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in fighting this war be taken.

Letters to the Editor:

A Torn Issue

To the Editor:

It has been called to our attention that a large amount of mutilation and destruction of library periodicals and books takes place every quarter at the Morris Library. Students carry books from the library without checking them out, thus feeling no moral obligation to return them. At the same time, articles are cut and torn from periodicals and books, leaving printed sources of information incomplete and thus unsatisfactory for research purposes.

Thousands of dollars are spent each year in the replacement of mutilated periodicals and missing books by the Serials Department, Special Services Department, and the Division Librarians at Morris Library. Open stacks are permitted for the convenience and availability of information for the students and professors. With this, a xeroxing service is situated on the main floor for the individual who wishes to buy his own copy of specific pages from a book, magazine, or abstract.

Why do some feel it necessary to borrow materials on a permanent basis, taking something that does not belong to them? Is it that five cents an exposure is too expensive? Is it that a student is so terribly rushed that 20 minutes of his time is entirely too valuable to wait for a xeroxed copy? Must they be dishonest? Or do professors who assign large classes the same topic and materials seem scarce, provoking a first-come-first-served attitude?

We propose that professors notify the library of such large assignments, ask that a specific number of copies be made of valuable articles and ask that specific books be put aside. In this case, each student would be required to purchase the xeroxed copies for the minor expense of ten to thirty cents, depending on the length of the article. We dare you, the student, to be your own honest self, at your very best, all the time in order to make such a resourceful complex as the library a complete one. No system works at its best unless all persons involved practice communication and cooperation.

For the student with limited time and patience, a xeroxing service supervised by the Serials Department on the seventh floor of Morris Library will assist them immediately. Also, at present, the library officials are looking into the possibility of placing self-service xeroxing machines on specific floors of the library as have been done at Thompson Point and University Park.

Time and a nickel may be a limiting factor to the busy student, yet replacement of mutilated and missing materials takes not only extended periods of time and extremely detailed procedures, but thousands and thousands of dollars!

What have you permanently "borrowed" from Morris Library?

Soccer Deserves Recognition

To the Editor:

As an old collegiate (Oberlin) soccer letterman, and captain of a high school team in England, I have more than once in the last two or three years written to Dr. Boydston and the Athletics Committee to agitate for the establishment of soccer as an intercollegiate sport at Southern.

Southern hopes to be a leader in international education, and a great deal of money is undoubtedly being spent to make that hope a reality. Can we believe then that this University cannot afford to provide its hundreds of foreign students with an opportunity to officially represent us on the field in the most international of all team sports?

That a team of such high caliber

Why Fight For Vietnam?

To the Editor:

During the last few days America has been rocked by a series of anti-war demonstrations. I must truthfully say that I am behind these demonstrators one-hundred per cent.

Why should hundreds of American men die each year because a bunch of fat old men in Washington D.C. are not willing to admit the United States involvement in Vietnam is one of the biggest mistakes America has ever made? Because of America's foolish pride wives are losing husbands, children are losing fathers, and mothers are losing sons in a war which doesn't even concern the United States.

At the present time I'm a senior in high school and boy, it makes me sick knowing that there's a possibility that the boy sitting next to me in English, Spanish or history won't live to see his twenty-first birthday because of a war which doesn't involve him. Chances are that that boy will be drafted as soon as he receives his high school diploma.

If freedom meant so much to the Vietnamese people they'd be fighting with all their strength instead of sitting back waiting for the United States to win the war for them.

What we need in this country are more anti-war demonstrations and less talk about who's going to be the presidential candidates in 1968.

Miscount

The student body president has taken on another field--people counting. Somehow from the ground he could make a closer estimation of peace protestors in Washington last week--end than could the federal authorities. They used photographs taken from planes and said 50,000 to 55,000 took part. Our President stated that "There were at least 200,000 marchers." It is hoped that this example of irresponsibility is not going to be typical of student government the whole year.

R. Kurt Shafer

should be spending their own funds for make-shift uniforms and transportation is nothing short of monstrous.

That the Athletic Committee should hesitate even for a moment whether or not to legitimize the team's standing in the eyes of the world of intercollegiate athletics is shameful.

Perhaps the realization that there has bloomed on our campus a team of real "amateurs," who do not play for money, jobs, tuition, etc., but for the love of the game, has paralyzed our Committee of pundits into inaction. Perhaps they realize that amateurism is, if I may misquote Wilde, "like a delicate exotic fruit, touch it and the bloom is gone." Why not risk it?

A Change in Spain! With Franco at the Reign?

By Antero Pietila

Maybe those signs on the board fences of Madrid building constructions are still there praising "the 27 years of peace." In April they were. But it was not until April this year that the Madrid riot police were provided shiny new steel helmets. And last weekend they were needed once again when the police were trying to tranquilize what is believed to be the worst political disturbance in Spain this decade.

The last 12 months have been a remarkable if strange time of contradictory trends in Spanish politics.

First the air of liberalization prevailed. The new press law provided breezes of freedom to an extent that a Madrid editor, when returning from the United States, didn't believe he was in Spain. For the very first time since the Civil War it was possible to arouse cautious discussion in the press about the future of the nation. One paper even suggested a variety of "political groups."

This hint at the political parties banned in the country of Movimiento, the Falange-based national movement, was rebuked by the Chief of State, Generalissimo Francisco Bahamonde Franco, when he introduced the new Organic Law (constitution) to the Cortes last November.

"Let all Spaniards remember that every nation is always beset by its familiar spirits, which differ from one country to another. Spain's are: a spirit of anarchy, negative criticism, lack of solidarity among her people, extremism, and mutual enmity. Any political system that tends to encourage those shortcomings, the liberation of Spain's familiar spirits, sooner or later (and far more probably sooner than later) will bring to naught any material progress and any improvement in the life of our countrymen."

El Caudillo then went on to assert that political parties are not a necessity in a "democracy", a creed the Greek military junta later shared with him.

The new constitution was the first attempt to prepare Spain for the departure of El Caudillo as it provided the appointment of a Prime Minister chosen by the Head of State from a list of three candidates of the Council of Realm. It also guaranteed restoration of the monarchy in the death or incapacity of the Head of State. More significant to ordinary citizens, however, was that the constitution insured religious liberty for non-Catholics as legal right. Protestant churches were allowed to hold their services freely. There was even a joint Catholic and Jewish service of prayer and song, for the very first time in modern Spain.

The constitution furthermore allowed 108 members of the 563-seat Cortes to be elected by popular vote, a mere exercise in folklore (as was seen this fall) since the result was a foregone conclusion.

At the same time Spain tried to break the barriers of isolation. A nation bearing the burden of Fascism, it was accepted to the United Nations in 1955. To the European Economic Community it applied in 1961, but had political difficulties and is still negotiating about a preferential trade agreement. Spain does not maintain diplomatic relations with Communist countries. However, after the success of Italians and French in obtaining major orders from the Soviet Union, Spain also has begun to make concessions in its political orthodoxy. It established consular and commercial relations with Romania in January and signed a trade pact with Russia in February. The Pegaso plant, one of the biggest manufacturers of buses in Europe, even changed the traditional white color of its trucks to green to sell some 70 to Poland. But compromise of colors has always been easier in business than in politics.

The trend of liberalization soon, however, turned into one of retrogression as the small but influential Falange hard-core maintained that the decreasing control was leading to more evil than good. Revisions in the penal code made it possible to jail a newsman from six months to six years in cases involving the publishing of "dangerous information" or criticism of the government without showing "due respect."

One of the most important developments in Spain during the last 12 months has been the mushrooming of illegal workers' commissions and students' unions. Some of these "comisiones obreras" have even succeeded in gaining decisive control of local government-directed syndicates which represent workers and employers as well. The result has been a series of strikes and walkouts. And in spite of large-scale arrests labor's struggle is strengthening.

Student riots took the form of class-strikes shortly after the beginning of spring semester. Besides Madrid and Barcelona they spread all over the country, to Valencia, Saragossa, Santiago, Malaga, Salamanca, Valladolid, Granada, and Bilbao. They have continued even after the Cabinet decreed that all students involved in rioting would lose their exemption from military service. Mainly domestic as the issues are, there have been several demonstrations against the U.S. policy in Vietnam. One of them resulted in the deportation of three American students enrolled at the University of Madrid.

In late April certain constitutional guarantees were suspended for three months in the northern Basque province. Extensive arrests were made, but despite warnings demonstrations were staged in major Spanish cities on May Day. In San Sebastian, a youth was shot in the face as police fired on crowds. An estimated 300 persons, including 14 priests, were held throughout the country as a result.

In many areas it is the young clergy that has taken the leadership of the illegal labor and student movement. The Church, with its conservative leaders loyal to Franco, has tried to prohibit priests from participating in further demonstrations and set tighter control over the Catholic Action; but it is in straits as young priests would rather listen to the gospel of social reform preached from the Vatican.

One of the most thrilling new French movies is "La Guerre est finie", a story about the frustrations of a Communist underground organization. Starring Yves Montand and Swedish actress Ingrid Thulin, it tells how underground headquarters in France have lost control over the local scene in Spain. And it is not a fiction only: the language of "Radio Espana Independiente," the voice of the illegal Spanish Communist party broadcasting from Prague, is sticking too much to old Civil War cliches to appeal to the Spaniards of today. None of the quarreling exile organizations working from France is better off either. So it is that even if there is no united anti-Franco movement in Spain today, those numerous illegal opposition groups existing are essentially domestically-led.

The Franco Administration sits its horse well and security police are as efficient as ever though more sophisticated in methods. But there is no question about the fact that the opposition is strengthening. In regard to the future it is significant that cooperation between illegal worker and student organizations is budding; that there is quite a perceptible group of Christian democrats within the Movimiento; and that young priests, socially aware, are active politically too.

"We are waiting. He's 74 now, so we are waiting," a young correspondent of the London Observer summed up the situation in Spain, referring to the aging El Caudillo. Then he asked whether this writer knew where they are going to bury Franco on his death.

"Valle de los Caídos?" I answered remembering the monumental cathedral of the Valley of the Fallen carved in the mountains near El Escorial.

"Well, as a matter of fact, nobody knows," he said. "But one thing is sure, it will not be Jerusalem as there are too many Spaniards afraid of his resurrecting on the third day."

Residence Fellow Applications Available Soon

Applications for students wishing to be residence fellows during the year 1968-69 will be available Nov. 27.

Interested students may obtain applications from the Office of the Dean of Students, Building "A," Washington Square, until the middle of winter quarter, according to Henry Wilson, graduate intern.

With the opening of Brush Towers, two 17-story dorms, one for male and one for female students, in addition to other openings, Wilson said, 200 or more vacancies for residence fellows must be filled next year.

Wilson said it is important that students get and return applications only from his office or from Dean Virginia Moore's secretary, Mrs. Sharon Pinkerton, in Building "A." He said that last year there was confusion because applications were being processed not only from the central office but at area offices as well.

To give students time to plan activities before assuming positions of residence fellows next fall, initial interviews and those by area heads will be conducted early, Wilson said.

After the initial interview by Wilson at the central office, students may select the area at which they would like to work or be referred to the area for which they are best suited.

Residence fellows will be given free room and board, and tuitions will be paid. In cases where board is not supplied, $35 per month compensation will be provided the students, Wilson said.

Among the requirements for residence fellow positions are the following:

1. The student must be at least a junior with a 3.5 overall grade point average, and must maintain a 3.3 grade point for two consecutive quarters or make not less than 3.0 more than one quarter.

2. The student must attend orientation programs prior to beginning of the fall quarter and other in-service training sessions, directed by the assistant dean of students.

3. The student must not take over 16 quarter hours and must enroll in higher education 402 either before or upon employment.

4. Twenty hours per week must be actively devoted by the student to his duties and at least three nights per week must be served on duty at his hall (7 p.m. until 7 a.m.).

5. The student must not leave campus more than one weekend per month or three weekends per quarter.

6. Transfer undergraduates must have lived on campus at least one quarter before applying.

Wilson said requirements and description of functions for the positions are only tentative, pending approval of area deans.

Economists Plan Seminar During Winter Term at SIU

An SIU economist who attended the first of a series of meetings of the Joint Kansas-Missouri Seminar on Theoretical and Applied Economics Oct. 27 at the University of Kansas, said one of the seminars would be held on the Carbondale campus early in 1968.

Charles G. Stalon of the SIU department of economics said other meetings are slated for the Universities of Iowa and Missouri, and SIU during the current academic year. One is scheduled for Washington University, St. Louis, in the fall of 1968.

Stalon and Andrew J. Petro, also of the economics department, represented SIU at the Kansas seminar, held at Lawrence. Stalon will set up the program for the Carbondale meeting.

Mathematics Council Elects Donald Paige Vice President

An SIU educator has been elected elementary vice president of the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

Donald D. Paige of the Department of Elementary Education was named to the office at the annual meeting of the Council Friday at Champaign, which was attended by 1,600 persons, principally teachers of mathematics.

Paige gave two one-hour talks at the meeting, using the topics, "Discovery Teaching in Elementary School Mathematics" and "Use of Audio-visual Aids in Elementary Mathematics."

A native of Dike, Iowa, Paige has been on the SIU faculty for the past year. He has his doctorate from Indiana University.

LBJ Appeals to People For Tax Hike Backing

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson urged Americans Thursday to demand that Congress raise taxes and defeat proposals for controversial import quotas.

In an address prepared for a consumer assembly here, Johnson said these two issues demand the attention of every citizen and "threaten our consumers and our country." In effect, appealing over the heads of Congress to the people—something he has rarely done in the past—Johnson declared that members of Congress should hear from the American consumer "loud and often."

One of the great threats facing the consumer, he said, is inflation, which the administration wants to combat by means of a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

The chief executive urged public support for this measure, while saying, "I realize that it is hard for you to ask people you represent to surrender more money in taxes."

The consumer assembly, bringing together representatives of consumer groups and the government, heard from Johnson even stronger language about "the threat of protectionism, which is rearing its head in the form of certain quota bills now before Congress."

In an unusually strong denunciation of these proposals, the President said: "Those proposed quotas would invite massive retaliation from our trading partners abroad. Prices would rise. Our world market would shrink. So would the range of goods from which American consumers choose what they buy."

Using the most emphatic language, Johnson concluded, "these bills must not become law."

UAW Sets Deadline For Chrysler Strike

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union said Thursday it will strike Chrysler Corp. next Wednesday if no contract is reached by then with the nation's third-largest automaker.

The UAW, in its 57th day of a strike against Ford Motor Co., said the union president, Walter P. Reuther, will join Chrysler negotiations Saturday afternoon in the drive to reach a settlement. Ford, second-biggest U. S. auto builder, remained out of production because local-level contract disputes remain unsettled at about a dozen Ford plants.

The UAW announced the strike deadline at Chrysler following a series of bargaining sessions between subcommittees Thursday.

The union is striving to win from Chrysler a contract like the one it obtained at Ford. The Ford pact, which included gains equal to $1 an hour in wages and fringe benefits at the end of the third year, is the biggest contract gain in auto industry history, Reuther said.

After contract issues are resolved at Chrysler, the UAW will take its demands to General Motors, which already has been warned by the UAW that local strikes will be authorized if the giant automaker resorts to too much overtime in an effort to stockpile cars that would let it wait out a lengthy strike.

Pot Party Documentary Under Fire in Evanston

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Law enforcement agencies studied possible action Thursday after presentation of a television documentary purportedly showing Northwestern University students smoking marijuana at a pot party.

The first portion of a two-part film documentary was shown Wednesday night by WBBM-TV, the Chicago outlet for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

It showed a pot party reportedly on or near the Northwestern campus. It included interviews with several of the university's students and a reported faculty member who kept their faces partially obscured to hide their identities.

The university called immediately for criminal prosecution.

"Since possession of marijuana is a criminal offense under the statutes of the State of Illinois; and the Criminal Code of the United States, the staging of such an activity was itself a criminal offense," the university said in a statement.

The university said the event was "staged by the participants and others for the station's filming."

The station denied it staged the party for the documentary, saying:

"The marijuana party was filmed on the campus of Northwestern University. The university has accused us of staging the party for our news cameras. This WBBM-TV categorically denies. We were invited to film the party for use within our news broadcasts."

State's Atty. John Stamos and U.S. Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan said they would study the university's demand that circumstances of the filming be investigated.

Robbery Suspects Indicted

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal grand jury returned indictments Thursday charging three ex-convicts with aggravated robbery in connection with the $83,783 holdup Friday of the Northlake Bank during which two policemen were slain.

Named in the indictment were Ronald D. Raine, 37, who is recuperating in city jail hospital from wounds he suffered attempting to flee the bank, and Clifton Daniels, 29, and Henry M. Gargano, 35, who were arrested Tuesday at a fishing cabin in Indiana.

A second indictment was returned charging Gargano's sister, Mrs. Annette Leonardo, 26, Lemont, and his girl friend, Miss Mary Cook, 30, Chicago, with being an accessory after the robbery.

Judge William J. Campbell of U.S. District Court ordered the three men held without bond and set $10,000 bonds each for the women.

Raine of Olympia, Wash., served a prison term in Washington for bank robbery and Daniels, of Cisne, Ill., and Gargano, of Chicago, were paroled early this year from the federal prison at Marion, Ill., after serving time for bank robbery.

Gargano, who was wounded during the gun battle at the bank, Daniels and the two women are being held by federal authorities in Indiana. They are expected to be returned to Chicago shortly.

enemy assault force in a 20-minute battle before dawn with the help of artillery and air power, following the pattern they set last Sunday. Random shooting followed for nearly five hours.

Field dispatches said 463 of the Communists were killed.

If true that would mean 832 Viet Cong have died in the offensive that American officers consider is motivated primarily by the enemy's hunger for a propaganda victory to offset South Vietnam's return to constitutional government.

Losses among the allies, dug in behind barbed wire barricades, were reported to be one American and five South Vietnamese killed; 11 Americans and 10 South Vietnamese wounded. Spokesmen said that brought allied totals there through the week to 35 killed and 106 wounded.

The Communists took the initiative in two other actions:

--Viet Cong raiders killed seven civilians, wounded 10 and burned more than 300 homes at Dai Loc, a district hamlet midway between American Coastal bases at Da Nang and Chu Lai. They pinned down South Vietnamese troops at a nearby compound and shelled positions at two U.S. Marine positions six miles southwest of Dai Loc. Unofficial reports said nine Marines were killed and 14 wounded.

Romney Drops Network Show

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. George Romney said Thursday he will announce if he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for president "in the near future."

United Fund Drive Taking Donations Until December 1

Rex Karnes, SIU division chairman for the Carbondale United Fund, said that contributions for the 1967 drive will be collected until Dec. 1.

"It's still too early to come up with a figure on how much we've collected thus far," said Karnes. "We're just now beginning to receive contributions."

The Carbondale United Fund goal is $55,242, of which the SIU division hopes to contribute $21,000. SIU personnel and faculty contributed $20,251 during the 1966 drive. Dr. J.B. Taylor is general chairman of the campaign.

SIU Rodeo to Feature Riding, $5 Calf Chase

The SIU Block and Bridle Club will sponsor its annual amateur rodeo beginning at 1 p.m. on Nov. 12 at the SIU Horse Center on the University Experimental Farms about two miles southwest of campus.

The rodeo will feature six events--bull and barrel riding, straw-bale roping, calf and boot scrambles, and a "five-dollar" calf chase. The events will be open to all interested students at a nominal entry fee.

The calf chase is a unique activity in which about a dozen calves with ribbons tied to their tails are turned into the area, one having a five dollar bill hidden in the ribbon. Contestants enter to give chase, retrieving as many ribbons as possible in the search for the well-heeled calf.

The organization is composed of students who are concerned with the animal phases of agriculture. All interested persons are invited to attend the rodeo.

Fraternity Initiates

Business Pledges

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, has initiated eight members.

They are Ron Bartlett, Phil Clesen, Joe Eaton, Terry Keuper, Ron Ostrom, Bob Smith, Ron Smith and Dan Wojciechowski.

Members were initiated at a banquet Saturday at the Ramada Inn in Marion. The guest speaker, Victor Reback, an honorary fraternity member and president of the Allen Industries in Herrin, discussed labor problems.

The Outstanding Pledge Award was presented to Ron Bartlett, and the Scholarship Trophy was presented to Jim Mummert, current Master of Rituals.

Christmas Stamps On Sale Monday

Carbondale Postmaster Hubert Goforth has announced the 1967 Christmas stamps will go on sale starting 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Nearly twice the size of the 1966 version, the special five-cent stamp reproduces a portion of Hans Memling's "Madonna and Child with Angels." This is a 15th century Flemish oil painting that hangs in the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.

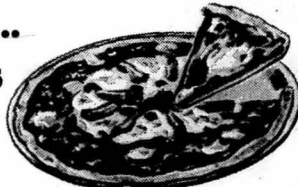

This is the sixth in a series of holiday stamps. The initial print order was for 1.2 billion.

Penguin Statistics Impressive

Salukis Hope to Be Homecoming 'Spoilers'

By George Knemeyer

"Although our record does not indicate it—the Youngstown grid team is not a push-over. We have won all our games this year—statistically that is."

That's how Paul J. Gregory, assistant to the Office of Public Relations at Youngstown State University, summed up the Penguin football team for 1967.

"It seems that the team just hasn't been able to get the key break when they needed it," Gregory continued, "and that is what goes up on the scoreboard."

The Penguins are 2-4 this year and the Salukis will meet them Saturday at Youngstown, Ohio, in the Homecoming game for the Penguins.

The Youngstown statistics are impressive despite their 2-4 records. The Penguins have 2,015 yards total offense as compared to 1,730 for their opponents.

This includes 1,369 yards rushing and 646 yards passing on offense. The passing yardage for the Penguins should come as a relief to the Salukis as they have played two of the toughest passing teams in the country, North Texas State and Tulsa, in the past two weeks.

Youngstown has scored 127 points this season, while its opponents have scored 113.

The Penguins rushing game is their strongest point, and they have three fine rushers.

The best of the three is Ken Kacenga, halfback who is averaging 5.4 yards per carry in 83 attempts. He has also scored three touchdowns.

Right behind Kacenga is Calvin Mason, also a halfback, who is averaging 5.2 yards per carry in 79 attempts. He has yet to score a touchdown this season, however.

The other fine runner for the Penguins is Ray Briya, fullback, who is averaging 4.1 yards per carry with three touchdowns to his credit.

The man who was supposed to be the big runner for Youngstown, Dick Adipotti, is out with an injury, and may not see action this week against the Salukis.

The Youngstown passing game, while not as formidable as North Texas or Tulsa, has been successful when the Penguins have used it.

Youngstown quarterbacks have completed 50 per cent of their passing attempts. The best of these is Joe Roth, who has completed 57.4 per cent of his passes for 408 yards and four touchdowns.

Roth has been the backup quarterback to Joe Piun-no, but Piunno is out for the season with an injury.

On the receiving end of Roth's passes will be Dave DelSignore and Craig Cotton. DelSignore is the better of the two, as he has caught 18 passes good for 352 yards and five touchdowns. Cotton has snared nine passes good for 132 yards and two TD's.

DelSignore, in addition to being the leading pass catcher for the Penguins, is also their leading kickoff and punt return man and also their scoring leader.

He is averaging 20.3 yards per return in 14 kickoffs and has returned three punts for an average of 23 yards. His five touchdowns give him 30 points to lead the Penguin scoring race.

Youngstown has defeated Tennessee Tech 31-28 and Southern Connecticut 35-0. The Penguins have lost to Central Michigan 16-2, Baldwin-Wallace 36-33, Akron University, 19-12, and Pensacola Navy, 17-14.

The loss to Pensacola Navy is nothing to be ashamed of, as the naval base has former All-American quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach calling the signals.

Trojans, Irish Named as Favorites

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK (AP)— Football plows into the November stretch this week with teams and forecasters alike getting a bit wilded. With a whiff of oxygen to revive us and a good belt of sassailla to embolden us, we're off on another flyer. Southern California 28, California 14; So the Trojans lose 0, J. Simpson, It's like losing Man of War and having Citation and Whirlaway in the wings.

Tennessee 32, Tampa 0; Orange shirts might look nice in the Orange Bowl.

Arkansas 19, Texas A&M 15; It's Razorback territory and the Aggies will think they're in a hog-calling contest.

Army 18, Air Force 16; The cadets may be bothered by the air. What air? That there mile-high air at the Air Force.

Notre Dame 30, Navy 18; The Midshipmen have a fine team but they're blinded by the Golden Dome and Irish speed.

Georgia Tech 15, Duke 10; The Rambling Wreck must go all out—it's probably the last game they can win this season. Purdue 28, Illinois 14; Men who study to make boilers have large muscles.

Yale 14, Dartmouth 10; Brian Dowling, Yale's Frank Merriwell, has the Eli clicking, but it'll be close.

Syracuse 22, Pittsburgh 7; The Orange should complete some passes to their own men this time, instead of the other side.

UCLA 22, Oregon State 14; The nation's No. 2 team should be aware of the team that upset Purdue.

Texas Tech 18, Rice 14; The Owls haven't fully recovered from injuries to key men, but still could pull an upset.

Oklahoma 15, Colorado 14; The Sooners have come on strong since losing to Texas.

Purdue's Keyes Nation's Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)— Leroy Keyes of Purdue has taken over the scoring lead among the nation's major college football players, the latest statistics disclose.

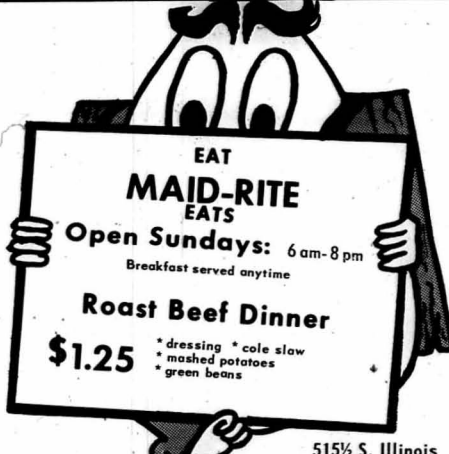

Keyes scored four touchdowns in the Boilermaker's 41-22 victory over Iowa last Saturday, increasing his point total to 72. This is 12 more than Rick Eber of Tulsa and Butch Colson of East Carolina, who are tied for second.

The figures compiled by National Collegiate Sports Services also revealed new leaders in other departments.

Ace Hendricks of New Mexico is the pace-setter in pass receiving with 52 completions. Don Bean of Houston took over first place in punt returns with 452 yards and Steve Haterius of West Texas State is No. 1 in interception returns with eight.

Joe Casas of New Mexico held first place in kickoff returns with 535 yards.

WINNING FORM- Liz Young, 18-year-old sophomore at SIU, rides her 6-year-old grey gelding, Snow Cap, over the hurdles to victory in the first open jumper class event during the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden in New York. Miss Young lives in Belleville.

12 Named to Frosh Cage Team

Twelve candidates, including a high school All-State player, have turned out for freshman basketball. The All-Stater is Terry Buhs, 6-3 from Bunker Hill. Other "name" players include Mike Hessick, 6-10 from New Athens; Roger Westbrook, 5-10 from Centralia; Tom McBride, 6-4 from Hoopston, and B.J. Tricky, 5-11 from Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Hessick and Tricky were honorable mention All-State. Westbrook was special mention All-State. Tricky's team took first in the Iowa State basketball tournament.

McBride was recruited for last year's freshman team but broke his leg in an accident and did not enroll at SIU until last winter quarter.

Others rounding out the squad are Gene Cross, 6-4 from St. Louis; Martyn Bradley, 6-1 from Oxford, Conn; Larry Payton, 5-7 from New York City; Doug Bochtler, 6-1 from Farina; Richard Beard, 6-1 from Table Grove; Mike Barnett, 6-5 from Springfield; and Keith Busch, 6-9 from Chicago.

The freshmen will play a 13-game regular schedule, and will also play before the varsity at home games.

Tennis Enthusiasts Sought by Group

The Women's Recreation Association is inviting all women who are interested in playing tennis to their fall practice.

The regular season is during spring quarter. Anyone interested in joining should contact Marjorie Potter, Room 132 of the Women's Gym.

U-School Gymnasium

Lists Hours for Week

The University School Gymnasium will be open from 4 to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and from 1 to 8 p.m. Sunday.

The University School Pool will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 1 to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

Indoor Trackmen Release Schedule

SIU's indoor track team members may not get many points this season, but they're certain to rack up the miles.

Included in the nine meets are the Central Collegiate, USTFF and NCAA championships.

The complete schedule: Feb. 1, University of Kansas (Lawrence, Kan.); Feb. 10, Freshman-Junior College Invitational (Lawrence, Kan.) and Michigan State Relays; Feb. 17, Mason-Dixon Games (Louisville); Feb. 24, Central Collegiate Championships (Notre Dame).

March 1, Knights of Columbus meet (Cleveland); March 9, USTFF Championships (Milwaukee); March 15-16, NCAA Championships (Detroit); March 23, Kansas State Invitational.

Frosh Game Reset

The SIU freshman football game with Louisville has been rescheduled for Monday.

Louisville, which has a home varsity game Saturday, asked for the postponement because heavy rains this week have softened the fields. The coaches had felt that the freshman game would hurt the field before the varsity contest.
