Mr. Felts Visits the East

The reason Mr. Felts was in this part of the United States, he says, was that he was attending institute in northwestern Ohio, during the first week of September. Mrs. Felts accompanied him on his trip and again we have the story of a little Chev taking von there and bringing you back. The institute mentioned was held near Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Felts then started along Lake Shore Trail through the orchard, vineyard and tree nursery regions of northern Ohio. Through this part of the country the scenery is beautiful—it looks just like a landscape garden all along the drives. There are many beautiful homes, too—mansions. From here, Mr. and Mrs. Felts drove across the northwestern corner of Pennsylvania into southwestern New York, then along the shores of Lake Chautauqua into northwestern Pennsylvania, along the Roosevelt Trail through the Alleghany Forest Preserve, to the upper Susquehanna, near the New York state line, then down the Susquehanna trail to Harrisburg, Pa. Here they visited the state capital, said to be the finest in the United States. It cost $40,000,000. Next they went to Valley Forge, and then to Philadelphia, where they spent two and a half days at the Sesqui-centennial. Here they saw the well known "Trudy," whom Mr. Felts says, if they hadn't charged such an outrageous price to see her swim they would have gone in to see her. Next they went to Gettysburg and spent a half day visiting the battlefield. The next stop was at Washington, D. C., where four days were spent visiting the capital and the White House. Traveling southward to Alexandria, Va., and Mt. Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Felts came back home on the Old National Trail.

The entire trip covered about three thousand miles, uphill and downhill, and Chev took it all. At some places the road winding down a mountain was so narrow that you could look straight down about a quarter of a mile. One had to keep his eyes "ahead" to the road, because

Strut and Fret Party

Last Tuesday evening, ever so many students "strutted" to the Zettetic hall, where they were royally entertained by a splendid program. The entertainers were: Miss Helen Baker gave delightful vocal solos, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" and "Just Around the Corner."

Misses Madge Parker and Kate Brewer showed their exceptional talent for reading. They kept the house in a continual uproar of laughter.

The last two numbers on the program were piano selections by Marian Schuler, and vocal numbers entitled, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," and "From the Land of Sky Blue Waters" which were sung by Rosemary Mills. Miss Mills is a vocalist of some talent and who has for the last three years won in the intellectual contests of Marion High school.

Then, Miss Mary Tedrow, the chairman for the evening, decided to make everyone "fret" for awhile. So, everyone had to put on a stunt, impersonation, or something in order to "show off." And there was certainly some "showing off" done, too. There was something doing every minute and each person was given an opportunity to do his bit. Never has such pep ever before been shown on the campus, each person "came out of his shell" and became a good sport. We were taken to weddings, funerals, fairs, movies, operas, Pumpkin Center, etc.

"Bert" Casper was called upon to lead us in prayer, after the wedding, but he was so overcome with emotion, that the prayer had to be a silent one.

John Land was the corpse and a "delightful" funeral was held. He certainly did make a "handsome" corpse.

This lasted for a couple of hours and then we all got down to business. We elected Lydia Davis as our new president of the club. Everette McGlasson, better known as "Pete" McGlasson, was chosen vice-president and Helen Rea as secretary and treasurer.

Then the entire club adjourned to the Association Hall for refreshments.

Anthony Hall News

On Friday evening, Oct. 8, 1926, the following girls enjoyed a spread given by Misses Jean Sullivan and Wanda (Speed) Gustin: Gail Beasley, Mollie Burns, Helen Lyle, Edna Gregg, Lucille Adams, Ella Hise, Mary Tedrow, Genevieve Shanklin, Arline Perrine, Mabel Jerome, Melba Davidson, Wanda Gustin, Jean Sullivan. And as guests of honor, we had Miss Margaret Garrett of S. I. N. U. and Miss Thelma Hartwell, a 1926 Senior college graduate.

Misses Gail Beasley and Mollie Burns furnished the "Sympathy Orchestra." An auction sale of a guaranteed cheese cloth handkerchief, with a pink border, was held and the highest bid—a can of beans—won the handkerchief for Miss Mary Tedrow, a popular comedian of the campus. Eats were furnished by Misses Wanda Gustin and Jean Sullivan, sandwiches, olives, pickles, cheese and crackers, apples, cake and coca-colas comprised the "balanced meal at 12 o'clock."

THE ILLINI

Last Monday night the Illini met and initiated the new members. The girls were made to do numerous things, and they showed true sportsmanship. The Illini has made a good start and intends to make this year a success.

If there are any girls interested in debating, you are cordially invited out to our meetings. The following program is to be given next Monday evening in the Association Hall at 7:00 o'clock:

Talk—Velma Deason.

Debate—Resolved, That S. I. N. U. should have a larger campus.

Affirmative: Helen Stewart, Nell Blankenship.

Negative: Euvera Rendleman, Eunice Draper.

"They say that he fairly worships the ground she walks on."

"That's saying a good deal when you consider what a golf fend she is."

S. I. N. U. Beats Strong Team

Last Friday our football team went to Martin, Tenn., and returned with the long end of the score. This was a hard fought game in which we finally emerged victorious.

The Teachers' college Maroons tucked another victory under their belts yesterday by winning a hard fought contest from Hall-Moody college at Martin, Tenn. It was only after the hardest kind of driving—with the help of no completed passes—and a lucky break on a fumbled punt—that the Maroons emerged on the long end of a 13-7 score.

In the middle of the second quarter Lutz kicked a low line kick which the Southern fullback attempted to catch but the ball slithered off his hands and big "Cabbage" Floyd picked it up on the opponents' 35-yard line and tore for the goal. When tackled he rolled over the goal line, but the referee blew the ball dead and brought it out to the two-yard line. Here three attempts at the line failed and then Lutz dove through center for six points, by inches. Floyd missed adding the extra point. The second marker came as the result of a short kick by the Tennesseans early in the third quarter. To start the second half Floyd kicked to the Southern ten-yard line and Adams was downed on his 25-yard line. On an attempt to run the Maroons' right end R. Allen set them back for an 8-yard loss. Standing on his own goal line McCorkle panted but "Hank" Loudon tore through center and came so near blocking the attempt that the punt went high and short to the outside. It was brought inside fifteen steps on the Hall-Moody 35-yard line. On the first play Hook shot the line for 5 yards. Willis then tore through tackle, across the line of scrimmage, once cut sharply to the outside, avoided two frantic volunteers and scampered for the goal line 30 yards away. Floyd added the extra point.

Hall-Moody won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. Floyd's kick was short and low. Owen, fullback,

FIVE MEN AND A CAT

This will explain a mystery. For the past few weeks certain girls have been piqued because a prominent senior has failed to make his usual evening calls—of course, I don't mean that he called on them all the same time, not at all. He called every evening on a different girl, until—Well, I am sure you'll be surprised when you learn that it was all on the account of a black cat. A cat that was the apple of a certain teacher's eye.

It happened that the senior had a class with the teacher, who was fond of a cat, and also a class in Zoology. Everyone knows that cats are dissected in Zoology. Consequently one of the pleasant tasks of these students is to round up a few cats. This young Zoologist decided that it would be a good joke to dissect Professor _____'s black cat. He didn't have nerve enough to steal the cat so he hired three freshmen who demanded the outrageous sum of one dollar a piece.

About the same time the professor's pet cat became a specimen in the Zoology Laboratory and the professor was aware of a void in his home. Long and earnestly he searched without results. He became worried, neglected his meals and grew to be irritable to his classes. And a certain senior seemed to be enjoying an immense joke which no pleading could induce him to share.

One evening there appeared in the local paper an advertisement: "Lost, strayed, or stolen, one black cat. Ten dollars reward for information leading to its recovery. Professor _____."

When he read that notice the senior was in high glee. It was all he could do to refrain from telling the cat story to some one, but at best that would be hazardous. He was very thankful that he had not told those freshmen what he wanted with the cat.

The next day he met one of the freshmen with whom he had conspired. The latter showed him the paper.

"Well, what about it?" growled the senior.

"I—I'm just about broke," began the freshman.

"How much do you want?"

"I could get ten dollars from Professor _____."

"Here and be sure you keep your mouth shut," and the senior took leave of ten dollars and a few dates.

He decided to avoid the other conspirators, but after all his care he ran into another one about noon. This second freshman pointed out an advertisement and intimated that he must tell the professor. Once again the Zoology student passed out ten dollars.

The rest of the day the senior led a harassed life trying to avoid the remaining conspirator. As he hurried to his room he congratulated himself on escaping the third freshman. Perhaps the latter had left school. His name might have been on the list read in Chapel the other morning. At any rate he hoped so.

"Just a minute, please," began a voice. He whirled around. There was the third conspirator with a paper that had grown hateful to the eyes of the senior. Without waiting to hear what the freshman had to say, he gave his last ten dollars.

And that explains why a certain young man has failed to make his usual call. Don't get worried. He'll begin again when he gets his next allowance from home.

SOCRATIC SOCIETY

Socratic Society held its weekly meeting last Friday evening in Socratic hall. The following program was rendered to those present:

- Music—Orchestra.
- Trombone solo—Rolland Eise.
- "Farce" (play)—Lillian McLean.
- Musical reading—Catherine Dunn.
- Music—Orchestra.

After the program, the regular business meeting was held. The program announced for next week's meeting is as follows:

- Reading—Mildred Anderson.
- Music—Orchestra.
- Piano solo—Ada Dickson.
- A Little Surprise.
- Music—Orchestra.

Let's see if we can't have a larger crowd out this Friday. Keep going.

To look like tiny, pale gold rosebuds
How wise ye are, of the narrow, winding path. To go down the hills, one had to go down in second because one hill would be enough to wear out the brakes of a car.

The most interesting place which the Felts visited was Valley Forge, a place containing 2500 acres. Here one could see the holes in the ground where the divisions had built their huts; the cabins had rotted away. The officers' houses are still preserved and private families live in them. Washington's quarters, called Potts' house, has been taken over and the furniture replaced by the Daughters of the Revolution. Of all of the soldiers who fell here only one grave is marked—all of the rest are unknown. They are buried promiscuously in patches of from two or three to fifteen or twenty. They are not buried in rows. By looking at them, one cannot tell where the head of a grave is.

The hospital used during the war has been reproduced. The beds are made of posts set in the ground, their poles are laid across and straw put on top of these. These are the kind of beds our men had to contend with when they were suffering from wounds received in battle.

At one end of Valley Forge is a beautiful chapel which is being built as funds will permit. Chapel services are held here every day.

On one small mountain top is a steel tower marking the place where George Washington had lashed a platform in the fork of a tree and stationed himself there to watch for the enemy. During the day Mr. Felts visited Valley Forge, there were about five hundred visitors there.

ALUMNI NOTES

Dear Editor:

I am enclosing a check to pay for the Egyptian, as I can not do without the old school paper.

You stated in your letter that you wanted to know what the former graduates were doing. I am serving my second year as principal of the Ina High school and school is progressing nicely.

Yours truly,
JESSE J. DEAN,
Ina, Ill.

Dear Editor:

I believe it is time for school to begin back home, I thought I'd better tell you where to mail my Egyptian. Of course, I couldn't miss getting it. I believe I gave my home address when I put in my subscription last year. Will you please change that address to 511 N. Newstead, Apt. A, St. Louis, Mo. I am now living in St. Louis and working for the Burrough Adding Machine Co. here. Can you make this change in time to mail the next issue here? Please enclose the first issue also as I failed to get it. I forget whether I paid when I subscribed or not. If not please send me a statement.

I am surely anxious to get the Egyptian and all the news of the old school. I'd surely like to be in school this year, but since that is impossible the Egyptian will furnish all the news.

How is football this year? I'm looking forward to seeing Cape defeated if I can get down for homecoming. I'm expecting a great paper this year and surely wish you the best of luck with it.

Your classmate of '26,
FRANK DWYER

Dear Editor:

Enclosed find check for one year's subscription to the Egyptian. Have been confined to my room with the mumps, covered up with work and for that reason have failed to get this letter to you.

This is my second year at Fairfield as coach. In track we won second in our conference last spring. Olney first by three points. We are primed for a championship football team. Last Friday, our homecoming game, before a crowd of 1200, we won over Olney, county champions of southern Illinois last season, by a score of 14 to 6. We have a total of 125 points to 6 for our opponents. Only six downs have been made against us to date. Mr. Warren and J. Wray Henry of Carbondale officiated at our game and they surely do a fine "job", too. Capt. Joe Hook, who hails from Vienna, is one of the players whom I think one of the best I ever coached. Luck to you, Jimmie.

With best wishes to the S. I. N. U.,
I am
Sincerely,

G. CARSON.

"The Path Across the Hill," a real play, 7:00 p. m. Friday.

AGORA

Last Monday night the Agora helped the Illinae initiate its new members. The candidates, sternly marshaled by the old members, came in to our hall singing, and were lined up in front of the room. They seemed breathless and it wasn't surprising since they had climbed all the steps on the campus. A quartet—or perhaps it was a duet or both—sang, accompanied by Walter Lay, Phelps Crawford and Fred Schlegel received proposals which, it is said, they are still seriously considering. The girls displayed marvelous talent in making speeches. Agoreans, especially enjoyed the speech on "What I think of the Agora."

SOCRATIC SOCIETY

The Socratic Society held its weekly meeting last Friday evening in Socratic Hall. The following program was enjoyed by those present:

- Music—Orchestra.
- Reading—Mildred Anderson.
- Talk—Allen Williams.
- Piano solo—Ada Dickson.
- Music—Orchestra.

The program for next Friday will be one of interest to all—the Socratic Fall play entitled, "The Path Across the Hill." It promises to be one of the best plays ever given by the society and to every one in the school is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

ZETETIC SOCIETY

Last Friday evening the Zetetic Literary Society had another of its good programs. The program was:

- Saxophone solo—Theodore Thompson.
  - Reading—Gladys Holmes.
  - Music—Orchestra.
  - Zetetic Journal—Mary Tedrow.
  - Piano solo—Virginia Knecht.
- This Friday the play, "Safety First," will be staged at 7:00 p. m. Come early and enjoy a snappy three act play that will make you laugh and giggle your diaphragm.

Wee Wunder if Prof. Yates still goes down Illinois avenue on week-end nights.

Wee wonder if Clarence Shoop was married the week he missed school. Anyway he has been a different man since.

HOW MUCH DO YOU WEIGH?

A strong personality is supposed to be found linked with the large physical proportions. When we hear of a great man we naturally think of a large man. Bigness and greatness are supposed to be cousins. But some of the greatest thinkers, writers and speakers, not to mention other callings and professions, have been slender in form, light in weight and not unusual for height. The great thing necessary in building a strong personality is fineness of texture, balance, evenness and proportion. You may be strong without being heavy. You may be mighty without being weighty.

UNKNOWN BENEFACTORS

It must be a source of great satisfaction to those who are laboring on faithfully in small fields and obscure places to know that some of the greatest blessings and grandest gifts enjoyed by the world today have reached us through unknown sources and unremembered agents. Heaven's records are better kept and preserved than those of earth, and in the end every man shall have ample reward for every hour of toil and care. Here are a few questions by Dr. John Lord, the famous historian. "Who invented the mariner's compass? Who gave the lyre to the primeval ages? Who invented the blacksmith's forge? Who first thought of the letters of the alphabet as symbols of articulations? Who conceived the thought of the arch in architecture? Who invented glass for windows? Who solved the first problem in geometry? Who first sang the odes which Homer incorporated in the Iliad? Who first turned up the earth with a plow? Who first used the weaver's shuttle? Who devised the cathedral of the middle ages? Who gave the keel to ships? Who first raised the bread by the use of yeast? Who invented chimneys? There is a list of questions sufficient to set any student thinking.

EXCHANGES

We are sorry to learn of the death of a prominent leader in the social, educational and civic activities of Peoria, Mrs. Georgia Baker Wyckoff. As the wife of the Dean she came in contact daily with the students of the Bradley Polytechnic college, among whom she exerted a tremendous influence. We extend our sympathy.

We learn from the "Antelope", Kearney, Neb., that their Sixth Annual District meeting of Nebraska State Teachers' Association is to be favored by having some national educators on their program. Among the prominent men are Dr. Edwin Glosson, who is one of America's most popular educators and lecturers and Dr. Edward Elliot, a former graduate of the University of Nebraska, but who now holds the position of president of Purdue, U.

A new science building has been planned for Illinois Woman's College at Jacksonville and $125,000 has been presented by Senator James McMurray toward it. Their increase in enrollment has made this necessary.

Many schools are planning, advertising and boosting their Home-coming. Shurtleff College is planning theirs for October 30; Eureka college has added a cross-country track meet that will finish in front of the stands for their Home-coming November 6; Lombard College has selected "Play the Game" as their Home-coming play to be given October 23; and plans are underway for the annual anniversary at Lombard College.

The cereus, a night blooming plant in Hawaii, furnished a wonderful

I was tired of studying all the time. Well, I simply wasn't going to study tonight. I'd take a chance of not being called on the next day.

I entered my Latin recitation room sincerely hoping that I wouldn't be called upon to recite. Luck was against me, for I was the first one asked to read. Should I admit that I hadn't studied? I glanced down at my book and decided to try reading at sight. I read on and on. Finally Miss Baldwin told me that I had read far enough. She also said: "You had a fine lesson today. You must have studied a long time on your Latin lesson."

Then I woke up.

WEINER OR WIENER?

Which is correct? Do you know? Does the e come before the i or the i before the e? Perhaps, now you couldn't to save your life, tell which comes first. At any rate, you remember seeing "weiner" in the Egyptian and other papers. And isn't everything that appears in print correct. By no means!

Mr. Pierce has called attention to the fact that most of us are misspelling this word. It is correctly spelled wiener and it is pronounced as though it were spelled veener. It will aid you to remember this fact and in pronunciations of words of German origin to know that ie is always pronounced like long e and el like long i.

Wiener is an adjective in the genitive plural. The full expression is Wiener Wurst, meaning sausage of Vienna.

In the same way, Hamburger means of Hamburg and Frankfurter of Frankfort. Wiener appears in Webster's Dictionary as Wiener Schnitzel.

"LOST" S. I. N. U. PEP

Folks, you are about to witness one of the greatest revivals of "pep" in this school that ever took place anywhere. We have never seen such a group of rooters as we saw at our last football game. We did not come to the football field to bury any one, but our looks and actions conveyed the idea that we were there for that reason and no other.

"Buzzard Roost" itself which has an enrollment of twenty-three persons, could display more pep than our school with an enrollment of twelve hundred people. After seeing the last football game here strangers went home with the idea that there was a compulsory rule in the S. I. N. U. requiring all students to wear barrel staves up their backs and to hold a ball of mud in their mouths during the game.

If you want to see us crawl out of our shells just come to our game next Friday. We are not going to spare any energy to revive pep in this school. If you do not get in line now with your part of it you may be sure you will be paged later. Keep on the look out for more information along this line.

SOPHOMORE CLASS ORGANIZED

The first meeting of the Sophomore class was held in Socratic hall Sept. 28, 1926. Mr. Wham, Sophomore advisor, told the class about the requirements for graduation. He got the class into the spirit of trying to be the best class, individually and also as a class, so that when the graduates began to look for schools next spring, Mr. Wham could really recommend them with a clear conscience. A second meeting was called for Friday, Oct. 1. At this meeting Gail Beasley acted as chairman of the meeting. The following officers were elected for the year:

President—Fred McLean.

Vice-president—Ned Foley.

Secretary and Treasurer—Tillie Horsfield.

The following committee was appointed by the president to nominate candidates for Student Council representatives: Neil Phelps, Melba Davidson, Gail Beasley, William Bundy and Robert Rogers.

On the following Monday, the committee met and nominated Mabel Jerome, Lee Morris, Harry Hicks and Erwin Kelly. These candidates were acted on at the next Sophomore meeting, Oct. 12, and Mabel Jerome and Harry Hicks were chosen to represent the class. A meeting was called for Wednesday, Oct. 13, at 12:45. Due to the few members present, the meeting was postponed until Friday after chapel. At this meeting the class is to elect the editor-in-chief and the business manager of the Obelisk. Come out to your meetings, Sophomores! Get some class spirit about you. If everyone of you are not going to help, you'll not have any success in anything you undertake to do. We want the best Obelisk in the history of the school. Now come on out and give the class your support.

THE AVERAGE MIND

A few weeks ago every newspaper in the nation carried the news of the death of two prominent men—Dr. Charles B. Elliot of Harvard and Rudolph Valentino. Both were given prominent headlines and detailed accounts, and the greatness of the losses were run down column after column. But the next day in that same newspaper all notice of Dr. Elliot had disappeared. However, Valentino's name occupied quite as much space as the previous day, and continued to do so for several days—nay, for weeks. On every side was heard his name, his life-history, and his capacity for earning and spending money. The former president of Harvard, one of the greatest minds in the nation, and an irreparable loss to education and literature, was quite submerged.

And where does it all point? Surely there can be no doubt as to the texture of the mind that possesses such greed for the money-making, sensational hero. It is granted that there are few people who could rise from obscurity to such so-called successful heights. There is no desire to rob the movie hero of his just due, but on sober thought, minus sensation, it can not be denied that Dr. Elliot is a far greater loss to the nation than Valentino. No man who has ever studied education at the present can overlook the fact that that great president's death has left a gap never to be bridged.

Looking at the matter from a cynical point of view, it is not surprising that the masses gave hero-worship to Valentino, for he had the capacity to earn as much as thirty thousand dollars a day—the ideal, unfortunately, of hard-working citizens. Perhaps, however, the hero-worship is superficial, and for the sake of America's future a sincere wish for greater depth of the average mind is borne. It is the privilege of teachers to contribute much to the fulfillment of that wish.—Exchange.

Y. W. C. A.

The regular meeting of Y. W. C. A. was held in the Association Hall Tuesday evening at 6:30.

After the usual devotional exercises led by Gladys Platt the following program was rendered.

Piano solo—Miss Allene Perrine.

Violin solo—Myrtle Lingle.

Mrs. Sarkiss, wife of Rev. Sarkiss, who is pastor of the First Presbyterian church, gave a message to the girls which was very inspiring. She spoke of the opportunities for service at home and compared them to diamonds. Are you getting your share of the diamonds on S. I. N. U. campus? Is your life one of service to others? Are you willing to be judged by your classmates by what you say and do?

Come to Y. W. C. A. tonight and enjoy one of the best programs of the year. This means you.

was downed on his own 30-yard line. They kicked on first down to the Maroon 35-yard line. Foley went three yards through left tackle; Willis added four through right. Floyd punted to Moody's 30-yard line. After two fruitless attempts at the line failed they booted to Foley, who ran the ball back fifteen yards to the middle of the field. Foley picked up five and Willis three. Foley and Lutz let the ball get away from them and Moody recovered on their 40-yard line. A pass on the first down made a first down and added 15 yards. Two more passes were incomplete and a 5-yard penalty was assessed. Lutz ran a punt back twenty yards to his own right end for twelve yards and a first down. He picked up six more and then Floyd tried a drop from the 50-yard line which fell over the goal line but passed under the bar—for a touchback. The half ended with the ball in Carbondale's possession on the opponent's 40-yard line.

After Willis had made his run for a touchdown early in the second half, and after an exchange of punts Wiley was sent in at left half instead of Newton, who had gone in for Foley. Taking the ball deep in his own territory, the "pound of soap" zigzagged for 35 yards. Willis added three and Wiley again raced for 15. On the next play Wiley fumbled on Moody's 8-yard line and they recovered. Receiving the punt on their 35-yard line, the Maroons started Wiley again and he raced for 12 yards. On the next play the Teachers were penalized, backs in motion and "Cabbage" missed another attempt to drop kick. A moment later Moody fumbled in the middle of the field and Veach recovered. And little Wiley stepped off 20 yards more as the quarter ended.

Beginning the last quarter the subs started in. Sisney and Carter went in for Williams and Ingram. Doty at left end for Veach. After Willis had ripped off eleven yards for a first down on his own 40-yard line Bridges went in for him and Newton at full for Hook. Taking the ball after a touchback, Moody completed a pass for 15 yards and then were penalized for two incompletes. A moment later after another touchback, a long pass for 30 yards was caught by McCorkle and Lutz at the same time, but per rule the ball went to the offense. This feat seemed to fire the Southerners. A 15-yard run put them in position to score, but Lutz did a nice job in knocking down a pass for a touchback. Floyd kicked to Moody's 40-yard line. Here they completed another 30-yard pass to "Red" McCorkle. Another pass incomplete. On third down a completed four-yard pass. On fourth down they picked up 12 yards and then ran the Maroon left end for a touchdown and added the extra point by a pass. Two minutes later the game ended.

LOVE CONQUERED DEATH

According to the Indian epic, the Maha-Bharata, the beautiful Princess Savriti, of her own choice married Prince Satyavan whom she knew was doomed by the gods to die within a year. On the fateful day she accompanied him to the forest to gather wood for the evening sacrifice. Her husband was about to raise his axe when he fell fainting, crying out as he fell, "I can not work." Then Yama, the dreadful god of death, appeared to bear away to the south the soul of Prince Satyavan. But the princess spoke to Yama words so lofty in sound, so perfect and firm in wisdom, that he granted her request for the life of her husband.

The following stanzas were responsible for that victory. According to the Indian legend, the reading of them will bring great happiness and success.

In paths of peace and virtue
Always the good remain;
And sorrow will not stay with them,
Nor long access of pain:
At meeting or at parting
Joys to their bosom strike;
For good to good is friendly,
And virtue loves her like.
The great sun goes his journey
By their strong truth impelled;
By their pure lives and penances
Is earth itself upheld;
Of all which live and shall live
Upon its hills and fields,
Pure hearts are the protectors,
For virtue saves and shields.
Never are noble spirits
Poor while their like survive;
True love has gems to render,
And virtue wealth to give.
Never is lost or wasted
The goodness of the good;
Never against a mercy,
Against a right it stood;
And seeing this, that virtue
Is always friend to all,
The virtuous and true hearted,
Men their protectors call.

Be on hand for Zetetic play, "Safety First."

ASK THE BULL

He was being medically examined; reparatory to taking out an insurance policy.

"Ever had a serious illness?" asked the deputy.

"No," was the reply.

"Ever had an accident?"

"No."

"Never had a single accident in your life?"

"Never, except last spring when a bull tossed me over a fence."

"Well, don't you call that an accident?"

"No, sir! He did it on purpose—Wallaces' Farmer."

WORK—DON'T WORRY

The hardest work you ever do is worrying about it; What makes an hour resemble two is worrying about it! The time goes mighty slowly when you sit and sigh and sigh again. And think of work ahead, and then keep worrying about it.

Just buckle up and buckle in—Quit worrying about it. By work, not worry, you will win. Quit worrying about it. A task is easy, once begun; It has its labor and its fun; So grab a hold and do it, son—Quit worrying about it.

Friday means Safety First.
