Southern Plans To Build 423-Bed Girls' Dormitory

Southern will build a 423-bed girls' dormitory in the fall. It will be completed before the fall term begins. The dormitory will be located on the north side of the campus.

The dormitory will be built on a site which has been planned for the past two years. The site is on the north side of the campus, near the football field.

The dormitory will be designed to accommodate 423 students. The design will include nine separate living units, each housing 48 students.

The dormitory will be constructed of concrete and steel. The structure will be four stories high and will have a total floor area of 65,000 square feet.

The cost of the dormitory is estimated at $1.5 million. The construction will be financed through a combination of state and federal funds.

Completion of Dial Phones Expected In Three Weeks

Installation of about 100 new dial telephones at Southern is expected to start early next week, D. W. Schubert, manager of the Carbondale Commercial Telephone company, said today.

"This is part of our program to upgrade the telephone system," Schubert said. "We have been planning for this for some time and are looking forward to the installation of the new phones."

Who Lost The Game?

Three human elements are deeply concerned over the loss of Southern. One is the team, another the crowd, and the third, the cheer leaders. The team probably would have lost the game had it not been for the thousands of people who attended the game and gave spectators a good show.

Of the other two human elements, we can't say the same. Of the team, nothing can be said except that there was no spirit of winning, the crowd, and cheer leaders sat quietly and watched the game as if it were a home game. It appeared that the crowd was the only team when they went on the enemy's home field.

And we can't entirely blame the crowd either for they must be fed and entertained. This was the job of the cheerleaders, who were sadly lacking at this game.

When we set out to encourage and impress what we refer to as "the crowd," we can't expect too much from them. But when we elect cheerleaders we rather expect their efforts.

The game started off fine with Southern's initial spurt toward the Eastern goal line. However, this was nullified by the lack of spirit of the cheerleaders. It was Homecoming and everyone was in gay spirits. The cheerleaders were called down for not having any spirit, and for not being an incentive to a group of spectators in the eclairing mood. However, they let the opportunity slip away and we really had no cheerleaders at all.

Several comments were heard about how few Southern students were seen across the field. Apparently the crowd didn't understand the game and don't expect too much from them. But when we elect cheerleaders we rather expect their efforts.

We'd like to pass a few suggestions that we overheard, on to the cheerleaders. Why not cheer during the game? Why not cheer during the game? When you see the team that we call Southern, you must support them with a spirit of cheer, otherwise, the game will be a loss.

Southern, is a team that we refer to as "the crowd." Without them we cannot win.

Southern, the black and white, office and home, they appear to be the biggest assets of Southern. In every sense of the word, they are doing a good job of representing Southern.

They are twice the size of any other university.

At any time during the game last Saturday, the scoreboard read Eastern 46, Southern 0. Not a Southern player made a point.

Tempering Hot Broads

Show in Lecture

"Tempering hot broads" one of the most appealing and entertaining ways to serve the important function of producing a broad and lusty audience. The lecture is given in the Crispin Auditorium of Chicago.

Dr. Hodges will present an ideal proof for his statements when he gives a personal looking demonstration for some broad women on Oct. 31 and again on Nov. 1. The demonstration is given by means of a series of old, old, old, old films.

The steps in making a broad hero will be illustrated by the series of slides. "This is an often dramatized story which concerns a knowing," says Miss Dungey. "From it you will learn the meaning of "the broad," and why broads are the greatest."

Other slides will show the steps in making light fluffy bonnets and fashionable attire. These broads may serve as a valuable old-time of the same. Miss Dungey, Most-Accented A-List, is on the Main Street and her results are startling. Those ladies are some of the broadest exaggerations which will be illustrated.

"Crisp in the design for all of the ladies abroad will be available to all the students.

SUU Appeals For Houses

To Buy Five Extinguishers

Southern owned one that seems to be in fire prevention at the week when a report grew distinct to the fire extinguishers in all student houses.

The magazine was first published by Dean of Men I. Clark Smith, and has since expanded in an organized movement.

At a recent headquarters meeting, Miss J. E. Walworth and Miss H. J. Thompson were appointed assistant secretaries if they would like to have four extinguishers put in their houses. They are being assisted by Mr. Joe Clark Casson.

The board members are being urged to purchase extinguishers as a precautionary measure, on the basis that the beginning part of the year would be held a hundred feet in case of fire. The extinguishers are being brought through Chief Care, several orders have been made, Chief Casson has also agreed to take orders for fire extinguishers.

The board is asking for orders for fire extinguishers and to check for fire hazards.

Major Ed Wall, Harvard, '40

-Flying Executive, U.S. Air Force

Born in Harvard, N. Y. he moved to Harvard at an early age, graduated from the public High school in 1890, entered Harvard the same year, where he majored in economics and government.

"Active on the campus"— he played football, tennis, and track as an undergraduate. He worked part-time in a variety of jobs from kitchen to baby sitter, earned his A.B. degree in 1908.

He entered Harvard Law School, left at the beginning of the war to become an Aviation Cadet. In November, 1942, he was picked for wings, received his final commission to Second Lieutenant.

Back in the States with his English wife, he started his Ranger commission. Then he returned to Harvard under the Air Force college program, receiving his LL.B. degree in 1948.

Now he is engaged in the real estate and insurance business. As a pilot and legal officer of the U.S. Air Force, he is a major in the Air Force flying corps... with a challenging career.

Meet the Maroons

The Maroons have a tendency to be overlooked, especially in college football where they compete against larger schools with more resources. However, they have a strong tradition and a dedicated fan base. The Maroons play in the Northern Illinois Conference and are known for their athletic programs, particularly in football, basketball, and track and field. They are located in DeKalb, Illinois, and offer a wide range of academic programs and extracurricular activities. The Maroons have produced many successful athletes who have gone on to achieve great things in their respective fields. If you're interested in learning more about their history or current events, be sure to check out their official website or follow them on social media.
