Our Opinions...

Who Will It Be?

Many of the students at Southern have already voted in the national presidential election, but the vote will be for the first time this fall. The major part of the students will be able to vote in the general election on November 7, and will, therefore, be legal voters.

The original idea of this section is to ask a number of students from each of several different major courses of study in the more than 300 programs offered in the fall session. Students have been chosen who are enrolled in the various programs of study, who are running for student council offices, or who are running for student leadership positions. In other words, the student who was asked this question was able to give the correct answer without hesitation.

Industrial Ed Classes Have New Asset—Girls

By DOROTHY SURVALL

Stapling now has been added to the Industrial Education department. There are now ten classes offered in the school which give opportunities to girls who wish to earn their living. In central education is to be under the direction of the Committee of the Boys' and Girls' Industrial Education Class.

Kahlmann Korner

Like that old machine that's always been modeled into the feet of the German Kids, we now really "fire" when we aroused a SIU this fall after a 15 month check, and found all the old boys back, namely Bill O'Brien and Jim Wilson.

Then Bill had to say a brief (16 months) stint with the Marines, and Jim spent a year coaching Oregon State. So when we look at the present year's grid, we're sure to find they show about what classic mistake when compared to those of Bill and Jim . . . particularly Bill.

To see that Bill O'Brien has a problem this way would be like the use of penmanship in the age of the typewriter. He not only has a problem, singular, and problems, plural, he has the problems galore, dulled and coated like a macaroni. Of course that's always in play with a coach, football, baseball, or otherwise. If he couldn't have problems, he would have no challenge. If he had no challenge, he would be dead. And, of course, no one would want to see a coach win.

Maybe that's why Bill O'Brien is such an inimitable will-to-win. He knows he's up against odds that rarely have a football coach. He has only a single returning letterman, counting Bill Fly, and Bill Johnson, who entered in 46 and 49 respectively. Eightlettermen wouldn't be such a bad slate of affairs in itself. But behind them, however, he has nothing but scuttled freshmen and unprepared sophomores.

Not to mention that these freshmen and sophomores aren't qualified to play college football. But it's a proven fact that freshmen don't win college football games for a coach. There's just too much too learn-too much time to make in our season. At least, so says the opinion of coaches all over the nation.

And, as it is, even a coach must meet a vote of confidence, young and personally William O'Brien does. We hope the usual will work here. We have known the SIU gridiron for his minuteness at least a year and a half. However, a worry lestly than an EGYPTIAN football, and he went back into battle.

Now this back's back, we turn to the back-up grid. We've always liked the way he handles men, and his knowledge of football and the game. His spirit and drive made him one of our men in all of our gridiron highs and lows, and he should come through in crucial time.

The only problem he will face in his strategy, wrapping it up is that of keeping the boys together. Joe Foster and Dick Warren are back from the Air Force, and coupled with returning lettermen will make him a formidable foe. However, in Bob Foster and John Foster he should come through in crucial time.

And then we write the team.

SIU Launches 37th Grid Season Next Saturday

Students will launch into their football season next week when the Salukis take on Southeast Missouri State at 3:00 p.m. on Saturday.

The Salukis will be looking to improve on last season's 4-5-1 record and are hoping to make a run for the Ohio Valley Conference championship.

The Salukis will be led by first-year head coach Bill O'Brien, who brings a wealth of experience to the program.

O'Brien Prepared For Initial Season

The 1952 season will be the first as head coach of the Saluki football team. This will be the first college season of his life, but he has been involved in football since his youth, playing for his school team and coaching at the high school level.

O'Brien, who took over the reins after the retirement of the previous coach, has spent the past year preparing for his first college season. He has spent countless hours on the field, working with his players and preparing for the upcoming season.
