'Lets Go Sky High' Is Theme Given Student Service Fund Drive Launched This Week

This week saw the opening of the annual World Student Service Fund drive on Southern's campus. The goal at which Southern's 2523 students are aiming is $1000 or 50¢ per student.

Approximately 100 students from 22 organized houses are donating their time to act as solicitors in this drive. The solicitors are divided into two teams. The first is the Eager Beavers consist of the following houses: Manor, Chi Delta Chi, Johnson's Coop, Kappa Delta Alpha, House of Seven Gables, Pi Kappa Sigma, Sigma Sigma Sigma, House of 312, Upsilon Sigma, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Kappa Phi, and Student Christian League. The second team is the Super Dupers are made up of Anthony Hall, Delta Sigma Epsilon, Delta Delta Chi, the Normandy, Nu Epsilon Alpha, Sigma Beta Mu, Gamma Phi Beta, and the Baptist Dormitory.

Drive Has Theme The theme for this drive is "Let's Go Sky High" and as a symbol of their progress is a balloon chart located at the main gate of the campus. The remaining time of the drive will be used to raise their goal of $1000.

Donations are being made through organized houses, house-to-house canvass, and tag days. A student who has given a tag to prevent another solicitor from asking him for his donation. On tag days which is today and Friday, the tag is not allowed and will be asked to contribute to the fund.

Banquet Held

Tuesday night, a banquet was held in the University cafeteria for the solicitors. Frank Niskowski, regional secretary for WSSSF, spoke to the students about the importance of WSSSF and what it does.

After the banquet and speech, a film "Seed of Destiny" was shown. This film will be shown again Thursday night free in the Little Theatre to all who wish to see it. The entire picture is only about a half hour long, but shows the true state of conditions in Europe and drives home the necessity for World Student Relief. Last year, Southern was asked to raise $2500 for the fund. It has now raised $2000. This year the goal is only $1000 with the theme of a symbol of the progress the solicitors and committees hope to realize, "Let's Go Sky High."

Cafeteria Customers Are Served By Water-Wading Waitresses

Came on in, water's fine! No, it's not time to go swimming yet, but you can go wading if you want to! This was the happy prospect of the cafeteria customers at the University's cafeteria last Monday morning. Because of the recent lengthy period of rainfall, and due to the water seeping in the roof of the cafeteria, quite a bit of water had accumulated on the floor—so much, in fact, that waitresses waded on customers in their heels! "Drips" in various strategic spots necessitated crowding some of the tables together in the form of a square. This proved highly amusing to the customers, who expected to see a floor show any minute. They were informed however, that it was "too wet for a floor show."

Book Auction

Shown above is Mrs. May Trivillon Smith of the English department auctioning off books at the American Association of University Women's sale held in Anthony Hall last week. Proceeds from the sale go for student scholarships.

Mysteries Are Best Sellers At Book Auction

There were books ranging from comic magazines to books on counseling, but mysteries seem to have been in the greatest demand Tuesday evening as the American Association of University Women's book auction was held to raise money for the national fellowship fund.

Dr. Robert C. Turner of the English department spoke on "Trends in Modern Literature" before the auction began. Mrs. O. Rogers and Mrs. Max T. Smith of Southern's faculty were the auctioneers for the evening.

Books that originally cost 25¢ were auctioned for as much as a dollar. Some of the books even brought as much as a dollar and a half. The auction lasted for about thirty minutes and over 100 books were sold. The money raised on the auction was approximately $5 dollars.

Southern Opens Her Doors To Visiting High School Seniors For Hospitality Week End

WELCOME FROSH OF '48

Prospective Frosh—Southern welcomes you! Again the theme has come for Southern Illinois University to open its doors and play host to the visiting seniors of Southern Illinois high schools. In its short time of existence, Hospitality Week-End has striven to enlighten and inform high school graduating seniors on ways and customs of college life at Southern. On campus today are many Freshmen whose testimonies bear favorable comment for the insight gained into college life on this week end visit. Campus organizations have gone all out to provide you with an enjoyable as well as an instructive visit, and a concentrated program for the two-day stay has been planned. By attending these campus programs and meetings you will be able to see Southern as it really is. We, the students and faculty members of Southern welcome you to our campus.

SOCIETY CLASS To Conduct Social Survey

Survey of social participation at Southern will soon be undertaken by members of the Sociology 519 (Seminar in Social Research) class under the direction of Dr. Joseph K. Johnson. Two main objectives are being outlined for the survey: First, the correlation between the degree of individual social participation, indicated by a numerical index, and such factors as sex, academic standing, veteran-non-veteran, married-single, rural-urban, etc. Numerical values will be attached to each type of participation, and such factors as sex, academic standing, veteran-non-veteran, married-single, rural-urban, etc. will be judged along with the others.

Secondly, to discover typical patterns of social participation at Southern. A small, but representative sample of the student body will be selected by the established procedure of scientific sampling. While the background characteristics of each student included in the sample will be determined in advance, the particular students selected for interview will be determined by chance, and no student's name will appear on his interview schedule. Thus all information secured will be treated anonymously.

Dr. Joseph K. Johnson, chairman of the department of sociology, is off campus Thursday and Friday of this week attending the annual convention of the Midwest Sociological Society in Minneapolis, Minn.

Cool Cash or Cold War? The war is over there, but there's another war brewing in Europe, and it's not as "cold" as some would have us believe.

And that's just the point we're driving at... though we do run off the road once in a while. Europe's universities, from whence her leaders will come, suffered heavily during the war.

Now, an attempt is being made to rebuild the universities of Europe and of other, war-ravaged countries. This work is being carried on by the World Student Service Fund, "a relief organization of American school and college students and professors for assistance to students and professors in the universities of war-devastated countries."

The money we raise here won't be much, but it'll raise the hopes of the folks over there. It might be only a drop in the bucket, but it'll help Europe from kicking the bucket.

OUT AND INSIDE

It sure was nice of those cigarette people to give out samples of their product. After giving away samples for an hour, the salesmen really got "stamp happy."

THE CORN CRIB Edited by Wallace Peebles

Jack: "What if we can't find a room for our class today?" Jake: "It'll be meet-less Thursday."

Boy: "Say, mister, ya gotta match?" Man: "Why son you're too little to smoke."

Boy: "Whatta ya mean, smoke? I wanna pick my teeth."

Bum: "Say, buddy, could you let me have a dollar so I can go to my family?" Gentleman: "Why, yes, but you can't go far on a dollar."

Bum: "That's okay. They're in the balcony at the Uptown theater."

Most people don't care what happens, provided it doesn't happen to them.

Everyone can give pleasure to others. Some achieve it by entering a room and others by leaving it.

College is the land of midnight sons.

One student motorist (who wished to remain anonymous) recently told us that he was against parking meters. He said, "If I parked for two hours, I might just as well give my car to the city, as I would owe them more money than the car is worth."

It... It was the first time I ever saw a car that was held together by the paint job. It has what's called an indifferent horn—it just doesn't give atoot... But I don't care—two more payments and I can drive it in the daytime.

After all though, the average girl is a little worse than her parents think and a little better than the neighbors think.

In their college paper, University of Miami college men have this to say about their coeds: "They are irresponsible, ungrateful, conniving, incompatible, deceitful, egotistical, spoiled, self centered, and miserable." However, in the last paragraph, a writer makes apologies by stating, "We really don't dislike women. There's nothing too bad wrong with them."

PERSONALITY SPOTLIGHT

By Mary Boston If you see a short, dark-haired fellow with a hatchet in his hand hacking at one of the trees on Southern's campus, it's probably Jerry Levelmeier. Jerry, a freshman from Carbondale, has been interested in industrial forestry since his eighth grade science teacher encouraged her students to make educational projects. Jerry worked on a tree collection. The collection, which he took to Bradley University at Letts, Mo., at the Junior Academy Meet last May, received a first place and an outstanding award in the field of botany. The collection consisted of seventy-three kinds of tree specimens from Southern Illinois, a collection of fungi and insects, and information on elements destructive to trees.

JERRY LEVELMEIER

Besides continuing his tree collection, which is in the university museum at Southern, he is interested in hunting and fishing. In fact, he does a great deal of both. Good literature, particularly Shakespeare, and classic music lead his list of leisure time likes.

THE VETS' CORNER

By Ralph Grueszmyer

SCHEDULE CHANGE FOR CONTACT OFFICER

Miss Hall, VA Contact Representative, will be on itinerant service to the VA Guidance Center each Wednesday between the hours of nine and four. Mr. Hall formerly visited this office on Mondays, but due to the reduction of forces within the VA this new schedule had to be arranged. Ernest P. Wolfe of the Guidance Center has requested that all veterans with problems relating to subsistence payments, insurance matters, disability claims, applications for hospitalization, out patient treatment, etc., should contact Mr. Hall personally. In the past all members of the staff were assisting in this work. As the number of cases increased it will be necessary that you see Mr. Hall personally on Wednesdays between nine and four o'clock. Mr. Wolfe has announced that he will be on duty as required to assume all of the adjustment work formerly handled by the Centralia office, and part of the load of the East St. Louis office.

OFFICIAL FORMS FOR CHANGE OF ADDRESS

William B. Winklemeyer, chief of the IVC office and Veterans' Lounge on Thompson Street, has announced that the Illinois Service Recognition Board will not consider a letter or a postcard as official notification of change of address. So, if you move to a new location and want your status bonus to follow you, there will have to submit a special form supplied by the Service Recognition Board. Winklemeyer states that he has these forms available in his office and will be glad to assist any veteran in filling the form and notarizing it for him.

LANGDON'S SCHEDULE CHANGED

There is one more change in schedule at the VA Guidance Center which involves Geo. Langdon, the training officer. Beginning immediately, Langdon will be on duty at the Guidance Center Thursday and Friday afternoons only. IVC OFFICE TO CLOSE FRIDAY

INTERUPTION OF TRAINING

Any student Veteran who interrupts his training, either at the end of or during a regular term, is requested to report this in the VA by using the new postal card system inaugurated by the IVC. Mr. Winklemeyer, chief of the IVC office on campus, has a supply of these cards available and will be glad to assist you in filling it out. This procedure was designed to speed up the processing of these reports and will help prevent veterans from being overpaid and having too much training time taken from their eligibility.

Egyptian Reaches Ten States To Tell What's New At Southern

Long after the students of Southern have read, re-read, and exhausted all the news they can read Egyptian, many other copies have just begun their long trip to subscribers, advertisers, colleges, and high schools scattered over ten states. The present 210 copies are mailed, wrapped, addressed, and mailed each Friday to 126 colleges, 106 high schools, 21 advertisers, and 57 subscribers. Practically every high school in Illinois receives a weekly copy in order to hear frequently about the home town boys and girls who have braved the "Wilds" of college. Other colleges receive the paper and are prepared to "lift" any idea, joke, or article which will appeal to the reading public of their school. Presently 500 advertisers determine from the Egyptian if their ads are effective and helpful to their business. Subscribers, including alumni and board members, are asked to renew $5.00 annually to keep in touch with former classmates and their good old alma mater. Besides all this, many other copies are made delivered to the various offices on the campus. Teachers also receive their Egyptian through the school post office.

Fifth and Sixth Grade Girls Take Up Industrial Education Work

The latest in the industrial education department at Southern is the experiment carried on by Richard Kohler, instructor, with the grade school children. One particular class is composed of fifth and sixth grade girls working with metal, wood, and plastic. They make rings, bracelets, fruit bowls, trays, coasters, and even the clasps for their fathers, brothers, and boy friends. The work for the most part is of exceptional quality considering the age and particularly the sex. Some of the girls were making lamp bases of wood as well as metal. It was surprising to see one of them walk up to an electric jigsaw, turn on the switch, and begin sawing the base of a lamp. The girl appeared very small for this type of work, but seeing the finished work proved that she had had good training.

Kohler explained the idea of the experiment by saying "We have knowledge of what both boys and girls of this age should be able to do, but our idea is to see how much above these known facts the children are capable of. We are satisfied with the advancements they are making."

Each pupil is allowed to design something of her own choosing and a plan must be drawn up before work is begun. Mr. Kohler

Such a class as this might seem foolish to the layman; but, as Dr. Bicknell, chairman of the Department, puts it, "It is a thrill to take a molar, plastic material and feel it, under your hands, shaping into something clean and useful in design."

Vocationally, Art Metals can be very profitable. Leading jewelry manufacturers hire many technicians to design and perpetrate novel pieces of costume jewelry. The class included jewel-mounting, so there are possibilities in that field also.

Besides the aspects of a true vocation, work of this type may be invaluable to teachers who, as a result of this training, can teach handicrafts in elementary and high schools or perhaps make and sell these articles as a hobby or sideline.

SPEECH CLASS DISCUSSES STUDENT TEACHING

What Makes a Good Student Teacher? This was the topic of a panel discussion composed of members of the University high school speech class before the members of the Future Teachers of America at its regular meeting last Thursday evening under the sponsorship of Willis E. Malone.

The students of the University high school speech class who took part in the panel discussion were: Jeanne Lloyd, "Bunky" Parker, Milton Ewert, Bob Frank, Charles Tucker, and Russell Pichman. Five questions were brought out. They are: student teachers are not adequately prepared to teach in high school; the critic teachers do cover up the deficiencies of student teachers; the campus laboratory schools are set up chiefly for the advantage of the college; but the resulting experiments carried out are a great improvement over the regular school; the recreation facilities for the U. High students are generally inadequate; at present, the Student Council is not adequately official in its maintenance of the high school students.

Qualities that are an attribute for being a good student teacher are: friendliness, an earnest desire to help, a friendly teacher to become personally acquainted with each student if at all possible, a feeling of being at ease, don't be a "split-personality," the personality that the student teacher emits outside of the classroom should be good enough inside the classroom, be human with a sense of humor.

Southern Students To Attend Peoria Convention

Moore, professor of religion and theology at Eureka College; and Dr. Ronald B. Slater, former missionary to China.

Lake Ridgeway's Banks Lined With Commuting Fishermen

By Mona Fagan
There is only one major difference between a fisherman and a college student. The fisherman hates his books and the college student hates his books. However, Southern's commuters have lessened this difference even more by doing both.

Almost every hour of the day when the weather is warm and agreeable, Lake Ridgeway's banks are lined with school-wearied commuters with lunch and line, busy trying to momentarily escape the woes that await them next hour in class.

Southern's Campus Green House Once Located at Auditorium Site

By WALLACE PEEBLES
The history of a green house would seem about as interesting to most of us as a symphony to a sailor on Saturday night. But Southern's greenhouse, like the man with two heads, is different.

If anyone had wanted to look over our greenhouse 38 years ago he would have had to go to the present location south of the parking lot. He would have headed for the auditorium. That's where our green house stood.

It looked considerably different then. There were five sections to it. A hexagon section in the center with four sections like our present greenhouse—it was one of them—surrounding it, one on each side.

Two years before the auditorium was built, or in 1915, the greenhouse was moved where Parkinson Lab stands. This cost it two of its five sections.

Everyone thought surely this would be the greenhouse's last move, but what an optimistic dreamer! The greenhouse was wanted to add a new building to the campus they picked the spot where the greenhouse stood. So, at the expense of two more sections, it was moved to its present location to make way for Parkinson Lab.

In simple words, we now have one-fifth the greenhouse space as our first student body had in 1915 as a normal school, to say nothing of its condition.

Southern's greenhouse is used by students studying Plant Physiology, a fundamental course for botanists and minors in botany and agriculture and majors in horticulture and forestry. Graduate students must do actual growing of plants during their study.

It is necessary to control the heat and humidity inside the greenhouse but this often proves a difficult task. For instance this winter when the heating system was not in operation the greenhouse was necessary to use heating coils. Cases given off during this type of heating are the death of plants. The dead ones proved this.

Our greenhouse is not without its fame, though. Four items of research within the past ten years have received national recognition. And within those same ten years there have been rumors of a new greenhouse. Rumors are sometimes false. However, when the new one gets the green light it will be constructed in a section which can be heated singly instead of heating the entire building, as was practiced with the original one.

Even a glance at our present greenhouse reveals it to be in poor condition. Who knows, maybe a new one would bring in a new modern "lux" and the Bear Steaks story. We could certainly use a little goose who brings forth the golden eggs.

Many Schools Forsake Track
Several other Southern Illinois schools have almost abolished track as a sport. The Southwestern Egyptian loop is especially guilty. It is, with at least one exception—Anna-Jonesboro having no track at all.

At Du Quoin nearly all the attention is being given to baseball with only two boys—Bob Hollis and James Lips—out for track. Little is known about Pinckneyville's track squad—and after winning the state cage title, it may be devoting their time to spring football instead of track.

The Egyptian Thursday, April 22, 1948 Children's Theatre of New York To Present 'Penrod' In Auditorium

By Mrs. Alice Rector
A delightful experience is in store for both children and grown-ups next May 15, at 10:30 in the morning when the Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre of New York brings to the stage of Shurlock Auditorium, Southern Illinois University, Booth Tarkington's 'Penrod'.

It will be a letter-day for the youngsters of town. They will not only have the rare opportunity of seeing professional actors and seeing a story-book here performed on the stage, but they will also have the supreme joy of—and, in most instances, get away with—the very high jinks and shenanigans which have become inherent in engineering or wistfully contemplating.

As for the parents who attend the performance, they will "laugh and laugh and laugh"—at the very best of the many and many a punishment at home. Because 'Penrod' is Booth Tarkington at his best; in such close contact with the American home that not a single person of a capacity audience can fail to recognize himself in at least one of the characters.

Actually, the late Booth Tarkington created Penrod not from his imagination, but rather from the memory of his own childhood pranks and tribulations. Penrod thinks and does exactly as ten-year boys and girls have thought and done for centuries, as they do today. In fact, they will be doing until the inconceivable day when children cease to be curious, experimental, imaginative, and rebellious beings—often exasperating, but just as often, irresistibly enjoyable.

Had Booth Tarkington ended his life's slighting with parental punishment rather than understanding and secret applause, his Penrod would never have lived through all these years to be recalled no less by grown-ups remembering their own childhood than by boys and girls who are the hero's contemporaries in age.

This delight shared by old and riotous merged laughter when the Penrod would never have lived through all these years to be recalled no less by grown-ups remembering their own childhood than by boys and girls who are the hero's contemporaries in age.

The Soil Conservation Service reports that erosion, if continued at the present rate, will practically destroy 40 percent of America's fertile farmland before the end of the next century.

Chautauque Diamond Site of Maroon-Aggies Tilt Sat.

The Southern Illinois Maroon diamond crew played the first university baseball game in Carbondale in many years Saturday at the Chautauque Street diamond.

Coach Glenn (Abe) Martin has not announced the probable pitcher for the Maroons, it is unlikely that the reformed Maroon of Marion will start after his brilliant 15 innings of twisting in Evansville Tuesday in which the Maroons were triumphant.

Abe announced that the diamond is in fair shape and urges that all who possibly can, attend. There is a possibility that unless some interest is shown, the sport will be banished from the schedule next year.

Bob Harmon, the number five singles man, forced Sid Stifried to three sets before losing 6-4, 2-6, and 6-7. Bill Williams, playing in the number one doubles position, was trounced by Jack Webber 3-6, 0-6, and Dick Vorwald, the third singles man, was routed 1-6, 3-6 by Benny Seibler, the Junior Aces champion of the last year.
