IBHE OKs funding for teachers' skills

By Lisa Miller Staff Writer

More than $8,000 in funding

More than $8,000 in funding to improve elementary and secondary teachers' skills was approved by Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The funding will be used to improve teaching skills in mathematics, science, computer learning and foreign language, Richard Wagner, IBHE director, said.

on May 2.

Teacher training programs will be set up throughout the state in cooperation with local school districts to meet needs that have been defined by the school districts, Wagner said.

It is the hope of the IBHE to enhance the understanding and performance of the students through the im-provement of the teaching skills, Wagner said.

The money will come from unused IBHE funds during the 1988 fiscal year, July 1, 1987 to June 30, 1988.

Nearly $35,466 remained in the budget from fiscal year 1988, Wagnersaid. The additional $27,240 will be used to fund the cooperative developmental programs designed to educate students mathematics, computer skills and foreign languages

The teachers will be trained in these programs, and then the schools will be provided with these programs, Wagner

Schools that already offer the programs will be strengthened, Wagner said.

A cooperative develop-mental program has already been installed at SIU-E.

Opinion & Commentary

Football hinges on an informed opinion

UNIVERSITY OFFICIALS seem to be taking a more constructive look at the future of SIU-C football.

The Intercollegiate Athletics Advisory Committee's pledge to starty the issue will hopefully give impetus to a cool analysis of the program's future. The good part about out-going IAAC President George Black's suggestion that his group study the issue is that the IAAC is a functioning on-campus body.

A new task force or commission would not have to be set in motion and the painfully slow bureaucratic process could be reduced at least somewhat. And, as Black said, the IAAC is a body with representatives from all the constituent groups on campus.

ON THE OTHER hand, the IAAC probably would not be the most neutral group that could be chosen for a study. Despite Black's statement that "A lot (of people on the IAAC) are not athletically prone and don't have a vested interest" the committee should not be depended on for a interest" the committee should not be depended on for a completely unbiased study of football.

The fate of football is a weighty matter, and an established campus committee which concerns itself with athletics, as does the IAAC, would almost certainly carry along its own prejudices. Though specially appointed commissions can prolong the decision making process, the University should stick to the decision it finally makes, and it should therefore elicit an unbiased opinion from a holy representing a crossection of views. body representing a crossection of views.

BUT THIS IS not to say the IAAC should not conduct a study of the issue, it should. The more information that can be brought into the open, the clearer will be the choice. In this spirit, University President John C. Guyon was right to ask for opinions from a wide variety of sources. The sports department in the person of Hart and Fred

The sports department in the person of Hart and Fred Huff, sports information director, has been the first to answer Guyon's call. Hart said that he and Huff will write a series promoting the football program. This is a constructive move, especially if the pair make the series "informational" and refrain from excessive football public relations, as Jerome Handler, the instigator of the eliminate football drive, said.

BUT ANOTHER point that Guyon made is even more important—the attitude of the students. Students pay for more than a third of the athletics program but, as Guyon said student attitudes on the issue are yet to be gaged. If study of the issue is taken up in a serious manner, the students will be able to formulate an informed opinion. And their opinion should weigh heavily in the "final And their opinion should weigh heavily in the decision" that is Guyon's.

But one thing is certain, the process of research must be expedited. The Athletics program is being sucked dry by a football program that averages over a half-a-million dollars a year. It is clear that I-AA is not the place for SIU football, what remains to be cleared up is what should be described. done with it.

The city of Cologne in West Germany has come up with a unique way to dispose of some of its waste plastic. It's building the world's first insulated noise barrier made of discarded bottles, yogurt containers and the like.

The trash is being ground up, heated and poured into molds. The finished product is being used as building components for a wall about 10 feet high and 1,050 feet long to protect residents against noise from a nearby four-lane highway. Considering the number of freeways running through built-up areas and the amount of plastic trash in the United States, American highway and waste disposal experts might do well to take a look at the Cologne project.

My calculations show that if they live to be 70, they will have spent three years and four months of their lives doing nothing but standing in the kitchen, yelling their heads off.

This potential accomplishment becomes even more impressive when you consider my role in it.

HE DIDN'T KNOW why. It just seemed as good a way as any to get started. He said he didn't think about anything special, or give himself a wake-up pep talk. And he wasn't particularly interested in his own feet. They just happened to be there, at the bottom of his body, flattened out on the floor where he happened to be looking. Sitting that way, there wasn't anything else to see, unless something tiny walked by. It didn't seem like much at the time, but I have since figured things out.

Research: Police officers' hats signal authority

MUNCIE, Ind. (UPI) — Quick — off the top of your head — which part of a police officer's uniform must denotes authority?

A Ball State University researcher says it's not the badge, the shoulder patches — even the gun—it's the hat.

Janet Volpp, an assistant professor of home economics and expert on clothing, said her recent research indictates that uniform hats most strongly affect the public image of police officers. That knowledge can help officials coose the right hat for the job, she said.

For example, an officer on traffic patrol needs an authoritative hat, while an officer directing traffic for a funeral might want to appear nore helpful than subscribed. more he authoritative.

Volpp's findings show that the hat denoting the most authority is called a campaign hat, which is the type worn by forest rangers and Canada's mounted police.

Volpp said the only type of headgear creating more of an authority image than the campaign hat is the helmet, which evokes images of riot control.

The hat providing the least The hat providing the least authority is the visor cap, which looks like a baseball cap, she said. An officer wearing this cap or no cap at all projects an image of helpfulness more than authority, Volppesid.

Earlier, authorities ordered nationwide manhunt for 50 leaders of radical student groups and law enforcement agencies were instructed to deal harshly with those resorting to violence.

The incident took place at about 5:10 a.m. when about 700 police stormed Tongui University in South Korea's second largest city of Pusan, about 200 miles southeast of Secul, to rescue five comrades held overnight by student radicals.

Some of the six officers died of burns or smoke inhalation and others were killed when they leaped from the seventh floor of a high-rise building set ablaze by students to thrwart the rescue attempt.

Eleven other police officers and one student were injured.

It was only the second time South Korean police have been killed in months of almost daily hattles with student demonstrators.

As the police moved toward the seventh-floor room where their five comrades were being held, student radicals who staged an overnight sit-in escaped to the rooftop two stories above.

The students, who had sprinkled gasoline, kerosene and paint thinner over the furniture used to barricade the room, threw firebombs to start the blaze, news reports said. Several policemen were trapped inside the room.

Television reports showed weeping police looking at the bodies of their comrades.

Alaska officials reject Exxon's oil cleanup plan

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — State officials rejected Exxon's new and improved cleanup plan Wednesday as flawed even as the remains of the 10.9 million gallon oil spill plastered Katmai National Park shoreline, killing too many birds to count and wiping out the sea ofters there. "The whole coastline of Katmai is hit by oil," park superintendent Ray Bane said. "The loss of bird life alone is astronomical." Exxon's new cleanup plan

Exxon's new cleanup plan does not include Katma: shores, now among the hardest hit by the runaway oil from the tanker Exxon Valdez when it ran aground on Bligh Reef in Prince William Sound on March 24.

"Last month's version of the cleanup plan totally ignored fouled beaches outside Prince William Sound," Keiso said. "This month's plan makes it appear as though cleaning those areas is little more than a Sunday stroll on the beach."

A burst of vapor seen coming from a joint in the fuel line led engineers to believe the line had a leak and that air had liquified in a liner around the pipe carrying hydrogen.

Both the pump and the fuel line were replaced and engineers quickly discovered that the hydrogen recirculation line was undamaged.

Bush opposes short-range missile reduction in Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush is determined to pursue modernization of short-range nuclear weapons in Europe despite West Ger-man-led opposition that is dividing the NATO alliance, his spokesman said Wednesday.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI)

— The European Community
Wednesday released a 40-page

The report took particular exception to section 301 of the 1988 U.S. Omnibus Trade Act, which enables the U.S. Trade Representative to identify priority countries it feels apply unfair trade practices and unfair trade practices and devise compensations for them.

The report complained about a wide range of U.S. rules including tariff and customs barriers, quantitative restrictions and import surveillance, standards and testing certification, public procurement, export subsidies, rules on intenecular property, countervailing and anti-dumping duties, export controls on technology tran-sfers, ship repair services, tax barriers and barriers relating to financial institutions.

It said these included "measures whose legality is, at best, severely in doubt and which have a negative effect on EC and, indeed, other countries' exports to the United States," including

'Buy America restrictions

The report cited the U.S. failure to implement the findings of the GATT on the illegality of the Superfund oil import levy to pay for the cleanup of toxic waste sites.

It said the cost to the EC of the tax on imported petroleum products was about $7 million in 1987 and the cost of the tax on imported chemical derivatives may be as high as

Soviet changes cause suspicions

WASHINGTON (SHNS) - A kinder, gentler Soviet Union is causing confusion among defense planners here and in Europe.

Instead of responding positivaly to peaceful gestures by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev — and claiming victory by saying he is partly responding to 40 years of allied pressure — the Bush administration is warning that the good times might not last.

That attitude is not accepted

That attitude is not accepted by many in Congress, however, and is the deeper cause of the NATO rift over short-range nuclear missiles in West Germany.

It was easier for the Pen-It was easier for the Pentagon to build support for its $300 billion budgets when the Soviet Union was the "Evil Empire." Now, when few can agree on just what's happening in Moscow, it's hard to rally the U.S. public, Congress and U.S. allies.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said Wednesday that he and President Bush "chuckled" over news commentary that they differed about Gorbachev's future—Cheney supposedly being more pessimistic than Bush. "The point I have tried to

"The point I have tried to make is that there is enormous make is that there is enormous uncertainty surrounding the question of whether or not the Soviet Union now constitutes less of a threat, whether or not the Cold War is over, whether or not peace is at hand," Cheney told the Senate Armed es Committee

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., who is fighting to save two military bases in his state that are set to close, said it's time to start bringing U.S. troops home from Europe.

Dixon said he just returned from a series of town meetings in Illinois and found that having large numbers of U.S. troops overseas "doesn't play anymore."

"We have this idea that we can bring all the boys home," Cheney said. "The only

Athletics department looking for increased unity

The Letterwinners Club wants to sponsor a fall semester picnic for the student-athletes, an assistant athletics director tolu the Student-Athlete Advisory Board Tuesday at the Davies Gymnasium Lounge.
This was the last meeting of the school year for SAAB.

Gary Carney, who as assistant AD also serves as a departmental liason with the newly-formed Letterwinners Club, said the outing would foster more unity among the athletes.

department we've missed the boat to give you opportunities for you to get to know each other. The picnic would be purely fun and to make new athletes feel comfortable."

The picnic is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 27. All costs would be absorbed by the Letterwinners Club, which Letterwinners Club, which sponsored the senior athlete banquet Sunday

The Letterwinners Club was formed from two defunct organizations, the men's athietics Lettermens Club and the women's athletics Varsity Club.

Former members of the disbanded men's gymnastics and field hockey teams would be invited to attend, Carney

In other SAAB business: President Mar

Marcus Mulholland drafted a letter to be sent to Athletics Director Jim Hart, listing an evaluation of the year-old Strategic Planning Committee report. SAAB cited several areas they felt needed attention; the remaining 18 sports should be maintained at the current levels; the track and artificial surface at McAndrew Stadium are in need of repair, a golf facility is non-existent and more attention should be given to Arena scheduling; the department should invest in a computer network: streamlining administration is OK, but no services to athletes should be affected; and marketing and promotions should be increased.

Mulholland said new Undergraduate Student Gover-nment president Tim Hildebrand would like to have a student-athlete serve on one of the three student representative spots to the Intercollegiate Athletics Advisory Committee. SAAB choose Dave Writing of swimming Dabbie Con-of swimming, Debbie Gut-tridge of swimming and Mulholland of gymnastics to speak with Hi'debrand further about the matter. SAAB outlined goals for next year. SAAB wants better communication with department committee chairs and a stronger commitment from its membership.

In evaluating last year's goals, Mulholland said that SAAB now has a larger voice on issues.

Calgary goaltender Mike Vernon, who collected his third shutout of the playoffs, said he had to fight to keep his concentration, particularly in the early parts of the game.
"I just tried to keep my mind on things by talking to my teammates and going for a skate to keep my legs from tightening up." Vernon said. "I'm expecting Chicago to forecheck us more, putting pressure on us. They have been on a roll and I expected a little more jump from them."

The Blackhawks see Thursday's second game as an opportunity to prove they belong in the Cup semifinals. They finished with the worst record of any playoff team, 51 points behind Calgary. return to the lineup from shoulder injury has boosted Chicago in the playoffs.

Chicago's hopes had been bolstered by the early playoff success of Vancouver, which checked and frustrated Calgary ail the way into seventh game overtime. Defenseman Trent Yawney said tighter checking would be needed to get Chicago back into the series.

"We gave the blueline early and have to take away the neutral zone," said Yawney.

Crisp cautioned his team that overconfidence is what may have cost the Flames against Vancouver.

Kentucky Derby favorite's trainer still confident

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Instead of getting nervous, Shug McGaughey, trainer of odds-on Kentucky Derby favorite Easy Goer, appears to be growing calmer as Derby be growing calmer as Derby Day approaches. He played golf the first two full days he was in Louisville, shooting an 81 the first day and an 83 the second on a par-72 course. He was considering another round Wednesday but his wife and chief stable hand, Mary Jane, who is 8 1-2 months pregnant, mildly protested.

"OK," he said, "maybe I'll take a nap instead."

Such poise seems remarkable, considering that Easy Goer is being hailed as the biggest Derby cinch since Spectacular Bid won at 3-5 in 1979. Easy Goer also is the Ogden Phipps' family's best chance for a first Derby vic tory since 1966 Horse of the Year Buckpasser was injured and forced to sit out that year's Triple Crown races. The Phippses tried to win their first Derby in 1928, and, at 60, the current patriarch may not get too many more chances

McGaughey, who is coming off his and the Phippses' most productive year of racing productive year of racing (collectively the stable won two equine and three human

"I try to keep my thoughts away from it," he said. "When it comes through and I think about it, and I realize that I have a really big, big chance, then I get to feelin' butterflies and I have to push it away.

There were times this past winter, McGaughey said, that

"It's a lot easier now," he said. "I'm not too good about for one particular asses tell pointing for one particular day. I try to let the horses tell me what to do. I used to be a breeze-the-horse-once-a-week man.' I'm not now.

Mary Jane McGaughey's sleep has been much less easy steep has been much less easy but she says it's the discomfort of her pregnancy, rather than worry about Shug or Easy Goer, that keeps her awake. "I think he's enjoying the

The McGaugheys picked out Easy Goer as the best of the Phippses' 1987 yearlings, and the colt lived up to their expectations from the time he came off the farm. "I think even before he ever ran, he had a regal look about him," says Mary Jane, who served as his exercise rider until the third month of her

Derby television ratings slipping for networks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Kentucky Derby, arguably the most exciting day in horse racing, has been in horse racing, has been drawing yawns in more and more television households.

ABC's telecast of the 1988 race drew just a 9.0 rating and 28 share—the lowest numbers in history. That followed '87 figures that slipped to 10.5 and a 30 share. Favorable weather around the country and lack of good storyline are reasons most mentioned.

"Easy Goer is a very positive story going in," producer Curt Gowdy Jr. said of the heavy favorite in Saturday's race. "Hopefully having the horse's name known prior to the Derby will attract viewers. In the last few years, the field has been jumbled — it was a pick-them-out-of-a-hat routine."

The network's 90-minute telecast from Churchill Downs begins at 4:30 p.m. EST.

"We can't worry about the "We can't worry about the ratings," said Gowdy, who produced the 1986 and 1987 shows and served as coordinating producer last year. "It's the last thing we think about in the (production) truck. We have no control over them, we have no them, just like we have no control over what the race is Most handicappers predict a breeze for Easy Goer and jockey Pat Day. Gowdy isn't unhappy.

"We've tried to come up with something fresh for the show and not gimicky," Gowdy said. "We'll have a couple of new "We'll have a couple of new camera moves—using a handheld for the walk from the barns to the paddock area where the horses get saddled, to the starting gate. Hopefully, the viewers will get the feel of being in an almost overwhelming atmosphere—seeing what the horse is seeing and feeling at that time and place.

"We'll also have a camera on the track during the playing of "My Old Kentucky Home," and use a video montage to get the sense of maturation for a 3-

ABC will track Day throughout the day, beginning in the morning at his home.

"Pat Day has won thousands of races, but he's never won the Derby and this time he's on the favorite," Gowdy said. the favorite," Gowdy said.

Although the basketball program made a profit, that money doesn't go to an in-dividual account to be used by the program next season. Instead, it will go into a central account used by all University intercollegiate athletics programs.
