Budget Figures
Up to Schools: Higher Board

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Board of Higher Education discussed Tuesday budget cuts of $21 million for capital improvements at six state universities—and left it up to the schools to try to get the funds restored.

The board also approved 7-6 a report against establishing a new branch of the University of Illinois on the old Navy Pier campus in Chicago.

Gov. Otto Kerner, in his recent budget message to the Illinois Legislature, omitted a total of $21,259,118 in improvements that had been recommended by the board.

Chairman Ben W. Heineman said the board's function had ended when it gave its recommendations to the governor. Now, he added, the universities are free to seek restoration of the omitted on reduced items.

Heineman told a reporter the universities could go to the governor and ask for changes.

Some members of the board questioned the wisdom of the cuts in the building budget while the college-age population is multiplying.

"If we slip behind now I don't know what we'll do in 1967 and 1969," commented Howard Clement of Chicago, president of the U of I trustees.

Paul Stone of Sullivan, president of the Teachers College Board, said: "We can't wait until the kids are there to build these buildings."

Gov. Kerner, in his budget, proposed the following cuts for SIU:

Remodeling to cost $1 million and public improvements of $750,000, both at Carbondale, and $250,000 for remodeling at Edwardsville, and $500,000 for planning were knocked out.

Land acquisition in Carbondale was reduced from $1 million to $100,000, utilities in Carbondale was slashed from $1.25 million to $750,000.

Site development in Edwardsville was whittled from $750,000 to $500,000.

Coed Leaps, Train
Rams Stalled Car

A car driven by Sara J. Eickelman, an SIU student, was struck by an Illinois Central train at 6:30 p.m. Monday night at the Grand Street crossing.

Mrs. Eickelman's car stalled at the crossing and she jumped free before the train hit the car, driving it against the signals at the crossing.

'Nine From Little Rock'

SIU Students in Academy Award Film
Explain Roles They Had in Production

SIU students played roles in one of the films that won an Academy Award Monday night.

The production was "Nine From Little Rock," part of which was filmed at SIU early in March, 1964.

One of the principals in the documentary was Minniejean Brown of 712 S. Marion St., a journalism major at SIU.

"This is an exciting thing, to be part of an Academy Award-winning production of this type," Miss Brown said. She was one of the interested spectators who watched while the director of the film, Charles Guggenheim, accepted the award during the televised ceremonies.

Miss Brown and Thelma

Mothershed, who was graduated last year, played leading roles in the documentary. Miss Mothershed was a home economics major at SIU, and is now attending at IBM school in her native Little Rock, Ark., Miss Brown said.

The film was produced for the United States Information Agency. It depicted the story of the Little Rock integration crisis of 1957, when Miss Brown and Miss Mothershed were involved in the group that integrated the high school there.

The purpose of the film was to place the Little Rock incident in perspective for people around the world. It also showed the part Little Rock played in the beginning of the civil rights movement.

Miss Brown said Guggenheim worked "very hard" in seeking to record, on film, the personalities of the individuals involved in the Little Rock incident. "He wanted to show that we were people, in addition to being persons involved in the incident," Miss Brown said.

"It portrays the kids in a really good way," she asserted.

When the segments of the film were being shot at SIU, Miss Brown was a student worker at the Daily Egyptian and a number of scenes were taken in the newsroom of the campus newspaper.

Other scenes were taken at Lake-on-the-Campus, and at the Home Economics Building, Miss Brown said.

She said she has seen parts of the film. Because of its USIA sponsorship, it cannot be shown officially in the United States, she added.

The agency has also done a photographic essay as a follow-up to the film, Miss Brown said. It has not been published yet.

"Nine From Little Rock" was entered in the short-subjects classification of the documentary group. It was made by Guggenheim Productions, Inc., an independent film production company from St. Louis.

Bothof to Talk
On Magazines

Walter E. Bothoff of Skokie, president and publisher of Standard Rate and Data Service, will open SIU's second annual Journalism Week activities with an address at 7 p.m. today in Morris Library Auditorium.

Bothoff, nationally regarded in advertising and media research, will speak on the subject, "The Magazine Audience." He will be accompanied here by his senior assistant, George Heitz.

Bothoff, publisher of the periodical, Mediascope, is chairman of the education committee of the Magazine Publishers Association. In 1962 he won the Joseph Medill Award for contributions to the field of journalism.

Three other top men in the journalism profession are scheduled to speak during the week.

Gene Cervi, owner-editor-publisher of Cervi's Rocky Mountain Journal, will deliver the annual Elijah Parish Lovejoy lecture at Freshman Convocation at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday.

Erik Isgrig, vice president in charge of advertising for Zenith Sales Corp. of Chicago, will be featured at an informal seminar at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Agriculture Seminar Room.

Joyce Swan, publisher and executive vice president of the Minneapolis Star-Tribune, will speak at the Journalism Banquet at 7 p.m. Friday in the University Center.

Also included on the week's agenda are a meeting of the Southern Illinois Editorial Association, an awards assembly, a press conference with President Morris and a conference for high school journalists.

Honors presented during the week will include the naming of "Mr. Southern Illinois," announcement of the winners of EM (Master Editor) Awards and the presentation of an award to the outstanding journalism alumnus.

Exhibits are on display in the University Center.

Astronaut Bassett Will Speak
To Campus Audience May 6

Charles A. Bassett II, one of the third group of astronauts named by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will speak at SIU May 6.

Bassett will discuss the U.S. space program at 10 a.m. in the University Center.

An Air Force captain, Bassett is a graduate of the Aerospace Research Pilot School and the Air Force Experimental Pilot School. He has served as an experimental test pilot and engineering test pilot in the Fighter Projects Office at Edwards

Air Force Base in California.

A native of Dayton, Ohio, the 34-year-old Bassett has a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Texas Technological College and has done graduate work at the University of California. He is married and is the father of two children.

The event is sponsored jointly by the SIU Air Force ROTC and the School of Technology. The ROTC commander, Lt. Col. James F. Van Ausdal, extended the invitation to NASA to send an astronaut to SIU.

MARISSA, Ill. (KA)—
The I.B.M. Computer 7-0-40, SIU Vice-President in charge of Student-Human Relations, announced today that it is setting up picket lines around the civil service offices on the Carbondale campus of Southern Illinois University.
The 7-0-40 said, "I feel that there are discriminatory practices in hiring at Southern. Only 41/2 out of 138 SIU Vice-presidents are computers." The 7-0-40 added that "Some members of the academic staff tend to follow directions in a more or less mechanical style."

MARISSA, Ill. (LEJ)—Mighty Righty, SIU Vice President in charge of military expansionism, announced today that all upper level ROTC cadets will be offered "in the field" training one term each year.
"This training," Righty said, "will be conducted in either Korea, the Congo, or Viet Nam, depending on where we are inflicting freedom at the moment."
Righty went on to say, "Within the framework of a free world it is necessary to make sure that no one deviates from our particular interpretation of freedom," adding that the field training "will help indoctrinate the corps to this notion."

MARISSA, Ill. (KA)—Slappy Happy, SIU Vice President in charge of Deportations, announced today the establishment of a "University Policy on Criticism".
Happy said, "The plan we have devised can be applied to all criticism directed at any part of the University while at the same time fully utilizing the Fort Breckinridge Campus."

MARISSA, Ill. (KA)—Wacky Tacky, SIU Architect, said today at a news conference held at the Orr House at Marissa that "All fire bells and other fire warning mechanisms will be removed from the Wham Education Building."
Tacky said, "This action is being initiated as a result of criticism of the inability of the corridors and stairways to convey large numbers of people."
"Our solution to this problem is to remove the warning system, thus insuring that in the event of fire everyone will not try to leave the building at one time."

Why Did You Say That?

by Judy Sink

The influx of psychology students into our society is slowly changing our population of millions of well-adjusted neurotics into hopeless psychotics. If a person is not seriously mentally deranged before his subjection to analysis by a psychology student, he certainly will be afterwards. Take, for instance, the case of a good friend of mine, Herman Cluck. Herman used to be a nice, friendly, easy-going fellow who was blissfully oblivious to his few, but harmless, neuroses. He would always dunk his cigarette in water rather than grinding it out in an ashtray; he constantly hummed the last bar of "The Star Spangled Banner"; and he had an occasional twitch in his right eye that would sometimes switch to his left eye. Then one day Herman started a conversation with a psychology student.

"Why do you always dunk your cigarette in water instead of grinding it out in the ashtray?" asked the psychology student.
"I don't know," replied Herman. "I've always done it that way."
"Mmm. Just as I thought," said the student, "compulsive behavior! Why do you always hum 'The Star Spangled Banner'?"
"I'm a patriot," said Herman.

"Aha! Just as I thought - an obsession. And that twitch in your right eye that sometimes switches to your left eye—that is what we psychologists call hysteria."

Poor Herman is now a total nervous wreck. He is always trying to remember to grind out his cigarette in an ashtray rather than dunking it in water; he refuses to sing "The Star Spangled Banner," and both his eyes twitch.

Suppose you are like Herman, blissfully oblivious to your neuroses, happy, well adjusted, easy-going. Then one day you meet a psychology student and in the course of your conversation you stammer over a word. Aha, he thinks, a Freudian slip. After that you notice that you are being followed. You keep asking yourself, "What did I say?" You are suspicious of everything you do for fear someone (that slinking person with the note pad) will think you are crazy.

Or maybe one of these students will sit down, push a pencil and a piece of paper in front of you, and say: "Draw a tree." So you start to draw a tree. And no matter what kind of line you draw first—straight, curved, long, short—he'll immediately pounce on it with: "Aha! I can see right away that you're oversexed (or undersexed, or a deviate)." Or he'll find that you hate your mother, or your father, or your brother, also depending upon his mood. And for years you could have sworn that you loved your mother or your father or your brother.

I have several methods that I have found to be successful for confusing these amateur psychologists. You may want to use one of these plans.

The first method is to go off on a tangent the minute a psychology student asks you a question. For instance, if he asks if you've had any strange dreams, start talking about baseball scores, or the autopsy you watched, or the comparative philology of the neo-Spanish countries. Tell him about your grandmother who had a compulsive desire to kill psychologists and then ask him if this quality is inheritable.

Another method is to learn several of the symbols of psychological tests, and then exaggerate them to the point of absurdity.

In the draw-a-house test, I have learned that the chimney is the phallic symbol; i.e., if you draw a large chimney, then your mind is preoccupied with sex. If you draw a small chimney, then your mind is preoccupied with sex but you are afraid to express it. When I'm asked to draw a house, I draw nothing but an enormous chimney. And to go one step further, I personalize the chimney with my initial.

It is quite easy to confuse utterly the psychology student if he is giving you the Rorschach Test. Here you are to look at a series of inkblots and tell what you see. In this test, the interviewer has to write down every word you say or the test is of no value. So pick up the inkblot and then say very quickly, "This is a blue butterfly. No, I take that back, it's a pink butterfly with green spots. No, it's blue with brown spots. No, green! Think, with purple antennae. No, it's not a butterfly at all. It's a moth, brown, no, green. No, blue, with lavender spots and red antennae. . . ." After ten minutes of this rapid-fire mumblety-jumble, put the inkblot down, look him squarely in the eye, and say: "That's all."

This last method is one of the most effective. If, in the course of conversation, the psychology student asks: "Why did you say that?" get a wild expression on your face, cross your eyes, and say: "I don't know, I'm a hippopotamus."

With any of these methods you'll find that before long, amateur psychologists will avoid you completely. Your sanity will be safe, and you can slip back into the blissful, contented life of the happy, well-adjusted neurotic.

VIETNAM TEACHER TRAINING—Alfred J. Junz of the division of International Services visits a class in a demonstration school at an elementary teacher training college in Saigon. Here he congratulates a student after a reading demonstration.

Dean Junz Reports

SIU Training Is Successful In Its Viet Nam Operations

SIU's program to train teachers in South Viet Nam is advancing and is to date successful, according to Alfred J. Junz, assistant dean for operations in Southern's world education program.

Junz has just returned to campus after spending 15 days visiting the 13 members of SIU teams engaged in training Vietnamese elementary and vocational education teachers.

"Right now we are close to having the operation going as it was planned when Southern began its international program in 1961.

Junz said the educators sent to South Viet Nam by SIU under a contract with the U.S. Agency for International Development are both safe and comfortable.

He said team members are grateful because the government did order the withdrawal of their families. They did not want their wives and children to be subject to the smallest possible risk. Since families were taken out of the country, he continued, the educators have been sending home their household effects and are preparing to move into shared quarters.

All the educators are assigned to Saigon, the capital city, except three with temporary assignments — Fred Armistead of Harrisburg at Ban Me Thuot, Harold Richardson of Oswego, N.Y., at Vinh Long, and Donald Darnell of Akin, in Franklin County, at Qui Nhou.

Junz said of the vocational-technical complex at Phu To, suburb of Saigon; "It is there because SIU is there."

Junz said the complex still is being developed, both in installations and programming, as the institute turns out teachers of vocational education and trains others for work in industry. American instructors are being phased out of supervisory roles in woodworking, machine, and automotive shops, and Vietnamese supervisors are ready to move in. Ceramics soon will be added to the curriculum.

Vocational team members are the chief of party, Keith M. Humble of Carbondale, Alfred E. De Pietro, Johnston City native, Arthur G. Greer of Oswego, N.Y., Christ Kardas of La Grange, Lewis C. Runkle of Peoria, and Clifford F. Kaiser of California.

At Ban Me Thuot, Junz said, Armistead is a driving force behind development of the old school and the construction of a new school; in Saigon, Richard Le Fevre, former varsity tennis coach at Southern, has been instrumental in planning many sports activities previously impracticable in Viet Nam school situations.

At Vinh Long, he discussed with Richardson a textbook Richardson has written about use of audio-visual devices and instructional materials in the classroom; and at Saigon he saw the work of the chief of the elementary education party, Harold L. De Weese of Carbondale, Irwin Suloway of Oak Park, and Harold Perkins of Benton, who are carrying a burden of in-service and demonstration activities in the schools.

High School Officials Will Inquire Into Students' Transition at SIU

Students who have graduated from the high schools listed below are urged to contact their former principals and guidance counselors at 9 a.m. today in the Arena.

Representatives from these schools are on campus to confer with former students concerning methods of improving the transition from high school to college. These conferences are part of the High School-University Articulation meeting taking place today.

The names of the high schools follow:

- Altamont, Althoff Catholic, Anna-Jonesboro, Arcola, Belleville Township, Benton, Bloomington, Blue Mound, Bunker Hill, Cairo, Carbondale Community, Carrolton, Carlyle, Carmi Township, Carterville, Centralia, Century High (Ullin), Chester, Christopher, Cisne.

Herrin, Hillsboro, Hinsdale Township, Homewood-Flossmoor, Jersey High (Jerseyville).

3 Fined for Using Slugs in Phones

Three students who used copper slugs instead of coins in telephones and vending machines have been fined and suspended through the spring quarter.

The three are Gary Cruse, 18, a freshman from East Moline; Richard Owens, 19, a sophomore from East Moline; and William Wyatt, 18, a freshman from Decatur. They were arrested and fined $50 and $30 in court costs in Jackson County Circuit Court. They also were ordered to pay $21 each in restitution, according to a spokesman for the Student General Affairs Division.

Last Supper Theme Adapted by Group

Kappa Phi, Methodist women's service organization, will sponsor its annual "Meal in the Upper Room" at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Wesley Foundation.

The meal emphasizes the meaning of the Lenten season by putting the emphasis on the Last Supper. The meal is eaten in complete silence and consists of food similar to that eaten at the Last Supper.

Tickets, which must be purchased in advance, are available at the Wesley Foundation.

Soviets Buzz Airports

Tension in West Berlin Mounts, Worst Since 1963 Confrontation

By John Weyland

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet jets buzzed U.S. and French airports Tuesday and Communist East Germany again temporarily closed the autobahn in the second day of harassing tactics.

The situation in this isolated city has not been so tense since the Soviet-U.S. confrontation on the autobahn in 1963.

Soviet authorities clamped travel restrictions on the staff of the U.S. mission in Potsdam, limiting it to movement along certain roads in East Germany.

Arriving in Berlin, West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard told reports "We will not bow before terror."

While the United States, Britain and France withheld action beyond the usual protests, a State Department spokesman said in Washington the Allies are studying "appropriate measures to be taken" if harassment continues.

The shutdown of the autobahn and the buzzing are intended to show Communist displeasure because the West German Parliament is meeting in West Berlin Wednesday.

All traffic on the 110-mile autobahn was stopped for four hours and 35 minutes starting at 9 a.m. U.S. and Allied military vehicles made no attempt to get through to uphold the pledge to maintain free access to the divided city.

The United States, Britain and France, the Big Three powers with occupation rights in Berlin, did not go beyond protests. They imposed a near blackout on news and declined to explain their policy.

The autobahn trouble resembled the first closedown Monday, starting in the morning when traffic normally would be moving heavily, stopping in the early afternoon. But this time it lasted an hour more.

The five-day old deliberate slowdown continued after the autobahn was reopened. Processing and arbitrary searches by Communist police kept cars and trucks moving slowly past the checkpoints.

The East Germans had blocked the 110-mile lifeline highway to Berlin on the pretext that they and Soviet forces were maneuvering west of Berlin.

But officers of the East German border guard told occasional inquirers at the barrier that the blockade was political, imposed because the West German Parliament was to meet in West Berlin.

The Communist objective is to discourage any more Bundestag sessions in West Berlin, since these are regarded as bolstering West Germany's claim to the old Reich capital.

The session will be the first here in seven years. It was allowed by the Allies as an election year favor to Bonn.

West Berlin began to see the effects of the Communist interference with its lifeline. Wholesalers reported the supply of fresh vegetables has become short. Only three loads on Dutch trucks got in during the past 12 hours, compared with the normal arrival of 30 to 40 trucks a day.

West Berlin receives 40 per cent of its supplies from the outside by truck, 33 per cent by barges and 27 per cent by trains. Railway traffic still is running, but one of the main shipping canals was shut down at the start of the week for six hours. The other was closed for nine hours and has been subjected to intermittent harassment.

Some stores reported signs of hoarding.

The Berlin situation is the roughest since the fall of 1963, when the Soviets held up U.S. convoys moving along the autobahn in a dispute over inspection procedure. Soviet Premier Khrushchev gave in after long tense periods after the convoys refused to allow the inspections he demanded.

The U.S., British and French missions have avoided a test of free access this time. Five Allied vehicles were held up during the highway shutdown.

British Labor Government Plans Sweeping Tax Hikes

LONDON (AP) — Tax reforms and stiff new taxes affecting even the workingman's beer were announced Tuesday by Britain's Labor government.

They were designed to impress Britain's foreign creditors with the nation's sacrifices to get out of the red in world trade.

The taxes were announced in the annual budget presented by Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan in a 2-hour and 5-minute speech to the House of Commons.

Every segment of society will be affected. A beer in a pub will cost a penny more. A businessman will not be able to deduct any of his business entertainment from taxes, except when trying to sell British products to foreign buyers.

Callaghan also announced tax increases, effective Wednesday, on cigarettes, tobacco, wines, whisky and gin.

An income tax boost announced last fall also goes into effect this week.

The aim of these consumer taxes is to blot excess spending power out of the economy and reduce home demand, thus forcing British manufacturers to look for export orders.

Callaghan said the new taxes, combined with an already announced rise in postal rates and a cut in expenditure, would bring the government an extra $700 million this year.

The most spectacular cut in expenditure came with the dropping of the controversial TSR2, a low-level atomic bomber. Callaghan estimated the saving at $100 million in this fiscal year.

The background to the budget is last year's massive payments deficit of $2 billion. Half was created by Britons buying more goods abroad than they sold. The other half represented money sent abroad by British investors for foreign stocks and loans.

The gap had weakened confidence in the British pound. Foreign bankers and governments gave more than $4 billion in loans or credits to Britain to fight off attacks on its currency.

Debate Set Today

House Vote on Medicare Bill Expected Thursday or Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is set to begin debate today on health care for the aged and Social Security increases. A vote is expected Thursday or Friday.

The Rules Committee unlocked Tuesday the last gate for the legislation which, in one form or another, has been pushed for 10 years without ever before reaching the House floor.

The $6-billion package the House is finally taking up includes a health plan broadened considerably from President Johnson's original proposals, but enthusiastically adopted by him.

The bill would provide for all 19 million Americans over 65 a basic hospitalization right of 60 days plus 20 additional days in a nursing home, or other possible combination, with the patient paying the first $40.

A supplemental plan covering doctors' services and other medical benefits would be available for those elderly persons who wished it. It would cost $3 a month, with a matching federal subsidy, and would pay 80 per cent of the cost after the first $50.

The bill in addition would liberalize the present state-federal system of care for the needy and near-needy.

Relations Committee Seeks Aid Limitation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee called Tuesday for a cutoff of foreign aid to any country which "permits, or fails to take adequate measures to prevent the destruction by mob action of U.S. property."

American Jets Continue to Hit Suspected Viet Cong Positions

By Malcolm W. Browne
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. B57 jet bombers rained explosives on suspected Viet Cong positions in a bloody fight Tuesday at the heart of the Cau Mau peninsula. The shooting, which started Sunday, was reported still in progress at sundown.

Among heavy casualties on both sides, six Americans were dead or missing in the action near Vinh Loc, a region of rice fields and swampy jungles 130 miles southwest of Saigon.

U.S. officials said more than 12 Viet Cong were killed by a land, water and air assault of American-backed Viet Nam government forces.

Initial reports indicated the government forces suffered more than 60 casualties, including 16 dead.

The twin-engine B57 Canberras flew 16 strikes in support of the attack while other American planes made 32 strikes against guerrilla targets elsewhere in South Viet Nam.

There was no announcement of any further raids on Communist North Viet Nam in the bombing operations started two months ago.

Confirmed American dead in the Cau Mau fight were an Army officer who was adviser to a ranger battalion and a Navy officer who was adviser on a Vietnamese gunboat that hit a Viet Cong mine. The roll of American combat dead in Viet Nam since December 1961 rose to 323. Missing and believed dead were four U.S. Army helicopter crewmen. Viet Cong machine-gun fire exploded their helicopter in the air while they were trying to protect a downed Vietnamese fighter-bomber.

A second U.S. Army helicopter also was shot down, but all four crewmen were rescued. They were reported only slightly injured.

Abroad, diplomatic exchanges persisted. Britain threw its support behind a contention of the United States that the world faces in Viet Nam a new kind of aggression supported by communism. British Delegate C. Peter Hope told a New York meeting of a U.N. committee that North Viet Nam is carrying out aggression "in its most vicious and virulent form."

In Tokyo, Japan's government agreed to a Soviet proposal that it work for a peaceful solution. But it told the Soviet Union in response to a March 22 note from Moscow that Communist infiltration is the cause of the war. Radio Hanoi broadcast a declaration that Communist MIG fighters, instead of evading U.S. Navy raiders Saturday as reported in Saigon, surprised and "shor down a number of them." It said nothing about the clash Sunday, in which U.S. authorities reported the Soviet-built jets felled two U.S. Air Force F105s.

Junior Miller, adjutant general of Iowa, made an aerial survey Tuesday of the Fort Dodge, Cherokee, Marshalltown and Waterloo areas. The Little Sioux River at Cherokee reached an estimated 25.6 feet, nearly eight feet over flood stage, Tuesday morning.

Also on the rise were the Des Moines, Cedar, Iowa and Shellrock Rivers. Flooding hit several communities in southern Minnesota. At Hastings, some 25 miles southeast of Minneapolis-St. Paul, scores of families were evacuated from a 12-block area where the Vermillion River was over its banks.

Radio station KBEW in Blue Earth, Minn., was forced off the air by water that knocked out the tuning antenna. The Blue Earth River was dynamited to loosen ice jams. Near Austin, Minn., several families were evacuated after the Red Cedar River climbed a foot over flood stage.

In a wide area the flood threat was aggravated by rising temperatures. Northeast of Sidney, Mont., the swollen Yellowstone River was impeded by a huge ice jam. The river threatened to cut a new channel which would flood many farms on the water's race to the Missouri River on the North-Dakota-Montana border.

Thick snowpacks, melted by heavy rains, turned Tuesday into floodwaters that isolated towns and routed hundreds of families from farms and homes in Minnesota and Iowa.

At least 15 sections of 11 highways were closed by high water in various parts of Iowa. More than 60 National Guardsmen were on flood duty in Cherokee, where 30 families were evacuated and about 65 homes and business establishments stood in knee-deep water. Cherokee has a population of 8,500.

Some rivers in Iowa were at the highest levels on record. In Sioux Rapids, Iowa, flood waters reached city wells and contaminated the water supply.

Parks anywhere

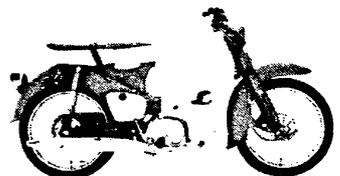

A Honda needs a mere 3'x6' space to be perfectly content. And that puts a spot, about a mile away from its destination.

There are other sides to Honda, too. Hondas are fiendishly frugal. A gallon of gas will carry you up to 200 mpg, depending on which of the 15 Honda models you're driving. And insurance bills shrink to practically nothing. As for upkeep, a Honda needs little.

The shining example above is the remarkable Honda 50. It sells for about $215*. And there are 14 more models to choose from. Look them over.

Professor to Talk At Food Seminar

William D. Gray, professor of botany, will be on the program of an aerospace food conference opening Tuesday in Denver.

The conference, which is the formal program for the 19th annual meeting of Research and Development Association, Inc., will be devoted to nutritional problems of space.

Gray will speak on "Fungi as a Potential Source of Animal Protein" as part of a panel on foods for bioregenerating systems. Other panel members are Dr. Sam Johnson, North American Aviation; Dr. Gilbert Levielle, U.S. Army Medical Research and Nutritional Laboratories, and Dr. Frieda Taub of the University of Washington.

Other topics to be discussed during the three-day conference include such things as "Microbiological Standards for Space Foods," "Technology of Space Foods," "Gemini Flight Food Qualification Testing," and "Menu Planning for Gemini Flight."

The keynote address will be given by Dr. Paul LaChance of the Crew Systems Division, NASA Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex.

Mailed in 48 Hours

Registrar Makes Short Work Of Quarterly Grade Reports

By Fred Beyer

Have you ever marveled at the speed, breakneck speed in many cases, in which the quarterly grade slips arrive at your home?

Actually, from the time that instructors turn in grades, it takes only 48 hours to get the 75,000 grades for the 14,000 students at the Carbondale campus sorted, recorded, computed and mailed, along with an address check card and a greeting from President Morris.

How is this process accomplished so quickly? The process starts when you first enroll for a course.

The instructors receive a sheet listing all the students enrolled for his course. The instructor makes sure this is accurate and then sends a copy of it to the Registrar's Office.

At midterm, the process is repeated to take care of any drops and to have everything ready for the moment of decision, the reporting of final grades.

As the quarter draws to a close, all instructors receive a final grade list which represents an accurate listing of the students enrolled.

Each instructor records each student's final grade on the list, signs the sheet and keeps a carbon copy for his records. He then submits the grades to the Registrar's Office within 48 hours after the final exam. The mail is not trusted for this mission; the grades must be brought to the registrar.

The Registrar's Office begins recording grades from the class sheets to the class cards, the same card you had to wait so long to get at the Sectioning Center.

The cards are then placed in bins, according to grades, and checked several times to see if the right cards are put into the right bins.

The grade cards then go to the Data Processing and Computing Center where they are punched according to the grade assigned.

After this, the cards are fed into the computers and recorded on magnetic tape.

From this tape, the information is sorted to another magnetic tape where all 14,000 students are arranged alphabetically and all their 75,000 course grades are recorded. All this information is merged with the person's authorization card, containing such information as college, sex, etc., as well as being merged with each student's previous record.

This complicated process, which used to take five hours, now takes only 50 minutes on Data Processing's 7040 computer.

After accomplishing this feat, the machine then computes each student's average for the quarter as well as their over-all average and figures student's academic statuses as well as printing six copies of the results and posting the results on each student's transcript.

All of this information is then sent to the Registrar's Office where one copy of the grades, the greeting from President Morris, and an address verification card are sent to each student, or to his parents if the student is under 21 — and the machine has even printed the appropriate mailing label!

Junior Suspended For Keeping Car

A junior from Mount Carroll has been suspended through the spring quarter on a second offense for possessing an unauthorized car.

Jerry Ashby, 22, had been assessed $50 for keeping a car without authorization during the 1963-64 school year, according to a spokesman for the Student General Affairs Division.

While the Registrar's Office is stuffing envelopes, the machine is busy printing up a list of all probationary and dropped students for the quarter.

How often does the process goof? Not very often, and usually the fault is a human one although occasionally one of the machines will hide a card in its system without recording it.

However, to safeguard against errors, instructors are sent a sheet showing what grade has been recorded for each of their charges and he checks this with his original list.

However, Herbert W. Wohlwend, assistant registrar, said there were only 25 errors last fall quarter, and considering that over 70,000 individual grades are handled, that's not bad.

Class Schedule Is Now Available

Students may now obtain copies of the Schedule of Classes for this summer and fall through spring, 1965-66, according to Earl E. Parkhill, coordinator of Central Publications.

The Schedule of Classes is free and may be obtained from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Central Publications, 113 E. Grand Ave.

Phelps Paces Victors

Southeast Missouri Falls To SIU Golfers by 19-3 Score

The SIU golf team upped their season record to 5-2 by defeating Southeast Missouri State 19-3 Monday.

The veteran-loaded squad was paced by John Phelps as he shot a par 72 easily defeating Tom Spitzmiller of Cape Girardeau, who turned in a nine over par 81.

Teammates Bill Muehleman

and Mike Coale finished close behind Phelps as both shot a one over par 73. Muehleman finished two strokes ahead of his opponent Dick Washington while Coale finished 10 strokes up on his opponent, Ted Smalley.

John Krueger, Jerry Kirby, Leon McNair and Tom Muehleman also won their matches as Southern defeated the Indians in every match.

SIU Tennis Match Halted by Rain

Rain washed out the SIU tennis squad's scheduled meet with St. Louis University at St. Louis Monday. It marked the third straight time the Salukis have been stopped by the weather man.

On Saturday shoppers caused cancellation of the team's home opener with DePauw. The final match of the spring tour, when the Salukis were to meet Wichita State, also was rained out.

The team's next meet is April 17 against Wichita State at the University courts.

Footballers to Get Physical Exams

All football players who have been given permission by Coach Don Shroyer to participate in spring drills are reminded that they must get their physical examination this week at the Health Service.

Football equipment will be issued to all players at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Arena. All players must take the physical examination before they are allowed to take the equipment out.

Following the checking out of equipment there will be a short meeting.

Jobs Are Available At Little Grassy

Camp directors at SIU's Little Grassy Facilities are hopeful that a streak of spring weather will turn some male students' fancies to thoughts of summer work.

In a reverse of the campus population ration, about twice as many women as men have applied for student jobs at the camps for this summer. Facilities Coordinator William Price said that of some 95 work positions available, more than half should be filled by males.

As a result, interviews will be reopened this week, from 2 to 5 p.m., at the Arena, Room 118M. Special qualifications are required in only a few jobs, but all applicants should have a desire to work with children. Pay ranges from $91.80 for three weeks to $315 for seven weeks, including bed and board.

Lake Will Open For Recreation

Crab Orchard Lake will be open this spring for recreation purposes, ArchMehrhoff, project manager of Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge, said.

In January, it was observed that the Carterville sewage treatment facility was discharging waste matter into the lake and that use of the lake for recreation purposes might have to be forbidden.

According to Mehrihoff, the sewage facilities discharging into the lake are being inspected every other week to see that these discharges are properly treated and the only possible source of pollution now is from drainage ditches which empty into the lake.

Mehrhoff also said that starting next year, admission will probably be charged at the Crab Orchard recreation areas as authorized by the Land and Water Conservation Act.

Salukis Play Illinois College On Baseball Field Thursday

Rained out in its initial try at launching its 26-game season, SIU's baseball team will try again Thursday afternoon.

Illinois College of Jacksonville will provide the opposition in a 2:30 contest at the new baseball field south of the Arena.

The game will be the opener for both teams, although the Salukis played six games on their annual spring trip. Coach Glenn (Abe) Martin's veteran club won 2 and lost 4 on the tour.

The Salukis were to open Saturday against Memphis State University but spring showers cancelled the scheduled doubleheader.

Martin plans to use about the same lineup Thursday that he had planned to use Saturday

Tiger Seeking Change in Class

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger, the former world middleweight boxing champion, is tired of waiting for Joey Giardello to give him a return bout so he is ready to move up to the light heavyweight class.

Tiger has picked Wayne Thornton as the ranking 175-pounder he would like to fight en route to a title match with Jose Torres, the new champion. The Beringian probably would have to give away 10 pounds or more to Thornton but he is willing to take his chance.

Use Tennis Shoes, Players Asked

Carl Sexton, SIU tennis coach, has asked that students wear only regulation tennis shoes while playing on the tennis courts.

Sexton explained that the regulation basketball or gym shoe will damage the courts.

He described a tennis shoe as one having a smooth sole. All tennis shoes are low-cut, he added.

Students were also cautioned not to damage the green windbreakers on the fences by hitting the ball into them.

with Gene Vincent, sophomore from Rockport, Ind., scheduled to pitch.

The Illinois College Blueboys have six lettermen returning from last year. Topping those returning will be shortstop Bob Jenkins of Waukegan, who was the team's third leading hitter a year ago with a .340 average.

Also expected to figure prominently in the Blueboys plans is Jim Downer, a junior from Springfield, who hit .382 last season while leading the squad in doubles.

Fans Conceived 'Go' Banquet Idea During Tournament in Evansville

At 7 p.m. Thursday when SIU's national college division runner-up basketball team is honored at a "Go-Go" banquet in the University Center, it won't have been by accident.

A group of Saluki boosters, who just refer to themselves as loyal fans, have worked diligently to make it a success. They conceived the idea during the regional tournament at Evansville, although some way of honoring the team had been in their minds for weeks. When they came up with the idea of the banquet they did a little investigating. They contacted SIU basketball Coach Jack Hartman, who readily thought the idea a fine one. SIU's sports information director Fred A. Huff agreed.

So the group swung into action. What they have lined up appears to be a fitting tribute to the team which came within two shots of being the best of 375 college division teams in the nation.

The group knew they needed a drawing card in someone besides the honored guests, the Salukis. So they set out to get one. They appear to have succeeded, as the principal speaker will be one of St. Louis's most controversial sports figures, John Bennington, basketball coach and athletic director at St. Louis University.

Bennington knows his basketball. He's won 139 games and lost 98 games during his nine year coaching career. He's also familiar with the SIU sports situation.

In fact, he isn't a bit reluctant about coming to Southern Illinois for his material. "Old Dad," as he's affectionately referred to, likes the players that the area high schools turn out.

But Bennington is more than a basketball coach. He is quite an after dinner speaker. Last week he spoke at a basketball feast at Wichita, Missouri Valley Conference champion.

About the Wichita affair Bennington said, "I couldn't figure out why they invited me unless they wanted to rub it in." Bennington's Billikens lost twice to the Shockers during the season.

About a dozen of Southern Illinois' best prep basketball players and their parents have also been invited and the Marion and Carbondale high school basketball teams, as well as SIU's contribution to professional basketball, Charlie Vaughn of the St. Louis Hawks.

John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs, will be the master of ceremonies. President Delyte W. Morris and his wife are expected to be present.

Banquet chairman James B. Biggs said 1,000 people can be accommodated in the University Center Ballroom. Although the ticket sales are running a little behind expectations, Biggs expects a good crowd.

A ticket spokesman said Tuesday that the deadline for students to purchase tickets has been extended until noon Thursday. He added that every effort is being made to get the students out to the banquet.

The tickets are on sale at the information desk of the University Center. They are $2.50 each. Biggs said members of the community are subsidizing the amount so that more students can attend.

Time Will Tell

Sandy's Arm Okay? Dodgers Grin, Worry

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pitching star Sandy Koufax awaited a joyful welcome back late Tuesday to Los Angeles Dodger bosoms, but with Koufax' return also comes speculation and apprehension.

Does his return to training camp mean the arthritic condition of his million-dollar left elbow has suddenly begun clearing up, or was it not as serious as it looked at first?

Only time will tell, team spokesmen say. "We'll just have to play it by ear all the way," said Dodger Vice President Red Patterson Monday on hearing of southpaw Koufax' medical release.

Brownell Dies; Author, Set Up Area Services

Baker Brownell, 78, philosopher, author, and creator of the SIU Division of Area Services, died Monday at his retirement home in Fairhope, Ala. He was a native of St. Charles, Ill.

A telegram to University officials from his widow said there would be no funeral services. After cremation the ashes will be shipped to St. Charles Cemetery for burial.

Brownell came to SIU in 1952 after a distinguished and sometimes stormy career as a philosopher with a bent towards sociology. Here his contributions included exposition of the philosophy that a university and its resources were servants of the people, which led to creation of the Division of Area Services. From his belief that a community could benefit from a self-study of resources and shortcomings, the University's Department of Community Development was born.

The Thompson Point Residence Halls complex, home on campus for more than 2,000 undergraduates, exemplifies his belief that young men and women away from home for the first time should have a strong central attachment.

Brownell's book "The Other Illinois," was started while he was in residence here and completed in 1958, after his retirement. Other books from his pen included "The Human Community," "The Philosopher in Chaos," and "The College and the Community."

Brownell studied at Northwestern University, Harvard University, Tuebingen University in Germany and Cambridge University in England.

Brownell served on the faculties of the University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

Educational TV Bill Introduced

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An education television program of $3 million was proposed Tuesday in a bill filed by Rep. Charles W. Clabaugh, R-Champaign, chairman of the Illinois School Problems Commission.

The funds would be sufficient to begin a program for a statewide system by providing for a $1 million station in the Springfield area and continued operation of stations in Chicago, Urbana and Carbondale.

The team's orthopedic specialist, Dr. Robert Kerlan, said the swelling of Koufax' left elbow had sufficiently reduced for him to resume training, several days before anyone had hoped he could.

Kerlan offered no elaboration of the announcement.

General Manager E.J. (Buzzy) Bavasi said Koufax would continue medication treatments to his own elbow under Kerlan's directions, and added:

"Sandy will be permitted to set his own pace on conditioning himself and will not be asked to pitch until he says he's ready to do so, and only as often as he says he's ready."

Koufax' elbow became stiff and swollen Thursday at Dodgertown and he returned to Los Angeles the next day for treatment. Kerlan diagnosed the trouble as "a traumatic arthritic condition of the left elbow which tends to flare up under repeated stress."

That diagnosis is what creates the speculation attendant upon Koufax' return. A few days of repeated stress may answer the question whether the condition is chronic—thus possibly spelling an end to Koufax' brilliant hurling career — or whether the present treatment will be sufficient to control the condition.

SIU Senior to Visit Tunisia As Farm Exchange Delegate

H. James Tucker, a senior in the School of Agriculture, has been selected as an International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate to Tunisia.

The Streater, III., student will be one of eight students from Illinois, and of over 80 from the United States, who will work in various countries this summer establishing and developing rural youth groups. Projects such as poultry-raising and gardening will be some of Tucker's main concerns while working with these young people.

As Tucker will be visiting a primarily French-speaking country, he has been trying to increase his French vocabulary. "With my ability," Tucker quipped, "I hope there will be plenty English-speaking people there — or I'll probably starve."

The IFYE is a people-to-people program in which co-operating countries exchange delegates who live with rural families in the countries they visit. Privately financed, the program draws donations from individual 4-H organizations, community service organizations, companies and corporations.

Since its inception in 1948, 67 countries have participated in the exchange of over 1,500 delegates, 76 of whom have come from Illinois. During this period, some 2,000 exchange people have visited the United States.

Auto Club Rallye Set for April 11

The Grand Touring Auto Club is planning a gimmick rallye Sunday afternoon, beginning at Epps Motor Co., Route 13, east of Carbondale. A meeting of drivers is scheduled for 12:30 p.m., with the first car to begin at 1:01 p.m. Registration will open at noon.

The rallye will be over relatively good roads, Jack F. Erwin, rallyemaster, said.

A gimmick rallye, in addition to featuring travel over a predetermined course at designated average speeds, includes a variety of gimmicks. Erwin said these may be anything from counting mailboxes to treasure hunts. He declined, however, to disclose what he had planned for his rallye.

The Grand Touring Auto Club stages monthly events in and around Carbondale, including rallyes, gymkhanas, and autocrosses. Meetings are held the first Thursday night of the month at Epps Motor Co.

Sanders Strong, Palmer Asserts

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A keyed-up Arnold Palmer named Doug Sanders Tuesday as the most formidable of a fearsome foursome threatening to keep him from a fifth Masters golf championship.

"Doug is putting so well now and is so full of confidence you have to rate him right at the top this week," the sports' most prosperous tournament player added.

"Then you have Jack Nicklaus, of course, and Bill Casper and Tony Lema. Personally, I think they'll be very tough."

Palmer assessed the star-spangled international field and his own chances as most of the 93 competitors played their last serious practice rounds over Augusta National's 6,980-yard, par 72 not-so-jolly green giant.
