General Telephone Co. Unions Continue Working Without Contract

The General Telephone Co. of Illinois and its union employes may be working "on a day-to-day basis" if contract terms are not agreed upon by Wednesday, according to a company spokesman.

The three-year contract between the union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and General Telephone, expired on Nov. 7. A 30-day "grace" period for negotiations will end Wednesday. Negotiations are being conducted between company officers and representatives for all local unions affected in the state.

James Evans of General Telephone's public relations division said a federal mediator asked the two parties to continue working on their present basis until local union chapter meetings can be held.

Evans said both parties agreed not to take any further action until local meetings are held and representatives of the union and General Telephone officers can hold at least one more meeting.

Evans said it is hoped that meetings of all the locals can be concluded before the deadline Wednesday. The parties have been meeting since early October and have held meetings, Evans said.

SIU Wants to Be Heard on Autonomy

Sue Freeberg Elected Queen Of Yule Fete

Susan Freeberg will reign over remaining Season of Holidays festivities through Thursday.

Miss Freeberg, a sophomore from Carbondale majoring in special education, was crowned Miss Season of Holidays at the holiday dance Saturday night in the University Center Ballrooms.

She topped seven other candidates in the campus election Friday. Miss Freeberg was sponsored by Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Remaining events in the Season of Holidays celebration include the Madrigal Singers, who will carol in the Roman Room of the University Center beginning 5:30 p.m. today.

At 7 p.m. students are invited to a carolling party which will begin at the Center.

MISS SEASON OF HOLIDAYS—Susan Freeberg, center, will reign as Miss Season of Holidays through Thursday. Miss Freeberg was chosen at the holiday dance Saturday night. Among members of her court were Paulette Berry (left) and Brenda Loverkamp.

Morris Reports On State Plan

President Delyte W. Morris hopes the Illinois Board of Higher Education will give SIU and its faculty a chance to voice an opinion on the proposed autonomy of separate campuses.

Morris gave a report on the proposal, contained in Phase II of the state Master Plan, to the semiannual University Faculty meeting at the Arena Saturday.

The president said the next few weeks will be critical in the development of the board's plan, according to a Morris aid.

The envisioned Master Plan calls for five statewide systems of higher education, among which are the SIU system and the University of Illinois system. Within each system individual campuses are to attain autonomy with their own presidents. A chancellor would be named to deal with independent campuses in policy matters, but not day-to-day administration.

The proposal was made by the staff of the state board, to be presented to the board itself. The board met Monday in Chicago to hear that plan and consider budget requests.

To present its case, however, SIU had several administrators attending the meeting. Morris himself was attending a meeting in Washington Monday but he was reported en route to Chicago in the evening.

"President Morris discussed the problem with positive viewpoints (at the faculty meeting)," the aid said. Morris's position, according to the aid, was that SIU is confronted with a proposal and "we do have to consider it."

Term Paper Ends In Blazing Finale

A student's end-of-the-term efforts were hampered Monday when his term paper and textbooks were destroyed in a fire at College View Dormitory.

The fire, which was confined to one room at the dormitory, started in a mattress, according to Don Hicks, resident counselor.

Damage was slight and no one was injured, Hicks said.

A spokesman for the Morris Library said the student would not have to pay for the damaged library books if he brought in the charred remains as evidence.

It is not known what can be done about the lost term paper.

General Studies Changes Meet Road Block; Faculty Send Area D Back to Committee

A change sought in the General Studies program met with a road block at the University Faculty meeting Saturday.

Of the two items on the agenda, one on modifying Area D was outrightly sent back to the General Studies Committee, and the other on Area C was deferred for a mail vote later.

The whole question involves the new approach of the University to reduce the number of hours in General Studies. Last March the University Faculty, the body that has the responsibility of determining curricula, decided to reduce the number of hours from 96 to 84.

This involved reducing, in turn, the number of hours in each area. Many three-hour sequences were to be made four-hour courses; two four-hour courses were to replace three three-hour courses.

Although there was no disagreement on Areas A and B, there arose a problem involving Area C while adjusting specific courses to the four-hour format. When some departments said they could not change the three-hour format, the committee proposed to retain the three-hour format for one level (freshman or sophomore) and just adjust the other to come out seven hours, so the total hours will equal the four-hour plan.

This, the faculty meeting Saturday felt, should be asked the entire faculty by mail. The meeting is attended by a small fraction of the faculty.

On Area D, the March meeting left the four-hour format unanswered. The question at the time was more drastic: whether to drop foreign languages and mathematics entirely from General Studies. The vote was for retaining them but didn't say D was also to follow the four-hour format.

The Saturday decision to send the entire question on D back to the committee leaves it in an extremely ambiguous position. Will the fundamental question of retaining the disputed courses be asked again? Or will it be adjusting the hours?

The General Studies Committee wanted to put another drastic proposal before the faculty in March: Drop the entire Area E (physical and health education). Although it was the committee's idea, the question never was put to a vote. Before it reached the faculty meeting it was dropped from the agenda.

The modification proposal needs quick action, because the new curricula should be included in the new University bulletin. The plan is to go into effect in fall, 1967.

Computer Will Soon Automate Faculty-Staff Payroll Methods

The faculty and staff payroll will soon be processed by computer, the central payroll office has announced.

"Processing the faculty and staff payroll is now basically a tab card operation which involves a lot of clerical work," said Hugh A. Blaney, an accountant at the central payroll office.

"We are attempting, via the computer, to keep an up-to-date monthly budget," Blaney said.

The computers will also make it practical to build a more complete history of employes, Blaney said, with such information as veteran status and academic ranks and degrees.

"We are now involved in collecting this data from the over 3,000 employes on the faculty and staff payroll, he said, "and the changeover will probably not take place until after Jan. 1."

The computers will necessitate some procedural changes in processing the payroll, according to Blaney. But the changes will not affect the pay schedule of most employes, he added.

"Some employes may be affected, but just which ones these will be, we aren't certain yet," Blaney said.

Gus Bode

Gus says even if the telephone workers do walk out it'll be a week before we know whether it's a strike or a busy operator.

Students Write Santa

Draft Deferral, Good Grades Head List of Yule Requests

By Lloyd Pletsch

"And what would you like for Christmas, little SIU student?"

"Well Santa, I could sure use a five point if you could swing it."

Good grades seem to head the list of things that students would like to receive this year. This seems to be a good indication of the anxiety that always grows as finals draw near, closely followed by Christmas vacation.

After this bit of wishful thinking on the part of the students, most of them found a few other things to add in their letters to Santa. These other articles ranged everywhere from a Selective Service card stamped 2-S, to good old money.

Many times the presents the students really want, and the presents they think they will get, differ considerably.

Judith A. Gjermo, said, "I'd like to get a horse. I've always wanted a horse." She said that she would probably get clothes instead.

This was also the case of Michel J. Schneider, graduate student, who said, "I'd like an Austin Healey, but I don't think I'll find one in my stocking."

Dennis Falcon freshman, said, "I can envision a new cycle complete with a sticker under the tree. I still have some hope."

"I've got the cycle but I hope I get a helmet so I don't freeze to death this winter," said Anthony J. Bonanno, who was also present at the time.

Other students had gifts in mind that were along the sporting line. They were looking forward to the chance of doing some skiing or perhaps a little hunting. Robert A.

Eisen, senior, said, "I want a new automatic shotgun and a hunting dog that doesn't run around in circles like mine does."

Most of the students expect the usual gifts of clothes and other articles of that sort. These are things they need or want and have more or less picked out themselves.

This does not hold true in all instances.

"I'd rather be surprised," said Sarmite D. Telle, senior.

"It's not like Christmas if you know what your going to get. I'd rather have people give me what they want instead of something I picked out."

Everyone interviewed seemed to be looking forward to the biggest present of all, a vacation and a chance to relax. This gift from SIU was welcomed by instructors as well as students.

One fellow, who asked to remain anonymous and appeared to have been celebrating the holidays already, said, "I want an end to all sickness in the world because I don't feel very well now."

LARRY KRISTOFF

Larry Kristoff Nominee for Sullivan Prize

Former SIU wrestler Larry Kristoff has been nominated by the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States for that organization's James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy which is presented to the "amateur athlete who, by performance, example and good influence, did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

Kristoff, a native of Chicago, won several national honors while wrestling at SIU.

Among them were the national championship in the college division of the NCAA and runner-up to Jim Nance of Syracuse in the university division of the NCAA championships. Kristoff lost to Nance 2-1 in the finals.

Kristoff also won the national AAU championship in 1964, his senior year at Southern and an international crown in Tokyo in 1963.

Since his graduation he has won a bronze medal in the World Freestyle Championships in 1965 and been a member of both the World Games Team and the 1964 Olympic Team.

Some of the past winners of the award are Don Cornelius Warmerdam, Felix "Doc" Blanchard, Bob Mathias and Bob Richards.

Swimmers Defeat Iowa State, Take First in 8 of 12 Events

The SIU swim team gave Coach Ray Essick a 59-45 victory over Iowa State in Essick's first dual meet as head coach of the Salukis.

SIU captured eight first places out of 12. The Saluki swimmers added five second place finishes, five thirds and two fourth places.

No individual performances were especially outstanding in this meet, according to Essick, but the coach was well pleased with the work of Rich Evertz and Reinhard Westender.

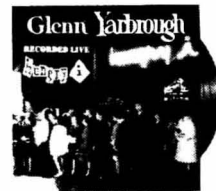

First places were won by Kimo Miles in the 1,000-yard freestyle and the 200-yard butterfly, Scott Conkel in the 200-yard freestyle, Ed Mossotti in the 100-yard freestyle and the 50-yard freestyle, Don Shaffer in the 200-yard individual medley and Gerry Pearson in the 200-yard breaststroke. The Saluki 400-yard medley relay team of Shaffer, Pearson, Mossotti and Mike Miles also took a first place.

Prison Plan Shows Merit of Program

President Johnson announced last week a major reorganization of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, with emphasis placed mainly on rehabilitation.

An important part of the rehabilitation will be "work-release" programs which were begun in 1965.

Under these programs more than 1,400 prisoners held day-time jobs or attended school and returned to prison at night. Only 5 per cent were taken off the program any reason other than discharge from prison.

Undoubtedly a major reason for the reorganization was an affirmative report on the work-release program given to Johnson by acting Attorney General Ramsey Clark and Myrl E. Alexander, director of the Bureau of Prisons.

Alexander is a former director of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections at SIU. He still ranks as an adjunct professor in the Department of Sociology.

The success of his programs and his position as director of the Bureau of Prisons is an impressive vote of confidence for the area services and other non-academic divisions of the University.

Alexander certainly developed part of his programs and theories while working at SIU. This fact adds to the prestige Southern will garner through the President's announcement.

Successes such as this point up vividly the merit of such SIU programs and add to the belief that they should be continued. We agree.

Propaganda Not Role For Teaching to Take

To the Editor:

In his letter in the Daily Egyptian Dec. 1, Peter C. Olson decries the low state to which religion courses have come within the public university and asks for courses "in primary religious content and theology" (which he leaves undefined). Aside from such flaws in his letter as his confusion between the "free exercise" and "establishment" portions of the First Amendment, some comment is required.

If, as Mr. Olson says, separation of church and state means that neither has the legal authority to interfere with and control the other, how can religion demand to be given a voice for its content within the curriculum of the public university?

How does Mr. Olson propose to have the university offer courses of the sort he suggests without the university's sanction being given to what is taught in those courses? (He said "no state university can ever give its sanction to any kind of religious orthodoxy.") Certainly many people might feel such sanction was being given.

Mr. Olson wishes "specifically religious exposure." What does this mean? If it means an examination of the way in which religions have approached the "truth" as they see it, then it is basically not different from the courses in history of religion of which Mr. Olson talks. If it is more, it is propaganda.

In the study of political science, we may teach about how propaganda is developed and disseminated. It is not our place to teach propagandistic courses.

The same distinction holds in the area of religion, with even greater force because of constitutional provisions and Supreme Court decisions which Mr. Olson seems to understand only vaguely.

The University is not forbidding the student to expose himself to religion, and in fact facilitates this, e.g., through the upcoming religious emphasis week and through encouragement of off-campus religious foundations. It seems to me that is enough.

New Assassination Theory

Six Crossbowmen Shot an Arrow...

By Arthur Hoppe
(San Francisco Chronicle)

The theory that the late President Kennedy was actually shot by six medieval crossbowmen in a gas-filled balloon was first advanced by a free-lance journalist and service station attendant, Mr. Homer T. Pettibone.

His book, "Behind the Inside Report on the Exclusive Disclosures Exposing the Warren Commission," was an instant bestseller.

Appearing on Meet the Press, Mr. Pettibone explained that his work was the result of three years solid research 18 hours a day.

"I have," he said proudly, "read every single book that exposes the Warren Commission and advances a new theory. All 378 of them. "The purpose of my book," he said with dignity, "is to exonerate the innocent, persecute the guilty, resolve history and make a million dollars."

On his wildly successful nationwide lecture tour, Mr. Pettibone displayed a huge blowup of frame 247 of a fuzzy home movie which clearly showed a gas-filled balloon in the sky. Either that or a water spot on the film.

He then went into a complex analysis of vectors, demonstrating that the deed could only have been performed by a medieval crossbow that shot around corners.

"As proof," he would say triumphantly, "let me point out that no crossbow arrow was found at the scene. Indeed, six crossbow arrows were never recovered! And due to the average loading and firing time of the average medieval crossbow—27.2 seconds—this obviously means that it would require six medieval crossbowmen to fire all six unrecovered arrows."

Critics hailed Mr. Pettibone's theory for "its freshness and originality." Experts agreed that it was "consistent with the known facts." The public liked its simplicity and aficionadas its mystery. So it was universally accepted and the nation slept easier knowing how the deed was done.

But Mr. Pettibone had made only half a million dollars.

So he wrote a second book, "The Return of Behind the Inside... Etcetera." In this he produced a deposition from a fifth cousin twice removed that Officer Ruby had once expressed an interest in medieval crossbows while Jack Tippitt had seen "Richard, the Lion-Hearted," (a movie in which crossbows were extensively employed) in a theater only 13.7 miles from the home of Oswald Lee Harvey.

From there, Mr. Pettibone went on to prove conclusively the existence of a conspiracy involving the Right Wing, the FBI, the Left Wing, the Secret Service, all news media, Congress and Troop 102, Boy Scouts of America. Its undeniable purpose: the takeover of the nation by medieval crossbowmen!

Unfortunately, the public had turned its attention to a child star who had died from a mysterious overdose of sleeping pills, and nothing much was done to ban crossbows.

"Good heavens!" cried Mr. Pettibone. "The whole nation's in this conspiracy." Unable to face this horrible fact, he shot himself with a crossbow. A Coroner's Jury hastily ruled his death a suicide. A friend later wrote a book proving definitely it was a suicide. The book didn't sell.

Oklahoma Oil Profits State Land

By Katherine Hatch
Copley News Service

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — What may be the most photographed oil derricks in the nation are still pumping today, 30 years after the first one was drilled on the Oklahoma state capitol grounds.

It took a publicity-minded governor bent on a U.S. Senate campaign and the National Guard to get the first crews onto stateowned property, and the first and only working oil wells onto a state capitol's grounds.

Since 1935, when leases were sold, the state of Oklahoma has earned nearly $8 million in revenue from its one-fourth interest in the wells.

The capitol itself is not extraordinarily impressive, lacking even a dome.

But most tourists don't seem to notice the domesless building, aiming their cameras instead on the oil wells that really are pumping.

In 1928, the British American Petroleum Co. hit oil with a well drilled about two blocks east of the present governor's mansion, adjacent to the capitol.

This had followed the "discovery field" in the southeast portion of the city — the field which first showed there was oil in the area.

City authorities, fearing damage and accidents if drilling were pursued within the city limits, ordered a ban on all further development of the field within the city unless residents of the affected neighborhood approved the drilling.

In 1935, the State Legislature said firms could look for oil on state-owned property, setting the stage for widespread drilling which followed.

Gov. F. W. Marland, a successful businessman in his own right, gave the go-ahead after residents of the capitol area overwhelmingly approved development of the oil field.

But Marland, knowing the city forbade such operations, ordered the National Guard to protect the first drillers.

Total revenue as of June 30, 1966, was $7,956,315.

'Loco Parentis' Allows Board to Set Rules

By Laurel Werth

"In loco parentis" simply means in the place of the parent, and is a term used to describe a person or institution given familial authority over a person temporarily or permanently without a natural parent."

This description of in loco parentis is contained in the beginning of a nine-page report on the theory, prepared by C. Richard Gruny, legal counsel for SIU.

The report deals with eight areas in which the concept is in effect and describes the use and the courts' attitude towards the theory in various cases.

The introduction of the report states, "A student's right to be protected from other students or third parties is coupled with a duty to conform to regulations for his own restraint and protection."

This, a common law doctrine, places the responsibility on both parties of a University "family."

The University, as a guardian, has the responsibility to see that students receive the protection that would be accorded by the head of his family and that the student has the responsibility to abide by the rules and regulations set forth by the administration as he would those made by his mother or father.

The depth of the legal effectiveness of this theory is brought forth by the outcome of a case in which a Stetson University coed was suspended for, "offensive habits that interfere with the comforts of others."

The girl had been found guilty of general disorderly conduct in her dormitory. The court ruled that the teacher, "stands for the time being in loco parentis" and upheld the suspension.

The section of the report that deals with the "Personal Rights of Students; No Limitation," brings forth a guide that generally seems to be one that courts follow in determining the legality of a university's actions in regards to in loco parentis.

The courts ask the question whether the administrative action "reasonably tended to maintain good order and discipline on the campus and promote the necessary tone and standards of behavior of an educational institution."

The essence of this section is that a student, upon joining a University body, becomes part of a family of students. By doing so, he becomes responsible to the university and must now abide by those regulations even though he did not have to before becoming a student.

In court cases in which this was tried, the judge upheld the administration's decision on the basis of the above-mentioned guide.

An area in which there seems to be much student interest is that of double jeopardy, in which a student may be disciplined by local courts and also the University for an act that violated local and University regulations.

Gruny's report states that the double jeopardy contention overlooks the basic principle of university disciplinary proceedings.

It again states that regulations are for the protection of the scholarly community and if a student is convicted by a local court for violating certain regulations and also disciplined by the university, it is no more than a coincidence.

This is so because the regulation the student violated could in effect be regulations of both governing bodies.

The contention that such a situation constitutes double jeopardy is refuted by the fact that if an attorney, who was convicted of stealing the funds of his client and disciplined by the courts, could again be disciplined by being disbarred.

The report, in defining double jeopardy, uses this parallel to further explain cases that appear to be those in which a person is disciplined twice for the same offense.

Another section in the report deals with married students and students who have reached the legal age of 21.

Persons in this category, the report states, are just as much subject to discipline as the other persons in the University because, again, it is the responsibility of an educational center to provide welfare and protect its family.

Another area in which there is high student interest is the one dealing with off-campus housing.

Gruny states that when a student is not living at home and the in loco parentis theory is in effect, a university may require all undergraduates, married or single, to reside in University owned housing.

The in loco parentis concept may also make it possible for a university to prevent students from living in privately owned housing, previously approved as a living center by that University, the report says.

In a court case cited by Gruny, interference of private enterprise was rejected as a limitation on regulatory power of administrations in such cases.

Whether or not a person feels the in loco parentis concept violates constitutional rights, a university in many cases has no choice but to regulate the university body because courts feel that administrations have a duty to protect students.

The report cites cases in which a university has been held liable when students have become injured etc., because regulations that would have prevented the incidents were not enforced.

In Wisconsin, a case involving this basis for liability arose when it was claimed that guidance counseling was lax in failing to see the suicidal tendencies in student who ultimately killed himself.

The case was dismissed due to failure of legal wording on the part of the plaintiff, but the report states that the court could easily have ruled that if guidance is undertaken, an adequate job must be done, and found the University liable.

The report finishes by saying, "regardless of liability, the General Assembly has dictated that 'the Board shall have the power and it shall be its duty: (1) to make rules, regulations and by-laws, not inconsistent with law, for the government and management of Southern Illinois University.' The General Assembly has not, and the courts will not, dictate in what manner within reason the Board shall regulate, but both agree upon the duty of the Board to have regulations."

Christmas Gift Suggestion: Don't Give Guns

By Paul Simon
(Editor's Service)

This is a Christmas gift suggestion list with which some of my readers will disagree—and it's a Christmas suggestion list somewhat different than most you will read:

1. Don't buy your boy a toy gun.

A leading American newsmen says American boys are "being prepared for careers in manslaughter just as young American females are prepared for careers in motherhood" when they get dolls. Among the toys available is a toy bear which "screams in pain and runs frantically around" when hit by a toy gun. Experts in child psychology do not recommend toy guns. Buy him a football, a baseball, or a bowling game—not toy guns.

2. Don't buy your boy a BB gun.

Many believe they are a greater danger to the eyes than fireworks. A survey of 400 Illinois doctors showed 139 cases of eye injuries caused by BB guns.

3. Don't buy your teen-ager a real gun.

Between 1955 and 1960 the number of young people arrested for carrying guns rose 45 per cent. The simple statistical fact is that this increasing use of firearms by young people has resulted in an increasing loss of life—some by accidents and some by murder, the murder rarely promoted.

4. Don't buy a gun to protect yourself in your home.

If you buy a gun for your home to protect yourself and your family, the odds are overwhelming that if the gun is used it will be used to hurt or kill someone within your family, rather than to hold off would-be burglars or attackers. Your children or grandchildren are rummaging around in your home and suddenly discover where you have hidden the gun. They decide to play with it—and you know the rest of the tragic story.

If these four points seem unimportant to you, I suggest you get a book I am now reading, and which prompts this outburst on my part: "The Right To Bear Arms" by Carl Bakal. It is well worth reading. If your library does not have it, it should get it.

Let me give you two quotations: "Of all the 403,000 criminals arrested in England and Wales over a recent three-year period, only 159 were carrying guns. In 1962, only 29 persons were shot dead in all of England and Wales; the United States, with four times the population, had 4,954 firearms murders."

Here's another interesting item: "You are... safer practically anywhere out of this country than in it. France and Japan have murder rates less than a third of ours. Italy less than a fifth, England only a seventh, and the Netherlands only about a sixteenth."

Can we do anything about it?

The author of the book, a former Army officer, suggests that we can, but we don't.

Community Colleges Deal in Archaisms

By Robert M. Hutchins

The so-called community college is a junior college devoted to training young people to earn a living in the local community.

Russell Lynes, in his excellent article on the junior colleges in Harper's, uses the words of the president of the Orange County Community College in Middletown, N.Y., to describe the process by which the educational program of these institutions is determined.

"We watch," the president says, "we listen, we talk to businessmen and professional men, and when we have found a kind of training we are convinced the community needs and will use we set up a curriculum in it."

The process is curiously archaic, for it overlooks two of the most obvious facts of contemporary life, the mobility of the population and the rapidity of technological change. These two world-wide phenomena have reached dramatic proportions in the United States, and their effects must be visible to the educators of Middletown.

According to the census of 1960 Middletown has a population of 23,475. This is exactly 899 more than it had in 1950. The young people are not staying, and it is unlikely that the community college or opportunities in local industry can induce them to do so.

Middletown has had a history of technological disasters. The turnpike companies on which its early prosperity was based have disappeared. The New York, Ontario and Western Railroad, which had shops there, has long since died.

Boys and girls trained to work in turnpike companies and railroad shops would have some cause to complain of educators who watched and listened and concluded that such training would meet the needs of Middletown.

In view of the rate of technological change, the existence of a job today is no guarantee that it will be here tomorrow. Since training takes time, the more specific the training is, the more irrelevant and wasteful it is likely to prove.

This is particularly true of training for industries that are especially vulnerable to economic fluctuations.

The evidence comes from the president of Orange County Community College. He said, "Next year (presumably 1966-67), for example, we are going to set up a program for architecture. There is a great deal of building going on in the area, and we begin to hear complaints about the shortage of draftsmen. We can do something about that."

We can only hope that he did not get around to doing anything about that; for without visiting Middletown we can be sure of one thing, and that is that there is not much building going on in the area now.

Middletown does not need draftsmen at the moment. But now Middletown and all the other cities, town and villages in the country need intelligent citizens and always will.

The community college might try doing something about that.

Housewives Schedule Boycott Of Carbondale Kroger Stores

The Carbondale housewives committee seeking lower food prices in the area has decided to schedule a boycott against the two Kroger stores for an indefinite period.

Pat Bavel, publicity chairman of HELP (Housewives Effort for Lower Prices) said the boycott and picketing will begin Thursday.

Mrs. Bavel said the Kroger Stores were selected because of the group's disagreements services and prices.

HELP has been calling Carbondale residents during the past week to notify them of the boycott.

About a month ago HELP staged a one-day demonstration boycott against the five large supermarkets in Carbondale in an effort to get store managers to meet with them. Since that time, Paul Reuscher, manager of Boren's IGA, has talked with HELP leaders.

HELP was formed following a comparative price study of Carbondale and neighboring communities. The findings of the group indicated food prices were on the average 2 per cent higher in Carbondale than in neighboring towns.

Gluhmans Enter Art in 3 Exhibits

Two SIU faculty members, Joseph W. Gluhman, instructor in art history, and his wife, Margaret A. Gluhman, assistant instructor in the basic studio program, have had art works accepted for regional and national exhibition.

The "6th Annual National Exhibitions of Graphics" sponsored by Mercyhurst College, Erie, Pa., is displaying a drawing, "Deposition from the Gothic" by Gluhman, and a pen and ink drawing by Mrs. Gluhman, "Metamorphism."

The Gluhmans also exhibited works in the 19th Annual Fall Exhibition at the Canton, Ohio, Art Institute. Mrs. Gluhman exhibited a drawing "Tree Form," and Gluhman had two works, a water color "Leonine Head" and an ink wash drawing "Chain Landscape."

Interfaith Council Prepares For Religion in Life Week

Planning sessions for Religion in Life Week Jan. 19-26 are being conducted by four committees of the Interfaith Council.

Among speakers, who will take part in the program of events is Harry Golden, author and social historian.

The council is seeking additional members for the four planning committees. Petitions for membership may be picked up at the University Center information desk and returned by Wednesday.

Discussion groups and speakers are being arranged for campus housing areas, an Interfaith Council spokesman said. Participation by Thompson Point, Small Group Housing, Woody Hall, University Park and Southern Acres is being planned.

Topics related to religion on the campus will be presented during the discussion periods.

In addition, participating religious foundations will have special programs during the week.

U.S. Jets Bag Red Mig During Battle Within Sight of Hanoi

SAIGON (A) - U. S. airmen knocked down one Communist MIG17 and possibly another in a swirling air battle Sunday within sight of Hanoi while American jet bombers tore up a major railroad freight yard six miles northeast of the North Vietnamese capital and heavily damaged an oil depot 14 1/2 miles north of it, the U.S. Command reported Monday.

Despite heavy flak and challenges from MIG17s, no U.S. planes were lost, the command said. The Communists

U.N. Appeals For Test Halt

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - The U.N. General Assembly appealed today to all nations to halt nuclear weapons tests both in the atmosphere and underground.

Although no nations were mentioned by name, the resolution was aimed particularly at Red China and France, the only countries now testing weapons in the atmosphere.

U.S. officials said last week they expect Red China to conduct its fifth nuclear test in the near future.

The vote on the resolution was 100-1, with two abstentions.

claimed three attacking planes were downed near Hanoi and another about 60 miles to the south.

The heavy U.S. air strikes close to Hanoi defied Viet Cong threats to stage reprisal attacks against Americans in the South.

The ground war in the South continued virtually stagnant but the U.S. Command reported a sea-to-shore battle between the U.S. destroyer Ingersoll, six miles off the North Vietnamese coast, and Communist shore batteries. The Ingersoll sustained slight damage in the exchange but there were no casualties among her crew, the command said. There was no assessment of the damage, if any, to the shore guns.

British-Approved Pact Nixed By Rhodesian White Leaders

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - Rhodesia's white government Monday night scorned the British-approved pact for ending the Rhodesian crisis.

Revealing for the first time that the pact called for British control of the Rhodesian armed forces, Prime Minister Ian Smith announced the rejection to 1,800 cheering Rhodesians and vowed: "The fight goes on."

The decision hit London as Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government was holding talks with Commonwealth high commissioners on the next step in the dispute - requesting the United Nations to impose mandatory trade sanctions on Rhodesia.

The conditional agreement on the future of this break-away white minority colony had been signed earlier by Wilson and Smith aboard the British cruiser Tiger off Gibraltar around midnight Saturday.

High Court Slaps Down Georgia Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously Monday that the Georgia House may not bar Julian Bond because of his statements criticizing the draft and U.S. policy in Viet Nam. "The disqualification of Bond from membership in the Georgia House because of his statements violated Bond's right of free expression under the First Amendment," Chief Justice Earl Warren said for the court.

Warren's opinion did not, in so many words, order the Georgia House to seat Bond. But it cleared the way for the thrice-elected Negro civil rights official. State Rep.

George L. Smith, who is in line to become speaker of the Georgia House, said "I see no alternative other than seating him."

The Georgia House twice barred Bond from taking his seat because he supported a statement by the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee that described U.S. policy in Viet Nam as aggression.

Bond, a former SNCC official, has been critical also of the draft system and said he admired the courage of those who burned their draft cards although he would not burn his own.

China Accuses U.S. Of Bombing Attack

TOKYO (AP) — Peking radio charged Tuesday that U.S. planes bombed and sank six Communist Chinese fishing boats in the Gulf of Tonkin, killing 16 Chinese fishermen and injuring 29 others.

In a Chinese language broadcast monitored here by Radio Press, a Japanese monitoring agency, it said the alleged bombing took place Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 on the western part of the gulf.

It said the Chinese Defense Minister lodged the "strongest protest" and issued the "most serious" warning in connection with this alleged incident, which the broadcast described as a "war provocation" against Red China by U.S. imperialism.

Residents Flee Macao Riots

MACAO (AP) — With Chinese Communist gunboats appearing offshore, Portuguese residents and some Chinese fled this riot-torn enclave on China's south coast Monday for Hong Kong. Other Portuguese took refuge in two ancient forts.

Shooting broke out again during the day apparently in an attempt by Portuguese soldiers to halt what witnesses said was looting by gangs of Chinese teen-agers.

"Business is for the birds!" Who says so?

Lots of people do. Some right on your campus. And for rationale, they point an accusing finger at business and say it lacks "social commitment."

Social commitment? We wish they could visit our Kearny, N. J. plant, where we make cable and apparatus for your Bell telephone company. But we have time for other thoughts, other talents.

Like the situation in nearby Newark. With civic and business leaders, we began buzzing with ideas. "Let's teach higher skills to some of the un-employed and under-employed. Say, machine shop practice. They could qualify for jobs that are going begging — and help themselves as well."

We lent our tool-and-die shop, evenings. We found volunteer instructors. A community group screened applicants. Another supplied hand tools. The Boys Club donated classroom facilities. Another company sent more instructors.

Some 70 trainees enrolled. Their incentive? Self-improvement. Results to date? New people at better jobs. Happier.

And this is only one of dozens of social-minded projects at Western Electric plants across the country, where our first job is making communications equipment for the Bell System.

So, you don't give up ideals when you graduate. If anything, at a company like, say, Western Electric, you add to them. And it's not just a theory. It's practice. Satisfying. Come on and find out. And watch a feathered cliché fly out the window.

William George's 'Iceman' Bust Wins Ice Sculpturing Contest

An SIU art major won first place Sunday afternoon in the Season of Holidays ice sculpturing contest.

William George, a sophomore from Eighty-Four, Pa., received top prize of a five-dollar gift certificate.

George's work was a pug-nosed bust called "The Iceman." He said it was "a modern interpretation of the Abominable Snowman."

Second place went to Bruce Potts, a sophomore art major from Carlyle, Ill., for the bust "Mother Blues." Jerry Zalesny, a freshman chemistry major from Chicago, placed third with the bust "Ronald."

Only three contestants competed in the event on the University Center patio. They had two hours to complete their work.

The judges were Orville Bowden, food production manager at Trueblood Hall and Charles Lukens, food ser-

February Performances

'Come Blow Your Horn' Cast Named for SIU Arctic Tour

CASTING has been completed for the Department of Theater's production scheduled for a month-long USO tour of the Northeast Command (Greenland and Iceland) during February.

The play chosen for performances at military installations is Neil Simon's comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn," which starred Hal March, Lou Jacobini, Pert Kelton and Warren Berlinger in its 1961 Broadway run.

This will be SIU's second USO tour of defense bases in Greenland and Iceland, the first in 1962 offering Garson Ganin's "Born Yesterday," "Come Blow Your Horn" will be directed by Christian Moe, associate professor of theater. It has been scheduled for campus performances April 7-9 and 13-16.

Moe, assistant dean of the School of Communications, is an authority on American historical drama.

Students selected for roles in "Come Blow Your Horn" are Z.J. Hymel, IV, of New Orleans, La., John Callahan of St. Louis, Peter Goetz of

Faculty Members Join Interior Design Group

Three faculty members have been accepted as members of the Interior Design Educators Council.

Rose Padgett, chairman of the Department of Clothing and Textiles, in which interior design is offered, had been accepted in the council earlier in the fall. The new members are Mrs. Lucy Stewart, Norman Slack and Stanley Phillips, all of whom are also members of the Association of Interior Designers and the National Society of Interior Designers.

The council, according to Phillips, was formed in 1962. Its purpose is to strengthen and improve interior design education and the professional level of interior design. Its activities include competitions and publications, promotion of research and advanced degrees, and conducting a major study of curricula and accreditation.

Annual Christmas Program Slated Thursday

The Holiday Assembly featuring the University Symphony, the University Male Glee Club, the University Women's Ensemble and the Chamber Choir will be presented at 10 a.m. Thursday in the SIU Arena.

President Delyte W. Morris will read the "Christmas Story" from the Bible.

SIU's University Symphony, under the direction of Herbert Levinson, will play Anderson's "A Christmas Festival" and Tchaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite."

Scott's "Susanni" will feature the University Women's ensemble with Beverly Todd, soloist.

The Women's Ensemble and the University Male Glee Club will sing an arrangement of "Song of Galilee" by Robert Kingsbury, director of University Choirs.

This song will feature Walter Keller, piano, Vicki Choate, flute, and David Harris, oboe.

"What Child Is This," an Old English tune, will be sung by the University Chamber Choir.

Also included in the program will be Vance Fulker-son reading Riley's "The Pre-Christian Festival of Christmas" and Kingsbury's "The Jewish Festival of Chanukah." The second selection is a paraphrase by Kingsbury from the "Ceremonies of Judaism."

The University Symphony, the combined University Choir and the audience will sing Handel's "Joy to the World" and "O Come, All Ye Faithful," a Latin carol.

The President's Donut Hour will be held from 9 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. and again from 11 a.m. to noon on the West Concourse of the Arena. This is the last convocation for Fall Quarter in the University Convocations Series. The required attendance for credit is six.

PRESIDENT MORRIS

Donut Hour Set Thursday in Arena

The President's Donut Hour will be held from 9 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. and again from 11 a.m. to noon Thursday on the west concourse of the Arena.

The donut hours will precede and follow the Holiday Assembly featuring the University Symphony, the University Male Glee Club, the University Women's Ensemble and the Chamber Choir, which will be at 10 a.m. in the SIU Arena.

93-58 Romp

Salukis Trounce State College of Iowa

SPORTS SPOTLIGHT SWITCHES

The Salukis made their basketball debut Monday night for the 1966-67 season a bright one with a resounding 93-58 victory over State College of Iowa.

Southern was ranked second best in the country before leaving the dressing room and wasted little time proving the pollsters correct.

A tenacious defense and early mastery of the backboards catapulted the Salukis into a lead of 11-9 with 14:03 left in the first half and they were looking back at their opponents the rest of the contest.

The teams traded baskets for the first five and one half minutes before Walt Frazier put Southern ahead to stay with a short jump shot.

Frazier added three more points within a half minute and the Saluki defense repeatedly stole Panther passes under their own basket.

Southern moved out to a 21 point advantage before Coach Jack Hartman began substituting liberally with about five minutes remaining. The edge at the intermission was 15 points, 43-28.

With the first team back in at the outset of the second half the Salukis again wasted little time opening the game up by snaring most of the rebounds and repeatedly forcing the Panthers into errors. State College turned the ball over 20 times to the Salukis.

Sophomore forward Dick Garrett's debut was just as auspicious as the Salukis'. He scored 27 points on 13 field goals and an extra point. Garrett also contributed eight rebounds to rank second on the team in that department.

Frazier contributed 19 points and 12 rebounds from the guard post. Following him were center Ralph Johnson with 10 points, forward Clarence Smith and guard Roger Bechtold with nine apiece and reserve center Chuck Benson with seven.

Coach Pleased by Performance Of Gymnasts in Midwest Open

At the Midwest Open Friday and Saturday, the Salukis sent 13 men into the finals and 12 placed among the top six. This included a first place in the still rings by Fred Dennis who defeated the defending national champion.

"This was the best Midwest Open they have had in a number of years and the fact that we did so well was very encouraging," Meade said. He added that the Salukis "moved up in position in better than 50 per cent of the events this year."

"I was well pleased with the meet and with our overall depth with two men in the top six in most events," he said.

The Salukis had two second place finishers with Paul Mayer taking second in floor exercise and Dale Hardt finishing second in the trampoline. Rick Tucker finished third in the high bar and Dennis fifth.

Ron Harstad tied for fourth in the parallel bars and Mayer finished sixth. Hutch Dvorak finished sixth in the trampoline. Steve Whitlock was sixth in the floor exercise. Larry Weber finished fifth in the side horse and Larry Lindauer tenth.

SIU Matmen Win 6 Titles

SIU's wrestling team again dominated the Illinois Invitational wrestling tournament, winning six individual titles in a meet held Friday and Saturday in Champaign.

Coach Jim Wilkinson was pleased with the outcome, adding that some of the boys were held back because of injuries. Dan Ross won the 123-pound class even though he had the flu and is now in the hospital. Terry Appleton won the 160-pound class after recovering from an injury.

"Dave Pffor was a pleasant surprise in the 145-pound class and the heavyweights were real impressive," said Wilkinson. Pffor won in his class.

Terry Magoon, defending champion in the 115-pound division, lost a close semifinal match and finished third. Teammate Steve Sarossy finished second in this division. Both Larry Baron and Dean Ohl were impressive in the 130-pound class. Baron was the victor and Ohl took second place.

Al Lipper lost a tough match to Loffredo of Illinois to finish second in the 152-pound class. Joe Domko won the 167-pound division.

Buck Deadrich won the heavyweight class with Rich Selover finishing third. Al Bulow was second in the 191-pound class.
