Draft quota to be raised

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army moved Friday to de-mobilize 20,000 National Guardsmen and reservists by the end of next year and in-dicated an easing of the Viet-nam war might bring earlier

At the same time, the Army said draft calls will be raised by about 3,000 men a month from March through July to replace the guardsmen and re-servists and keep readifiess of the regular forces from slip-ning.

the regular forces from slipping.

It takes about five months to train a new man before he can be assigned to a unit. The Army said it is canceling plans to disband 48 basic training and advanced individual training companies at Ft. Bliss, Tex. and Ft. Dix, N.J.

These plans were announced Nov. 18, before the Army decided on a target date for release of the guardsmen and reservists which generated a requirement for more draft trainees to take their place.

As the Army put it: "The reason for the change in plans reason for the change in plans is a need to maintain a training capacity to meet increased training requirements arising from the decision to refrom the decision to re-lease the mobilized reserves during the period September through December 1969 and replace them with active Army personnel."

'Wasn't fired'

Eckert: 'I resigned'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Lt. Gen. William D. Eckert resigned unexpectedly Friday as Commissioner of Baseball but flatly denied that he had been fired. There was no immediate indication as to his successor.

However, M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets, said after the surprising press conference that "I think the car needs some repairs so it will drive smoother."

Asked if that meant a new car was needed, Grant replied:

'No. We are getting a new chauffeur."

Eckert was named commissioner on the retirement of Ford Frick Nov. 17, 1965. His contract, reputedly at $65,000 per year, had four more years to run. He will remain in office until his successor is named.

Baseball, locked in a struggle for national popularity with professional football, is beset by the problems of with professional football, is beset by the problems or expansion—there will be 24 teams next year, divided into two leagues, each having separate divisions of six clities—and is threatened with a players' strike unless the pension plan is upgraded with some of the money from the enormous TV contract, said to be around $50 million annually.

The announcement of Eckert's retirement and plans to restructure baseball hit like a bombshell a close of the winter meetings.

Priority needed in administration

Now that Illinois voters have elected a governor and lieutenant governor of different parties, the two men should not allow partisan politica to interfere with the administration of state government.

When the electorate chose Republican Richard Ogilvie and Democrat Paul Simon, it marked the first time in Illinois history that a governor from one parry and a lieutenant governor from another were chosen. Because of Ogilvie's lead in the polls and Simon's record as a strong vote getter, political analysts speculated during the campaign that a close Ogilvie victory could result in a Simon triumph.

While campaigning in Carbondale last month, Ogilvie said in an interview that it would hinder his effectiveness as governor if Simon were elected.

Ogilvie cited Kentucky as an example of

if Simon were elected.

Ogilvie cited Kentucky as an example of a state with a Republican governor and a Democratic lieutenant governor and said the Kentucky governor (Louie B. Nunn) told him the politics is "messed up."

Perhaps Ogilvie's comment was meant more as a campaign statement for his runnite.

Perhaps Oglivie's comment was meant more as a campaign statement for his running mate (Robert Dwyer) than anything else. Simon's attitude has indicated this. During an interview in Springfield in August, Simon said, if elected, he would not abuse the power of his office. He said he would in no way use the office to the advantage of partisan politics.

As lieutenant governor, Simon's chief duties will be to preside over the senate and to act as governor in case of Ogilvie's death, disability or absence from the state. Theo-retically, he could fire the cabinet or veto a legislative bill while acting as governor. Illinois citizens chose the two best men, now the two men should choose to give top priority to the administration of state gov-ernment rather than to partisan political

Editorial Need direct vote

Sen, Birch Bayh, (D-Indiana), calling the recent presidential election a "near brush with catastrophe," is wisely advocating that the United States should elect its president the United States should elect its president by direct, popular vote.

Sed. Bayh, the hardworking chairman of the U.S. constitutional amendments subcommittee, has already called for a new round of hearings concerning changes or abandonment of the Electoral College system as soon as the new congress is sworn in.

Sen. Bayh justly feels that Congress and the public were awakened to the need for a change in the election process after the election in which George Wallace threatened to keep either of the major party candidates from capturing a majority of the electoral votes.

from capturing a majority of the electoral votes.

There does seem to be a general agreement among the electorate that a change in the Electoral College system is needed, and Sen, Bayh's suggestion which calls for the direct popular election of a president is the most desirable idea proposed.

Although official canvasses, the counting of absentee ballots, recounts and possibly a few vote fraud charges could, in a close election such as this year's keep the country in a political turnoul for weeks, the direct popular election would give every citizen an equal voice in the choice of his president.

The present Electoral College system deprives millions of voters from having a voice in the selection of a president. For example, President-elect Richard Nixon was given all of the 26 Illinois electoral votes as he out-polled Hubert Humphrey 47 to 44 per cent in the state. Thus, some 1,029,254 Illinoisans who voted for Humphrey did not have any say in the presidential decision, Furthermore, gauging by the November 5 election, it took 176,000 people living in California to cast one electoral vote, his comparison to voters in other states.

With Sen, Bayh's suggestion of a direct popular vote in determining the presidential winner, the U.S. election process would be more fair as every voter would have an equal voice in selecting the United States President,

Individuality, not collectivity, is vehicle for attaining equality

To the Daily Egyptian:

Much ado about race is made with justification these days, and virtually everyone agrees that the desireable end of all civil rights endeavors should be universal equality. The means for attaining this goal is undoubtedly where our conflict arises. Sprouting up everywhere are a myriad of self-appointed groups, black and white, who assume their union of forces will somehow alleviate the current race crisis.

If equality and eventual brotherhood are the goals in sight, the vehicle for attaining this goal must lie within the individual, not in collective forces. The individual must undergo the grueling chore of recognizing himself as a unique entity and define his own goals, strengths and weaknesses,

Having done so, he will be in a position to appreciate and respect others who have done the same, and haps be eager to help those who still struggle with their existance.

The progress of race relations must take place in the enlightenment of the individuals that compose our society, not in the groups who sacrifice the individual for a who sacrifice in collective intelligence.

Give Nixon a chance

To the Daily Egyptian:

Hopefully the Democrats (and Mr. R.M. Hutchins, Egyptian Edi-torial, Nov. 20) will soon realize torial, Nov. 20) will soon realize that four years of bitter carping and recriminations will not do anyone any good and that Mr. Nixon ought to be given a chance. If the Democratic Congress plays the obstructionist role that Mr. Hutchins envisions for them, the "rapid spread of extremism and violence" would be insured and the fault would be the Democrats' and not Mr. Nixon's.

Mr. Hutchins' implication that anyone who didn't vote for Mr Humphrey is a racist and is Egainst doing something for Black justice will not make the new president's job any easier either, and may well earn Mr. Hutchins a fat lip someday.

The presence of Mr. Hutchins'
"tiny minority" of racist vote
does not discredit the motives of the remainder of the voters and more than presence of the Communist vote for Humphrey.

You can't keep the lunatics from voting, so why make enemies by saying that everyone voted for the same man for the same rea sons

Mr. Nixon will be everyone's resident. Let's give him a chance. If Mr. Nixon succeeds, the country succeeds.

What kind of world?

University's role is complex

Times have changed since became a university president 40 years ago. Who would have thought even a few years ago that black students would now be demanding segregation?

who would have imagined in the '50s that in the '60s we would be longing for students who were apathetic and interested only in surracurricular activities?" Now apathetic and interested only or extracurricular activities? Now dreams of Max Beerbohm's Judas College at Oxford float through our minds. There all the stu-dents committed suicide for the love of Zuleika Dobson, and the professors finally had the kind of colleges they wave. college they wanted. They were conscious only of an "agreeable

There can be no doubt that an era ended with the last war. Until that time Cardinal Newman could more or less make good his claim against the demands of the industrial state that a university is, according to the usual designation, an alma mater, knowing her children one by one, not a foundry or a treadmill or a mint. Now everybody agrees that a university must "serve" the community. No doubt every institution in society must serve society. Otherwise it will not like very long. But the question is: what is the special, peculiar, unique service it could offer? If a university is expected to meet every need, There can be no doubt that an

Obviously, the ordinary test of action, the test of purpose, is meaningless if the university's purpose is to do whatever the society wants. Yet we all have seven yet, that there society wants. Yet we all have a vague feeling, even yet, that there are some things a university ought not to do and some things it cannot do without ceasing to be

There can be no objection to a commenity's acting up of institutions to reflect what it thinks it wants at any given time. What it wants at should, or at any rate it will, try to get. The university, I suggest, is the institution that performs its highest, its unique, service to society by declining to do what the society thinks it wants, by refusing to be useful, in the common acceptation of that word, and by insisting instead that its task is understanding and criticism. It is a center of independent thought.

This classic move was made by SIU's incomparable Saluki mascot, Judy Wills, last winter in Madison Square Garden—in retaliation.

games this year.

If Judy should injure her back further while performing if Judy should injure her back further while performing at games, it could be serious. While she doesn't know yet whether an operation will be necessary, it could mean a year and a half in a wheel-chair for her for the performance of the performing at the performance of the perf chair for her.

You might ask, what makes dy go?

lt could be said that it is her abundance of love, spirit, loyalty and her ownknowledge of athletics that creates Judy's of athletics that creates Judy's desire to serve.

Judy pius if much better:
"I seek to give spirit to SIU. My being an athlete, I can understand the importance to the players of having a crowd yelling behind them. I can put my tumbling ability to good use and give the players that little boost that they need at the same time. It seems that the boys want. ey need at the same time, seems that the boys want play just a little harder hen we have spirit. I want show people I care,"
Because Judy Wills is so

Because Judy Wills is so olved, because, as she puts "I want to show people I re," she has an opinion on my things. The following are ne of those opinions. They be Judy Wills.

Judy Wills' career as

SIU gymnast

On school spirit: "School spirit is lacking in football. In basketball, however, it is reactions to mascot: "People react pretty well. At football games, though, when I ask them to yell, they usually don't, and I do have a problem with 9 and 10-year-old boys who want to pull my tail. I can handle them though."

On homecoming: "I was

On homecoming: "disappointed in my formance. I did my best, but it wasn't as good as I wanted it." (Judy has lost 50 it." (Judy has lost 50 per cent of the feeling in her left leg, as well as suffering from back injuries.)

On being a champion: "I try to separate it. I'm proud of it, but the only time I like to show it is when I'm on the tramp. Humility must come with being a champion, and yet there must be pride, too. I feel I expect a lot out myself. Out endeavor, I expect as much as if it's the only time I'll be doing it. I think it's harder to be a good winner than a a good winner than a, good loser.

As a champion: "I've been-able to meet people. I have lots of friends around the world, especially the Russians. I'm the only American gymnast ever to travel with the Russian gymnastics team." (Judy, :ncidentally, received an award from the Russians, a doll that symbolizes life-long friendship. She is the only American to ever receive such an award for gymnastics.)

On dating: "This is what I on dating: "This is what I To don't like about being a of Ji champion. It hinders dating, from Some boys think I wouldn't want to go out with them and others take me out only because I am a champion. This really hurts."

sit, and even move their heads. I copy them "

Happy and sad moments as mascot: "Every time we win is an extra thrill to me. I my saddest moment guess would be last year when we played Kentucky Wesleyan in basketball. I made a gesture in fun at the referee and he called a technical on me. I really felt bad about it. (Saluki fans may remember that Judy wore a diaper to

"Kick Me" on it.)

Judy is the second SIU mascot. John Rush, also a gymnast, was mascot for three years. After injuring his knee, he took over the role of mascot because he felt SIU needed one. Judy, who started as mascot during basketball season last vear. is carrying on in that tradition.

The interesting personality of Judy Wills will be missing from SIU come June, Judy has retired officially now that the World Games are over and she has won an amazing fifth world title. Although "This really hurts."

"Judy on Saluki dogs: "I tired, meaning no more conwarch the Saluki dogs for tests and championships, she warch the Saluki dogs for will continue to perform for hours. I know how they run, will continue to perform for saluking the saluking sa and baseball games this year. Then, in June, she'll leave SIU for California.

If all goes well-if she gets needed rest from gymnastics this year and occasional undergo an operation-she plans to turn professional. Already she has a Kellogg's commercial with "Tony the Tiger" lined up, has her own agent, and has hopes of appearing on the Hollywood Palace and The Tonight Show,

Another of her wishes is to be on stage, or perhaps be in a Walt Disney production. "I want to make people laugh,"

Fans won't forget Judy.
Perhaps, however, it is more accurate to say fans won't forget "Bumpy" (Judy's nickname) Saluki, the mascot with the long brown nose, flappy ears and tail that enchants the young, for that is, in essence, Judy.

For Judy, being the dog is like being another person. "When I'm the dog, I love it. It's like another world in a way. When I'm out on the football field or basketball court, I really can't see well in the costume, I'll be yelling and I'll look up and see people staring at me. It's such a strange feeling. It's like I'm another person, only only

I'm not. I'm Judy Wills."
It seems Judy is another person when inside her cos-tume-a person that has tume-a person that has brought happiness to fans for a year now, whose antics have been funny and inspiring, whose loyalty to SIU turned a pesty Blue Devil's tricks into an unfamiliar crowd's affection towards Judy and SIU.

Judy has gained much from her performance. She can be proud that she was the last person to perform in the old Madison Square Garden. She can be proud of her many awards, trophies and cham-pionships. She can be proud, too, that little children look upon her in awe and af-fectionately pinch her nose or

Fans can look forward this year to seeing Judy at the basketball games and also the baseball games. During bas-ketball season Judy says she hopes to present something funny and light that will keep the spirit up. During baseball season she will perform off the mini-tramp,

Coach Jack Hartman will be glad to hear that our Saluki mascot predicts "a great year for Southern."

"A great year in basket-ball" will be a fitting way to end a career as a mascot for Judy, whose enthusiasm bubbles over whenever SIU

turning to a more serious question, how does Judy feel about leaving SIU? "I feel very sentimental. I'll always feel a part of this school. I want to come back, of course, and visit. Maybe I could even perform.

Mayor I could even perform.

I want to represent my school... and my country. I want to live up to my titlo."

Judy defines a winner as someone "who can have friends and win too." It would seem that Judy has been a winner at SIU.

From Gulfport, Miss. to Southern Illinois Univer-sity...to California. It's a long sity...to California. It's a long way for Judy Wills, but it's the way she has chosen. Her philosophy should help her along the way. "I want to bring spirit and good cheer to everyone." That properly sums up Judy Wills, Mascot.

'Camelot' marvelously gaudy fantasy

"Camelot," the multi-mil-lion dollar film version of Lerner and Loewe's hit Broadway musical is, quite simply, a marvelously gaudy and pleasingly overstated ex-cursion into the kind of dream world stuff Hollywood still

Faced with the task of how not to mess up such an ob-viously pre-sold property, legendary movie mogul Jack Warner has provided "Came-lot" with all of Hollywood's time-tested ingredients: lots of money, lots of stars, lots of wide screen and color.

to a competent director named Joshua Logan.

Logan succeeds admirably in acheiving what supposedly all good screen versions of plays should do, namely freeing the work from its stage limitations. He does this with a mixture of quick cutting in all the song sequences (in-cluding an especially fine job in the 'If Ever I Would Leave You'' segment), and some ap-propriately extravagant loca-tion work done in Spain.

His use of closeups, how-ever, tends to be excessive. Intimate closeups are just too monstrous in Panavision—a problem a lot of wide-screen directors still haven't been able to overcome.

A great deal of froth and virtue abounds in "Camelot" but the oder of goodness never seems to cloy. And this, I think, is due mostly to the attempts by both Logan and the cast to make the characterizations as human as possible.

Director Logan's closeups lovingly linger on the marvelous Harris vissage: haunting dark eyes, a beautifully bashed nose, and an impish grin, elements Harris expertly comhines with a kind of whispered eloquence that carries him over several stretches of somewhat uninspired dialogue.

As for the rest of "Came-lor" the songs are excellent and expertly performed, the score is grand, the choreography is typical but never tired, and the swordplay is vintage Errol Flynn stuff at its best.

Highly recommended.

Salukis face tough weekend test

After only a days rest, the Salukis will plunge into action at 8:05 p.m. today in the Arena as they take on the Washington University Bears of St. Louis.
Pulling off a 58-51 victory over Wichita State Thursday in Wichita, which gave them a 2-0 record the Saluki hasker.

Wichita, which gave them a -0 record, the Saluki basketball team will have completed only half of its job after to-day's contest. Southern Me-thodist University invades the Arena Monday for an 8:05

Accordingly, Coach Jack Hartman has scheduled only light workouts for the weekend in preparation for Monday's game. He stated that ne waundecided as to the lineup

Marching Salukis may play at half

The Marching Salukis will play at SIU's home basketball game against Washington Unigame against Washington Uni-versity tonight if they return early enough from their en-gagement playing for the Green Bay-Baltimore Colt game today at Green Bay.

"A couple of the players will definitely try to make the game if we can get home from Green Bay in time," a rep-resentative from the Depart-ment of Music said Friday.

"It's unfortunate, but the two engagements fall on the same day. We always enjoy playing at the Saluki basket-ball games," the spokesman

Ben Hogan won't quit

The Bears came back against Illinois College for a 97-65 win-but without the services of last year's leading services of tast year steading scorer, Joe Young, Young, out with an injury to his ankle, probably will be able to go against the Salukis. A 6-3, 195-pound junior, he averaged 20 points last season, made the College Athletic Conference tournament team and was named the most team and was named the most valuable player of the con-ference. He also pulled down 21 rebounds against St. Louis University iast year to set a school rebounding record.

"Our teams are about the same size man for man," Greenwood said, "We hope to go with our usual 1-3-1 pattern and hope it will turn the trick for us."

for both encounters. Thursday's lineup had Bruce Butchko and Norm Hill atforwards; native of Poplar Bluff, Mo., and the team's sally starting freshman. Ken Alinderkneck will start at the other guard polaring the Saluki team," said Coach Bob Greenwood of Washington University in a telephone interview Thursday out the Bear team.
