Canoe accident victim still missing

By Steven Starke
Staff Writer

Rescue units are planning to resume their search early this morning for an SIU-C student believed drowned during a canoeing accident Saturday afternoon in the Big Muddy River in Murphysboro.

Ricky Johnson, 19, of Effingham, an undergraduate in forestry, was reported as missing and presumed drowned, Murphysboro police said Sunday.

Another student involved in the accident, Richard Foreman, was treated for hypothermia and released from St. Joseph Memorial Hospital in Murphysboro.

Foreman, 20, of Strasburg, is an undergraduate in biology. Johnson and Foreman, who were described as best friends, were roommates at Mae Smith Hall.

The accident occurred on what Foreman called a calm stretch of the river between old and new routes 13.

Police said the search began Saturday and continued through Sunday evening before it was suspended because of darkness. A backpack and several personal items were recovered.

Foreman said he and Johnson fell into the river when Johnson leaned over the canoe to paddle and it tipped over.

"He lost his life jacket and I tried to give him mine but he couldn't get it on," Foreman said.

Foreman said he and Johnson had been canoeing together several times before. Both could swim, he said.

"I had a hold of him and had to pull him up from going under three or four times but I lost him," Foreman said in a telephone interview from his home in Strasburg.

Murphysboro police and fire departments, the Murphysboro and Carbondale Emergency Services and Disaster Agency, Jackson County Sheriff's department and ambulance service and a helicopter and scuba search team from the Illinois Department of Transportation searched the river for the missing student.

Congress returns to tackle issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress returns Monday for the final session of Ronald Reagan's presidency to tackle such issues as arms control, aid to the Nicaraguan rebels and the budget deficit.

Even before Reagan delivers his State of the Union Address Monday night, the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees will open hearings on the Intermediate Nuclear Forces Treaty with the Soviet Union.

The consensus is that the Senate will approve the treaty in March or April, despite attempts by a group of hard-core conservatives to derail it. The pact is the first ever to reduce nuclear weapons — not just check their growth.

A much closer test of Reagan's foreign policy will come Feb. 3 when the House votes on Reagan's request, not yet detailed, for additional aid for the Contra forces in Nicaragua.

If Reagan loses, the only help the rebels will get is enough to usher them out of the country by the end of the month.

Returning to the White House Sunday from a weekend at Camp David, Reagan was asked whether he would be able to persuade Congress to approve more military aid to the Contras. He replied, "We'll try."

The two foreign policy issues — the INF treaty abolishing shorter and medium range missiles and continuation of aid for the Contras — will dominate the early part of the session.

But Congress also faces a range of other issues, some of which could become embroiled

Reagan disputes 'lame-duck' title

Senate begins work on missile treaty

in the politics of an election year.

Among the proposals high on the priority lists is confirmation of Anthony Kennedy as a Supreme Court Justice, which is expected to sail through Congress.

Reagan plans to submit a $1.1 trillion budget for fiscal 1989, but two of the most contentious issues, taxes and military spending were wrapped into last year's agreement. The grand plan provided $299.5 billion for the military and $14 billion in increased taxes.

Other major issues to be considered by the second session of the 100th Congress are trade, catastrophic insurance, welfare, AIDS, proposed veterans department, the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement and although unlikely, the Senate could begin work on a proposed treaty with the Soviet Union that would reduce long-range missiles by 50 percent.

Other possible legislation that could come up in 1988: control of emissions of pollutants to control acid rain; improvement of fair housing enforcement; solid and hazardous waste management; increase the minimum wage; establishment of product liability legislation; rehiring of air traffic controllers.

East Campus has crash vigil

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

Streets were blocked, lights were turned off, candles flickered and trumpet salutes of "Taps" rang out during a vigil Friday night for the three SIU-C students killed in a plane crash last Monday.

The vigil at the East Campus residence area was one of two ceremonies held in memory of Matthew P. Brady, 19, Kankakee; Damon E. Deuschle, 18, Bradley, and Darrell L. McClure, 21, Bourbonnais.

Students, faculty, friends and family filled the Student Center Auditorium to capacity at a memorial service Sunday afternoon.

Lawrence Juhlin, assistant vice president of student affairs, said friends of the deceased requested the service. He also was expecting the parents to attend the memorial.

The Rev. Kenneth Wallace, campus pastor at the Wesley Foundation, delivered the invocation. Prayer and remarks were given by Richard Binder, Alpha Tau Omega vice president; Father Steve Edfors, campus pastor at the Newman Center; Juhlin, and Daren Turczynski, a fraternity member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

The memorial ended with a benediction sung by members of Our Savior Lutheran Church.

After the memorial, the crowd quietly filed out of the auditorium, expressing their grief with silence and tears.

Dukakis: No 'showdown' with Simon

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Opening a campaign headquarters for Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis in Paul Simon's backyard isn't intended to be an attack on Carbondale favorite son's flank, Dukakis organizers said Sunday.

"There's no showdown. It's not us against Simon," Joel Spenner, Dukakis coordinator in the 22nd Congressional District, said. "It's easier to recruit volunteers out of an area like this."

Spenner and former Illinois comptroller Michael Bakalis spoke at the opening of the Dukakis headquarters at 611 S. Illinois Ave. The office will serve most of the southern half of the state.

Spenner said the local headquarters probably will not have a paid staff. But that could change after the Iowa caucuses Feb. 8 and the New Hampshire primaries Feb. 16.

Spenner, who had campaigned for Simon, said he expects a friendly competition and feels it's his responsibility to show people Dukakis' record and what Dukakis has to offer.

Bakalis, state chairman of Dukakis for president, called

Sandanistas shoot down Contra DC-6 supply plane

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaragua forces shot down a DC-6 cargo plane used to supply the U.S.-backed Contra rebels in southeastern Nicaragua, both sides said Sunday. The Defense Ministry said one crewman was captured and at least three others died. A rebel spokeswoman in Miami said the plane was carrying lethal and non-lethal supplies to the Contras and the 11 Nicaraguans aboard were killed.

Chinese train derails, kills 90, injures 66

BEIJING (UPI) — An express train bound for Shanghai derailed and overturned in a remote region of southwest China Sunday, killing at least 90 people and seriously injuring 66 others, officials said. It was the fourth major transport accident in China in the past two weeks and came a day after the government issued emergency orders to upgrade safety nationwide on railways, the country's most widely used transportation.

Wives mark disappearance of their husbands

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The wives of three American professors and their Indian-born colleague abducted in Beirut a year ago Sunday marked the anniversary of their husbands' disappearances. Gunmen disguised as policemen convinced the four professors, who were spending a quiet evening with their wives, that they should leave the campus under their protection because there was a plot to kidnap them. The professors willingly accompanied the gunmen who were wearing dark blue fatigues similar to those worn by the Lebanese internal forces.

Haiti elects president for 1st time in 30 years

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Center-right candidate Leslie Manigat is the outright winner of Haiti's first presidential elections in 30 years, scraping just enough votes to avoid a runoff against his nearest rival, official tallies released Sunday showed. Final results from the Jan. 17 election for the Caribbean nation's nine provinces, broadcast on state radio and television stations, gave Manigat 534,080 votes against 210,526 for runner-up Hubert De Ronceray, a right-wing sociologist. The military-run election, even by government estimates, drew slightly more than one-third of registered voters.

White House pushes to pin down shuttle date

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — NASA's recovery from the Challenger disaster two years ago Thursday faces a crucial watershed this week with the White House expected to unveil a new space policy amid work to pin down a shuttle launch date. Space agency engineers met over the weekend at Morton Thiokol Inc.'s Brigham City, Utah, rocket plant to assess plans to overcome a booster failure last month that will probably push the first post-Challenger launch into August.

Arizona Gov. Mecham prepares his defense

PHOENIX (UPI) — Arizona Gov. Evan Mecham, poised to defend himself before an impeachment committee, expects to be told today that he has five days to resign or face a recall election in May. Mecham, facing criminal charges for allegedly concealing a $350,000 campaign loan and an impeachment probe on allegations of financial improprieties and obstructing an investigation, has repeatedly stated that resignation is not an option.

Demonstrators charge media with favoritism

NEW YORK (UPI) — About 400 angry Jewish demonstrators chanted "tell the truth" and "kids with rocks kill" outside ABC network headquarters Sunday, charging the media has favored Palestinians in reports on violence in Israel. The protesters, waving blue and white Israeli flags, walked in a wide circle in front of the network's headquarters, stridently denouncing news coverage of recent violence that has erupted on the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Protest organizers stressed that the demonstration was aimed at all news media, not just ABC.

Officials use sound against hold-up family

MARION, Utah (UPI) — Lawmen withheld water and turned up the volume by blasting a barricaded farmhouse with noise Sunday in the ninth day of a psychological war to wear down the nerves of hold-up polygamous family. The standoff between state and federal authorities and the suspects in the Jan. 16 bombing of a Mormon chapel intensified late Saturday when officials moved a public-address speaker system near the encircled house and turned it on.

Marchers demonstrate against Israeli actions

By Adam Broad
Staff Writer

More than 70 people stood in silent protest near the Student Center Friday afternoon to bring attention to the Israeli government's human rights violations in its occupied territories.

The group also protested U.S. financial aid to Israel and called for Palestinian self-determination in the region.

The protesters marched silently around campus on Lincoln Drive, beginning on the north side of the Student Center.

After standing silently in the Free Forum Area for about 10 minutes, the march continued past McAndrew Stadium toward its original starting point, where Abou-Jabal, a graduate student in electrical engineering, read a prepared speech to the marchers and a small number of onlookers.

Group spokesman Maher Abou-Jabal said the marchers were mostly Palestinians, Arabs, and Moslems. Signs were displayed, some of which read, "End the Israeli Occupation Now" and "Oppose Israeli Fascism, Support the Palestinians."

A few demonstrators handed out fliers listing alleged incidents of Israeli "brutality and complete disregard for human rights and dignity."

Khaleel-Ahmad, a senior in civil engineering, said he felt most Jews outside Israel "don't really know what's going on back there."

"If the media gave them the straight facts about what's going on I guarantee you more than 90 percent of the Jews... will be against what's going on because no human would accept such things," Khaleel-Ahmad said.

In his speech, Abou-Jabal repeatedly emphasized his desire for peace in the troubled areas. He claimed more than 75 Palestinians have been killed by the Israeli military since December, 1988.

Palestinians living in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip are treated inhumanely and jails are cramped with innocent prisoners who have not been charged with any crimes, he said.

"The latest act of Israeli inhumanity is the banning of food and water, the cutting off of electricity, and the limiting of medical supplies to the refugee camp in Gaza," Abou-Jabal said. "This will definitely be the cause of starvation, disease and death."

He said American financial aid to Israel "is used to increase the oppression of Palestinian people," and the only way to stop the violation of human rights on the West Bank and Gaza Strip is for the "pressure of the people" to force an end to such aid.

In a telephone interview yesterday, Abou-Jabal said he did not believe the Israeli government has a right to exist.

"Right now we're fighting to end the killing on the West Bank and Gaza Strip but we're fighting for the whole land," he said. "It's our land."

Governor hopes to lure prestigious race back

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Gov. James R. Thompson wants the Hambletonian, harness racing's most renowned derby, back in Southern Illinois.

"The crown jewel of trotting will be best showcased in the relaxed rural atmosphere that has historically surrounded this great sport," Thompson wrote in a letter to the president of the Hambletonian Society. Jim Skilback, a special assistant to the governor, read the letter at a press conference at the Du Quoin fairgrounds Friday.

"The Hambletonian is the Kentucky Derby of harness racing," Skilback said. "It's a missing piece with a lot of mystique and tradition. It's the premiere social event in Southern Illinois."

The Hambletonian — one of the legs of harness racing's triple crown — left the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds in 1981 after 21 years there. The attraction of more money and larger crowds enticed the Hambletonian Society to move the race to the Meadowlands race track in New Jersey.

Skilback said he has been assured the Hambletonian Society will hold a meeting no later than June to discuss the proposal to bring the race back to Du Quoin. However, the earliest the Hambletonian could return is 1991 because of a 3-year contract with Meadowlands that doesn't end until 1990, he said.

Skilback said bringing the Hambletonian back to Du Quoin would round out a series of harness races at the fair.

Thompson is appointing a committee to create a comprehensive state fair schedule including The World Trotting Derby, The Review Futurity, the American National and the Hambletonian.

The committee probably will be composed of Southern Illinoisians who have been involved in the Hambletonian, local legislators, horse breeders, track owners and business people, Skilback said.

Skilback said the Southern Illinois' economy would benefit if the race returns to Du Quoin,

Acid rain problem will not solve itself

THE TIME HAS come for Southern Illinois legislators to help put an end to the environmental scourge of acid rain. Acid rain must be controlled before environmental damage in the United States and Canada becomes irreversible. Sulfurous emissions from the burning of high-sulfur coal damage lakes, streams and forests, not to mention possible damage to buildings and crops. Sen. Paul Simon consistently has spoken out in favor of legislation to control emissions from the burning of high-sulfur coal.

BUT TALK IS cheap. Simon claims he is ready to vote for an acid rain-control bill, but that he has yet to see one he considers perfect. Waiting will do nothing for the environment. Simon should either help develop a bill he considers acceptable or he should vote for a slightly imperfect one.

Rep. Ken Gray, on the other hand, has done everything in his power to prevent such legislation. Gray claims he feels a responsibility to protect Southern Illinois' coal miners, many of whom would be out of work if legislation were passed, but this stance shows an incredible degree of short-sightedness.

ACID RAIN BILLS presently before Congress undoubtedly would put many local miners out of work. But by fighting legislation instead of proposing a more acceptable alternative, Gray is writing the writ of execution for the Southern Illinois coal industry.

Gray must realize that acid rain controls are inevitable and work to make the impact on Southern Illinois' coal industry less severe.

Even if Gray succeeds in delaying congressional action until after his retirement, he will have done nothing but alienate other members of Congress. When controls finally are passed, it would be naive to expect Congress to show Southern Illinois any mercy.

GRAY'S JOB IS to represent the interests of Southern Illinois in Congress, but also to care for the nation as a whole. In fighting acid rain controls, Gray is fulfilling neither obligation.

One solution to the acid rain problem is to require power plants to install scrubbers or otherwise bring sulfurous emissions down to a reasonable level. This would make the use of high-sulfur coal extremely expensive, which probably would cost Southern Illinois many jobs because the region's coal no longer would be economically feasible to use.

ANOTHER WAY OF dealing with the problem would be to switch from high-sulfur Midwestern coal to low-sulfur Western coal, which likely would shut down the Southern Illinois coal industry.

Either solution would spell disaster for Southern Illinois unless provisions are included in the legislation to protect the Midwestern coal industry. Precisely for that reason, Gray and Simon should involve themselves with the writing of control legislation.

Federal subsidies for the installation of scrubbers and other technology could make it economically more feasible to use high-sulfur coal and reduce the harm to Southern Illinois. In addition, federal funds for the relocation and retraining of miners who lose their jobs would help lessen the impact of controls.

It is time to stop delaying acid rain controls and to start working toward a solution.

Evergreen Terrace is not a 'roach motel'

The headline of a Jan. 19 Daily Egyptian article read, "Roaches invade family housing." Sorry, DE, that is last year's news. In fact, the majority of apartments at Evergreen Terrace have been treated successfully for infestation and the roaches have retreated. Two years ago there were severe problems with roaches and many of us complained, but the DE article gives the impression that the problem has been ignored.

All residents of Evergreen Terrace were sent a questionnaire last fall asking them if they had bug problems and the extent, but only a few bothered to reply. There still are problem areas, but that occurs in other high-mobility apartments all over Carbondale.

Two things bother me about the story. First, the reporter did not do enough investigative reporting to find out the extent of the roach problem. Apparently he did not ask other Evergreen Terrace residents if they had cockroaches. How many people were there in the "angry group," and did he ask if they contacted the people in charge of housing to get results? That should have been their first approach.

Secondly, Mr. Defosse is mixing apples and oranges. If the problem is a "quality of life issue" about how the state takes bids on contracts, then he should be talking to state legislators. If it is a matter of getting rid of cockroaches, then make the officials of family housing earn their money by making sure the bugs are eliminated.

The "low bidder" system used in Illinois is not new, and I agree that it should be changed. It does not always provide competent workmanship or top-quality materials. It also does not provide for easy elimination of a vendor if he does not live up to the substance of the contracts. There should be processes to eliminate certain vendors or contractors if they have done sub-standard work or provided sub-standard merchandise in the past.

This system is not going to be changed by complaints about the current pest-control company, though, because contract bids are regulated by state laws. There are other contractors who could have been targeted just as easily. Changes will only be made by lobbying at the state level.

Many Evergreen Terrace problems have been solved by complaining where it counts — to family housing, where the responsibility lies. I know. I have done it, and so have other people. Things have improved at Evergreen Terrace, and housing doesn't make the rules for contracts, they only work within the system.

Let's de-bug the state contract problem and make it a straight-forward issue, then maybe it can be solved by changing legislation.

Kay Riesch, Executive Chairwoman, Evergreen Terrace Residents' Council

High school reporters deserve freedoms

What is this about the right of freedom for high school reporters? After all, the taboo issues such as abortion, premarital sex, teenage suicide, cocaine use, teenage runaways and homosexuality already are well-publicized issues in the media today. Teenagers are being tested everyday by the confrontation of at least a couple, if not all, of these issues.

As adults, most of us know better than to accept a line of cocaine. But we all were teenagers before and most of us haven't forgotten what it was like to feel the enormous pressure of our peers. These kids have to face these issues.

Therefore, they should be able to express how they feel.

What is the difference between reading an article that a 30-year old wrote, and reading an article that a 16-year old wrote? Either way, they both are expressing their feelings. As if they were surprised, some adults' mouths are hanging open after reading an article written by a high school reporter on such a controversial matter.

Finally, our society has started playing down the effects of smoking, drugs and alcohol, but not altogether. There still exists propaganda that makes this detrimental lifestyle very intriguing to young adults. So why are people getting bent out of shape? We cannot keep teenagers unexposed to these issues. I believe it is important in a youth's development to be able to learn how to speak out about any issue without insecurities. Young adults are not sheltered by any means and they have a lot more to struggle with today than in past years. Therefore reporters should be able to express their ideas. Maybe it is better that they write about these issues instead of experiencing them.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, Viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Committee, whose members are the student-editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a Journalism School faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247 Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten, double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters of less than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

DUKAKIS, from Page 1

Southern Illinois an economically depressed pocket that would benefit from Dukakis' election as president. Unemployment in Massachusetts was more than 14 percent when Dukakis took office, but now unemployment is 2.3 percent, he said. "He is a man who understands what the Democratic Party is all about — not tax, tax, spend, spend; but a partnership working with people to help themselves," Bakalis said. "He has the idea of putting people back to work and keeping them employed." Simon is Bakalis' second choice for president and he said he wants Simon supporters to choose Dukakis as their second choice adding, "Of course we want Dukakis to be their first choice." "It's justifiable (Southern Illinoisians) have pride in Paul Simon, but I want you to take a good look at Dukakis," he said, even pull it off and win Iowa."

A copyright poll by the Des Moines Register, which was released Sunday, shows Dukakis, Simon and U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri virtually tied for first in the democratic race. Of 402 Iowans polled, Gephardt received 19 percent support, Dukakis had 18 percent and Simon had 17 percent, but the poll had a margin of error of 7.2 percent, making it impossible to name a frontrunner.

Police Blotter

A Carbondale man was charged Friday with sexually assaulting a Carbondale woman Wednesday morning, according to the Jackson County State's Attorney's Office.

Tony Spratlen, 29, was charged with three counts of aggravated criminal sexual assault and three counts of criminal sexual assault.

The assault occurred at 3:48 Wednesday morning on the southwest side of Carbondale. Police did not disclose the address.

Spratlen was apprehended at his residence at the Sunset Motel, 825 E. Main, and taken to Jackson County Jail to await a hearing, Sgt. William Holmes of the Carbondale Police Department said.

Spratlen didn't post the $20,000 bond set Friday still is at Jackson County Jail.

Arson is suspected in a car fire Sunday morning at 308 E. College, according to Carbondale police.

The car, belonging to Charlynn Ohare, senior in marketing, of 500 S. Wall, was engulfed in flames when witnesses called police at 3:10 a.m., police said.

The Carbondale Fire Department extinguished the fire.

Ohare said that she had received threatening phone calls before the fire.

A department official told Ohare the door of her 1985 Mercury was opened and something was put into the car to start the fire.

Biggs also thought the fire started from the inside of the car.

The Carbondale Police Department is investigating the fire, but an official wouldn't comment on the case.

Witness Ann Bahlenhorst, senior in exercise science, saw the flames from her house.

"It was the biggest fire I had ever seen," Bahlenhorst said. "You could hear (the windows) breaking in the fire."

Bahlenhorst said the flames had spread to the outside of the car through the broken windows. She said the paint on a nearby car was damaged.

Police estimated the damage to Ohare's car at $13,500.

Choral union meeting set

The SIUC Carbondale Choral Union will hold its first weekly spring semester rehearsal at 7:30 tonight in Room 115 of Altgeld Hall.

The Choral Union is a college-community chorus specializing in the performance of extended masterworks with an orchestra. Local residents with previous choral experience are invited to attend the rehearsals.

Choristers are asked to purchase vocal scores at the 7:10 Bookstore and bring them to the first rehearsal.

For details, call John V. Mochnik, associate professor of music and director of the group, at 536-7505.

Women offered scholarship

Women enrolled at the University and continuing or entering graduate study or professional training may apply to the Carbondale branch of the American Association of University Women for a $200 scholarship.

Applicants should submit a letter including information on their current and planned enrollment, major, financial status, professional goals, and scholastic and other achievements.

For details, call Olga Weidner at 549-327.

City needs good plan for development

By Dana DeBeaumont Staff Writer

The history of downtown Carbondale may provide valuable lessons for the city, ponders future development of the area, Lachlan Blair, professor in urban and regional planning at the University of Illinois, says.

"The city is in a fairly desperate frame of mind at this point," Blair told members of the Central Carbondale Historic Area Association Saturday. "They must be aware of the history of the territory and the old public square and clarify the future of the railroad before determining the future of downtown Carbondale."

Blair said the city needs something distinctive downtown, "not something that will just bring bucks in, but will keep the heart of the city real."

The city is on the right track, soliciting suggestions on how city-owned land in downtown Carbondale should be used, he said.

The land was originally purchased for the construction of a hotel-convention center. However, after numerous contractors failed to secure financing for the project, the City Council decided to study other uses for the land.

The council has scheduled a public hearing for Feb. 9 in which citizens will be asked to identify goals for the downtown area, uses of city-owned land that would accomplish those goals and how to finance suggested uses. The hearing will start at 7 p.m. in the council chambers, 607 E. College St.

Robert Pauls, president of the Central Carbondale Historic Area Association, said the association sent a letter to the City Council asking it to consider adverse impacts of all suggestions and "not to destroy the integrity of our neighborhoods."

Group seeks student help

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

The city's Citizen's Advisory Committee is searching for student members so that the city will be better equipped to understand and fulfill student's needs in Carbondale.

The University is an integral part of the community and frequently students don't have representation in city government, Tim Larson, committee member, said.

The committee, which meets once a month, needs at least seven members. No students currently serve on the committee, but students have participated in the past, Larson said.

The committee is designed to make recommendations to city officials regarding the future of Carbondale.

The committee has asked the Undergraduate Student Organization to appoint a representative to the committee, but one hasn't been appointed yet, committee chairman Jim Crehan said. However, a USO spokesman said they plan to appoint someone to the committee.

Interested persons should contact the City Clerk's Office.

Board approves sale of CCHS east campus

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The Carbondale School Board has approved the sale of Carbondale Community High School's east campus.

The sale price was set at $3.25 million. If the Regional Board of School Trustees approves the sale, the campus will go on the market as soon as all classes are transferred to the central campus at 200 N. Springer.

A study determined the campus, at 1301 E. Walnut St., no longer is necessary because of declining enrollment and rising operational costs, Reid Martin, CCHS superintendent said. The east campus was built 20 years ago as a separate school for freshmen. It was intended to evolve into a four-year school.

Board member Robert

Brewer, who cast the only vote against the sale, said finances are not bad enough to justify the sale. The school still has important educational value, he said.

Brewer said he was disappointed so few citizens were present at the board's Thursday meeting to question the sale. Only six people attended.

Despite concerns that a private school might open on the east campus in competition with the central campus, school board members said they would welcome all bidders.

Money generated by the sale would allow new facilities to be built on the central campus, Linda Brandon, school board president, said. Martin said he expects the regional board to approve the sale.

Guyon receives harassment plan

A revised draft of the University's sexual harassment policy written by the Personnel Office was sent to President John Guyon last week.

Guyon said Thursday that although he has not had a chance to study the revised policy, "No one could argue that the old policy was without flaws."

Guyon said he will submit the draft to the task force he appointed, and allow them to comment on it before it is finalized.

In October 1987, Guyon announced that a task force would be set up to look at problems on campus that affect women, including the current sexual harassment policy.

Linda Gannon, head of the task force, said the task force looked at many issues affecting women. People who have been involved in women's issues have spoken at meetings of the task force, she said.

Recital set for clarinet

Eric Mandat will give a free, public clarinet recital at 8 tonight in the Law School Auditorium in Lesar Law Library.

Mandat, associate professor in the School of Music, will be assisted by Curtis Stotlar on piano, Michael Barta and Chris Norman on violin, Donald Campbell on viola and Daniel Mellado on violoncello.

The program will consist of Etude No. 12 from Eighteen Etudes by Paul Jeanjean, Sonata in E-flat, opus 120, No. 2 by Johannes Brahms and Quintet in A, K. 581 by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

The recital is part of the SIU-C series, "Law and the Arts," co-sponsored by the School of Music and the School of Law.

Reagan to dispute 'lame duck' label

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, determined to avoid the label of lame duck, delivers a final State of the Union address Monday that will promote his achievements of the last seven years and chart a course for his final 12 months in office.

Reagan will go before a joint session of Congress to deliver a speech described by his aides as long on reflection and short on bold new proposals.

A limited political agenda will take the place of what in other years has been a detailed wish-list of domestic and foreign policy initiatives as Reagan sounds a set of familiar themes in what some aides have come to regard as his last hurrah.

"We've got a job to finish and we're going to do that," one White House official said in summing up the message Reagan intends to convey. "It's not going to be the last year of a lame duck, but the last year we're going to do something."

On the unfinished Reagan agenda for the next year are priorities from the past: budget reform, a continued military buildup, education and drug abuse and a controversial bid for more aid to the Contras.

In recounting his achievements of the past seven years, Reagan will take credit for the longest peacetime economic expansion in history, while warning further action must be taken by Congress to sustain that growth.

Due to receive equally prominent attention are the recent treaty on Intermediate Nuclear Forces, which awaits ratification by the Senate, and prospects for a dramatic cut in strategic arsenals, which could comprise a substantial portion of the Reagan legacy.

In a written legislative message to Congress, Reagan will offer more detailed proposals for the remainder of his presidency, which officials said will include a reduction in the tax on capital gains to stimulate investment.

The New York Times reported Sunday that a confidential draft of the legislative message noted that the reduction "should be a cornerstone of tax reform for the 1990s."

Also included in the legislative message will be a call for Congress to repeal provisions of a catch-all spending bill passed late last year that will require media magnate Rupert Murdoch to sell off media properties in New York and Boston, in line with a ban on ownership of newspapers and television stations in the same city.

The State of the Union address has been characterized by White House aides as "thematic and rhetorical," punctuated by a presidential admonition that there be no retreat from his drive to strengthening of the nation's armed forces.

Reagan will focus heavily on educational excellence and the scourge of drug use — issues that have commanded his occasional attention

Senate to work on cut of medium-range arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate begins work Monday on a treaty eliminating medium-range nuclear missiles amid expectations of a spirited debate on the superpower arms deal.

Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., said Sunday he expects senators to examine Soviet adherence to previous arms pacts in considering the Intermediate Nuclear Force treaty.

"We're going to have a very good debate on that," Simpson said in a television interview with NBC's "Meet the Press."

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said on the same program that it is important to have wide agreement on the language of the proposed treaty to avoid any future misunderstanding.

"The interpretation of the treaty in the future can be based only upon what the administration tells us it means now and what the four corners of the documents say," Biden said.

As chairman of the Foreign Relations subcommittee on European affairs, Biden will conduct separate hearings next month assessing the treaty's impact on Western allies.

Biden, who recently returned from a European fact-finding mission, said it was his impression that European leaders are unwilling to pick up a greater share of the military burden.

Military experts agree that pulling out U.S. missiles from Europe will require strengthening NATO's conventional forces. The Soviet Union has the largest standing army in Europe. The INF treaty would be the first ever to cut back on U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons by eliminating an entire class of missiles.

Senate leaders have expressed concern that conservative treaty opponents will draft "killer" amendments that could nullify the treaty by making it unacceptable to the Soviet Union.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd said the chances of approval are "very good" and the only potential problem might be if a "gap or hole was found in the verification process."

Senate Democratic Whip Alan Cranston of California said "the real count is not who is for or against, but how people will vote on killer amendments. I've endeavored to get commitments from a majority of senators to oppose killer amendments. We're close, but we're not there yet."

Cranston, who counts votes for the majority Democrats, has estimated that there may be only 10 to 12 hard core opponents.

Senate leaders on both sides of the political aisle say they have the 67 votes required to approve the treaty.

The pact calls for the destruction of about 1,100 missiles — four Soviet types and two U.S. systems — with ranges between 300 and 3,400 miles. Almost all are deployed in Europe. The warheads, some 1,500 Soviet and 400 U.S. ones representing a minuscule 4 percent of the two nations' supply, can be returned to national stockpiles.

College freshmen are money hungry

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maybe it's the college bills in their pockets or the school loans to pay off after they get their sheepskins.

Whatever the reason, a new survey makes the current crop of college freshmen sound like a bunch of fortune-seeking materialists. They have their eyes on big bucks.

The report on nearly 290,000 freshmen in more than 500 colleges showed a 20-year high, 75.6 percent, interested in "being very well off financially," and a 20-year low, 39.4 percent, in support of "developing a meaningful philosophy of life."

CONSIDERING THAT, here's the "no surprise" in the report: Nearly one in four, 24.6 percent, aims for a business career. Back in '72, only about one in 10, 10.5 percent, eyed that goal.

The survey, sponsored by the American Council on Education, was conducted by the University of California at Los Angeles' Higher Education Research Institute.

The report, "American Freshman: National Norms for Fall 1987," is based on questionnaires filled in by freshmen last fall.

A RECORD number, 75.6 percent, identified "being very well off financially" as an essential or very important life goal, the report said. That is up from 73.2 percent last year, 70.9 percent in 1985, and nearly double the level in 1970, 39.1 percent, the report said.

Moreover, 71.3 percent, also a new high, indicated a key reason for attending college is "to make more money." That is up from 70.6 percent last year; 49.9 percent in 1971.

The devotion to money was in contrast to the commitment to "developing a meaningful philosophy of life," cited by less than two-fifths, 39.4 percent, down from 40.6 percent in 1986 and 82.9 percent 20 years ago.

THE REPORTS said the life philosophy item dropped to its lowest point in the history of the survey while student support for "being well off financially" reached its highest point this year.

"These trends over the past 20 years suggest a gradual but profound shift not only in students' values but also in the values of the larger society," said UCLA Graduate School of Education Professor Alexander W. Astin, director of the study.

"While we can only speculate about the reasons for the contrasting patterns for these two values, it is possible that they reflect a common underlying shift in student values over the past decade.

"MORE SPECIFICALLY, it could be argued that acceptance of the goal of making a lot of money obviates the need for some students to develop a "meaningful philosophy of life." Indeed, it may be that some students view making money as a kind of "philosophy of life" in itself."

Other findings from the poll: 23.8 percent said the death penalty should be abolished; 56.7 percent said abortion should be legal; 26 percent said married women's activities should be confined to the home; 52.1 percent said couples should live together before marriage; and 51.9 percent said it's OK for two people who like each other to have sex if they haven't known each other very long.

MARIJUANA LEGALIZATION was approved by 19.3 percent; 53.1 percent said homosexual relations should be prohibited; 68.3 percent said there is too much concern for the rights of criminals.

Among things in which they have no interest in learning were bridge, 63.8 percent; sight-reading piano music, 49.8 percent; doing at least 15 push-ups, 12.9 percent; swim a mile without stopping, 27.3 percent; typing 40 words a minute, 11.7 percent; using a sewing machine, 45.7 percent.

'Good Morning Vietnam' humors a sensitive subject

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

Combine the comedy of "MASH" with the drama of "Platoon" and the result may be a movie like "Good Morning Vietnam."

"Good Morning Vietnam" is one of the few movies about war, and probably the only one about Vietnam, that has successfully blended humor with an extremely sensitive subject.

At first, "Good Morning Vietnam" seems designed solely for the stand-up comedy of Robin Williams. But eventually the movie begins to take the dimensions of a serious drama, illustrating the frustration and tragedy that marked the Vietnam War.

The movie is based on the true story of Adrian Cronauer, a military disc jockey sent to Vietnam in 1965 with orders to liven up the troops. Not only does he liven up the troops, but also the radio station, where weary DJ's are broadcasting only big band and polka music.

Cronauer, played by Williams, delivers rapid-fire jokes and impersonations. He also broadcasts rock 'n' roll music for the first time in Vietnam. The result is instant chaos and anger among the station personnel.

Film Review

Cronauer continually breaks the rules at the station, but his popularity among the troops and a handful of military elite allows him to continually escape punishment.

As Cronauer delivers his broadcasts, the camera cuts away to scenes of the war. Moviegoers witness not only the troops listening and responding to his humor, but also fighting troops who are unable to hear his broadcast. The stage is set for the drama to follow.

For Cronauer, the mission is a painful learning experience about the war and its realities. He learns of the military's deception and misinformation toward the public, and how the war affects the Vietnamese citizens of Saigon.

After witnessing the bombing of a local restaurant, these lessons begin to sink in.

In a scene loaded with tension, Williams vividly expresses frustration and despair as he attempts to remain silent about the bombing while on the air.

Eventually, Cronauer is suspended for his behavior and his absence is felt keenly by the soldiers who have come to depend upon his morning broadcasts. Flooded with letters and telephone calls, the radio station finally is forced to shorten Cronauer's suspension. But tired of the deception and lies, and the continual attacks on his broadcasting methods, he refuses to return.

In the most moving scene of the film, Cronauer realizes how much he means to the soldiers when he encounters troops about to head into battle. He knows some of them may not return and, as he jokes around for them, his eyes seem to search out for the ones that will die.

'The Last Emperor' triumphs; wins four Golden Globe awards

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — "The Last Emperor," a drama about China's last monarch garnered four Golden Globe awards, while Cher, Michael Douglas, Robin Williams and Sally Kirkland won top acting kudos from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association.

"Broadcast News," nominated for five awards and one of the Oscar favorites, struck out Saturday night during the 45th annual Golden Globe awards, precursor of the April 11 Oscars.

"The Last Emperor" captured honors for best drama, best director (Bernardo Bertolucci), best screenplay and best original score.

"Hope and Glory," a poignant semi-autobiographical depiction of life during the London blitz in World War II by John Boorman, was named best comedy motion picture.

Unlike the Oscars, the Golden Globes are divided with separate awards for dramas and comedies.

Cher, an Italian widow who falls in love with the wrong man in "Moonstruck," and Robin Williams, the manic disc jockey in "Good Morning Vietnam," snared the top comedy film acting honors.

Sally Kirkland, plays a movie star exiled from Czechoslovakia in "Anna," and Michael Douglas, a hard-boiled financier in "Wall Street" won the dramatic acting awards.

Olympia Dukakis was named best supporting actress in a motion picture for her performance as a feisty mother in "Moonstruck" and Sean Connery was honored for his supporting role as an incorruptible policeman in "The Untouchables."

In the TV dramatic series category, the top acting awards went to Susan Dey of "L.A. Law" and Richard Kiley of "A Year in the Life." "L.A. Law" also was named best drama series.

Lucky draw grabs food

By Amy Gaubatz
 Staff Writer

Imagine having 60 seconds to run through the aisles of a supermarket, throwing anything you want into your cart, and not paying for any of it.

If you have ever dreamed of this scenario then Country Fair, 1702 W. Main, is the place to go.

At 10 a.m. Feb. 5, Country Fair will hold its first "Country Fair Supermarket Sweep," Thomas Schmutz, store manager said.

There is no purchase necessary to register for the "sweep," but you must be 18 years old. Entrants can register 24 hours a day until midnight, Feb. 1. Three winners will be picked during the drawing at 4:30 p.m., Feb. 2. The drawing will be aired live on WCIL, Schmutz said.

The first place winner will be given a 60 second spree; second place, 45 seconds; and third place, 30 seconds.

The winners will start separately, each receiving a cart at the front of the store. At the sound of the gun, they will have the specified amount of time to put as much food as they can into their cart.

Birth course set

A 12-week course teaching the Bradley Method of natural childbirth will be offered at the Newman Center from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. starting Jan. 29.

The course is free to anyone under 18 and seven dollars per class for adults.

The program includes discussions about pregnancy and instructions in pre-natal exercises, labor coaching, birth and other issues. For details, call Leigh Sadowaki at 1-657-2666.

Couple's handiwork shown at museum

By Laura Mhbrath
Staff Writer

Lawrence Herman's fingers moved slowly over the delicately carved wood on the jewelry box he made for his wife on their 20th wedding anniversary. He beamed with pride as he tried to answer question after question about his handiwork.

"I never dreamed of this," Herman said, standing in the center of the small gathering at University Museum.

An 80-piece craft exhibit by Herman and his wife, Sophia, will be displayed at the museum through March 14.

Lawrence specializes in handcarved woodwork and has built almost all of the furniture within their self-constructed home in Elizabethtown, including rocking chairs, sofas and grandfather clocks.

Sophia enjoys embroidery, crocheting and needlepoint. The exhibit features many of her creations, including needlepoint upholstery on pillows, cross-stitch samplers, tablecloths and quilts.

Married in 1944, both Hermans were raised on farms in Southern Illinois and grew up learning that if money was scarce, things often had to be made at home.

Sophia said her mother made all of the clothes for the family, in which she was one of 11 children. She learned many of her crocheting skills by watching her mother and older siblings as they sat in front of the fireplace in the evenings.

"I never had anyone sit and show me," she said. "I was the eighth one down, so by the time they got to me, I already knew how to do it."

Lawrence Herman taught himself the skills of wood-working when he was 20. He recalled his first creation, a pair of candleholders he sold to buy more tools and lumber.

When the couple met and decided to marry, they were able to use their talents to create something from nothing.

"We had to start from scratch," Sophia said. "I came without anything and he came without anything and we knew what we had to do to get it. So we just started working."

"We didn't have any money for furniture, but I had the wood and the tools, so I built a shop and started making one piece at a time," Lawrence said.

Sophia said when her husband built a rocking chair, one of the first pieces for the house, she had to cover it. She decided to teach herself needlepoint.

"I knew you had to go in one hole and out the other," she said laughing at the memory.

Her most recent project is a complicated needlepoint design of a unicorn for a chair pillow she has been working on for a year. She said the design has been such a challenge that when it is completed, "I'm not going to let anyone sit on it."

The Hermans still create items for their own home while working on crafts to sell to others. Lawrence still leaves for his workshop each day at 7 a.m. and returns at 4 p.m., his wife said.

"We just like to do these things," Sophia said. "I don't think we'll ever get too old to do something new."

Fraternity honors Martin Luther King Jr.

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

A brief ceremony was held to honor the birthday of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. Saturday morning.

About 85 people marched from Mae Smith to the steps of Shryock Auditorium.

Aaron "Country" Lee, chairman of the march and member of Iota Phi Theta fraternity, said the number of marchers was down from last year, probably because of the time and date of the march.

"Students don't like getting out of bed at 10 o'clock on Saturday mornings," Lee said.

The turnout was smaller because a lot of people didn't know about the ceremony, Lonnæ O'Neal, senior in journalism, said. She added that more publicity might make the turnout bigger next year.

Guest speaker Luke Tripp, assistant professor in the School of Social Work, gave recognition and appreciation to the large number of white students who participated this year.

"To keep King's dream alive, people need to get re-involved (in civil rights issues) and expand education for Carbondale's youths and youths throughout the United States," Tripp said.

To start, concentration needs to be placed on changing elementary schools by offering higher quality education for black students, Tripp said.

Trip added that the issues of civil rights in South Africa are still very alive in our country today, as are the dreams that King fought for. He urged people in the crowd not to forget the struggle of black people in order to "keep King's dream alive."

Maintaining the Black American Studies program at SIU-C is important for University students who want to learn about and understand the achievements and history their culture, Tripp said.

"The last generation got it here and this generation must keep it here," he added.

The march was sponsored by the Black Affairs Council and the Inter-Greek Council. It marks the beginning of activities planned for Black History Month.

AIDS virus infects 5 to 10 million worldwide

ATLANTA (UPI) — From 5 to 10 million people are infected with the AIDS virus worldwide, with most nations now reporting cases of the disease, according to the World Health Organization.

"Wherever the effort is made, the virus is usually found," Dr. Jonathan Mann, head of WHO's special program on AIDS, said.

Mann said over three quarters of the countries in the world are reporting cases of AIDS, compared with just 60 countries a year ago.

If the estimate of 5 to 10 million infected people is correct, "we could estimate that between 500,000 and 3 million new cases of AIDS will emerge over the next five years from people already infected with the AIDS virus," Mann said.

"IF THIS ESTIMATE holds true, there will be anywhere from 10 to 30 times more AIDS cases in the next five years than there have been in the last five years. So we are imminently facing a large number of AIDS cases regardless of whether we are stopping the further spread of the virus," he said.

The incubation period of the human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome is unknown, but health authorities estimate that 10 percent to 30 percent of infected individuals will develop AIDS within five years.

THE INTERVIEW with Mann was published in the latest issue of The Epidemiology Monitor, edited by Bruce Bernier, a public health specialist with the immunization division of the national Centers for Disease Control.

As of December 1987, there were over 66,000 AIDS cases reported officially to WHO from more than 125 countries. But Mann said this figure is inaccurate because of barriers to the diagnosis, recognition and reporting of diseases.

"Even in countries like the United States with its very highly developed AIDS surveillance network, an estimated 10 percent of the AIDS cases are not reported to the national government," Mann said.

"THEREFORE, WE estimate that rather than 66,000, between 100,000 and 150,000 cases of AIDS have probably occurred since the beginning of the epidemic and the number may actually be higher."

In the U.S., the Centers for Disease Control has received reports of 51,361 AIDS cases and 28,683 deaths since the epidemic started in 1981. The health agency estimates 1 million to 1.5 million Americans are carriers of the virus that destroys the immune system, paving the way for fatal infections.

However Mann said estimates of the prevalence of HIV infections are tentative at best. "There is no country in the world today, including the United States, France, Sweden and the United Kingdom, with a really accurate estimate," he said.

THE AIDS EPIDEMIC "is already spreading heterosexually in the industrialized world," Mann said, but how fast, "nobody can say ... (but) our experience in other parts of the world suggests that heterosexual transmission can be just as efficient as homosexual transmission."

Mann said WHO does not expect a major epidemic in North America and Europe among heterosexuals in the next few years, "but it is terribly important to take steps now to prevent such an epidemic that could indeed happen." He said WHO has created a special program to fight AIDS, raised sufficient funds to begin implementing it and marshalled the support of every country in the world.

WHO'S GLOBAL strategy includes prevention of new HIV infections, taking care of those already infected and unifying the AIDS control efforts at the national and international levels.

WHO has sent about 300 expert missions to countries and started collaborating with 91 countries on AIDS programs. Fifty countries have already developed written plans for AIDS prevention and control, Mann said.

He said AIDS has unveiled thinly disguised prejudices about race, sex, religion and national origin. It is "terribly important" to proceed beyond the stage of blaming or stigmatization to realizing that AIDS "is everybody's problem."

Do you see what I see?

The Minnesota Twins winning the 1987 World Series proved that anything is possible. With that in mind, I would like to see the following happen in 1988.

Michael Jordan win the MVP award he deserved to get last year.

Ray Dorris get mad.
Cindy Scott relax.
Dennis McKinnon coach the Chicago Bears.

Mike Ditka get his own Saturday morning cartoon show.

A Norris Division team win the Stanley Cup.

SIU-C get a permanent athletics director.

Vivian Sinou run the marathon for Greece in the Olympics.

Kai Nurnberger score 20 points in Seoul, Korea, as a member of the West German Olympic team.

The McAndrew Stadium track finished.

The police stop hassling McAndrew Stadium tailgaters.

The Saluki Shakers perform at all athletic events.

Field hockey banned on campus.

Ditto for hackey sack and skateboarding.

Students stay for the second half of football games.

Steve Middleton make the Golden State Warriors.

All Saluki athletes graduate.

The Arena filled for a men's and women's basketball double-header.

Brian Bosworth and Eric Dickerson get traded to the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Bridget Bonds dunk.

The clock turned back on Walter Payton, Julius Erving, Reggie Jackson and Chris Evert.

Marvin Hagler beat Sugar Ray Leonard in a rematch.

The Illini lose every game in every sport.

NFL stadiums empty.

Bobby Knight and John McEnroe argue with each other.

Saluki running back Byron

From the Press Box
Dave Miller

Mitchell go out in style.

A television station — any station — cover Saluki basketball. (Are you reading this Carbondale Cablevision?)

The Cubs trade Ryne Sandberg to the White Sox for Jose DelLeon and a couple of broken bats.

Not one but several black managers hired.

Meet someone who actually cares about America's Cup.

The SIU-C athletics department create a realistic budget that does not result in a 10-percent cut in the middle of the year.

Bob Horner wrestle Hulk Hogan.

Spud Webb go one-on-one with Tyrone Bogues.

Bradley reach the Final Four by beating Indiana, Georgetown, North Carolina State and Kentucky.

The Saluki football team play as good as the new turf looks.

Rich Herrin & Co. have as good of a recruiting season as they had in the fall.

The scholarships taken from "Itchy" Jones returned.

Beer sold at Saluki sporting events.

Golfers play with their own money in the Skins game.

Indoor soccer played with two balls.

The Hill Gang become even more obnoxious.

Quarterback Jim Hart be granted one more year of eligibility to lead the Salukis to the promised land.

Men's 400-yard relay team defeats Cincinnati, 61-52

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

For the second time in the last three meets, the nation's No. 1 400-yard freestyle relay team led the men's swim squad to victory.

The team of Jeff Goelz, David Morovitz, Sean Morrissey and Kevin Nagy had a winning time of 3 minutes, 52.0 seconds as the Salukis defeated Cincinnati 61-52 Saturday at the Recreation Center pool.

"This was a nice win for the men," Coach Doug Ingram said. "They made it closer than it should have been, but I think the relay team is getting used to winning for us."

The 400 freestyle relay team also was the deciding factor in the Jan. 6 win over Nebraska.

"I think this relay team can finish in the top eight in the NAAs," Ingram said.

The women's team lost its meet to Cincinnati, 67.5 to 45.5. The loss snapped a four-meet winning streak and put the Salukis at 5-7.

The men, 7-4, got three wins from Harri Gardemia, two from Eric Bradac, and one each from Scott Roberts and Nagy.

The women took in wins from the 400-yard medley relay team, from Suella Miller in the 200-yard individual medley and Kathi Wire in the 100-yard freestyle.

"The women had a tough, tough week of training," Ingram said. "I told them they really had my respect for their performance."

Diver Celia Gales was a strong performer, diving coach Dave Ardrey said.

"She was outstanding," he said. "She competed against two all-Americans and lost by only six points in the one-meter and split them in the three-meter."

On Friday, both teams defeated Missouri. The men won 115-87; the women won 112-102.

The men, swimming in off-events, got two wins each from Roberts and Bradac. David Sampson won both the one- and three-meter dives.

The women got wins from six swimmers, including two by Tricia Rothenbach in the 200- and 500-yard freestyle. Gales won two diving events.

seconds. Trailing 99-98, outside attempts by Nurnberger and Sterling Mahan missed.

Herrin continued to vent his frustration to the officials about Shipley's intentional foul. Herrin was assessed a technical foul with the clock at :00, but the final buzzer had not yet sounded. The Redbirds finished the scoring with three free throws.

Down the stretch, the Salukis were forced to play without Steve Middleton, who fouled out with 3:35 left in overtime.

The Salukis are 7-10 and 2-3 in the Missouri Valley. The Redbirds improved to 10-6 and are tied with Drake for first in the Valley with a 4-1 record.

Once again, the Salukis' "Dynamic Duo" led the scoring. Middleton scored 26 and Nurnberger had 23. Shipley scored 21 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Todd Krueger had a season-high 12 points.

The Redbirds won the game inside. Coleman scored a career-high 23. Peterson, who played forward on an injured ankle, had 20 points.

The Salukis shot an uncharacteristic 63 percent from the free-throw line, connecting on 19 of 30 attempts.

half. On the next inbounds, Seals beat the Indiana State defenders downcourt, and made the assist to Kampwerth.

"I really thought about calling timeout at the center line," Scott said. "Then Tonda broke it, and so I didn't call timeout. She got the pass to Cathy, who filled the trail spot and was wide open underneath. It was a great pass and good court awareness on her part."

The Indiana State defense lagged after 6-foot junior forward Lori Castetter, who finished with 26 points, fouled out at 45 seconds.

"At that point, it was a crucial loss," Indiana State coach Andrea Myers said. "Not just because of her scoring, but more importantly, her leadership."

Castetter and Amy Vanderkolk, who had 16 points and seven rebounds, spearheaded the Indiana State rally. Vanderkolk had three unanswered goals that brought Indiana State within seven, 68-59, and forced an SIU-C timeout at 4:36.

The Salukis' other top scorers were Berghuis with 11 and surprise starter Deanna Sanders with 11.

"It was a good move to put her (Sanders) in the lineup," Scott said. "We told everybody at practice that we're going with this lineup."

Globetrotters, Salukis could share Arena

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Double-header basketball action featuring a Harlem Globetrotters show and the Gateway Conference Tournament Championship game could be in the works for March 9 at the Arena.

Should the women's basketball team reach the finals as the No. 1 seed, SIU-C would play host at the Arena following an already scheduled appearance by the Globetrotters.

"Gary Drake, who's the head of the Arena, has been in conversation with the Globetrotters," acting Athletics Director Charlotte West said. "They (the Globetrotters) have agreed they would start at 6:30 that night and finish before 8:30, which would enable us to get our game underway by 9 o'clock." The championship game will be televised live by Chicago-based cable outlet, SportsVision.

"Since it's going to be televised, all the schools in the conference have agreed to start at nine to accommodate us in case it's here," West said.

Arrangements are being made that would allow fans to attend both events with a single ticket, she said.

Men's track team, van break down

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The men's track team was stopped cold Saturday — twice.

The team finished last in its triangular meet in Columbus, Ohio, and its van broke down on the return trip. Coach Bill Cornell said 14 athletes were stranded in Effingham overnight.

The Salukis, who returned home Sunday afternoon, scored 28½ points behind Ohio State with 73½ and Penn State with 60.

Senior Bret Garrett placed second in the 800-meter run with a time of 1 minute, 59.39 seconds.

Sophomore Leonard Vance finished third in the triple jump, leaping 50 feet, 4¾ inches. Modiba Crawford finished fourth, improving his score by 10 inches to 47-10¾.

"We had quite a bit of improvement in areas, and a letdown in some others," Cornell said.

Cornell noted specific improvements in the pole vault and 55-meter dash.

Mike Michels and Shane Weber improved last week's efforts, vaulting 15-7. In the 55-meter dash, the Salukis had four finalists.

Cornell said he was surprised the team didn't win the 1,600-meter relay.

"I thought we would have won," he said. "Our first man got knocked down, and by the time he got back on the track, he was 20 meters behind."

Senior Ron Herrer, a hopeful to qualify for nationals in the shot-put, threw "about a foot less" than last week, Cornell said.

"The men (shot-putters) were lifting heavy weights this week," he said. "We weren't expecting them to throw that well."

ISU game anything but normal

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The men's basketball team ran out of magic and Coach Rich Herrin ran out of patience with the referees Saturday in Normal.

There were two controversial calls in Illinois State's 102-98 overtime win against the Salukis. One almost destroyed the Salukis. The other temporarily saved them.

The first call came with ISU holding a 80-79 lead with 34 seconds left in regulation. Rick Shipley was whistled for an intentional foul as Redbird center Jarrod Coleman went up for a layup. Coleman received two free throws and the Redbirds got the next possession.

Coleman connected on both free throws and Cliff Peterson added two more when he was fouled. The four-point play gave the Redbirds a 84-79 lead.

Kai Nurnberger hit two free throws to bring the Salukis to within three, but Coleman made two free throws to extend the lead back to five with 27 seconds left.

Nurnberger banked one in to cut the lead to 86-83. The Salukis regained the ball when Peterson traveled with 16 seconds remaining.

The second disputed call allowed Nurnberger to send the game into overtime with a three-pointer from the corner as time expired. There was confusion as to whether the shot was released in time because the final buzzer could not be heard over the roar of the 6,585 fans. After a discussion, the referees counted the basket.

In overtime, the Redbirds opened up a six-point lead with 1:14 left. Todd Krueger's three-point shot cut the lead to 99-96. After Redbird Randy Blair missed the front end of a one-and-one, Shipley scored off a rebound and was fouled with 35 seconds left. He missed the free throw but the Salukis regained the ball.

The Salukis had two chances to win the game in the last 14

Kampwerth seals victory

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Junior center Cathy Kampwerth turned a moment's indecision into a 77-73 win for the women's basketball team over Indiana State Saturday at the Arena.

With 15 seconds remaining and the score tied at 73, SIU-C guard Tonda Seals pushed the ball upcourt on a what was developing into a fast break. Coach Cindy Scott hesitated, but didn't call timeout. As Seals neared the basket, only one defender stood between her and the goal.

Kampwerth, who was trailing on the other side of the play, didn't know if Seals was going to feed her the ball or go for the shot.

"It seemed like everything had stopped," Kampwerth said. "I didn't know if she (Seals) was going to stop or pass me the ball. My main worry: 'Was I going to miss?'"

Seals delivered a bounce pass to Kampwerth, who laid in the game-winner at 11 seconds despite being fouled on the play.

"On those little bunnies underneath I get nervous," Kampwerth said. "I had just missed one on the play before and I was worried I was going to do the same thing."

Kampwerth didn't miss and her subsequent free throw completed the three-point play for a career-high 22 points.

With a few seconds remaining, Mary Berghuis blocked an attempt by Indiana State's Jennifer Daugherty. Bridgett Bonds added a free throw at :01 for her 17th point and the winning margin.

Kampwerth's last-minute heroics were necessary because at 23 seconds, Indiana State's Teri Moore canned a three-point goal from the top of the key for the tie at 73. Moore's goal completed Indiana State's comeback from a 13-point deficit at the six-minute mark of the second

Women's track team breaks 2 school records at Purdue

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The women's track team broke two school records on its way to a second-place finish Friday at the Purdue Invitational in West Lafayette, Ind.

Purdue won the nine-team meet with 161 points, followed by SIU-C with 92.

Christiana Philippou set a school record in the triple jump with 39 feet, 1 inch, nine inches over the old mark. Coach Don DeNoon said Philippou's effort was "the best performance of any athlete overall."

Philippou finished second in the long jump with 18 feet, 4½ inches.

In the 1,000-meter run, Vivian Sinou broke teammate Lisa Judiscak's record of 3 minutes, 1.48 seconds with a time of 2:57.88 for a second-place finish.

The Salukis turned in 15 personal bests out of 27 efforts. "I'm probably always happy when I see 50-percent improvement," DeNoon said.

Gateway race back to 4-way tie

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

It's a good thing Abbott and Costello aren't around to ask "Who's on first?" these days.

Because in the Gateway Conference women's basketball standings, they would get a myriad of answers.

"I don't think there's ever been the parity there is right now," Coach Cindy Scott said.

SIU-C, Illinois State, Indiana State and Eastern Illinois are all 7-2 and tied for first at the halfway-point of the league season.

On Saturday, SIU-C beat Indiana State 77-73 while Eastern Illinois devastated Illinois State 81-61.

"That Illinois State score just amazes me," Scott said. The Salukis were blown out 79-59 by Illinois State on Thursday while Indiana State defeated Eastern Illinois 86-76.

"It's very exciting," acting Athletics

Director Charlotte West said. "I had a pregame function and I was in the hospitality room at halftime and it wasn't until after the game that I knew that Eastern had defeated Illinois State by 20 points. We really have an exciting race."

Jim Sheehan, assistant commissioner of the Gateway Conference, said the conference was balanced despite the preseason coaches poll that more or less handed the league championship to the Salukis.

"I don't think that everyone thought that Southern Illinois was going to run away with it," he said. "That was just being polite. I think the bottom of the conference is way up from last year."

Sheehan said all the teams have improved. "Southern Illinois is a very good team, but once you're on top, everyone is gunning for you," he said.
