S. I. N. U. FACULTY MEMBERS ATTEND ED. CONFERENCE

Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern Draw Large Attendances

PULLIAM AMONG THOSE PRESENT Fourteen Faculty Members Hear Talks On Curriculum

Several members of the faculty attended educational conference week before last at the University of Illinois, University of Chicago, and Northwestern University.

Dean E. G. Lentz, Dr. Bruce Merrill, and Edward V. Mott, Jr., attended conference on testing and measurements at the University of Chicago.

The main point of discussion centered around the question of whether objective tests can measure the materials learned in college work.

Prof. Pulliam, Miss Frances Harbour, Burnett Shryock, Howard De Forrest Widger, and Dr. Newton attended the University of Illinois conference on curriculum construction and improvement of instruction.

Some of the other speakers who talked there were Dr. Judd, Prof. Ayres of the University of Texas, and Prof. Brunner from Teachers College, Columbia.

Those who attended the conference on survey courses at Northwestern University were S. E. Bloomer, F. C. Warren, Dr. Vera L. Pencock, Dr. Mary M. Steppell, Dr. Ryssel, M. Nelson, and Professor Joseph Pulliam.

These faculty members, familiar with the problems that confront college students here, came to the conclusion that those problems are universal.

President Pulliam issued the following statement regarding the conference which he attended.

"While we found the conferences interesting and stimulating, Mr. Warren and I agreed that not much material was presented that has not been thoroughly considered and well understood on this campus."

SHRYOCK WILL EXHIBIT GROUP OF PAINTINGS

Watercolors And Oils In Exhibit At City Library

An exhibition of paintings by Burnett Shryock, featuring the portrait of Alice Allen and several watercolors of local scenes done within the last few months will be held at the City Library on Friday afternoon of this week.

The watercolor landscape paintings which will be in the display Friday depict scenes familiar to natives of Southern Illinois.

The artist originally appeared in the "Journal of Genetic Psychology," and was entitled "The Development of Concepts" or a study of children's drawings.

'NO DANGER OF FASCISM AS WE KNOW IT IN EUROPE. WE HAVE DIFFERENT TYPE OF PEOPLE'-SMEDLEY BUTLER

By MARIAN RICHARDS

General Smedley Butler, dynamic and colorful ex-soldier and ardent socialist, offered the interview by asking about the outcome of the vote on the proposed R. O. T. C. unit here.

VERNON CRANE ASSISTANT CITY EDITOR OF POST

Editor of Egyptian During Past Year Accepts Vacancy

Vernon P. Crane, former editor of the Egyptian, is now holding the position of assistant city editor of the St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Mr. Crane is well known on the campus of the Egyptian as a member of the "Genetic Psychology" staff.

Butler had deftly changed the subject. In answer to a question regarding the dangers of fascism in the U. S., General Butler said, "There is absolutely no danger of fascism as we know it in Europe. We have a different type of people."

ILLINOIS TO GET $455,700 OF NYA FUNDS FOR NEXT THREE MONTHS

Almost Twice As Large As Same Time Allotment In 1935

CHICAGO, July 28—Illinois has been allotted $455,700 of new National Youth Administration funds to carry on its work projects for the first three months of the fiscal year just begun.

Mr. Crane's address is now Downtown Y. M. C. A. Bldg., St. Louis, Missouri. He has been working under the supervision of Mr. Paul Green, City Editor of the complete morning edition of the Post.

Here the visit with the retired marine had to end. Although General Butler may not be regarded as a serious student or a particularly cultured gentleman, he has one of the strongest, most interesting personalities I have ever met.

S. I. N. U. GRAD WRITES OF NEW COTTON PICKERS

Harry Moss Tells Of Invention Which May Change Industry

Far out near the end of Florida Street in Memphis, I had the privilege of seeing the much talked of machine which threatens to completely alter the social and economic structure of our southern states.

The machine itself is built on about this idea: ripe cotton will cling to a motorized revolving spindle; the un-matured bolls and other parts of the plant will not. So the machine will pick only the ripe cotton by hand.

"How much can the machine pick in a day?" I asked. "We had not one week and the best was about five and a half bales of cotton in seven and a half hours. Now that was a very good stand of cotton and above average."

"And how clean does the machine pick?" I continued. "Not so clean as a share-cropper who picks his own crop and is very particular, but better than labor hired to pick by the pound, was his characteristically modest answer."

"We are making ten machines this year," he continued. "Two of which have been purchased and are to be sent to the Soviet Union."

ILLINOIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA PRESENTS TWO PROGRAMS OF HIGH MUSICAL VALUE HERE LAST WEEK

Joel Lay, Former Carbondale Boy And S. I. N. U. Student, Receives Praise As Baritone Soloist

The Illinois Symphony Orchestra in presenting two concerts Tuesday under the direction of Max Hendis, proved that its reputation as the best musical unit in the Illinois Federal Music project has appeared here in making a distinguishable part in the musical life of Chicago.

The first program was presented before the assembled student body. The second, which was just a shade more intellectual in tone, and for which admission was charged, was rather poorly attended. A large part of the evening audience consisted of musically-minded delegations from neighboring towns.

It was hard to say which was the more enjoyable of the two symphonies played—the Schubert "Unfinished" or the Mozart G Minor—either from the point of view of intrinsic excellence, since both are among the half-dozen greatest in the world, or from that of interpretation, since both were conducted authoritatively by Max Hendis and very ably executed by his musicians.
