Compromise Hours Plan Okayed

By John Epperheimer

A compromise plan for the trial abolishment of women's hours for juniors and seniors has been approved by the administration and the Student Senate.

Several sources, both student and administration, indicated that they expect the self-determined hours to be made permanent in the fall and probably extended to sophomores. They added that negative results of the experiment would be the only deterrent to extension.

The plan, proposed in essence Friday and Saturday by the administration, was approved by the Student Senate in a stormy session Sunday night.

The vote for the proposal was near-unanimous, but there was vocal opposition from some senators, who charged it was a "sell-out" to the administration.

Ray Lenzi, student body president, and Senator Gary Krischer are opposed to acceptance of the plan.

However, Senator Jerry Finney, a student representative in the weekend negotiations, called the experiment "a significant victory" for students.

"Barring any unforeseen circumstances, there will be an expansion (of privileges to sophomores) next year," Finney said.

An administration spokesman said Monday that "if the experiment is successful, it is anticipated that the new rules will be continued and possibly extended to a larger group."

After the settlement was reached, following three weekend meetings between students and administrators, a rally set for Monday night was called off.

Some senators indicated that the rally probably would not have been held even if no settlement was reached. They cited the tension in Carbondale and the resultant wishes of administrators that the rally be cancelled.

The experiment will begin as soon as possible and continue throughout the term. Junior and senior women in good academic and social standing will have self-determined hours, if they have written permission of their parents to participate in the experiment.

The Senate basically wanted self-determined hours on a permanent basis for sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Finney said he believes it is significant that the administration has conceded for the first time that at least some women should have self-determined hours.

Richard Karr, chairman of the Senate, said "A start has been made. Now, through further dialogues the goal may soon be achieved of adult students setting their own rules of social conduct."

SIU Makes Effort To Meet Requests Of Negro Group

By Inez Rencher

University officials are making attempts to meet the requests by an off-campus black students organization for innovations in curriculum, staff and work opportunities for the benefit of black students and Carbondale residents.

Darryl Madison, a spokesman for the student group, said both long range and immediate requests were made Friday in a meeting with officials. Among the immediate proposals listed by the organization are the following:

1. The use of the university nursery by residents of the northeast section of Carbondale, so that black mothers from the area can work and have their children tended.

2. Aid by the university in the training and employment of black youths in areas including food service and maintenance.

3. The hiring of qualified black counselors, advisers and instructors by the University.

4. The incorporation of specific courses in black history, music and art.

5. The initiation of a Martin Luther King Scholarship fund for black students from the ghettos.

6. The listing of Black Recognition Day, May 19, birthday of Malcolm X, on the University calendar.

"As far as academic affairs are concerned, the administration is giving most careful attention to various aspects of its program, both in SIU and in the community, for the benefit of the disadvantaged minority," Robert MacVicar, vice president of academic affairs said.

MacVicar also said the administration will give "more appropriate recognition" to minority groups, especially to the blacks and their achievements and culture.

Madison made a public announcement of the requests at a memorial service for Martin Luther King Jr. Monday morning at the Arena.

At the service members of the community and the University eulogized King. Par-

Fire Vandals Hit Carbondale

By Jim Plante

Arsonists, vandals and snipers set fires, ransacked homes and businesses, and spread havoc throughout Carbondale Friday night, Sunday night and Monday morning.

Thirteen fire alarms kept firemen and equipment from neighboring DuQuoin, Murphysboro, and Benton busy in Carbondale until 3 a.m. Monday. Fire bombs and gasoline fires were used by the arsonists in most cases.

On Saturday afternoon, the Carbondale unit of the National Guard was activated as a standby detachment to reinforce police units of the Carbondale force, the Jackson County Sheriff's Office, and the State Police.

Damage was estimated for only one of several stores that were vandalized but it alone came to over $1,000.

Summer Tour Spaces Available

Spaces are still available on an SIU-chartered plane for Europe for summer travel and study, according to Raymond H. Day, dean of the University Extension Services and director of the summer program.

The chartered plane will leave St. Louis on June 17 for London, and will return from Paris to St. Louis on Aug. 27.

Any University student in good standing can participate in the study program, and any student, faculty or staff member and their families may take advantage of the low travel rates, Day said.

He estimated that the cost to the individual for a round trip fare to Europe would be $298.

Cost of the program involving academic credit, including tuition, plane transportation, travel in Europe, and room and board in Europe, will vary from approximately $1,000 to $1,500, depending upon the particular program selected.

Course subjects will include English, German, government, history, and Russian.

Plane seats have been assigned for persons participating in the study projects and for persons seeking only transportation to Europe.

Reservations in each category are made in order as payments are received. The first payment in both categories is $100. Subsequent payments will be made in two additional equal installments.

Paulette Holland Crowned Kappa Karnival Queen

Paulette Holland, a sophomore from Taylorville, Ill., majoring in special education, was crowned queen of the Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity.

Herb Kent, a disc jockey from Chicago, performed the crowning ceremony before a group of about 3,000 people at the National Guard Armory at Oakland and Sycamore.

In keeping with the theme, "Kappas in the Kongo," the SIU chapter members were outfitted in African robes and headresses.

The chapter plans to donate all money collected as votes for the queen candidates to the Martin Luther King Memorial Scholarship Fund. Fifteen per cent of the Karnival proceeds will be contributed to the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

A Man Is Buried

A man is buried in Atlanta today. He died suddenly last week, killed by a rifle bullet.

White America pulled the trigger of that rifle, with years of prejudice, both open and subtle.

In Carbondale and Chicago and Washington and all over America windows are being broken and buildings are burning and people are dying.

And people, black and white but mostly white, are scared. Some of them are cursing and reinforcing their bigotry and buying guns.

Others are appalled by a country which can espouse equality and breed hate at the same time.

Each man should be searching his conscience, to discover what he contributed not only to the death in Memphis, but to riots and unequal opportunity and poor education and poverty.

And the reality is that in the days ahead all the promises of new federal aid and poverty programs and open housing aren't going to stop the killing and destruction soon.

And generations to come will continue to live in two Americas, Black and White. And the blood will probably flow and the buildings will probably burn.

And a man named King had a dream of ending all this. He had a plan—no, a way of life—to stop it. He was practicing that in Memphis.

And he is buried in Atlanta today.

John Epperheimer

U. Park Progressive

The University Park Executive Council's recent decision to do away with its cafeteria dress code is a significant step in the direction of increased individual liberty.

The dress code, a clothing prerequisite for admittance to meals, is no more than a set of uniform social standards based on an imposed value system. Some codes have carried this principle to the point of refusing admittance to Sunday dinner on the basis of the color of socks being worn. This is a radical application of a fundamentally ridiculous concept.

The concept of a dress code is one of restraint rather than freedom, of coercion rather than conviction. Civil laws regarding public decency and health are in existence; they should be enough.

Many students regard the dress code as another aspect of the University "status quo," and do not realize that it is determined by students within each living area, rather than by the administration.

The University Park decision is progressive in that the council took the initiative to distribute questionnaires concerning the code. Similar investigations by other living areas might surprise those who contend the dress code to be "the democratic will of the students."

Mental Health Setback

A shameful loss of treatment hours occurs and state mental health programs sometimes suffer when an administration changes and hospital budgets are slashed.

And Illinois, which moved ahead with a responsible mental health program in 1961 when Otto Kerner became Governor, cannot afford such a setback.

By concentrating on treatment rather than custodial handling, the population of the state mental hospitals has been substantially reduced, new programs for mental retardation have been created, and some new facilities have been added.

Illinois also has pioneered the community concept. The goal here is to return patients to communities and thus to their families, jobs and friends. This concept involves the recognition that local hospitals, mental health clinics, nursing homes and other agencies are all potential locations for programs to aid the mentally ill and the mentally retarded.

It is hoped that the November election winner who will succeed Gov. Kerner will not allow a shortsighted view of the economy or politics to shatter the programs in effect at the present time to help the more than one million persons residing in Illinois who have mental conditions requiring treatment services.

Year of Political Surprises

To the Daily Egyptian:

So far, 1968 has been a year for surprises as far as politics goes. The political experts have been wrong on almost all accounts. They predicted Nixon and Kennedy wouldn't run. They predicted that President Johnson wouldn't quit the race for reelection. And they didn't think McCarthy would do so well in New Hampshire.

However, if you think the political experts and newspapermen are having a bad year, you should see the one, the seers, fortune-tellers, prophets and other people nationally known for having the ability to predict the future are having.

Among the top prophets having a bad year in predicting the outcome of this year's presidential election is Jeane Dixon, the nationally noted seer. In the past, she predicted the coming of Red China, the re-election of President Truman, and the assassination of John Kennedy.

Six years ago, she stated that the man elected president in 1968 would be a Republican whose name begins with R. In her New Year's predictions, she stated that Johnson would be nominated to run again this year.

Both predictions do not look like they will come true, since Nixon is leading the Republicans and Johnson says he is not running. However, Mrs. Dixon was right on her prediction that President Johnson would make moves toward peace during March of this year.

Another seer in trouble this year is Irene Hughes, who sometimes writes for Fate magazine. Last summer on the Tom Duggan TV show in Chicago, she stated that George Romney would be elected in a close race over President Johnson in 1968. Tom Duggan's only remark to that was "You're kidding!" Either Mrs. Hughes was kidding, or her prediction will be dead wrong come November.

In November, 1966, parapsychologist Russ Burgess appeared at an SIU convocation. Using ESP, he predicted that Nixon would win over President Johnson in 1968. At least he was half right as to who the candidates would probably be.

With all the noted seers and prophets being wrong this year, how can we expect our political experts and men of the press to be right? After all, their sources of information are just as good as the seers. And, it could be that our political experts have been basing their predictions on those of fortune-tellers all along without the public knowing it!

'Monsoon' Flood in Dormitory

To the Daily Egyptian:

Where, may we ask, does one go for help in an emergency situation at this University? The maintenance department? We have found our solution in a vacuum pump!

Ever since the rainfall of Saturday evening, March 31, we have had to cope with a continuous supply of rain water in our "university approved on-campus housing dorm." Within 2 1/2 hours we had bailed 43 gallons of water from our room. Imagine opening the door and walking into two inches of water covering the floor and extending into the closets. In fact, it was one foot away from running into the hall.

When did we get assistance? Our plea for help was heard Saturday evening—but our reply came Tuesday morning and our temporary solution came Wednesday evening in the form of one "Cyclonic" vacuum pump.

Everyone is well aware of SIU's famous "monsoon season" and from recent weather forecasts, it has started. Does this mean our room will be constantly in water, or can SIU's "efficient" maintenance solve our problem?

Text Service Slow to Fine

To the Daily Egyptian:

To many campus students who are employed by the University, last week's paycheck was withheld because of money allegedly owed to the textbook service for failure to turn in textbooks.

Passing over the question of whether it is just to withhold a student's paycheck for any such similar reason, the circumstances in this case were, in my opinion, ludicrous.

In most cases, students who turn in their textbooks save their receipt until they turn in the next quarter's texts. It seems that a three-month period would be a reasonable amount of time for the textbook service to determine whether or not a text had been returned or not.

During each quarter, there are a number of student workers who appear to be lounging around expecting a student to pick up texts.

For some reason, explained to me by a textbook service employee, the hold on paychecks this spring was for texts not turned in last fall. As a graduating senior, I have never been subject to any taking of my hard-earned dollars so ridiculously.

If the textbook service cannot determine within a reasonable amount of time whether or not a text has been returned, a student should not be held liable. A student completely dominated by the University to the point where he cannot even be paid for services rendered should not be made the pawn of inefficient bureaucracy.

Warning System Faulty

To the Daily Egyptian:

At 8:15 p.m. on April 3, a tornado was sighted two miles east of Carbondale. I was under the impression that in such a case, a tornado warning is in effect, and therefore the tornado siren should be sounded.

During the thunderstorm, I opened a window to listen for the siren which I did not hear.

Moreover, all television channels were proceeding with normal broadcasting. After the electric power went off, I turned on my transistor radio but received only static.

Following the storm, I contacted the SIU Physical Plant regarding the tornado warning siren. I was told that those at the plant were notified of the tornado warning, but for some undisclosed reason, the siren was not sounded.

With sufficient warning the possible dangers of a tornado can be minimized, by forewarned citizens taking protective cover. I would suggest that this can be facilitated by using all the warning systems which are available in this area.

WSIU-TV could superimpose the words "tornado watch" or "tornado warning" at the bottom of the screen to warn viewers.

Also, the tornado warning system should be checked to see if it can be heard all over Carbondale. Most of all, it should be sounded in the event of a warning.

An Editor's Outlook

Youth's Agony-Lack of Communication

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones
General Features Corp.

The Look magazine of April 2 has come out with another one of these articles on the agony of American youth, and sometimes it's hard to say whether the agony produces these articles or the articles trigger the agony.

Anyway, the piece comprises the usual campus interviews of young men and women who are oppressed by Vietnam, bigotry, the draft, the atom bomb, materialism and the general stupidity of their parents.

One editor of a college newspaper came up with this:

"Most of our parents grew up in the Depression, and they were really hurting. They are concerned with money, status and they're very insecure. Most of us, on the contrary, grew up in the most abundant society the world's ever seen. And to us, abundance and all the trappings isn't something to work for because you have it. You're used to it. It's nothing. So you start getting into human values because you've gone beyond the security thing. And our parents just can't understand that."

Now, it is true that every new generation since the founding of Ur has had to listen to the "boy-did-we-have-it-tough" speech from the parents, and these have all gone over like lead balloons, for intelligent youth has always observed the shortcomings of society and has figured that whatever grief the older generation suffered was deserved.

The Depression generation, of which the young college editor speaks so scornfully, was, itself, furious at the economic mess bequeathed it by its elders. Believe me, I was one of the hollersers.

But I am intrigued at the young man's blithe kiss-off of the "security thing," which he says the current college crowd has "gone beyond." They are all gung-ho for "human values," instead. Their parents "just can't understand." Ergo, the parents are moneygrabbers, uninterested in humanity.

Here is a bit of adolescent smuggerly that cries for an arrow in the posterior.

"The security thing" seems to be this youth's way of saying that he has enough--enough food, drink, shelter, transportation and entertainment. That's nice. This may be the first generation in history that decided that such things will be automatically delivered, like the morning milk.

But until gifted robots take over completely, security will be the fruit of someone's work--someone on the assembly line or in the field or behind the counter or at the throttle. These are not automatic fruits, but contrived fruits, planned for, labored at and sweated over.

The depression parents, who, the young man concedes, were really hurting, did indeed. No eager representatives of General Electric or Monsanto or Lockheed lured collegians of the 30's into interview rooms by rolling golden apples out in the corridor.

There were half a dozen men you had to leap over to get any kind of a job, and half a dozen ready to hop into your seat if you should foul up. It was a little nervous. But people did manage to get married, and at salaries which would now be considered tips, and great efforts were made to buy life insurance and lay aside something for Junior's education.

This was money-grabbing. No doubt about it. And maybe the big mistake the Depression parents made lay in their effort to insulate Junior from the grim realities of the struggle for survival, which most of the world still understands well. Too many youngsters arrived at college thinking, as the young collegiate editor puts it, that "abundance isn't something to work for because you have it."

The smug pretense that the older generation had no regard for "human values" is a little hard to take. Very many of that generation died in a very dirty war against a real, live man by the name of Hitler who was happy to put you in the oven if your ancestors weren't just right or if you dared to speak your mind.

But the struggle for "human values" is somewhat complicated.

There is more to it than toting placards or lying down in the street or fomenting riots. To make life absolutely comfortable for what William Allen White bluntly called "the lazy, greasy frizzle" could result in a general loss of incentive to produce, and this would mean the end of abundance.

There is, indeed, a distressing lack of communication between much of the older generation and its collegiate sons and daughters. But the fault is not all one-sided. To ask the older generation, which has had a brush or two with experience, to listen with awe and admiration to the cocky, simplistic, morally-arrogant world picture of pampered American youth is quite an order.

One philosopher put it neatly: "At the age of 10 I thought my dad knew everything. At 20 I didn't think he knew anything. At 30 I was astonished at how much the Old Man had learned."

Our Man Hoppe

Peace, Unity and Other Garbage

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Almost unnoticed in the recent exciting events was the dramatic decision of Bernard A. Wyzniewski not to seek re-election as President of the crisis-ridden Greater Metropolitan Garbage Removal District.

Mr. Wyzniewski dropped his bombshell at the end of a major address to the P.S. 476 Mom's Club.

He devoted the first 35 minutes of his address to excoriating his 17 opponents in the race, announcing plans designed to appeal to both pro- and anti-garbage forces, and otherwise effectively undercutting all his opposition.

Both reporters were shaking their heads in awe at the political masterfulness of the man, when Mr. Wyzniewski suddenly departed from his prepared text to announce:

"I shall not seek and I will not accept re-election for another term as your President."

And, oh, how the rafters sang with cheers!

"I am making this great self-sacrifice," continued Mr. Wyzniewski, obviously emotionally overcome by the ovation, "because a garbage district divided cannot stand.

"As your President, I have always put the unity of the district ahead of any divisive partisanship.

"What we won when all our people united must not now be lost in suspicion, distrust and selfishness. I do not believe I should devote an hour of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of trying to figure out what to do with all this garbage.

"And so, believing as I do that old American adage, 'Let's change horses in mid-stream,' I humbly sacrifice myself in the interest of peace and unity."

Mr. Wyzniewski's 17 opponents privately questioned whether they could believe him this time, publicly praised his gallant sacrifice for peace and unity, and promptly fell on each other's throats.

In the ensuing carnage, Mr. Wyzniewski remained loftily above it all.

His "wise statesmanship" received universal accolades and everyone hailed what was generally referred to as "the most popular decision of his career."

The polls naturally reflected this trend. The week before his announcement, only 3.2 per cent of the people approved the way Mr. Wyzniewski was handling his job as President.

But the week after he announced he was quitting, 93.4 per cent approved the way Mr. Wyzniewski was handling his job as President.

"At last," said Mr. Wyzniewski with deep satisfaction, "I have found a way to the hearts of my people."

Indeed, perhaps the only person unimpressed with Mr. Wyzniewski's sacrifice was, as is usually the case, his wife.

"I'm glad you're giving up that lousy job," she said. "But I don't see where your withdrawal has led to peace, unity or solving any problems."

"Not so," said Mr. Wyzniewski complacently. "It solved the most overwhelming problem of them all."

"What's that?" said Mrs. Wyzniewski, "garbage aside."

"The problem," said Mr. Wyzniewski with a sigh, "that I didn't stand a chance in hell of getting re-elected."

Mother Starts College Work In Economics

The children are now old enough for Ruth Narusis of Marion to launch a college education. Mrs. Narusis, wife of Marion Atty. Stanley Narusis, enrolled for the spring term at SIU.

Mother of Debbie, 15-year-old high school sophomore, Linda, 14, eighth grader, and John, 12, in the seventh grade, Mrs. Narusis commented that "the girls are good about helping out at home, and that's why I can leave."

A graduate of Crystal Lake Community High School, she and Stanley were married a short time after her graduation. A graduate of SIU, he went on to law school and after practicing law for more than 15 years in Chicago, decided to move to Marion last November.

"My husband is a native of West Frankfort and wanted to get back into southern Illinois, and moving so close to Carbondale gave me the opportunity I've wanted," she said. He is with the Marion law firm, Fowler and Novick.

Mrs. Narusis, who is enrolled in 10 hours of study, felt this would be enough work at least at the outset as she plans to be on the campus a half-day and at home the rest of the time. Her current plans are to study economics.

'Folksy Evening' Production Captures Standing Ovation

By Nancy Baker

Hoe down music, bonnets, pantaloons, petticoats and overalls greeted a most receptive audience Saturday when the American Folk Ballet presented "Prairie Years" and brought the audience to its feet at the end of the performance.

The production was billed as a folk ballet, recapturing the energy and spirit that built America, and one could identify with those migrating westward as they worked, played, courted and worshipped.

Settings included such items as a handcranked ice cream freezer used in the "Party Over at Grandpa Whorton's" segment and wash tubs, trunks and barrels common at camp sites.

Five singers added greatly to the company of nineteen dancers in such numbers as "Old Joe Clark," "Wild Goose Grasses," "Restless Wind," "Cuckoo," and "This Old House."

The foot-stomping atmosphere of the "Bile them Cabbage Down" number presented the fun-loving side of the westward-ho people who looked to song and dance for a great portion of their entertainment.

Primly-dressed ladies and gents in Sabbath starched go-to-meeting attire brought laughs and approval from the audience as the company Hallelujahed to the traditional tune, "Bringing in the Sheaves."

The "Party Over at Grandpa Whorton's" number moved along with the audience's clapping support to such tunes as "On the Ohio" and a gung-ho rendition of "This Old House."

Dancers offering effective performances included Dorain Grusman, Cecil Gold, San Christopher and George Le-fave.

The company did, for its second national tour, present a "folksy evening" that seemed to lighten the audience at the eighth Celebrity Series attraction and one of the best of the year.

To Aid Handicapped

Recreation Project Started

A graduate thesis project by two SIU recreation students is returning social dividends to working clients at the Employment Training Center.

Don Middleton, Anna and James Taplinger, Carbondale have set up a Training Center recreation program to test its effect on workshop production. The Center is a partly subsidized workshop employing only handicapped persons from the region. It is located in the Ordill area of the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge.

The program now includes badminton, volleyball, basketball, dodgeball and bowling, played on a coed, mixed-team basis. Activities are scheduled at the Job Corps Training Center on the refuge.

Middleton and Taplinger are now awaiting results of a nationwide postal bowling tournament sponsored for the handicapped through the American Association for the Rehabilitation Institute and Health, Physical Education and Recreation. The Training Center entered a nine-man team and bowled its games at the Herrin Bowl.

The Center's clients do assembly and piece work on subcontracts from several area industries. Research and testing is done by the SIU Rehabilitation Institute and other agencies.

Reaction to Slaying Mayor Vows All-Out Curbs on Violence

By John Durbin
Carbondale Mayor David Keene said Monday that he will do everything possible to avoid any further outbreaks of violence throughout the city.

Keene acknowledged that the previous outbreaks "are a reaction to the tragic death of Martin Luther King Jr." He said the firebombings have been concentrated in the east section of the city and primarily in the northeast areas.

The mayor said that eight State Police patrol cars, Jackson County Sheriff officials and assistance from outlying area fire departments have all aided the city in controlling the outbreaks of violence.

Keene said, "So far we have contained the trouble and we are hoping for the best but preparing for the worst." He said the feelings among Carbondale citizens will be "tense until after King's burial on Tuesday."

The struggle, which exists not only in Carbondale but throughout the country, is not just blacks versus whites, according to Keene. "This is a struggle between the haves and the have-nots," he said.

Keene, in an address Monday morning at the Memorial Services for King in the SIU Arena, referred to a statement in Franklin D. Roosevelt's Inaugural Address. Roosevelt said: "The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much, it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little."

Participants include students Dainton Thomas, Craig Thurmond, Alicia Johnson, Raeschele Potter and student body president Ray Lenzi. Others were Carbondale Mayor David Keene, the Rev. Lenus Turley, SIU President Delyte Morris and the Rev. Hanumanthappa Narasimhaiah.

Thurmond told the audience of about 4,000, about one-half of which were white, "It grieves me that Martin Luther King had to die, but I'm not surprised that Memphis is going up in smoke."

"The United States will be an eternal flame until we accomplish the dream of Dr. Martin Luther King," Thomas added.

Thomas made allegations of inequality and segregation on campus, and said, "When you give me my equality, that makes me human. Dr. King was against anything that was not human."

"You fear because now no one is saying he nonviolent," Thomas addressed the white section of the audience. "The dream is over. Martin Luther King is dead. You cannot live non-violently in a violent society," he emphasized.

The Rev. Turley, pastor of the Rockhill Baptist Church, said, however, "We have lived to see the destruction of a great dreamer, but we shall preserve that dream."

Violence Erupts Again In Baltimore, Pittsburgh

By John Morganthaler
Associated Press Writer

About 1,900 more federal troops were sent into riot-torn areas of Baltimore on Monday to suppress renewed looting, arson and violence, while Ohio National Guardsmen were alerted against disorders in Cincinnati and Youngstown.

Pittsburgh, quiet for a time, was hit anew by vandalism Monday, and 650 additional Pennsylvania National Guardsmen were sent in to aid troops already on patrol. Gov. Raymond Shafer said federal troops have been designated specifically for duty in Pittsburgh, if needed.

Soldiers kept order in other major cities hit by Negro violence in the five days since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Troops strength in Baltimore was boosted to over 10,000, as fires blazed for a third day and a suspected looter was shot dead.

Federal troops first were sent to Baltimore on Sunday night to assist 5,900 Maryland National Guardsmen. Since then a curfew has been tightened to begin at 4 p.m.

Police blocked downtown Cincinnati after disturbances broke out three miles away in the predominantly Negro section of Avondale. Rocks and bottles were hurled, small fires set and there was some looting.

Large crowds gathered after the shooting of a woman. Her husband was arrested in connection with her wounding.

Mayor Eugene Ruehlmann imposed a curfew and said the Ohio National Guard had been alerted, but had not yet been asked to aid Cincinnati police.

Other units of the Ohio Guard were asked to stand by at Youngstown after gunfire wounded a Negro and two white policemen. The latter were trying to break up a rock-throwing crowd on Youngstown's South Side. A curfew was proclaimed.

The nationwide deployment of soldiers and National Guardsmen was put at 55,000, apparently the largest such force ever turned out for a civil emergency in the United States.

In all, 27 men, all but four of them Negroes, have been killed in four days of rioting in dozens of cities. More than 1,600 were injured and more than 10,000 arrested.

Soldiers also stood guard in Detroit, Nashville and Memphis, but no new violence was reported there, New York was also quiet.

5 Die When British Jet Crashes In London

LONDON (AP)—A British jet airliner carrying 126 persons caught fire on takeoff Monday, began to fall apart in the air, then returned to a flaming crash landing at London Airport. Four passengers and a stewardess were killed.

Officials said many of the 121 who survived jumped free in the split second after the plane touched ground following its four-minute horror flight.

An engine fell from the Australia-bound plane before the crash landing. Seconds earlier the aircraft had flown over a busy shopping center. Moments after take off, the commander of the British Overseas Airways Corp. Boeing 707 reported fire in one of the plane's left engines. He circled for an emergency landing and the plane burst into flames, sending up a cloud of black smoke.

Survivors scrambled out emergency doors or slid down escape chutes as fire trucks and ambulances roared up.

BOAC said an engine of the same plane caught fire on take-off from Honolulu on a flight to Tokyo late last year.

LBJ, Advisers Meet to Plan Vietnam Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, announcing North Vietnam's formal acceptance of his bid for talks on Vietnam, summoned his top advisers to a Camp David breakfast conference Tuesday to determine the next move.

An atmosphere of hard bargaining appeared to be forming Monday as both Washington and Hanoi considered suitable sites for initial contacts and possibly later political negotiations.

U.S. advisers who took part in the 14-nation Geneva Conference in 1962, which guaranteed the neutrality of Laos, said that its communication facilities and accommodations make it the logical choice for any fullscale Vietnam talks.

Johnson was unsmiling and terse when he called newsmen into the White House Cabinet Room and told them he had received a message from Hanoi, dated April 3, responding to his invitation.

"We have taken steps to notify our allies," the President said. "We shall be trying to work out promptly the time and the place for the talks . . ."

Johnson did not give the text of the message from Hanoi.

Funeral Today

Activities Halted In Tribute to King

By Louise Cook
Associated Press Writer

While mourners gather in Atlanta for the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. today, Americans across the nation will pause in their normal activities to pay tribute to the slain civil rights leader.

Public and parochial schools in dozens of cities will be closed. Private businesses and state and city governments have given employees partial or total holidays.

Bank holidays have been declared in at least two states—New York and Connecticut. Banks in some cities closed voluntarily.

Sports events, including opening day major league baseball games, were postponed.

Many department stores will open late or not at all.

The New York Stock Exchange ticker will be silent, marking its first full day's closing in honor of a private citizen. The American, Pacific and Mid-west Stock exchanges also will close.

In Nevada, roulette wheels, which normally operate 24 hours a day, will stop for two hours. The first and last time the wheels were halted was to mourn the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Time's Running Out

April 15th Is Deadline for Filing Income Tax

By Don Mueller

Exams and taxes—both are perplexing and both are inevitable.

Although thoughts of exams are two months away, the April 15 deadline for filing a return with the Internal Revenue Service is but a few paces away.

For some individuals, primarily those receiving refunds, the task of filing may already be complete. However for those owing money, the task quite naturally takes a little longer.

A word to the wise from Louis R. Powenski, IRS agent from Herrin: "Don't put it off any further. Check your return very carefully before sending it off."

Several questions begin to worry the filer as the deadline draws nearer. Yet the wife or the barber, despite all the knowledge they possess, may not feel qualified to answer some of the most puzzling questions.

Typical queries include: "Can I claim an educational expense those incurred while working toward a college degree? Can I claim my mother-in-law as a dependent? Can I claim medical expenses on my dog or cat?"

These questions and many more like them are best answered by a qualified IRS agent.

Carbondale residents have one more occasion—April 15—on which to bring their questions to Leasure At Confab

Keith Leasure, chairman of the Department of Plant Industries at SIU attended an American Chemical Society conference in San Francisco. The conference included basic discussions of herbicides.

tions and problems to the agent stationed in the basement of the Carbondale Post Office. The agent's hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday.

Some questions may be answered over the telephone by calling the IRS office in Herrin at 942-2848.

But don't wait until the last day. Some answers may require a few days for the necessary information to be obtained.

ecessary information to be obtained.

Powenski, a native of Benton and an SIU alumna '59, has been with the Internal Revenue Service for seven and one-half years. He said an average of about 60 to 70 person seek advice each day an agent visits the Carbondale Post Office. He estimated that 40 per cent are SIU faculty members and students.

In answer to the questions above, Powenski had the following to say:

As a general rule, students working toward a bachelor's degree cannot deduct expenses thus incurred. One may claim as educational expenses for deductive purposes those expenses incurred to maintain or improve skills and which are a condition for maintaining employment.

One may not claim expenses which are incurred while training for new or different employment.

To claim your mother-in-law or other individuals as a dependent, you must prove that you have been the chief support of the dependent in question and that the individual must not have been a dependent of another person.

Regardless of rumor you cannot claim Fido's or Puss's medical expenses.

Nor can you claim the purchase of clothes, as being a husband might wish, as being a medical expense even though such action may make you "feel good."

Veteran Newsmen Serve As Visiting Professors

Carl R. Baldwin, assistant city editor and director of training for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and Howard B. Taylor, veteran editorial consultant of Copley Newspapers and columnist for Editor & Publisher, are serving as visiting professors in the Department of Journalism at SIU during spring quarter.

Baldwin, a veteran newsman since 1931, has among his reportorial achievements the uncovering of labor racketeering in St. Louis in 1951, that resulted in three Federal Grand Jury investigations and the subsequent conviction and imprisonment of 40 persons. Baldwin has participated for six years in the spring conference of the Southern Illinois School Press Association as a member of the St. Louis chapter of Sigma Delta Chi journalism fraternity.

Taylor holds degrees from the universities of Minnesota and Missouri and has been city editor of the Mankato Free Press, copy editor of the Des Moines Register and copy editor for the Chicago Tribune.

Taylor joined Copley in 1953 as managing editor of the Copley Newspapers Editorial Career Program, and since 1961, he has served as editorial consultant for the organization. Taylor also acts as a technical adviser to twenty newspapers, six of them in Latin America.

"I shall not seek, and will not accept the nomination of my party for another term as your President." These words were spoken by Lyndon Baines Johnson on March 31, 1968. Keene Sees 'Streak of Daylight' In Carbondale Civil Rights Issue

Unlike Walter Lippman, a noted Washington columnist who feels the civil rights issue is one problem the United States will not be able to solve, Carbondale Mayor David Keene says he "definitely sees a streak of daylight."

Keene said that although many cities throughout the country "have done absolutely nothing" to eliminate the causes which have led to serious riots, Carbondale has been making strides in that direction.

In commenting on Gov. Otto Kerner's Riot Commission Report, Keene said the Negro problems in the cities are a direct result of a "lack of communication between city hall and the young militants who are seeking to be heard."

The mayor said that the Negroes want to be able to talk with city hall and the availability of city officials has been extended to them in Carbondale. Keene cited the receptive attitude of city officials toward citizen opinions on the housing program last summer as an example of the use of proper communication channels.

Keene emphasized the need for city officials to be "receptive and understanding towards Negro problems."

The mayor pointed out that "it is impossible to eliminate prejudice but discrimination definitely can be eliminated." In referring to employment, Keene said, "A great deal of poor middle class thinking exists."

"If a Negro is given a job and doesn't turn out to be a good first-rate worker the next day, the employer loses his patience," Keene said. "This employer just must expect that to happen."

"The Negro does not want to be handed anything—he just wants to be heard, respected, given freedom of movement and removal of barriers."

According to Keene, the riot report proposes a single society in which everyone may live and work according to his capabilities and desires rather than his color.

The mayor said that "Negroes are not wanting to destroy our country but rather to be a part of it." He said history proves that segregation was brought about by law and accepted by people as fact. "Discrimination was not intended but unfortunately came as a by-product," Keene said.

Keene vigorously attacks the white racist as an individual who thinks he understands the Negro problems but "offers no solutions."

"These racists feel the answer is education," Keene said. "But then they oppose the Head Start Program." The mayor said that white racists tell the Negro to buy a house—but not next to me.

Keene said the present welfare program does not assist the Negro as it should. He argues that the rules governing welfare are too stringent. "Welfare should serve as a supplement to the family income," Keene said.

"A family should be able to receive welfare whether the man in the family is living at home or not," Keene said. "Also, the children in the family should not be prevented from working to augment the household's income.

Keene feels that if the family members were permitted to work in addition to drawing welfare checks, "they would soon no longer need the latter."

Department of Theater Holds Design Contest for Students

For the seventh year, the Department of Theater will conduct a national scene design competition for the nation's college and university student designers this spring.

Prizes will be the $200 Gothic Color Company Purchase Award for the best undergraduate design and the $200 Hub Electric Company Purchase Award for the best design by a graduate student. Both prize-winning designs will become part of SIU's permanent collection.

Judges for the competition will be Mordecai Gorelik, research professor in theater; Katherine Dunham, dancer and resident artist at SIU's Edwardsville campus, and David Hays, scene designer and director of the National Theater for the Deaf.

Entries must be postmarked not later than May 27 and addressed to Archibald McLeod, chairman, Department of Theater, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill., 62901.

Winning designs, those re-Goodsell to Speak

To Pan Am Club

Charles T. Goodsell, associate professor in the Department of Government, will speak on "Yanqui Dollars and Peruvian Politics: Imperialism or Development" as part of the Pan American Organization lecture series.

The lecture will be held at 8 p.m. at Muckelroy Auditorium, in the Agriculture Building April 11.

The play, "Crown of Shadows," will be presented by the Organization as part of the Pan American Festival at Experimental Theater in the Communications Building from April 18-21.

Postmaster States New Postage Rate

Postage for all Easter greeting cards one-ounce or lighter is six-cents, Carbondale Postmaster Hubert Goforth reminded mailers today.

The first-class postage rate will provide jet flight service for Easter Greeting Cards destined to servicemen in Vietnam and other overseas locations as well as airlift treatment for most domestic addressees more than 250 miles from the mailing point.

Legislation which went into effect Jan. 7 eliminated the 4-cent rate for greeting cards.

"We are realizing our approach to solving the Negro problems is not working," Keene said. But he feels Carbondale is moving in the right direction to correct these problems.

ceiving honorable mention and a number of others selected by the judges will be assembled into an exhibition which will be shown at SIU June 3-8 and at the American Educational Theater Association convention in Los Angeles in August. It will later be available as a touring exhibit to schools.

SIU Dames Club To Elect Officers

SIU Dames Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Home Economics Family Living Lounge for an election of officers.

The program will be a spring fashion show, "kaleidoscope of fashions." Members of the club and their children will model sportswear from local stores. There will also be a display of spring fabrics. Anyone planning to attend the May 8 banquet should make reservations at this meeting. New officers and the Dame of the Year will be announced at the banquet.

All Major League Openers Rescheduled

CHICAGO (AP)—The assassination of DR. Martin Luther King Jr. has resulted in the rescheduling of all major league baseball openers until Wednesday.

The traditional Presidential Opener, previously scheduled for Monday, will find Washington opening at home against the Minnesota Twins. Camilo Pascual, whose new manager, Jim Lemon, used to help him win games with home runs, will pitch for the home side against the Twins' Dean Chance.

In the National League, Cincinnati, complying with the call of Mayor Eugene Ruehlmann for a "Day of Commitment," had also re-scheduled its opening game against Chicago.

The Reds are expected to pitch Milt Pappas against either Joe Niekro or Rich Nye.

Houston's Monday night game against Pittsburgh was to have seen the Pirates go with new pitcher Jim Bunning against the Astros' Larry Dierker.

Bob Gibson will do the honors for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals at home against Pat Jarvis of the Atlanta Braves in a night game. The Braves have a problem, finding a left fielder to take the place of Rico Carty, out with tuberculosis.

Claude Osteen is the choice for the Los Angeles Dodgers in another night game at Dodger Stadium against the Phillies' Chris Short. Manager Gene Mauch still is undecided on whether to start his 20-year-old rookies, shortstop Don Money and center fielder Larry Hinkle. It all depends on the physical condition of Bobby Wine and Tony Gonzalez. The Dodgers show new faces in shortstop Zoilo Versalles, catcher Tom Haller and right fielder Rocky Colavito.

The only day opener on Tuesday's National League program finds the New York Mets at San Francisco. Juan Marichal will try to get the Giants off winging at Candlestick Park. Tom Seaver, rookie of the year in 1967, will be the opposition.

All four of the American League games, previously scheduled for today, will be played Wednesday afternoon.

Dick Ellsworth, picked up from the Phillies during the winter, will start for the Boston Red Sox at Detroit where Mayo Smith is leading with his 22-game-winning ace, Earl Wilson.

The new Oakland A's will make their bow on the road in Baltimore where Catfish Hunter is due to take on Tom Phoebus, one of the few sound pitchers on Hank Bauer's Oriole staff.

Gary Peters gets the call from Eddie Stanky's new face Chicago White Sox at home against Cleveland. Tommy Davis, Russ Snyder, Luis Aparicio and Tim Cullen are newcomers, if you can call Aparicio new, who will probably start for the Sox. Alvin Dark, now Cleveland boss, is due to use Sonny Siebert on the mound and will play Tommy Harper and Jose Cardenal, both acquired on trades, in the outfield.

In addition to Dark, the other new managers who will be making their first appearance include Lemon at Minnesota, Bob Kennedy at Oakland, Larry Shepard at Pittsburgh, Luman Harris at Atlanta and Gil Hodges with the New York Mets.

LOOKING UP--Leading the San Francisco Giants' hopes this season will be right-hander Juan Marichal.

Lutz Chooses St. Louis To Retain N.L. Pennant

St. Louis will win in the National League but "whoever gets lucky" will lead the American League—these were the predictions given recently by SIU Baseball Coach Joe Lutz in making selections for the 1968 major league baseball pennant winners.

A former player in the St. Louis Browns' organization, Lutz bases his opinion on the fact that any pennant contender must be consistently lucky throughout the season. He says a number of players must have an outstanding season, and the club must be free from any serious injury.

"If this is the case, then the Cardinals are in excellent position," explained Lutz. "The chance of Boston repeating on top this year is not as great, however, because the balance in the American League is greater," Lutz asserts. The SIU coach feels that last year's rookies on the Red Sox club are not established players yet, and that this year will prove their real ability.

"If a team has good personnel, it can be a pennant contender," Lutz admitted, "and Detroit certainly has that." With their bench strength available, and their injuries kept down, Lutz picks Detroit as being in the thick of the pennant race.

"Chicago cannot be ruled out," stressed the veteran of 17 years of professional baseball experience. Lutz believes if the White Sox can score enough runs, and efficiently sacrifice speed for more power, their club can win.

Turning again to the National League, Lutz names St. Louis as his top choice. His pitching is near season form, and speed on the bases is a determining factor. Coach Lutz feels pitching on any ballclub must be successful in order for the team also to be a success. "St. Louis has 4 or 5 good starters in Bob Gibson, Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton, Dick Hughes, and Ray Washburn," Lutz said. He feels pitching will be the key to the Cards' success.

"A lot of people pick Cincinnati, but they would be my second ballclub in order," Lutz sees the San Francisco Giant ballclub as a powerful one; Los Angeles Dodgers as a balanced team, and the Pittsburgh club as consistent hitters. But these teams, Lutz believes, have flaws in one or another aspect on the game which are not glaring on the Cardinal team.

"You can't base a team's season performance on their pre-season standings," Lutz is quick to add. "Look at Boston," he said. "They're in the cellar now but surely they don't belong there." Lutz cited Washington as another example. "Right now they are leading their league, but in the past years they have not been a pennant contender."

In giving reasons for the variation in spring standings, Lutz explained that on some clubs, young, inexperienced players are fighting for jobs, while on other teams established players are occupying the position. "In this case, you don't get a true picture of the situation."

Coach Lutz feels that "both leagues have many individual players with good speed, pitching and consistent hitting. The teams that put the best personnel together will have pennant winners."

Baseball Games Cancelled Because of Race Tension

Saturday's doubleheader between SIU and Memphis State and Monday's scheduled contest with St. Joseph's of Indiana were cancelled because of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The game with McKendree College scheduled for 3 p.m. today will be played. The Memphis State doubleheader was cancelled after the Tigers' coach, Al Brown, received two threatening phone calls at the Gray Cadillac Motel about 5:30 p.m. Friday following the first game of the series.

The first caller threatened to burn down the motel if the Memphis team stayed there that night and played SIU Saturday. Coach Brown called the athletic director at MSU, Billy Murphey, who advised him to return to Memphis immediately.

The Memphis team arrived in Carbondale Thursday evening before the announcement of King's assassination.

There had been talk Friday morning of cancelling the entire series because of the situation in Memphis. There are no Negroes on the Memphis team. SIU has two.

It is not known if the games will be made up, although representatives of the Salukis said that the rescheduled game would have to be played in Memphis.

In the McKendree game, probably either John Susce or Howard Kickason will get the pitching assignment against the small college from Lebanon, Ill.

SIU is 9-10 for the season, following its 15-5 loss to Memphis State Friday.

Saluki Gymnasts Fail in Attempt At 3rd Championship

By George Knemeyer

The good fortune that helped guide SIU to two straight NCAA Gymnastics Championships seemingly deserted the Salukis this weekend in Tucson, Ariz. as they lost in their bid for a third straight national title by one-tenth of a point to the University of California, 188.25 to 188.15.

It appeared that SIU "had it (the Championship) in the sack," as Coach Bill Meade said, when the Salukis held a 1.15 point lead going into the final event which was high bar competition.

But then something happened. Stu Smith, usually an 8.3 to 8.6 performer on high bar "broke a trick," Meade said, and finished with a sub-par 7.65. Pete Hemmerling and Fred Dennis came back with 9.1 and 9.35 performances for SIU. During this time, however, California gymnasts had scored 8.60, 8.55 and 9.40 in the event.

Paul Mayer, whom Meade was not going to use unless Smith got in trouble, also missed a trick and missed his dismount to score a meager 6.0. Dan Millman of California was next, and he needed a 9.3 to give California a tie for the team title. He scored a 9.4.

"You can't have two guys break in an event and expect to win," Meade said, "although in the side horse, every team had had performances." "I don't blame any one individual," Meade said. "We could have picked up points in any of the events."

Meade cited Dale Hardt in floor exercise and the entire side horse team as examples. "Hardt touched the line during his routine. That cost him one-tenth of a point. With the exception of Ron Alden, the entire side horse could have done better," Meade said.

"I don't like to be second," Meade stated, "but there is no question in my mind that they (the team) tried their best, but their best wasn't good enough on Saturday. I have no complaints. The team did a real fine job."

"The judging was good, the best I've seen in the nationals," Meade said. SIU was behind in the meet until the trampoline competition, which they dominated, when they took a 1.3 point lead. They kept the lead until the final event.

SIU individuals at the NCAA didn't fare as well, as in recent years, but still brought home enough trophies to make the NCAA worthwhile.

Bill Meade

Dennis finished fifth in the all around, scoring 103.75 points. Both compulsory and optional routines counted in determining the all-around winners. Dennis also finished second in still rings (9.40). Mayer was 12th in the all around and second in long horse vaulting (9.50). Hardt was fourth in trampoline (9.35) and tied for sixth in floor exercise (9.15). Larry Ciolkosz was tied for fifth in long horse with a 9.25.

"Ciolkosz did a heckuva job for just a sophomore with limited experience," Meade felt.

Three men from SIU stayed in the West for the qualifying Olympic Trials this weekend at Long Beach, Cal., Dennis, Mayer and ex-Saluki Rick Tucker.

Tennis Team Returns With Invitational Win

SIU's tennis team returned from the Oklahoma City University Invitational with a trophy and a sigh of relief. "I'm glad to have it (the invitational) behind us," Coach Dick LeFevre said. SIU defeated Oklahoma City in a championship match Saturday 4-3. Earlier they defeated Oklahoma, 6-1, Lamar Tech, 5-2, and Houston 6-1. Coach LeFevre was worried before the matches whether SIU could repeat the championship of last year. They almost didn't. "It took a great team comeback in the doubles of the final match to win it," LeFevre said. The Salukis had lost the first three singles' matches against Oklahoma City in the finals before they started a comeback. Macky Dominguez and Johnny Yang each won their singles matches against OCU competitors to set the stage for the doubles matches. SIU needed at least one victory in the doubles to clinch the title but got it as Jose Villarete and Mike Sprengelmeyer beat the first OCU doubles team in consecutive sets, 6-3 and 6-3. Dominguez and Federico Gildemeister then iced the cake by winning two out of three sets, 2-6, 6-0 and 8-6. Dominguez and Yang did not lose a match, which LeFevre said again points out "that we are strong down the middle." They are ranked three and four respectively on the team. Villarete and Sprengelmeyer fill the number one and two spots. The doubles team of Dominguez and Gildemeister also remained undefeated at the tournament. LeFevre indicated two big wins for SIU were the doubles victory by Villarete and Sprengelmeyer in the finals over two of the top junior tennis players from Australia, Bob Coombes and Jerry Wilkinson.

LeFevre also praised Sprengelmeyer's victory over Sayna Subriates in SIU's 5-2 conquering of Lamar Tech. Subriates was a member of the Mexican Davis Cup team in 1967. SIU's next match will be at home against Indiana at 2 p.m. Friday with a rematch against Oklahoma City scheduled Saturday, also at 2 p.m.

SIU Trackmen Place In 41st Texas Relays

Dan Tindall's javelin throw of 219-1 and a record-tying performance by the 880 relay team gave SIU's track team a respectable showing in the 41st annual Texas Relays, Friday and Saturday in Austin. In winning, Tindall, who set an SIU record at 219-9 last week in the Arkansas Relays, became the first freshman ever to win an event at the Texas affair. Freshmen had not been eligible to compete until this season.

The relay team was comprised of Allen Deppe, Chuck Benson, Steve West and Ross MacKenzie. Bill Buzard turned in a commendable 0:55.9 time in the 440 high hurdles but did not qualify. Other Saluki performers who failed to make the semifinals or finals included Grove Webb in the discus (158-0); John Vernon, long jump (22-4); Rich Ellison, pole vault (14-6); and Mitch Livingston, high jump (6-6).

The 880 relay team equaled the school record of 1:26.6, set at last year's Kentucky Relays, to finish third in the heat and qualify for the finals. It finished eighth in the finals after placing behind TCU (1:25.7) and Notre Dame (1:26.0) in their heat.
