Attorney's error costly for county

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

A Jackson County assistant state's attorney's failure to request a mandatory drug fine has cost the county over $25,000.

Prosecuting attorney Mark Hamrock neglected to ask Judge David Watt Jr. to fine convicted drug offenders, 37-year-old John and 28-year-old Monica DeRossett, for the street value of the 17 pounds of cannabis the couple possessed at the time of their arrest.

Under Illinois law, "a fine shall be levied by the court at not less than the full street value of the cannabis or controlled substance seized."

The Southern Illinois Enforcement Group estimated the street value of one pound of cannabis to be $1,500.

As to whether or not the judge could have imposed the fine himself, Watt could not be reached for comment.

"I made a mistake and I will have to live with it," Hamrock said.

Jackson County State's Attorney Chuck Grace said that his office was understaffed at the time of the sentencing and Hamrock was handed the DeRossett case his first day of work.

Former Jackson County assistant state's attorneys, Michael Nieskes, Michael Burke, Steve Perbix, and Greg Erthal left Grace's office for other positions.

The four attorneys originally worked under former State's Attorney John Clemons.

Although the mistake could have been rectified, Hamrock said he made a discretionary call in not motioning the court to reopen the sentencing.

"The State usually has one chance and it would have been a futile attempt on my part to make that motion," Hamrock

Temblor strikes Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) -- A strong earthquake ripped through the Central Asian republic of Tadjikistan Monday, triggering landslides that obliterated a string of farming villages and killed an estimated 1,600 people, the Tass news agency said.

The temblor, measuring 5.4 on the Richter scale and whose epicenter was located about 30 miles southwest of the republic's capital of Dushanbe near the village of Sharora, struck at 5:02 a.m., Tass said.

The official news agency reported desperate scenes from the hardest hit village of Sharora reminiscent of the devastating earthquake that struck the Armenian republic less than two months ago.

"Cries and wails can be heard everywhere," Tass said. "Some are lamenting and burying their relatives while others try to find the few survivors beneath the thick layer of sand and clay."

"Sharora had more than 150 peasant households before the tragic moment, but now most of it is razed to the ground," Tass said. "The tremor was aggravated by a huge landslide that buried all Sharora's streets under 15 meters of earth. Hundreds of people have perished in this village (Sharora) alone."

Landslides crumbled the tin-roofed houses built of earth in the agricultural region in Soviet central Asia, burying many people in their homes as they slept.

"At that time of the morning people were still in their homes," said a spokesman for

Hearing-impaired receive portable telephone device

"It is very wonderful," Helen Jones of Desoto said, speaking through a sign-language translator, after using her new Telecommunication Device for the Deaf Monday morning at the Southern Illinois Center for Independent Living.

Jones was among the first Southern Illinois residents to receive the device, which will soon be distributed to over 1,000 hearing-impaired residents and to over 2,400 residents in all.

The TDD is a portable device which allows deaf and hearing-impaired people to use normal telephones for communication. It can be directly plugged into a telephone line, or can be connected via a modem to a telephone.

A keyboard allows users to type in a message, which is then converted to LED readouts on a calculator-type screen or onto a roll of paper.

The devices cost $200 to -$500, depending on optional accessories. One option prints messages out in braille for the deaf-blind, while another allows users to talk with computers.

In-state phone companies were required to provide communications services for the deaf, the hearing impaired and the deaf-blind by the Universal Telephone Service Protection Law, passed in 1985.

Bush rebukes Supreme Court abortion ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush, declaring "God bless life," told about 65,000 anti-abortion demonstrators Monday, the Supreme Court decision making most abortions legal is "wrong and should be overturned."

Bush, speaking through a telephone hookup to a cheering, almost festive crowd of activists gathered on the Ellipse — still decorated with bunting and other remnants of last week's inaugural celebrations — called for a "human life amendment" to the Constitution that would overturn the controversial 1973 Roe vs. Wade ruling — a decision the court is currently reconsidering.

Four hours later, after a march to the Supreme Court and Capitol Hill, the demonstrators dispersed peacefully in late afternoon.

Police reported no arrests at the court as the protesters abandoned — for the time being at least — their strategy of civil disobedience. In years past, they have held non-violent pray-ins on the court steps, in violation of a ban on demonstrations at the ornate building just east of the Capitol.

However, about 150 people were arrested without incident for blocking the entrance to a Washington abortion clinic, police said.

"The march has ended," organizer Nellie Gray told the through, "but your work is just beginning. Lobby your congressmen and senators hard."

In his remarks to the crowd just south of the White House, Bush said, "I know there are people of goodwill who disagree, but after years of sober and serious reflection on the issue, this is what I think — I think the Supreme Court's decision ... was wrong and Europeans seek truce in trade dispute with U.S.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — The European Community sought a truce Monday in a trade dispute with the United States triggered by its ban on "hormone meat" but said it is ready to impose duties on U.S. walnuts and dried fruit if the matter is not resolved soon. The foreign ministers from the 12 nations that form the community called on the United States to suspend temporarily the 100 percent duties it imposed on seven European products.

Officials attempt to end feud in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian and Iranian officials met Monday with leaders of Lebanon's rival Shiite Moslem militias in an attempt to end 10 months of bloody feuding, as the Red Cross said "it is time to return to Lebanon." The International Committee of the Red Cross, which halted its activities in Lebanon a month ago after it received death threats, sent four officials to seek "guarantees" from Lebanese Moslem leaders for the staff's safety.

Fighting continues after army base seized

LA TABLADA, Argentina (UPI) — Troops backed by tanks, artillery and helicopters stormed an army base near the capital Monday and battled gunmen who seized the facility, the military said. At least 20 people were killed and dozens wounded in the fighting. Authorities said the gunmen holed up in an ammunition dump inside the La Tablada infantry base, 12 miles south of Buenos Aires, soldiers continued battling at dusk more than six hours after army tanks smashed into the installation at 11 a.m. (9 a.m. EST).

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iraq released 131 wounded, sick or elderly Iranian prisoners of war Monday in line with a pledge made last month by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, Iraqi and Red Cross officials said.

Police officer gets charged for Miami shooting

MIAMI (UPI) — The Hispanic policeman who shot and killed a black motorcyclist last week, triggering three days of racial violence in the city's black neighborhoods, was arrested Monday and charged with manslaughter, police said. Officer William Lozano was charged in the deaths of both Clement Anthony Lloyd, 23, who was shot once in head Jan. 16 during a high-speed chase with police, and Allan Blanchard, 24, a passenger on the bike who died the next day.

22 killed in weekend violence during gang war

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — At least 22 people were killed in weekend violence, including two gunned down during a gang war shooting spree that spread across a suburban neighborhood and left eight others wounded, officials said Monday. "We're the busiest game in town today," Coroner's Office investigator Craig Harvey said.

Witness says Robinson ordered woman killed

GREENVILLE, S.C. (UPI) — A former drug pusher testified Monday that Noah Robinson, Jesse Jackson's half brother, hired him to kill a woman who had "ratted on us" in the slaying of a Greenville man. "He said he would give me $5,000 to cut the bitch's throat because she ratted on us," Fred Sweeney testified. Fred Sweeney testified Robinson approached him in October 1987 and offered him the money to kill Denise Rosemond, who had allegedly witnessed the slaying of Robinson's one-time friend, Leroy "Hambone" Barber in 1986.

Folk character returns to Carbondale

O'Neal portrays Junebug Jones in performance

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

John O'Neal is like a boomerang — he always comes back. Back to Carbondale, that is. He grew up in Carbondale and got his bachelor's degree in English from the University in 1962.

Since then, he has become famous in the theatrical world — and all over the world — with his portrayals of Junebug Jabbo Jones, a folk history character he developed from sayings based on various aspects of the Afro-American experience.

O'Neal is on campus today to talk with students and faculty and give a "by invitation only" performance of "Don't Start Me to Talking or I'll Tell Everything I Know," Sayings From the Life and Writings of Junebug Jabbo Jones.

The performance is by invitation only because the play needs a small, intimate setting that limits the number of people in the audience. The University hopes to ask O'Neal to perform again at a later date.

His visit is sponsored by the Office for Affirmative Action and the Department of Speech Communication as part of an effort to expose students to talented minority alumni.

O'Neal became so famous that in 1986, the mayor of New Orleans declared a "Junebug Jabbo Jones Day."

O'Neal has performed Junebug plays at Nashville;

John O'Neal, famous for his theatrical performances, returns to Carbondale in his portrayal of Junebug Jabbo Jones, the folk history character he developed. His performance is invitation only due to space limitations.

Atlanta; Houston; Chicago; New York City; San Francisco; Toronto; Grotberg, Denmark; Stockholm, Sweden; Nancy, France and everywhere in between.

He has performed all over the world but he always comes back to his roots, in more ways than one. O'Neal has stated that Junebug is a folk character derived in part from his experiences with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee that helped to register southern black voters during the 1960s, where he also met the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King and Dick Gregory.

The character began in the 1950s as a satiric "Gus Bode" like character at a black university, O'Neal said. When the students became involved in the voter registration movement, they brought their character, Jabbo, with them and over time the character evolved into Junebug Jabbo Jones, O'Neal said.

When the committee broke up, he collected Junebug sayings and later adapted them into a play, O'Neal said.

Some of the sayings include "It ain't the size of the ship that makes the wave but the motion of the ocean" and "Every shut eye ain't asleep and every goodbye ain't gone."

O'Neal said the play is relevant the world over because there is a basic truth to the character.

"It is like the truth at the bottom of the well. You may have to dig 10 feet or 10 miles to get to the water but once you get there, the water tastes the same," he said.

O'Neal said that audiences may have to look at the play from their own points of view but everyone can understand it.

"The truth is something that everyone can understand. That is why art works," O'Neal said.

O'Neal stays in the south because it helps the development of the character, he said.

"The black belt of the south was the cauldron that shaped blacks into a new people," he said.

O'Neal said that there have not been any significant improvements in the prospects of blacks in 30 years and things may be worse now.

Guyon appoints task force

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Members of the task force were announced on Monday by SIU-C President John C. Guyon. Their mission is to find the origin of some racially offensive jokes on a computer printout, possibly from SIU-C, found by a Glendale Elementary kindergarten.

The members of the task force are as follows: Thomas Britton, vice chancellor for administration; William Capie, executive director of personnel and labor relations; Tanya Harris, computer information processor; Lorenzo Renfro, SIU-C law student; and Yaakov Varol, chairperson of computer sciences.

The task force met briefly yesterday to elect Britton as their chairperson.

"The task force met just this morning, so we don't yet have a firm idea of how we will proceed," Britton said. "We do know we will start from ground zero, gathering information about the event and the circumstances surrounding it." The task force will meet again by Wednesday Britton said.

Basketball program restores school spirit

HOW 'BOUT them Dawgs!

Playing some high-powered competitors, the Saluki men's and women's basketball teams both have posted winning records by midseason.

The men's team had two major confidence-boosting victories at the start of the season. A victory over Villanova, which at the time was ranked 11th in the nation, was one of the biggest upsets of the year in college basketball. The Wichita State game got the Salukis' off on the right foot in the Missouri Valley Conference when SIUC won 79-75 over the preseason conference favorite.

ONE OF THE women's most important wins was a last-second victory over Indiana State. Since then Cindy Scott's team has had a long winning streak and shares the top spot in the Gateway Conference with Illinois State.

Much-needed support by the fans also has helped both teams along this season. A record crowd of 2,003 turned out to watch the women's team play Wichita State Saturday. The men's team has drawn crowds of up to 7,900, while last year's the Arena rarely saw over 4,000.

But there are accomplishments other than winning records and record crowds that these teams can be proud of.

THE WOMEN'S team can be proud of its academic record with an average GPA of 2.63. Although that may sound low to many, one must consider the amount of time spent practicing and the difficulty of balancing that with studies. But it seems they have.

The men's team is expected to have its 1000th victory in the next two games, a major milestone for any team.

The athletics department is reeling under recent cutbacks which dropped the women's field hockey and men's gymnastics teams and the departure of Football Coach Rick Rhoades. But the basketball teams and the nationally ranked men's swim team prove that SIUC sports have not collapsed.

FOR THOSE WHO have never seen the Salukis in action, now is a good time to start; and for those die-hard fans who never miss a game, keep up the great support.

Go Southern go!

Opinions from elsewhere

Imagine a tropical country as large as California and Texas combined, but less than one-fifth as densely populated. Suppose that this country has been occupied for years by 50,000 troops from communist Cuba, now finally scheduled to withdraw under a peace agreement to be supervised by the United Nations. Now how many U.N. observers would be needed to verify that the withdrawal in fact takes place as promised?

The answer, according to the head of the U.N. team in Angola, is 90 — some 70 military officers plus 20 civilians. Brazilian Gen. Pericles Ferreira Gomes nonchalantly told a New York Times reporter that "there is no reason to mistrust" either Cuba's Fidel Castro or his Angolan marxist allies. When asked how his tiny force will know whether the Cuban withdrawal has been completed — as supposedly required by mid-1991 — he said, "When they (the Cubans) tell us there are no more troops, we will tell the United Nations that they have all gone."

Under this same peace agreement, South Africa is scheduled to pull out of neighboring Namibia. To monitor this withdrawal, the United Nations hopes to assign a much larger force — some 7,500 troops.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Chester Crocker, one of the principal architects of this pact, has been widely hailed for his achievement. Time will tell whether he has been careful enough about verification.

Women should be considered in review of abortion decision

By Stephanie Seltzer
San Francisco Examiner

WHY IS IT that accounts of the Supreme Court's recent decision to review a Missouri anti-abortion statute sound like just so many more Super Bowl stories?

Perhaps one reason is because a person must read way down deep into said accounts before women even appear as a part of the abortion issue, much less as those who are directly affected by it.

You remember women, don't you? We are the people who get pregnant. We are the people who for decades died, were maimed or became sterile after turning in desperation to illegal abortions.

The wealthier among us who could afford medically safe but illegal abortions are the people who carry the psychological and emotional scars of being forced to commit a "criminal act" in order to maintain our own physical and mental health.

We are 51 percent of the population who, 15 years ago, were granted — by men — the freedom of choice to stay or not stay pregnant.

Women.

BUT SINCE the high court — made up of eight men and a woman who was appointed by Ronald Reagan because she thinks just like a rich, white male — announced that it will review a 1986 Missouri anti-abortion law, women haven't much figured into the abortion issue game plan.

Oh, sure, those involved in feminist and pro-choice organizations have been permitted to express their opinions about the importance of the game, like cheerleaders from the sidelines, but noise is all they really can effect.

Why? Because women still do not count when the big issues — or games — are decided in this country. Even when the big issues concern women most personally.

Women are not key players. In 1989 in this free country of ours, women still do not control their own wombs, no matter what we have been led to believe. As the significant change in the philosophical bent of the Supreme Court demonstrates, we've only been lent the illusion of control since 1973 when the court's decision in Roe vs. Wade made abortion legal in all 50 United States.

THE SORRY truth is, our wombs are like Star Wars, immigration quotas, cigarette taxes, catastrophic health insurance and embargoes on imported coffee and sun-dried tomatoes: Just another political football over which the big boys grapple.

How fitting that for the past eight years a man who gained his fame by portraying a Notre Dame gridiron great has been running the offense for the side that so deceptively calls itself "Right to Life."

Certainly, when it comes to key players in this contest, the key is the president himself, a man who has shown more compassion and concern about the quality of life for a 2-week-old embryo than a million homeless adults.

Other key players include U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh, who, as governor of Pennsylvania, lent his unqualified support to what is considered the toughest anti-abortion statute proposed by any state in modern times.

When Thornburgh was rewarded with the attorney general's post for his vigorous though futile efforts, he made his own get-one-for-the-Gipper speech at his confirmation hearing, vowing that he "wouldn't hesitate" to challenge Roe vs. Wade if he got the chance.

AND SO HE did not when he got the chance.

Last year, Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds asked the Supreme Court — growing ever-heavy with Reagan appointees — to reconsider Roe vs. Wade. Then Solicitor General Charles Fried, who filed an appropriately named "friend of the court" brief in November, suggested that the justices might like to use the Missouri case to facilitate the reconsidering.

That Fried filed his friendly suggestion one week after Reagan's vice president was elected president must be what they call "finesse" in political football.

That the court has agreed to hear the Missouri appeal at this time indicates that the guaranteed loser in this "game" will be women, whose freedom, once again, is the trophy.

Graduate alerts others to yearbook delay

Like many other people who send in letters to the editor, I never thought I would be writing this, especially since I am a 1987 graduate. On November 3, 1986, I paid $20 for the purchase of a 1986-87 Ouelisk yearbook. This yearbook was to be distributed shortly after spring semester, 1987. As of this writing, I haven't received my yearbook. Since waiting patiently did not seem to work, I tried other means to acquire my cherished yearbook or $20. The Illinois Department of Fraud and Better Business Bureau couldn't help. Something about student groups, the university being a public entity, and the state prosecuting the state. I waited in anticipation as November 1988 approached, since a correspondence between the university and Department of Fraud told me that was when the yearbooks were to be delivered. No luck. I am not so naive to think that this letter will speed up the delivery process, but I ask that persons from the Alumni Association or administration pay special attention. The next time I am called on to donate money to the university, I will gladly do so, trading my check for my yearbook. It's only fair.

— Glenn Januska, 1987 graduate.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Bush calls Gorbachev, meets with his Cabinet on first day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An enthusiastic George Bush, embarking on "a really great adventure," telephoned Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and revved up his staff Monday while offering only the barest hint of what he intends to do as president.

On his first full day in the Oval Office, Bush set himself apart from Ronald Reagan by adopting a workaholic schedule that included a meeting with his prospective Cabinet and by setting high ethical standards for his staff.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Bush called at least nine foreign leaders, including Gorbachev, to thank them for congratulatory messages on his inauguration and offer cooperation "in the quest for world peace."

In a letter received Friday, Gorbachev told Bush that "further joint efforts" between the superpowers would "make it possible substantially to bring closer the solution of the most painful problems of the present time."

Bush, however, has viewed Gorbachev's overtures with a caution echoed Monday before his Cabinet-to-be by Secretary of State-designate James Baker, who said: "Realism demands prudence. We must be prudent, cautious and realistic."

An early riser capable of keeping long hours, Bush was in the Oval Office at sunrise for breakfast with Vice President Dan Quayle, whose own high profile Monday ran counter to his backwater role in the campaign and near invisibility in the transition.

While the pace alone pointed to work habits far different from Reagan's passive leadership, Bush completed his third day without substantive decisions or dramatic action, the essence of what Fitzwater called "continuity plus."

explained. He added that the motion would most likely have met objection by defender Thomas Mansfield and "made the judge (Walt) unhappy."

University Professor of Law Howard Eisenberg said that it is a "particularly grey area of law" and the defense would have had to look into the problem of double jeopardy.

The Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution guards against double jeopardy, being tried twice for the same offense.

But for Burke, who now serves as Randolph County assistant state's attorney and worked on the DeRossett case since Aug. 12, 1987 under Clemens, "it is disappointing to put in all the work and watch the DeRossetts walk away without paying that fine."

He added that the mistake should have been corrected "especially when the county and the law enforcement agencies had so much at stake."

Illinois law provides the collected "street value" fines "for use in the enforcement of laws regulating controlled substance and cannabis."

Burke said people should be concerned with the mistake because of the amount of money involved.

"In that (assistant state's attorney) job, you are sworn to uphold the law," he added.

Lowell Hall, director of continuing education, said 40 faculty were involved in the program and the $200,000 contract with the Department of Corrections paid for travel expenses and faculty stipends.

Hall said approximately 12 inmates graduated from the program each year for the five years previous to the program's end in August 1988. At the end of the program, there were 100 inmates enrolled in the program, Hall said.

Benjamin Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs and research, said the university withdrew from the program because the contract's requirement was seen as a condition for employment. "We thought the University would incur a liability that wasn't appropriate at the time. We looked for options," Shepherd said. An agreement, however, was not reached.

"I don't view the issue as closed. We remain open to negotiations," Shepherd said. However, SIU-C and the Department of Corrections are not conducting talks, he said.

Howell said Northern Illinois University and SIU-C would not agree to the Department of Corrections' terms.

"We have contracts with over 20 institutions," Howell said. "Southern and Northern were the only institutions of higher education that did not agree to cooperate with our efforts to eradicate the drug problem from our prisons."

among the nation's pioneers in the installation and distribution of the devices, Ike Eichelberger, senior director of operations for Illinois Telecommunications Access Corp., the company responsible for distributing the devices, said.

"The TDD is not a new idea," Bob Lane, a legislative liaison working with the Illinois Commerce Commission in monitoring the installation of the devices, said. "What is new is the idea of giving away the devices for free."

Lane said the devices will be paid for by a three-cent surcharge on all phone bills.

Illinois has eight regional centers, with Southern Illinois regional office located at the Southern Illinois Center for Independent Living, at 780 E. Grand Ave.

Jones said when her husband, now deceased, was sick and in need of emergency medical attention, she was forced to walk to a nearby preacher's house in the middle of the night to get someone to call the ambulance for her.

"It is very wonderful," Jones said. "It will help me be able to make those kind of calls by myself. And I have a girlfriend who can't hear either — now we'll be able to talk about our boyfriends."

the Tadzhikistan Academy of Sciences in Dushanbe. "There was no warning. There would have been little chance to survive the landslide."

Tass said at least four villages — Sharora, Kulipoyen and Okuli-Olo and Gissar — were pulverized by the land-slides. Dushanbe and the towns of Tursunazde and Nurek were also jolted by the tremor.

"(In all), the number of killed was estimated at 1,000 by the end of the day," Tass said. "Distant villages have not been checked yet." "Hundreds of ambulances are delivering gravely wounded people to the central district hospital and to other nearby medical establishments," it said without giving the number of injuries.

should be overturned.

"I promise you that the president hears you now and stands with you in a cause that must be won," Bush said. His voice broadcast over loudspeakers. "God bless you and God bless life."

Police estimated about 65,000 gathered for the rally and march to the Supreme Court in balmy, almost spring-like weather.

Despite Bush's encouraging words, Gray, organizer of the annual "March for Life" staged to coincide with the anniversary of the 16-year-old ruling, said she was less than satisfied with Bush's statement.

Noting a contingent of anti-abortion leaders met with Vice President Quayle earlier, Gray said the group told the new vice president they wanted "action" not just "wonderful words."

"We need communication and we will not (just) be talked to," Gray said.

"That's a sad note to put on this wonderful day, but we might as well get this administration started off right."

Elfrieda Sutterer of St. Louis said she did not "know what alternative (to abortion) there is, but if a girl doesn't want the baby, she shouldn't get pregnant."

Rules of thumb in exercise, shopping

By David Elam
Wellness Center

A rule of thumb is a homemade recipe for making a guess. It is an easy-to-remember guide that falls somewhere between a mathematical formula and a shot in the dark.

Perhaps without knowing it, nearly everyone makes important decisions guided by their own collected rules of thumb — right or wrong. For example, most dorm phones are answered just after the second ring. If a call hasn't been answered by the fourth ring, it probably won't be.

A book titled "Rules of Thumb 2", by Tom Parker, collects over 900 interesting, funny and sometimes useless but delightful rules of thumb.

Here is a sampling of health-related rules from this book with short comments regarding accuracy:

■ The Talk-Sing Test of Aerobics — When engaged in aerobic exercise (walking, jogging, cycling, swimming, etc.), your effort should be such that you could maintain a conversation without gasping for breath but you should not be able to sing.

This formula keeps you exercising with sufficient intensity to improve your fitness level. The harder you exercise, the more labored your breathing becomes, if you can't talk, you're going too fast or hard. However, if you can sing, you're not going fast enough.

■ Buying Groceries: Buying groceries while hungry will triple the cost of the trip.

Triple sounds a bit much, but you can be sure you'll buy more and probably more snack-type foods that appeal to your immediate hunger cravings.

What are some of the rules of thumb you find useful?

Records search delays trial in stabbing death of woman

Dwight E. Jones' court competency being questioned

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

A search for medical records on Dwight E. Jones again has delayed his trial on charges of stabbing a Carbondale woman to death in 1987.

At the Jackson County Courthouse Monday, Public Defender Robert Van Derhoff asked for a continuance until the records on Jones can be found.

Judge David Watt Jr. granted a continuance until Feb. 21, when a final decision will be made whether Jones is mentally competent to stand trial. Watt also set Jones' trial date for March 6, whether or not Van Derhoff receives the medical records.

Watt earlier expressed concern for the 14-month delay in resolving Jones' case.

Jones, of East St. Louis, faces three counts of first-degree murder in connection with the stabbing death of Marshella Sanders Houston.

Houston, a mother of four, was attacked outside her home at 705B N. Barnes St. after Jones appeared at the door. Houston went outside to talk with Jones and the family then heard her scream.

When Houston's mother, Evelyn Johnson, went outside, she said Houston fell to the ground and Jones died of the scene. Houston died of multiple stab wounds Oct. 22, 1987, at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

In July, Jones was declared mentally competent to stand trial, reversing the determinations of two previous hearings, in which Jones had been found mentally unfit.

'Bundy-cue' celebrates execution

MOUNTAIN BROOK, Ala. (UPI) — Two police officers in Alabama are planning a barbecue dinner today to celebrate the scheduled execution of serial killer Ted Bundy and show their support for capital punishment.

Mountain Brook police officers Clay Gilmore and Jim

Cole said their original plans for a "Bundy-cue" at The Golden Rule Restaurant just outside Birmingham included a handful of officers from the force, but the dinner has attracted interest from about 50 or 60 people.

Bundy is scheduled to die today in Florida's electric chair for the 1978 kidnapping and murder of a 12-year-old Lake City, Fla., girl. He is also under a death sentence for clubbing to death two women at a Florida State University sorority house and has in the past few days confessed to 22 other murders.

College of Education to hold videoconference

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

The SIU-C College of Education will help present a videoconference dealing with strategies for increasing educational effectiveness Jan. 31 in Student Center Ballroom A from 12 to 4 p.m.

The videoconference, "Managing Instruction for Equity and Excellence" will include presentations by Richard Allington, Jeannie Oakes and Robert Slavin, and will be worth 4 Continuing Education Credits to those in attendance.
Jeanne Zaborowski-Bortz, assistant director of the Division of Continuing Education, says the conference will help administrators, principals, teachers and special education coordinators to provide equal education opportunities to all kinds of students, from gifted to special education.

After the presentation, Nancy Quisenberry, associate dean for academic affairs, will moderate a panel discussion made up of staff from the College of Education. Candis Isberner, director of the Office of TV Learning Services in the SIU-C Broadcast Service, said there will also be an interactive component, where participants can phone in questions to the experts through a special satellite hook up.

Those interested in attending the conference should contact Jeanne Zaborowski-Bortz at (618) 536-7751.

University researching hay weatherproofing

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

A soybean-based material that will weatherproof hay is currently being researched by SIU-C.

This new agricultural product is called Bale Butter and it was invented by Dale Halford of Bingham, IL.

Bale Butter is a soybean oil based material that looks like peanut butter and it is to be spread on bales of hay to weatherproof them.

Last June the Bale Butter was spread on several bales of hay and they were left outside until last Friday.

"As of now, the bales of hay are being analyzed to see what their nutrient value is and to see how well the livestock accept them," said Robert Wolff, a researcher for Bale Butter and chairperson for Agricultural Education and Mechanization.

The results of the tests done on the Bale Butter are not yet completed, but the researchers hope to have some results within the next four weeks.

"I think we have a pretty good product here. If we didn't think it had potential, we wouldn't be working on it," said Wolff.

Four seminars to be held at John A. Logan College

The John A. Logan College Small Business Development Center has scheduled four seminars telling how southern Illinoisans can market their crafts.

"Mailbox Marketing" is the subject of a direct mail seminar scheduled for Saturday, January 28, from 9 a.m. to noon. This seminar is designed to assist the craft business owner in developing a direct mail campaign.

"It is a Matter of Printing" will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. on Jan. 28.

"Your Phone Means Business" will be held on Saturday, Feb. 4, from 9 a.m. to noon.

"Promoting Your Promotions" will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. on Feb. 4. Participants will learn how to design a promotion for trade shows and special events.

Individuals may participate in individual seminars for $35, or attend all four for $120.

For registration and information, contact Suzy Ward at 985-6384.

Homeless shelter list slows SIU purchase of coal center

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

A Cartersville property's status as a possible homeless shelter location has stalled the University's effort to buy it, the vice chancellor said.

"As long as the property is on the homeless shelter list, we can't do anything with it," James Brown, vice chancellor, said.

The property has been used by the University as a coal research center since 1983. J. Craig Carrell, assistant director for coal research operations, said. When the property was listed as surplus by the government the University decided to purchase it from the U.S. Department of Energy.

But last week the property accidentally was listed as a possible site for a homeless shelter, Brown said. Before the mix up, the transaction was going smoothly, he said.

The property will have to be removed from the shelter list before the University can continue to negotiate a deal, he said.

"There is really no way of telling how long it will take to get the property off the homeless shelter list."

—Otelia Herbert

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has already found the property to be unsuitable for a shelter and is in the process of removing it from the list, Otelia Herbert, a housing specialist with the department, said.

"There is really no way of telling how long it will take to get the property off the homeless shelter list," Herbert said.

All surplus government buildings were put on the list to determine their suitability as shelters, she said. The Cartersville property was put on the list because it has not been purchased, and still is in the negotiation stage.

The basic cost of the property will be the deed transfer charges. David Grobe, director of facilities planning, said. The actual dollar amount could be anywhere from $50 to $300.

The property originally was purchased by the SIU Foundation in 1966. It was used as a men's dormitory for SIU's College of Technical Careers in Cartersville.

It was sold in 1976 to the U.S. Bureau of Mines for about $800,000. The bureau wanted a research center in the Carbondale area and the Cartersville property was a natural choice, Grobe said.

The research center never was used to the extent that the government had intended, so the property was put on the surplus properties list, Herbert said. The University has been allowed to use the facility through a governmental education grant program.

After the property is removed from the list, the rest of the deal is up to the General Services Administration, which handles all governmental real estate transactions, Herbert said.

has stunned a lot of people. "There is apprehension on the part of some now," Tompkins said. "I knew the or had been made a few days ago, but I was not sure what his reaction would be." Tompkins was hired by Rhoades shortly after Rhoades' arrival at SIU-C.

"I really hate to see him go, but I have nothing but respect for him."

—Fred Gibson

Rhoades was hired by the University March 24, 1988 to replace Ray Dorr, who accepted a job at the University of Southern California. Dorr left SIU-C Feb. 25.

Sophomore Fred Gibson, obviously shaken by Rhoades' decision, said the news comes as a complete surprise to the team, who learned about the move at a team meeting at 4:15 p.m. Monday.

"There were rumors around all day, but I did not know for sure until he told us," Gibson said. "I wanted to hear it from his mouth. I'm a little hurt by it, but I understand the nature of this business.

"I really hate to see him go, but I have nothing but respect for him. I'm sure he looked over all the options and picked what was best for him and his family."

Gibson said Rhoades told the team they had until Friday to speak with him.

The Saluki quarterback said the spirit of the team, which had been very optimistic coming out of a 4-7 season under Rhoades and his staff, now has become a question mark.

"That is something we'll have to wait and see about," Gibson said. "Everyone will react differently. I think this team has a great work ethic, so we'll have to go with the flow."

Plans concerning the hiring of a new head coach will be released later this week according to sports information. Gibson said the team plans to take an active part in the hiring process.

"Everything is happening so fast, although I'm sure they'll keep us informed as it goes," Gibson said. "We (the team) are going to put our input in to Hart."

With college football's recruit signing day coming up Feb. 8, Rhoades and Tompkins both said the arrival of recruits to SIU-C is a prime concern.

"The signing day is still almost three weeks away," Rhoades said. "I think it (a good recruiting season) can still be salvaged. We'll see what develops, but the staff here will still work hard."

Tompkins said the head coaching responsibilities will be a shared effort.

Rhoades said he feels a good recruiting season can still be salvaged, despite his leaving. The national signing date is Feb. 8.

"I'm like several of the other guys in that I'm recruiting some players," Tompkins said. "There will have to be some shared responsibilities, and we'll get it done. We had a great weekend last week, and there are so many good things the University itself has to offer."

Raske sets record, team places third

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

Kathy Raske's record performance in the hurdles and the first-place finishes of Christiana Philippou and Roseanne Vincent paced the women's track team to a third-place finish at the Purdue Invitational.

For most coaches a third-place finish in an invitational including such teams as Purdue, Illinois State, and Eastern Michigan, would be a blessing.

Women's coach Don DeNoon doesn't think that way. "I expected to do much better," DeNoon said. "The four-week layoff hurt, and so did the injuries. Still, I don't think we ran to our potential."

The performances of Raske, Philippou and Vincent were bright spots for the Salukis.

Raske broke her own school record in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 8.05 seconds, taking second place by one-hundredth of a second. Raske's time is just shy of the NCAA qualifying standard of 7.90.

"Kathy is just going to improve," DeNoon said. "She has a great shot for the NCAA's."

Philippou, 1988's indoor and outdoor Gateway Conference triple jump champion, won the triple jump event with a leap of 39 feet 1 1/2 inches. Philippou also placed second in the long jump with a distance of 18-8 1/2 feet.

"Christiana had an outstanding meet," DeNoon said. "She easily won the triple jump. She is starting out the year in great shape."

Vincent raced to a first-place finish in the 800-meter dash, in a time of 2 minutes, 12.97 seconds. Vincent holds both the indoor and outdoor 800-meter records for SIU-C. Her time was just over three seconds off the NCAA qualifying time of 2:09.30.

DeNoon said that he hopes the injury and illness situation is not an ongoing problem.

"If it (injuries and illness) has to happen," DeNoon said, "I would rather have it happen now rather than during conference and NCAA time."

Junior Dora Kyriacou and senior Angie Nunn are suffering from the flu. Kyriacou's illness has lasted since mid-December. DeNoon predicts their return will be made soon.

"Dora and Angie just didn't have enough energy to run at Purdue," DeNoon said. "They should be 100 percent by Saturday."

from the outside. A pair of 3-pointers were part of a team-high 10 points she scored.

Coming off the bench is a new experience for Sanders, one she admits took time adjusting to. "It hasn't been easy, but it hasn't been too hard either. When and where (Coach Cindy Scott) wants to play me, well, that's where I'll play."

Of the returning starters, Sanders averaged the most playing time from last season's 16-11 team. A 5-8 senior from Woodlawn who had transferred to SIU-C after playing two seasons at John A. Logan, Sanders was again tabbed by Scott in the preseason as a starter.

However, Sanders lost the point guard spot to freshman Colleen Heimstead during the Salukis' early-season slump.

Through 15 games, Sanders is averaging 5.5 points per game and is shooting 50.0 percent from 3-point range, making 18-of-39.

Illini voted No.1 team, Gill suffers broken foot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Illinois, benefitting from a pair of Duke losses, Monday became the first college basketball team in almost three years to be voted No. 1 unanimously by United Press International's Board of Coaches.

The Illini, at 17-0 the nation's only major undefeated team, collected the 41 first-place votes cast and 615 points. One coach did not vote this week. The last consensus No. 1 team named by UPI was North Carolina in the 11th week of the 1985-86 season.

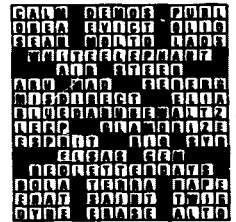

Duke, which had held the top ranking since the preseason, fell to No. 7 following losses last week to North Carolina and Wake Forest. The Blue Devils had won their first 13 games before the losses.

Holding onto the No. 1 ranking as long as Duke did will not be easy for Illinois. Gill, a standout junior guard, broke a bone in his foot Sunday and is expected to miss the rest of the season.

"It's going to be a challenge to play the same kind of ball we've played prior to Kendall's injury," Illinois Coach Lou Henson said. "In the last week, we've lost two of our best perimeter shooters and we're down to just eight recruited players."

Rhoades takes job at Alabama

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

An air of surprise and apprehension filled the Saluki football office Monday, as rumors of head coach Rick Rhoades leaving the University were confirmed by the first-year coach. Rhoades turned in his resignation Monday and announced that he was named offensive line coach at the University of Alabama. The Daily Egyptian learned Sunday night there was an opening for the offensive line job at the Crimson Tide, but Alabama Sports Information Director Larry White would not confirm that Rhoades was being considered for the position. "That is not public information at this point," White said.

Rhoades could not be reached for comment Sunday. Alabama head coach Bill Curry, a long-time friend of Rhoades, offered the Salukis' coach the job in a phone conversation Friday evening, Rhoades said.

"I certainly was not looking for a job, but this came about in a way that I could not find a way to say no," Rhoades said. "There had been rumors, but I did not know he was going to offer me a job. It was not something planned, but we have to come to grips with it."

Rhoades said the circumstances involving the job and the benefit to him and his family were the basis for the decision.

"We all have this thing that when the right scenario comes along, we get pulled away from what we like to do," Rhoades said. "Alabama is a unique situation. In the long run, I think it is in the best interest for the Rhoades family."

Athletics Director Jim Hart has named defensive coordinator Jim Tompkins interim head coach. Tompkins said the news of Rhoades' departure

Salukis lose third straight

Creighton unbeaten in MVC

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

Creighton's 6-foot-2 junior forward Porter Moser took a deep breath and let his three-point try fly.

Swish for Moser, good-night for the Salukis.

Moser's three with 1:15 left in the game gave the Blue Jays a 78-74 advantage, en route to a 84-74 win over SIU-C Monday night in the Arena.

"That was the turning point," said Blue Jays' coach Tony Barone. "He just nailed it, and it was a long one."

The win propels Creighton, 10-6, to a Missouri Valley leading 5-0 league mark, while the Salukis drop their third straight. SIU-C is 2-3 in the Valley, 13-6 overall.

The Salukis had a four-point 70-66 lead with 8:23 left, but the Blue Jays shooters took things into their own hands.

Creighton outscored SIU-C 11-0 in the final 2:11 of play.

"Unfortunately, our shots did not go down late in the game," said Saluki coach Rich Herrin. "We had time-outs left, but couldn't get the three-pointer down to call them. We fouled them when we shouldn't have."

"We did everything we could to win this ball game. They just came out and worked awful hard. They probably had a better shooting night."

The Salukis were paced by 6-6 junior Jerry Jones, who scored a season high 16 points and pulled down nine rebounds, both team highs for the night.

Creighton received 24 points and 20 rebounds out of MVC Player of the Week Bob Harstad.

"Bob was absolutely phenomenal on the glass," Barone said. "I thought James Farr was the key to the game. He hit the key baskets, hit two key free throws to put us up by six (50 seconds left) and controlled the game for 40 minutes."

"I thought Southern Illinois played a tremendous game. They did a good job getting the ball to their posted-up people. We did a great job defensively on their three outside shooters."

Forward Randy House said the loss is disappointing, mainly because the effort made to win was not lacking.

"We wanted this game pretty bad," House said. "We went out and played hard;

that's what we wanted to do. We did not get any breaks at the end.

"The intensity and work ethic were there. If we play like that, we'll get the rest."

The Blue Jays had as much as an 11-point lead in the first half at 33-22 with 6:41 remaining. SIU-C rolled off the last 12 points of the half to claim a 41-40 halftime advantage.

The rebounding advantage went to Creighton, 43-35. The Blue Jays had a 21-15 board lead at the half.

"In the first half they dominated board play," Herrin said. "They got five or six stick backs, and we've got to learn how to react to that."

The loss is the third in five days for the Salukis, the first time this season SIU-C has dropped three straight.

This 'Bird' lets shots fly after illness

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Most people would welcome a few days off at home, being allowed to lie in bed, watch TV and do a little reading.

But reserve guard Deanna Sanders of the women's basketball team found such an experience akin to torture.

During a recent bout with the chicken pox, Sanders had to miss three games, innumerable practice sessions and nearly a week away from her teammates.

"It was the low point of the season for me," said Sanders, who is better-known to friends and fans alike by the moniker "Bird" — a childhood description of her then-thin, bird-like legs.

"It was mentally tough," she said. "I mean, I couldn't travel to the road games with the team, my friends. When you're so used to being with those people all the time, it's rough not taking part in it for a while."

Adding to Sanders' disappointment was the irony that she was stricken by the illness only days after playing her best game of the season. Against Drake Jan. 7, Sanders made a record six 3-point field goals.

"That especially had me down, coming off the game I had versus Drake," she said. "I felt that I had my touch back, after thinking that I had lost it for so long."

Sanders returned to the lineup Thursday, but played sparingly. Against Wichita State on Saturday, though, she again lit up the scoreboard

Swim team ranked 11th

The SIU-C men's swimming and diving team is ranked 11th in the nation according to a poll released last Thursday. Texas was voted No. 1 with 136 points. The Salukis received 64 points.

Kansas, ranked 20th, is the only Top 20 team the Salukis have beaten. The Salukis have a dual record of 9-2.

The No. 11 Salukis will compete Friday and Saturday at the Illini Classic in Champaign.

Women's 7-game win streak stopped

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The Tennessee women's basketball team struck hard, struck fast, and as a result, the visiting Salukis struck out.

Tennessee, the second-ranked team in the nation at 16-1, handed down a 78-44 decision Monday that snapped the Salukis' 7-game win streak.

The game was at the 25,000-seat Thompson-Boling Arena in Knoxville, Tenn. A crowd of 2,551 watched All-American forward Bridgette Gordon, who was not expected to play because of a knee injury suffered last Monday, establish a Tennessee scoring record.

With 11:07 remaining in the game, Gordon scored a backdoor layup on an assist from Dana Head to become the first Lady Volunteer to score 2,000 career points. Action was halted to award Gordon the game ball. At that point, she left the game having scored 10 points on the night.

"What a great impact Bridgette has had on this program," Tennessee coach Pat Summitt said. "She's been an unselfish player."

Gordon started the game because she wanted to set the record at home, since the Lady Vols play at Vanderbilt Thursday. However, she had to contend with the denial defense applied by Saluki guard Dana Fitzpatrick.

"Dana was in foul trouble early," said Saluki coach Cindy Scott, "and that took away from her defensive game. But she still did a great job on Gordon. She's one of the top players in the nation. Not many people know that yet, but they're finding out."

Shelia Frost had 12 points to lead Tennessee, which applied a full-court press from the start and forced 32 Saluki turnovers.

Deanna Kibelkis had 12 points, while Amy Rakters had 9 points for the Salukis.
