Derge sees positive side amidst cuts

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

As three more pockets of support opened up Friday for SIU President David R. Derge, he said recent faculty reactions to the Faculty Senate's censure resolution show a great faculty majority do not believe "the sky is falling down."

The faculty and administrative staff at the Student Work and Financial Assistance office sent a signed statement of support for Derge to the office of Bruce Swinburne, dean of students.

SIU's Division of Aviation Technologies' faculty was represented by Chairman E.A. DaRosa, who expressed "confidence of your leadership and effort to bring academic excellence to this University."

Don Ward, president of the Saluki Athletic Club, sent Derge the club's "full support," on behalf of its 125 members. Ward said Derge had the "confidence and trust" of the alumni organization.

Copies of all three statements were obtained Friday from Don Hecke, director of communications.

In an interview Friday, Derge said he would not comment on the specific parts of the Tuesday resolution by the Faculty Senate. The censure criticizes Derge and his higher administration for the handling of the recent job cutbacks.

"The Faculty Senate resolution speaks for itself, and the repudiations of the Faculty Senate speak for themselves," Derge said.

The declarations of support for Derge, and the statements disavowing faculty support of the censure are "very heartening," Derge said, adding he had not solicited the responses which began Wednesday.

"I did not ask for this...but am very pleased with the warmth and support coming in," Derge said. He would not comment on whether he thought the various gestures were specifically personal support or disagreement with the senate's move.

Derge assumed the stance of the Board of Trustees resolution passed Thursday, refraining from comment on the general charges in the censure. He expressed willingness to answer any specific charges made by the Faculty Senate. In the meantime, focusing on "negative" predictions of the University's collapse following the firings and careless charges of unprofessional and unethical judgment would hinder SIU's educational mission, Derge said.

He exhorted the faculty to "continue in their highly professional job" of teaching, affirming his concern for a constantly improving level of education at SIU. Derge pointed out the University is still growing and expanding, despite overall budget reductions.

The new medical and law schools, the transfer of School of Technical Careers facilities into Carbondale and national and international research achievements are all indicators of how SIU is doing, Derge said.

Additionally, SIU has a growing student population. After several years' decline in students, Derge said, recruitment and information programs caught hold last fall, resulting in 1,000 more students than what had been predicted.

Although the 104 job terminations made in December are starting to attract national attention, Derge doubts the publicity is all bad.

"The fact we've gone the declaratory judgment route, and no one else has, explains the keen interest in our situation," Derge said. The "unique and new" approach used in a lawsuit against representatives of the terminated faculty personnel has implications for the whole country, he continued.

The humaneness of the lawsuit has not been properly explained, Derge said. The class action suit will provide a quick, inexpensive and considerate treatment of questions of law common to the 104, he explained.

Derge said many universities do not hire faculty members who have sued their former school. While he said he does not believe in such a practice, the university suit will keep that on us from the terminated faculty.

The suit will also save money for both sides, he went on. The University will not have to meet numerous separate suits, and individuals will be saved the expense of getting individual court hearings on the "financial exigency" issue.

The SIU lawsuit asks the court to defend the personnel terminations on the grounds of a demonstrable, bona-fide financial crisis, caused by reduced state monies. Action involving six representatives of all those fired would be applied to the other persons.

Derge said a personnel officer at an Eastern university commented SIU has been "very humane and thoughtful toward the persons." Derge declined to name the officer.

"We've chosen, and I think correctly, an impartial judicial process," he said. Handling the terminations in a legal forum, he said, is proper, balanced and fair. Additionally, court action will provide detailed answers for misunderstood aspects of the cutbacks, he added.

Derge stressed he was open to hearing any complaints from the faculty or staff about how or why the cuts had been made. Even unsigned letters to his office receive consideration, he said.

Students welcome beer, wine policy

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

While few dorm dwellers were openly toasting the SIU Board of Trustees for its decision, students interviewed Friday said they agreed with changes in the University beer and wine policy.

The new regulation, which goes into effect Tuesday, allows 19-year-old dorm residents to drink and keep beer and wine in their dorm rooms. Alcohol is still prohibited from dining halls, lounges, indoor recreation areas and grounds surrounding residence halls.

McLeah McBroom, resident of Mae Smith, said she thought the change was a good one. "Anybody who wants to drink beer or wine can go out and get loaded anyway," she said. "They should be allowed to drink in their own rooms."

"It's up to the individual, he can either abuse it or use it to his advantage," said Fred Heinz, resident of Brown Hall. "They're giving dorm residents responsibility."

Most of the students contacted said they didn't think life in the dorms will be changed drastically by the new ruling.

"I don't think there'll be a whole lot of change because a lot of drinking has been going on anyway," said Jo Chapman, resident of Mae Smith. "At least people won't have to sneak around anymore."

Resident hall coordinators (RHC) interviewed said they favored the new ruling and said they foresaw few problems with abuse. Virginia Benning, unit manager of University Park, said she didn't anticipate any problems with the new ruling.

"Alcohol never really was that big a problem" she said. "All we're asking residents is that they be considerate of those living around them."

Ann Nicholas, RHC of Baldwin Hall, said she was all for the new regulation. "It's been in use all along," she said. "It's nice to let it be legal. It's also easier to enforce than the old rule."

"I'm glad to see they finally opened up," said Dick Mullendore, RHC of Felts Hall. "I feel my residents are pretty responsible and that there will really be no problems."

Sam Rinella, director of University Housing, said he anticipates no problem in enforcing the alcohol policy because "dorm residents are considered mature and expected to act that way."

None of the dorm dwellers contacted said they felt the new regulation would make the dorms the scene of many wild parties. "There's the possibility that things will get out of hand," said Dorothy Light, resident of Neely Hall. "But if people are grown-up enough to handle themselves then it probably won't happen."

Several residents said they felt the change in policy should have been made sooner. "It's legal out on the streets, it should be legal at home," said Dave Jewell, resident of Allen I. "The ones who would stay at home will still stay at home anyway, and the others are already bringing in beer."

Bike sign-up postponed

Bicycle registration at SIU stations was called off Friday because of the bad weather, said Tim DaRosa, who heads registration for the security office.

Registration still is going on at the security office and the parking section at Washington Square, DaRosa said.

Next week the schedule for registration will be changed, he said.

From 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday there will be registration at Lentz, Trueblood and Grinnell Halls, DaRosa said. There will be no registration at these sites at any other times.

The security office and parking section will continue to register bikes from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. next week.

Registration at Evergreen Terrace and Southern Hills will go on as scheduled, DaRosa said. Registration will take place in the community rooms from 1 a.m. to 5 p.m., Jan. 19.

Registration will continue as scheduled at the Police Community Services Center, said Jim Rossiter, of the Carbondale police.

Registration also will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Springfield School, Rossiter said.

Acting chairman of physics named

Fred L. Grismore, associate professor of electrical and systems engineering, has been named acting chairman of the Department of Physics and Astronomy.

Grismore's appointment will last until a permanent chairman is named or until July 1. He replaces John R. Zimmerman, who requested reassignment in early December to another position in the College of Science.

Zimmerman requested reassignment because he said personnel cuts he might make to meet the lower budget SIU is faced with would cause serious complaints and challenges from physics faculty. The request followed months of disputes between Zimmerman and members of the physics faculty.

Income tax queries will go to Springfield

Any student wondering whether his parents can claim him as a deduction will not get an answer by calling the Carbondale Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

The phone has been disconnected. All phone questions about filling out income tax returns go toll-free to Springfield where 49 consultants are answering queries.

The no phone idea is designed to take the pressure off the IRS's local offices now that income tax time is here.

"Last year it was sheer bedlam," said Mrs. Marilyn Clark, a tax service representative. "I had people waiting here and I had to take calls. People were walking out saying 'I'll call in. I can get better service that way.'"

Mrs. Clark is the lone tax service representative at the Carbondale IRS office, 606 E. Main. And she's bracing for the income tax season which has already begun.

"We aren't as busy yet as I expected," she said. "It's partly due to the weather and partly to the fact that we're not taking phone calls."

Mrs. Clark said the question of whether a student can be claimed by his parents as a deduction is the one most often asked by SIU students.

"If the child is a full-time student five months out of the year and his parents furnish more than one-half his support, they can claim him for a deduction," she said.

Next comes whether scholarships are taxable. That depends on the scholarship, she said.

Harry Boyd, office manager at the IRS in Carbondale, said the office is staffed by 12 people who man three separate divisions of the IRS. The collection, audit and intelligence divisions are busy year round, Boyd explained, while the taxpayer service section has only a three and a half month period to contend with.

Boyd said he expects requests for information on income tax returns to increase in February. Most people have yet to receive their W2 forms, he said. Businesses are not required to send them out until the end of January.

Boyd said that this year's 1040 form has few changes from last year's. The main change concerns charitable and medical deductions. In the past, each payment and the amount had to be listed separately, he explained. This year the lump sum of each deduction is all that is required.

A provision on the form has also been added for a person to designate $1 of his taxes for the 1976 presidential election campaign fund.

The main change, according to Boyd, is not on the forms, but in the information policy of the IRS. Taxpayers seeking information should call the Springfield office, now, instead of their IRS number. The toll free number is 800-252-2921.

Boyd said that all the publicity put out by the IRS about filing returns early makes sense. A taxpayer filing his return now will receive a refund, if one is forthcoming, in about six weeks. Filing in April means that the refund will take 8-12 weeks for delivery, he said.

Council slates talk on lake

The Carbondale City Council will discuss a proposed ordinance regarding Cedar Lake at an informal meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the University City Cafeteria.

The regulations are general guidelines for use of Cedar Lake and the city-owned land surrounding it. More detailed rules will be drawn up once a land use plan for the area is developed.

The proposed ordinance prohibits the use of motorboats on the lake. Anyone wishing to place a boat on the lake would first be required to obtain a permit from the city.

Only line and pole fishing would be allowed. Swimming would be allowed in designated areas only.

The ordinance would also prohibit the use of firearms on the property except shotgun, and then only in designated areas.

The council will also discuss reports on a proposed parking garage along Walnut Street from the city planning division and Carl Walker and Associates, a consulting engineer firm.

The reports deal with the feasibility of building a multi-level parking structure between Walnut and Monroe Streets along South Illinois Avenue.

Kissinger leaves Spain for Mideast

MADRID (AP)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew to the Middle East on a new peace mission Friday. He was reported optimistic about an eventual Egyptian-Israeli agreement to pull back their troops from the Suez Canal.

A senior United States official said the American secretary was confident he can "grease the way" by shuttling back and forth between the two countries this weekend.

The official left the impression Kissinger would not have made the trip if he did not feel at the very least an agreement on disengagement of the rival armies could not be worked out.

Kissinger believes "fairly rapid progress is needed," the official said. But he denied the secretary advanced his visit because of fears of a new outbreak of fighting.

Kissinger flew to Cairo after a stop in Madrid to meet Spain's new foreign minister. He said Spain and the United States will begin writing "a joint declaration of principles" in about two weeks. Informed sources said serious talks on continuing U.S. bases in Spain could be expected sometime after the agreement on the declaration.

Kissinger is scheduled to meet Egyptian President Anwar Sadat at Aswan, Egypt, before going on to see Israeli Premier Golda Meir. He expects to be in both countries two times before moving on, probably to Jordan, Syria and Brussels.

The official said Kissinger hopes to have at least an agreement, perhaps a formal proposal, to put before the Geneva peace conference which has been suspended pending the outcome of his mission.

Egypt's leading commentator indicated that President Sadat will reject the troop disengagement plan which Kissinger is reported to be bringing.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram, said the proposal would breach Arab unity and make it appear that Egypt was accepting a partial solution that would have been available to her even before the October war.

Derge's phone unlisted

President David R. Derge has not moved into his new home yet, but he does have a new, unlisted telephone number at SIU's $1 million presidential house.

Derge said a recent rash of obscene telephone calls caused him to get a new number. As a public figure, he said, he has been used to occasional pranksters and crank calls, but the latest calls have been made in the wee morning hours.

"It gets to be a problem when you start to lose sleep," he signed. Derge said he put up with the calls for as long as possible, but the situation eventually became distressing.

Derge said he could not estimate the number of calls he received, saying instead they have come periodically since he assumed the presidency at SIU.

Completion of Derge's new home on Spring Arbor Lake has been postponed because of the weather, he said Friday. The freezing weather has prevented finishing the final driveway grading, he said, and he and his wife, Patty, have not moved anything into the house.

Derge said he did not know when the house would be ready, or when he would move out of University House.

Council backing in search asked

By Linda Lipman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU President David R. Derge sought the support of the Graduate Council Friday in appointing a search committee for an SIU vice president of research and project.

The council submitted a list of 10 possible search committee nominees to Derge at his request Nov. 2, but no committee appointments have been approved, David Ehrenfreund, research committee chairman, said. Speaking at a council meeting, Derge said he needs the "concurrence and support" of the council before taking the matter to the SIU Board of Trustees at its February meeting.

"People who do not understand the University might think the hiring of a research vice president an unwise thing," Derge said.

Derge said he could not give a date when the vice president search committee would begin functioning, because he said, his timetable is "more ambitious than that of the Board of Trustees." But, he added, he will take the matter to the Board next month, because of the matter's "urgency" to the council. The council has requested the vice president be appointed for the 1974-75 academic year.

Closing ordered for liquor store

Eastgate Liquor Mart, in the Eastgate Shopping Center, will probably be closed from 7 a.m. Monday until 7 a.m. Tuesday.

The store was ordered closed by the Illinois Liquor Control Board for selling beer from an unlicensed vendor. They were selling the beer in November from a truck on their parking lot.

The owners of the store are attempting to get the decision reversed in a Cook County Circuit Court, said Rich McDaniels, manager. "As of now we will be closed."

The truckload sale was Eastgate's response to a Chamber of Commerce Sidewalk Sale held throughout Carbondale, said Tom Hoffman, co-owner of the Mart.

The sale was meant to get acquainted, and was not put on for "institutional promotion," Hoffman said.

succeeded Ronald Hansen, assistant provost for research, who left the position July 1, 1973.

Dingerson said a vice president for research would direct the entire research effort of the University, "to include my office as part of his duties." He said the idea of a research vice president has been discussed by the council for about two years.

Thomas Mitchell, associate dean of the graduate school, said the salary of the vice president and supportive personnel would absorb about $50,000.

Dingerson said he assumes the salary of the assistant provost who vacated the position was "about the same" as the vice president's would be.

Mitchell has suggested a total cut in the summer research salary program that would amount to $500,000. Dingerson said this cut would mostly affect graduate faculty. "All nine month appointees would receive no support for summer research."

"We would suspend the operation of the summer research as an alternative to suspending 25 to 30 faculty members next year. The alternatives to the suspension of the program look worse," Mitchell said at the meeting.

The suspension of the faculty for next year may only be postponed, depending on SIU's graduate enrollment for the next two years, Mitchell added.

The negative effect on the graduate research program of the cut in summer research positions may influence a potential candidate for the office of vice president of research and his "evaluation of SIU and its support of research," Dingerson said. But now, the council is protecting the 25 to 30 positions that will be saved, he added.

The council voted unanimously to reaffirm its request for a vice president of research and for activation of the search committee. The next council meeting is set for Feb. 1.

Development group to honor ex-chief

By Leah Yates

Goffrey Hughes, former executive director of Southern Illinois Incorporated (SII), will be honored at the organization's annual dinner at 6:30 p.m. on Jan. 19 in Ballroom "D" at the Student Center.

Hughes, who retired last spring after 22 years of service to the regional development organization, will receive undisclosed presentations at the dinner, said James L. Seed, SII executive director.

"Hughes did an outstanding job of developing the economy in Southern Illinois," Seed said. "While he was director 15,000 new jobs were created in this area. During the past 22 years, Southern Illinois experienced an unsurpassed rate of growth for which this organization is partially responsible," he said.

Guest speaker for the annual dinner is Ray Monsalvatge, a motivational speaker. Seed said that Monsalvatge is one of the nation's foremost motivational speakers.

"He was recently honored by sales people from 47 countries for his ability to motivate people. We feel very fortunate to have him as our guest speaker," Seed said.

The dinner is open to the public. Anyone wishing to attend should contact the SII office at 215 West Main in Marion. Tickets for the affair are $10 per person and are available by making advance reservations with the office.

The organization recently moved into its new Marion office. The reason for the move from the Carverville office was to "basically up-grade the quarters," Seed said. The office is headquarters for Seed and one secretary.

"We also made the move to save 8,000 to 9,000 miles a year on the company car," Seed said. He explained that he drove a car and lived in Marion as a reason for the mileage cut.

Because of the ice storm and airport closings, Seed and five members of SII canceled their trip to Washington, D.C., Friday, to discuss a coal gasification plant for Southern Illinois.

Stabbing, thefts keep police busy

A stabbing, armed robbery and burglary were reported to Carbondale police Thursday night.

The stabbing occurred just after 6 p.m. at the Sirlin Stockade 101 S. Wall St.

Two brothers were quarreling at the restaurant and one of them grabbed a steak knife and stabbed the other in the stomach, police said.

The victim, Terry Griffith of Energy, was taken to Doctor's Hospital in Carbondale. He was listed in serious condition Friday after undergoing surgery.

Griffith's brother, Steven, 23, was arrested on a charge of aggravated battery and transported to Jackson County Jail, police said. He was released on $150 bail, a sheriff's office spokesman said.

While police were trying to piece together the events leading up to the stabbing, an armed robbery was taking place at Bush Trailer Court on Pleasant Hill Road.

Three SIU students, Spencer Olson, Richard O'Malley and Vicki Ann Tripke, all of Bush Trailers No. 27, were held at shotgun point by a masked man, Olson told police. An estimated $10 was taken.

Veal Ferman, 29, and Ronald Littel, 25, both of 210 E. Oak St. were later arrested by police after a car described as the get away vehicle was spotted in front of their house.

The two were charged with armed robbery and taken to Jackson County jail, police said. Littel was freed on $3,500 bond and Ferman on $2,000 bond.

A burglary at Atwood Drugs, 224 S. Illinois Ave., occurred between 7 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday, said Fred Bierer, manager.

The back door of the store was kicked in and $50 to $60 was taken, Bierer said. Barbiturates were also taken.

Helmet advice aids

LONDON (AP)—Motorcyclist R.C. Staines was irked when a patrolman stopped him and told him to fasten his crash helmet properly. "I thought it was just plain petty," he said.

But, soon after being stopped, Staines, of Chingford, northeast London, was in a crash. He escaped with cuts. Staines wrote his neighborhood precinct house asking that his thanks be passed on to the policeman.

Scotch shortage

The year is 1975 and Americans have plodded through shortage after shortage. The oil shortage dissolved because petroleum companies had a shortage of facilities for storing their surplus oil.

The very same year Scotland put an embargo on Scotch whiskey destined for the United States due to a squabble breaking out between diplomats of the two countries during a round of golf. The Scottish diplomats claimed that during the game an argument ensued over the scoring of play on the fifth hole. They further alleged that the Americans became angry and called the Scots sissies for wearing kilts and knee socks. The State Department denied all charges.

The President made a speech before the people and tried to calm their thirsty fears. He said the U.S. does not rely wholly upon Scotland for its scotch, but in the months ahead Americans would have to tighten their belts instead of themselves. He also said plans are underway to make the U.S. self-reliant in the production of Scotch by 1980 and the project will be called "80 Proof".

The government urged people to become more moderate in their consumption of Scotch and instead of drinking it straight, dilute it with either water or club soda. The President also set up a new office to deal with the emergency crisis—Scotch or Teetotalitarianism (SOT), and Ed McMahon was selected to head it.

Some bars and liquor stores began to close on weekends only to have long lines of customers during the weekdays. For several weeks the price of Scotch climbed steadily until it reached a high of $27.50 per fifth. Some people began to hoard it and drink it only on special occasions—every other day.

Bartenders and liquor store clerks began to lose their jobs as more and more bars and stores began to close down. People in other industries also became effected. Glassblowers were laid off because people were buying smaller cocktail glasses.

McMahon said rationing could become a reality if things got worse and that no one, be he social drinker or wino, would be excluded. Peoples' memories were taken back to the prohibition days when Scotch was just as scarce, unless you spoke easy.

The whole problem finally came to an end when the American diplomats promised their golf rivals to "take back" what they said. With Scotch and gasoline back into (and in the) circulation, the only shortage then was people.

Where's the action?

Ann Landers, in her annual Christmas message, said the end of campus activism was one of the best things that has happened in America this year.

It occurs that Hitler said something similar about Nazi Germany. And most certainly, the British would have liked to have said something like that about the American colonists. But who are we to argue with good old Ann?

Of course, there are many positive things to be said of the death of campus activism. First of all, who said politics was the business of the American college student? Not the President nor Ann Landers. And the end of activism has cut down on energy usage. No more motor boats cruise campus lake to dredge soggy protesters from the waters late at night. And the energy saved from the reduction in manufacture of tear gas must be phenomenal.

On the other hand, after a few more Watergates, a couple more Vietnam wars and an energy shortage, University administrators may find themselves having to actually encourage activism after apathy has firmly set in. It could be made into a college sport—like football. If you get gassed you lose.

Televised protests would give the American public a chance to root for their favorite teams—the conservatives, the liberals and the police. It may call for the Free Forum Area being revamped with Astro-Turf and bleachers being installed atop Anthony Hall.

Which brings up a point. Was it truly the end of campus activism when workmen hauled away the Free Forum speaker's stand to God-knows-where last quarter? Are the maps to be believed when they indicate that an Administration building is to be constructed on the site of the Free Forum area (such irony)?

The Administration would be well advised to leave the area intact. When protesting becomes the Great American Past-time, they'll need it to trap the activists.

"If you stay in the Free Forum area, you will not be arrested," voices from 1972.

"Yeah, and we kinda miss the gas...."

Waiting for something

"Waiting for a bus?" the professor asked his colleague who stood behind Lawson Hall.

"No, a subway," came the laughing reply.

The ironic humor of the situation, of course, stemmed from the fact that waiting for any mode of mass transportation in Carbondale is an experience akin to waiting for the Second Coming.

The unfunny part of the situation, is that unless some action is taken soon to begin development of a feasible system for the area, in a few years residents will be laughing out of the other side of their mouths.

Ray Bradbury, the science fiction writer, has proclaimed, perhaps somewhat prematurely, that the modern-day god, the automobile, is dead.

Southern Illinois faces on a somewhat smaller scale the crippling gasoline shortages experienced by larger cities.

The development of a commuter transit system, connecting downtown, shopping centers, residential and outlying areas and the SIU campus would encourage industrial growth in the area.

The development of a monorail is temporarily in the limbo of Congress, which is living up to its own "deliberate speed" clause, with more deliberation than speed evident.

While area leaders have voiced support for the monorail, for them to sit back in anticipation of a $6-10 million federal windfall would be suicidal.

The failure of transit systems here in the past has often been attributed to faulty planning.

This interim period should provide instead the opportunity for the exploration of all alternative modes of mass transport, so that when the availability of funding is determined definite action to build a workable system may be taken.

South Korean tyranny

Religious, academic, and opposition political leaders in South Korea reacted to President Chung Hee Park's repressive new constitution and other authoritarian measures by warning of growing unrest and pleading for a return to democratic government.

Now Mr. Park has responded to them with an "emergency" decree which comes close to making it a crime for anyone to disagree with him. Specifically, his decree makes it unlawful for anyone to oppose, defame, or misrepresent his new constitution or to make any attempt to revise or repeal it. It is also unlawful even to talk of opposition or possible repeal of the constitution, and it is a crime to criticize the emergency decree itself.

Violators are subject to arrest without warrant for trial by court martial and face penalties of 15 years in jail—merely for practicing what in America is regarded as an inalienable right exercised daily by almost everybody.

Mr. Park's rationale for this—as it has been for all of his dictatorial measures—is the military threat posed to his country from the North. Public opinion in Japan and the United States is not going to buy that, and Mr. Park's government depends on economic cooperation with Japan and military and economic assistance from the United States for its very survival. America did not fight a war for three years and sacrifice the lives of 55,000 of its men to establish Mr. Park as a tyrant.

Many South Koreans must be wondering why they fought the war. Not only is the Park regime more despotic than the Rhee government it overthrew; it has made life in South Korea almost as intolerable as life in Communist North Korea.

The Justice Said

By Mr. R. Williams

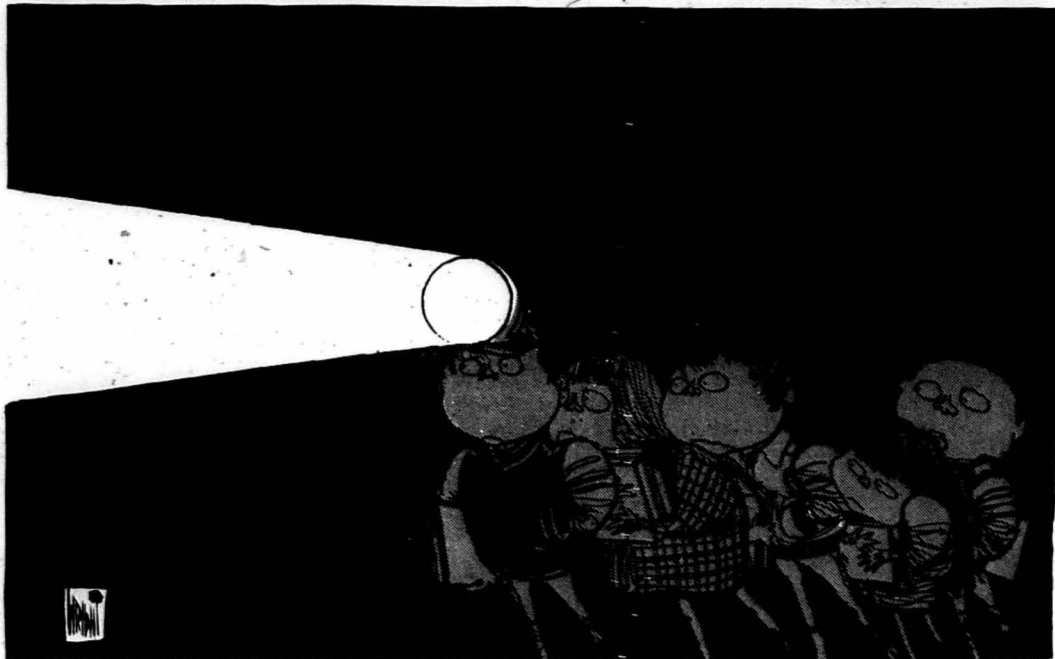

The year is 1973. A defendant is accused of murder. But then another man wrote a confession that he, and not the defendant, committed the crime. When he withdrew his admission of guilt, three persons could testify that he also told them of having committed the crime. The judge refused to let them testify because of the hearsay rule. Was the conviction of the accused valid? No, holds the U.S. Supreme Court, except for Justice Rehnquist. Mr. Justice Powell said:

"Few rights are more fundamental than that of an accused to present witnesses in his own defense. In the exercise of this right, the accused...must comply with the established rules of procedure and evidence designed to assure both fairness and reliability in the ascertainment of guilt and innocence...."

Taxes and oil profits

This newspaper has taken the position that as much as is politically possible the price of gasoline and other petroleum products in the United States should be left to the interplay of supply and demand in the marketplace. We see no reason to amend that opinion now. But we do see a rising necessity for the right way to prevent unrestrained prices from benefiting a very few people in a highly unfair manner.

The price of gasoline has taken another authorized leap upward. (There have been plenty of unauthorized leaps at individual stations.) At the same time oil tankers are reported to have been lying off the Northeastern seaboard waiting for the higher prices before unloading. A lot of people have begun to suspect that the oil crisis has at least in part been deliberately manipulated for the sake of profit.

We have no way yet of knowing how justified is this suspicion. We welcome Attorney General Saxbe's assurance that he will investigate the companies for evidence of such manipulation. We do know that the oil companies are getting two things out of the crisis which they have long very much wanted. They are getting price ceilings raised. They are getting relief from the environmentalists. Simultaneously hundreds of independent service station owners are being forced out of business.

No one can possibly know what the increased profits from all of this will be, but they will be substantial.

Energy chief William Simon has stated that the administration would move against such pricing actions that take advantage of consumers. "We will not allow the American consumer to bear the brunt of any windfall profits by industry," he told a press conference last week.

Mr. Simon's department is conducting a study to find out what level oil profits should be allowed to reach in order to prompt the industry into plowing big sums of money into the development of new energy resources. The oil giants say the required investment capital cannot be raised unless profits go up still higher.

The practical question is over the legislative steps to be taken to make sure that a fair and proper proportion of the profits will be used for the general welfare, not just for the personal advantage of the shareholders of the oil companies.

The emergency energy bill was stalled just before the Christmas recess by disagreement between the administration and Capitol Hill. Congress proposed an excess profits tax which would apply to crude oil and also to the refining and marketing stages of the oil industry. The administration proposed a special and temporary "windfall" tax. The oil industry, and its senators, naturally, preferred the limited and temporary windfall tax.

The general interest is served by higher prices for oil products if, but only if, they are used in ways which improve the strength of the American economy, not if they merely enrich an already favored segment of the community. It seems to us that there should be special taxation aimed at encouraging development of other sources of energy (as provided in the administration "windfall" plan). But why should refining and marketing be immune from some taxation for the general good?

The biggest profits in the entire oil process come from the sale of gasoline.

And at a more distant point there is the ultimate benefit to the shareholders of oil stocks who somehow seem to be more able than the average citizen to find and enjoy loopholes enjoy loopholes in the tax laws.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington has warned the oil companies that if they oppose proper taxation of their expectable avalanche of profits they will be "inviting not just an excess profits tax but punitive action as well."

Considering the large contributions which the oil companies made to the Nixon re-election campaign fund, it behooves both the companies and the administration to put themselves out of danger and above suspicion by seeing to it that the oil crisis does not turn into the richest bonanza for a few since the days of Captain Kidd.

The taking of a president

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

At the time, the President's noble decision to "set a good example" for energy-short Americans by flying on commercial air lines seemed fraught with risk.

While millions of Americans did, indeed, follow his example and renounce flying on Air Force One, the public couldn't help worrying about their President, not to mention his baggage.

Sure enough, their worst fears were realized February 7, a day that shall live in infamy.

At 12:32 a.m. the President boarded Flybrite Airlines Supereconomy Coach & Bingo Parlor (that being the only space available) for the flight from Washington to Key Biscayne.

Scarcely was the craft airborne when a strange and triumphant voice was heard over the public address system. "Salaam, effendis," he said, "this is your new captain speaking."

The news that the President had been hijacked stunned the nation.

The fiendishness of the plot became apparent when Vice President Ford received a ransom note in the mail. "Give us 10 billion shekels in small unmarked shekels," it said in crude letters, "or you will never see your President again!" And it was signed by that most fiendish Arab of all, Al J. Fatah.

Mr. Ford dispatched the note to Capitol Hill, where it was referred to the House Appropriations Committee, which promised to give it "a thorough and exhaustive study."

Meanwhile outraged Republican leaders caucused to demand speedy action. "We need our President back to lead us to victory in the fall elections," cried one.

"We do?" inquired another.

And after several moments of thought and no debate, the Republicans unanimously adopted the patriotic motto: "Millions for defense, but not one shekel for tribute!"

This, in turn, outraged thoughtful Democrats. They patriotically rallied behind the President to the man, demanding speedy payment of the ransom—by mid-October at the latest. Angry Republicans promptly accused them of "playing partisan politics with the fate of the nation" and threatened to filibuster any shekel bill in the Senate.

As the debate raged on, the honest and decent Mr. Ford governed the national honestly and decently. Watergate news was squeezed between the truss ads. A new mood of confidence and serenity pervaded the country.

Mr. Fatah's notes to Mr. Ford grew plaintive. "Gerry: How about 5 billion? Or just a couple of hundred to show good faith?—Al."

All might have gone well if Mr. Kissinger hadn't bumped into Mr. Fatah on one of his trips and hadn't instinctively started negotiating. He brought back an offer America couldn't refuse.

Mr. Fatah agreed to return the President along with 16 tankers of Ethyl, 150,000 trading stamps and a set of matched steak knives.

Democrats waited jubilantly to greet their President; but neutral observers weren't so sure.

"I knew those Arabs were fiendish," said one, shaking his head. "But I didn't know they were that fiendish."

Officer believes gunman had death wish

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The gunman shot to death in Denny's Restaurant Thursday night "had to have a suicide wish," Officer Wayne Martin of the Carbondale Police Department said Friday.

"It seems as if he had picked this way to die," Martin said.

Glenn Sherfield, 32, of Creal Springs, was shot to death by Carbondale Patrolman Reggie Cochran after the gunman fired his pistol at the officer.

Sherfield was playing with a .380 automatic when he walked in the restaurant, witnesses reported. Later, he opened fire when Cochran asked him to stand.

Martin said he thought the dead man was suicidal because the offender had waited for a patron in the restaurant to lie down before he started firing.

"Reggie told the man at the booth sitting between them to lay down," Martin said. "Sherfield could have used the man in the booth as a shield, but he didn't. He wanted to go one on one with Reggie."

Earl Sherfield, the gunman's father, told police his son was in a car accident a year ago on Illinois 13 which left him with a mental problem.

Since the incident Sherfield had been undergoing drug treatment for being tense and schizophrenic, Martin said.

A man fitting Sherfield's description was sighted Thursday morning at the Family Fun Restaurant, 622 E. Main St., playing with a gun at the counter, Martin said. The man was also writing lewd notes to waitresses.

On Thursday afternoon a man fitting Sherfield's description was seen on the east side of town holding a gun in a car, police said. The car matched the description of the car driven by Sherfield.

On Wednesday, three persons had a pistol stuck in their faces by a man fitting Sherfield's description, Martin said. The people were inside the Mohr Value store in Marion when the gunman came in. He left the three without injuries.

On Monday, in Creal Springs, a man fitting the same description pulled a gun on some people while he was talking to them, Martin said. When he left, he fired two rounds into the air from his car, Martin added.

After the shooting in Carbondale, police found 40 bullets in Sherfield's pocket, Martin said.

New teen activities subject of meeting

Organization of a new program of youth activities will be the subject of the Carbondale Teen Program meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Carbondale Savings and Loan Community Room.

Frank Sehnert, chairman of the Carbondale Teen Program board, explained that representatives of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, 4-H Club, church organizations, student councils, and Senior Citizens have been invited to the meeting and have been asked to bring member to participate in the discussion.

Diane Malanuskas, an SIU graduate student, will present the results of her survey of teens in District 165 on teen activities in general to show the direction of teen interest.

"We are trying to excite kids and keep them involved," said Sehnert. He said the program will try to provide activities so youths can get acquainted with others with similar interests and provide a kind of youth clearing house.

Sehnert said previous programs were not geared toward older children but rather the children between 9 and 13. He said the discussion would involve changing this, and also whether or not to turn over the program to ongoing youth programs or continue and get more adult assistance.

Menard inmate gets second rap

CHESTER, (AP)—An inmate at Menard State Prison has been charged with aggravated battery for allegedly striking a guard in the face.

State's Atty. Herbert Lantz of Randolph County said today he filed the charge Wednesday after he received reports that on Jan. 5 inmate Kevin Porter hit guard William A. Heizer of Ellis Grove.

$2,000 granted for cemetery use

By Carolyn Mix
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Bicentennial Commission has received notification of a $2,000 state grant to be used to upgrade the Woodlawn Cemetery.

City Councilman Clark Vineyard, chairman of the commission, said, "The state approved the grant with the provision that the city match the funds."

The renovation of the cemetery has been planned as part of Carbondale's commemoration of the nation's 200th birthday. The city claims Woodlawn Cemetery, located on East Main Street, is the site of the nation's first Memorial Day services.

Members of the commission are "unofficially working" as a group to draw up plans for the commemoration. Vineyard said that names of the members will be officially announced later this month. He expects the commission to be large, including as many as 10 to 12 area residents.

In search of new project suggestions, Vineyard has spoken to a number of local organizations. These include representatives from the Jackson County Historical Society, the SIU Museum and the Veteran's Association.

Vineyard said the commission members also have been discussing possible project ideas. Among these are a souvenir medallion coin, the creation of a Post Office Park near Murdole and a written history of the city. Under rules set out by the Bicentennial Commission, all projects planned for the 1976 celebration will be jointly funded by the city and the state.

"The city council will determine where the city's share of the funds will come from," Vineyard said. The most probable source is the general fund, he said.

Heifer wins class

A registered Holstein heifer from the SIU School of Agriculture's dairy center herd has been declared winner of the intermediate heifer calf class in the All-Illinois Holstein contest for 1973.

The young cow, Saluki Capsule Prilli Lady, earlier won the intermediate heifer class in the state championship Holstein Cattle Show as well as in an area district show.

Newman Center begins volunteer sign-up chart

Persons who wish to do volunteer work for the Carbondale Teen Center can do so at the Newman Center, said Steve Short, public relations coordinator for the Newman Center.

Short, who is also on the Teen Center board of directors, said the Teen Center does not have a permanent building and the Newman Center is providing services for signing up volunteers.

"There are eight volunteers signed up now," Short said, and "we would like to see more." Volunteers' duties would probably consist primarily of leading the teens in activities they would enjoy. But with reorganization of the Teen Center in progress, no definite plans have been made, Short said.

In addition to the Teen Center sign-up, Short has initiated other volunteer signups. Among them are Roosevelt Square and Jackson County Work Activities Center which are mental health programs both located in Murphysboro; Reader for the Blind and the Oakdale House Project; both in Carbondale.

Short said the Newman Center is an outlet for volunteer services. "If somebody requests volunteers for some program, I can start a sign-up to possibly get them," said Short.

Mobile home owners to receive tax bills

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

As if the yearly pinch of income tax weren't enough, area residents will receive bills for the new mobile home privilege tax due the middle of next month.

The tax applies to all mobile home owners who were exempted from paying any tax on their home since the 1970 Illinois Constitution abolished the personal property tax.

Since mobile home owners pay no tax on their home, the General Assembly passed the privilege tax last summer to take the place of the personal property tax. Raymond Dillinger, Jackson County treasurer, said.

Dillinger said there are about 3,000 mobile homes in the county. Bills have been mailed to the mobile homes in the county. Bills have been mailed to the mobile homes in all townships except Carbondale. Dillinger said the bills for the Carbondale Township should be out by Monday.

He said he has set Feb. 15 as the due date for all townships except Carbondale. The due date for the Carbondale Township will be set once the bills are sent out.

Under the state statute, signed into law Aug. 23, owners are assessed 12½ cents for each square foot of living space.

The tax covers the period from Aug. 28, 1973 until June 30, 1974.

The tax for the period from July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975 will be 15 cents per square foot of living space. Dillinger said the rate for this year is lower because the legislature passed the statute so late in the year.

The Jackson County Board has approved an ordinance granting a 20 per cent reduction in the assessment for persons 65 years of age or older and to persons whose yearly income is less than $4,000.

Dillinger said the 20 per cent deduction will not be computed on the bill the residents receive but will be figured at the time the bill is paid.

Mobile home owners in Jackson County were required to submit registration forms at the end of last year. The information included on the forms were the trailer's length, width, year, ownership and the names of occupants.

On the basis of this information, Dillinger said the County Assessor's office was able to determine what each owner would pay.

Owners who submit the forms receive a sticker which they are required to display in the window of the trailer. Dillinger said any owner not registered will be penalized. Also, any owner who does not pay the tax will be charged one percent of the tax bill for each month it is not paid.

Dillinger said he could also file a lien against the negligent owner prohibiting him from transferring the title of the mobile home or using the trailer for collateral on a loan.

Ex-student senator to become pastor

Ron Adams, former student senator, will be presented a license to preach during the 10:45 a.m. service Sunday at the First United Methodist Church in Carbondale.

Adams is a public relations major, a member of Phi Sigma Kappa, and administrative assistant to the Chairman of SGAC.

"I'm very, very excited and enthused about a profession in the ministry," Adams said.

Rev. R. Paul Sims, district superintendent of the Carbondale district of the Southern Illinois Conference of the United Methodist Church, will present the license to preach to Adams.

Rev. Sims will preach on the theme "Our Witness in His World" at both the 8:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. services. Diane Wagner, secretary of the First United Methodist Church, said.

During the 10:45 a.m. service, the administrative board of the church will be installed. Doug Bedient, assistant professor of learning resources services, will be installed as chairman of the board. Ms. Wagner said.

Ms. Wagner also announced that "Books between Bites," a lunch hour book review series, will resume

Monday at 12:10 p.m. with Ray Wakeley's review of "Merging for Mission." Wakely, and SIU professor emeritus, will lecture in the church parlor.

The public is invited to both the services and the Monday book review sessions. Ms. Wagner said.

SGAC hopes to tape, present local features

The Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) videotape committee hopes to tape local concerts, lectures and talk sessions to show at the Student Center "instead of showing the dull commercial stuff we get," committee member Keith Vyse said Friday.

Vyse said his group hopes to buy their own videotape equipment so they can tape local activities.

"The possibilities are fantastic," Vyse said. "It's already happening at some schools."

The videotape committee currently shows commercial programs such as "Groove Tube" in the Student Center. Their budget is $4,500.

"We've made trips to St. Louis to check on the price of taping equipment, and the $4,500 should cover it," Vyse said.

"All we need is the approval of SGAC advisers Bob Saieg and Jack Baier," Vyse said. "We want the students to know what we're doing with their money."

Two auditions slated

Auditions for "The Thrilling Life of a Circus Performer May One Day Be Yours" and "Aladdin" are scheduled for Monday and Tuesday. "Circus Performer," a drama by Teresa Marfise-Evangelista depicts the experiences of six women as they struggle to cope with modern society. And by modern society, director John Cannon means "taking drugs, feeling anxious and having abortions." Scheduled for performance on February 22, 23 and 24, there are major roles for two black women, a girl who looks sixteen and a woman slightly overweight.

Auditions will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the Lab Theater of the Communications. Scripts are available in the Theater Department Office.

"Aladdin" by William Glennon is a children's play about a young boy who pursues his dream of marrying a princess with the assistance of two genies and a dancing monkey. There are roles open for dancing monkeys, gymnasts, women tall and short, men of stout and slight build and both men and women to play genies. According to director Alfred Straumanis there are roles for over 30 persons.

Auditions for "Aladdin" will be held from 5 to 6 p.m. Monday in the Lab Theater and from 5 to 6:45 on Jan. 15 in the Communications Lounge. No prepared material will be required.

Judge denies request for probe of building deals

CHESTER (AP)—Circuit Court Judge Carl Becker has denied a request for a special prosecutor and grand jury to look into possible wrongdoing in the letting of Randolph County construction contracts.

The request was sought by a citizen's group, the Randolph County Taxpayers' Federation. It was aimed at separating State's Atty. Herbert Lantz from the case. Marion Schubach, federation chairman, argued Lantz would be in the position of having to defend the county while prosecuting possible charges of misconduct by county officials.

The federation is concerned about three contracts let to a Chester construction firm in 1972 while one of its officers was on the County Board.

Expanded project may aid slow learners

By John Morrissey
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

There's hope for the Carbondale grade school child who doesn't catch on to booklearning at an early age.

Working with provisions of District 95's experimental Early Childhood Talent and Interest Assessment program, elementary school faculty are expanding the scope of their teaching from a narrow academic approach to a multi-talent search encompassing creative, artistic, scientific, musical, physical, intellectual and leadership abilities.

The program is a joint undertaking by the Primary Leadership Committee, composed of teachers in the school system, and Ralph Litherland, director of special services for the Carbondale elementary schools. Litherland said the committee built the foundation for a multi-talent approach from research on its own, and he put the research into practice.

By expanding the scope of evaluating student talent, Litherland said schools can look at the full range of a student's ability instead of just his academic ability.

"Examples of physical, social and creative abilities do appear in students who would normally be categorized as only average or all too frequently below average," Litherland said.

To accomplish this expansion of scope, Litherland and the Primary Leadership Committee have had to develop an alternative to traditional IQ and aptitude tests in order to measure the presence of these abilities in children.

From this starting point he has had to teach teachers how to apply those measuring instruments and then formulate new approaches to teaching traditional elementary school curricula that will foster the wider range of talent development.

Litherland said traditional measuring tests have two principle inadequacies. First of all they are "intelligence" tests which measure only one component of a child's intellect, the academic component. And they measure what the child has learned rather than what he is capable of learning.

The tests developed for the multi-talent approach aim to identify ability rather than measure it.

Applying these tests involved weening Carbondale teachers from the methods of pupil evaluation they learned while in school.

Litherland said the multi-talent approach has been "as much for training teachers as for developing talent characteristics" in the teacher's students.

He said Carbondale's grade school faculty has responded to the program with enthusiasm, and teachers have attended numerous in-service sessions as well as outside conferences to convert successfully to the expanded approach.

The graph explains the before-after look of curriculum in Carbondale elementary schools. The top example depicts the traditional approach to teaching, and the one on the bottom shows the expansion of class time into other areas in addition to the academic side of elementary school subjects.

Litherland said a student who may not do well in academics but has leadership or creative potential would be left out under the traditional schooling emphasis shown in the left diagram. But the expansion of class activities into other areas of talent development and display, as in the right diagram, sets aside some time each week for him to perform what he does well.

As a result, Litherland said, non-academic talents are developed by the school at an early age, and the program "maximizes a child's opportunity for success" instead of concentrating on only one area of competence and leaving others to be discovered and refined by chance.

Litherland said the multi-talent approach "gives children a feeling of self-worth" and improves their confidence in themselves. As a child learns he is "good" in his own way, Litherland went on, "he develops a positive attitude toward education."

The Early Childhood Talent and Interest Assessment program for Carbondale elementary schools began in 1972 with Phase I, an application of the multi-talent concept to grade levels kindergarten through third grade. Phase I was funded through a grant from the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI).

Funds from the state were cut off when Carbondale School District 95 applied for a 1973-74 grant to finance Phase II, an extension of the program to grades four through six. The OSPI approved the grant. Litherland said, but the Illinois General Assembly sliced funds for the OSPI's Gifted Children grant program, the source of money for Carbondale's grant, and District 95 has had to fund the program ever since.

Litherland is applying for state funds again this year through a different agency, in conjunction with a change in the emphasis of the multi-talent program.

He said he is trying to move away from the idea of "giftedness" and the notions it brings to mind. "When you say gifted, people look for something above the norm," Litherland said. Up until now, teachers have been evaluating their students on the assumption that every child has an area in which he excels.

Some students, Litherland said, do not have an area in which they excel. But they do have an area in which they perform with some degree of proficiency. Litherland explained the revised emphasis of the program will be to "look at a child and find his area of strength, regardless of the level he's operating in."

Mid-February license plate deadline nears

The deadline for purchasing 1974 Illinois license plates is Feb. 15, said a representative of the Secretary of State's office.

The plates are available in Carbondale at the First National Bank and Trust and at the University Bank.

The preprinted application form for license plates must be completed by current license plate owners. If the application is lost, car owners must write to the Secretary of State's office in Springfield for another copy. The plates can not be purchased without a complete form. They do not have to be purchased in the same city as last year.

This year's plates have red letters on a white background. The price ranges from $18 for a car with a 30 horsepower engine to $30 for cars with engines rated at more than 30 horsepower.

Failure to meet the deadline can result in a ticket and a $25 fine for the first offense.

Resolution fails to come to light

CHICAGO (AP)—An attempt failed Thursday to get the City Council to prod the Board of Education into setting back class openings by an hour to counteract the effect of Daylight Saving Time.

A resolution urging the school board to delay the start of classes was defeated in committee.

The board, on Wednesday, already had refused to charge the starting time.

Some persons have feared that children are in greater danger traveling to school in the dark, brought on by the recent switch to Daylight Saving Time.

Mail the postage paid reply card below for complete information about the American Republic Major Medical Expense Policy that can provide the maximum of $10,000 in extended benefits.

As a responsible and prudent person you are concerned for yourself and your family about the skyrocketing costs of hospitalization.

Recent figures released by the American Hospital Association show that the average costs per patient day soared to a record high of $105.30 in January of 1973. This daily cost has increased over 100% in ten short years.

What you can do about this problem.

First, send in the postage paid card below. When you do, you will receive complete details about the Americare Major Medical Expense Policy.

This policy was designed to cover the big losses that result from a serious accident or a prolonged illness that requires extensive medical treatment and a long period of hospital confinement.

Don't mortgage your future.

The benefits of the Americare Major Medical Expense Policy can assist you in providing the means of securing the best possible medical service when you need it most.

It can help prevent you from losing your home, your car, and possibly disrupting the plans you have for your children's education or your retirement.

The purpose of the Americare Major Medical Expense Policy is to provide you with the means of avoiding the financial consequences of a long illness. It is not designed to duplicate existing coverage or to permit people to "make money" out of hospital confinement. Therefore, the policy provides that if benefits received from other medical insurance exceed your deductible amount, your deductible amount will be increased by the amount of this excess. The excess amount will be added to the maximum benefit if your eligible expenses exceed $10,000.

Your premium payment entitles you to receive 80% of covered expenses up to a maximum of $10,000. The rates change depending upon the deductible amount provided in your policy - $500... $750... or $1,000.

Guaranteed Renewable

Your policy is guaranteed renewable to age 65 as long as you make timely payment of the current premium. The Company cannot change the rate unless it changes the rate for all policyholders in the same class, depending upon original age at issue and sex.

Here are the eligible benefits.

- Hospital room, board and general nursing care—a maximum of 80% of $45 per day.
- Medical or surgical diagnosis or treatment by a doctor, in or out of hospital.
- Anesthesia and its administration.
- Prescribed drugs and medicines.
- Private, registered graduate nurse, when prescribed by a doctor.
- Diagnosis and treatment by a radiologist or physiotherapist.
- X-ray services and diagnostic laboratory procedures.
- Medical and surgical services and supplies provided by a hospital, and associated with healing

- Artificial limbs or eyes, trusses, splints, casts, braces, or crutches.
- Oxygen and rental equipment for its administration.
- Rental of a wheel chair, or hospital-type bed, for use at home.
- Professional ambulance service to or from local hospital.

EXCEPTIONS

You are not covered for expenses which result from any accident occurring before the date your policy is issued, or as a result of any sickness that is first manifested before the policy has been in force for 30 days. Nor are you covered when such expenses result from war, mental disorder, attempted self-destruction, maternity, dental work except as required because of injury to sound natural teeth, injury or sickness for which benefits are payable under any workmen's compensation, occupational disease or similar law, birth irregularities or cosmetic surgery unless occasioned by injury, transportation, except for professional ambulance service to or from a local hospital, eye refraction, eyeglasses or the fitting thereof, or hearing aids or the fitting thereof. Hospital donates new center for Hill House

Hill House drug rehabilitation center is moving into a new home Poplar and Oak, Director Paul Reitman said Friday.

The house, capable of housing 20 people, is being donated by Doctor's Hospital and will be rent free, Reitman said. "We are in the process of moving now."

Hill House is presently located on old Rt. 13. The rent at that site is $400 per month, Reitman said.

"The new house will not be a temporary thing," Reitman said. "We'll start our new programs from there."

Reitman 25, was approved by the Hill House Board Tuesday night as the new director. He succeeds Glen Dodgion, who left Hill House in December for personal reasons.

Before Dodgion left, he and Reitman started to work on a new image for the drug center. "Part of our goal in this community is to become partially self-sustaining," Reitman said.

Reitman said he plans to accomplish this by "becoming involved in our own business."

"The first phase in establishing our own business will be to create a love between the residents of Hill House," Reitman said.

"If everybody becomes like brothers and sisters we will have the foundation set up."

The next phase will be to form a business within the house itself, Reitman said. "We want to get it together in the house before we go into business."

There are presently 13 jobs within the Hill House community, Reitman said. Each person is responsible for at least one of those jobs. The jobs range from sanitation inspector to mediator in conferences and therapy sessions, he said.

The third phase will be setting up small businesses, Reitman said. Hill House will form laundry, landscape, painting and house cleaning businesses by spring, he said. "We will try to get in anything that doesn't take a big investment."

Reitman recognized that Hill House will need money to buy tools for the businesses. "People of Hill House are not looking for handouts, but we want to add to the community," Reitman said.

The final phase of the program will come in three to four years when Hill House hopes to open up a restaurant or land developing firm, Reitman said. With the profits from the small businesses we will be able to get into something bigger, he said.

The planned restaurant will be run by graduates of Hill House, Reitman said. "We will always hire the Hill House personnel to work in our businesses," he said.

Reitman calls his new program "reality therapy," he said. Reality is to be "aware, alive and responsive," Reitman said. The businesses will help the people to be ready for the world outside the Hill House structure.

The businesses will also provide a gauge by which a Hill House member can measure himself, Reitman said. "If a client can hold down a job for six or eight months he is doing alright. If he quits after three months he must reexamine himself," he said.

Until the Hill House business venture begins, the five members living in the house now are undergoing transactional analysis, Reitman said.

Transactional analysis is the process by which a drug user knows why he or she is an addict, when he or she is an addict, when he or she might fall back into the trap of using drugs and how he or she can change the drug user's pattern of life, Reitman said.

There are also rules everybody in Hill House must abide by, Reitman said. The two most important rules are "no drugs in the house" and "no covert confidences."

Covert confidences are secrets that may hurt or injure someone in Hill House, Reitman said. If one member of the house tells another member he stole something, the second member should release that information, Reitman said. That information could hurt the person who stole something.

A short time ago Hill House had 12 clients, Reitman said. Many of them had to leave because they were housing drugs and had covert contracts. "These people may have been just biding their time to avoid a jail sentence."

Those people trying to get into Hill House because they think it is a hotel will be surprised to find out that they won't make it, Reitman said.

All new entrants must be screened by a Hill House committee, Reitman said.

At Hill House "We get a lot of court and mental health referrals," Reitman said. "We don't get too many volunteers but we do encourage them."

English, foreign language, history hardest hit by University cutbacks

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Departments of English, Foreign Language and History were hardest hit by the SIU budget cuts recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education last month; the College of Liberal Arts Dean Roger E. Beyler said.

Beyler said the College of Liberal Arts personal services fund which pays faculty salaries was cut "in excess of" $750,000 for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

Approximately 34 faculty cuts were made in the college. "Unfortunately, some tenured faculty had to be cut," Beyler said.

The College of Liberal Arts has 176 faculty on a full-time equivalency basis. The college has a total of about 400 faculty members, including teacher assistants who work only half-time.

The college advisor staff also was reduced. Beyler said the reduction probably will force more students to go on fast-tracking and self-advisement programs.

Beyler said the majority of cuts were made in the English, foreign language and history departments because "enrollments are less pressured in those areas."

He said faculty cuts were made by the deans' offices after receiving recommendations from the Liberal Arts Council. The council, comprised 21 faculty and nine students, also considered the job market outlook in the liberal arts fields before advising where the cuts should be made.

Beyler will step down as dean of the college and should be replaced by the beginning of fall semester. Beyler, who has been at SIU 14 years, was hired as a dean in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in 1966 and became dean of the College of Liberal Arts when the colleges divided in January, 1973. Beyler said he will teach chemistry and work in research this fall.

Associate Dean D. L. Gobert will go back to teaching French. "The quality of the College of Liberal Arts will decrease mainly because the faculty will have heavier workloads," Beyler said.

Top ranked teams in 'rules of order' will compete here

The top two ranking sectional teams in parliamentary procedures competition from the five area high school Future Farmers of Agriculture sections in District Five will compete for district honors at SIU Thursday evening. Hosts for the district contest are members of the SIU collegiate FFA chapter.

The district meet will begin at 6 p.m. in Muckelroy Auditorium in the Agriculture Building.

District Five includes Southern Illinois high schools with agricultural occupations programs in the southern 31 counties of the state.

FFA parliamentary procedures contests rate the proficiency of a five-member school team in conducting meetings according to Robert's rules of order. A team is composed of a chairman, a secretary and three "floor men" in the audience.

Giant City Park proposal draws criticism

By John Russell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

What Wayman Presley calls "an outdoor appreciation laboratory," area environmentalists term an "ecological disaster." The issue is whatever should be developed or left largely as it is.

Presley, head of Presley Tours, Inc., of Makanda, and the major force behind the Bald Knob Cross, has plans for making Giant City a "tourism center in Southern Illinois."

This tourism center would include a pioneer fort with 50 pioneer-type buildings; an Indian museum, 200 log houses and cabins; an outdoor laboratory with a 100-capacity barracks and an outdoor amphitheater.

He also proposes that an "old, pioneer-type farm" be built "where children may plow corn with a mule, or milk cows, hear roosters crow," and an old fashioned restaurant.

Presley would like to see a 100-acre lake, 300 camping places, expanded hiking and horse trails, and a "creek, with overhanging trees," constructed on the site.

His plans include a spacious military park, an airplane landing strip, a prehistoric buffalo trap "repopulated with real Indians and buffaloes." And he feels there would be "plenty of room" for a golf course.

According to Presley's proposals, the state would own the tourism center and would lease the concessions to private businesses. He says much of the work could be done by Job Corps members and inmates from the Vienna Correctional Center.

Presley said the center would be located "on top of a ridge about two miles long and three-fourths of a mile wide adjoining Giant City Park." He called the area "uninhabited farmland, not used by the park."

Presley has presented his plans to tourism officials and legislators. He has called for immediate action on his proposal, saying "Now, if ever, is the time to act."

Leaders of several area environmental groups expressed firm opposition to Presley's proposal.

Mrs. Agnes Wright, president of the Carbondale Foundation for a Better Environment said she feared the proposal would turn Giant City into a "honky tonk." She felt Giant City represents "Southern Illinois in its natural way."

Mrs. Wright said she couldn't take Presley's suggestion seriously, and called the plan "impractical," saying Southern Illinois is too hot and humid in the summer to draw tourists.

The conservation chairman of the Shawnee Group of the Sierra Club said he was "solidly, completely opposed" to Presley's plan. Steve Koons said the proposed tourism center "is not the kind of thing state parks were created for or should be used for."

Koons said he was not opposed to the building of a cultural center, but felt it should be built on private land with private funding. He said he felt construction of the center would be a "misuse of public lands and public funds."

Koons said there are already enough campsites and trails in Giant City, and objected that part of the site Presley has proposed is in Fern Rock Nature Preserve, a new section of the park recently named as a state nature preserve.

Chris Maul, president of Shawnee Mountaineers, said the proposal is an exploitation of the beauty of Giant City. Maul felt "commercialization would have a damaging effect" on the park. He said Giant City is unique, because it is an "environmental area in its natural state."

He said certain areas of the park are overused now, and an additional 300 campsites would impose an extra burden.

Maul said the section known as the Makanda Bluffs is an area that is currently overused. He said he felt any building on this site would "completely destroy the bluffs."

Maul also said he thought the tourism would not bring any extra money into the area. Bruce Patterson, president of the SIU Cycling Club, said he would be opposed to most of the plan, but added that additional hiking and horse trails "would be okay, if the current trails are being used. People wouldn't come flocking to see it," he said of the tourism center.

"Giant City should be a nature park, not a museum," said Patterson. The president of the Student Environmental Center, Jeff Kolp, said Presley's plan would be an "ecological disaster."

He said he feared the project would lead to more development, and "wouldn't be worth the money for the destruction of a nice area."

Kolp said the project "sounds like Presley wants to make a circus" out of Giant City. He said that although he agrees with some of the ideas for the project, he would rather see the money diverted to the development of non-polluting industry for the area.

Kolp said he is trying to arrange a debate between environmental group representatives and backers of Presley's proposals.

Pouring it on

Workers from the Nutty-Pautler Construction Co. work through Thursday's icy weather as they pour the concrete foundation for an intake structure at the city reservoir. The structure will pump water from Cedar Lake to the city's water treatment plant. Glenn Meyer, foreman for the project, said the pipeline from the city reservoir to the treatment plant should be laid next week pending good weather. (Photo by Dennis Makes)

Poor winter weather alters Carbondale school calendar

By John Russell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Winter is taking its toll on the calendar of Carbondale elementary schools.

Superintendent of Schools Laurence W. Martin said this is the first time in the 25 years he has been working in Carbondale School District 95 that schools have been closed three times in one year because of poor weather conditions.

Martin said the schools were closed Jan. 3, 10 and 11, not because of snow or extreme cold, but because of hazardous driving conditions caused by ice-covered roads.

Martin said the power to close school lies in his hands. He said he decided to shut the schools down after discussing the road conditions with police Wednesday night and after walking outside his house Thursday morning. He said members of the school board will vote to ratify his decision at their next meeting.

Elementary schools are allowed to cancel classes up to five times a year because of emergency conditions, Martin explained. He added that Michael J. Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction, has proposed five additional days be granted in conditions of extreme emergency.

Other than the school closings, Martin feels the severe weather conditions have had a minor effect on school operations. He said the district is well supplied with coal for the five schools in the district which use natural gas for heat. Martin said, and District 95 is a non-interruptible customer of the Central Illinois Public Service Company (CIPS). This means, Martin related, that "as long as CIPS has natural gas, our schools will be heated."

Martin said elementary schools "haven't had any problems from the switch to Daylight Saving Time. Schools in District 95 are now starting classes one-half hour later in order to avoid troubles which may have resulted in from the time switch. He said the board's decision to start classes at 9 a.m. has met with the favor of teachers, principles and the heads of busing companies contracted by the district.

Crisis Committee offers energy ideas

By Julie Titone
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Civil Service Employees Council's recently appointed Energy Crisis Committee is interested in getting the SIU administration to officially announce a willingness to help employees combat the energy crisis.

Don Gladden, chairman of the crisis committee, discussed a number of energy-saving suggestions Friday which he will make on Monday to Gene Peebles, manager of business operations and head of the administration's own energy committee.

The crisis committee will recommend flexible working hours be implemented so that rides can be shared. Gladden noted that some employees, physical plant workers in particular, get off earlier than others. He hopes that department chairmen will be urged to rearrange work schedules so that car pools can be used by more employees.

The committee will recommend a plan to use university computers to arrange car pools. Under the plan, notices would be sent to prospective car pool members, and the pools coordinated by computer.

"People living out of town may be unaware of others nearby, so one of the biggest things we can do is offer this 'matching service,'" Gladden said. "It won't cost a lot, since it won't take a lot of computer time."

Gladden said the rising cost of gasoline, an additional work expense for employees, is one reason the administration should back the computer proposal. He emphasized that the car pool organization would be available for use by all employees, including faculty, and even for commuting students.

Saluki club plans

'flying breakfast'

The Saluki Flying Club plans to hold a "flying breakfast" Saturday morning at the Paducah Airport. Bob Mackey, club president, said Friday.

The club will fly to Paducah in four small aircraft. Ten persons plan to make the 40-minute flight, Mackey said.

The club will observe the Paducah Airport facilities, including the Flight and Weather Stations, Mackey said.

A trip later this year to Kentucky Lake is being planned, Mackey said. Anyone interested in going along may contact Mackey at 549-4785.

Six-student board to hear complaints

By Debby Ratemann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A special six-student judicial board created to hear complaints about the Dec. 5 student trustee election will begin hearing evidence next week from Larry Rafferty, who was disqualified the day before the election because of forgeries on his petition.

Rafferty hopes to prove the forgeries were made after he turned in a legal petition.

Matthew Rich was named official winner of the election by a joint election commission of graduate and undergraduate students. The special board has the power to bypass the election commission's ruling and call for a new election if they find Rafferty's request justified.

The board is made up of three undergraduates appointed by Student Body President Mike Carr and three graduate students named by Acting Graduate Student Council President Sharon Yeargin. Three men and three women were named to the board.

Graduate students' Mary Day,

Clare Young and Dennis Croxford and undergraduates Mary Hartzell, Joseph Kostyk and Tom Liesz will meet Sunday to determine when they will begin hearing in the case.

Complaints by Student Senators Marc Kamm and Harry Yaseen about conduct of the Dec. 5 Student Senate election will go before the standing undergraduate Campus Judicial Board.

Rafferty's is the only complaint thus far concerning the trustee election.

Rafferty said he has twenty-three students who are willing to testify they signed his petition in their own handwriting. The twenty-three signatures on the petition now lodged with Student Government do not show the correct signatures, Rafferty said.

Rafferty said he also has three witnesses who signed the petition and whose names do not now appear on the petition.

Although he was disqualified, Rafferty received the second highest number of votes. He said he hopes to "make a connection apparent" between the winner, Rich, and the forgeries.

Documentary to examine pulmonary disease

"The Killers," television's most ambitious health project, will be aired at 7 p.m. Monday on Channel 8.

Jean White in The Washington Post called it "a five-part documentary that just may save your life."

Senator Hubert Humphrey, in a Senate statement, called it "a major new health series that I believe will help prevent many needless deaths."

And Kay Gardella told her New York Daily News readers that the first program in the series was "one you cannot miss."

The series, which was produced by the WNET Science Program Group under a grant from the Bristol-Myers Company, premiered in November on PBS with a 90-minute examination of heart disease.

UPI's Jack Gaver reported that "The various new medical and surgical methods of repairing damaged hearts were shown graphically and explained in a down-to-earth manner that all could understand. The photography of various operations was superb."

SIU to offer small engines credit course

An SIU extension course in the theory and practice of overhauling small engines opened Thursday evening in the agricultural shops of the Vienna Community High School with Harry Hoerner, assistant professor of agricultural industries, as the instructors. The class, meeting at 7 p.m., will continue for five more Thursday evenings.

It is intended primarily for vocational occupations teachers of the area. The participants may obtain college credit for the course as Agricultural Industries 410. It is being offered through the Division of Continuing Education.

Hoerner says the course is conducted mainly by a laboratory "hands-on" approach with class members working on their own engines after the instructor gives demonstrations on the repair activities and the theory of small engine overhaul. Briggs and Stratton-type engines common to lawnmowers and gardening equipment are used as representative of engine repair. Part of the course also is devoted to helping the teachers organize this type of instruction in their own school occupational program.

educationally, and that is no mean feat for television, any television."

Frank Chesley, writing in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, agreed. Executive producer David Prowitt and his staff have, Chesley wrote, "crammed an incredible amount of information — some fascinating, some frightening — into its first 90 minutes."

The December installment of "The Killers" examined genetic defects. Monday the series will focus on pulmonary disease. Cancer and trauma will be covered in February and March.

Charles T. Lynch will host a local follow-up show on "Inquiry" at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Workshops announced in medicine

Three one-day workshops on nursing, medicine and patient care will be sponsored by the Southern Illinois Health Manpower Consortium and the Division of Continuing Education at SIU beginning Jan. 22.

The first, "Medical-Moral-Legal Issues of Nursing," will examine the issues affecting the nursing practice, the legal rights of the consumer and the laws affecting the rights of the professional in health care. Consultant will be William A. Regan of the law firm, Regan, Carberry & Flynn, Providence, R.I. The workshop will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. on Jan. 22 in the Student Center and will adjourn at 3:15 p.m.

The second, "Medicine and Religion," which will examine the promise and peril of medical ethics, will start at 8:30 a.m. Jan. 25 at the Holiday Inn in Mt. Vernon.

The third, "Care of the Patient with Closed Chest Drainage," will be presided over by MaJo Powell, associate chief, Nursing Service for Education, Veterans Administration Hospital, Marion. It will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. on Jan. 25 in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Marion.

Additional information and applications can be obtained from Andrew Marcec, Division of Continuing Education.

White Sox boast lineup 'as good as any'

CHICAGO (AP)—Boasting of a lineup which "is as good as any in the league," the Chicago White Sox Friday held their midwinter press conference vowing they can overtake the world champion Oakland A's.

"If we stay healthy this season we can win it all," said Manager Chuck Tanner. "We have an exciting colorful club and I'll say right now we'll draw closer to two million at home this season than one million."

"We're looking forward to the season with great anticipation and we'll come North this year with the best 25 players we've had since I took over as manager," said Tanner.

The White Sox, who led the Western Division through the early going last season before injuries permanently sidelined Ken Henderson and Dick Allen while a number of other players suffered disabling injuries, feel they can go all the way if they stay healthy this season.

Much of the optimism is based on the acquisition of third baseman Ron Santo from the crosstown Chicago Cubs in addition to added bench strength developed last season when youngsters from the minor league were brought up to fill in for the injured veterans.

Youngsters like Bucky Dent, Jerry Hairston, Brian Downing and Bill Sharp were forced to gain major league experience. Dent made such an impression that he's going to get the first crack at the shortstop job.

"There's one position I'm worried about strengthening," joked Tanner. "That's third base."

There are some who feel third base will be a problem because of a pair of All-Stars in Bill Melton and Ron Santo. Tanner doesn't see it that way.

"I defy anybody to play 162 games at peak performance under the present schedules," said Tanner. "I can rest Melton after a few days and use him as a designated hitter and do the same thing with Santo."

"There will be times I'll start Tony Muser at first base in place of Dick Allen," said Tanner. "That'll give the opposing managers something to think about. As soon as we get a couple of guys on base even as early as the third inning, I can have Allen come out of the dugout swinging."

Even before spring training, Tanner feels he has almost set

Warfield back in Super Bowl

HOUSTON (AP)—Paul Warfield's leg injury turned out to be more trifling than tragedy Friday and Miami's All-Pro wide receiver is preparing to start Sunday's Super Bowl football game against the Minnesota Vikings.

Don Shula, the Dolphins' coach, announced the news at the final coaches' news conference prior to Sunday's 2:30 p.m., kickoff in Rice Stadium.

"I saw Warfield this morning and he felt good about his leg," Shula said. "The trainer is optimistic. So we expect him to suit up and start the game."

The 10-year veteran out of Ohio State suffered an injury to the hamstring muscle in his right leg Wednesday and for a period there was concern that he would not be available for the National Football League championship.

Bud Grant, Minnesota's coach, greeted the newest developments with a shrug and rather cool disdain.

"Yesterday he was out and today he is in," Grant said. "These things change from day to day. We can't let ourselves be concerned either way." Warfield, who caught 29 passes for 514 yards and 11 touchdowns during the season, is reported eager to play.

With player interviews shut for the final two days preceding the game, Shula and Grant told inquisitive newsmen horror stories about the strength of the rival teams.

"Miami certainly is a team without any known weaknesses," said Grant, "so all we can do is look for the softer spots."

He voiced great respect for Larry Csonka, Miami's 237-pound thunderbolt, and admitted that the Vikings lacked a runner of equal formidability. Csonka has rushed for more than 1,000 yards in each of the last three years.

Grant said that the Dolphins' Mercury Morris has more speed than the Vikings' Chuck Foreman but added: "Foreman is stronger and a better pass receiver."

AP picks Miami to win in Super Bowl, 30-17

By Bruce Lowitt
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—The Minnesota Vikings know exactly what they've got to do in order to have a chance at capturing this eighth wonder of pro football's world-Sunday's Super Bowl.

The only problem is, they won't be able to do it.

All the Vikings have to do is stop Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris, the cannonball and the pinball. Don't count on it. Minnesota might be able to concentrate on one and get away with it, but that would let the other run wild.

There's a sneaking suspicion here that Bob Griese, looking into the teeth of Minnesota's run-oriented defense will try to completely cross up the Vikings by going to a wide-open passing game.

It all depends on how healthy Paul Warfield is. If the hamstring problems doesn't slow him down, look for more than the usual number of bombs.

But if Warfield is the least bit hobbled, watch for a proliferation of short stuff to Marlin Briscoe, Jim Kwik.

There's no question that Fran

Tarkenton will have the Vikings air borne most of the day, mainly because Minnesota will be unable to get anything serious going on the ground.

Rookie Chuck Foreman can be brilliant but against the likes of Manny Fernandez, Bill Stanfill, Nick Buoniconti and the rest of Miami's up-front brigade, he'll need more support than Oscar Reed and Ed Marinaro can give him.

Tarkenton will wow the fans a few times with his unscheduled visits to the far corners of his own backfield. That'll make things interesting-but it'll also make them desperate for Minnesota. Eventually his overloaded passing game will backfire.

What it all really comes down to is that the method will beat the madness-the Dolphins, old hands at the fine art of gridiron surgery and familiar faces in the Super Bowl, will easily cope with the furious defense and frenetic offense of the Vikings.

And a year from now, when Miami goes after an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl victory, the line on the National Football League record book will read: SUPER BOWL VIII Miami 30, Minnesota 17.

Roselle threatens Grant with fine for 'sparrows' comments

HOUSTON (AP)—National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Friday he could fine Minnesota Coach Bud Grant as much as $5,000 for his complaints about training quarters for the Super Bowl. But the NFL boss indicated he wouldn't go that far.

"Bud is understandably up tight this week and I'm sorry if it's caused the Vikings difficulties," Rozelle said at a news conference. He said he wouldn't even consider taking action until after the Super Bowl. But the NFL boss indicated he wouldn't go that far.

Grant had said he was threatened with a fine after complaining at a news conference Monday that his Vikings had been given inferior training facilities at a high school field with no lockers and sparrows flitting about the shower room.

He said the fact that the Miami Dolphins had been assigned the Houston Oilers facilities gave the defending champions an edge for Sunday's Super Bowl.

Rozelle disclosed that "quite a few" NFL teams have been fined this season—one as much as $14,000—for various practices including "hiding" players. That refers to using players in practice who are not on the official roster. He would not name the teams fined.

Unbeaten Badgers at Indiana

By The Associated Press

The infant Big Ten basketball race Saturday sends five undefeated clubs into action, but the key game involves one-defeated Indiana and unbeaten Wisconsin at Bloomington, Ind.

Indiana's title-favored Hoosiers, stunned by Michigan 73-71 in a league opener, shares No. 13 national ranking in the Associated Press poll with Wisconsin's surprising Badgers.

Wisconsin opened conference play with an 87-53 triumph over Northwestern and boasts the Big Ten's best overall record, 9-1, compared with Indiana's 8-3.

Led by the towering Hughes twins, Kim and Terry, Wisconsin has one of the country's tallest clubs. But against the swift Hoosiers, Badger coach John Powlus may insert speedy 6-1 Lamont Weaver to replace one of his 6-6 guards, Gary Anderson and Marcus McCoy.

B-ball refs to meet

A meeting and movie for intramural basketball officials will be held from 7:30-9 p.m. Tuesday in Room 119 of the SIU Arena.

According to the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, the purpose of the meeting will be to view a film released by the Illinois High School Association on basketball officiating.

All officials attending this meeting will be paid the equivalent of one basketball game.

Saluki eagers seek eighth season win at NIU Tuesday

Hoping to start a second winning streak, SIU seeks another in-state basketball road victory at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in DeKalb against Northern Illinois University.

The Salukis, 7-2, won a week ago at Illinois State and had a seven-game win streak end Monday night, 75-60 losing to Creighton. Northern Field House is a place where the Salukis have not won a game in the past two seasons.

One of the reasons the Salukis have lost four straight to the Huskies is 6-10 forward Jim Bradley, who has averaged 23.1 points per game over the past two years. After the couple of suspensions, one academic and the other by the NCAA, Bradley is eligible again and will re-open his collegiate career against SIU.

Although Bradley has been eligible to play for Northern since the first of the year, first-year NIU Coach Emory Luck has kept him on the bench. "The word we have is that Bradley will play against us," Saluki Coach Paul Lambert said. W

Without Bradley, the young Huskies have slipped to 3-9 entering Saturday's home game with Illinois State, including a five-game losing streak.

Lambert said playing at DeKalb is not unlike playing at Normal. "We played so well at Illinois State Lambert said. "So we know things-like that can happen. But playing at Northern is tough too."

"That was the first time we played two teams that strong back-to-back like that," Lambert said of the Illinois State and Creighton games. "But it is something that we are going to have to get used to as the season goes on."

Shag Nixon is the only ailing Saluki going into the contest at DeKalb. "Shag didn't say anything to me about it," Lambert said, "but he was sick before the Creighton game." Lambert said Nixon has developed bronchitis and is running a 102 degree fever. "He's under medication now, so I don't know his status," Lambert said.

"We will have to execute better," Lambert said. "We have to start playing like we were before the Creighton game."

Francis returns to Rangers; upset over team standing

NEW YORK (AP)—General Manager Emile Francis returned to coach the New York Rangers Friday, vowing that he would crack down on the team that has stumbled through the National Hockey League season.

In a two-paragraph statement released here, the Rangers announced that Francis would return as the club's coach immediately, replacing Larry Popein.

The announcement came with the club en route to Vancouver, second stop on a six-game road trip which started with a 7-2 loss in Buffalo Thursday night. That defeat was the fifth in the last eight games for New York and left the fourth-place Rangers only one point ahead of Buffalo in the NHL's East Division standings. Francis was distressed over the team's standing, particularly its road record. The Rangers have won only four games away from home this season.

"We play 12 of our next 17 games on the road and five in a row," Francis said by telephone in Toronto. "I'm unhappy about having to return but I thought it was necessary. I had hoped the team would have a playoff spot lined up but we are far from secure right now. I'm going to crack down on these guys."

Francis, who has been general manager of the Rangers since 1964, had served two previous coaching terms with the club, accumulating 283 victories, 170 losses and 84 ties.

He doubled as general manager and coach from 1965-1968 before turning the bench job over to Bernie Geoffrion. But the Rangers sputtered and Francis returned early in 1969 and remained until last summer when he chose Popein to succeed him.
