Shepherd disputes Ruder's view

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

Benjamin Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs, said Wednesday that some of the agreements Kenneth Ruder announced in the settlement of his grievance were false and that the union had no impact on Shepherd's decision in the matter.

Ruder, a professor in communication sciences and disorders, announced Tuesday that his grievances with the College of Communications and Fine Arts had been settled informally in talks with Shepherd.

But Shepherd said that in his discussions with Ruder, and in the final settlement, there was "no mention of any space in the clinical center being assigned."

Ruder said in a press conference Tuesday that "adequate lab space has been provided at the clinical center."

The agreement that was signed by Ruder and Shepherd only states that

"the office of the vice president for academic affairs and research will support the transport of subjects (children) from the Clinical Center to CCFA."

Ruder had said that walking children from the Clinical Center to CCFA was dangerous to the children.

Randall Robey, who was chairman of the CDS committee that reviewed Ruder's grievances, said the department is working with Ruder to satisfy his need for lab space.

Gene Brutton, chairman of CDS, declined to comment Wednesday on the matter.

Shepherd also said statements made by Ruder about the loss of control of an $8,000 research grant were not accurate.

Ruder was in control of a training program that paid $8,000 for a graduate assistant to work with the Carbondale Special Education Cooperative.

A similar training program between the communication sciences and disorders department and the Jackson County Nursing Home will be changed so that Ruder will not be listed as the project director, according to the signed agreement.

Shepherd said that listing Ruder as project director "was an inappropriate discussion of his involvement in the first place. These are training projects. These are not research projects."

"There never existed an $8,000 research grant with

Students to decide on condoms

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The issue of whether condom vending machines should be placed on campus has been put in the hands of the Student Health Program Advisory Board, Sam McVay, director of student health services, said.

"The issue of having condoms is a good issue for students to handle," McVay said.

Alan Gordon, president of the Student Health Program Advisory Board, said the board supports the idea of condom vending machines on campus.

He said the board is "trying to get a feel for whether students want vending machines. If students are mixed or do not support it, then it probably won't go."

Condoms are sold at the University pharmacy and the University Bookstore. They also are available at the Wellness Center, the Student Health Assessment Center and at Health Advocate offices on campus.

Gordon said the board is looking at this from a health standpoint.

"We want to raise as few eyebrows as possible," he said. However, he said if condom vending machines can help prevent sexually transmitted diseases or unwanted pregnancies, they would be worthwhile.

Students will be asked questions to determine if they know where on campus they already can purchase con-

USO supports higher ACT request

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Organization voted to support changing the ACT requirements for the University Honors Program Wednesday night.

Frederick Williams, director of the honors program, spoke to the senate about reasons for a change.

Williams said it is better to enter the honors program after having been in college for one semester and demonstrating success. About 60 freshmen come into the program each year. Those with low grades are not dropped from the program for about a year because they are given a probationary period, he said.

Williams said he suggested the change after talking to the program advisor.

Bangladesh elections plagued by violence

DHAKA, Bangladesh (UPI) — Bombings and street battles between supporters of rival candidates erupted Wednesday during fraud-ridden local elections, killing at least 76 people and injuring some 3,500 in the worst election bloodshed in the country's history.

"Hardly any of the 21,000 polling stations were not affected by violence," one senior police official said.

Unofficial reports compiled by news organizations put the death toll at more than 100. However, senior police and government officials said, according to reports being collected in Dhaka, that at least 76 people were killed and some 3,500 injured during the nine hours of voting.

One election official was beheaded by mobs, and security forces fired into battling crowds in several instances, police said. More than 200 people were arrested.

The death toll far surpassed that of the previous worst election violence, which claimed 31 lives during the October 1986 presidential election.

Tayeb Uddin, the nation's deputy inspector general of police, said the 300,000 police and paramilitary troops deployed to maintain security nationwide were under "serious strain." "We are just overwhelmed by the extent of the violence," he said.

Violence forced authorities to cancel elections for about 400 of the approximately 4,400 rural district councils, which each administer between 10 and 15 villages. Polling in about 100 districts already

Troops from South Africa free captured president

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South African troops crushed an 18-hour military coup Wednesday in the nominally independent tribal homeland of Bophuthatswana, swarming into a sports stadium to free the captured president after a brief gun battle. Soldiers of Bophuthatswana's 1,500-man army detained President Lucas Mangope and Cabinet members between 1 a.m. and 3 a.m. in the capital of Mmabatho and took over the state-run radio, accusing the administration of corruption involving a suspected Soviet spy held in Israel and rigged 1987 elections.

Another Palestinian dies, two more wounded

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Another Palestinian youth died of a gunshot wound and soldiers wounded two more Arabs Wednesday during a demonstration that erupted in the biggest city in the occupied West Bank shortly after the army lifted an 11-day curfew there, authorities said. At the same time, a Jewish settler in the West Bank accused of shooting a Palestinian youth to death was released from jail on the equivalent of $3,000 bail.

Afghan rebels seek direct talks with Soviets

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Afghan resistance leaders, buoyed by a Soviet proposal for a troop withdrawal, for the first time Wednesday offered amnesty to officials working under the Soviet-backed government in Afghanistan should a peace agreement be reached. The seven-party rebel alliance also reached agreement among themselves over the basic form of an interim government in Kabul excluding communist participation, and they renewed their call for direct talks with Moscow.

El Salvador rejects new cease-fire proposal

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The government rejected a proposal by leftist rebels Tuesday for a new round of cease-fire talks in two weeks, saying it prefers to reopen negotiations after the March 20 local elections. At the moment, it is more important to hold talks with the political parties that are trying to consolidate democracy through the electoral process, Roberto Edmundo Viera, the culture and communications minister said.

Justice Department moves to close mission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has decided to close the Palestine Liberation Organization's observer mission at the United Nations, diplomatic and congressional sources said Wednesday. The diplomatic sources said they were informed by U.S. officials that the Justice Department has not made an official determination but is moving expeditiously toward resolution of the issue.

Secret Soviet training suspected in Alaska

ST. LAWRENCE ISLAND, Alaska (UPI) — The Pentagon is taking notice of growing evidence that Soviet soldiers may be secretly training on a desolate icy Alaska island in the Bering Sea inhabited by 650 Eskimos. Alaska Eskimo National Guard patrols have increasingly found Soviet-made military gear, including a gas mask and buoys with explosive charges, and from afar seen mysterious strangers.

Second Marine linked with scandal gets boot

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI) — A second former Marine guard who was posted at the Moscow Embassy during a "sex-for-secrets" scandal was forced out of the Corps without being court-martialed, a military spokesman said Wednesday. Staff Sgt. Vincent Downes, 27, received a general discharge from the Corps on charges that his civilian lawyer said included fraternization, black marketing and perjury.

Bolt problems may delay next shuttle flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Trouble with special bolts used in shuttle boosters could delay the first post-Challenger flight but officials said Wednesday NASA may use the bolts as is with no impact on the flight schedule. William Marshall, manager of the shuttle projects office at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., said by telephone that any delay resulting from the problem likely would be less than six weeks and that a decision on how to proceed is expected by the end of the week.

Future of downtown area relies on community input

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Lack of community enthusiasm has handicapped downtown development and spirit is necessary to plan a downtown Carbondale that will work, John Brown, chairman of the Citizen's Community Development Steering Committee, said.

About 75 people attended a public hearing Tuesday to suggest what Carbondale's goals should be, possible uses for the downtown property and methods to finance the proposals.

Most of the people at the hearing said the city should consider the future of the entire downtown area, not just how two blocks of city-owned property downtown should be used.

Paige Pruet, senior in plant and social science, presented a proposal from a University landscaping class. She asked the council to "create a whole downtown for everyone and to have a transformation from campus to downtown with different paving patterns."

Margaret Flanagan, an International Programs and Services advisor, said her response was to create the Carbondale Downtown Revitalization Committee. The committee is creating a comprehensive revitalization plan for downtown.

"A community is more than buildings and a streetscape. It is the dynamic action of the people within these structures," Flanagan said. "Groups with diverse interests and abilities help to formulate a common vision," she said. "Carbondale has not experienced the binding together of all its segments into one whole."

Flanagan has suggested the city postpone a decision about downtown development until after a retreat, which would cost the city about $2,000 at Giant City or Touch of Nature.

A one-day retreat would give the council and community members a chance to identify priorities and decide on a strategy outside of Carbondale, she said.

Mark Robinson, of Carbondale, said the hotel conference center failed because Carbondale's government was involved in affairs it didn't belong in.

"Government is in the government business and business is in the business business," Robinson said. "When government gets involved in business it always screws up."

"If someone thought a convention center was needed, they would have done it. But no one did, because no one thought it would work," he said. "The same thing will happen. The city should sell it (the land) to someone with money involved."

Robert Ortiz said he is interested in opening a bar in the building that formerly housed T.J. McFly's, but that a cohesiveness between downtown business, the University and the community needs to be created.

"It must be done soon. Downtown is hurting Carbondale's image," Ortiz said. "It's tough for small business to look at the downtown area and feel positive."

Robert Pauls, president of the Central Carbondale Historic Area Association, cautioned the City Council to remember the beginnings of downtown and to preserve its history.

"It's easy to slap down cobblestones and put up lights and say it's historic development, but it's not," Pauls said. "There's a lot of money and interest (in Carbondale). Let's create a number of options and get to the nitty-gritty of downtown development in a historic-based context."

Pauls told the council to use grants that his organization can get for historic development and warned the committee not to use the downtown city-owned land for "light or automobile industry, manufacturing or parking lots."

GTE leases some of the city-owned land downtown for customer parking. It would like to continue in this capacity and also to lease more land for employee and customer parking until the city decides how to use the land, John Green, manager of customer service for GTE, said.

Teen satisfactory after pit bull attack

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

A pit bull attacked a 14-year-old on the 200 block of West Elm Street Tuesday, sending the boy to Carbondale Memorial Hospital with severe injuries, according to Carbondale police reports.

Mike Cole, of Route 3 in Carbondale, was in satisfactory condition Wednesday with leg and other injuries, a nurse at Memorial Hospital said.

Police found the boy lying on the ground with the dog biting his leg. After attempts to distract the dog failed, an officer shot the dog in its hindquarters.

The dog then ran to the 200 block of West Walnut Street where police said it attempted to attack an officer who shot and killed the dog.

Police said no evidence exists that the dog was provoked.

A friend was watching the dog while its owners were out of town, police said. The dog ran away as it was being leashed for a walk.

Hospital study finds unqualified doctors

BOSTON (UPI) — Five percent of doctors who applied to work at clinics run by a nationwide hospital chain lied about their qualifications, suggesting doctors pretending to be specialists may be more common than believed, researchers said Wednesday.

The Humana Inc. hospital chain in Louisville, Ky., found 39 of 773 doctors who applied for staff positions at some 150 ambulatory care clinics nationwide between March 1 and December 31 of 1986 presented false credentials.

"We conclude that in applying for some clinical privileges, physicians present inaccurate clinical credentials more frequently than might be expected," the researchers reported their findings in The New England Journal of Medicine.

The findings indicate hospitals and patients should be careful to guard against doctors who claim they are more qualified than they really are, the researchers said.

"The clinical credentials of physicians applying for clinical privileges must be thoroughly scrutinized and independently verified," they said.

Morris Library needs money now

MORRIS LIBRARY, THE cornerstone of the University, has fallen during this decade from its status as a first-rate research library, mainly because of inadequate funding. This trend must be reversed immediately.

In 1980, Morris Library was ranked 46th in the nation by the Association of Research Libraries. In 1985, it had fallen to No. 63. The association no longer releases its rankings to the public. But it is clear that Morris Library could not have improved its ranking by much and it seems likely that it has continued to fall.

THE PROBLEM IS simple — the cost of books and periodicals has increased at a much greater rate than the library's budget. Here are some telling figures:

- The average price of periodicals bought by Morris Library in 1987 was 104 percent higher than the average price in 1980;
- In the same time period, the library's expenditures for periodicals, replacing lost copies, binding, etc., increased by less than 50 percent;
- The library ordered about 15 percent fewer periodicals in 1987 than in 1980, a loss of more than 2,500 titles.

Book orders also have fallen — from about 24,000 books in 1986 to about 18,000 in 1987.

THE LIBRARY'S FUNDING must be increased before it is forced to reduce book and periodical orders to the extent that it becomes impossible for it to regain its status as a top-notch research library.

Instead of the SIU-C administration claiming there is no more money to be channeled into the library, it should re-examine the rationale behind some of its more superfluous expenditures over the past few years. Some examples are the new, $290,000 Admissions Reception Center and the unjustifiably high cost of running the Stone House.

Both the reception center and the Stone House are nice to have around the University. They look good and may impress some people. But they do absolutely nothing for the academic quality of SIU-C. In fact, by taking money away from things such as the library, they damage the University's academics.

THE UNIVERSITY WAS given a chance to ease the library's financial problems with the $1.2 million generated by this semester's 18-percent tuition hike. But the library was given the short end of the stick. Seven colleges were given more money than the library, which got less than $30,000.

Morris Library's "2-for-2" fund-raising campaign is a clear indication of how badly Morris Library needs money. It is commendable that the library is aggressively trying to help itself, but it shouldn't have to.

The next time a proposal is made for some unneeded, cosmetic project, the University's administrators should ask themselves which is more important: SIU-C's form or its function.

If the University administration is doing its job, the answer should be clear.

Anti-abortionists use propaganda in mission to establish theocracy

Dean Davis' letter attacking the DE for printing an article showing a majority of Americans support abortion rights was surprisingly free of the terrorist rhetoric that anti-abortionists usually use. However, his selection of facts relating to abortion represents a classic example of disinformation.

Davis' allusion to the "average" women receiving an abortion being from middle income groups is conveniently designed to ignore the fact that 20 to 25 percent of women receiving abortions are from the poverty level. It also ignores the women denied their right to abortion by the refusal of government to pay for this service, a refusal initiated by religious bigots, designed to force impoverished women to abstain from sex or face the alternative of being brood sows for childless middle and upper class women.

It seems improbable that

Davis would have mentioned the 50,000 third-trimester fetuses aborted if he had realized it does not take a mathematical genius to figure these abortions represent only 3 percent of the total.

Also, it should be pointed out that many, if not most, third-trimester abortions are performed either to protect the woman's health or because the fetus is hopelessly abnormal.

Anti-abortionists claim to revere life. If they revere life, why is it that their representatives in government seek to cut programs designed to help those in poverty, a group where the greatest increase is coming in the number of impoverished children?

Why do they turn their backs on the homeless, a third of whom are families with children? Why do those who declare their love for life not begin by creating a world in which every child has the right to a decent home, adequate nutrition, proper medical care and a good education? I must wonder, in the absence of such actions on their part, how sincere their reverence for life is.

The anti-abortion movement is not a single issue movement. It is an integral part of a plan to impose a theocratic tyranny on America. The vast majority of the religious extremists who sing their hymn of hate against abortion also oppose contraceptives and any sex education that does not promote abstinence.

They are the ones who would persecute gays and seek to drive them from the face of the earth. Sexual freedom is the most difficult of all freedoms to control and deny, and those who would make America a slave nation to a religion of hate know if they can crush this freedom, they can move forward in a religious tyranny where bigotry will reign supreme. — Robert T. Phillips, Carbondale.

Some canceled classes are unavoidable

This is in regard to the letter by Anthony Enright that appeared in the Feb. 3 Daily Egyptian. I am in my fourth year of college and have had a total of three or four classes canceled.

Teachers have outside lives and may have to cancel class for some uncontrollable reason. Besides being a student, I am also a staff flight instructor for the University flight program. The $50 show fee was started this semester because of the large number of students who think their flight slots are optional.

Flight instructors who are still students are paid hourly wages slightly higher than minimum wage. We are paid for only the time spent with our students and there have been plenty of days when I was at the airport four or five hours and only paid for one. Weekends are the most abused. Several times I've been at the airport at 7 a.m. and my student was not.

Flight fees are separate from tuition. A student is charged as he or she flies until the course is completed. Most flight courses take about a semester and a half to finish. We still have students who have been in a flight course for two years. These students keep us from allowing new students who want to fly in the program. If instructors fail to show up more than once, they're fired.

The grade a student receives for a flight course is based mainly on attendance and time required to complete a course.

Get the facts straight before you make a comment like the one in your letter, Mr. Enright. It will make your journalism career a lot easier.

Off the subject, I hate when a person unfamiliar with aviation tells me how to fly my plane or makes some comment about how unsafe the skies are. I feel perfectly safe when I fly. — George Karagiannis, senior, aviation management.

There was no immediate comment from President Hussain Mohammad Ershad, for whom the bloodshed was almost certain to increase

The alliance, which says Ershad rigged 1986 elections in which he won a five-year presidential term, is not

Despite the turmoil, high turnouts were reported in most districts where voting was held.

for entering the honors program include a minimum ACT score of 26, or graduating in the top 10 percent of the graduating class.

The University Honors Council is recommending that the ACT score requirement be raised to 27. This would raise the percentile from 90 to 95, but would affect only incoming freshmen.

After one semester at the University, a 3.25 grade point average is the only requirement.

Thea Rubin, College of Liberal Arts senator and participant in the Honors Program, said "raising the percentile may help eliminate some of those students who are coming in blind."

"I really think we're trying to help those students," she said.

No decision was made on new requirements. A resolution to maintain existing ACT requirements was voted down.

Senators did not vote on a bill to change the name of the USO to the Undergraduate Student Government Association because it is still being reviewed by the committee on internal affairs.

In elections for committee seats, Thea Rubin was elected Pro Tempore; Kip Ingmanson was elected to the committee on internal affairs; and Arzo Burnett, Dara Lawyer and John Steinbeck were elected to the finance committee.

Three senators: Cindy Schnaitman, School of Technical Careers; John Grigas, East Side; and Sean Curtis, West Side; were seated.

Damon Mathis was unanimously elected election commissioner, Sojia Yuill and Brent Berdick were recommended to sit.

On the elections committee a resolution was passed proclaiming Feb. 16-21 as International Student Week to coincide with SIU-C's International Festival.

Several registered student organizations were given funding.

Trustees will consider spending $2.5 million for building upkeep

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees today is expected to approve about $2.5 million for maintenance of campus buildings, an expansion of the School of Technical Careers building and to improve energy conservation at Stone House.

Don Wilson, vice chancellor for financial affairs and board treasurer, said the money will be broken down as follows:

—$2.2 million in Build Illinois funds for maintenance and upkeep of buildings;

—$10,000 for an energy-conservation program for

Stone House, which is $20,000 less than the project was expected to cost;

—$160,000 for a one-story addition to the School of Technical Careers Building, and $153,000 for equipment and furnishings for the addition.

The Build Illinois program was designed to maintain buildings and utilities in the state.

David Grobe, director of facilities planning, said the School of Technical Careers Building addition will house a flight simulator in a large classroom for aviation students.

He said the Federal Aviation Association provided a grant for the addition and the equipment.

The addition will go under the breezeway in the Technology Building between the School of Technical Careers and the College of Engineering and Technology and will extend south.

The improvements to Stone House will include a "variable volume air system" that was expected to cost $83,907 and a microcomputer energy management system that was expected to cost $27,000.

Recipients bewildered by tax laws

By Steven Starke
Staff Writer

As the Internal Revenue Service taxes their incomes, many students are taxing their brains trying to figure out which tax laws apply to them.

LaRue Blackwell, of the University's general accounting office, said the office has received many phone calls from people confused about the 1999 form, which resembles a W-2 form but is a statement of miscellaneous income not covered by the W-2.

The 1996 tax laws require grants of $600 or more to be reported because some grants are taxable, Blackwell said. The 1999 is used to report income from grants.

The form is not to be sent to the IRS with returns like the W-2, he said. The general accounting office has sent out over 2,000 of the 1999 forms.

Whether taxes are to be paid on scholarships or fellowships depends on the type of grant and how it is used.

Under the Tax Reform Act of 1986, students who are degree candidates must claim, as income, scholarship and fellowship money that exceeds their tuition, fee, and supply expenditures. Non-degree candidates may not exempt any portion of their grants and must claim all of the money as earned income.

Only grants specifically designated for expenditures such as room and board, travel, and other non-educational activities are exempt.

Prosecution wants prison term for seller of AIDS-tainted blood

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A male prostitute charged with selling his AIDS-tainted blood to a plasma center should be convicted of the crime, even though the man is a "tragic figure with a lot of heartbreaks in life," a prosecutor said Tuesday.

Deputy District Attorney Antonio Barreto told jurors during his opening statement at the trial of Joseph Markowski, 29, that the defendant sold his blood, even though he knew he had AIDS.

"He sold his plasma and he knew that the virus would be going into the plasma product (and) ... that it could infect someone," Barreto said.

Barreto told jurors he viewed Markowski as "a tragic figure with a lot of heartbreaks in life. A homosexual street hustler who sells his body for money."

But he urged the jury of seven men and five women to convict Markowski of two felony counts of trying to poison a pharmaceutical product.

If found guilty, the emaciated Markowski could be sent to state prison for up to three years and two months. Markowski remains in custody.

Defense attorney Guy O'Brien was scheduled to give his opening statement Wednesday.

Markowski was charged in late June with attempted murder for selling his AIDS-infected blood to Plasma Production Associates in Los Angeles and trying to sell it there a second time.

District Attorney Ira Reiner said he believed Markowski was the first person in the nation to be charged with attempted murder for selling his AIDS-contaminated blood.

Investigators said that following his arrest, Markowski told them he was so desperate for money that he had sold his infected blood to plasma banks as many as 23 times.

Army changes homosexual policy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal appeals court Wednesday declared unconstitutional a 1981 Army regulation barring re-enlistment of soldiers discovered to be homosexual.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, voting 2-1, ordered the Army to reinstate Sgt. Perry J. Watkins of Tacoma, Wash., who had been denied re-enlistment in 1981 under the regulations even though he admitted on his 1967 Army enlistment application that he had homosexual tendencies.

"We hold that the Army's regulations violate the constitutional guarantee of equal protection of the laws because they discriminate against persons of homosexual orientation ... and because the regulations are not necessary to promote a legitimate compelling governmental interest," wrote Judge William Norris.

Although the Watkins case involved only the Army, the ruling applies to all branches of the military because the regulations were issued by the Defense Department, according to James Lobsenz, a Seattle attorney hired by the American Civil Liberties Union to represent Watkins.

"We're extremely pleased by Judge Norris' decision and we think that finally we have a court that recognizes this type of discrimination is incompatible with the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution," Lobsenz said.

Students tickled by competition

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

Nineteen University students tickled the audience's funny bone during the U.S. College Comedy Competition held Tuesday in the Student Center Ballroom B.

During the competition, each contestant performed a three-minute stand-up routine that was videotaped. Their performance will be reviewed by judges Larry "Bud" Melman, a regular on "Late Night With David Letterman," and Gilbert Gottfried, who was in the movie "Beverly Hills Cop II."

The competition, which began Jan. 18, will be held at 100 colleges nationwide. Four finalists will be selected to compete for the title of "The Funniest College Comedian" in Daytona Beach, Fla., the week of March 21 to 25.

Participants delivered material with topics ranging from a spirited encounter with the dead-end, labyrinth known as Faner Hall, to the distress of one comedian's black-eyed peas walking off his plate.

Pierre Porter, who says he is not a comedian and just likes to talk about reality, talked about the reality of "boogers." "When you think you've finally flicked it off your finger, you look down and see it on another finger," Porter said.

impersonations of Max Headroom, Duddley Doright, Yogi the Bear, and a college nerd. Other comedians in the competition performed impersonations of driver-education teachers, Michael Jackson, Prince and President Ronald Reagan.

The SIU-C crowd was the largest in attendance of all the schools the competition has been to, Jim Mandosa, the master of ceremonies and opening comedian, said. Mandosa is also a regular performer at the Los Angeles club Comedy Store

'Ah, Wilderness' offers nostalgia with memorable performances

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

Director Archibald McLeod says "Ah, Wilderness" is not an easy play for actors to perform. But during a dress rehearsal Feb. 4, the Stage Company actors made it look pretty easy.

"Ah, Wilderness," considered one of Eugene O'Neill's best plays, is a nostalgic look into the

Times & Tickets

Dates:
"Ah, Wilderness" will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. The performance continues Feb. 19 to 21.

Tickets:
Available at the Stage Company box office 4 to 6 p.m. weekdays and noon to 4 p.m. Saturday. For details, call 549-5466.

Prices:
$6 Friday and Saturday, $4 Sunday.

Gene Dybvig and Barbara Farris deliver engaging performances as the parents Nat and Essie Miller, who must deal with the adolescent yearnings of their son Richard.

Adam Meier's portrayal of Richard is at times melodramatic. He rushes through his lines and uses sweeping hand gestures. However, he does seem to take some control over his character about halfway through the performance.

It is Fred Gustave's performance as Sid Davis, Richard's alcoholic uncle, that steals the show. Gustave's one great comedic scene occurs at the Millers' dinner table and he exits the stage with applause from the audience.

Sid, though, is a tragic figure whose revelry and drinking only serves to bury the past. Sid was engaged to Richard's aunt, but lost her because of his alcoholism and infidelity.

Mary Harris turns in a fine performance as Richard's aunt and in a brief, but humorous scene, Rebecca Ronaghy delivers a seductive performance as the prostitute Belle.

Theater Review

adolescence of a leading American playwright, as well as turn-of-the-century America. It is O'Neill's only comedy.

Set in 1906 on the 4th of July, the play revolves around Richard Miller, a young teenager who has reached his rebellious stage and believes the whole world is beneath his level of understanding.

Richard is in love with a girl at school and he writes her love letters, quoting from works by controversial authors of the time, such as Oscar Wilde and Algeron Swinburne.

When the girl's father finds the letters he is outraged and presents the matter to Richard's father.

Much of the play's success is due to the elder actors, whose strong performances contrast, but also elicit the exuberance and recklessness of youth.

Fitzgerald short story released

NEW YORK (UPI) — A previously unpublished short story by F. Scott Fitzgerald that was buried among the author's papers for decades will be published next week, The New York Times reported Wednesday.

The story, "A Full Life," written in 1937, will appear in the winter edition of the Princeton University Library Chronicle, the Times said.

The story by the author of "The Great Gatsby" and

"Tender is the Night" is an absurdist tale with a heroine who is heirless to a munitions fortune and marries a French count before working as a human cannonball in a traveling circus, the newspaper said.

Bush denies making call to Noriega

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President George Bush called Panama's leader Manuel Noriega the day of the 1983 U.S. invasion of Grenada and asked him to warn Cuban leader Fidel Castro not to interfere in the operation, a former diplomat for Panama said Wednesday.

Jose Blandon, who resigned last month as Panama's general consul in New York, said Noriega told him Bush made the call hours before the invasion. The vice president flatly denied Wednesday making such a call.

Blandon also said Noriega hired well-known Washington lobbyist Tongson Park to cut a deal with U.S. authorities — immunity from prosecution on drug charges in exchange for relinquishing power.

Blandon said that as recently as December, he met with State Department officials on a plan to ease Noriega out by offering immunity. After some initial interest, he said, U.S. officials and Noriega backed out.

Blandon said getting Noriega to step down would be difficult because Latin American drug lords want him to stay in power and maintain the base they have established in Panama under his protection.

"This is not your everyday dictatorship," said Blandon, surrounded by four bodyguards in his second day of subpoenaed testimony before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on terrorism, narcotics and international operations.

Tuesday, Blandon testified that the CIA provided information to Noriega on senators who visited Panama and were investigating his activities. The CIA denied the charge.

On Bush's message to Castro, Blandon said he received a telephone call from Noriega the morning of Oct. 25, 1983, in which he was informed of Bush's request that Castro be alerted to the invasion of Grenada that day.

"The purpose of the communication to Castro was to warn him that (the invasion) was going to take place and that if the United States had problems in Grenada, Cuba was going to suffer from reprisals," Blandon said through an interpreter.

Blandon said Panamanian officials contacted Cuban intelligence in Panama and arranged to contact Castro by telephone. The Cuban leader "thanked Noriega for the call and said he had prevented many problems," Blandon said.

At the time of the invasion, Cuban workers were in Grenada to assist in several projects on the Caribbean island, including an airstrip.

Car accident victim has surgery

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

A University student remained in critical condition Wednesday after undergoing surgery for injuries suffered when he was struck by a car early Sunday, a hospital spokesman said.

John Buckzkiewicz, freshman in law enforcement, underwent leg surgery, an employee at St. Louis University Hospital said. The hospital would not disclose the extent or nature of Buckzkiewicz's injuries.

Buckzkiewicz was standing in the westbound lane of East

Freeman Street about 50 feet west of its intersection with South Logan Street when he was struck by a car driven by Peter C. Elvart, police said.

Elvart, senior in avionics technology, was passing another vehicle but did not appear to be traveling at a high rate of speed, police said.

Police said Elvart's car drove over the curb for about 15 feet after the accident because the windshield was damaged on impact and blocked Elvart's vision.

Elvart was not ticketed by police. Police expect to complete their investigation into the accident by the end of the week. The Jackson County State's Attorney's staff will review the report and decide whether to file charges, Conway said.

Police said that Buckzkiewicz reportedly was walking home from a party with some friends. Buckzkiewicz's friends appeared to have been drinking but police have not determined if Buckzkiewicz had been drinking, police said.

Elvart passed a sobriety test after the accident.

Tobacco vs. marijuana smoke: pot hurts body more, study finds

BOSTON (UPI) — Smoking one marijuana cigarette is at least as hazardous to the health as four regular filtered tobacco cigarettes, researchers reported Wednesday.

In the first study of its kind, researchers found that marijuana smoke increases the amount of carbon monoxide in the blood four to five times more than filtered tobacco smoke and deposits about four times as much tar in the lungs.

Carbon monoxide is one of many gases in smoke and is believed to play a role in how smoking increases the risk for heart disease.

"The take-home message is that no amount of marijuana smoking is probably safe and that the marijuana smoker does have substantially greater risk for damage to his lungs from smoking one marijuana cigarette compared to four tobacco cigarettes," said Dr. Donald P. Tashkin, a professor of medicine at the University of California at Los Angeles School of Medicine who headed the study.

Tashkin and his colleagues previously showed that smoking a few marijuana joints a day appeared to cause as much respiratory damage as smoking a pack of tobacco cigarettes.

In a new study published in The New England Journal of Medicine, the researchers studied 15 men as they smoked marijuana and their own brands of filtered tobacco cigarettes.

Marijuana smoke delivered about three times greater levels of tar to the lungs, and the lungs retained about one-third greater levels of the tar from marijuana compared to tobacco smoke.

Tar contains a variety of particulate matter in smoke, including many substances that cause cancer and can damage the respiratory system, possibly causing respiratory diseases, such as bronchitis and emphysema.

The difference appears to result primarily because marijuana and tobacco are smoked differently, Tashkin said.

Smokers in the study inhaled between 30 to 40 percent more smoke with every puff of marijuana smoke compared to tobacco smoke and held the marijuana smoke in their lungs for about four times as long. Taking bigger puffs and holding the smoke is believed to increase the high produced from smoking marijuana.

"A marijuana smoker can no longer say that, 'Well, since I smoke only a few joints a day I'm at far less risk of developing complications of smoking, such as lung cancer, compared to a tobacco smoker that smokes a pack a day,'" said Tashkin in a telephone interview.

"If one joint delivers four times as much tar to the lungs compared to a tobacco cigarette that would imply it takes fewer marijuana cigarettes to produce comparable damage to the lung," he said.

An estimated 6 million people smoke marijuana every day in the United States. Tashkin acknowledged most marijuana smokers smoke less than three marijuana cigarettes a day. But he noted studies have found that even light tobacco smoking can sharply increase the risk for health problems.

Cosby, publisher offer reward for information in racist attack

NEW YORK (UPI) — Comedian Bill Cosby and a top black publisher offered $25,000 Wednesday for information leading to arrests in an attack on a black teenage girl found in a plastic bag with racial slurs scrawled on her chest.

"We want to make some people wake up and come forward," Cosby said. Cosby joined Essence magazine publisher Ed Lewis in urging anyone with information about the incident to contact a hotline set up by the state attorney general, appointed by Gov. Mario Cuomo as a special prosecutor in the case.

Tawana Brawley, 16, of upstate Wappingers Falls, N.Y., told investigators she was kidnapped Nov. 24 by six white men, one of whom showed her a badge and said he was a policeman, then repeatedly sexually assaulted her.

She was found in a plastic bag Nov. 28 curled in the fetal position — her hair chopped, "KKK" and "nigger" scrawled on her chest in charcoal and feces smeared across her body.

No one has been charged in the case. The victim's attorneys, who represented the victims of the Howard Beach racial assault in Queens, have advised her not to cooperate with authorities on grounds they would not aggressively seek out her assailants because of racial bias.

"The physical and mental anguish suffered by Tawana is immeasurable," Cosby said.

"Any individual, and most especially a child, who has suffered this type of indignity should be embraced by their community. Instead, Tawana has had to endure insensitivity by community residents and mismanagement of the case by local authorities," he charged. Some local residents have branded the girl, a popular high school cheerleader and athlete, a liar.

"Let Miss Brawley represent an example of what we are not going to stand for as parents, as Americans, as human beings. It's not about race," Cosby said. He was accompanied by Brawley's mother and stepfather, as well as their lawyers and a host of local civil rights activists, at a news conference in a Manhattan hotel.

Cosby grew irritated when asked why people should give the attorney general information while Brawley and her family refuse to talk to the prosecutor.

"What the attorneys want to do is not our concern," Cosby said testily. "We are posting a reward."

Supremacist fired after Oprah show

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A white supremacist who claims he was fired after appearing on the Oprah Winfrey show to advance his cause has accused his former employer of "political bigotry" and threatened to sue.

Brad Robarge, an organizer for the White Aryan Resistance, a neo-Nazi group whose crewcut members are called "skinheads," was locked out of Western Fast Print in Fullerton Monday when he tried to return to work as a printer, the Orange County Register reported Tuesday.

Robarge, 22, was part of a six-member panel who appeared on Winfrey's nationally televised talk show last Thursday in Chicago to talk about anti-Semitic and racist youth movements.

Winfrey's publicist, Alice McGee, told the newspaper the program was one of the most volatile Winfrey has done, with panelists exchanging insults, obscenities and threats with members of the studio audience.

McGee said Winfrey wanted to do a show about skinheads because of the recent attention they have received.

Robarge told the newspaper he was fired because his employer, Robert Messe, is Jewish and objected to comments Robarge made on the program.

Robarge was unavailable for comment Tuesday. Messe declined to discuss the case, except to say, "I did not fire Robert Robarge. That's my only comment."

Robarge told the Register he never discussed his political beliefs or philosophy "of white pride" at work and said Messe was unaware of his affiliation with the White Aryan Resistance.

"It's racial, religious and political bigotry that's being practiced here," Robarge said outside the print shop after he was not allowed to return to work.

He conceded that in order to get time off to appear on Winfrey's show, he told Messe that he was taking several days off because a relative had died.

schools. We're lucky to get him."

"The offense will be bolstered by five linemen and three quarterbacks, including junior college transfer Raymond Monica."

"He's going to have an opportunity to compete for a starting job in spring practice," Dorr said. "He was a very important find for us."

Rantoul offensive lineman Charles Neitzel, who was one of the Chicago Tribune's Top 100 high school players, was recruited by Eastern Illinois, Illinois State, Indiana State and Illinois.

"He's got good size and good mobility," Rantoul coach Dick Hood said. "He can come off the ball extremely well. He's just a real solid football player. It's hard for a freshman to come in and play right away. If they redshirt him the first year, I think he could be a four-year starter."

Three running backs and two wide receivers also were added.

Halfback Mike McDonald, an East Coast junior college all-star, runs the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds.

"He blocks well and is able to catch the ball out of the backfield," Nassau C.C. coach John Anselmo said. "He's a slashing type runner. He should have a chance to step right in."

Wide receiver Ransom Funches, a junior college transfer, runs the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds.

"In his two years here, he's done an excellent job for us," Pearl River C.C. coach said. "He's an excellent athlete who has great speed. We had 13 players from our team get signed. He is probably the best athlete of the group."

Funches also was recruited by Tulane and Houston, Dorr said.

Among the players the Salukis weren't able to sign were Carbondale quarterback Mark Diamond and Murphysboro offensive lineman Richard Smith. Diamond chose Missouri-Rolla and Smith picked Arkansas State.

"You can't have everything," Dorr said.

The Salukis did sign Southern Illinois players Gene Williams, a defensive lineman from Cairo, and Pat Wiese, an offensive lineman from Nashville.

The Salukis are pursuing John Bookout, a kicker from Arlington Heights. There was a question as to whether Bookout would be ineligible his first season because of failing to meet Proposition 48 requirements. He learned Wednesday that he will meet the academic requirements.

Dorr was scheduled to visit him at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

"I'm going to ask him to give me a couple of days to make a decision," Bookout said.

Bookout is considering offers from Texas-El Paso and Drake. In his senior season, he made 10 of 13 field-goal attempts. He made seven from 40 yards or more, including one from 49 yards.

The Salukis still are looking to add walk-ons to the team.

"We're going to encourage players on campus to come out for the team," Dorr said. "One of our goals is to have 150 players come out to play for Southern Illinois."

jumped the gun on putting the (information) out. Now they are holding out until after the National Red Cross meeting that will be held sometime toward the end of February," Illner said.

"After March 1, local chapters of the Red Cross should have details on the new 60-hour course," she said.

The program proposed by the Red Cross is an advanced lifesaving course that would boost the required training hours to 60, with added emphasis on cardiopulmonary resuscitation, swimming requirements and training.

McMinn said he supports the tougher training, which the Red Cross plans to make a requirement by 1990, but said it will "create big problems with staffing."

McMinn said that SIU-C has about 50 lifeguards. The additional requirements would put a strain on many other schools and institutions that already are having a shortage of lifeguards, he said.

Summertime would still be a problem at SIU-C because lifeguard shortages become more acute with many facilities, such as Touch of Nature and Campus Lake, open for swimming while many students and lifeguards go home for the summer.

McMinn said the Center is trying to alleviate future difficulties by beefing up its ongoing monthly training sessions.

The upgraded program requires more of the trainees' time. This could pose a problem, McMinn said, prompting students not to get involved.

Currently, lifeguards are certified by qualified individuals in the Center.

The new guidelines will make things more difficult to certify new guards since the Red Cross only appoints a certain amount of people per area to actually do the qualifying.

Although McMinn and the others can train and instruct, certification can only come from a person specifically appointed by the Red Cross.

Dorr gets 27 players, expects more

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The Saluki football team expects to have signed 30 players by today, Coach Ray Dorr said late Wednesday, the first signing date. By Wednesday night, the Salukis had signed 27.

"We achieved a lot of our objectives," Dorr said. "It's very difficult to make comparisons (to previous recruiting classes). You have to speculate a little bit. The end result will be winning."

Dorr and his coaching staff sought immediate help to improve last year's 3-8 team. At least 15 of the projected 30 signees are junior college players, including the six juco signees announced on Jan. 25.

Eight of the junior college players are on campus and will compete for starting positions in spring practice, Dorr said.

"This recruiting class sends a message to our football team," Dorr said. "We're bringing in players as old as players already on our team and players with maturity. When you go 3-8, there are no positions locked up. If a player thinks he already has a starting position, he's living in a dream world."

The Salukis recruiting strategy emphasized two positions.

"The key thing is we lost all of our defensive secondary to graduation," Dorr said. "The second concern was our offensive line. Those are two of the areas we had to shore up."

Eight defensive backs topped the signees on defense. Junior college transfers William Perry and Spencer Moncrief will "make an impact" in the defensive secondary, Dorr said. Defensive backs Scott Barber and Gary Powell, both from Northeast Oklahoma A&M J.C., were all-state selections in high school.

Two linebackers and two linemen also were added.

Dorr said he was surprised to sign defensive lineman Scott Hardee, from Chowan, N.C., and Dennis Parker, from Richmond, Va.

"He (Hardee) had numerous offers from other schools but he chose SIU," Dorr said. "(Parker) was overlooked by Eastern

Red Cross proposal could make lifeguard training a bit tougher

By Greg Huber
Staff Writer

Members of the Recreation Center's lifeguard team found out during a vigorous workout recently that the lifeguard program could get tougher.

The lifeguards at Pulliam Pool for their monthly training session Saturday were asked to put out just a little extra in a workout described by Center Coordinator Bill McMinn as one of the program's best yet.

McMinn said changes are being made to SIU-C's lifeguard program to help the lifeguards prepare for changes being proposed by the American Red Cross.

Currently, lifeguards only need a 24-hour lifesaving course to be certified, and they can get that certificate through either a Red Cross course or through a program at the Center.

Julee Illner, field hockey coach, heads the Red Cross certification for this area. She said the Red Cross has not made any final decisions on the proposal.

Women's team faces 'capable' SW Missouri

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Now that the women's basketball team is second in the Gateway Conference standings, every game merits "must-win" status to Coach Cindy Scott.

This is especially true in tonight's 7:35 meeting against Southwest Missouri at the Arena, even though the Bears haven't beaten the Salukis in 13 straight attempts.

The Salukis escaped with only a 10-point, 78-68 victory over Southwest Missouri on Jan. 17 in Springfield, Mo.

"We had to play a good game at Southwest to beat them," Scott said. "They are very, very capable of playing with us."

The Salukis are 14-7 overall, and 10-3 in the Gateway, tied with Eastern Illinois and Illinois State. Indiana State (18-3, 11-2) is in first.

Southwest Missouri (7-13, 4-8) has played well against the conference elite.

The Bears drilled Drake 76-49, upset Eastern Illinois 95-85 and barely lost in overtime to Indiana State, 77-75.

"Southwest is a team that seems mentally ready to play the top teams," Scott said.

Yet, Southwest Missouri has lost eight of the last 10 and has a 2-7 record on the road.

The Bears' top player is Kelly Mago, a 6-foot-1 senior averaging 17.4 points and 8.5 rebounds. Backing her are 5-foot-8 sophomore Kimberly Scoggin, who is coming off a career-high 26-point performance against Indiana State on Saturday, and 5-foot-

The Salukis lead the Gateway in defense, allowing opponents only 59.1 points per game and 39.8 percent on field goals.

"If we can get the same effort in other parts of our game that we've been getting defensively, we'll be all right," Scott said. "Our defense keeps getting better. It has been keeping us in games lately."

St. Charles, Mo., duo signs with volleyball team

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Teammates Terri Schulteheirich and Debbie Briscoe of Duchesne High School in St. Charles, Mo., are two of four scholarship players that signed with the Saluki volleyball team Wednesday.

The other signees are Patty Fuelling of Muncie (Ind.) Burriss High School and Stephanie Newman of Mattoon (Ill.) High School.

Schulteheirich, a 5-foot-7 setter, and Briscoe, a 5-foot-10 middle blocker, were both Missouri Class 3A All-State selections and led Duchesne to second in the 1987 state tournament.

"Terri has the potential to help us fill a pressing need," Coach Debbie Hunter said.

The Salukis lost senior setter Sue Sinclair to a knee injury before the 1987 fall season and had to rely on the hitting duties, junior Dawn Thompson. Sinclair, a redshirt; Thompson, the school single-season assist record holder; and Schulteheirich will solidify the setting position.

"I feel especially confident in Terri's athletic ability and competitive nature. She has convinced me that she knows how to maneuver the offense and put a team in a position to win," Hunter said.

Briscoe's size and strength are needed on the Salukis' front line, which must compensate for the loss of hitters Joan Wallenberg and Dorothy Buchanan.

"Debbie is an accomplished multiple-option attacker," Hunter said. "She's the power hitter we've been looking for. She should be able to adapt quickly and effectively to our blocking system."

Fuelling played for two Indiana state title teams at Muncie in 1986 and 1985. Muncie had a 70-1 record in the last two seasons.

"Patty benefits from an excellent volleyball background," Hunter said. "She can be an impact player for us as a right-side blocker. Her ability to
