Firms slow official search, prof says

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

Colleges and universities should be wary of using executive firms in searches to fill top administrative positions, said a member of the search committee that worked with a firm in selecting President John C. Guyon.

Lawrence Dennis headed the presidential search committee that selected Guyon. He also served on the committee that selected Chancellor Lawrence Pettit. That committee also employed a professional search firm. Dennis wrote an article on the subject that appeared in the Jan. 27 issue of Higher Education.

Pettit hired Heidrick and Struggles Inc. of Chicago to aid in the presidential search. The firm helped the committee locate candidates and isolated those candidates that it determined were "interested" in the position.

"My article isn't a criticism of anything we did here," said Dennis. "I'm not criticizing our search in any way or the chancellor or the outcome."

However, he said, "In my opinion, the gains (of using a search firm) are not outweighed by the disadvantages. Not having a search firm probably wouldn't have affected the outcome, though."

In his article, Dennis argues: "Based on my experience, headhunters do not make the search for a new president easier. In fact, the committee's work expands proportionately with the entry of another party."

He also argues that "the most important procedures in the search process are no longer under the college's control.

"Trust between professional recruiters and the campus committee is absolutely necessary but difficult to achieve. Trust is not enhanced, for example, when the committee finds itself working hard without pay while the headhunter gets an enormous

Classroom Bible use disputed

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Both sides of a dispute over a teacher's right to quote the Bible say they will sue the Carbondale Elementary Schools District if the school board decides in favor of the other side.

Curtis Caldwell, an SIU-C master's student in linguistics said his civil rights were violated when he was asked not to quote the Bible while substitute teaching at Lincoln Junior High School.

The American Civil Liberties Union and American Atheists say Caldwell was infringing on student's civil rights when he spoke of religion in the classroom, which they referred to as "religious harassment."

The ACLU and the AA say they will sue the school district if Caldwell is allowed to continue referring to the Bible while teaching.

A public hearing to review complaints about the matter will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Brush Administrative Center, 400 W. Monroe St.

Caldwell said in a telephone interview Thursday that he referred to the Bible at least four times while he was a

Staff desertions cause delay for Obelisk II

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

The Obelisk II student yearbook is six months overdue, and the editor is blaming the former general manager for causing a staff desertion.

But the former general manager, A. Steve Warnelis, blames the yearbook's problems on budget cuts.

Cindy Zeigler, Obelisk editor, said she is working on a six-member staff on a project that requires at least 45 people to "do an adequate job." Dissension between the Obelisk's student staff and Warnelis caused many staff members to leave, she said.

"He had his own ideas about how the yearbook should look," Zeigler said, claiming Warnelis was not letting students decide what went into the book. She said Warnelis's policies went against the Obelisk motto, "Students keeping the books on being a student."

"Steve used too much control and students couldn't handle it," Zeigler said. "The

N.Y. not interested in Hambletonian

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

New York officials can't agree if they are interested in bidding on the Hambletonian harness race in 1991 or not.

Joe LaGuardia, director of public relations for the New York State Fair, and Gerald Moore, information officer for the Department of Agriculture and Markets, say state fair officials probably will discuss the possibility of bidding for the Hambletonian, harness racing's most prestigious race.

But Gaston Valiquette, president of the Syracuse Mile, the organization responsible for choosing which races New York will host, said the state is not interested.

"We are absolutely not interested," Valiquette said. "There are no funds and no package for the Hambletonian."

That could be good news for

Gov. James R. Thompson, who is trying to convince the Hambletonian Society to bring the race, one of trotting's triple crowns, back to the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

Hugh A. Grant Jr., president of the Hambletonian Society, has said he will ask society members at their winter meeting March 26 if they want to accept bids for the race.

In 1979, the last year the society accepted bids, three race tracks vied for the race: the Du Quoin State Fair, the Meadowlands in New Jersey and the New York State Fair in Syracuse.

New York, where the race started in 1926, offered the society $1 million. Illinois offered $450,000 and the Meadowlands guaranteed $800,000.

Valiquette, who put the bid

Philippine rebels rampage, kill mayor, security chief

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Communist rebels killed a mayor and a university security chief, raided a prison and fought with troops near a U.S. base in a wave of violence that erupted after the government ordered the insurgency crushed, officials said Thursday. Because of the violence, the new national police chief directed all regional, provincial and field commanders to tighten security and improve intelligence to forestall rebel attacks on isolated military posts.

Black S. African says white fiancée kidnapped

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A black man accused police Thursday of taking his white fiancée from his home by force but said he will not give up "the woman I love" despite midnight telephone death threats from a "lovers hit squad." Police denied the charge, saying 30-year-old Annette Heunis, who had left her family to live with Jerry Tsie in a black township, asked to be escorted out of Kutluanong in the Orange Free State for her own protection.

Israeli commander confirms Arab beatings

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The commanding general of Israeli forces in the occupied West Bank dismissed many complaints of soldiers beating Palestinians as "imagined" but acknowledged Thursday that some soldiers have been disciplined for the thrashings. Mitzna, the head of the Central Command whose responsibility includes the West Bank, spoke after the newspaper Ha'aretz quoted Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin as saying there were 340 cases of Israeli soldiers beating Palestinians in the occupied Gaza Strip.

Soviet police allow Jewish refusnik protest

MOSCOW (UPI) — In a turnaround Thursday, police permitted about 100 refusniks demanding the right to leave the Soviet Union to conduct a 40-minute demonstration on the steps of the Lenin Library. Several participants said the demonstration, held in 7-degree weather, was the largest Jewish protest in the Soviet capital in years.

Silence, lowered flags mark shuttle tragedy

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Flags were lowered to half staff Thursday in silent memory of the seven astronauts killed when the shuttle Challenger exploded two years ago in a catastrophic loss of innocence for America's once-invincible space program. In a tradition that began at the Kennedy Space Center where Challenger began its voyage into history, NASA workers across the nation observed 73 seconds of silence in memory of Challenger's tragically brief mission.

Officials brief Reagan on FBI's surveillance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese and FBI Director William Sessions were summoned to the White House Thursday to discuss a controversial FBI spy operation on U.S. citizens opposed to President Reagan's policies in Central America. At the same time, Meese ordered a report from Sessions on the details of the investigation, and the Justice Department discounted the revelations by a civil liberties group as "a carefully orchestrated publicity campaign" supported by a sympathetic media.

Carlucci says Nicaragua forcing escalation

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — The United States could be forced to bolster its defenses in the Gulf of Mexico region if Nicaragua continues to build up its military, Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci said Thursday. But the defense secretary did not reveal if he meant bolstering U.S. forces in states such as Texas that border the gulf, or in countries in Central America.

Information on AIDS to be mailed nationwide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A brochure on AIDS will be mailed to every household in the United States, probably by midyear, the Public Health Service said. Ellen Castleberry, a spokeswoman for the agency, said Thursday research has been underway in small and large cities across the country "to see what information is needed" in the brochure. Castleberry said the brochure would describe the AIDS virus, the disease it causes, how it is transmitted, and ways to avoid becoming infected.

Drug enforcers get $75,000

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

A cooperative drug enforcement group in Southern Illinois was awarded nearly $75,000 in federal funds Jan. 15, according to the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority.

The funds will double the operations budget of the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group, a metropolitan enforcement group that coordinates 20 law enforcement agencies from Jackson, Johnson, Randolph, Union and Williamson counties, SIEG director Lt. Dennis Bowman said.

SIEG will use the grant to expand operations against cannabis production and drug trafficking, Bowman said. More people will be hired and equipment will be purchased, he said. He would not say how many people currently work at SIEG.

The federal funds were made available by the Drug Abuse Act, passed by Congress in 1986. Illinois received $7.66 million through the law. Bowman said all 10 Illinois enforcement groups will receive funds. SIEG may receive its funds in a few months, he said.

In 1986, the Illinois General Assembly cut SIEG's budget from $125,000 to $67,000.

SIEG members, including the Carbondale Police Department, University Security, and Jackson County Sheriff's Department, contribute personnel, money and equipment towards drug enforcement in the five-county area, Bowman said.

In 1986 SIEG had a 92 percent conviction ratio and confiscated $1.14 million of marijuana, Bowman said.

"I think the drug problem (in Southern Illinois) is significant," Bowman said.

"Our emphasis in the Carbondale area is on cocaine. There has been a rise in availability ... on the streets, and in the whole country as well," Bowman said. "We're beginning to see prices decrease, which is an indication of abundance."

Bowman said 27 percent of SIEG's 1987 arrests were cocaine-related, while the figure 10 years ago was less than 10 percent.

Fifty-seven percent of SIEG's budget is concentrated on cocaine-related cases, he said.

Bowman, director since 1983, received a masters in administration of justice at SIU-C in 1979 and is pursuing a Ph.D. in occupational education. He was an adjunct faculty member at the Crime Study Center from 1979 to 1987.

Clarence Dougherty, vice president for campus services, is the chairman of the Governing Board, SIEG's policy-making body.

Rep. chides: 'Come clean' Bush

WASHINGTON (UPI) — So much conflicting evidence still clouds the role of Vice President George Bush in the Iran-Contra scandal that he should call a news conference and come clean, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., said Thursday.

Hamilton, chairman of the select House committee on the foreign policy affair, said there still are numerous questions surrounding the operations that even he cannot answer after nearly a year of congressional investigation.

One of those critical questions is Bush's participation in and knowledge of the U.S. arms sales to Iran, Hamilton said.

"The position of the vice president remains unclear," he said Thursday on CBS's "This Morning." "And until it is clear, I think it'll continue to be an issue," in Bush's campaign for the presidency.

Bush, who canceled campaign appearances in New Hampshire to be available for a close vote in the Senate, could not be reached for comment. A spokesman for his presidential campaign had no immediate comment.

The vice president's rivals for the Republican presidential nomination have been dogging Bush to clarify his understanding of events in the scandal and the advice he gave President Reagan as the affair proceeded.

Bush has said he was opposed to swapping arms for hostages with Iran, but did not believe the arms sales amounted to such a deal. He also has said he expressed "reservations" about various aspects of the deal.

In an explosive 9-minute live interview Monday with CBS News anchorman Dan Rather, the vice president muddied the issue further by saying his key objection to the U.S. arms sales was the deep involvement of a "foreign power"—Israel.

Israel served as the broker of the arms sales in late 1985, but in January 1986, Reagan signed a national security "finding" permitting the CIA to sell arms directly to the radical Islamic government in Tehran.

Busing survey to ask off-campus opinions

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

A phone survey of off-campus students is in the works to gauge their support of a student fee that would fund a proposed mass transit system.

The mass transit committee, a part of the Student Welfare Commission, met with members of the American Marketing Association Thursday night to discuss the survey, which the committee wants the AMA to conduct.

The survey would focus on off-campus students, who might use a transit system instead of driving to campus.

The committee plans to present an informal proposal for the transit system to the Board of Trustees in June. At that time the board needs to be shown that the idea has been researched and has student support. Kris Fabian, transit committee member, said.

The survey would indicate whether students support the $15 per semester fee for the proposed system or just support the concept, Drayton Roose, transit committee member, said. The AMA would design questions to gauge how students feel about the system.

The fee for the transit system would be $1.25 per semester hour for part-time students or $15 per semester for full-time students. Non-students would pay 50 cents. At least two of the busses would have wheelchair access.

About $647,000 per year for eight routes on six proposed routes would be generated.

With the proposed system, students could show their student I.D. and ride as often as they liked on any route. Busses would make several stops on campus, at the University Mall and other places off-campus.

A mass transit system would open up campus parking spaces and even allow students to park in the Arena parking lot and ride a bus to other areas of campus, Fabian said.

He added that routes could be changed to cater to the students if necessary.

A mass transit board consisting of students, SIU-C administrators, and city and transit company representatives would be set up to run the system, Roose said.

"We're doing our homework," Roose said.

He added that the committee would like to present a formal proposal to the board by September or October. If the board approves the proposal, the transit system could be in place by the summer of 1989.

The committee has used the American Transit Corp. of St. Louis, which services Northern Illinois University, for its research.

Marvin Tanner, transit committee member, said they have worked closely with NIU in researching the idea. Committee members plan to visit NIU in February to attend a transit board meeting.

Graduation prayer should be stopped

A PROPOSAL TO have only non-denominational prayer at SIU-C commencement ceremonies would be a potentially disastrous blow to intellectual freedom.

It would give the University free rein to censor the content of prayer, which would be a monstrous bite into the forbidden fruit. It would doom freedom of thought and expression to eternal subjugation by the University.

The proposal was made in an attempt to avoid prayer at graduation ceremonies that may offend people who are not of the same faith as the person delivering the prayer. But the fear that someone may not approve of a prayer's content is not reason enough for change. Legislating universal prayer would be a definite step in the wrong direction.

SIU-C PRESIDENT JOHN Guyon recently sidestepped the issue by saying that each college could decide whether it wants to have prayer at graduation. In doing so, Guyon passed up an opportunity to put an end to the problem and merely perpetuated the status quo.

The real issue is not what type of prayer should be said at graduation, but that prayer should not be there in the first place.

The free flow of ideas, both religious and secular, is the backbone of every university. But in certain situations in a university setting prayer is improper. Commencement is one of these situations.

Prayer would be proper at a meeting of a religiously oriented university club where everyone chooses to pray among themselves, for instance. But it is not proper at a gathering that has absolutely nothing to do with religious worship.

BY SPONSORING PRAYER in such a setting as graduation, the University is violating the basic concept of the separation of church and state. In effect, SIU-C controls what type of prayer is delivered at graduation by choosing the person to deliver the prayer.

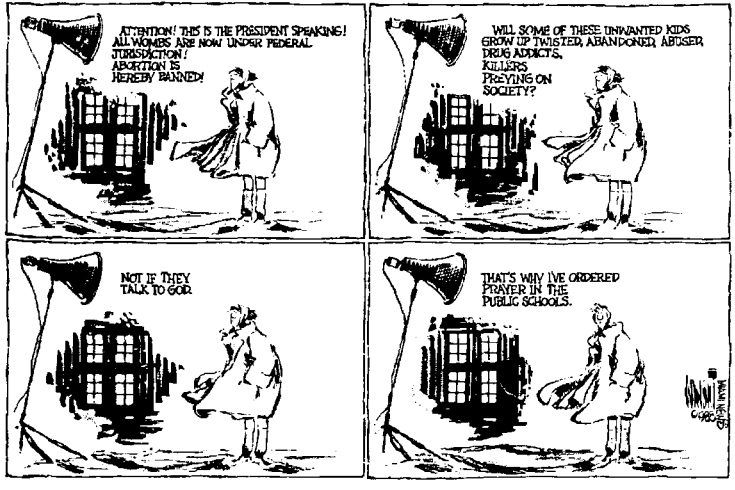

There is a fine line between the University's obligation to ensure intellectual freedom by allowing prayer on campus and the University actively sponsoring prayer. In the case of prayer at commencement ceremonies, the University has crossed this line.

It is not an indictment of the University to say that it is an inherently biased process through which SIU-C, a state agency, attempts to inject a degree of religiosity into the lives and thoughts of those present. Religion can be a positive and necessary force in society, but in order to remain this, it must be kept independent of the government.

THAT THE UNIVERSITY is trying to encourage piety among its students is not necessarily wrong, but for the University to prescribe the form and content of prayer is wrong.

It is a shame that people in attendance at graduation ceremonies do not have the open-mindedness to be tolerant of prayers that are not in keeping with their own faiths. Objecting to the content of prayers delivered at graduation shows a lack of respect for the freedom of thought and expression.

It should be of no concern to the University that certain people want to change the content of prayers at graduation, but the problem arises from the University's mistake of having prayer there in the first place.

Bush is well acquainted with agony, had to fire plenty of working men

It appears that George Bush really is on a roll. He's quickly shedding his old image as a wimp and an elitist.

First there was his triumphant shouting match with Dan Rather, which let us know that he is nobody's patsy.

And now he wants us to know that he's not really the wealthy, well-born, well-bred aristocrat that he's been portrayed as.

Yes, he's known hard times. Despite growing up in a sprawling Connecticut mansion with cook and maid, attending the finest prep schools and Yale, and having a millionaire father who was a U.S. senator, Bush has known what it's like when the wolf is at the door.

He revealed this while making a campaign speech in Wyoming, where the economy is depressed because of an oil price slump.

To let these simple folk know that he understands what they're going through, he talked about his days in the oil business and about how tough it could be.

He said: "I think having started a business and meeting a payroll, and knowing the agony of having to lay somebody off when the going gets rough, that's no fun."

What a heart tugging. It sure brought a lump to my throat. He had to fire someone, and it wasn't fun.

I now see Bush in an entirely different light. I had known he had his own successful oil company in Texas before he was 30 — which he had started with family money. But I wasn't aware he had gone through the personal "agony" of having to fire someone.

Naturally, Bush didn't say how many people he had fired,

Mike Royko

Tribune Media Services

or describe the intensity of his agony. A real man doesn't wallow in self pity.

But it's easy to imagine what those hard times must have been like for him.

"Sit down, Festus."

"Yes, sir, Mr. Bush."

"Festus, I'm experiencing agony."

"Gosh, I'm sorry, Mr. Bush. Something you ate?"

"No, Festus, it is my bottom line. It has grown weak."

"I thought you were looking a little pale."

"Yes, Festus, and I'm also in agony because of my sluggish cash flow."

"Is there anything I can do?"

"As a matter of fact, there is. You can clean out your locker and accept this check for two weeks' pay in lieu of notice."

"You mean I'm fired?"

"Yes, Festus, that's another reason I am in agony. This is such a nasty chore."

"Well, heck, Mr. Bush, don't go frettin' over the likes of me. Being thrown out of work is nothing. Me and the little lady and our three tykes, we'll get by somehow. It's nothing compared to the agony you're going through for having to fire me."

"Thank you, Festus."

"Don't mention it, Mr. Bush. Why, if I had known that firing me was going to be such agony for you, I would have hung myself to save you all this suffering."

"You're a fine fellow, Festus. I feel better already."

"That's what really counts."

"Goodbye, Festus. And don't forget to turn in your company access card to security."

It is strange how we can watch someone like George Bush on TV for years, yet we don't really know him as a sensitive human being.

But do we know enough about the rough road he has traveled?

Have any of you ever looked at him and said: "There stands a man who went through the agony of firing an employee. How did he endure it?"

It brings to mind a song called "Hard Traveling," written by Woody Guthrie, the old Okie folk singer, during the hard days of the Depression.

With a few changes in the lyrics, the song could apply to George Bush.

I been havin' some hard travelin', I thought you knowd, I been havin' some hard travelin' way down the road,

I been firin', I been cuttin' I got my finger on the dismissal button,

I been havin' some hard travelin', Lord.

I'm glad George Bush has shared this intimate and painful part of his past with us. It has caused me to think of him in a different way.

And from now on, whenever I see him, I'll remember that old saying: When the going gets tough, the tough get out those old pink slips.

Students have no fear of flying

While the Jan. 18 plane crash that killed three students may have brought on a fear of flying for some, aviation students and instructors insist that the University's flight training program stresses safety.

"The main aspect (of flight training) is safety itself," freshman Scott Cunningham said.

"All aspects of flight training here at SIU-C are safety oriented," Frank Lewis, chief flight instructor, said. "Everything we do here from aircraft maintenance, weather and flight instruction is safety."

A student must pass a minimum of 45 hours of flight training and five hours of flight simulator training to be rated a private pilot. Then the student must get certification from the Federal Aviation Administration to get a private pilot's license.

Instructor Curt Christensen described the flight training program as "outstanding."

"I feel very comfortable flying our airplanes and very good about our safety guidelines for students," he said.

Honors Lecture Series features constitutional expert Graham

Veteran journalist and constitutional expert Fred Graham will speak Monday as the third lecturer in the 1987-88 University Honors Program Lecture Series.

Graham will speak on "Legal Aspects in the Media." The lecture, which is free and open to the public, will be at 8 p.m. in Stryock Auditorium. A public reception in the Student Center Old Main Room will follow the lecture.

Graham is now anchor and senior news editor at WKRN-TV, the ABC affiliate in Nashville, Tenn. The dean of Supreme Court reporters, Graham covered the nation's high court the Justice Department, FBI and the legal profession as law correspondent for CBS News from 1972 to 1987.

Graham's 25-year career spans experience as a practicing attorney, legal writer for the New York Times and his years with CBS. He has received the George Foster Peabody Award, three Emmy Awards and two American Bar Association Gavel Awards.

While at CBS, Graham served as a frequent guest anchor on the CBS News programs "Nightwatch," "Face the Nation" and "The CBS Morning News." Before going to CBS, Graham was Supreme Court correspondent for the New York Times. He served as special assistant to Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz from October 1963 to February 1965, during which time he also served as deputy chief counsel of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity. Graham moved to Washington in January 1963 to become chief counsel of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments.

Graham practiced law in Nashville, Tenn., from 1960 to 1963 after graduating from Oxford University with a Diploma in Law. He also holds a law degree from Vanderbilt Law School (1959) and a bachelor's degree from Yale University (1953).

substitute math teacher Jan. 22 and 25.

Caldwell, 36, said the ACLU threatened to sue him so he responded with a lawsuit against the school board.

"If they were going to sue, so was I," he said. "We prefer to have a school board hearing. We're not sue happy."

"Laws have never said that you can't mention God in school," Caldwell said. "Nowhere in the Constitution or the Bill of Rights does it mention the separation of church and state."

Robert Sherman, national spokesman for American Atheists, said: "He can allege whatever he wants. But just because he says that, doesn't mean that's the case. The First Amendment doesn't allow government or any of its agents to promote his brand of religion."

Caldwell argues that there is no way he can separate religion from his work. "I live for the Lord, 24 hours a day. He's involved in everything I do. I can't divorce who I am the minute I walk into a school. They can't legally ask me to do that."

Caldwell said he has been blacklisted and has not been asked to substitute teach since he mentioned God and the Bible at the school, although a press release distributed by Carbondale Elementary Schools District No. 95 states otherwise.

The press release states that the Board of Education has not told Caldwell that he will not be allowed to teach in the district. But Caldwell said he has been released of his substitute position without due process.

Caldwell said, "He (Ross Franklin, principal of Lincoln Junior High School) said specifically, 'It will be unlikely that we will call you for a while.'"

The controversy occurred after a parent complained to Franklin, the ACLU and the AA about Caldwell's use of religion in the classroom. Caldwell said Franklin told him, "If you want to have a future, you'll have to refrain from doing this."

Students had complained about Caldwell's use of religion in his teaching, which prompted phone calls from parents. He often quoted Biblical verses during his classes. Caldwell said that one day he wrote, "What word, if neglected, will bring poverty?" on the chalk board. At the end of the day, he told the students the answer, "the word of God."

During another class, Caldwell said a student took out a Ouija board, a fortune-telling device. This prompted Caldwell to read Deuteronomy 18:9-11 of the Bible, which warns against demons, devils and incantations. He said he told the class they were free to believe what they wanted, but that they could get hurt if they got involved with the devil.

Another instance involved a student passing a note in class with "twisted" Bible verses written on it. One of the verses said "Blessed are the strong, for they trample over the weak." Caldwell took the note and told the class the way the verses should have been written.

Caldwell said he has been asked to refrain from discussing religion in other substitute teaching positions. In each instance, he said, hasn't been asked back to substitute, without a hearing or due process of law.

Before now, Caldwell said he had done nothing to defend himself. But, Caldwell added: "The Lord didn't think it was the right time to do something about it. Now he does."

The ACLU and AA are considering a suit against Caldwell and the school district if the district decides in Caldwell's favor, while Caldwell claims he will sue the district if it decides against him.

"They (Caldwell and the school district) can voluntarily obey the law," Sherman said. "If they won't, we'll sue their butts and win every time."

A FRED'S True Confession
 I don't know how it happened...at first, I was going to SIU, living at Thompson Point, and doing what SIU students normally do on the weekends: going up town to the strip and standing around with the rest of the people pretending to have fun. Then, one time I went to FRED'S. I couldn't believe it! Everybody was dancing, well maybe 75%, but when was the last time you've seen more than 10% of the crowd dancing up town? Even my friends who said they didn't like country music were dancing up a storm. You know, all those other places say they are "THE place to party", well they don't even know the meaning of the word. Well anyway, now I'm hooked on FRED'S. I confess-FRED'S has really spoiled me! Diana Davidson

Delta Dental audit urged

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The consumer group that authored a report critical of the dental-care provider for the state Public Aid Department called Thursday for a state audit of the firm.

All state employees, including SIU-C employees, belonged to the Delta Dental Plan until July 1, 1987. Dental insurance was switched to EQUICOR, a division of the Equitable insurance company, after dentists complained of slow Delta claim processing.

staff couldn't handle being constantly knocked down."

Warnelis denied Zeigler's charges.

"I don't think I'm the issue here," he said. "I remain convinced that I am not at any great fault for the yearbook being late. I did everything that seemed reasonable and prudent to get the yearbook out on time."

Warnelis blamed the staff's low morale and dwindling numbers on cuts in the yearbook's 1987 budget. The number of paid positions on the yearbook staff was cut from 14 to one, he said. Those who had been paid before were forced into becoming unpaid volunteers. Many of the formerly paid staff left, he said.

Warnelis was hired to direct the yearbook in December 1983. His contract was not renewed when it expired in December 1987.

Nancy Hunter-Pei, office director and fiscal officer for the yearbook, said Warnelis's contract was not renewed because it was time for a change at the Obelisk.

"When someone has been in a position for a long time, a change is needed to give things a fresh outlook," she said.

Warnelis was very committed to his work at the yearbook, Pei said. Under Warnelis, "the yearbook was probably the best it had ever been," she added.

Zeigler conceded that a large part of the yearbook's staffing problem stems from compensation. "It isn't right for people to work on a strictly volunteer basis."

Zeigler is the only paid person on the staff. Her salary comes from a grant.

The situation between Warnelis and the staff deteriorated so badly, the staff started meeting away from the Obelisk's office, Zeigler said.

Zeigler said the 1987 book should be ready to send to the publisher in about two months. It was scheduled to be sent to the publisher on July 1. The book usually is distributed at the beginning of Fall Semester.

fee for what may be little work."

He said the company may not collect all the information the college requires on candidates the company doesn't like while providing excessive information on the company's favorite candidates.

He also argues that search firms are distanced from the campus and its needs.

"Presidential search committees are composed of people who have been with their institutions for years, have held other major committee assignments and are respected by their peers. In other words, they know their campuses."

Search firms, he argues, may have a lot of data on a university, but still may not understand the "total ethos of the institution."

Dennis told the chancellor the article would appear. "We disagree on the subject of search firms, but I think we respect each other's opinion," Dennis said.

Pettit is out of town and could not be reached for comment.

for the Hambletonian together in 1979, said, "They had a once in a lifetime shot and they chose the middle man. Let them keep it there. I cannot put that deal together again."

"It gives Illinois less competition," he said. "I'll have to make the proposition to the board of directors, but I don't think (hosting the Hambletonian) is in their interest."

Want to stop smoking but can't? Forget about it through hypnosis

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

A group hypnosis session for smokers who want to "kick the habit" will be offered at the Jackson County Health Department at 6:30 p.m., Feb. 8, by the American Lung Association, Helen Saunders, regional director for the organization, said.

The event is co-sponsored by the county health department, located three miles west of Carbondale on Route 13. Registration for the 90-minute session is $35.

Saunders said hypnosis can be used to help people remember things, but it also can be used to help people forget they want to smoke.

She cited a Louisiana State University study in which 50 percent of the smokers tested were not smoking one year after hypnosis. The highest success rate in the study was with heavy smokers, defined as smokers of more than one pack of cigarettes a day.

Assistant professor of psychology David Gilbert, however, said studies on the subject have not been well designed, and no scientific conclusions can be drawn on the success of such therapy.

"There is no evidence that hypnosis works any better than other forms of therapeutic intervention," he said.

Saunders said participants will relax during three hypnotic inductions and receive positive suggestions to "reprogram their subconscious minds to make desirable life changes." They will not be exposed to danger or forced to do anything against their will. They also will receive a cassette tape of "positive encouragement" to play once a day for two weeks.

"After the two weeks, the tape can be used for moral support," Saunders said. "We consider the tape a financial convenience because people don't need to return for more sessions and pay more money."

Gilbert agreed that a tape can help remind a person of their goals, but said when a person loses motivation or is stressed, they may return to smoking.

Sometimes people convince themselves the hypnosis has worn off, he added. Most people just need to be motivated again.

For the past decade, the American Lung Association has hired hypnotist John Greer for similar sessions. Greer is president and owner of Breakaway Techniques Inc. of Savannah, Ga., a company specializing in the hypnotism of people who want to quit smoking or lose weight.

Kyaen Naing, director of health and education at the Jackson County Health Department said registration for the program has been "encouraging" because more people are trying to quit.

The University's smoking policy, which goes into effect July 1, may be having some effect on registrations. The policy will ban smoking in all campus buildings except in designated areas.

The Wellness Center offers a program called, "Freedom from Smoking," which uses materials from the Lung Association, but is taught by Wellness Center staff members.

Polygamists 13-day siege ends, policeman killed in brief shootout

MARION, Utah (UPI) — Authorities with attack dogs ended a polygamist cult's 13-day siege at a barricaded farmhouse Thursday in a shootout that seriously wounded the fanatical cult leader and killed an officer whose bulletproof vest was pierced by a gunshot.

Many of the 15 people, including six young children, ran out of the remote snow-covered log house with their hands in the air after the 8:30 a.m. gunfight as a military armored personnel carrier moved onto the 2 1/2-acre farm to try to evacuate the gunned-down officer, state officials said.

Addam Swapp, 27, a cult leader who admitted bombing a Mormon chapel Jan. 16, was shot in the chest and forearm. He was taken to University of Utah hospital in critical condition but his status was later upgraded to serious and he was expected to recover.

Killed was a state Corrections officer, a dog handler. A bullet from a high-powered rifle ripped through his vest, went into his body and came out his side, hospital spokesman John Dwan said.

The officer, whose identity was not disclosed, had slipped onto the compound during the night with several other law officers, hiding in one of four farm buildings in hopes of surprising Swapp.

The family had withdrawn from the United States and formed their own country called "The Nation of Property."

When Swapp, who was armed with a rifle, was seen leaving the house and "a safe distance" from the children, one of the attack dogs was unleashed and shots rang out, John T. Nielsen, state Public Safety commissioner, said.

The brief gunfight ended an agonizing siege by Swapp, who holed up on the farm with 14 other people to force the armed confrontation with police. He told relatives the confrontation would initiate the resurrection of the family's slain patriarch.

Swapp started the standoff after admitting to bombing a nearby Mormon church with 100 pounds of explosives. The bombing, he told relatives, was to force police to use "deadly force." That would result, he claimed, in the second coming of his slain father-in-law, John Singer, to save the family.

Singer, an excommunicated

Mormon, was killed Jan. 18, 1979, during a standoff with police on the same remote farm, 40 miles east of Salt Lake City.

In a letter issued from the compound in response to Gov. Norm Bangerter's plea for their surrender late Wednesday, Swapp said the family had withdrawn from the United States and formed their own country called "The Nation of Property," Nielsen said.

Although no shots were fired by lawmen until the final day, more than 100 shots were fired from inside the compound, mostly aimed at high intensity lights and loudspeakers installed around the edge of the farm, on the advice of psychologists, to wear the family down.

Police also shut off electric power and water to the house, but officers said both actions were taken knowing the house had heat from stoves and a fireplace and water from the snow and a spring.

Summer travel-study program educates students 'on location'

Reservations are being taken at the University for summertime travel-study programs in Japan, Great Britain, Greece and the northern Rocky Mountains.

The programs, ranging from ancient Greek culture to modern British broadcasting, are open to students and practicing professionals through the International Programs and Services office.

Classes are usually taught "On location" and may be taken for college credit.

The current program list: —"Stencil Printing and Natural Dyes: A On-site Studio in Japan," July 6 to 30. Students will study traditional Japanese stencil printing techniques in Kyoto, Japan. This program is for students interested in fibers, textile and fashion design, and print-making. University instructor: Joan M. Lintault, associate professor of art, 453-4315.

—"British Television Programming, Policy and Production," June 1 to 14. This London seminar will include lectures by British scholars on changes in the British television industry and British Broadcasting Corp. personnel. University instructors: Joe S. Foote, chairman and associate professor of radio-television, 536-7555; and Dennis K. Davis, professor of speech communication, 453-2291.

—"International Business Operations," June 1 to 30. Study will be at the Danbury Park Management Centre, just outside of London, with British firms. For information and prerequisites, call Lars L. Larson, director of the International Business Institute at 453-3307.

—"Interdisciplinary Seminars in the Ancient Greek Experience," May 21 to June 14. University instructors are Robert A. Hahn and Mark L. Johnson, associate professors of philosophy, 536-6641.

—"Special Education in Japan," June 17 to 26. Students visit care facilities for mentally and physically handicapped citizens. Contact Toshiaki Hisama, associate professor of special education, 453-2311.

—"Field Ecology Studies in the northern Rocky Mountains," mid-June to late July. A study of ecology. Philip A. Robertson, associate professor of botany, 536-2331.

Locator service helps students with kids

An emergency locator service for students with children in school, day care, or with a sitter is offered by Women's Services free of charge.

The service number is left with the child's sitter or school office and the service keeps a copy of the parent's schedule, Susan Powell, Women's Services, said. If the child gets sick or there is some other emergency, the service can locate the parent immediately. The service has been operating since 1977.

Powell said parents can leave their schedules at the Women's Services office in B244 Woody Hall.

Drug smuggler says Noriega accepted millions in illegal cash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A convicted drug smuggler said Thursday he paid millions of dollars to Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega to buy the Panamanian leader's help in laundering massive amounts of drug profits in the country's banks.

Steven Kalish, 35, a dealer whose drug money once filled entire rooms of his Tampa, Fla., house, told Congress that Noriega was a "full-scale co-conspirator" in a drug ring that shipped marijuana from Colombia to the United States and then stashed the profits in Panama.

In his testimony to the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, Kalish said his relationship with Noriega started in 1983 when he presented the general with an introductory "gift" of $300,000 in a briefcase.

In the subsequent year,

Kalish said he paid Noriega millions of dollars, helped him buy an executive helicopter and jet and, on one occasion, loaned Noriega his push Lear jet for an official visit to Washington.

Subcommittee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said he had "no reason to disbelieve" the testimony, some of which Nunn noted has been corroborated by U.S. investigators looking into Noriega's alleged links to drug dealers.

Nunn said Kalish's revelations could only further strain the already tense relations Washington has with Noriega. The United States cut off aid to Panama during last year's civil unrest and earlier this month, a key Pentagon official was dispatched to Panama City to urge Noriega to step down — which the general refused to do.

Noriega has denied any involvement with drug smuggling and instead has accused American conservatives of instigating the charges to prevent the handing over of the Panama Canal to local control at the turn of the century.

The slight, clean-cut Kalish agreed to testify to Congress as part of a plea bargain with authorities following his July 26, 1984, arrest in Tampa for smuggling 250,000 pounds of marijuana. He has been in prison since. Three bodyguards accompanied him to the hearing room.

Kalish's involvement with Noriega began after he became concerned about the huge amounts of cash piling up in his Tampa hideout. At one point, the money amounted to $35 million, he said, and, "The currency filled up entire rooms."

Swimmers face six competitors at Illini Classic

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

Following a successful three-meet home stand, the men's and women's swim teams will travel to Champaign for the Illini Classic Invitational.

The meet will start at 6 tonight and then at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday at the University of Illinois natatorium.

Seven universities will compete at the invitational, including U of I, Northern Illinois, Indiana, Northern Iowa, Iowa and the University of Illinois at Chicago.

SIU-C Coach Doug Ingram said he expects tough competition from Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, which is ranked 12th nationally.

"Iowa and Indiana both have strong teams, although we beat Iowa at the Alabama Invitational in December. I also think Illinois will swim well, since they'll be swimming in their home pool in front of their home crowd."

"Iowa and Indiana both have strong teams, although we beat Iowa at the Alabama Invitational in December," he said. "I also think Illinois will swim well, since they'll be swimming in their home pool in front of their home crowd."

Ingram said his team is using these meets to prepare for the championships at the end of the season.

"Obviously we'd like to win, but we can't compromise all the hard work we've done for the end of the season," he said. "We'll take a look at some people in different events and try to get some qualifying times.

"Our approach will be a little different than if we were just after team points."

The men's team, ranked 16th, is 7-5 after wins against Missouri and Cincinnati last weekend. The women's team, which defeated Missouri and lost to Cincinnati, is 5-7.

"Last weekend we weren't as sharp as I would have liked," Ingram said. "We looked a little flat."

Strategic Games Society places in 4 winter games

The SIU-C Strategic Games Society placed in four events in the SGS Winter War Jan. 22-24 at the University of Illinois-Champaign.

About 30 events were held at the War, including role-playing and board games, Bill Whisler, SGS member, said.

In the advanced Dungeons & Dragons competition, team members Michael Herron, Jim Kurihara, Gary Smith and Gary Tendick combined for a third-place finish.

In the individual competition, Smith placed second in Runequest, a fantasy role-playing game and Twilight 2,000, a post World War II role play. Smith also placed fourth in Circus Maximus, a board game on chariot racing.

SGS will have a game convention, the Egyptian Campaign, Feb. 6 in the Student Center.

Teams from Illinois, Eastern Illinois and Purdue are expected to compete.

Men's track team enters 2 meets

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

Men's track coach Bill Cornell said he is splitting up the team for two meets in hopes that some of his top athletes will qualify for the national indoor championships.

Half the squad, including All-American Ron Herrer, will compete in a seven-team invitational today at Eastern Illinois.

"They (Eastern Illinois) have the 35-pound weight (event) and I want Ron Herrer to get a chance to qualify (for nationals)," Cornell said.

Pole vaulters Mike Michels and Shane Weber are competing at EIU because they "like the jumping facilities at Eastern Illinois," Cornell said.

On Saturday, Weber will drive to Columbia, Mo., to join the rest of the team for com-

Women go to Arkansas

Women's track coach Don DeNoon said he is expecting his team to finish on top in the seven-team Arkansas State Invitational tonight in Jonesboro, Ark.

"At this particular stage, if we have everybody healthy, we should be the top team at the meet," DeNoon said.

Two key runners, Angie Nunn and Rosanne Vincent, will not compete because of injuries.

"I'd like to see us come out of this meet scoring in every event except the shot-put," DeNoon said. The Salukis don't have an entry in that event.

At Purdue last weekend, the team scored in every event except the high jump, 200-meter dash and 800-meter run.

Last week, Christiana Philippou set a school record in the triple jump at 39 feet, 1 inch. Vivian Sinou finished the mile in 2 minutes 57.88 seconds to set another school record.

petition in the Missouri Invitational.

"People who have a chance to qualify in running events will have a better chance at Missouri," Cornell said.

He said the key athletes who have a good chance to qualify are All-American Andy Pettigrew in the mile run and senior Bret Garrett in the 800-meter run.

In the field events, Leonard Vance will compete in the triple jump and Weber in the pole vault.

Men's tennis team expects to start with fall's lineup

By Jeff Grieser
Staff Writer

The men's tennis team opens its spring season Saturday against Northern Illinois University and Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind.

"Our lineup will be the same as in the fall," coach Dick LeFevre said. "There may be a change or two in positioning, depending on how the guys are playing."

Junior Jairo Aldana of Colombia will be at the No. 1 singles spot.

"Jairo played great in the Illinois Intercollegiate this fall," LeFevre said. Although official statistics were not kept, LeFevre said Aldana was the winner in the "A" bracket singles competition.

Fabiano Ramos played at No. 2 in the fall, but that could change, LeFevre said. "He (Ramos) suffered a back injury last year running sprints, and I'm not sure he ever fully recovered," LeFevre said.

At No. 3 this fall was Mickey Maule, a sophomore from Aledo. Maule, a semifinalist in the Illinois Intercollegiate, competed recently in the Milwaukee Tennis Classic. He beat three opponents and was ousted in the fourth round.

"The way Mickey played in Milwaukee, he could play at No. 2 or 3 this year," LeFevre said.

Aldana

Ramos

Maule

Juan Martinez, No. 4 singles, has tendinitis in one of his knees, but should be able to compete, LeFevre said.

George Hime, a sophomore, will be at the No. 5 spot and walk-on freshman Dean Russell will take the No. 6 spot.

The spring schedule includes matches against Big 10 teams Indiana, Purdue, Ohio State, Missouri Valley Conference foes include Tulsa, Wichita State and Illinois State.

LeFevre said he thinks his team will be in good shape by the end of the season.

"We have a long way to go, but we will improve as time goes on," he said. "We have a problem with indoor practice facilities, but we'll just have to practice ourselves into shape."

The team's toughest competition is expected to come from a match this spring against Top 20 teams from northeast and southwest Louisiana. The team will compete in seven cities in eight days.

"The trip will be good for us," LeFevre said. "We should peak right afterward, in time for the conference championships."

The MVC championships will be May 5-7. LeFevre said he thinks the Sahukis will be in a four-way struggle for the title. He said he sees Wichita State, Tulsa and LSU fighting it out with SIU-C.

"Wichita has been so good for so long, you can never count them out," LeFevre said.

"Tulsa recruited four tough kids," he said. "Illinois State has a Canadian kid who is really a great player."

It all started with a six-pack and a dare

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

It all started over a six-pack of beer. Bud Light daredevil Ty Cobb, then a University of Mississippi cheerleader was challenged by a friend to do the "Flip Dunk," the group's hardest trick.

"A friend of Ty's bet him a six-pack of Busch beer to do a front flip off a mini-tramp and dunk the ball," brother Guy Cobb said.

"He missed the first time, but at the University of Alabama game, he made it and the whole place gave him a standing ovation," he said.

After his success, Ty Cobb decided to market his show for National Basketball Association halftimes for a marketing project at the university.

This college endeavor resulted in the Bud Light Daredevils, one of today's most dynamic halftime performance groups.

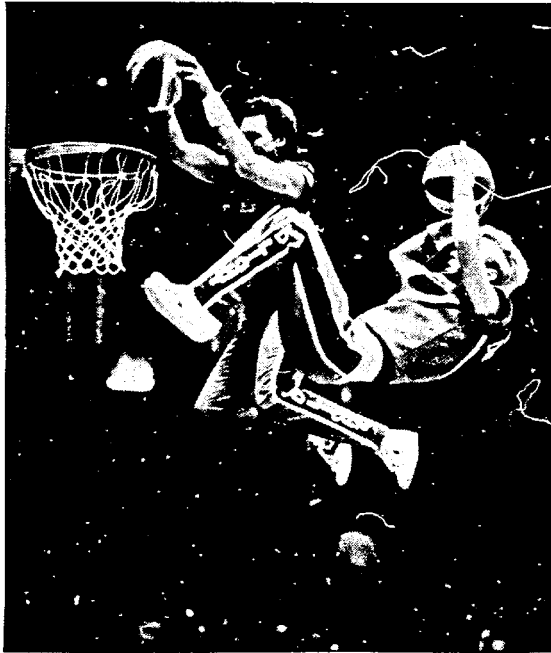

The daredevils combine gymnastic talent with basketball skills into an eight-minute show that brings the fans to their feet. Thursday night's crowd gave the group a standing ovation after the act.

Featured in the act was the "Kongo Dunk," which utilizes three members performing consecutive flips in front of the rim, passing the ball off the backboard, culminating with a slam dunk by the final member.

Other members of the daredevils are Tim Lancaster and Keith Eldred. Lancaster was a cheerleader at Northeast Mississippi and joined the team three years ago. Eldred cheered at Northwest Mississippi.

Guy Cobb said the group needs to work on its basketball skills.

"Before the season, for a month we practice every day for eight hours a day," Guy Cobb said. "During the season, we practice when we can. Sometimes we get a chance to warm up before the game if nothing else is going on."

Thursday night's crowd at the Arena gave the Bud Light Daredevils a standing ovation for their eight-minute slam dunk show.

Lady Braves out to knock off 1st-place SIU-C

The season has been a struggle for the Bradley women's basketball team. Fully expected to be in contention for the Gateway Conference crown, the team has only managed records of 5-12 overall and 2-7 in the league.

When the Lady Braves play first-place SIU-C at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Arena, they'll try to salvage the season by knocking off the top dog.

"Bradley would like to play the role of the spoiler," SIU-C coach Cindy Scott said.

After losing six straight in December, Bradley has not been able to get back on track. During that slide, Bradley lost to SIU-C 81-59 in Peoria.

"Bradley has a good deal of talent, but just hasn't gotten it together," Scott said.

The Lady Braves are led by senior Shelli Braud and sophomore Karin Nicholls.

Men's team up against Drake next

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The men's basketball team will play Drake, the Cinderella of the Missouri Valley, at 7:35 p.m. Saturday at the Arena.

Drake was picked to finish tied for sixth in a preseason coaches poll. Going into Thursday night's game against Indiana State, the Bulldogs were in a first-place tie with Illinois State.

"I'm a little bit surprised by Drake," SIU-C coach Rich Herrin said.

After Thursday's 84-79 loss in Terre Haute, Ind., Drake dropped to 13-6 overall and 4-2 in the MVC.

Three of the six losses came against nationally ranked Iowa, Iowa State and Missouri. The Valley wins came against Indiana State, SIU-C, Tulsa and Wichita State. The other loss came to Wichita State on the road.

In their first meeting, the Salukis scored the most points against the Bulldogs of any team this season but still lost, 99-86, in Des Moines, Iowa. Drake outrebounded the Salukis, 48-29.

"We're going to run again," Herrin said. "The big thing is we won't go down and press Drake like we did last time. We won't give them easy baskets again."

The Saluki offense will go up against the Valley's best defense. The Bulldogs limit their opponents to 66.9 points per game.

Drake may not possess any of the Valley's top scorers, but the team manages to average 74.4 ppg with a balanced offensive attack. Six players average at least seven points per game each.

Senior forward Walter James leads the Bulldogs with a 14.6 point average.

Out of magic, out of time

Men lose, 87-82

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The Salukis, with their magician on the bench, ran out of tricks and lost to Creighton 87-82 Thursday night at the Arena.

The Salukis had an opportunity to tie the game with 13 seconds left after Creighton forward Bob Harstad missed the front end of a one-and-one. Trailing 85-82, Randy House missed a 25-foot, three-point attempt with two seconds left.

Creighton's Mike Johnson finished the scoring with two free throws. "We would have liked to get off a better shot than that," Steve Middleton said. "That's what the defense gave us and that's what we had to take."

House said the play was designed for Mahan to get the ball and drive to the basket.

The Salukis' last-second magician, Kai Nummerger, was forced to watch from the bench after fouling out with 4:57 left.

The Salukis dropped to 7-11 overall and 2-4 in the Valley. Creighton improved to 10-8 and 3-2 in the conference.

Middleton had his worst game of the season. He sat out the final 13:27 of the first half after picking up his third foul. In the second half, he never got untracked and finished with 10 points.

"I just had a poor effort," a dejected Middleton said. "I don't think I got into the flow the way Steve Middleton can play. It's the type of thing that happens to the best of them."

Despite Middleton's absence for most of the first half, the Salukis built a 39-33 lead with 3:30 left in the half.

In the second half, the teams exchanged leads during the opening eight minutes. Creighton then went on an 8-0 run in the next three minutes to open up a 70-62 lead.

House's outside shooting led the Salukis' comeback. House scored 11 of his team-high 27 points in the final eight minutes. Nummerger finished with 21. The Salukis were outrebounded 38-31.

Not-so-funny events end Super Bowl week

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Denver Broncos and Washington Redskins broke the tedium of Super Bowl week Thursday with one player denouncing reports he had overindulged in alcohol and another frustrating his coach by trying to turn comedian.

Denver tight end Clarence Kay, exasperated by unsubstantiated reports he had suffered a drinking relapse Tuesday night, angrily told reporters he had not taken a drink in more than a year.

"You have to be realistic about it, I guess," Kay said.

Game Time:
5 p.m. Sunday, ABC
Point Spread—Broncos by 4

Kay spent time in a drug rehabilitation clinic in 1986. "My doctors told me there would be days when people would take cheap shots at me," he said. "But this sets me back as far as trusting people — even people I had started trusting." For the Redskins, the spotlight fell on defensive end Dexter Manley, whose oafish behavior momentarily galvanized attention at the daily Super Bowl news conference.

"I apologize for Dexter," Washington Coach Joe Gibbs said. "He needs to get on the stick and be where he is supposed to be."

Kay missed Wednesday morning's pre-Super Bowl news conference, touching off a chain of off-handed remarks that before they could be confirmed wound up as yet another, "Super Bowl Event."

"I haven't had a drink and I haven't used cocaine for one year and 43 days," Kay said. "I'm here to play football this week and that's what I've talked very little about."

Manley, usually the most outspoken member of the Redskins, did not show up for his scheduled media session Wednesday and when he appeared Thursday he said to the crowd around him:

"Because I have had so many questions that are repetitive, I suggest that to save your time and mine you submit your questions in writing. I will study them and reply in writing tomorrow." With that, Manley got up and left the tent where interviews were being conducted.

Women knock wind out of WIU, 80-46

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

With Diane Biedeck's 18-foot straight-away jump shot bouncing in at 2:51 remaining, all 12 players in uniform for the women's basketball game scored against Western Illinois.

The Salukis kicked into high gear at the outset and never let up for an 80-46 trouncing of Western Illinois Thursday at the Arena.

"It's great to have an opportunity to get everybody in," Coach Cindy Scott said. "Our starters played well and our young kids went in and played well."

The 34-point margin of victory is the largest for the Salukis this season, which remains first in the Gateway Conference with an 8-2 league record, 12-6 overall.

Senior forward Bridgett Bonds led all scorers with 16 points on eight of 14 field goals. Her seven rebounds also were high for SIU-C.

"I felt more confident," Bonds said. "I concentrated on putting the ball in the hole. Our big lineup was to our advantage and we went to the boards."
