Stratton Says Southern Fastest Growing, 'Greatest University In The Country'

Illinois Governor William G. Stratton called SIU "the fastest growing and greatest university in the country" as he completed the cornerstone laying ceremonies for the University Center Tuesday.

Following a special Convocation and address by the Governor moved with the rest of the convocation party to the construction site west of the Stadium where the cornerstone was lowered into place.

Stratton placed in the cornerstone a sealed metal box containing an Obelisk, an EGYPTIAN, and microfilm copies of SIU Board of Trustees' minutes concerning the University Center. The Governor spoke briefly at the site, commending all those who had a part in the planning and work that went into the Center.

He called Southern the "greatest in the country" without any qualification.

Events Begin In Stadium

The day's events began earlier at McAndrew Stadium with the arrival of the Governor on campus. Gov. Stratton strolled leisurely with SIU Security Officer Thomas Laffer to the speaker's stand from the southeast corner of the stadium, arriving 13 minutes late for the ceremony.

Beginning the ceremony on schedule, President Morris told the large crowd the Governor had not yet arrived. After the AFROTC Honor Guard to the speaker's stand, Morris said Stratton had communicated by radio that he was on Illinois Ave.

"He'll be driving right up here to the speaker's stand," the President said.

Stratton's black Cadillac with the Number "47" license plate was following a State Police car on Rt. 51 outside McAndrew, but the Governor walked to the incline because the car was dragged coming up the hill.

"I see he's walking, not riding," as Stratton said the football field with President, Dean I. Clark Davis and Stratton at the south end of the track, and the duet walked down the track between the AFROTC Honor Guard to the speaker's stand.

The speaker's stand was decorated with countless flowers and shrubs, and was located midway on the extreme west side of the football field. The 1,600 AFROTC cadets were standing at attention behind the stand on the east side of the field. The muggy weather caused one cadet to topple over during the ceremony.

Eleven University officials and other dignitaries were seated on chairs on the track in front of the speaker's stand, and Stratton, Morris, Student Body President Bill Berry, Chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees William Page Wham and Student Union President Ken Dry were seated on the speaker's stand.

Morris, in introducing Stratton, said "No college president ever had a better person to work with than Governor Stratton."

Stratton spoke briefly, commending Southern for the progress in the past few years.

"I have dedicated 13 buildings in the past seven years at Southern," Stratton said, "but today probably makes a new national record... 18 dedications in one day!"

He said the University Center would enhance the campus and will be a credit to Southern Illinois, along with helping the growth of the area.

"The Center," he said, "will do much to aid the acceleration of Southern."

On Legislation

Speaking briefly concerning measures before the Illinois Legislature, Stratton said the state will give a fair share of educational appropriations to Southern.

"Let us all hope that decisions will be made easier in the future," Stratton said.

Bill Berry, student body president, spoke briefly concerning the early planning of the University Center and what it will mean to students in 1961. Berry presented a lifetime membership for the AFROTC to Stratton and his wife.

The AFROTC cadets marched in review following the ceremony, and the group moved to the site of the construction of the Center where the Governor laid the cornerstone.

After a chicken barbecue on the grounds of the Agriculture building at 11:30, the Governor dedicated plaques for Small Group Housing Units and Family Housing Units Tuesday afternoon.

Petition Brings Answer From State Senator

The efforts of Southern to secure an engineering school were recently demonstrated when several students sent petitions to legislators from the northern part of the state.

Paul Powell, Speaker of the 71st General Assembly House of Representatives, sent a letter to John Rendelman, SIU Legal Counsel, on reply to these student-signed petitions.

The letter, dated May 19, stated: "I received the petition signed by the student of Southern Illinois University who are from Chicago and vicinity."

"I certainly hope this will have effect upon the Chicago members of the Senate. They could have saved postage on the members of the House because House Bill 1011 has already passed in the House, as you well know, and I am proud to say that several Chicago members of both political parties voted with us on this Bill to grant degrees in engineering at your University."

"Will you please assure the Chicago students that I am appreciative of their interest, and am glad to know that they like it down in Southern Illinois." Sincerely yours, Paul Powell, Speaker 71st General Assembly House of Representatives, Illinois

Winter Nest Becomes A Chilly Incubator

A warm winter nest became a chilly incubator for a mama sparrow and her brood.

When SIU workmen started to service a window air-conditioner at the Extension Division office, they found three baby sparrows inside.

"The body had the heart to enter them," said Ben Bassler, refrigeration mechanic. "We'll wait until they get big enough to fly away."

OSA Identifies 25 Students As Part Of Mob

About 25 students have been called into the office of Student Affairs after being identified as members of the group that visited women's dorms last week.

The students were identified through photographs and staff participation. "Appropriate disciplinary action will be taken," said a member of the OSA.

The speaker hinted that the students might be placed on disciplinary probation and fined. Students who were identified as being part of the party said last year at Thompson Point were fined $50 each.

Students identified were notified by letter and reported to the OSA. Approximately 500 students gathered at West College Ave. Thursday evening, May 21, and went on to visit Woody Hall, Thompson Point and a sorority house. Students clad in every form of dress were included in the mob, which was backed up by Campus Police. The incident, though orderly, was not taken lightly by University officials, and Dean of Men I. Clark Davis said Friday incidents could bring dismissal from the University.

Davis and President Delyte W. Morris were at the scene when the men students took an evening off and made the informal trek.

One student who was carrying a trumpet, though it was proved he had not blown it, was fined $100 and given a 10 day jail sentence, but both sentences were suspended by the Carbondale police magistrate.

No formal or final action has been taken on the 20-plus students who have been identified with the incident.

Familiar To Students

Thank You -- Come Again
By Mickey Sparks
Staff Reporter
"Wow! I help you?"
"Come and a candy bar, hurry!"

"Here you are. Thank you and come back again." Business transactions similar to this take place daily in the small grocery store located on campus near the Adviseement Center. The white-haired proprietor, familiar to all SIU students, is W. W. TROUBAUGH, who has been on campus longer than many of the present buildings.

Troubaugh first moved to Carbondale in 1924. "The campus was very small when I came. I remember in the fall of 1924 when the University began building the gymnasium," related Troubaugh.

He and his wife, the former Mina Cowling of Murphysboro, made their home in what is now the Photographic Service building. The Troubaughs operated a rooming house for boys for 25 years until 1949, when the University purchased their home.

Troubaugh, a former school teacher who taught at various schools in Jackson County, formed a service station and confectionery in 1932 on the site of his present grocery store. He operated the station until 1950, when the pumps were removed. He then moved his store to the barracks which now house the Business Office while the University rebuilt his store. In May of 1953, Troubaugh moved back to his present location and has been operating the grocery ever since.

While talking to the reporter, the native of Southern Illinois related stories of old Thompson Lake, located on the site of the present lake.

"Mr. Thompson built the lake in 1889. He owned an ice house and built the lake as a source for ice," reminisced Troubaugh. "His brother, Ben, and Luther Tucker, a neighbor, dug the lake with a team of mules."

Mr. Troubaugh has spent his entire life in this area. He lived near Murphysboro with his father in what is now known as the Troubaugh Homestead until his marriage on August 16, 1903.

How About It?

PLEASE ... don't kill!

I'm begging on friends knee ... spare my friends. And my family and for that matter me.

Now, who you ask, is this person who presumes to beg for the lives of friends, families and self? And why does he have the idea that I'm out to get him?

Well, to answer your first question ... I'm the person in the car coming down the highway toward you, or out of a side road. I'm the person in a beat-up '39 coupe, or a 1959 limousine. I may be alone, or there may be six other students with me. I'm on the way to my home, or on a trip to the lake for a swim. I might be going 35, or 50 miles an hour, or even parked by the side of the road. But one thing is true.

You are the guy who could end it all. For me, for my family or friends, and ... even more important to you ... and your own.

As for the second question ... why do I think you're after my life ...

You're not, really. Actually you're a nice guy ... Mr. Average Student who wouldn't hurt a fly. You're kind and lovable, kids and dogs. You open doors for me, come to church on Sunday, and help your roommate with his assignments. But when you get behind the wheel of a car, you are a potential killer.

And you are violating America's most readily weapon.

Look it up ... more people die in auto accidents every year than all the murders ever committed in this country. And by comparison, murder is neat. Did you ever see a bad auto crash on close? Even as the twisted iron bodies or heat the screams and moans of the mangled and injured.

If you haven't, you can't even imagine the horror of it. But if you have, well now you are beginning to see why I'm concerned about my friends and family when I'm on the road. And why I'm afraid of that other car ... the one you are driving.

And you can see why you should be concerned about your own life.

The point is this: The holiday coming up this weekend, and I might be on the road ... along with millions of other motorists. The highways will be jammed. You may be out there too. And you could be the one who loses control of his car and ... well, let's not dwell on the results.

Instead, let's make a deal. You watch out for my friends and I'll watch out for yours.

You be extra cautious with your car and I'll do the same. Let's both start out extra early and drive slower. We'll both get where we're going in plenty of time and enjoy the trip a lot more.

And most important, think of the peace of mind we'll have, knowing we're protecting each other. Assured that your caution ... and yours ... our friends, our families are safe.

How about it?

Cadets March Memorial Day

SIU's AFFRICO Color Guard, band, Honor Guard, advanced cadets and the Angel Flight will march in the annual Memorial Day Parade in Carbondale tomorrow.

The parade will begin in front of the Carbondale Community High School at 9 a. m. and march to the cemetery on East Main street, where Memorial Day services will be held.

Other organizations participating in the parade will be the VFW, American Legion, Woodmen of the World, Dons and Burgers, Southern Illinois Veterans Club, Carbondale National Guard Unit, Spanish-American War Veterans, and Gold Star Mothers from World Wars I and II.

Also participating will be bands from Community, Amuck, and University High Schools, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts of America, 4-H Clubs, FFA and other civic organizations.

Art Students Give Exhibit At Allyn

An exhibit consisting primarily of work by SIU's undergraduate art students is on display in the Allyn Art Gallery.

The display, which consists of a selection of work completed by undergraduates and first year graduates, will be shown until the middle of June.

Among the items included in the exhibit are crafts, paintings, drawings and prints.

The crafts consist of jewelry and silver smithing, weaving and pottery, and the prints on display include lithographs, woodcut and etchings. Prints, in general, are a form of producing art that can be multiplied, and indicates there is more than one copy.

The process of print-making is making an impression off one surface onto paper. The woodcut can be used where the print comes off the surface of the cut that is not cut away. That is relief printing.

An etching, another method of printing, is made by filling recessed parts of a metal plate with ink.

The engraving is made on the plate by an acid-etching process.

Lithography, still a rather primitive, is printed from a flat surface of stone. The image is neither raised or lowered. It is produced by using grease. The ink is attached to whatever the grease is on the stone.

Commercially, woodcuts are used in letterpress printing, etching in engraving and lithography in offset printing.

Each of these three types of prints are being shown along with the paintings, weaving, pottery and other crafts in the annual display.

General Information

A special note needs to be made relative to examination for evening sections for those classes which have been granted a special time for examining at all sections. At some students attending at night may be able to attend the special examination period scheduled for the daytime. Each department involved will have to arrange special examination periods for such students.

This problem involves those night students who are fully employed during the day and who are taking night classes because it is the only time they are able to do so.

1. Examinations for three, four and five-credit hour classes will begin at the hour scheduled and will run for two hours. Examinations for one and two-credit hour classes will begin two hours and ten minutes later and will run for one hour. For example, an 8 o'clock class carrying two hours of credit will have its examination from 7:50 to 9:50 a. m. on Wednesday, June 10. An 11 o'clock class carrying two hours of credit will have its examinations from 10 to 11 a. m.

2. A student who finds he has more than three examinations on any day may petition, and a student who has two examinations scheduled at one time should petition, his academic debt for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day of the make-up examination. This does not mean that a student may decide to miss his scheduled examination time and opt to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for a student who has been absent or has failed by his debt.

3. A student who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. In the event a student misses a final examination and is not involved in a situation covered in (2) above, a "W" (with a plus sign) indicating the number of weeks attended, should be recorded on the grade report by the instructor. A "W" grade must be completed within one month of the date of the quarter involved; otherwise, it must remain as an incomplete grade.

Movie Review 'Compulsion' Last Word On 1924 Thrill Murder Case

By Bill Christie
Movie Reviewer

"Compulsion" presumably is the last word on the bizarre Leopold and Loeb murder case of 1924. Meyer Levin recalled the macabre incident with a bestselling book in 1956 and later had a hand in recreating the crime on Broadway. Because it was able to depart from the trial and error of these previous efforts, and because Director Richard Fleischer has gotten peak performances from his leading players, 20th Century-Fox compounds the last word into a deftly poignant statement of the entire story.

The modicum of defects in the film is easy to overlook. They are only those inevitable flaws which always make perfection a goal instead of a reality. At times the viewer may get the impression that the performers are overacting. But, in their defense, it must be considered that Bradford Dillman and Dean Stockwell are portraying two unutterably 18-year-olds who had, dissipated minds, and Orson Welles is depicting Clarence Darrow, the famed and dramatic defense lawyer of the era.

The acting is so enriched that often it conveys the intended terror from the screen to the audience with remarkable vigor. On other occasions, the spectator will become sympathetic toward the executors of a fiendish crime. This is especially true at the apex of Welles' convincing court argument, a lesson in logic that dispenses with remarkable vigor. On other occasions, the spectator will become sympathetic toward the executors of a fiendish crime. This is especially true at the apex of Welles' convincing court argument, a lesson in logic that dispenses with remarkable vigor.

After the diabolic deed is done, Strass tries to beguile the authorities by leading them up false avenues of detection and by planting clues to dissipate the suspicion on others. A pair of spectacles, carelessly dropped by Steiner at the scene of the crime, proves to be their downfall, however. Rapid confessions ensue, setting the stage for the climactic trial and Darrow's plea for life imprisonment instead of hanging.

While Welles and the state's attorney (E. G. Marshall) are all-powerful in their courtroom maneuvers, two of the supporting players unquestionably bog down with their roles. Diane Varsi, whom the perverted Steiner is unable to seduce, and Martin Milno, a fly-by-night reporter, simply aren't believable. It isn't natural either for a mere cub on a metropolitan daily to be assigned to cover the big story. Fortunately, Stockwell, Dillman and Welles, because Atlases of the screen by carrying the show with performance which are nothing short of quasi-perfect.

Compliments To Police

Compliments go to the Campus Police and Security Officer Tom Leffler for the splendid job they did last week at the miniature student riot.

The crowd remained in an orderly mood throughout the short demonstration, and one of the main reasons was the cooperative work of the police. The members of the campus force were seen moving in and out of the crowd, laughing and joking with the students. Leffler seemed to be talking to at least half the people there.

Force is not always the answer in crushing a demonstration. There was a group of spirit within the group that a small riot could have resulted, had any type of force been used, or any direct command given. The level-headed handling of those involved deserves high praise.

Good relationships between students and the Campus Police is imperative, the cooperation shown by the two factions last week will go far in making this relationship more solid.

The Police seem anxious to please and cooperate with students ... and the demonstration last week showed that both parties are interested in the same thing.

Grades Kept Confidential

Transcripts of grades will be sent to prospective employers and others only upon the request of the student, as a result of a decision by the SIU Board of Trustees Friday night.

In a policy adopted by the board concerning academic records of students, the trustees decided that only other educational institutions and governmental agencies will be able to get such information except on request of the student.

Information about dates of attendance and degrees earned however, will be available to everyone.

INDUSTRIAL ED FACULTY ATTEND CONFERENCE

The major discussions centered around two major problems: "Our Objectives and Their Interpretation" and "The Implications of the Advancing Technology Upon Industrial Arts Purposes, Content, and Activities."

Tufts Prof Tells Of Red Dnrrer

A Tufts University professor of East Asian affairs warns that it is dangerous to exclude Red China from the United Nations in a lecture Monday night at SIU.

"Though related, United Nations membership can be severed from the problems of United States recognition," said Dr. Alan B. Cole, Curator of Fellowships in East Asian Affairs at Harvard University. He said it would be dangerous to exclude Chinese—who are reacting to "centuries of inequality"—even through formal recognition by the U. S. would be withheld.

"The continuation of the present situation can only contribute toward World War III. If we want to avoid such a catastrophe, we should work at revision of our China policy in ways which are realistic—and which, at least, will require some altered response from Peking," he emphasized.

In all probability, he continued, the Afro-Arab bloc and Western European governments will eventually "tip the scales" in favor of admitting Red China to the U.N.

The governor also cut the SIU request for $47,807,889 for operation expenses to $27,117,000.

Salukis Meet Bradley In Doubleheader, Then Move To National Tourney In Texas

By Ron Jacober Sports Editor

SIU's baseball team, champions of the IAC conference for the second consecutive year, has accepted a bid to the NAIA national playoffs June 25 at Sul Ross State College, Alpine, Texas.

Tomorrow the Salukis, riding high with a 26-7 overall record, will close the regular season with a doubleheader against Bradley University at Peoria.

Southern wrapped up the IAC with a double win over Eastern Illinois last Saturday. The Salukis finished with an outstanding 14-3 mark in conference play.

Southern will represent the five-state midwest area of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin. It will be the first appearance at the national baseball championships for Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin's Salukis.

When he was head game mentor, Martin led Southern to its first appearance at a national tourney, at Kansas City in 1945. He returned to Kansas City the following year to win SIU's only national title.

The Salukis are having quite a year. After bringing home their finest record ever on the spring tour (6-2) they have proceeded to win 20 while only losing 5 during the regular season.

Only one regular is hitting under the .310 mark. Rocky Bridges is hitting a modest .293 to be low man on the totem pole. Dick Dillinger is leading the parade with a .355 clip. Dick has pounded out 44 hits in 124 times at bat. Fred Loeskaem (37) is next with a 4-1 record.

IAC MEETING 'A DUD'
Like man, nothin' happened! The IAC conference meeting, expected to be one of the most fiery and most important in history, turned out to be just another meeting last weekend at Ypsilanti, Michigan, the site of three conference championships.

One of the highlights of the annual gub session was the fact that Eastern Michigan and Southern Illinois were thinking of withdrawing from the two-state conference. However, all decided to stay in the IAC.

The conference officials also failed to adopt a rule preventing freshmen from playing on varsity teams. The conference is expected to pass the rule in 1960.

Baseball Series
Also on the agenda at the meeting was the fact that there was opposition to the present system of playing a three-game baseball series between schools. One game is played on Friday and two on Saturday according to the present rules. A few schools have expressed their dislike for the fact that the three game series was working out to the best advantage of the conference. However, the conference voted to continue the plan.

The IAC also received an application for membership from Tennessee A & I located at Nashville, Tenn. The application was referred to the league's membership committee. A & I is an NAIA basketball champ for the past two years, averaging almost 100 points a game last winter.

The conference series meet will be held at Eastern Illinois next Nov. 14. Northern Illinois will be the scene for the tennis, track and golf meets next May 27-28.

officials expressed pleasure over the fact that the schools had decided to remain in the pact. They also stated that they were satisfied with two school conduct.

The conference paid tribute to Illinois State Normal faculty representative, J. Russel Glensner, for the fine job during the past year serving a president.

The Saluki baseball players are going to have a busy time of it next week, the last one before finals. They are slated to leave early Sunday morning by Ozark Airlines for Alpine, Texas the site of the national NAIA baseball tournament. They will arrive sometime Sunday evening. If they should go to the finals they will not return to Carbondale until Friday.

Alpine is reportedly about 6,000 feet above sea level. Southern boys may have a link, possible at first, because it has been known to make a difference. However, they will have a day to acquaint themselves with the atmosphere before they are scheduled to play.
