SIU-C adviser gives collie home; shelter overcome with inquiries

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

The collie that roamed the SIU-C campus has finally found a home.

Sherri Hohman, a part-time student and academic adviser at SIU-C, said she responded to the article in the Daily Egyptian and went to the Humane Society of Southern Illinois and adopted her.

"I went to the humane society at 10 a.m. on Wednesday after I read her sad story. I wanted to give her a good home," Hohman said.

Her name is Meha and she is a three-year-old collie mix with a broken pelvis and a broken leg. She was four weeks pregnant with 12 puppies.

"I think that her previous owner knew of her pregnancy and that may be why they abandoned her," Hohman said.

Meha was in surgery for two hours on Friday to repair her broken pelvis.

"Her veterinarian, Dr. Spears, said she probably would not be able to deliver her puppies with her pelvis being broken," Hohman said. "Her pregnancy had to be terminated."

Her injury was a previous one that never properly healed. Her pelvis and leg were probably broken months ago and they just got better on their own. However, they never really had the chance to heal properly so she really needed the surgery, Charles

Officials: GPAs rise in 1988

The cumulative grade point averages of all campus residence areas increased an average of about 4.3 percent last semester, according to a report by the University Housing Programming Office.

Gary Brown, coordinator of housing activities, said the grade point increases accompanied the University Housing's 1988 theme — "Making the Grade."

"The major goal of the program was to heighten awareness (for academics), and in that sense, it could not be a failure," Brown said.

He said it was "the staff and the building and hall councils that made for the success of the program."

Sieve Kirk, assistant director of residence life, said "there were no specific programs (linked to the theme). The success of the program, I think, reflects the small things done by all the staff members who worked one-on-one with the students."

Kirk added that "a lot of the credit should go to the Student Resident Assistants" who were responsible for creating and implementing programs for their respective floors.

Beth Scally, Mae Smith hall director, said RAs in her building used various programs to help students to do better academically.

One program was "Study Buddies," in which class schedules were posted on a bulletin board so students could find others who had the same classes.

Scally said RAs also set aside hours in the floor lounges to be used exclusively for

SIU law students to vote on their place in GPSC

By Mark Barnett
Staff Writer

SIU law students will decide whether or not to remain represented in the Graduate and Professional Student Council by a referendum Feb. 15 sponsored by the Student Bar Association.

In a letter to the Daily Egyptian, Scott Manuel, association president, discussed the associations reason to conduct the referendum.

"Because of the internally controlled structure of the law school, GPSC has virtually no influence over law school policy and procedures," Manuel said.

Since the SIU Law School, graduate and medical schools are separate bodies, the association's members think issues, affecting the law school, should be addressed from within, he said.

Jeff Farris, the association's treasurer, said the logistics of the referendum have not been decided yet, but he noted that the association does not mean to be antagonistic toward GPSC.

"We do not mean to be adversarial," Farris said. "We have no intention to be at odds with GPSC."

Law school representatives want to meet with GPSC members to discuss a "mutually acceptable solution" before the referendum, Manuel said.

"What we hope to accomplish is to see if the SBA is at all able to receive from the GPSC a larger percentage of the student fees for law students rather than what we are currently are getting," Katherine Black, GPSC representative from the law school, said. The amount law students receive from GPSC was not available.

Teamsters say no to government offer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of the Teamsters union unanimously voted to reject a Justice Department suit to take over the labor organization, it was reported Sunday.

The leaders, meeting in Washington over the weekend, rejected the offer, and two Teamsters vice presidents who had sought reforms in the management of the 1.7 million-member union resigned, The (Cleveland) Plain Dealer reported.

Teamsters officials in Washington were unavailable for comment Sunday; Justice Department spokesman Mark Sheehan declined comment.

Union President William McCarthy, who assumed the post in July after the death of President Jackie Presser, also could not be reached Sunday for comment.

The union's executive board met privately for several hours Saturday before unanimously vetoing an 18-page settlement offer by U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani of New York.

In New York, Debbie Corley, a spokeswoman for Giuliani, said she could not confirm the reports that a settlement offer had been rejected, adding: "All I can say is the trial date is set for the last week in February."

The Detroit Free Press quoted a Teamster official as calling the offer "totalitarian" and "outrageous."

The settlement bid was an effort to end the legal action, filed by Giuliani June 28, in which the government seeks to take over the Teamsters because of the longstanding influence of organized crime.

U.S. urges modernization of NATO arms, artilleries

MUNICH, West Germany (UPI) — Defense Secretary-designate John Tower appealed to NATO Sunday for the modernization of the Western alliance's conventional and nuclear weaponry, particularly its short-range missile system. Addressing an informal NATO defense seminar attended by 170 politicians, scientists and defense experts from member nations in the southern city of Munich, Tower also said the alliance needed to modernize its artillery.

Japanese leader to meet with Bush this week

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita travels to Washington this week for talks with President Bush that are expected to take advantage of "smooth sailing" relations and lay the groundwork for closer personal ties. Bush was among the first of the foreign dignitaries to accept Takeshita's invitation to attend the Feb. 24 state funeral for Emperor Hirohito, a duty usually delegated to the vice president.

Iran, Syria continue talks to halt Shiite feud

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran and Syria resumed diplomatic efforts Sunday on trying to halt months of fighting between rival Shiite Moslem militias in Lebanon amid reports the two nations discussed the plight of foreign hostages. State-run Damascus radio said Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Al Sharaa held talks with his visiting Iranian counterpart, Ali Akbar Velayati, on "ways to halt the conflict" between the Syrian-backed Shiite Amal militia and the Iranian-financed Hezbollah group.

PLO supporter released from Israeli prison

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli authorities released one of the most prominent moderate supporters of the PLO from administrative detention Sunday and he promptly rejected any peace plan that did not include a Palestinian state. "We are not living in a hotel where we have problems with the owner of the hotel," Faisal Hussein said shortly after his release from an Israeli prison. "We are talking about our homeland and we are the owner of the homeland."

Jury trial begins Tuesday for Oliver North

WASHINGTON (SHNS) — Nineteen months after testifying to Congress about the Iran-Contra affair and after lengthy legal battles that have dramatically narrowed the charges against him, Oliver North will go on trial this week. The jury trial — which begins Tuesday in the U.S. District Court's giant "ceremonial courtroom," the site of the Watergate trials — could be the trial of the decade, but don't expect many more details to emerge about the Iran-Contra affair.

Second suspect in shooting spree surrenders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The second suspect in a shooting spree that wounded four students at an affluent city high school surrendered to police Sunday without incident, authorities said. The 16-year-old boy from Southwest Washington turned himself in at the Second District police station at 11:45 a.m., District of Columbia police spokeswoman Angus Brown said.

Gang violence claims life of two-year-old child

COMPTON, Calif. (UPI) — Semiautomatic gunfire from a speeding car claimed the life of a 2-year-old boy, the "pride and joy" of his single mother and the youngest victim of gang violence this year, officials said Sunday. "That little boy was the cutest, most vivacious child. Always smiling and running around and the pride and joy of his mother, bless her," said Carol Johnson, a 22-year resident of the Compton neighborhood where the shooting took place.

Drug-related attack in store leaves four dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three men and a woman were killed Sunday in a grocery store in a drug-related attack by one or more assailants who shot them and slashed their throats, police said. The grocery store, which was littered with drug paraphernalia, appeared to be a front for a drug operation, said Sgt. Diane Kubler, a police spokeswoman.

Buckley provides humor, conservatism to crowd

Gives views on drugs, voting, deficit, national defense

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

Anyone who sells drugs to minors should get the death penalty, said William F. Buckley, Jr. in his Thursday night address at Shryock Auditorium.

Buckley delivered his "Reflections on Current Contentions" to a standing-room-only crowd as part of the University Honors Lecture Series.

Buckley is a nationally recognized political commentator and conservative spokesman. He founded the "National Review" magazine, appears weekly on his television show "Firing Line" and has a syndicated newspaper column "On the Right."

Using the recurring theme of "realism and surrealism," Buckley gave his views on national concerns and current political trends. He also used his command of language and humorous anecdotes to keep the audience amused and on its toes.

DURING THE lecture, Buckley recommended President George Bush focus more on specific goals, such as how the federal deficit will be reduced and how the war against drugs should be fought, rather than on general ideas. Although he applauds the president's sentiment of dealing with large-scale issues, Buckley said that Bush should concentrate more on the groundwork of these problems than on the finished product.

Buckley next spoke on his views on democracy, saying that he preferred intelligent voting of 50 percent of the country to 100 percent voting if done by uninterested, apathetic voters.

WITH OUR present voting requirements, he explained, an 18-year-old U.S. citizen need not be literate in any language to be able to vote.

Concerning the war on drugs, he warned that the odds heavily favor the drug customers, and that having the military stop drugs from entering the country would probably only drive up their cost and increase the crime rate.

Buckley said that to win the war, the United States should legalize all drugs to those over 21 and instate the death penalty to anyone who sold drugs to minors. He said profits from their sale could be used to warn children about the dangers of drugs.

Buckley defended his position on drugs by saying that at 21 a person can vote for Adolph Hitler, if they choose to. He said society doesn't necessarily sanction that sort of behavior, but has to accept it. Despite Buckley's good analogy, the audience seemed not to agree with Buckley's position.

HE CLOSED his lecture by reminding the audience that it is in debt to those who passed before us. He said all of us live in a vast library, with books on every topic from "How to Build a Wheel" to "How to Build a Nuclear Reactor," and that we have an responsibility to expand the library and to make sure our children read it.

"We cannot repay in kind what Socrates gave us," he said. "The only repayment we can offer is in our thoughts, our deeds and in our prayers."

Following the lecture, Buckley invited questions from the audience.

Commenting on the last election, Buckley said there was not much "meat" to the debates, but both Gov. Michael Dukakis and Bush won their primaries by using speeches that strayed away from issues.

"I DOUBT the average voter today would understand the debate between (Abraham) Lincoln and (Stephen A.) Douglas."

At one point, a man in the audience asked Buckley about his defense of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, and asked if he considered the senator to be an American hero. Buckley turned the question around at the man by admitting that McCarthy was wrong, but added with a smile, "a lot of people who are wrong are heroic." The response brought applause from the audience.

Obelisk needs help of University funds

A YEARBOOK IS meant to preserve memories, but money is needed to preserve the yearbook.

The Obelisk II staff should get a pat on the back for attempting the nearly impossible task of putting out two yearbooks this year — they also should get some help from the University.

The yearbook, which has been suffering for several years of staff and funding shortages, needs a boost from the University if it is expected to survive as a quality production.

SINCE THE OBELISK is associated so closely with the University, administrators should take notice of the delayed yearbooks and the complaints many graduates are voicing over them. The complaints also include a lost trust in the University and reluctance to contribute to the Alumni Association when it solicits donations.

As one alumni wrote in a letter to the editor, "The next time I am called to donate money to the University, I will gladly do so, trading my check for my yearbook."

THOUGH THE YEARBOOK is published independent of the University, by a staff of students, the letter shows the ill will toward the University that has been fostered by its delay.

If the University were willing, it could fund the Obelisk partially through student fees, which probably would amount to a few cents per student, and could possibly reduce the price of yearbooks.

Another option would be for the University to take charge of the Obelisk's finances and appoint someone to manage them, such as a faculty adviser. Hopefully, this would improve the organization of the yearbook.

IF THE UNIVERSITY is unwilling to step in and bail out the Obelisk, the staff can look to other college yearbooks for ideas on success.

The University of Illinois' yearbook is run completely by a staff of students who are paid with profits from yearbook sales, and is published independent of the university although it takes no advertising. This yearbook has been very successful and survived for many years. Why can't the Obelisk follow suit?

It seems with a whole new staff and an optimistic outlook, the Obelisk is headed in the right direction. Perhaps talking to staff members at other schools would reveal other helpful hints to ensure the success of the Obelisk.

EVERYONE CONNECTED with the University should be concerned with the Obelisk's future since it not only creates a reputation for SIU-C, but may serve as an important recruitment tool and help persuade alumni donations. These donations in turn could be donated by the Alumni Association to help pay for the yearbook.

Medical science is forever making new discoveries — and, it seems, changing its mind about them. A decade ago, we were told that Type A personalities — impatient, angry workaholics — had twice the chance of heart disease as Type B's, the more relaxed and easy-going people.

Many sought urgent counsel as to which type they were and how to change. Now it seems medical science may not have been quite right.

According to a new study by Dr. Redford Williams of Duke University Medical Center, most Type A's aren't more prone to heart disease than Type B's; only those who are hostile enough to act on their anger are. Impatient workaholics who don't explode are in no more danger than others.

This isn't the first time scientists have changed their minds on whether anger is hazardous to your health. It was long thought that repressing hostility was more dangerous than expressing it; the outwardly angry didn't get ulcers, they gave them. The A-B theory reversed this. Now we are supposed to believe that the angry but controlled are healthier than those who let their anger out.

That may be, but the conclusion only works if the intensity of someone's anger is directly related to how easily it is expressed. Often this isn't so. Are curmudgeons really any more likely to have heart attacks than those who seethe in silence because they can't let themselves go?

Shifting from one theory to another is confusing for the public; indeed, it might even make some people angry. If the latest findings are correct, however, they would be advised to hold their tempers.

Graduate student offers ideas for use of non-sexist language

In talking to faculty and students about the implementation of the use of nonsexist language I have run into a barrage of reasons why this can't be done. These reasons often come after a clear statement of the person's commitment to women and equality between the sexes. We must begin to confront the discrepancy between how we like to think about ourselves (progressive, feminist, humanist, etc.) and our action.

Here are some of the reasons given for faculty not taking leadership in insisting that nonsexist language be used in classes.

1. The specific words used don't matter. Your concern is purely semantic.

We've been told that it doesn't really matter if we use "he" all the time, people know that this refers to all people. However, words determine our thinking. If we do not include women and their experience in our language, we learn to not include women and their thinking. There is an area of research in psychology that has documented the negative psychological effects of sexist language on female children. This proves that the words we use are very powerful in determining how we think.

2. The word "he" includes women.

This is an example of men describing women's experiences for them, from a male perspective. As a woman, I genuinely do not feel included in the generic "he." Telling me I am included does not make it so. Women must begin naming their own experiences. As this process evolves, the language must evolve as well.

3. Using nonsexist language is hard. It is awkward. It disrupts the flow of the presentation of the lecture material.

This is one of my favorite excuses. It is so weak it is pathetic. First of all, in essence, it says that I and all the women in the world are not as important as the inconvenience. To give up all that is to be gained because of the immediate inconvenience seems like a poor use of our intellectual resources.

4. You are looking for sexism in everything you hear.

This is a way to make it my problem. This places responsibilities for the problem on the oppressed. I refuse to accept this excuse. My raised consciousness is not a problem. The implication is that sexism does not really exist and that my looking for it somehow creates it. My awareness does bring sexist language to my attention, but does not create it; it is already there.

5. You are making a big leap in logic to say that sexist language reflects devaluing women. You are taking this too personally.

I have been told that I am being illogical for making this connection. This is similar to the last tactic, in that it blames the victim for the problem. You would think that the solution would be long-term psychotherapy to cure feminists of their tendency to take sexism personally. From a woman's perspective, if society cannot make the changes necessary to include them in its language, society doesn't value them.

6. Be patient.

This is a tactic that used to always delude me. Patience is a virtue, after all. However, this plea for patience is not used to give people time to change, it is used to give people time to not change. It reminds me of the constant plea to blacks to be patient with racism.

Patience is not what is called for. On the contrary, people need to be calling for urgency. There is no time for hesitation. As slavery binds the slave to the master, sexism binds women to men. The psychological well being of all people is at stake right now, while our sisters, mothers, aunts, grandmothers, children, partners, and selves are being emotionally abused daily. — Joy Morris, graduate student, counseling psychology.

Rho-Mate ail for 'little sisters'

I am a Rho-Mate of Alpha Gamma Rho, otherwise known as a "little sister." Wednesday's article, "Fraternities Urged to Drop Little Sister Programs," was not the first time I had heard of the idea, either in the news or within the fraternity. Ours, along with other Rho-Mate Auxiliary organizations, are nationally recognized by Alpha Gamma Rho. As an organization, we have our own Constitution, our own set of officers, and a crest different from that of the fraternity. Our pledging program consists of learning the history of the Beta Alpha Chapter, meeting the active members of both organizations, and participating in community service projects. When this program is completed, a pledge has earned the right to be a Rho-Mate. We don't show up just to party.

I don't believe, as Phil Lyons says, that if a girl wishes to be in the Greek system she should have to be in a sorority. Many girls can't financially afford to be in a sorority and there are also times when a sorority will not accept certain girls for membership. I believe that it is the sorority's right to choose who they want as members, just as I believe it's my right to choose to be a Greek by being a Rho-Mate.

I don't know about the other little sister programs, but I know ours doesn't "make for uncomfortable situations at the house during exchanges." When our brothers have an exchange with a sorority, no Rho-Mates are allowed to the house.

We are not the biggest fraternity or auxiliary group on campus. We currently have 39 brothers and 23 Rho-Mates. The smaller numbers make us more like a family. If any problem or situation arises between any members of either group, it is worked out, just like in a family.

I am an only child and in the two years I've been associated with Alpha Gamma Rho and Rho-Mates, I've come to think of them as my brothers and sisters. I would hate to see other young women deprived of the same fun and warm relationships I've been privileged to have here at SIU if little sister programs are dropped. — Melissa Koonce, junior, athletic training.

At the time, Giuliani called the suit to remove the union leadership and to appoint a government trustee an effort to "take back the Teamsters from the Mafia."

The case is scheduled to go to trial Feb. 27.

The settlement offer reportedly demanded an admission from the union that it was controlled by organized crime and the resignation of five vice presidents: Harold Friedman of Cleveland, Robert Holmes of Detroit, Joseph Trerotola of New York, Joseph Morgan of Miami and Theodore Cozza of Pittsburgh.

Earlier this month, Friedman was convicted in federal court in Cleveland of embezzlement, racketeering and making false statements to the Labor Department in a payroll-padding scheme at Teamsters Local 507 in Cleveland. Friedman is the local president.

The settlement also would have required direct membership election of the Teamsters president, secretary-treasurer and the 16 international vice presidents — with a three-member panel independent of the union overseeing the elections and monitoring union activities.

The emergency meeting was called Saturday at the union's international headquarters after James Grady, the union's general counsel, received the settlement bid from Giuliani, who announced earlier this month that he is stepping down as U.S. attorney.

At Saturday's meeting, two vice presidents who had sought reforms in the Teamsters upper ranks resigned. Robert Holmes, 75, a second international vice president from Detroit, quit for personal reasons, and The Plain Dealer quoted an unnamed official in Detroit's Local 337 who said Holmes became dissatisfied with the leadership's refusal to implement reforms.

The local official said the government had not sought Holmes's resignation.

Also resigning was John Cleveland, an international vice president from Washington, who also had pressed for reform.

Spears said.

"Meha is very gentle and absolutely starved for affection. She probably was given affection, at one time then it was taken away from her," Hohmann said.

The humane society received a lot of attention because of Meha and her sad story.

"We had literally hundreds of phone calls from people wanting to adopt her," Cindy Nelson, manager of the Humane Society of Southern Illinois, said.

"I think she's really going to have an excellent home with Sheri Hohmann."

Meha's story helped generate interest in adopting homeless pets from the humane society, Nelson said.

"There was an unbelievable interest in adopting Meha. We're still getting calls asking about her. People would come in with the intent of adopting her but when they realized that she was already taken, they would adopt another older dog that might not have otherwise been adopted. At least four or five other dogs were adopted," Nelson said.

"Since the article was published, many people have been calling in and making donations. It's great to see such enthusiasm," Nelson said.

Meha is only one of hundreds of dogs that was lucky enough to get adopted. The humane society still needs help in providing good homes to homeless animals, Nelson said.

For details about adopting a pet, call the Humane Society of Southern Illinois at 457-7511.

Black also was appointed to a three-member panel from the law school to meet with three members from GPSC.

Black said law students need the additional money for law student activities that are much different than other graduate students.

Law students must submit copies of arguments to be presented at moot court competitions, there is some discussion that a day care program be offered at the law school, and the book prices are high, Black said. The increased funding would help with these and other activities, she said.

Chinese plan for New Year celebration

Dances, fashion shows and dinners will be offered by two student associations this weekend, to celebrate the Chinese New Year that starts Feb. 6.

A first event, organized by the Chinese Student Association, will consist of Chinese New Year dances, such as the lion dances, firecrackers and a traditional Chinese dinner, followed by dancing and a casino.

The event will be held at 6:30 p.m., Friday in the Newman Center.

Tickets should be purchased in advance. For details, call Wei J. Kong at 529-4065.

A second event, organized by the U.S.A. Malaysian-Chinese Association will consist of a fashion show, a cultural show featuring group and solo singing, Chinese, Thai and Indian dances and the traditional lion dances. A Chinese dinner will be served.

The celebration will be held at 7 p.m., Saturday at Carbondale's Lincoln Jr. High School.

Blood donors give from the vein, also the heart

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

University students and Southern Illinois residents are urged to "give blood because it's a heart-warming experience," according to this year's Red Cross theme for the four-day blood drive.

"There is no substitute for blood. Nobody yet has made artificial blood," Vivian Ugent, blood drive coordinator, said.

"January is a high-need month because a lot of surgeries are done," Ugent said. "Ninety-eight percent of us will need blood at one point in our lifetime."

Ugent also stressed that there is no connection between giving blood and getting AIDS.

The blood drive will be from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in the Student Center Ballroom D.

On Friday the drive will be from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Carbondale City Council chambers, 607 E. College.

For the first time, blood will be taken at Lewis Park Apartments, 800 E. Grand from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the Lewis Park Clubhouse.

Anyone 17 or older and weighing 110 pounds or more may donate.

Sign-up tables will be in the Student Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday or call 529-2151 to make an appointment.

Tourist falls from balcony at Mardi Gras

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A New York tourist fell from a French Quarter balcony overlooking Bourbon Street, becoming the first major injury of the Mardi Gras season, police reported.

James Mahony, 28, of Islip, N.Y., was undergoing surgery

Sunday, at Tulane Medical Center.

He fell off the second-floor balcony about 10 p.m. Saturday, after laughing, celebrating and "cutting up a storm," she said.

Crowds of near one million people are expected.

Group aids people with cultural gaps

By Fernando Fellu-Moggi
Staff Writer

Cultural differences or a language barrier can create from the simplest communication problem to an embarrassing misunderstanding.

To avoid communication and cultural gaps in an area where international residents form a considerable part of the community, the International Student Council created the ISC Public Service Group. M. Ali Firouzi, president of ISC, said.

Firouzi said the group consists of about 25 bilingual and multilingual volunteers who help community members needing cultural or language assistance.

"We have about 25 people, speaking 19 languages," Firouzi said. "In most cases we can offer the services of a male or a female if the situation requires a personal approach."

The group, created last fall, is organized to help all the international community," Firouzi said.

Firouzi said ISC made a list of volunteers, the language they spoke and their phone numbers, and mailed it to different places on campus and the Carbondale area.

"We have informed mainly hospitals, police stations and stores," Firouzi said. "Those are the places where our services are most required."

Firouzi said the Public Service Group is not intended to get international students out of legal problems, but to intercede for those who, not knowing about a custom, get in trouble.

"If you call us from jail because you have been arrested for drunk driving, we are not going to pay your bond," Firouzi said. "You broke the law, we can help you communicate with a lawyer, but that's about it."

Firouzi said a good example of a cultural misunderstanding was resolved last year, when a graduate student was arrested for shoplifting at a Carbondale department store.

"The man got behind the counter and took some things from the shelves in the back. When the security guard saw him, he handcuffed him and called the police," Firouzi said. "This man's family were standing there, looking. The police called us (the Public Service Group) and we sent someone to explain that it is common in some countries to take things from the different sections of a store and pay at an exit counter before leaving."

"The store manager apologized and the man went home, but it could have been a different story if someone hadn't considered the cultural gap," Firouzi said.

Firouzi said the group's services are requested mostly because of language problems.

NAACP honors those contributing to minorities.

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

John C. Guyon was awarded the NAACP's highest honor Saturday night at Southern Illinois' first Image Awards program.

Guyon, University president since 1987, was recognized for appointing blacks to key administrative positions at SIUC.

Nathaniel Felder, president of the Carbondale NAACP, presented Guyon with his Image Award plaque, stating, "He has shown integrity in the appointments he has made - a strength and integrity that will move the community and University forward."

Guyon's appointments include Harvey Welch as vice president of student affairs, C. Michael Williams as budget director, Seymour Bryson as assistant to the president for affirmative action and Benjamin Shepherd as vice president for academic affairs.

In accepting the award, Guyon stated that although there have been missteps along the way, "the University remains dedicated to the same ideals as the NAACP."

The Image Award will be presented annually to the individual or organization that has made the most significant improvement for the minority community in Southern Illinois.

Ten other awards were distributed in such categories as medicine, art, athletics and social services.

Nominees in each category were judged in terms of the positive image they project for black youth.

Beating out U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, for the Public Service Award was the Community Development Corp. No. 9, an affirmative action organization in Williamson County which fought successfully for an improved sewer system in a predominantly black area of Colp, north of Carterville.

The Development Corp also achieved a summer food program for minority youth and founded more jobs for blacks in Williamson County factories.

The Corp is also presently seeking to instate black teachers in the Williamson County school system, according to CDC vice president William Perkins.

Gajef McNeil of Carbondale won the Social Service Award for his work as the youth director at the Irma Hayes Center. McNeil coordinates the College Tutorial Program with the University to help local youth with their school work.

SIU-C graduate commissioned to do sculpture

M. Robert Youngman went from smithy to U of I art director

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

W. Robert Youngman went from re-welding truck fenders in Murphysboro to building fountains in Purdue.

Youngman, a University graduate who is the director of the Art for Architecture Program of the School of Art and Design at the University of Illinois, worked in his father's smithy in Murphysboro as a child.

He was born next to his father's blacksmith shop.

"It is difficult to believe, I know, but I was taught to gas and electric-weld when I was seven and eight years old," he said.

He used those welding and sculpting skills in later life to build sculptures for the Cincinnati Public Library, Detroit's Metropolitan Airport and the Washington Avenue Shopping Mall in Lansing, Mich.

HE WON A $25,000 commission from the University and the Capital Development Board of Illinois' Percent for Art Program to do a sculpture to go in front of Pulliam Hall. The sculpture will take about two years to complete.

Youngman said the sculpture will be bronze, concrete or a combination of the two.

"Concrete is the best way to do larger pieces, but I have a feeling for metal, too," Youngman said.

Currently, he is working on a large fountain for Purdue that will cost about $500,000, he said.

YOUNGMAN SAID, "I haven't had time to think about it (the Pulliam sculpture) except to know that it will be as good as I can build it. I graduated from there and this means a lot to me."

The Purdue fountain will be three and a half stories high and 70 feet in diameter, he said.

The Pulliam sculpture will not be that large, but it needs to be fairly large because it will be a landscape piece, Youngman said.

He said, "I want it large enough so that students can interact with it, sit on it, and walk through it."

THE MONEY is used to pay for transportation, installation and materials, he said.

"Concrete needs additional footing. The money one gets for fabric is not much, really," he said.

He said he will meet with University officials again in mid-April to submit his design proposal to the University and the capital development board.

He said he will measure the area again and determine the angles the sculpture will be looked at from. He said he thought the piece would go in front of Pulliam on a sloped area near the front stairs.

He said he will also consider that Pulliam is mostly brick and glass.

F. CARLTON BALL, a University art professor in the 1950s and noted ceramist, encouraged Youngman to sculpt and to enroll in graduate school. Ball helped Youngman earn the University's first master of fine arts degree in sculpture.

"When I applied, he said, 'Well, we don't have a sculpture curriculum — come back tomorrow.' Twenty-four hours later they had a program in sculpture, and I became the first person in it. They didn't have any place for me to work, so I did all my work in my dad's blacksmith shop — the University bent things for me to make it possible," he said.

YOUNGMAN FINISHED his degree in 1954 and went to the University of Illinois to teach. He turned his efforts to casting liquid materials like aluminum, iron, bronze and concrete into molds because the university did have adequate welding and forging facilities.

Surveying the area in front of Pulliam Hall, sculptor W. Robert Youngman of Champaign ponders the design for a sculpture he has been commissioned to create. Youngman, the first person to earn a master's degree in sculpture from SIU-C, won the $25,000 commission in a competition sponsored by the University and the state's Percent for Art project.

The Salukis were down 84-78 with 2:36 left, but Nurnberger nailed two three-pointers and scored eight of the Salukis last 10 points.

"I thought Nurnberger's two threes really gave them momentum," Bradley coach Stan Albeck said. "We took four or five offensive charges that were called blocks. They went to the line two or three times to make up the deficit. Southern really did not have to shoot a shot."

Saturday's game marks the second straight team-high point performance by Jones.

do," Saluki coach Cindy Scott said.

From there the Saluki offense disintegrated in the face of the backcourt pressure applied by Eastern's Beverly Williams and Shelly Ethridge. On the opposite end, Williams converted defense into offense with two free throws to tie 45-44 at 10:23.

"Bev Williams got cranked up on defense," Eastern coach Barbara Hilde said of her 5-11 sophomore reserve guard, who also finished with a team-high 15 points. "Her quickness on Herrin said the victory is a good team win.

"We did things team-wise," Herrin said. "Kai hit the threes, but there was a good pass from McSwain. We had 17 assists as a team tonight—that's what I like to see. You can tell we were trying to get the ball in and it paid off."

"We have got to win at home, that is the key. The things I like best is we rebounded even with them (35-35) and only had eight turnovers which is tough. We are still in the race, but really have to turn it up a notch."

every night out. It is nice to be among the select group to get it, though."

Illinois State is hot off a 76-66 upset of Missouri Valley leader Creighton, and sport an unblemished 4-0 mark in the new Redbird Arena.

Herrin said the Salukis may be minus Randy House and Freddie McSwain. House is dealing with academic registration problems and McSwain is suffering from a flu bug.

Herrin said he would not know until today if the two would even make the trip.

the procedure the right way," House said. "I feel I have been wronged. I have the support of the president, the athletics director and coach (Rich) Herrin."

Herrin said he was very upset about the situation.

"It is very unfair that he could not play because he has been in class," Herrin said. "It is about the most unjust thing done to an athlete I have ever been associated with."

House, who had a string of 47 straight starts broken, said the NCAA would be called on the matter Monday in an effort to resolve the problem. Monday's call may determine whether House will be in uniform tonight at Illinois State.

Ohio State proves too much for young Saluki gymnasts

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

When the Ohio State men's gymnastics team strolled into the Arena, Saluki coach Bill Meade had reason to be concerned.

"I knew that Ohio State was a strong, well-balanced team," Meade said. "They are a Top 10 team, they have to be considered as a contender for the NCAA championship. I knew they were going to be tough to beat."

The Buckeyes of Ohio State won convincingly scoring 271.3 total points to SIU's 253.55. The Buckeyes also placed gymnasts one, two, and three in the all-around individual competition.

The Saluki men were paced by the all-around performance of Brent Reed. Reed finished with a total of 52.10 points in the six event all-around competition, including a 9.2 on the floor exercise and a 9.05 on the vault.

"Brent is improving nicely," Meade said. "He is consistently hitting nines and above."

Jeff Jones and Rick Armstrong finished fourth and fifth respectively in the all-around with scores of 49.65 each.

squad was just too much.

Eric Hanson scored a 8.75 on the still rings to lead the Salukis. Also, Marcus Mulholland had scores of 9.1, 6.45, 8.9, and 8.2 on the floor, still rings, parallel bars, and the vault.

"I saw much improvement from last week's Windy City meet," Meade said. "We are going to have to make bigger strides to compete with teams like Ohio State."

Football position may be filled today

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

Four people were interviewed for the Saluki football coaching position Friday in St. Louis, and an announcement of a hiring may come as early as 10 a.m. today the Daily Egyptian has learned.

Two anonymous sources close to the football program said the hiring would be announced this morning. One of the sources said the players would be meeting this afternoon to learn of the hiring. SIU-C Athletics Director Jim Hart, appearing on WCIL-FM's "Sportstalk" radio show, said the person offered the position had accepted the job but he could not elaborate on the subject.

"I can't be very committal," Hart said.

Carl Mauck, the offensive line coach for the Kansas City Chiefs, said he was one of the four people interviewed, but was not hired for the position.

"I was interviewed for it,"

Mauck said. "They will not name me, though, they turned me down. I wanted it though."

Mauck played football for the Salukis from 1966 to 1968.

"I don't know when they will name it, but it will probably be Monday or Tuesday," Mauck said.

Hart declined comment on the personnel portion of the matter, but did indicate that Mauck's comment concerning the date of the naming was right.

"That is correct," said Hart when asked if the coach would be named Monday or Tuesday.

Associate athletics director Charlotte West said she did not know anything about the interviews, and added that Hart and SIU-C president John C. Guyon were taking care of the matter.

Interim head coach Jim Tompkins said he knew nothing about the interviewing or when the position would be filled.

"I don't know anything about it," Tompkins said.

"I've been in the office all week working."

But one of the anonymous sources said Tompkins was one of the four interviewed, and Hart said Tompkins was still in the running.

"Obviously Jim Tompkins and some candidates from outside the University," said Hart when asked who was being considered for the job.

St. Louis was selected for the site of the interviews because of the convenience it provided, Hart said.

Men play tonight for milestone

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

The Salukis will be going for the 1,000th basketball victory in the school's history at 7:35 tonight when they invade the Redbird Arena against Illinois State.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS AT ILLINOIS STATE
Tipoff: Redbird Arena (10,500). Normal, 7:35 p.m.
Records: Southern Illinois (3-9, 14-6), Illinois State (2-4, 7-11).
What to watch: The Salukis will be shooting for the 1,000th victory in the school's history, possibly minus Randy House and Freddie McSwain. The Redbirds are coming off a 79-86 upset of league leading Creighton.
Last meeting: Southern Illinois 68, Illinois State 67, Feb. 27, 1986 in Carbondale.
Series: Illinois State leads 45-41.
On the air: WEBQ-FM (99.9), Carbondale.

Salukis escape Braves, 88-87

Bradley guard Anthony Manuel did everything he could. That and more.

The senior, who picked up his fourth foul with 10:32 left in the Salukis' 88-87 win over the Braves Saturday, scored 14 of his game-high 31 points after his potential bench sitter.

Not only did Manuel score, he took the ball right at Saluki defender Sterling Mahan each trip down the court, four fouls or not.

"There is no sense in playing passive," Manuel said. "If I didn't play hard, coach would just take me out."

As for Mahan, he said his crash course in man-to-man defense against the Missouri Valley's leading scorer is something he'll chalk up as good experience.

"I thought he would be hesitant," said Mahan about Manuel's foul trouble. "He kept playing hard. I just had to keep moving my feet and stay with him. He is probably the best guard in the conference.

"I just told myself 'Don't stop no matter what.' If I ease up, I'm not doing my job. It helped me out maturity-wise."

All Manuel's efforts could not postpone the inevitable. Forward Jerry Jones, tied for high-point honors with Kai Nurnberger at 22, put one off the glass with 27 seconds to give the Salukis an 88-87 lead.

Manuel picked up his fifth foul with eight seconds left when he was called for a charge, but Freddie McSwain missed the front end of a one and bonus. Bradley forward Dion Thurman snared the rebound, ran the length of the court and came up short on a jumper with one second left.

"We were just trying to keep Manuel from beating us down the stretch," Saluki coach Rich Herrin said. "We played good pressure defense."

House forced to take a seat over schedule

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

A technicality over luki forward Randy House's class schedule benched the senior Saturday night and may result in House sitting out two more games.

The controversy stems over the number of hours House is officially registered for in the spring semester.

House said he registered for 15 hours, but at the time, three of the five classes he requested were closed.

"I picked up two junk classes, giving me 12 hours, so I would be eligible," House said.

The NCAA requires student-athletes to carry a minimum of 12 hours to be eligible for competition.

After one of the classes opened up, House said he dropped the two "junk" classes, and went to the business office and filled out closed card applications to get into a finance class and did a botany class.

House said he then attended all 15 hours he had signed up for, but was told he had been officially registered for nine from Jan. 15, the first day of classes, to Jan. 24, the day closed class filings are made.

Names of student-athletes and their hours were filed Jan. 23, which is where the discrepancy arose.

After a call to the NCAA and the Missouri Valley, House said both groups advised the senior to sit out Saturday until the situation had been resolved.

Eastern's upset of women tightens Gateway standings

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The unheralded, yet persistent full-court defensive press deployed by the Eastern Illinois women's basketball team pushed the Salukis off the floor to grab a stunning 70-57 Gateway Conference upset Saturday at the Arena.

The gap in the standings between second-place SIU-C (9-8, 7-2) and third-place Eastern Illinois (11-7, 6-3) narrowed to 1/2-game with the decision. Illinois State stands alone in first, untouched at 9-0 and 13-5.

Eastern Illinois' pressure took the form of an unofficial seven second-half steals and caused 18 Saluki turnovers for the game.

Remarkably, Eastern orchestrated a 45-point second half after trailing 28-25 at intermission.

"I think for whatever reason we got a 9-point lead and let their press take ourselves out of everything we wanted to Deanna Kibeikis tries to maintain her balance after being fouled by Eastern Illinois' Lisa Tyler during the 70-57 defeat at the Arena Saturday. The Salukis dropped only their second conference game in nine outings. The Panthers now stand at 6-3 in the Getaway, just one-half game behind the second-place Salukis.
