Summer Bus Service Is Proposed

The Campus Senate is investigating the possibility of a student bus service during the summer quarter, according to Bob Drinan, student body president.

The Senate hopes to get a minimum of three buses to operate as in the regular school year, Drinan said.

"We also want to get some kind of bus service for the outlying areas of Carbondale that are still within the two-mile limit," he said. "We need this service for the summer and during the year."

Students may not have cars unless they are living at least two miles from the campus. Some students just within the limit, Drinan said, must walk more than a mile for bus service.

Drinan said he will suggest that the student government, the University and certain off-campus dormitories share the cost of the service.

Ann Bosworth, student body vice president and chairman of the Senate, announced that in a regular business session during the summer quarter.

"There are approximately 11 senators on campus this summer according to a hand count taken at a meeting at the end of spring quarter," Miss Bosworth said. There are 22 members during the regular school year.

The meetings are tentatively set for 8 p.m. Wednesday in Ballroom A of the University Center. It is hoped that a quorum will be present so definite action on bills may be taken during the summer, Miss Bosworth said.

360 Students At SIU Apply For GI Bill

About 360 applications for participation in the GI Bill have been sent to the Veterans Administration in Chicago by the SIU Registrar's Office.

These are the first set of papers that students have turned in to the Registrar's office for forwarding. Their second papers will be mailed to them direct.

Other than these applications, the University has no idea how the new GI Bill will affect enrollment at Southern. There is no way of knowing how many people have applied directly to the Veterans Administration and plan to attend school here, according to Virginia Lavish, who has been handling SIU applicants.

Most of the applicants here are already in school, and would therefore not have much effect on the enrollment, she said. Any large change would come from people applying directly to the Veterans Administration.

Robert A. McGrath, registrar, said his office really didn't know how many applicants to expect for the summer. "We have no records to go on," he said.

McGrath added that between 1,500 and 2,000 applicants are expected for fall.

The new bill does not extend to as large a pool of veterans as previous ones. It is available to those who completed active duty as long ago as 1955, meaning that many of the veterans out of service have had 10 or 11 years in industry or professions and may not elect to return to school.

Parking Lot Road Building Begins

Construction has started on a new road leading from the Arena parking lot to Campus Drive which will relieve traffic congestion during busy periods.

Robert A. Sproat, associate university architect, said that the road will start just opposite the west end of the Technology parking lot and curve out towards the baseball field and then back into the Arena parking lot.

The road, which is being built by the Pool Construction Co. of Carbondale, will be finished in about two months.

SUNNY SIDE UP—While many persons were grumbling about the lack of air conditioning in certain buildings on campus, a covey of others flocked to the beach to broil on their summer tans in Wednesday's 90-degree temperatures. There's more of the same in store for the area today and the rest of the week, the weatherman says. (Photo by John Baran)

Separate Functions

Police Merger? Leffler Doubts Feasibility, Kirk Says It Would Require Legislation

By Bonita Trout (Last of Three Articles)

"We are not a police department per se. Our main objective is to help the students. Our loyalties and functions are so different from those of the city police that I cannot visualize a merger."

This is Thomas Leffler's opinion of the proposed merger of the Carbondale city police and the SIU Security Office. The merger was proposed in a recent survey report following a study made for Carbondale by the Public Administration Service.

Leffler is SIU security officer.

Because of the difference in jurisdictional authority of the two forces, Leffler doubts that a merger could legally be achieved.

"The only advantage I can see in a merger is a larger force. But who is going to pay the salaries?"

Leffler believes a central communications dispatching system would be feasible.

Under this system there would be one telephone number to call to get the police. A dispatcher at this number would call either the city police or the University Security Office depending on the area in which the trouble had occurred.

Combining the records of the city and University would be included in this setup.

Location of the physical facilities and funds to finance building of a central headquarters would be the greatest disadvantage to this proposal, Leffler said.

"I think we are better off now, with each force backing the other. If they need help all they need do is call us and we do the same for them. Why change?"

Frank A. Kirk, coordinator in the office of President Delyte W. Morris, thinks a merger could work provided an agreement could be reached regarding the functions to be performed.

Kirk, also a member of the Carbondale City Council, said, "A merger of the two forces might require adjustments in the state law, possibly special legislation. Also, there are some purely internal security functions of campus police that might have to be separated."

One example he cited is the periodic checking of the occupancy of buildings on campus after certain hours.

A central record and communications system might be a means of economizing in manpower cost and would be advantageous in terms of improved coordination, Kirk said.

Kirk believes the city would benefit more from a merger because the University has a larger staff. If the two forces were consolidated, there would be more patrol cars circulating around the city

National Leaders Listed in Report

SIU ranks third in the nation as a producer of new teachers.

Only Michigan State University and San Jose State College in California outrank SIU, according to a new report by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

In 1965, the report says, SIU produced 1,328 new teachers. The figure includes master of arts in teaching or equivalent degree leading to initial certification. That same year Michigan State led the nation with 2,000 new teachers, and San Jose State was second with 1,361.

Other institutions in the first 10 were Western Michigan University, Ohio State University, Illinois State University at Normal, Eastern Michigan University, Kent State University, Indiana University, and the University of Michigan.

Only one other Illinois school was listed among the top 40 in the report. Northern Illinois University ranked 28th.

A breakdown of the report indicates that SIU ranked fifth in preparation of elementary school teachers with 659 being graduated in 1965, and 12th in the preparation of secondary teachers, with 641 for the year.

All of San Jose State's graduates were in elementary education, the report shows. And of the 2,000 Michigan State graduates, 800 were elementary education majors, and 1,200 majored in secondary education.

Illinois State produced 493 elementary education majors and 701 secondary education majors.

Necessary Evil

By Mike Harris

June is a favorite month for weddings.

It is also the month of the underdog—the groom.

This harried fellow, as one prospective SIU groom succinctly phrased it, is like a man in an airplane, 30,000 feet in the air, waiting to be pushed out—without a parachute.

Farfetched? Perhaps, but the modern groom is put through a grueling pre-wedding gamut. He encounters endless trials and tribulations before he can get those words "I do" out of his mouth.

"My fiancée is plotting our wedding, not planning it," said one SIU student about to walk down the matrimonial aisle. Continued this perplexed groom, "I keep asking myself questions. Am I ready to get married? Will she be a good cook? Will she change over the years? And most of all, why, why, why all this fuss over the wedding?"

"The wedding is a necessary evil, I guess," said another SIU student with an about-to-be-married shrug.

The fraternity brothers of one SIU groom held a "moment of profound silence" recently for their "departing" brother.

Is there a theme to the bride's wedding scheme? In the case of a graduating senior about to take a wife, the answer is yes.

"She said the theme was going to be daisies. Daisies, fancy that. Her dress, the brides-maid's dress, the tablecloth, daisies, daisies, daisies. I didn't ask her why daisies were going to be the theme of the wedding. I've learned not to ask questions. Not now, anyway. It's really her show and she's calling the shots."

Complained another groom: "She's handling all the invitations—over 300 of them. I don't know half the people who will be at the reception. I don't even know what we'll have to eat—cake I suppose. And to make matters worse, I don't even know how to get to the reception in St. Louis. I told her to send me a map."

"The only thing that wasn't her idea for the wedding was the blood test," said another groom whose intent was not one of humor.

The bride provides, well in advance of the wedding day, stacks and stacks of tuxedo brochures. If the groom picks a tux he likes, he must first get approval from guess whom?

The mother and the mother-in-law of the groom give aid and assistance to the bride, like jets giving air support to ground troops during a raging battle. In this case though, it is the battle for The Perfect Wedding.

And the bride really couldn't care if her husband-to-be sits in a foxhole, afraid to show his head for fear he'll get it shot off.

"I definitely feel left out," said another groom. "She's already decided what gifts will be returned. I won't even see half the gifts until we're married."

New Form of Justice Results From 'Riots'

The finals week demonstrations that rocked and shocked Carbondale Campus two weeks ago brought a lot of unfavorable publicity for this University and very little else.

The demonstrations and near riots were truly the rebellion without cause that is uncommon today in a world growing inured to the happenings at Berkeley, Watts, Hue and Saigon. But the events of that four-day melee will not be forgotten soon.

The general opinion is that this outbreak of civil disobedience, lacking a clear cause, had no business happening. The participants weren't Negroes "in ghetto," or Buddhist monks in political protest, but supposedly well-fed, housed and clothed college students.

However little good it does, it seems that one should not deny any cause to these disturbances, but one would be hard pressed to find one. Pressure of finals, the heat, disgust with local politics, and University policy all combined with an inexplicable urge to "get out and see what's happening." These factors drew the crowds into the streets on those four, heat filled, humid nights.

Fortunately, very little property damage was reported and few or no injuries. The danger was in what could have happened rather than what did.

What is striking is not so much what happened but the aftermath—arrests, and University discipline.

The inequities are apparent. Police, forced by the sheer numbers of the crowds and their boldness in opposing the officers, made dozens of arrests. According to reports from here and there, a number of "uninvolved" students were arrested, placed on disciplinary probation, suspended, and brought up on charges. If this is true it is unfortunate.

Ralph E. Prusok, associate dean of student affairs, said, "Bystanders are as much involved as actual offenders in something like this because they provide ammunition to drive the crowd on."

In other words, it was declared that there would be no "innocent bystanders," on the streets of Carbondale during those four days, and anyone was fair game for the police.

It is hard to defend those who were arrested or punished merely because they were spectators rather than participants. After the first day's demonstrations they were given ample warning.

However, there were a considerable amount of townspeople who were "innocent bystanders," participants by the standard applied to University students, who went along unchallenged. Being a student on the street made one a violator of the law. Is that justice?

We feel that those who violated the law by hurling objects, pulling shrunberry, or drinking illegally, deserve punishment. But to punish a student because he is a student is as wrong as punishing a Negro for the color of his skin.

Ed Rapetti

Octogenarian Has Cause For Chasing the Gals

By Arthur Hoppe (San Francisco Chronicle)

My friend, Irving F. Laucks, is in fine fettle at the age of 84, thank you. He's awfully busy, though, chasing the ladies.

What he's chasing them for, I hasten to add, is to enlist them in his cause. It's a simple, sensible cause with a great deal of appeal to many people: Laucks wishes to save the world.

I first met Laucks during the second or third Berlin Crisis, when we were pledging to blow up the world if necessary to defend the sacred symbol of West Berlin. He suggested at the time that for $2 billion or so we could buy West Berlin and move it over into West Germany, where it would be far easier to defend.

Perhaps I should tell you more about him. He's a chunky smiling, energetic gentleman with a sparkling mind and an innate kindness.

'IT'S NICE TO GET AWAY FROM REALITY, ISN'T IT?'

Sanders, Kansas City Star

He used to be a humble chemist. But one day, in the finest Horatio Alger tradition, he discovered a new glue to hold plywood together. In no time he earned the title "The Father of Plywood." Plus the money to go along with it.

Ten years ago, the not unreasonable thought struck him that if men kept building more and bigger thermonuclear bombs, sooner or later they'd blow each other up. And somebody ought to do something about it. So he decided to do his level best to save the world. And he's been doing it ever since.

Today, Laucks lives in a comfortable home in a Santa Barbara suburb with his charming wife and their 10-year-old daughter. Early each morning he drives to his office at the Center for Study of Democratic Institutions, where he puts in a full day writing pamphlets and letters, organizing discussion groups around the world, attending meetings and just plain thinking. Right now, he's thinking about the ladies.

"You know," he says, leaning back in his chair, his sport shirt open at the collar, "in every species the female is different than the male. The male is dominated by the masculine drive for power. That causes all the trouble. But the female needs an atmosphere of hope to raise her children in. Yes, sir, we've got to get the women to work for peace. They'll have their hearts in it."

So Laucks is now sending out 10,000 pamphlets to women's groups, writing every prominent woman he knows, and trying to enlist the support of India's Mrs. Gandhi in a plan he has for an international commission to settle all disputes. And he's as happy as a lark.

Well, I don't want to get embroiled in a controversy, but I can't help hoping Laucks succeeds in saving the world. I suppose I'm prejudiced because I get a warm feeling whenever I'm around him. It gives me a deep sense of the continuity of the human race to see a man of 84 working that hard to save the world.

Moreover, it warms me to think that if I ever get to 84, there's a chance I'll still think the world's worth saving.

RETURN TO THE WORLD WAR I SYSTEM?

U. S. Patent Office Marks 175th Year

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones (General Features Corp.)

Charlie Corn of Gainesville, Ga., thinks he has an improved chicken-picking machine, and Roelif Stapelfeldt of Cleveland is excited about his electrical circuit capable of selectively and simultaneously oscillating at a plurality of frequencies with no intermodulation. And whatever may be the differences of their educations or talents, both are inventors, and each received a patent last month entitling him to 17 years of exclusive use of his idea.

Last year our Patent Office issued 1,000 patents a week... and turned down many thousands of applications as lacking true novelty or usefulness.

JENKIN LLOYD JONES

This month the Patent Office completes the celebration of its 175th year. It was the first national patent office in the world. Although it was for many years housed in a third-rate Washington hotel under strict injunction to pay its own way or cut its staff, it is probably more responsible than any other single government agency for the comfort and convenience of American living.

Whether America's first patent grantee, Samuel Hopkins of Pittsford, Vermont, made anything out of his "apparatus for the making of Pot ash and Pearl ash" is not known, and certainly many ideas were still-born.

Disgusted at the difficulty of prying a keel boat off sandbars Abraham Lincoln in 1849 patented a "device for buoying vessels over shoals." This consisted of collapsible bellows beneath the waterline which could be pumped up to reduce a vessel's draft. Lincoln apparently forgot to ask himself what would happen to such fragile things as a boat bumped down a shallow river, but today we raise sunken ships by placing flooded caissons beneath the hull and then pumping them out. So Abe's idea was sound even if the application was nutty.

America's first great invention was, in a sense, a sad one. It was Eli Whitney's cotton gin of 1794. Slavery was a slowly dying American institution until the gin suddenly made it profitable to raise short-staple upland cotton all over the American South.

The pace of science and invention is not, it is true, a sure index of human happiness. We often grow weary of the roar, and many flee on their vacations to the banana republics where the ox-cart still creaks around the plaza. But most of the blessings of an uninventive society are illusory. The tragedy of India is the stubborn allegiance to the stick plow. And what is foreign aid but the effort to spread the blessings of our inventors?

But the genius of the patent system lies in the taming of self-interest for the good of all without blowing out the fire that heats the boiler of discovery. A man may profit from his inspiration. But he may not profit forever. Therefore, he must give it to the world quickly, and if he wants new profits he must labor for new improvements.

Soviet Russia offers no reciprocal patent rights and is the world's No. 1 stealer of patented ideas. But even Russia has had to offer special inducements to its own scientists and mechanics to keep the art of invention alive within its borders.

The U.S. Patent Office represents the true essence of government — the art of guaranteeing a wide distribution of the harvest without neglecting the encouragement of the sowers.

MEASURES BREAKING STRENGTH—Mrs. Marilyn H. Enright, a graduate student in clothing and textiles, examines a Scott Tester in the new textiles research laboratory. It is used to determine the breaking strength of a fabric.

Opened in May

Testing of Fabrics Is Purpose Of Home Economics Laboratory

A new textile testing laboratory to measure such things as the breaking strength of fabric, to test insect damage and to test wrinkle-resistance is in operation in the Home Economics Building.

The laboratory also has equipment to test such things as the results of permanent press wash-and-wear shirts laundered "home style," in a commercial laundry, or dry-cleaned.

It also is equipped to run tests on other kinds of fabrics, such as carpeting or upholstery materials, as well as all kinds of cottons, woolens and synthetic blends.

Students and technicians working in the laboratory also test such things as a material's ability to withstand heat. This is done by using the same setting on an iron for an equal amount of time on different fibers. The laboratory contains a Weather-Ometer, which is used to measure fading and weathering in fabrics.

Rose Padgett, chairman of the Department of Clothing and Textiles, said the laboratory was opened for the first time early in May when the University's laundry sponsored a laundry and drycleaning conference in cooperation with the American Institute of Laundering.

Speakers at the conference were Miss Padgett, who discussed "Recent Fabric Care Research," and Ann Sterling, director of consumer education for the institute, who gave an illustrated lecture on "Current Fabrics and Basic Buying Types."

High School Music 'Camp' Set for July 10-23 at SIU

The annual two-week Music and Youth at Southern music camp will be held here July 10-23 for high school musicians, including graduating eighth graders, according to Melvin Siener, assistant professor of music, who will direct the camp.

Instruction by specialists in music education will be offered in band, chorus, orchestra, piano, stage band, music theory, music appreciation and the science of music, plus two private lessons. Tuition is $69, including room and board with the exception of Sunday evening meals.

For the second time, a three-week camp for selected high school students will provide an opportunity for those chosen by auditions to participate in the Summer Music Theater and to take part in the production of the Broadway musical, "Annie, Get Your Gun," to be staged July 29 and 30 in Shryock Auditorium.

Students may commute to the two-week band camp, but Siener said those who attend the three-week production camp must remain on campus.

"Last year we offered for the first time a full Broadway musical — 'Flower Drum Song'—in cooperation with the Summer Music Theater for the students in the production camp," Siener said. "It met with such great success that we have decided to offer this program for high school students each summer."

Auditions for the three-week camp are over and enrollment is closed, Siener said, but students may still sign up for the regular two-week camp.

There is only One Purist®

...conceived by Sero
...made only by Sero

We are flattered that competition is making their version of the Purist. To be copied is to be honored. But like a great painting, there is only one original. And so it is with the Purist button-down by Sero.

The Purist is exclusively Sero. If it isn't a Sero, it isn't the Purist.

There are many Purist imitations on the market. Many manufacturers, in fact, are referring verbally to their shirt as the Purist.

The Purist is the registered trademark of Sero — and only Sero. There is no other. It was designed exclusively by Sero to offer the ultimate in shirt styling to the wearer of traditional clothing.

What makes the Purist more traditional than the others? The focal point is the collar. It is longer . . . the cape is fuller and the spread is wider for a more casual roll . . . the band is higher to show more shirt . . . and there is no button on the back.

No fads . . . no loops . . . no trivia . . . the Purist is purely traditional.

Every intricate detail in quality shirtmanship goes into the making of the Purist. Nothing has been overlooked. The finest fabrics . . . exclusive patterns . . . proportionate tapering . . . the seven-button front . . . single needle stitching . . . box pleating . . . these form the basic anatomy of the Purist button-down.

The Purist stands alone in the traditional field. Copy as they may, there is only one Purist . . . conceived by Sero . . . made only by Sero.

Former Museum Curator

Lawrence Alloway To Join SIU Staff

Lawrence Alloway, former curator of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York, will come to SIU in the fall to spend a year in the artist-in-residence program as a writer.

Alloway was involved in a controversy over the selection of art works to be presented at the current Venice Biennale before he resigned his post, which is one of the top museum jobs in the country. Alloway's resignation was expected in the art world since last February when he was overruled by museum director Thomas Messer in some of the selections he had made for the Venice Biennale, one of the most important of the international art exhibitions.

The controversy between the two caused a government agency to hand the selection duties over to Henry Geldzahler of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The agency had originally commissioned the Guggenheim museum to make the selection to represent the U.S. at the exhibition.

Despite the controversy Messer complimented Alloway with the statement, "Mr. Alloway is an acute observer of contemporary art. I admire his capacities. He has made important contributions to the museum."

Alloway, 39, had been curator at the Guggenheim since 1962. He is a native of London and studied at London University. He was an art critic for a number of magazines and was deputy director of Contemporary Arts in London. In 1961 he taught art history at Bennington College.

Alloway is credited with being one of the coiners of the term "pop art." John Canaday, art critic of the New York Times, has called him a "young man who feels that he is behind the times if he is no more than abreast of the moment."

After completing two more exhibitions at the museum, Alloway and his wife Sylvia Sleight, a painter, will come to Carbondale.

Simon Moves To New Office on S. Wall Street

The office of Ernest J. Simon, dean of the Division of Technical and Adult Education, has been moved to 908 S. Wall St.

The new quarters are part of a converted private apartment complex. Adult Education and Manpower Development and Training staffs, temporarily remaining in the former building at 403 W. Mill St., will occupy other portions of the Wall Street building within the next few weeks, Simon said.

The move was necessary because the staff, which handles adult education programs in communities throughout the southern part of the state and training programs for unemployed persons under federal contracts in addition to the 1,500-student VTI, had outgrown the converted six-room residence on Mill Street.

In addition to Dean Simon and his secretarial staff, Assistant Dean Marvin P. Hill went to the new Wall Street office in the move Monday. Telephone number at the office will remain 453-2201.

'110 in the Shade' Will Open July 1

Susie Webb of Carbondale has been cast as Lizzie Curry, and Robert Guy of Chicago as Starbuck, the rainmaker, in the SIU Summer Music Theater Stock Company's first production, "110 in The Shade," which will run July 1 to 3 and 8 to 10.

The musical is based on the novel "The Rainmaker" by L. Richard Nash. The story is about a small western community which is experiencing one of the worst droughts in its history.

The people have almost given up hope that they will ever receive any relief, when a young "con man" who boasts of how he can make rain comes to town.

The first two shows of the summer will be produced in Muckelroy Auditorium. They will be presented as "theater in the round." The Summer Music Theater is using this production technique for the first time this season.

Tickets for the production may be obtained at the Activities Office at the University Center or by mailing a check to SIU Musical Productions. All seats are $1.25 and are reserved.

Also on the Summer Music Theater schedule this year are productions of "Once Upon a Mattress," the show in which Carol Burnett first gained theatrical fame; "Annie Get Your Gun," the Irving Berlin musical which starred Ethel Merman; and "Brigadoon."

"Once Upon a Mattress" will be presented July 22, 23, 24 and Aug. 5, 6 and 7.

"Annie Get Your Gun" featuring an all-high school student cast will be presented July 29 and 30. And "Brigadoon" is scheduled for Aug. 19 and 20 and 26 and 27.

WILLIAM TAYLOR

Other members of the cast include Mike Craig of Homewood, Jere Dawe of Marion, Bill McHughes of Carbondale, Jim Fox of St. Louis and Linda Sublett of Homewood.

Musical director for the show is William Taylor, associate professor of music at SIU. Wallace Sterling of Carbondale, a doctoral student in theater, is the stage director. Sets and costumes are by Robert Pevitts of Chicago and Richard Boss of Hill City, Kan.

JAMES BRIGHAM

James Bringham Is Elected President of Advisory Council

James Bringham, president of Diagraph-Bradley has been elected president of the School of Business Advisory Council. He takes office July 1.

His firm, situated in the Ordill area between Carbondale and Marion, is a nationally known manufacturer of stencil machine equipment. It employs about 500 persons.

The School of Business Advisory Council was created last fall by Dean Robert E. Hill. The members of the council are elected and come from industry, professional, alumni groups.

Two new members also were elected to the council. They are Richard Drebus, vice president for planning, Mead Johnson and Co., Evansville, Ind., and John L. Carron, commander of the Tri-cities Regional Port District, Granite City.

The council serves as a sounding board for obtaining viewpoints of business executives concerning academic and other programs offered by the School of Business. It also provides assistance, when possible, to members of the faculty and the student body in research.

It assists the Dean of business faculty in obtaining lecturers and specialists for student group programs and similar activities.

Mormons Set Open House For Friday

The chapel, on Rendleman Lane just north of Lewis School, will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday and from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

John O. Anderson, executive director of the Communication Media Services Division at SIU, is president of the Carbondale branch.

After the open house, the South Illinois District will meet for a quarterly conference at the Carbondale chapel. The program, which begins at 7 p.m. Saturday, will stress family importance.

General sessions of the conference will begin at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Ronald G. Hansen, coordinator of research and projects at SIU, is president of the South Illinois District.

Any Help to You?

Academic 'Oldster' May Need a Guide

By Ed Rapetti

Many of the older generation are back on campus studying for advanced degrees, participating in workshops, "and picking up where they left off." Extended absence from the college atmosphere sometimes causes a loss of perspective for the academic senior citizens who are finding themselves once more in students roles.

In order to help evaluate the status of those who are trying to get back in the swing of things we thought it might be nice to give a few guidelines. A sort of psycho-geriatric guide.

You know your're old if . . . Your idea of a wild time is to go to a discotheque party featuring "Rudy Vallee a Go-Go."

Konishi Will Give Paper at Meeting

Frank Konishi, chairman of the Department of Food and Nutrition will give a research paper at the 7th international nutrition congress in Hamburg, Germany Aug. 2-10.

His paper, entitled "Metabolic Response to Chronic Inactivity and Forced Exercise," is scheduled for Aug. 4.

Konishi will also participate in a round-table discussion with scientists from a number of other countries.

Your idea of a hot rod is a stripped-down Pierce-Arrow.

The actors featured in the weekend movies are the same age as you are.

You sew rickrack on the top of your summer dress to hide the decolletage.

You're still taking Lydia Pinkham's tonic.

You wear pince-nez sunglasses to the beach.

If you remember when a one-piece bathing suit meant it covered you from neck to ankles.

On your first movie date the tickets only cost you 25 cents and the double feature was a "Theda Bara" and a "Fatty Arbuckle."

The undergarment you collected on your first party-raid" was longer than your own trousers.

You voted for Warren G. Harding.

You took your first airplane flight on a FordTri-motor.

You remember when Baby Rosemarie was actually a baby.

You don't have a Selective Service classification any more.

You remember Jack Benny Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra, when they had hair that wasn't bought.

When you first attended college the frat boys were eating goldfish, wearing raccoon coats, and shouting "23-skidoo."

JAMES MASSA

Alumnus Elected To SIU Foundation Directors Board

James Massa, a Collinsville attorney who was graduated from SIU in 1955, has been elected to the Board of Directors of the SIU Foundation.

Massa, who received his bachelor of laws degree from St. Louis University in 1959, has been practicing law in Collinsville since 1961. Before that he taught English at St. Jacob High School.

From 1950 to 1960 he was also claims investigator for the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co.

Former chairman of the Collinsville Committee for Good Government and 1962-63 president of the Columbian Grade School Parent-Teacher Association, he was a member of the board of directors of the Committee for Fluoridation in Collinsville in 1963. That year he was named outstanding young man of the year by the Collinsville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

80 to Participate In Art Workshop

For the first time, SIU will hold a precollege summer art workshop July 10-July 23, Melvin Siener, area services chairman for the School of Fine Arts, has announced.

Approximately 80 high school students, including graduating seniors, have been accepted for the workshop, Siener said. They will receive instruction in design, ceramics, painting and drawing.

Siener will be assisted by Robert Stefl, instructor in art education in University School, in conducting the workshop.

Hanoi Again Kills Peace Hopes

AP News Analysis

A spark of renewed hope for Viet Nam peace talks seems to have flickered out, at least for the immediate future.

Whatever cautious optimism there may have been recently in capitals searching for avenues to negotiations appears to have been smothered by a stonily truculent attitude in North Viet Nam.

That could change. But the tone of Hanoi propaganda—echoing the Chinese—shows the Communists profess to believe that the American will to fight is weakening. Such a belief, if genuine, would militate against concessions necessary to make peace talks possible.

A spate of peace approach rumors followed reports of Canadian and French missions to Hanoi. If such missions were bent on disclosing an avenue to the conference table, they apparently found a dead-end street. Hanoi seems more than ever solidly behind the Red Chinese line, as if its Politburo were firmly controlled by a Peking wing.

The North Vietnamese party has taken up a propaganda line described by a Yugoslav Communist newspaper as "a vocabulary identical to that used by Peking." This would signify a frozen position on peace approaches, since China seems more intent on proving the United States a paper tiger than on easing the threat of general Asian war.

Statements from Peking and Hanoi suggest a Communist conviction that the Communist side has good prospects in view of Saigon's political situation and antiwar manifestations in the United States.

Peking's People's Daily said this week the dispatch of more U.S. reinforcements, "contrary to being a sign of strength, only shows that it—the Johnson administration's—weakening position there has compelled it to raise the stakes in an attempt to avert a fiasco."

For a brief time there were signs of hesitant optimism in non-Communist capitals, possibly occasioned by trips to Hanoi by a Canadian envoy and an unofficial French expert on Viet Nam, and possibly bolstered by U.N. Secretary General U Thant's assurance that he intended to continue exploring for a diplomatic path to peace.

From all available evidence, the Canadian mission failed utterly, although the Canadians are likely to try again if there is any sign of change in the atmosphere.

Rockford Man Held In Assault

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Arrestment of a paroled murderer on charges of kidnaping and beating a Rockford mother was set for this morning.

Acting on an alert woman's tip, police arrested Sanford Norman Harris, 43, of Rockford Tuesday night in connection with a mysterious assault of Mrs. Charlene Kay O'Brien, 27, mother of three children.

He was held in the Winnebago County Jail without bond. Harris, who has been working in an automobile assembly plant in Belvidere, was charged with aggravated kidnaping.

William Nash, Winnebago County state's attorney, issued a public appeal to any citizen to come forward with information about any aspect of the attack on Mrs. O'Brien. "All we have so far is second and third hand information," Nash said.

An off-duty patrolman, one of hundreds of volunteer searchers, found Mrs. O'Brien, nearly nude, in a farm field Monday. She had been missing since Saturday.

Mrs. O'Brien was reported in fair condition.

Shipping Strike Crisis Reported

LONDON (AP)—Britain's 38-day maritime strike has brought the country to a state of national crisis, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told Parliament Wednesday.

Wilson was explaining the government's use of emergency powers in 12 major ports to relieve congestion and keep exports moving.

The prime minister brought to the House a proclamation renewing the emergency powers for another month. These are granted by Parliament on a monthly basis. The first month expired at midnight tonight.

Mrs. Barbara Castle, minister of transport, established committees in the ports with authority to act for her in measures designed to cut red tape.

One example of the powers would be for the port committee to direct ships to other ports more able to receive them regardless of the shipping orders. This would prevent further clogging in some of the ports and enable arriving vessels to unload their essential cargo elsewhere.

Sign Agreement Next Week

DeGaulle, Brezhnev Reach New Franco-Soviet Alliance

MOSCOW (AP)—President Charles De Gaulle of France spoke of "the new alliance between Russia and France" and said it "can be sealed" Wednesday for the goal of culture, science and progress.

In talks with Leonid I. Brezhnev, head of the Soviet Communist party, De Gaulle found general agreement on Viet Nam, French sources reported.

The Soviet viewpoint often expressed publicly by Brezhnev is that the United States is committing barbaric aggression in Viet Nam. De Gaulle, while less forceful in public statements, has opposed American policy there in general.

The two leaders and other officials met in a gilded old czarist hall of the Kremlin for their second formal discussions since De Gaulle arrived Monday to seek what he called "new relations" with Communist East Europe.

De Gaulle on Thursday begins a six-day visit to four Soviet cities and possibly also a stop at a rocket-launching site.

He and Brezhnev agreed in their talks on the signing next week of agreements for cooperation in space research and other technical fields.

During the last two days in Moscow before De Gaulle flies back to Paris July 1, there will be another formal discussion. The original program called for only a brief meeting to approve a commu-

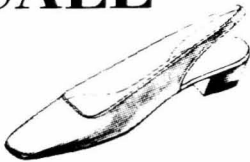

The change suggested that De Gaulle's efforts in Tuesday's talks to introduce new political ideas on Europe required further Soviet study. De Gaulle has been trying to break the East-West deadlock over European security and to start some movement toward a German settlement.

French informants said that when De Gaulle talked of easing European tensions, the Russians talked about security. When the Russians suggested an all-European conference on security, the French talked about earlier steps being necessary.

This reported divergence in approaches left the prospects for any significant political results from De Gaulle's visit uncertain.

GI's, Reds Battle In Viet Highlands

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—American troops battled tenaciously Wednesday night to root a strong Communist force—perhaps a full regiment—from its foot-hold on the coastal flank of the central highlands. They reported they have killed 265 and captured 10 of the enemy since Monday.

Units of the 101st Airborne and 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Divisions pressed the fight 15 miles north of Tuy Hoa to curb any Communist plans for a strike across the highlands to cut South Viet Nam in two. The sweep, called Operation Nathan Hale, is one of seven American ground actions that a spokesman said has accounted for 1,212 Communists killed and 182 captured in recent weeks.

U. S. commanders are guardedly confident that the tide of war is running in favor of the allies. They feel the allied forces can smash a Communist monsoon offensive if the Red high command gets around to launching one in the current rainy season.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government pressed its mopup of Buddhist dissidents. Two companies of troops—about 300 men—were dispatched to Quang Tri, capital of the northernmost province, and others moved into Qui Nhon, a coastal base 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

Barriers were temporarily lifted around the Buddhist Institute compound in Saigon and, among 203 persons who chose to leave, troops arrested several truckloads of draft-age youths for army duty. A threat of fresh Buddhist fire suicides within the compound did not materialize.

Divisions remained evident in the Buddhist hierarchy's leadership. Militant Thich Tri Quang, under arrest in a Saigon hospital, fasted for the 15th day and insisted Ky's government must resign "or the nation will collapse." The moderate chairman of the Buddhist Institute, Thich Tam Chau, sought peace with his subordinates. He said he will consult the institute's council on future decisions.

Reds Say Nuclear Pact Has No Preconditions

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government said today it is not insistent on the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam as a precondition for an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons ownership.

The newspaper Izvestia, which for the government, denied that an American troop withdrawal had ever been made a precondition for agreement.

'ROBBING, BOY-WONDER, YOU'RE STEALING ALL MY SCENES!'

Dick Tracy Gadgets Urged for Police

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's expert on modern anticrime gadgetry called Tuesday for a massive scientific effort against crime.

Arnold Sagalyn, director of the Treasury Department's Office of Law Enforcement Coordination, suggested an array of Space Age devices to "prevent many crimes by either removing the opportunity or making the crime so difficult and the risk so great that the would-be criminal is discouraged and deterred."

Sagalyn's proposal came on the first day of a first-of-its-kind "national symposium on science and criminal justice."

Navy Pilot Downs Red Jet Despite Damage, Low Fuel

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A daring Navy pilot, with his jet's tail punctured by ground fire and his fuel tanks almost empty, brought down a Communist MIG17 Tuesday with a last-minute missile shot.

The pilot challenged the MIG 65 miles northeast of Hanoi when every moment of combat shaved his already razor-thin chance to get back to safety.

Initial reports did not give the flier's name.

Saigon headquarters radioed the aircraft carrier Hancock to send down the name and details that will certainly earn him a decoration. Security wraps were kept on the incident until Wednesday because search and rescue operations were underway for other airmen.

The Navy pilot bagged his MIG during a battle at less than 4,000 feet altitude, practically within sight of the missile-guarded Red port of Haiphong.

The day's action cost the Navy one jet downed by ground fire and another by the darting MIGs. The Navy score was one MIG blasted out of the sky and another blazing and probably down.

When the MIG-killing Navy flier managed to reach an airborne tanker on his way home, a spokesman said, he had only six minutes of fuel left in his tanks.

Summer Baseball Action

New Faces to Be In Saluki Lineup

By Mike Schwebel

Summer baseball action, already underway with ambitious Coach Joe Lutz at the helm, will find a lot of new faces in the lineup for Southern.

Only two regular season

players, Don Kirkland and Butch Evans, will play in Midwest College Summer League.

Kirkland, a sophomore righthander, was the ace of the Saluki staff this spring. Evans handled both catching and outfield duties and swung one of the more potent Saluki bats.

Lutz will have a lot of players moving up from the freshman team, and is especially high on three hurlers. Bob Weber, Bob Ash and Lee Pitlock are all regarded as potential starters for next year, and should see a lot of action this summer.

Lutz figures the summer league, made up of Southern, St. Louis University and Parsons College, will go "right down to the wire."

"Both St. Louis and Parsons should be loaded," says Lutz, who coached Parsons to the summer league crown last season.

Although the Salukis aren't scheduled to begin league play until the first of July, Lutz has games scheduled with several area league teams.

Southern was pitted against the West Frankfort American Legion team Wednesday.

On Friday and Saturday, Southern will take on the Carbondale Coal Belt League nine at the SIU diamond in two single contests.

The Friday game is set for 6 p.m. with a 2 p.m. game slated for Saturday.

Harrisburg will be the last area foe before Southern opens a five-game home stand against Parsons beginning July 1.

Lutz is still recruiting for

DON KIRKLAND—A fireballing righthander from Booneville, Ind., Kirkland emerged with seven victories against two losses in regular season play for the Salukis. Recording 91 strikeouts in 77 innings, he bolstered a strong pitching staff that was vital for a 27-17 season mark.

next season, and reports his progress as "very good."

"We'll be able to have an A-No. 1 team next spring," he says.

Merger of Police Problems Outlined

The greatest benefit the University would realize from a merger would be immediate and direct contact between the University and the student whenever a student is involved with the law, he said.

Many of the recommendations of the report have been carried out in the Carbondale Police Department. For example, the number of patrolmen has been increased to 16 as opposed to 8 at the time of the survey.

The previous 48-hour work week has been reduced to a 40-hour, 5-day week.

All cars are now fully equipped with electronic sirens and lock-mounted shotguns.

As the issue now stands, apparently no serious consideration has been given to either the proposed merger of the two police forces, or to a central communications center.

Intramural Summer Softball, Weightlifting Programs Set

Intramural programs for weight lifting and softball have been announced for the summer.

The weight lifting room, in McCAndrew Stadium Room 103, will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. All students may participate in the program.

Softball team managers are asked to meet at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, in Room 128 of the Arena. All teams must be represented by a manager or member of the team.

Several important decisions will be discussed at the meeting, and managers should turn in their team rosters. Team roster sheets may be picked up at the Intramural Office.

Umpires are needed for summer, and a meeting of umpires is set for 4 p.m. Tuesday in Room 128 of the Arena.

Those interested in umpiring for $2.50 a game are asked to leave their names, addresses, and phone numbers at the meeting.

Faculty Fitness Class

To Resume on Friday

The faculty noon-hour program sponsored by the Department of Physical Education For Men will resume at noon Friday.

All interested faculty and staff members are welcome to attend. They will meet in the locker room of the Arena.

Doctors Blame Bryant's Collapse On Stiff Schedule

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Alabama Football Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant underwent an electrocardiogram and other heart tests at View Park Community Hospital Wednesday.

Bryant was rushed to the hospital Monday after he collapsed while speaking at the opening session of a coaches clinic at Pepperdine College here.

Doctors did not say what the results of Wednesday's test were nor did they say when he might be released from the hospital.

Earlier they reported that the 52-year-old coach was suffering from internal bleeding brought on by an exhausting work schedule.

Officials said that he was resting comfortably and that there is no change in his condition.

Veteran Simmons 'Weeded' Out In Cardinals' Youth Movement

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Veteran left-hander Curt Simmons became the latest casualty Wednesday in the St. Louis Cardinals youth movement. He was sold to the Chicago Cubs for the $20,000 waiver price.

Simmons, 37, had a 1-1 rec ord with the Cardinals and an earned run average of 4.59, appearing in only 10 games.

Simmons had been with the Cardinals since 1960 and helped them to the National League pennant in 1964 when he compiled an 18-9 record. He was 9-15 in 1965.

Simmons thus follows Ken Boyer, Bill White and Dick Groat, stalwarts in the 1964 pennant drive who since have been dealt to other clubs. He was unable to break into the starting pitching rotation this season.

Quarter Finalists Seek Golf Laurels In Women's Play

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—Medalist Nan Ryan of Quincy and three former champions advanced to the quarter-finals as expected in the Illinois Women's State Amateur Golf Tourney Wednesday.

The day's most exciting match over the par 75 Pekin Country Club was a 1 up triumph by Mrs. Betsy Kimpel of Urbana over Judy Coker of Peoria on the 19th hole.

Mrs. Kimpel, whose husband is a contender in the current state man's amateur at Danville, belted a great second shot to within three feet of the pin for a winning birdie three on the 19th hole.

Mrs. Ryan easily conquered Lois Woodward of Rockford, 8 and 7, while defending champion Doris Phillips of Belleville and six-time champion Lois Draffe of La Grange each posted 5 and 3 victories.
