Chairmanship Shifts OK'd By Trustees

The chairmanship of two departments on the Carbondale campus will change hands in September.

Charles H. Lange was appointed chairman of the Department of Anthropology, effective Sept. 1, by the Board of Trustees Thursday.

Lange, who received his Ph.D. from the University of New Mexico, has been on the SIU faculty since 1955. He is a full professor. He will replace Philip J. C. Dark, who is taking a year's leave of absence to do research in New Guinea.

The board also approved the change in assignment of Robert E. Mueller, chairman of the Department of Music. He will continue full time as professor of music after Sept. 1 but will not serve as department chairman.

No mention was made in the board report of a replacement.

The board also approved the appointment of Robert H. Mohlenbrock as chairman of the Department of Botany, effective immediately. He has been serving as acting chairman.

Gerald J. T. Runkle was approved as head of the Humanities Division at Edwardsville.

In other action:

Kenneth H. Myers was named professor and head of the Business Division at the Edwardsville campus, replacing John J. Glynn, reassigned to full time teaching.

Nicholas Artemiadis, a native of Turkey and holder of the Ph.D. degree from the University of Paris, will teach mathematics.

Four associate professors and 19 assistant professors also were added to the continuing faculty. Most will start work with the fall quarter and are replacements for faculty members who have resigned.

William Linton Andrews, formerly editor of Leeds Mercury and the Yorkshire Post, in England, will serve as professor of journalism during the spring quarter, 1967.

Lauwerens Kuipers of The Netherlands will serve during the 1966-67 academic year as professor of mathematics. He has taught at the University of Indonesia and the University of Technology at Delft, The Netherlands.

Chester H. Shifflet, formerly with the Atomic Energy Commission and Economics

OPENS TONIGHT—Shown is a scene from "Juno and the Paycock." Sean O'Casey's comedy-drama, which opens a seven-day run tonight in the new Southern Playhouse in the Communications Building. Directed by Archibald McLeod,

Troubles and Rattles

Southern Players' 'Juno' to Open Today; Drama Shows Strength, Weakness of Irish

The Southern Players production of Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock" will open a seven-day run today.

The play, set in a Dublin tenement at "the time of the troubles," shows the strengths and weaknesses of the Irish, whose nation is famed for its love of life.

"Captain" Jack Boyle, played by Michael Flanagan, moans about the "terrible state of chassis" the world is in and does little. His wife Juno, played by Marilyn Stedje, supports the family and reveals the Irish inner strength while her husband (the paycock) rattles on.

Other members of the cast are: Mark Hockenyoas as Johnny Boyle, Annette Foster as Mary Boyle, Connie Wilson as Mrs. Maisie Madigan, Ken Marsick as "Needles" Nugent, Karen Beth Everett as Mrs. Tancred, Bruce Logsdan as Jerry Devine, Al Erickson as Charley Bentham, Ken Mueller as the irregular mobilizer, Jerry O'Malley and Jim McMahon as the first and second irregulars, Ken Freeburn as the coal block vendor, Bill McHughes and John Gedraitis as the furniture removal men, Rita Bereb and Arlene Nieman as two neighbors, and John Callahan and Gary Carlson alternating the roles of sewing machine man and Joxer Daly.

The setting for "Juno and the Paycock" was designed by Darwin Payne, costume design is by Yvonne Westbrook and lighting by Lawrence Bradley. Charles Zoekler is the technical director, Ken Freeburn is the assistant director and Paul Ramirez is stage manager.

"Juno and the Paycock" is the last play of the current Southern Players bill. It will be presented May 13-15 and 19-22 in the new Southern Playhouse in the Communications Building.

The box office for the play will be open weekdays from 10 to 11 a.m. and 3 to 4 p.m. On show nights it will open at 7 p.m. to allow ticket purchases before the 8 p.m. curtain. Tickets are $1.25 a person.

Holders of season coupon books for Southern Players productions may obtain tickets by turning in the front cover of the booklet or by using the "insurance card record" which coupon holders were requested to fill out when they purchased the coupon books.

A capital appropriations budget request for $110,540,800, citing buildings, renovations and equipment in order of need for three campuses, was approved Thursday by the SIU Board of Trustees.

The document was sent to the Illinois State Board of Higher Education for integration in its master plan and submission to the Illinois Legislature in 1967.

Needs were submitted for the Carbondale, Edwardsville and Vocational-Technical Institute campuses, and were based on projected enrollments, the changing mix of the student population which emphasizes upper division undergraduate and graduate student facilities, and the deterioration of 233 temporary buildings still in use.

The matter of enrollments creates the greatest urgency, according to a statement by John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs. The statement accompanied the budget request. He said the proportion of total state enrollments at SIU has constantly increased, from 4.9 per cent in 1957 to 8.3 per cent in 1965.

"While the projection of enrollment is fraught with imponderables and variables the University feels that it is committed to continue to take its current share of the total state enrollment," he said. "On this basis, projected enrollments for 1968 will be 37,000 for the total University. In 1971 the total should exceed 48,000, and in 1974 the enrollment is projected at 54,000."

Rendleman said the physical facilities requested in these budgets will enable the University to accommodate its expected enrollments; make an orderly transition for the required upper division undergraduate and graduate work while the junior college master plan is being achieved; and to correct deficiencies created by a history of enrollment increases and program

Ex-Student Faces Forgery Charge

Peter M. Racz, 22, of Chicago, was arrested by Jackson County authorities Wednesday afternoon and charged with committing forgery, according to Richard E. Richman, Jackson county state's attorney.

The charge arose from a complaint signed by James Caraway, owner of Jim's Sporting Goods in Carbondale, claiming that Racz forged a check in the amount of $72.49 on April 19.

Social Fraternity To Clean Reserve

Tau Kappa Epsilon social fraternity will clean up public areas of Crab Orchard Wildlife Reserve Saturday as its part in the first Tau Kappa Epsilon public service weekend.

The clean-up is the local chapter's contribution to an international Teke program to perform public services for the area in which they are organized.

The local chapter will clean up the recreation area under the supervision of Arch Mehrtz, area director of the Department of Interior.

Racz was released after posting $3,000 bond. No date has been set for grand jury action, Richman said.

Racz was listed as a senior at SIU winter term of this year, but, according to the Registrar's Office records, he was dropped this term for nonpayment of fees.

Jazz Unlimited Adopts Seal; First Concert Set for Today

SIU's Jazz Unlimited Society has adopted an official seal.

The seal is the creation of Bruce Breland, organization adviser and art faculty member, and Richard "Doc" Holladay, Printing Service artist.

Breland said the seal represents the very roots of jazz, with the cricket as the dominant symbol against a replica of a drumhead as it might have been decorated, as was the custom, in the early years of jazz music in New Orleans. The society and SIU are identified in a kind of riverboat gothic type.

Explaining the cricket as a symbol, Breland said that in the beginning of jazz, before recordings, the greatest cornet player in New Orleans was Buddy Bolden, a barber who published a newspaper-gossip sheet on a printing press behind his shop. The publication was called "The Cricket."

Breland added that a romantic concept might embrace the cricket as a tiny contribution from nature to rhythm and music.

The Jazz Unlimited Society was organized about a year ago to promote jazz music on the campus for both fans and musicians.

The organization's first concert is scheduled at 8 p.m. today in Shryock Auditorium. Performers include the Omar Akim Delhi Ensemble, jazz interpretive dancers Toni Antoine and Melvin Taylor, and the Sonny Stenson Quartet of Peoria as the featured group.

Tickets may be purchased for $1 each at the information desk in the University Center or for $1.25 at the door.

Reception for Millman Scheduled for Saturday

The day of the reception for David M. Millman, sculptor, was incorrectly given as Friday in Thursday's Daily Egyptian.

The reception will be from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday in the Gallery Lounge of the University Center.

Today's Weather

Students and Faculty Welcome

It's Time to Turn Rebellion Into Forceful Government

A few congratulatory remarks are appropriate to welcome this year's crop of student officers who were elected Tuesday.

Congratulations are also in order for the 4,000-plus student voter turnout. It's hard to believe that just a year ago we couldn't even find more than one candidate to run for student body president. The fact that we had three men on the ballot is a victory over apathy in itself.

Now the ball is passed, on to Bob Drinan and company. It will remain to be seen if Drinan will put in as much time and energy into developing student government as he did in his campaign.

The present student government did a good job, under the circumstances, and if nothing else, it succeeded in getting students off their haunches to take an interest in what's going on around them.

Probably the best thing that has come about is the forma-

Fur Bearers Going Back To Homeland

LIMA, Peru—Like the swallows to Capistrano, the chinchillas are returning to their homeland in the Peruvian Andes.

The chinchilla long has yielded one of the most highly valued furs on the international market. Native of the Andes of Peru, Bolivia, and Chile, the small squirrel-sized rodent was threatened with extinction during the first part of the century by unscrupulous trappers.

A mining engineer from Palo Alto, Calif., recognized the plight of the chinchilla and carried six pairs of the animals home with him to experiment with breeding them in captivity. That was 43 years ago.

Today, descendants of the original 12 chinchillas are found on highly successful chinchilla farms in California, Colorado and Minnesota, as well as outside the United States. Economical to raise, the chinchilla yields a pelt valued up to $25.

Despite Peruvian laws prohibiting trapping, the chinchilla has not yet reemerged in its natural Andean habitat. It will likely take the campaign of 40 businessmen, called "Operation Return," to do the job.

The first shipment of 200 chinchillas under Operation Return (30 males, 170 females) arrived in Lima recently aboard Panagra's inaugural direct flight between San Francisco and Lima. They were purchased from Mathius Chapman Jr., son of the mining engineer who founded the U.S. chinchilla industry.

They have hired a professional chinchilla expert from South Africa.

If all goes well, they estimate that their stock will reach 100,000 in six years.

tion of two parties, neither of which can be said to be pro-Greek or anti-TP, etc. Even though the Action Party gained eight seats on the Senate to the Dynamic party's four, the Dynamic party hopefully will remain intact and become a second force on the campus. Also, with an unaffiliated president and vice president, there will be a fairly good balance if not a cross-section in student government.

Actually, this is the time to forget party affiliations until the next election. Inter-party bickering in the new govern-

More Facilities Are Needed For Those Who Sun, Swim

Soaking up the sun's rays has become the popular sport at SIU again this spring, now that the rainy season is apparently over.

Numerous students are spending leisurely afternoons sunbathing and then marveling at one another's beet red skin which will soon become tan.

But instead of sunbathing on a sandy beach, many of the sun lovers have spent their afternoons on lawns behind dormitories.

Why? Because the Lake-on-the-Campus is overcrowded and the formerly popular beaches at Crab Orchard Lake are now charging admittance fees of $1 a day or $7 a season, and the students have nowhere else to go.

WSIU Will Play Tunes You Like

To the editor: Loud has been the cry of the Southern student, "We need a campus radio station." To this I must agree as an essential need.

Unfortunately, for reasons never publicly disclosed, such a station has been temporarily denied us. Alas, KKOK will be tolerated—along with that infernal staccato interference so often heard—for another year. We'll just have to make good with what we have.

But wait, there is a new campus sound that seems to fit everyone's need. Turn on your FM sets to WSIU at 11 every evening for "Moonlight Serenade"—music for reflection, music for relaxation, and perhaps music for romance.

You say you're not fond of classical music? Neither am I! My Monday evening show consists of Johnnie Mathis, Barbra Streisand, Andy Williams, Percy Faith, Tony Bennett and other current popular artists you like. Last Monday I played "Michelle" by Paul McCartney.

Here is the crux of my problem. Being a student and anxious to serve the students, I would like to know what you would like to hear. Frequently, I hear from area residents, but rarely do students take time to write.

So long as it is fitting to the program, your song will be played. Any correspondence can be sent to me in care of WSIU Radio.

ment will throw it backward. The gains that have been made in the past few years will either be increased or stultified with a new administration that either doesn't care to or is incapable of making student government a meaningful part of student activities.

We'd like to see the Drinan Rebellion turned into a constructive, forceful program of student government so that it means a heck of a lot more than just a fancy campaign slogan.

Ed Rapetti

With more than 17,000 students to accommodate, the Lake-on-the-Campus surely needs to be expanded.

The Carbondale climate provides sunny weather for at least half of spring quarter and a high percentage of students would use campus facilities if they were available.

At present, the hours for the beach are 1 to 7 p.m. every day, weather permitting. The hours are not long enough to accommodate sun lovers and swimmers alike.

For those who like to swim, the University School pool is open only from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, 1 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. These hours, too, need to be extended.

Plans are currently under way to construct a lake to be connected with the Lake-on-the-Campus by a canal, but no plans have been made to construct a beach on the new lake because of "limited funds," according to a spokesman for the University Architect's Office.

But when beach facilities are so sorely needed and when such an opportunity is present, it seems that plans could be worked out to provide another campus beach.

At any rate, the facilities certainly are needed and the University should plan to accommodate the 17,000 plus students which it has enrolled.

Stack Those Bottles, Students Or Spillway Will Be Closed

To the editor: Attention fun-loving, sun-worshipping students of SIU. As you know, many students have been taking advantage of the fact that the spillway is one of the few places at Crab Orchard where no fee is required. The question is how long this will last.

To anyone who has been to the spillway lately, the answer is "not long."

Whose fault is this? Alas, it is the fun-loving student. Maybe I should say the immature student, the one who leaves broken bottles, beer cans and other debris scattered over the area. Lady Bird would be aghast.

How much effort would it take to keep the area clean and thus keep it free. There doesn't seem to be any logical, mature reason why this can't be accomplished.

Letter to the Editor

Students Must Earn Added Responsibility

To the editor:

As a new faculty member who only recently has crossed the line from graduate student to teacher, I've watched with sympathy the growth of a student rights movement at SIU. Nevertheless, I find myself being driven more and more toward the position that was offered to me not long ago by one of my colleagues, "I'm for student rights everywhere—except here."

The statement was made jokingly, but there is an uncomfortable element of truth behind it. Sunday, at Shryock Auditorium, there was another example of the sort of thing that speaks strongly against giving students at SIU any greater control over University policy, or for that matter, over themselves.

In recent weeks, I have read letters in the Daily Egyptian arguing against forced attendance at convocations. As I understood them, the letters claimed that SIU students are no longer "culturally deprived," and the University is inhuman in treating them as if they were. Given a free choice they would flock to programs that were meaningful, and reject only the dross that the University imposes on them—fine theory, but regrettable untrue.

Sunday, the Department of Music presented the Boston Symphony Chamber Players, a group that combines rare talent and brilliant skill—the sort of things that rarely gets to Southern Illinois. The concert, in fact, was noted in Chicago newspapers as an event worth the 300-mile drive. Realizing their good fortune, the now deprived culture seekers of SIU turned out in droves to the sad tune of three or four hundred.

Now, unless this represented a formal boycott, an attempt to show the University that nothing would be attended until students are granted the integrity of choice (which I don't think it was), it is a sorry performance for 15,000 students. Worse, for students who have never listened to classical music, it may be a tragedy. This was an opportunity to be wooed, a chance to hear music played as it can be in only a few places in the world—a chance that now has passed.

A university stands for certain things. It is not just a trade school where one comes to learn how to do a job. Along with teaching skills, it is engaged in the education of the human heart—the ability to feel and the development of honest feelings.

Until students at SIU begin to show some interest in the whole University, rather than in the small part in which they learn to sell insurance or teach English or whatever else, the question of student rights remains a joke. Enforced convocations and similar restrictions depend on the assumption that the SIU student body is a gang of little no-neck monsters.

Unfortunately, the lack of interest in things like the Boston players suggests that the assumption is correct.

Today's Quote

An acquaintance of ours who is the director of a small-town library upstate added to his stacks, not long ago, a book called "The Secret of Cooking for Dogs." The volume had to be retired after its very first loan, he reports, because it had been chewed into unreadability.—New Yorker.

I Have a Concern...

By Morris L. Ernst

On April 25 two dramatic events occurred in our republic.

A meteor was reported in the skies. It was reported ad nauseam as if our planet had never seen a meteor before.

Nonsense. The study of meteors started in 1833. In a year 200,000 meteors were noted in North America alone. From January to July for the whole night an hourly average is at least six or seven meteors. Telescopic meteors enter the earth's atmosphere at the rate of one hundred million per day. A meteor is a casual phenomenon to be reported but not with hysteria.

The other meteoric event of April 25 is of historical importance but unmentioned by our mass media, even though our bored reporters saw it, heard it, but were so biased or historically uninformed as not to recognize its significance.

For decades we have had a game called a press conference. High officials had been seduced into this fraudulent spectacle. The Presidential press conference is an indignity enjoyed as a bit of artistry by Roosevelt and Kennedy, but suffered by Truman and endured by Eisenhower.

Johnson has properly appraised the fraudulent elements of the press conference. He senses that it is a dishonorable national game.

Everyone knows, except for rare occasions, that no question is asked in order to get knowledge. Answers have all been made available by the press secretaries to the official used as a goat. The planting of questions by the goat-president, governor, mayor or cabinet minister, is taken for granted. The purpose of this vaudeville act is to catch the "goat" off base. Thus at times the public gets a dirty headline in a quest which is not directed toward knowledge.

In England, the House of Commons has a question period. The questions are written in advance and printed the very next day in Hansard, the counterpart of our Congressional Record. The inquirer thus is careful about his query, because, being recorded, his wisdom and good faith can be appraised. In our culture there is no record which permits the evaluation of the inquiring reporter. No wonder our press resents a chief executive who does not encourage the use of the press "game."

Johnson talks to groups of reporters to convey knowledge and not as a stunt for headlines. Thus when he meets reporters even on a stroll on the White House lawn, honorable discourse takes place. Hats off to LBJ. Although his avoidance of the press conference game of "Catch Him Off Base" is resented by those who sell papers, it is approved by sober thoughtful citizens.

And so on April 25 Mayor Lindsay held the first honorable press conference in our culture. Still more spectacular is the fact that the conference was held with scores of representatives of a heretofore disregarded sector of the press—our great weeklies.

These are the 60 informing agencies of New York city that do not cater primarily to orgy and murder to sell papers. They are the only source of knowledge for a million citizens who want to be informed about local problems.

The weeklies are coming into their own, even for advertisers, despite the "silent treatment" given them by all our city wide mass media on April 26. The questions presented to our mayor were sober and answered by the mayor or his cabinet. The mayor should not know the answers to every local question.

When I helped prepare for President Eisenhower a press conference with questions in advance, leaders of our press promptly rushed to Washington to avoid such an honorable conference. They need a "game" to sell papers.

In fact, one of the early questions presented to Ike was "why not give our surplus butter to India?" Any president who knew the answer is probably unfit to hold the office. The answer was known to the secretary of agriculture—"do you want to destroy the economy of Denmark whose main export is butter to India?"

Lindsay's press meteor went unnoted in the remaining daily press of our city. But watch its growth. The weeklies will build and grow from April 25, 1966. It is not impossible that our few remaining dailies may be forced to follow this First Amendment press conference meteor of April 25, 1966.

The Villager can be justly proud. It was one of the leaders in this revolution in the flow of knowledge from executive to citizens. Many reporters who have a high skill in getting heat instead of light, will have to learn new techniques, in fact, new ideals for a free press in an open society.

It is high time the 60 weeklies in our city organize to accept these novel and exciting logistics for the spread of news.

The meteor in the sky of April 25 will not be a public concern even next week, but the thoughtful press conference for weeklies has started on a path of light enduring for years after the tail of the heavenly meteor has faded away.

I congratulate the sobriety of the weekly editors who handed in more than 40 questions in writing to the mayor before he approached the podium in that beautiful chamber at our historic city hall.

Thus at long last will our people be informed of problems they can comprehend. Thus, government may become meaningful to our citizens. Thus we will once more witness the involvement of people in their government, no longer limited by the glibness encouraged by the citywide media dealing of necessity with mammoth problems, understood by only a few experts.

Briton's Observation

Women Rule U.S. Society

NEW YORK (AP) — British psychiatrist Dr. Joshua Bierer said that after a first-hand look he is more convinced than ever that women rule the United States.

"But I was wrong in saying that women had taken over," he said. "What has happened is that American men have turned over everything to their wives. This is the greatest handover in history."

Before he left London April 17 for a lecture tour of the United States, Dr. Bierer said he believed prosperity and women are the root of most Americans' troubles.

His statements were hooted down by spokesmen of the feminine and masculine views. After three weeks of observations from Phoenix, Ariz., to New Orleans, La., to New York he said:

"What I expressed was an intuition. And it turned out not to be doubly right — it turned out to be right a hundred times over.

"The reaction I've received was the best proof that I was right. I touched a very sore spot in America or no one would have taken any notice."

Dr. Bierer said America "is a very competitive society. You must work hard just to keep up. And the result is tension and insecurity."

"The husband comes home after competing all day and he finds his wife is unhappy. But he doesn't have the time to show love and kindness. Instead, he treats her like a mother," he said.

A boy must have a strong father, he contended, "or he will grow up without an ego—and if he is without an ego he is without a spine."

Dr. Bierer said Americans were "the most worried people in the world." But he has his own worries, too.

"I am worried that society is becoming dehumanized. Everyone is losing his identity. The great danger is that this is spreading to the whole Western world."

Dr. Bierer is in this country to advance his dream—the abolition of mental hospitals. For more than 30 years in Great Britain he has fought for clinical treatment of the mentally ill,

"MAYBE YOU SHOULD TAKE A PEP PILL, DOCTOR"

Nation Should Pay All Major Medical Bills

By Paul Simon

While the program of medical care for the senior citizen fills a need which has long existed in this country, there are additional problems we have not yet completely faced.

Let me give you a practical, tragic example.

Mrs. Martin Smith—and that is not her real name, but the case is real—came to my home yesterday with her problem.

Mrs. Smith is a widow, living on Social Security in a small and very modest home she and her late husband were able to buy over a period of years. She has a small savings account, but no other assets.

A son, about 30 years old, is completing almost a year of treatment from a kidney wife works in a restaurant to maintain herself and her child. They also own a small home.

But $10,000-plus a year is out of the question either for the widow, or her son and his wife.

"If we were only either real rich or real poor there would be no problem," she confesses with sorrow—and she is at least theoretically right. If they had absolutely no assets, the state probably would help. "My son is already deeply depressed. If they take away his home to keep him alive a few more months, I don't know if he can stand it."

To complicate matters further, Mrs. Smith has a daughter who recently returned home from a serious ear operation—bringing home with her over $2,000 in medical and hospital bills.

Somehow this widow and her family should not have to bear this burden alone.

I am not advocating "socialized medicine" as practiced in many free countries, but it does seem that medical assistance for anything in excess of $500 per year for any family unit would be the kind of relatively inexpensive insurance the government ought to be providing everyone.

Perhaps through some foundation or some loophole in a government regulation, Mrs. Smith's problem can be solved. But she should not have to spend these miserable sleepless nights worrying needlessly for the health and safety of her family.

Part of the answer is also more research, by government and private agencies and foundations. In certain categories of illness the field seems saturated with researchers and concerned people. But an area like kidney disease afflicts relatively few, and so the interest is nowhere near as great as it is in the more numerous diseases.

We are a rich nation. We are also a nation with a warm heart.

Somehow those two characteristics must be brought together to reduce at least a little the miseries some people must bear.

PAUL SIMON

machine, financed by a foundation. He is one of 75 in the nation being helped in this way out of about 40,000 who suffer this type of kidney disability. A kidney transplant was unsuccessful.

The son has been notified that the foundation will no longer be able to take care of him. If he is away from his present treatments for anywhere near a month he will be dead. His case is so severe that continuous hospitalization is required. The cost of this medical aid and hospitalization will run well over $10,000 a year.

The son of Mrs. Smith is married and the father of a four-year-old daughter. His Ralph A. Micken, chairman of the Department of Speech, will give a reading of original poetry at 8 p.m. May 20 in the Morris Library Auditorium.

According to Micken most of the verses were written a number of years ago when he was in the Rocky Mountains. The reading will be divided into three parts: "Dead Indian Ledge," "Shall We Say Love," and "Badly Battered Sentimentalist."

1,500 Males to Take Draft Board Exam

The Selective Service college qualification test will be administered to 1,550 male students and prospective students at 8:30 a.m. Saturday in Davis Auditorium in Wham Education Building.

The test, which is taken on a voluntary basis, is intended to help local draft boards determine whether educational deferment from military service may be granted.

Although the time of the test has been announced as 8:30 a.m., Thomas C. Oliver, supervisor of testing, has encouraged students to report earlier.

Student Can Stay,
Despite Troubles

An 18-year-old freshman who is in grade trouble will be permitted to stay in school if he makes a 3.3 grade average this term even though he:

—allegedly took six tennis rackets from the Department of Men's Physical Education.

—damaged a roommate's bowling ball by throwing it out of a window at Allen Hall.

—threw a floor-type ash tray out of an Allen Hall window.

According to Joseph Zaleski, coordinator of Student General Affairs, the student, who is from Freeport, is currently averaging about 2.0.

However, it was decided to let him stay at SIU on disciplinary probation because, Zaleski said, he has exceptionally high ability and the school didn't want to lose him.

If the student does not obtain a 3.3 average he will be suspended.

begin processing candidates by 8 a.m.," he said. This will facilitate starting the test earlier, and thus getting out earlier. The test will take three hours.

Plans call for students to register between 8 and 9 a.m. with the test starting at 9. All students will register at Davis Auditorium, but the test will be given in eight places on campus. Students will be told where they will take the test when they report to Davis Auditorium.

Those taking the test are required to bring the two admission cards mailed to them by Selective Service, and two No. 2 lead pencils.

Jack W. Graham, dean of student affairs, said he has received no word of a change in plans to fingerprint all students who take the examination. "We are still waiting for further information, and will follow whatever instructions we receive," he said.

The fingerprinting of students was planned as a measure to provide positive identification; however, numerous complaints have been received by government officials from persons who object to being fingerprinted. Because of this, according to some newspaper reports, the government may make fingerprinting voluntary, providing the student can show acceptable evidence of identity.

SIU, which has been named one of the nationwide testing centers, will administer the exam to more than 4,000 students at its two campuses. About half of the students will write the exam Saturday and the remainder will take the test May 21 and June 3.

The exam papers are received at SIU in sealed boxes from Science Research Associates in Chicago, and will be returned to the contractor immediately after the examination, for grading and disposition.

China Says Incident Was an 'Act of War'

TOKYO (AP) — Fed China said Friday five U.S. fighter planes had intruded over the China mainland near the North Vietnamese border Thursday and shot down a Chinese plane with guided missiles. The incident, a Chinese spokesman said, was an "act of war provocation."

The Defense Department in Washington said it was checking the report. The plane could be the first Chinese Communist aircraft shot down by the Americans in air battle during the Vietnamese war.

Peking's New China News Agency (NCNA) said the planes had fought over an area northeast of Makwan, in Yunnan Province, at 4:17 p.m. local time Thursday. Makwan is about 170 miles northwest of Hanoi. It said the downed plane was on a training flight with other Chinese aircraft.

No American planes were reported shot down. The Chinese broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, said the American aircraft, had fled southwestward when Chinese fighter planes counterattacked.

NCNA quoted a spokesman for the Ministry of National Defense as having said: "This is an extremely grave incident—a deliberate systematic act of war provocation by the Johnson administration."

It added, "The incident took place at a time when the United States is sending massive reinforcements into South Viet Nam and extending its bombing of North Viet Nam."

The clash was believed to be the first air engagement over Yunnan Province, although Peking has claimed American planes have violated its air space over Yunnan.

Makwan is about midway between Hanoi and Kunming, the Yunnan Province capital where the U.S. 14th Air Force — the famous Flying Tigers of Gen. Claire L. Chennault — was based in World War II. Hanoi at that time was a major Japanese base.

Students Protest Government Action Against Student

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — University students throughout South Africa denounced with "abhorrence and disgust" Thursday, government action against a student leader instrumental in arranging a visit Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., next month.

At a rally here, 1,500 students roared approval of a resolution that expressed their "horror and deep distress" at restrictions against Ian Robertson, 21, ordered by the white supremacist government of Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd.

In Durban, students condemned the action as "contemptible, cowardly and contrary to Western democracy."

Similar protest rallies were held at the country's other English language universities in Cape Town and Grahams-town. Johannesburg students planned a mass march through the streets Friday.

Robertson, president of the multiracial National Union of South African Students, was declared a "banned" person by an order issued Wednesday under the suppression of communism law.

Hassle Over New Bomber Erupts Again in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress's row with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara over a big new bomber erupted again Thursday when Rep. Edward Hebert, D-La., released, over Pentagon objections, testimony on the views of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Hebert said the testimony

The row over the bomber started several weeks ago when Hebert released a report of a House Armed Services subcommittee which investigated the Defense Department decision to phase out older B52 and B58 bombers. As a substitute, a lesser number of bomber versions of the F111 would be added to the strategic bombing force.

The report sharply criticized McNamara and implied he ran a one-man show, often ignoring advice from military leaders.

Students Stage 2nd Day Sit-In CHICAGO (AP) — Students held control of the University of Chicago's administration building for the second day in a row Thursday in a protest against use of class rankings in determining draft deferment.

More than 200 of them participated in a sit-in that began at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, and is scheduled to continue until at least 10 a.m. Friday.

Normal business came to a virtual standstill in the six-story building. The youths guarded the doors to keep out all but their sympathizers and newsmen. They stopped elevator service by holding open the doors.

The sitters-in sang to the tinkling tunes of a guitar and a banjo. Some studied. Some talked. Many joined in a series of discussions of what they should do next.

ROBERT S. McNAMARA

did not violate national security and added he had given McNamara a chance to tell him whether it did.

The testimony of Air Force Gen. John P. McConnell was that the joint chiefs supported full-scale development of a new advanced manned strategic aircraft as a replacement for the B52 bomber.

Hebert said he was releasing the testimony to prove the joint chiefs really wanted the plane and because McNamara had refused his "challenge" to release their current views.

Peking Purge Adopts Tone Against Russia

AP News Analysis

A widespread purge in the Chinese Communist party has taken on such strong anti-Soviet overtones that it suggests the Peking leaders want a permanent division of world communism and a separate world revolutionary movement headed by the Chinese.

Peking's condemnations of the Soviet party are rising in violence and vitriol. Some of this seems connected with the situation in Viet Nam. By implication, the Soviets are accused of scheming for some approach to peace there, and Peking appears to want no peace short of total humiliation of the United States.

The anti-Soviet tone of propaganda inside China became more pronounced during the visit of leaders of Albania's Communist party, Peking's small but noisily anti-Moscow ally in Europe.

A persistent theme in the current Chinese pinpointing of enemies within the party concerns those who have been tainted by the notion that "peaceful evolution" to proletarian dictatorship is possible anywhere in the world. Peking theorists insist there can be no change except violent change.

In singling out Teng To, former editor of the People's Daily, the military paper Liberation Army Daily accused him of wanting the Chinese party leadership to "step down as soon as possible."

"Is there any difference between Teng To's antiparty and anti-Socialist clamor and the Khrushchev modern revisionists' slanders and attacks on us?" it asked.

The Albanians, who willingly say whatever the Chinese leaders want them to say, seemed to be pushing the idea that the Soviet-Chinese split was unbridgeable and that the time was near when the separation should be recognized as permanent.

Racial Problem Study Warns Violence Ready to Explode

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study of racial problems in the South warned Thursday night that anger and violence among Southern Negroes is nearer to the surface and nearer to exploding. "The new day is not yet here," it said.

"The miracle of nonretaliation from Negroes cannot be expected to continue. The only hope," the report said, is that "the realization of promises and potential can be speeded." It called on all levels of government to do this.

The report, prepared jointly by the Southern Regional Council and the American Jewish Committee, also criticized newspaper coverage of Southern school integration last fall and described the federal antipoverty program as a failure.

Since the 1964 Civil Rights Act, it said, resentment on the part of both lower- and middle-class Negroes has been building up.

"The first feeble gains, opening the door just wide enough to let those outside look at life inside," it said, "have spurred a greater desire to participate in that life; at the same time frustration with lagging progress tempts the outsiders to destroy it."

Adding to the Negroes' frustrations, the report said, was a general misunderstanding throughout the nation last fall of the South's condition.

Automobile Industry Proposes Power be Restricted by Guides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The automobile industry proposed Thursday that the federal government's power to set auto safety standards be restricted by a series of congressional guidelines.

Any standards Detroit considers improper apparently could be ruled out by one of the proposed requirements: that standards be consistent "with innovation, progressiveness and customary model changes in the automotive industry."

The industry urged also that the House Commerce Committee adopt a procedure that could take as long as 4 1/2 years for any safety standards to take effect. The administration bill calls for a four-year maximum, a period criticized by some congressmen as too long.

Another revision backed by the industry would limit the measure to new cars. The administration bill is aimed at new cars but would permit standards to be applied to used cars in later years.

The industry's proposals were contained in a series of amendments submitted in response to a request by Rep. James A. Mackay, D-Ga., for details to back up general positions taken by the industry before the committee last month.

There's No Poetry Without Fun, Ciardi Tells Convocation Here

by Ed Rapetti

If you met John Ciardi on the street you'd guess he was anything but a poet. The stocky, bespectacled man looks more like somebody's Uncle Jerry from Boston rather than the poetry editor of Saturday Review.

Ciardi's address to the Thursday convocations was as bright and spirited as his poetry and carried the "required" message.

Spicing his talk profusely with chuckle-eliciting remarks, Ciardi chided American public schools for spoiling poetry and literature for young people.

"The human child is born loving poetry. A feeling for rhythm and language is practically inborn, but they lose it somewhere along the line."

Ciardi, who has written many children's poems, said, "Children of first, second and third grade age are a wonderful audience for poetry and are smarter than you (students) are. These children start at one end and at the other end they turn out 'you.'"

Ciardi cited several causes

of this destruction of young people's appreciation of literature and poetry: "Unreal reading lists...stupid mothers... and the idea that poetry is sissified."

"Pleasure is being destroyed by goody-goody. When we read Evangeline in high school I kept hoping something would happen to her. It was terrifyingly dull," he said.

"Kids need lively stuff like 'Catcher in the Rye,' not 'Silas Marner.'" But what happens when a book like "Catcher" is put on a reading list? Three stupid mothers in the community pressure the school into dropping it. It's unfortunate that sacred motherhood is forced to endorse stupid mothers," Ciardi continued.

Ciardi said some of the unrealistic and more emotional poetry and literature should be saved for college when students are more mature and able to appreciate it.

"Teachers are relentless about 'what does it mean?' There is no poetry without fun. Any game invented by man was made difficult on purpose for the fun of it."

As for being worried about poetry being sissified, Ciardi related a question he often gets from young men and his reply: Question: Is it all right for me to read poetry? Am I a sissy? Answer: In a few years you'll get married and find out from your wife that you are, so what difference does it make?

expansions which were not paced by adequate building projects.

A 26-item list of requests for the Carbondale campus includes completion of Morris Library ($2,200,000) and a Humanities and Social Studies Building ($7,700,000). Other structures listed for completion of Stage I are Communications Building, a Center for Advanced Study of the Physical Sciences, General Classroom and Office Building, General Studies Classroom Building, Clinical and Health Center Building, Natural Resources Building, Fine Arts Building and Student Services Building.

An 11-item list for the Edwardsville campus included Stage II of the Communications Building ($4,425,000), a Fine Arts and Humanities Building ($6,900,000), Education Classroom and Office Building ($6,700,000), and a Business Classroom and Office Building ($6,00,000).

The Vocational - Technical Institute Campus was considered needing a General Office and Classroom Building ($2,750,000).

The sum of $1 million was requested to advance plans for the implementation of the removal of the Illinois Central railroad tracks from the Carbondale campus.

Student Community Structure Praised as National Model

"At the Carbondale campus our student community is structured in such a way that it is now a national model in which the National Student Association has expressed interest," John Paul Davis, Carbondale student body vice president, said in a letter praising the record turnout at Tuesday's election.

Davis reminded students that "the particular structure of organized student government here is quite different from that which exists on the vast majority of other major campuses.

"It is a fact that most other universities operate with a student organization (called 'government') which does essentially nothing beyond programming Great Debates, etc., and is only infrequently involved in the institution's decision-making process as it affects students."

He pointed as an example to Michigan State University, "where the student government does little more than the Activities Programming Board at SIU." This board primarily plans campus social events.

The government at MSU lacks the structure to do more and does "essentially nothing in the way of representing student sentiment in the day-to-day decisions rendered by their administrators," said Davis.

"My point, of course, is that we need to be much more appreciative and aware of the representation in University policy circles which Carbondale campus students do, in fact, have by virtue of the campus student government," the vice president continued.

"Nowhere else in the nation, for instance, do students of a university have representation before the City Council of the city wherein their campus is located, directly through channels of their student government," Davis said.

The present structure in student government did not begin to evolve until 1962, according to Davis. "I personally have been enthused and encouraged by developments of the current year which seem to indicate that these earlier efforts are now bearing a healthy fruit."

He pointed to the "firm establishment of two very active political parties, a grass-roots campaign and two record-setting voter turnouts within the same year" as examples of the continuing development and increasing meaning of the student government system at SIU's Carbondale campus.

"Of greatest significance," said Davis, "is a vote by 3,600 students fall quarter and 4,200 in Tuesday's election."

Davis cited the fact that the 4,200 who voted actually represent a far greater share of student society than is normally given credit for in elections.

This is because the 17,400 students who are counted on the Carbondale campus include many thousands who have no need or intent of ever relating to student issues and opinion, he said.

"There are 2,900 commuters, hundreds of whom live more than 15 miles from Tuesday's election turnout, Davis said. The voters should "receive resounding recognition for their collective declaration that student government does have meaning for them, and that they do care enough to voice their choice within it."

With the increased student interest there is great hope for the student government system to become increasingly more significant and effective, he said.

"The foundation to student government, regardless of structure, is the individual student," Davis emphasized. "And the student community can better its own representation in the University only to the extent that increasing numbers of students give the representing organization continuing support and involvement."

Landscape Editor To Speak at SIU

John B. Jackson, editor of Landscape will talk on "The Evolution of an American Landscape: The Midwest" at 8 p.m. Monday in Muckelroy Auditorium in the Agriculture Building.

Jackson's talk will focus on the social implications of the grid layout of the Midwest. His concern has been with their environment and the pattern this adjustment assumes.

JOHN PAUL DAVIS

campus and care less of the issues and opinions which are important to in-town and campus residents," Davis continued.

"Further, most graduate students, and all doctoral students and part-time students (who are included in enrollment figures) should not be expected to relate.

"Consequently, I submit that the actual figure against which our voting turn-outs should be measured is no more than 12,000—at a maximum. Accordingly, our turnout, by percentage, is considerably higher than we normally give credit."

In any case there is every reason to be pleased with

STUDENT PONDERERS ARTISTS' USES OF COLORS

PAPER FISH FROM THE FOUR BASIC COLORS.

How many ways can four primary colors and black and white be arranged? About 150 possibilities were recently on display in the Magnolia Lounge and the Ballroom of the University Center.

Harvey S. Harris, an associate professor in art, and his three assistants, Margaret Gluhman, Vincent DiMaggio and Ronald Tatro, instruct their basic art students to prepare course projects that are "governed by the notion of very narrow limitations."

The resulting exhibit includes mobiles, collages and water colors.

Commenting on the works, Harris said, "I have never been let down by the students and this term I am overwhelmed."

Orchestra, Two Choral Groups Will Do Difficult Bach Mass

"Mass in B Minor" by Johann Sebastian Bach, will be one of the events given by the Department of Festival in the Baroque Festival now in progress.

The "B Minor Mass" will be presented at 8 p.m. May 21 and 22 in Shryock Auditorium by the University Choir and Oratorio Chorus accompanied by the SIU Symphony.

The orchestra that will accompany the two choral groups will be comprised entirely of students. Robert W. Kingsbury, director of choirs, said this is rarely done with students alone because the B Minor Mass is so difficult.

The May 21 event will be the first non-professional concertist performance of the mass in Illinois. The only other time it has been presented was by the Robert Shaw Chorale at Northwestern University in January.

Kingsbury, who has conducted a five-year study into Bach's mass, said, "I feel that the traditional performance has not been quite as Bach intended it." He said Bach used fewer performers than are used today.

Minister to Speak At Club Banquet

The Rev. Leon Appel, minister of the Lincoln (Ill.) First Methodist Church, will speak at the annual Block and Bridle Club banquet May 21.

The dinner, at 6:30 p.m. in the Holiday Inn, will climax the club's activities for the year.

A merit award will be presented to the outstanding SIU animal industries student of the year, and other awards will be presented to winners of showmanship and livestock judging contests.

Education Group Plans Picnic at Giant City

Gamma Beta Phi, national education service fraternity, will sponsor a picnic Sunday at Giant City State Park.

All members and interested groups should be at the University Center at 3 p.m. for transportation.

ROBERT KINGSBURY

Although more performers will be used than intended by Bach, Kingsbury said the music has been scaled in relation to the added number of voices to compensate for it.

"We are using more performers than Bach intended, to allow all of the music majors who want to sing in it to perform," the choir director explained.

Soloists for the concert will be Sharon Huebner, soprano I; Margaret Grauer, soprano II; Judith Sablotny, contralto; Robert Guy, bass I; Tommy Golecke, tenor; and Leslie Breidenthal.

Herbert Levinson has been preparing the accompaniment for the mass with a 35-member symphony.

The "Mass in B Minor" will be one of six events presented in May during the Baroque Festival.

A $1 admission will be charged.

23% of 1965 SIU Graduates Enter Business, Report Says

Nearly one-fourth of SIU's 1965 graduates took jobs in business and industry, according to the annual report of the University Placement Service.

Of the 2,353 graduates who received bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees at the Carbondale campus, 546 or 23 per cent went into business and industry.

Another 23 per cent entered graduate school, 39 per cent took teaching positions, 6 per cent went into military service and 6 per cent did not want employment. Only 2 per cent were unemployed, and only a small fraction were unreported.

Salaries paid to the 1965 graduates with technical training who entered business and industry averaged $7,405, slightly more than in 1964, the report showed.

The non-technically trained graduate going into business and industry received an average of $6,096, a gain of 6 per cent over 1964.

"Due to the fact that many business and industrial firms have a trainee program with a lower salary during the training period, these salaries may not be indicative of the total salary picture," the report said. "In many cases, too, additional benefits in the way of commissions, insurance, expense accounts and other items make a given salary more attractive."

SIU graduates going into business and industry accepted positions in 30 states, 40 counties in Illinois and 10 foreign countries.

"The demand from business and industry was greatest for engineers, marketing trainees, accountants (public and private), chemists and management trainees," the report said.

"Marketing personnel in such allied fields as advertising, insurance, merchandising and sales promotion remains one of the strongest areas."

Thailand Official To Be Honored

Busya Chintana, deputy governor of Surin Province, Thailand, will be the guest of honor at a coffee reception today in the Family Living Lounge of the Home Economics Building.

The reception, which will be sponsored by the Asian Study Committee and the International Services Committee, will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Students and faculty are invited.

CHARLES GUGGENHEIM

Academy Award Winner to Speak

Charles Guggenheim, whose "Nine From Little Rock," filmed partially on SIU campus, was a 1965 Academy Award winner, will speak here Sunday.

The documentary motion picture, which was first in its classification, featured an SIU journalism student, Minnie Jean Brown. Considerable footage was shot in the Daily Egyptian building and at other places on the campus.

Guggenheim, from St. Louis, will speak at 3:30 p.m. in Ballroom B of the University Center under sponsorship of the Department of Printing and Photography and The Photographic Society. He also will present one of his films, "Children Without," which deals with deprived children.

Guggenheim, who has written, directed and produced motion pictures, currently heads Guggenheim Productions, Inc. He has been nominated three times for the Academy Award, and was voted the winner in 1965. He also has received the George Foster Peabody and the Sylvia awards for television, and his films have taken top honors at the Venice, Edinburgh and San Francisco film festivals.

His first feature film, "The Great St. Louis Bank Robber," starred Steve McQueen. His second, "The Fisherman and His Soul," will have its American premiere some time this year.

Baseball Salukis Will Meet Three Weekend Opponents

Outfielders have taken over three of the top four offensive positions for the Salukis who this weekend are scheduled to face three tough opponents—Murray State, Kentucky Wesleyan and St. Louis University. Centerfielder Paul Pavesich, Villa Park, and leftfielder Russ Keene, Sparta, rank one-two among SIU's run-batted-in leaders with 19 and 18, respectively, while rightfielder Rich Collins, Albion, is tied with third-baseman Bob Bernstein for the No. 3 position.

St. Louis University's home grounds Sunday afternoon. The Billikens are expected to provide the toughest competition for the Salukis who have won 21 of 32 games this season, Missouri Valley Conference champion for the past three seasons, St. Louis University currently owns a 20-3 record and is hopeful of duplicating last year's feat of reaching the NCAA College World Series semi-finals. St. Louis' title teams have had difficulty handling Southern in previous years, SIU teams have handed the Billikens double losses each season and currently the Salukis own a 15-game consecutive winning streak against MVC representatives.

They have also accounted for more than one-third of the team's 52 extra-base hits. Pavesich has collected 10 while boosting his average to .286 while Collins, SIU's leading batsman with a .291 mark has three and Keene, a .281 hitter, five. Last weekend the three were credited with nine of Southern's 15 RBIs while earning the same number of hits. At home against Murray State in a single game at 5 p.m. today, the Salukis will play Kentucky Wesleyan starting at 1 p.m. Saturday, SIU will play a double-header on

Ralph Casey Undecided on Coaching Job

Swimming Coach Ralph Casey said he has not decided if he will resign his coaching duties next year.

Donald N. Boydston, director of athletics, cited the SIU mentor's health as one reason why he might want to resign.

Boydston said no official word had been received by the Athletics Department on Casey's resignation, and that such a resignation will have to be approved through administrative channels.

Casey, 50, came to SIU 10 years ago after guiding North Carolina's swimming team for five years.

In 1964 he was honored by the National Swimming Coaches Association for his contributions to the sport.

Casey said that he would like to retain his position on the teaching staff in the Department of Health Education if he retired as swimming coach.

4 Basketball Prep Stars Sign at SIU

Four Illinois high school basketball standouts who received honorable mentions or higher ratings on all-star teams last season have accepted scholarships at SIU.

Coach Jack Hartman said the four youths were on SIU's priority list because their scholastic records were as impressive as their basketball performance.

They are Bruce Butchko of Crete, team captain who averaged 25.5 points a game; Bill Steppe of Dieterich, usually a center but whom SIU may work at guard position.

Also, Rex Barker of Norris City who will get guard duties, and Tom McBride who kept a 21.5-point average and who was national honor society president at Hoopston.

RALPH CASEY

Pistons Draft Salukis' McNeil

George McNeil, the Little All-America guard on Southern's basketball team, has been drafted as the eighth round choice of the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association.

McNeil said he received a telegram from Detroit Wednesday informing him he could try out for the team at the Pistons' training camp.

The 6-2 senior was the iron horse of Coach Jack Hartman's successful teams for the past two years when the Salukis finished second both times in the NCAA college division.

The St. Louis native, who will be short for a professional player, led Southern in scoring during both his junior and senior years averaging about 17 points a game. McNeil hit better than .500 from the field his past two seasons and was even hotter at the line. He was the nation's fifth-best free throw shooter his junior year when he hit 115 of 130 shots although his percentage dropped a little his senior year.

Jenkins Kicked Off Football Team

Al Jenkins, 19, a sophomore from New Orleans, La., has been dropped from the varsity football squad following an incident near Murphysboro last Saturday in which two other football players were also involved.

Coach Ellis Rainsberger said Jenkins' dismissal from the squad was not due to just the one incident last week.

Gus Heath, Isaac Brigham and Jenkins all pleaded innocent to charges of unlawful use of weapons, and were released under bond.

Three men were fined in Jackson County Circuit Court after the dispute with the SIU students in a tavern near Murphysboro.

Aaron Carlisle, 33, and his brother Raymond, 24, both of East St. Louis, pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct and unlawful use of weapons. They were fined $75 plus costs on each charge.

Leroy Johnson Jr., Mt. Carbon, pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct and criminal damage of property.

He was fined $100 plus costs on each charge and ordered to make restitution for a car window damaged in the disputz.

Curtis Lee Jones, Mt. Carbon, pleaded innocent to a charge of disorderly conduct and was released on bond.

Police said a pistol and a shotgun were flourished in the argument when the car window was broken.
