Student wage increases may result in layoffs

By Nick Harder

Wages for student workers will go up Feb. 2, but layoffs may occur in the next few months, according to several department heads and the director of the student work program.

No estimate on the number of student workers that might be laid off could possibly be made, according to Frank C. Adams, director of SIU's student work program. Adams stressed, however, that there is no need for alarm by any student worker who needs the money he gets from working for the University.

"I simply want to state facts rather than rumors about any possible layoffs," said Adams. "First of all, layoffs will have to be made if some departments keep spending money the way they are now. This is in no way a degradation of any department. It's a fact that some departments are simply running out of finances because of increased expenditures, that's all."

Adams said that student workers won't have to be laid off if enough of them apply for the University's federal funding program which has $480,000 earmarked for student salaries.

In brief, the funding program pays the students who work for the University under the stipulations set forth by the federal government. The student will not have to pay back the money. It is only a means of using federal money rather than the hard pressed state funds for student workers' salaries.

The reason for the possible layoffs appears to be twofold. Some disgruntled department heads, who said they did not wish their names mentioned, feel that not enough state funds were budgeted for keeping the student workers on the payrolls the entire academic year.

Other department heads feel that their counterparts in other departments that are running low on funds have run out through either "less than efficient handling of the budget" or increased, unforeseen operational expenses.

Adams said that it is not a matter of departmental mishandling of funds.

"I think it would be unfair to any department to fix any blame on a shortage of funds without a close scrutiny of the accounts," Adams said.

"I'll be the first to admit that we haven't made as good a use of our federal funds as we could have. We want the students to apply for these funds. We urge department personnel supervisors to encourage their student workers to apply for the funds.

"We've got the money. We might as well use it instead of trying to stretch state money that's too low as it is."

Fleerlage grows a mustache but bids to shave it are low

By John Durbin

Carbondale City Attorney George Fleerlage figures if Joe Namath can do it—so can he.

The 37-year-old bachelor, who considers himself a swinger, is growing a Fu Manchu mustache a la the New York Jet Super Bowl hero.

"I figured if Joe Namath got $10,000 to shave his off, I ought to be able to get at least $5 to shave mine off," Fleerlage said jokingly.

Fleerlage, who sports sideburns, says his only reason for growing the special-styled mustache is because "it is fun watching my friends' reactions when they see usually conservative George."

The only offer Fleerlage has received to date was from City Manager C. William Norman. "Bill said he would give me 50 cents to shave it off."

SIU buys tract of 89 acres at Colp Stables site

By Terry Peters

SIU has purchased 89 acres of land west of Carbondale—the site of Colp Stables—possibly to be used as the location of an 18-hole golf course.

Mrs. Ryburn Colp confirmed the sale of land to the University.

Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar said an announcement regarding purchase of the land would be made at the time negotiations were concluded.

Clyde V. Winkler, who owns 30 acres of land adjacent to Colp Stables, said his property was examined about a month ago by two appraisers hired by SIU, but he hasn't been contacted by the University since then. He said no negotiations have taken place.

Winkler owns a retirement home situated on the tract of land appraised by the University. He opposes the purchase of land west of Carbondale by SIU. "It's all wrong," he said. "The land should be held for private residential development."

"The University has 9,000 acres," he continued, "and I think they should find a place for the $4 million golf course elsewhere."

Winkler said that he thinks that purchase of the land by SIU is not in the long-range interests of Carbondale.

The Daily Egyptian reported the possibility of land purchase from Winkler and Colp on Nov. 12, 1968.

MacVicar addresses Student Senators; invites participation

By Wayne Markham

Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar made an appearance at Wednesday's Student Senate meeting and asked for Senate cooperation on several issues including academic reform.

In his address, MacVicar thanked the Senate for its "careful consideration of issues in the past" and requested similar attention to upcoming projects.

Chief among those programs outlined to the Senate was a series of ideas for educational reform which MacVicar presented Tuesday at a meeting of the Carbondale Faculty Sub-Council.

Details on the plan were reported in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian, but MacVicar assured the Senate that none of the proposals are "authoritative" in the sense of being beyond further revision.

He then invited the Senate to study the matter and said he felt it would be "most profitable" if they would meet with the Faculty Council and the General Studies Committee to offer concrete suggestions.

A second proposal MacVicar raised concerned a planned Press Council, which is expected to study the Daily Egyptian.

Prior to the Chancellor's address, the Senate voted on three student appointees to the Council.

Roland Halliday, a journalism student and layout editor for the '68 Obelisk, was approved. Two other appointments were delayed until next week.

MacVicar told the Senate that the remaining three members of the Council, two faculty and one professional newsman, had already been appointed.

He said the purpose of the Council was largely to protect the interests of the community served by the Egyptian in an essentially monopolistic news situation.

The Chancellor said he was confident the Council would be a "helpful device both to the University community and to the Egyptian as well."

MacVicar then took the opportunity to compliment the student government "Grassroots" literary maga-

'Othello' on stage here Friday

Three SIU students will appear on stage as the touring National Shakespeare Company brings the great tragedy, "Othello," to SIU at 8:30 p.m. Friday, in Shryock Auditorium.

Frank Krefz, graduate student in the Department of Communications, Richard Bergman, senior in communications and Bob Zay, whose production thesis was staged on campus, have been asked to participate in "Othello." The prominent New York director, Gene Frankel, staged the National Shakespeare Company's production. Frankel has been in theatre for more than 20 years and is the recipient of the Ford Foundation grant for director, Lolo D'Annunzio Award, Vernon Rice Award and the Obie for Best Director of the Year.

William Pitkin, stage craftsman, has designed for the company a unique aluminum space stage, the first of its kind ever to be used for touring. Costumes are by Jeanne Button.

There will be only one showing at 8:30 p.m.

zine which was published on campus for the first time this quarter.

The magazine is jointly sponsored and funded by student government and the Chancellor's office.

Following MacVicar's address, senators asked questions about administration approval of an AAUP "student rights" statement, Greek expansion and a proposed study week before finals.

The Chancellor nixed immediate approval of the AAUP rights document, which has been endorsed by the Faculty Council, Student Senate and the Committee on Student Dis-sent at SIU.

"This statement contains a good many detailed items that I cannot in good conscience agree with," MacVicar said.

He did hold out hope, however, that future revisions of the bill to make it less specific in nature could well lead to eventual approval.

'Grassroots' sales run high; quality of articles praised

The first issue of the SIU student literary magazine, "Grassroots," is selling about 100 copies a day, according to faculty advisor, Thomas Davis, assistant professor of English.

Davis attributes the high sales to the quality of the magazine and to its low price of 35 cents.

Davis said the magazine was very fortunate to have so many distinguished writers contributing to the first issue. Although it may lose this distinction in the next issue, the quality of student writing at Southern is amazing, Davis added.

"There may be a shortage of magazines later in the quarter," Davis said. The teachers will be using them in some poetry and literature classes.

The next issue, coming out early in spring quarter, will include primarily undergraduate and some graduate student writing. However, Davis said future issues will be left open to professional or faculty writers by special invitation.

For the next issue we want more art work," Davis said.

Nabil Halaby is chosen as Model UN leader

The steering committee for the 11th annual Model United Nations has been chosen.

Officers of this year's assembly are Nabil Halaby, secretary-general, Lynne Atkinson, undersecretary-general, and Orrin Benn, president of the assembly.

Students participating in Model United Nations may receive one hour of credit in Government 231 by writing two short papers and attending orientation and committee meetings, addresses and plenary sessions.

Participants wishing to receive more credit may contact Frank L. Klingberg, professor of government, through the Department of Government.

Applications for delegates will be available tomorrow in Room H of the University Center.

Topics to be discussed this year at the committee meetings and plenary sessions are Czechoslovakia, South Africa, the Middle East and food and population.

Class for parents of deaf set

An informal class for parents of pre-school age children with hearing losses will be held at SIU.

First meeting of the course, offered by the SIU department of special education, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Room 303 University School. There are no fees involved and all parents and interested persons are invited to attend.

Veteran policeman dies of pneumonia

Robert Melvin, 49, 11-year member of the Carbondale Police Department, died of pneumonia at 1:45 p.m. Wednesday in Doctors Hospital.

Melvin, of 522 N. Michael St., entered the hospital Dec. 31 after becoming ill at work Dec. 30.

He started with the department as a radio operator in 1957 and was then transferred to parking meter patrolman in 1961.

Survivors include his wife and two children. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Triumph for all

Never in United States history has a President-elect faced so many major problems such as Richard Nixon will confront when he takes the oath on January 20.

Undoubtedly the settling of the Vietnam conflict will be Nixon's number one problem. Secondly, the necessity to curb the rapidly rising crime and lawlessness at home plus the mending of the division between the people should take an important place in future governmental actions.

Thirdly, immediate attention should be given to correct the decaying urban areas.

Certainly the U.S. cannot continue the atrocious, swaying policies in Southeast Asia that after the better part of five years of escalated fighting have brought no sign of victory or an honorable peace to Vietnam.

Excepting a peaceful settlement within the next month and a half, the new President will have a big decision to make concerning Vietnam. Nixon is going to have to tell Uncle Ho that if the war can not be ended on a policy which would include the sovereignty of the country of South Vietnam, then the United States has no recourse but to use the military power which is necessary to defeat the enemy.

Here at home the new leader of the nation must also lead the people in a vigorous action against the torrent of crime and rising urban problems which are sweeping the country.

In dealing with the rampaging current of crime in the nation, Nixon's first task will be to restore genuine respect for the law. Without this respect for the law, our city problems cannot be solved as the urban areas are now subjected to an all-time high rate of crime.

Nixon could do this by appointing a hard-line Chief Justice after Earl Warren retires in January. In doing this the easy going policies of the Johnsonian years would have to be thrown away with a fair, but firm policy of enforcement stepping in the forefront.

Nixon is going to have to bring back those people who have drifted away from society and bring them together to help in bettering the nation. If Nixon listens with reason to the voices of discontent such as were heard throughout the country during the political conventions and if the newly elected leader will try to end the class-against-class and the color-against-color policies for which Washington has sometimes been responsible then Mr. Nixon may well unite the country. After the anger from the Democratic convention, the youth of the nation must and should be encouraged by the new President to join with the older persons and calmly try to solve the many problems of the country.

In addition to rebuilding the nation's internal stature, Nixon has another important job in trying to rebuild the world alliances which have been broken with the advent of the Vietnam war. Many of the rich nations belonging to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have not even begun to meet their troop commitments to the organization. With the addition of France kicking NATO out of her lands, the organization has grown weak. The Russians realize this weakness as evidenced by the Russian troop movements on West Germany's borderline recently and last summer's invasion of Czechoslovakia all occurring within miles of the NATO wall of defense.

The problems involving the Vietnam conflict, the internal problems of the United States, and the international affairs all need straightening out. If Richard Nixon can solve any of them, he will be a great President.

Criteria not valid

To the Daily Egyptian:

Recently your paper had a front-page article on the national ranking of SIU by the size of the student body. In a year and a half I have noticed only two kinds of national ranking for this school: athletic teams and size of the student body. These criteria seem to me to be among the most irrelevant possible. How would SIU rank nationally on criteria like student-faculty ratio, proportion of graduates earning advanced degrees, proportion of graduates making significant contributions to knowledge or world peace, or overall quality of teaching? I realize that if standards were established to rate SIU on these criteria, the problem of national ranking would still remain as few other schools would be rated.

I don't understand why there isn't a good ranking system within the University. When choosing a major it seems that students would be anxious to have a ranking of departments according to relevant criteria like proportion of undergraduate courses taught by the highest ranking professors (assumed to be the best scholars), ratio of full-time faculty to number of majors, quality of teaching, contributions of faculty to their fields, proportion of graduates from the department that obtain good jobs, go to graduate schools, or make significant contributions to their field. Information of this nature could be put to good use stirring up among the faculty some of the competition they force upon students.

If the student government on this campus didn't have so many irrelevant, petty concerns they might spend some time helping themselves and other students get a quality education. As long as administrators are satisfied with their performance in getting increases in the size of the student body, as long as faculty are concerned only with how much teaching (especially at the undergraduate level) they can avoid, and as long as students allow both the faculty and administration to be content with these irrelevant criteria, the educational focus at SIU will remain on quantity rather than on quality.

Support needed for blood drive

To the Daily Egyptian:

I don't know if any of you have ever tried to get in touch with 25,000 people, and personally knowing only about one per cent of them. Well, if you haven't, let me tell you, it's not an easy job!

The reason that I want to contact you is that I need your moral and physical support in making Southern's first Red Cross Blood Drive a huge success. About a year ago I decided that it would be a good idea to have a blood drive at SIU and I hope that enough of you are in agreement with me. I don't mind telling you that I'm scared!

Thanks to many people at University Park, our volunteer work is fairly well taken care of. But, we need donors, and a lot of you. I have tried to contact the on-campus dorms for their support (thanks, Thompson Point), and I am now making an appeal to all of you who live both on and off campus to please donate. I hope the faculty and administration consider themselves part of SIU, and will also

Walker lauded

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to praise Daniel Walker and his staff for presenting an honest and accurate report of the riots during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. After observing my Chicago Police Department for more than four hours in front of the Conrad Hilton Hotel on Aug. 28, I became confused as to exactly who was rioting. The term "police riot" used by the Walker report was quite accurate.

Is it too much to ask that this report stimulate police leadership reform and new police training?

A table will be set up in Area H of the Student Center Jan 13-17, where you can make your appointments to donate on Jan. 21 and 22.

Really, people, I think this is a worthy cause, especially now, with the tremendous blood shortage throughout the nation. So please come to give Jan. 21 and 22, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Ballroom of the university Center, even if you don't have an appointment. If you have any questions, feel free to call me at 453-3113. I have a lot of faith in you, SIU. Please don't let me down. Thanks so much.

'God Squad' point of view

To the Daily Egyptian

Dear Mr. Allen:

I do not know for sure if you were trying to be satirical when you insulted Johnson and Gilpin's "God Squad" but if you were serious your letter shows that you are just as bad as the people who condemned "KA."

I would like to know when God told you that He was offended by this comic strip. Since you are also one of these "little people" who know "so very little" I would like to know where you believe you learned so much. Like the people who condemned "KA" you are jumping to the conclusion that your ideas are right and therefore they are the only ones that have the right to be heard.

I would hope that if there were a God, Mr. Allen, His sense of humor would be a little better than yours.

SIU band

To The Daily Egyptian:

The Marching Salukis should take a lesson from the Golden Eagles Marching Band of Southeast Missouri State College after their fantastic halftime marching band program at the televised NFL Play-Off Classic at the Orange Bowl game in Miami, Jan. 5. This was a tremendous show of marching skill.

Why can't SIU have a top-notch marching band instead of our present night club act? The marching our band does at half-time is so brief and elementary its superficial. If our band is to be dubbed "The Marching Salukis" then let's see some marching proficiency and ingenuity!

Student government proposed judiciary

Campus Judicial System—original and exclusive jurisdiction in all cases involving alleged violations of applicable provisions contained in the Constitution and By-Laws; and University rules and regulations not in conflict therewith, unless otherwise provided herein.

Has original jurisdiction of all alleged violations where no Inferior Council has jurisdiction. It shall have appellate jurisdiction by referral by another Superior Council and over its Inferior Councils.

Inferior Councils

Have original jurisdiction in all cases designated to them by the councils. They have original jurisdiction of alleged violations by members of their respective living groups.

By Dan Van Atta
(Second of two articles)

Students charged with violation of University regulations, in areas where judicial boards exist, have their choice between facing the judicial board or the appropriate administrator—a representative of the Dean of Students' Office.

But all decisions reached by judicial boards serve merely as recommendations, which must be acted upon by the deans anyway. However, all three on-campus acting deans say they espouse a philosophy of supporting judicial board recommendations in almost every case.

All disciplinary decisions affecting students are subject to appeal. While the system of appellate jurisdictions are not clear in all cases, the following appears to be the present route of appeals:

Decisions reached by area deans or area judicial boards may be appealed to either the Dean of Students or the Campus Judicial Board—a body comprised of students appointed by the student body president. Beyond this level, appeals may be heard by the University chancellor, president, and ultimately the Board of Trustees.

Robert MacVicar, newly appointed chancellor of the Carbondale campus, believes a fact-finding committee is needed to present evidence, before justice on appeals reaching his level can be rendered. He, therefore, has established a joint student-faculty body known as the Chancellor's Appeals Board.

The board is very similar to a committee at the University of Missouri, established recently as a vital part to its new disciplinary code. The body is composed of three faculty members and three students, and is called only in cases of request for an appeal to the chancellor.

On May 8, 1968, the SIU student government passed Article II of its proposed constitutional amendments, establishing a restructured campus judiciary. The proposal provided for a centralization of the higher appeals channels and maintained the autonomous nature of the local area judicial boards. Being adopted before the emergence of the Chancellor's Appeals Board, the proposal is somewhat outdated already. Therefore, the Senate proposal granted ultimate jurisdiction to a body it called the "Student Conduct Review Board."

Like the Chancellor's Appeals Board, this body was to be comprised of both students and faculty.

At the next lowest level of appellate jurisdiction the Senate maintained the Campus Judicial Board. One major inclusion in the by-laws, however, was the stipulation that all academic infractions reported by instructors be taken immediately to this body for hearing. At the present time, such cases are usually handled directly through the Dean of Students' Office.

The Senate proposal maintained the autonomous nature of area or house judicial boards to function in accordance with area constitutions which are created by lower levels of student government. The proposal referred to such area judicial boards as Superior Councils, designating house or floor boards as Inferior Councils. The Superior Councils were always to maintain appellate jurisdiction over the Inferior Councils, the Senate proposal said.

Included in the Student Senate's judicial system were provisions for two heretofore controversial matters regarding University disciplinary procedures: change of venue and double jeopardy. The former provision permitted channeling a case before an alternative council in the event that a student felt the decision of the appropriate council would be biased. Also, the matter of double jeopardy—being tried more than once for the same offense—was presented. Under the provisions of Article II, Item J, the following is stated:

"In the instance of a student's conviction under State, Federal, or City statutes, a judicial council shall not impose an additional penalty, except when such additional penalty is absolutely necessary to protect the University community from the risk of harm. The Campus Judicial System may agree to adjudicate a case at the request of civil authorities, under the provisions of the Fundamental Community Standard."

Under the present system, students may be, and frequently are, punished by both the University and the civil authorities for committing a single act.

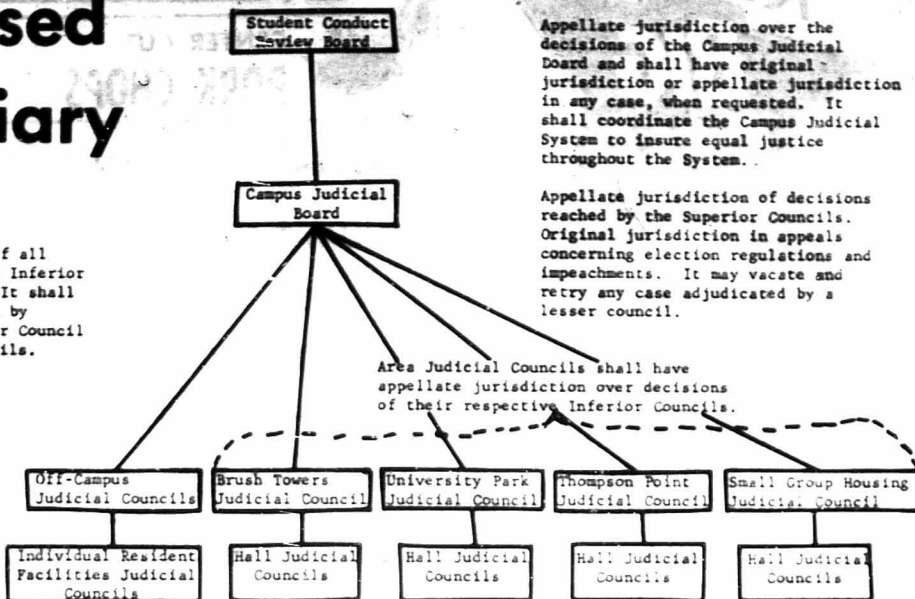

The movement on behalf of students' rights is relatively new. The first actual negotiation on behalf of those rights took place during the Berkeley Free Speech Movement in 1964. Last year, the first document to outline clearly what the rights of students should be was devised. The "Student Bill of Rights" was written by a group of 33 representatives of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

This statement of principles, conceived in the fall of 1966, was conferred upon by 10 organizations—including the American Association of Colleges, the National Student Association, and the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators. Having been fully approved and amended by each Appellate jurisdiction over the decisions of the Campus Judicial Board and shall have original jurisdiction or appellate jurisdiction in any case, when requested. It shall coordinate the Campus Judicial System to insure equal justice throughout the System.

Appellate jurisdiction of decisions reached by the Superior Councils. Original jurisdiction in appeals concerning election regulations and impeachments. It may vacate and retry any case adjudicated by a lesser council.

Area Judicial Councils shall have appellate jurisdiction over decisions of their respective Inferior Councils.

of the 10 groups, the final document became known as the "Joint Statement on Rights and Freedoms of Students."

Article VI of the "Joint Statement" deals with "Procedural Standards in Disciplinary Proceedings." Under Item D of Article VI, eight requirements of "procedural due process" of law are outlined:

1. The hearing committee should include faculty members and/or students.
2. The student charged should be informed, in writing, of the reason for the proposed disciplinary action. This should be done in advance of the hearing, giving the student adequate time to prepare for it.
3. The student should have the right to be assisted in his defense by the "advisor of his choice."
4. The burden of proof should rest on the officials bringing the charge.
5. The students should be given the opportunity to testify and to present evidence and witnesses.
6. All matters upon which the decision may be based must be introduced into evidence at the proceeding before the hearing committee. Improperly acquired evidence should not be admitted.
7. In the absence of a transcript, there should be both a digest and verbatim record, such as a tape recording, of the hearing.
8. The decision of the hearing committee should be final, subject only to the student's right of appeal to the president, or, ultimately, the governing board of the institution.

It is obvious, upon investigation, that the present structure of the University disciplinary system is disintegrated, inconsistent, and not even very efficient.

Treatment of students charged with violation of University regulations varies greatly depending upon where the student resides.

It is also clear that this loosely defined structure creates a system in which decisions are reached on a discretionary basis—invariably the discretion of the administrator involved.

The Student Senate's provisions do a good job of outlining a more centralized system of appellate jurisdictions, but they do not go far enough in their guidelines for procedural standards.

In the interest of justice, the "Judicial and Discipline Committee" should recommend a full endorsement of the AAUP "Joint Statement" requirements regarding "procedural due process." Only when there exists a fully stated division of appeals boards, regulated by a code that unilaterally protects the rights of the accused, will we have a truly just campus judicial system.

Freeburg elected head

William Freeburg, associate professor of recreation and outdoor education at SIU, has been elected president of the Egyptian Association for Retarded Children, succeeding Judge Peyton Kuncze of Murphysboro.

Freeburg is the first person who is not a parent of a retarded child to hold such a post in any regional units of the Illinois Association for Retarded Children. The parent policy was bypassed in Freeburg's case because of his professional contributions to the Egyptian Association which he helped start in 1955, and to other programs for retarded youths.

Council of Churches

State meeting to open today

The University Center will be the site of the 1969 annual meeting of the General Assembly of the Illinois Council of Churches (ICC) today and Friday. This year marks the first time the ICC has met on a college campus.

The Rev. Andrew J. Young, executive vice-president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) will give the opening address at a luncheon to the state and area churchmen who will be present for the assembly.

Young is a former executive assistant and adviser to the late Martin Luther King and the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as president of SCLC. He was a major participant in the direct-action civil rights protests at Birmingham, Ala., Albany, Ga., Chicago, Salem, Ga., and the Poor People's Campaign in Washington, D.C.

Robert S. Eckley, president of Illinois Wesleyan University, will be the speaker at the annual banquet tonight.

Until recently Eckley had also served as chief economist for the Caterpillar Tractor Co. He is the author of several publications and is the current first vice president to the Illinois Council of Churches.

Eckley's address will be on "The Church and Economic Development."

During the two-day assembly meeting, three major presentations will be made in addition to two workshops and two business sessions. The principal presentations will deal with the national domestic problem underlying causes of international tensions and state economic resources. Qualified discussion leaders will speak and interpret these issues.

The Rev. Richard N. Miller, secretary of the Church of the Brethren and president of the ICC, will preside at the two business sessions.

William W. Roth will chair a workshop concerned with social action and William D. White will conduct the other workshop which will be concerned with community ecumenical relations and long range planning.

Bishop Timotheos of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America and Bishop Stephan G. Spottiswood of the African Methodist Episcopal Church will attend as representatives of their churches and witness their formal acceptance into the ICC as participating members.

Each year the annual meeting of the ICC is held in a different part of the state. SIU was selected as the site on the basis of its location and facilities.

Latest volume

The latest volume of "The Library of Living Philosophers," a series of books devoted to the study of contemporary philosophers, has been published. It is edited by Paul A. Schilpp, professor of philosophy at SIU.

The 709 page volume is "The Philosophy of C. I. Lewis," the 13th of the series. It contains critical essays by 26 distinguished world scholars.

The series is being published by Open Court Publishing Co. of La Salle, Ill. and the Cambridge University Press of London, England.

Earlier volumes in the series were concerned with the philosophies of such world-reknowned thinkers as Albert Einstein, John Dewey, Alfred North Whitehead, Bertrand Russell and George Santayana.

Glee Club to sing composition based on Jefferson's writing

The SIU Glee Club will feature a special number in a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in Shryock Auditorium. The concert will include a contemporary composition based on writings of Thomas Jefferson, according to Robert Kingsbury, conductor.

Written by Randall Thompson for the University of Virginia men's glee club, "Testament of Freedom" deals with portions of Jefferson's Summary View of the Rights of British America, Declaration of Causes and Necessity of Taking Up Arms (the Declaration of Independence) and a letter written to John Adams.

"The Testament" will be narrated by Dean Brandenburg of Serena.

Fred Yokley of Williamsville, tenor, will be soloist for Schubert's "Brightness of Night." Yokley, a history major, has studied voice under Maria Waterman, SIU voice instructor, and has sung tenor solos in a number of special programs, including the Bach "Magnificat" and the Schubert "Mass."

Narrator for a special arrangement of "America, the Beautiful" which will conclude the concert is prise the finale for the concert, will be Robert Beallis of Aurora.

In the last half of the program, a number of popular male glee club selections will be presented, several of them arrangements by conductor Kingsbury. Stanley Melasky of New York City will play a string bass accompaniment for the Laboff-Kingsbury arrangement of "Ghost Riders in the Sky," and will join with Karl Koy of Eureka, guitarist, to accompany Kingsbury's arrangement of "Today."

Dancers perform

Saturday and Sunday the Southern Repertory Dancers will begin another "mind blowing" quarter.

Saturday they will perform "Hoff" at 8 p.m. "Hoff" is the combination dance, light show which is named after Margo Hoff, a former artist in residence, who designed the slides for the show.

Sunday at 3 p.m. SRD will perform "Brupt as in A". It contains music and dance and theater combined to give a total impact of theater.

With "Brupt" will be a dance which was introduced last quarter, "The Last Flower," based on a story by James Thurber.

The performances will be in the Southern Dancers Studio, T-36, and admission will be free.

School program altering discussed

By Keith Busch

Teachers should set the tone for altering school practices and stimulating students, says Woodson W. Fishback of the Department of Administration and Supervision at SIU.

Ideas for educational programs to improve curricula in the schools of Southern Illinois were discussed Thursday by the Colloquium for Curriculum Leaders, a group of educators headed by Fishback.

Materials center here

An instructional materials center to serve area teachers, special education students and others interested in the handicapped child will be set up at SIU.

The center, to be housed in Rooms 201 and 201A of Pulliam Hall, will be administered jointly by the Office of the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and the SIU Library, with the SIU Department of Special Education cooperating.

Mrs. Lenore Powell, director of the Instructional Materials Center for Handicapped Children and Youth in State Superintendent Ray Page's office in Springfield, said she hopes the center will be opened around Feb. 1. Page's office is setting up the center and SIU will furnish space and office furniture.

Mrs. Powell said plans also call for a mobile unit that will take instructional materials into a large area of Southern Illinois. The materials, she said, are tailored for teaching children with handicaps resulting from physical, mental, social or emotional problems, including hearing or speech defects. Workshops for persons working with the handicapped will also be conducted by the center.

These programs are intended to help specialists give interpretations of certain new practices designed to strengthen educational programs, according to Fishback, who was assistant to the State Office of Public Instruction until his return to SIU this fall.

Use of the inquiry method of learning and laboratory experiments rather than lectures were promoted. Teachers and school officials were advised to establish leadership development programs.

Fishback said data is insufficient to make comparisons between schools in Southern Illinois and those in the rest of the state, but problems do exist here that are unique.

Lack of population and financial aid does little to attract the best teachers and hinders adoption of educational facilities such as printing shops and physics labs in the schools of Southern Illinois.

There is also the barrier of stereotyped teachers, superintendents and school boards who lack dynamics and feel threatened by the proposed changes and would therefore like to leave things as they are.

To gain their goals the Colloquium made the following suggestions:

Make school officials intensively aware of research into the reorganization of instruction.

Urge officials to assert greater leadership in educational activities in their school districts.

Have officials establish more personal communication with parents besides report cards and the monthly PTA meetings.

Fishback urged greater communications between teachers and school administrators. The teachers themselves should set the tone for altering school practices and stimulating students.

Fishback said, "Research has shown that adoption of promising curriculum programs depends on the school officials' views on the subject."

High school students to study conservation at Little Grassy

Conservation-minded high school students from throughout the state will find out firsthand about wildlife management, land use and hunting and fishing rules in a series of field workshops starting Jan. 26 at SIU's Outdoor Laboratory.

The Conservation Education Workshops will be conducted by the SIU Department of Zoology under sponsorship of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. Local clubs will select students to attend the first three one-week sessions at the 6,000-acre Little Grassy Lake facility. Attending the fourth one will be winners of a Federation contest in conservation. The final session, Feb. 23-March 1, will be for adult members of the Federation. Workshopers will live in heated dormitory-type cabins at the Laboratory and will take field trips to study such things as habitat use by animals, fisheries propagation and management, boating and gun safety, animal signs and food habits, and the importance of geology, soil and vegetation to wild animals. They'll also go to Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge to learn how to catch, age, determine sex and band Canada Geese.

John Krull, assistant professor of zoology, will direct the program. The Federation will provide $40 room and board scholarships for selected workshop students.

Carrier blast 'unfortunate'

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific Fleet commander, said Wednesday that Navy investigators "are rapidly narrowing down the probable cause" of the explosions and fire that killed 25 seamen and injured 85 others on the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise.

All but one of the 17 previously reported missing were found during a crew muster, the Navy said. An air and sea search continued for the missing man.

Hyland declined to answer questions about preliminary findings. He said "The fire damage was less than I expected." He called the incident a "very unfortunate accident."

The Navy's Pacific Fleet command revised the death toll to 25 after a 14th Naval District spokesman here put the figure at 24.

Hyland's session with reporters was brief. He read a prepared statement and left without answering any questions.

"On behalf of the Pacific Fleet I want to extend condolences to the families of the men lost," he stated.

He said he is "confident we will find out just what caused the fire." He praised the crew of the world's largest warship, saying they were well-trained and did things quickly.

Three of the injured were flown Tuesday night to Brooke Army Medical Center in Texas for treatment of burns. Fifty eight other injured were at Tripler Army Hospital in Honolulu, the remainder aboard the Enterprise in Pearl Harbor.

The Navy said an assessment of damages and cleanup of the ship are now under way. Twenty men from the Port Sound Naval Shipyard at Bremerton, Wash., arrived here to inspect damage from the fire which swept the stern of the world's first nuclear carrier following a series of explosions.

Fifteen aircraft aboard the 85,000-ton carrier were destroyed in the blaze which broke out around 3:15 a.m. Hawaii time Tuesday as the ship conducted a bombing training exercise 75 miles from Pearl Harbor.

The first explosion occurred in or near an F4 Phantom jet parked on the flight deck about 75 feet from the stern of the ship.

The Navy first attributed the initial explosion to a bomb falling from an airplane landing on the carrier, but later withdrew this pending an investigation.

After the fires were extinguished, the carrier returned to Pearl Harbor under its own power. Its propulsion system and eight nuclear reactors were not involved in the fire.

Cmdr. Samuel B. Lancaster, public affairs officer for the Enterprise, indicated that the 1,125-foot carrier will be sent to the mainland for repairs.

There were indications that the "Big E" would head back to its home port at Alameda, Naval Air Station in California, but the Navy made no official statement.

The explosions tore three large holes in the flight deck. One penetrated into three lower decks. The largest of the holes was 15 feet across and 20 feet long.

Most of the dead were members of flight crews who were preparing to launch a second group of planes. The first group, already in the air when the fire roared across the deck, was ordered to land at Barbers Point Naval Air Station.

The carrier was on a training exercise before returning to the Western Pacific.

Jury investigates juror

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal court jury began deliberation late Wednesday in the criminal contempt hearing for a juror in the 1966 Krebiozen fraud trial.

The juror, Joseph Bukowski, 57, Chicago official in the Amalgamated Meat Cutters of North America, was charged with violating jury rules during the controversial cancer cure litigation.

The government contended Bukowski brought magazines containing pro-Krebiozen articles into the jury room and discussed them with other jurors.

Marines capture food caches in Batanga Peninsula cordon

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines captured several tunnels on the Batangan Peninsula Wednesday, seized food caches and smashed back an enemy attempt to break out of an allied trap.

Inland, the rest of the 8,200 U.S. and South Vietnamese that clamped a cordon around the enemy supply base Monday, ran into only light sniper fire.

The 3,000 Marines, who came in by sea in the largest amphibious operation of the war, halted the breakout attempt by an enemy force of unknown size. Two Marines were reported killed and seven wounded. Enemy casualties were unknown.

In another small skirmish, Marines killed four Viet Cong and two guerrillas defeated, the U.S. Command reported. Somewhere in the cordon on the peninsula, which is 50 miles southeast of the big U.S. military base at Da Nang, the allies believe there are 800 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops.

About 700 persons were questioned Wednesday by South Vietnamese teams in the search for Viet Cong supporters among the peninsula's 5,000 to 10,000 inhabitants.

Marines driving ahead into the fortified hamlets destroyed several tunnel complexes and seized 600 pounds of rice, corn and flour.

The operation, known as Russell Beach, is one of the war's largest cordon drives. These have proved most effective in the allied campaign to seek out and destroy enemy forces.

Rear Adm. W. W. Behrens Jr., commanding the naval phase, said the immediate aim is to separate the peninsula's Viet Cong activists from the rest of the population.

"We want to minimize Viet Cong influence in the area and neutralize his efforts," Behrens said. "We will do everything in our power during this operation to protect the villagers, and we intend to offer him enough support to remove his fear of Viet Cong domination."

The allied force includes two landing teams of the 26th Marines, some 1,500 men each, two battalions of the U.S. Army's Americal Division and two South Vietnamese battalions, each 500 or more men.

Navy patrol boats ring the South China Sea shores of the peninsula to prevent any enemy escape by water.

Court to rule on judgeships

The Illinois Supreme Court agreed Wednesday to consider a suit challenging the appointment of 11 judges to the Circuit Court.

William J. Scott, newly inaugurated attorney general, brought the suit contesting the appointments by outgoing Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro to fill vacancies.

At issue is a 1967 law which empowers the governor to make the appointments. Some constitutional lawyers contend judicial vacancies must be filled at a general election.

Next step in the court test will be for the 11 judges, Secretary of State Paul Powell and State Auditor Michael J. Howlett to file replies to Scott's suit.

Reality and life

An animated character from Bruno Bozzetto's experimental film "La Vita" represents the counterpointing of gray reality with the exuberance of life and color. The entire program of short films will be shown this weekend in Davis Auditorium.

Mini-festival to open Friday eve

For the first time, SIU's Museum is presenting a series of brilliant new experimental motion pictures from studios around the world. This mini-film festival, called "The Kinetic Art," will be held in three parts at SIU's Davis Auditorium.

The series will include works by directors never before available to the American public.

The first program, to be shown Jan. 17, 18, and 19, will include "Phenomena" by San Francisco's Jordan Belson who has, according to one critic, "been living in outer space for some years now—in the real world beyond 2001."

In the second program, to be shown Feb. 7, 8, and 9, Czechoslovakian Jan Svankmajer's "Et Cetera," will demonstrate three methods of animation never before used. An anonymous film "Paris Mai 1968," will show the student riots in Paris that rocked the French government.

The third program, to be shown Feb. 28, and March 1 and 2, will include Helmut Nebst's "Red, White and Black," a woodcut animated story of Germany's steps toward Nazism.

Twenty-six films, ranging from 55 seconds to 55 minutes in length, will represent directors from the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Tickets are $1.50 per person for each program, or $4 for the entire series. Tickets are available by writing Film Festival, University Museum, SIU, Carbondale, Illinois, 62901. They are also on sale at the University Center.

New edition to SIU press

The SIU Press has issued in paperback a new edition of "Interrupted Melody" by Marjorie Lawrence, research professor of music and director of SIU's Opera Workshop.

Originally published in 1949 and filmed by MGM, the book is the autobiography of Miss Lawrence, former Metropolitan opera star.

The first two thirds of the book is devoted to her childhood in Australia, her studies in Europe, her climb to stellar roles with the Paris and Metropolitan opera companies.

The last third tells of her life after her career was interrupted, but not halted, by an attack of polio which left her confined to a wheelchair. She returned to the operative stage, toured military installations of the Southwest Pacific and Europe, and made concert tours of the United States and Europe.

Since the late 1950's, Miss Lawrence has devoted herself to teaching young singers, first at Tulane University and since 1960 at SIU.

Reports of graduates indicate

Teacher salaries on the increase

By Jack Knott
 "If economic conditions stay similar to what they are now, teachers' salaries will continue to increase," said Herral C. Largent, assistant director of Placement Services.
 This comment was based upon the prediction that the Federal Government will, in the future, supply more funds to schools.

"Within four years, there will be no particular shortages on the high school level and elementary school shortages will not be nearly as bad as they are now," Largent said. In addition, Largent said that college requirements for education majors will continue to increase.
 From reports of graduates who are now teaching in Southern Illinois, the average starting pay in 1967 was $5,800. In 1968 this was increased to $5,900, and from reports that have been coming in, Largent said that 1969 graduates can expect to earn from $5,800 to $6,900. This scale is for a 9-10 month year and people who will be teaching in the Chicago area can expect to earn about $1,000 a year more than those in Southern Illinois.

The average salaries for SIU graduates with a bachelor's degree for 1968, on the elementary level, were $6,191 and $6,377 on the secondary level. Those with a master's degree received $7,643 on the elementary level and $7,802 on the secondary level.

From the 1968 graduation class, 755 are teaching on the elementary level and 838 are teaching on the secondary level in junior colleges or technical institutions, 198 were teaching in colleges or universities and 47 hold administrative positions.

Article published

John C. Downey, former SIU professor of zoology, and John M. Nelson, an SIU doctoral student in zoology, have recently published an article on "Seals and Emblems of North American Entomological Society of America.

Nelson, who is an instructor of extension services, has also published "Parasites and Symbionts of Nests of Pollistes Wasps" in the 1968 Annals of Entomological Society of America.

Instructor reviews cookbooks

A member of the Morris Library staff at SIU reviewed four new cookbooks for the December issue of the Library Journal.

Mrs. Lilly Crane, instructor in the library, wrote reviews of "The Chicken Cookbook" by Milton Leech and Robert Massey, "Appetizers and Canapes" by William L. Kaufman, "The fish and Shellfish Cookbook," also by Kaufman, and "The Mushroom Cookbook" by Marion Tracy.

In earlier issues of the Library Journal Mrs. Crane had reviewed "Olympic Training Film Profiles," "Olympic Training Film Digest" and R. N. Hoffman's "Driver Evaluation."

Another member of the Library staff, Hensley C. Woodbridge, Latin-American librarian, contributed a review of "Freedom of the Press: An Annotated Bibliography" by Ralph E. McCoy, director of SIU libraries, to the periodical American Book Collector.

Education specialist to study SIU International programs

By Tim Hobs
 Clarence Hendershot, assistant dean of International Services Division, has announced that Mrs. Suzanne Parkhurst, a staff member from the Institute of International Education, will arrive Sunday to visit SIU's International Student Services.
 Mrs. Parkhurst is the new program specialist of the Chicago branch of the Institution of International Education, an organization which selects students for travel grants, helps orient these students and awards funds to students who show leadership qualities.
 Mrs. Parkhurst will meet with International Student Services staff and University Administrators to learn about the scope of international programs at SIU.
 She will host a reception at 4 p.m. this Sunday in the International Student Center in Woody Hall for 17 travel grantees who are students on the Carbondale campus.
 She will meet privately Monday and Tuesday with five other students under the institutes administration together with their academic advisors.
 Mrs. Parkhurst will also confer with staff members from the Center for English as a Second Language.
 Hendershot said students in the Institute should phone the International Student Center, 453-5774, regarding reception attendance and interview appointments.
Churches in Jerusalem
 Various Christian sects have chapels in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. The major portion of the shrine is held by the Greek Orthodox Church, but the Roman Catholic, Armenian, Syrian and Coptic churches are all represented.

Drivers' education programs to increase

By Roger Frick

Teaching teachers to teach drivers is gaining increased importance through the new 16-year-old law in Illinois. The ability of the high school teacher will make the difference in the results of driver's education, according to Dale O. Ritzel, instructor in the department of Health Education.

The new law requires all persons under 18 to pass an approach driver education course before they may obtain a driver's license. The old law required only that a person be 16-years-old and pass a driver's test.

Under the old laws, schools were required to offer driver training but under the new law these programs will get added emphasis. Ritzel said that probably 95 per cent of all students will take driver education courses which will cause some strains on present facilities.

In the past small schools could borrow driver education teachers from larger schools in order to offer driving instruction. Due to the increased demand on these teachers they will not have time to spend with the small schools, Ritzel said.

Ritzel said he felt that present driver education teachers will have to find and utilize methods which will allow them to teach more students. Presently teachers can teach only four or five students behind the wheel driving at the same time. Through the use of simulated driving laboratories and multiple car ranges, one teacher can teach twice as many students, Ritzel feels.

Teaching teachers to use these and other methods is the role of the university, Ritzel believes. He feels the program must be stepped up at the university level first and then work its way down, rather than the traditional working from bottom to the top.

Night and summer programs also must be expanded to accommodate demands for more qualified driver education teachers, he says. As one way to meet the need, Ritzel mentioned the possibility of holding night sessions in local communities for those teachers who cannot get to Carbondale after their regular day's teaching. This type of program has been used in the past, he said. The ultimate success of the program will depend on the teacher, Ritzel said. Not only the ability of the teacher will be a determining factor, but more responsibility will add to the teacher's problems.

He pointed out that, in order for a student to get a driver's license, he must present a certificate from the driving instructor. This gives the teacher the power to determine who drives at 16 and who doesn't. Many pressures could enter here, Ritzel said.

Present Illinois laws only require school attendance to the age of 16. What will schools do about dropouts and driver education? Ritzel said that problems such as this will develop.

Ritzel's emphasis lay on the fact that "high school teachers will determine who drives and who doesn't." He feels that the program will be only as effective as the teachers, whose training is a responsibility of the university.

Teens listen to parents

Teenagers generally value the advice of fathers and mothers more than counselors, friends, or grandparents, according to a study by SIU researchers.

Finishing up a statistical work assignment for SIU, assistant professor of forestry, Dwight McCurdy, left, is assisted by Winfield Ndovi of Chitipa, Malawi. Ndovi finished work for a master's degree in forest economics before leaving SIU Jan. 8 for work in Malawi.

Girls Wanted

Jim Dougherty and Conni Mory, co-chairmen of the steering committee for the Miss Southern Beauty Pageant, discuss the pageant, to be held here on April 18. The winner of the pageant will advance to the Miss Illinois Pageant to meet winners from more than 50 other local contests.

Beauty, talent sought

Miss Southern contest opens

By John Stebbins

Wanted: girls who are beautiful and talented.

No, this is not a sign hanging from a men's dormitory window. Just a couple of the many prerequisites for the future Miss Southern of 1969 who will be chosen April 18. "The girls who want to become Miss Southern will have to compete in three areas: formal dress, bathing suit and talent," said Conni Mory, co-chairman of the Miss Southern Beauty Pageant Steering Committee along with Jim Dougherty.

Miss Mory, a junior from Mattoon majoring in special education, said the winner of the Miss Southern pageant will be a contestant in the Miss Illinois pageant.

Hong Kong flu to be discussed

A discussion of the nature of the Hong Kong flu by Walter H. Clarke, physician at the Health Service, will highlight "Spotlight on Southern Illinois" at 6:30 p.m. tonight on WSIU-TV, Channel 8.

"Spotlight" will also feature a film of the KXOK All-Stars in their game with the Jackson County YMCA in Murphysboro last Friday. Lou Cooley, coach of the All-Stars and announcer for KXOK, discusses the All-Stars with a WSIU-TV broadcaster during the film.

Southern has the distinction of being the only Illinois university to hold one of the 50 preliminary pageants that will send candidates on to the Miss Illinois pageant.

To be eligible for the Miss Southern pageant, a girl must be sponsored by any recognized school organization, club or group; be a registered student; and pay an individual entry fee of $10.

More than one girl may be sponsored by an organization. Applications can be picked up Jan. 20-24 at the University Center information desk.

Applications are to be submitted to the Student Activities Office, Rooms C and D, University Center, no later than 5 p.m., Jan. 24.

If anyone should miss the deadline, there will be a general meeting of all applicants at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 25 in the Student Activities Office. Late applicants may turn in their completed applications along with their fees then.

Preliminaries tentatively will be held Feb. 17-19.

The public is invited for the April 18 finals, but not the preliminaries.

"This year's Miss Southern pageant will be different in many ways," said Miss Mory.

"In previous years, each living center held its own contest to choose who they wanted to be entered in the Miss Southern contest.

"Now," Miss Mory said, "any girl who is sponsored by an organization can enter, thus resulting in more competition.

"This year will also differ in that there will be no student judges," she continued. This will make the pageant a more professional affair, rather than a popularity contest."

Experience judges, who are not associated with the school, will judge the finals; with the preliminaries being judged by members of the faculty.

To climax the pageant, all girls who have participated in the preliminaries and finals will be featured in a grand parade.

"We want to choose a girl who will place if not win in the Miss Illinois contest," Miss Mory said.

Last year's Miss Southern, Phyllis Green, placed in the top ten of the Miss Illinois pageant of 1968.

This year Miss Green has been called back to be Miss Illinois Sister. This is an honor reserved for only two of the 50 girls who competed last year.

Publicity advertisements for the pageant and prizes for the winner of the Miss Southern pageant will be furnished by Carbondale merchants.

"This year," Miss Mory said, "we will try to duplicate the Miss America pageant, Southern style."

Married students dance set for Friday to be gala affair

The second married students dance may turn out to be one of most gala, fun-filled events of the year, according to Lee Chenoweth, staff assistant to Mrs. Loretta Ott in the Dean of Students Office. "We will give away 40 prizes at the dance for the oddest reasons," Chenoweth said.

The dance will be held Friday between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. at the Moose Lodge at 925 N. Illinois St. It is sponsored by the Married Students Advisory Council.

Most of the tickets have already been sold, Chenoweth said. The response to the dance has been good. Chenoweth added that a few tickets however, will still be sold at the door.

There will be room for only 100 couples at the dance, Chenoweth said. The last dance for married students was attended by only eight couples; a hall had been rented for 400. If we had known that the response this year would be this great, we would have rented a larger hall, he added.

Music at the dance will be supplied by Dick Ward and his five man band which plays a variety of music. A Charleston contest will be held during the dance. A ping pong table will be filled with 1,200 sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres and canapes.

During the course of the dance, 40 prizes will be given away for the wildest reasons, Chenoweth stated. We will give a prize to the couple with the greatest total height, the least total height, the greatest total weight, the least total weight, and the greatest difference in height or weight. We will award a can of STP to the couple with the oldest car, the lady with the longest earrings, and to the girl whose baby is due at the earliest possible date.

Prizes at the dance were supplied free of charge by Carbondale merchants.

Chenoweth said he was extremely pleased with the people who helped organize the dance. Anne Aut, Stanley Aydt, Arlene Mock, Beverly Gillock, Karen Sunquist and Karen Erhart, all members of the dance committee, received special praise from Chenoweth for their help in organizing this dance.

Special guests at Friday's dance will be Dean Wilbur Moulton and Anthony Giannelli of Student Activities.

Honorary tea set today

A tea honoring Wesley K. Morgan, associate professor in the Department of Music, and Howard M. Brown of the University of Chicago, will be held today from 4 to 5:30 in the University Center Renaissance Room. The public is invited.

Sponsored by the SIU Press, the social will honor Morgan and Brown on the release of their recording series, "Historical Anthology on Music in Performance."

Take one hour to learn how Reading Dynamics can benefit you!

The surefire shortcut for college students who want better grades and more free time.

This is law student Phil McAleer

Phil is a graduate of the University of Illinois and is enrolled at Columbia University Law School. One of more than 400,000 Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics graduates, Phil says, "I firmly believe the Reading Dynamics Course is one of the finest educational experiences I ever had. My reading speed has increased 6 times and my comprehension has also gone up!"

College students and high school students, too, are under constant pressure to complete their outside reading assignments ... which generally average 500 hours per semester. In order to keep up, and stay ahead of, this mountain of words, thousands of students have graduated from the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Course. They are reading dynamically ... which means that they are reading from 3 to 10 times faster, with equal or better comprehension and recall.

Reading Dynamics is taught in more than 150 Institutes throughout the United States and in Canada and Europe. Based on Evelyn Wood's discovery in 1949, the Reading Dynamics method, which uses no machines or gadgets, has been used by more than 400,000 students, housewives, businessmen, professional men, educators, scientists and Congressmen. It is based on the simple scientific principle that YOU CAN READ AS FAST AS YOU THINK! And, as thousands are experiencing in their everyday reading, dynamic reading is not only faster, it's better.

The best way to learn the secret of Reading Dynamics and what it can do for you is to come to an exciting, informative, FREE, one hour Demonstration. Here you will see a documented film of actual interviews with Washington Congressmen, such as Senators Proxmire and Talmadge, who have taken the Evelyn Wood Course and use it daily in their work. You'll learn how we can guarantee (see below) to triple your reading ability or the Course won't cost you a penny. All your questions concerning Reading Dynamics will be answered by a qualified reading expert. You'll understand why Reading Dynamics is exactly right for college students who want to get more out of college ... and more out of life!

Read what SIU students Say about Reading Dynamics:

Sue Carruthers, Govt Major, 1969, SIU (Beginning average: 315 words per minute at 55% comprehension, ending average: 1445 wpm at 75%): "The hard work was worth the effort. It's a skill everyone can use."

Scott Ritter, Zoology, 1970, SIU, (Beginning: 229 wpm at 74%, ending: 1693 wpm at 76%): "Reading Dynamics has not only increased my reading rate and comprehension, but it has introduced me to a new and efficient means of studying."

Eric Sloane, Engineering Tech, 1970, SIU, (Beginning: 571 wpm at 70%, ending: 1660 wpm at 82%): "My major, engineering technology, did not appear to lend itself to rapid reading, so I was skeptical about the results that Reading Dynamics could give me. After completing the course, I honestly think it was the most useful eight weeks I have ever spent."

Ex-SIU golfer ties Palmer

Ex-Saluki golfer Bobby Payne, from the 1962-63 team, achieved the big-time after only a six-month stint in the proffing ranks when he tied with Arnold Palmer in the latest Los Angeles Open, held last weekend.

"Looks like he is going to be up in the money if he keeps playing so well with golfing's greats," said SIU Coach Lynn Holder.

Although Payne took only 17th place, he was in the running for the first two days with scores of 70 and 67, good for only three strokes off the lead going into the last day.

Payne joins two other ex-Salukis in the pro ranks. Larry Wood and Bob Mitchell both played in last year's new Orleans Open with par results on the course.

Payne finished eight strokes off Charlie Sifford in the Angeles Open, but a tie with Palmer is something to remember.

"What if Arnie had finished first in that same tie?" Holder asked.

Money big problem

College football at crossroads

By Paul Corcoran
Copley News Service

After one of its most successful seasons, artistically and financially, big-time college football may be at the crossroads.

Decisions must be made on whether the sport will continue to challenge the pro game for the spectator's dollar.

The overwhelming response by the public to the Rose Bowl showdown between No. 1 Ohio State and No. 2 Southern California could encourage the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) to establish a playoff system to assure the No. 1 team each year being chosen on merit, rather than ratings. An estimated 70-to-75 million television viewers saw Ohio State beat USC and O.J. Simpson, 27-16.

On the other hand, the high cost of maintaining a major college football program especially without a Simpson or an abundance of talent-easily could result in administrators forcing elimination of the two-plateau system and drastic limitation in scholarships and recruiting. With the pros already encroaching on the Saturday afternoon collegiate prerogative, undergraduate football almost certainly would lose thousands of fans.

The history of the single plateau football trial in 1953 makes that clear. The rich got richer, as USC coach John McKay pointed out, but most teams suffered decreases in attendance up to 50 per cent. Some quit football altogether.

But with the return of two-plateau football, fan interest increased beyond the pre-1953 era.

So, too, did the demands upon the college staff to recruit more athletes, from all over the nation.

Many schools also stretched academic limits to attract the best talent possible.

Some of the athletic directors and coaches who despise recruiting chores are among the strongest advocates of deemphasis, citing two-plateau football as the major bogeyman.

But others believe it permits more boys to play, including small or slow men who can't play both ways effectively.

However, college and university presidents react often more than coaches and athletic directors to the demands of alumni and fans who pay $5 to $7 a ticket for a college game and want to see a winner.

The professional game has become the criteria for all football, and any school engaging in major competition runs the risk of pushing to the brink of economic and academic disaster to attain success.

The crux of the problem may be that the fan, alumnus and administrator, for different reasons, may lose sight of the fact the college athlete is still a very young man who finds an outlet in football for his exuberance instead of burning draft cards or wrecking college buildings.

Still, there is the nagging concern among honest critics and alumni who fear that big-time sports on the campus distorts objectives for the boy and school.

What is the answer? The colleges and universities have to find it before deciding whether to continue to emphasize football and other sports, or make dramatic cutbacks.

Regardless of whatever step is taken, no school will have an effective athletic program without coaches who are able to teach and inspire, any more than a student can be expected to progress without a good teacher.

And being a good loser doesn't necessarily mean being a good coach.

Salukis edge out Evansville, 82-77

By Mike DeDoncker

The Saluki cagers held on to slim leads throughout most of the game and penetrated a tough zone press defense to turn back the University of Evansville, 82-77, Monday night at Evansville.

An injury to SIU's Dick Garrett, which put him on the bench for five-and-a-half minutes, came close to costing the Salukis the game. Garrett sustained the injury to his right eye with 12:47 left in the contest and SIU in the lead, 59-53.

When Garrett returned to the game, Evansville had taken a 66-65 lead. Garrett promptly hit two free throws to put the Salukis back on top, 67-66, and a minute later sank another to tie the score at 68.

The first half was a seesaw battle with the Aces taking their first lead of the half game at 19-18 with 11:10 to go in the half. Evansville couldn't manage any more than the one-point lead, but tied the game three times during the half. The score at intermission showed SIU ahead, 46-40.

A tight Evansville defense, which switched between the zone press and a man-to-man, forced the Salukis into ten turnovers in the first half. SIU was able, though, to penetrate deep into the zone to hit the easy bucket inside. As a result of their inside shooting the Salukis hit at a torrid .531 pace, sinking 17 of 32 attempts. Evansville dropped in 19 of 39 for a .487 percentage.

SIU's driving forces in the first half were Garrett with 18 points and Chuck Benson with 12.

After Garrett's free throw tied the score at 68-68 with 7:10 left in the game, Evansville's sixth man Layne Holmes hit two straight buckets to give the Aces their biggest lead of the contest, 72-68, with 4:54 to go.

From then on the game was Garrett, Benson, Willie Griffin, and Roger Westbrook as those four combined for eight straight points giving SIU a 76-72 advantage that Evansville found impossible to overcome.

Westbrook put the game on ice for the Salukis hitting six of SIU's last seven points. Holmes dropped in another basket for Evansville at the gun, but it was too little and too late to stop an 82-77 SIU victory.

Griffin was "Willie in the clutch" for the Salukis hauling down 16 rebounds and dominating the boards, both offensively and defensively, for SIU. Garrett helped him in that department by snaring nine rebounds.

Benson led all scorers for the game with 11 field goals and three free shots for 25 points. Garrett followed closely with 24; seven from the field and 10 for 10 from the line.

Griffin finished with 14 points for the evening while Bruce Butchko added 10 and Westbrook chipped in with 9.

Free throws spelled out the biggest SIU success of the game as the Salukis dropped in 20 of 22 attempts for a .909 percentage. SIU was .534 on 31 of 58 from the field.

Leading scorer for Evansville was Dave Weeks with 22. He was followed by Holmes with 19 and Jim McKissic with 16.

SIU has a 10-day layoff following the Evansville game before hosting a top-ranked Tulsa team Jan. 25, for an afternoon, televised game in the Arena.

Wrestlers to go to Michigan

SIU's undefeated wrestling team heads for the frozen northland again this weekend after downing the University of North Dakota and Moorhead State last week at Moorhead, Minn.

The Salukis will face Eastern Michigan at Ypsilanti Friday and then travel to East Lansing, SIU heavyweight Bob Roop's home town, to do battle with Michigan State.

Roop, whose personal record this season stands at 4-1 following a decision and a pin in the Moorhead matches, achieved a 9-3-1 record last season.

His greatest honor came last fall when he represented the United States in Olympic Greco-Roman wrestling competition in Mexico City.

"That transition from Greco-Roman back to freestyle wrestling is coming along slow," said Coach Linn Long who has guided the Salukis to a 3-0 dual meet record this season. "He's shown enthusiasm and toughness in practice and is starting to move his weight down to the level we want. As the season moves along, he should improve even more."

In addition to Roop's season slate, Terry Magoon at 130; Aaron Holloway, 167; Ben Cooper, 177; and Rich Casey, 152 all hold 6-0 season records this far.

Following the Michigan trip, the Salukis are at home to Illinois Thursday, Jan. 23, and to Nebraska Saturday, Jan. 25.

Swimmers open home season against Evansville on Friday

The SIU swimming team opens its home season Friday with a 3:30 p.m. meet against Evansville, and immediately following that dual meet Coach Ray Essick and his team head for the University of Cincinnati and a 2 p.m. Saturday meet.

In their only dual meet so far this season the Salukis dunked Miami of Ohio 67-37. Southern's swimmers have also performed well in two relay meets.

SIU finished second to a strong Tennessee team in the Miami of Ohio Relays, and took the unofficial team title

Silas sidelined

Illness has brought about a temporary halt to Sam Silas' work towards a doctor's degree in higher education on the Carbondale Campus of SIU.

Silas, a professional football player with the New York Giants and former player for both the St. Louis grid Cardinals and SIU, has been confined to Doctors Hospital in Carbondale with an attack of hepatitis.

He splits time during the off season between the classroom and working for the University in administrative areas. Last year he worked in the office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, and this year had hoped to continue with his work.

Silas expects to be out of the hospital near the end of this month and plans to return to his studies during the spring term.

Jockey boycott threat

MIAMI (AP) — Some 100 male jockeys threatened a mass boycott at Tropical Park Wednesday and blocked the efforts of Barbara Jo Rubin to become the first girl rider in U.S. thoroughbred racing history.

After a stormy meeting in the jockey quarters, they refused to come out for the third race unless the 19-year-old brunet was taken off her scheduled mount, Stoneland, in the fourth.

at the Illinois Relays in Normal. Southern's times in the Illinois relays were good enough to put the Salukis on top in nine of the 11 events. Only Loyola's Paul Meyer in the 50 yard freestyle and Illinois' Curt Cramer in the 200 yard individual medley, kept SIU from winning all the events.

SIU's meet with the University of Oklahoma, set for Friday, Jan. 24, will be broadcast on WSIU-TV from the University School pool if final arrangements can be completed in time. That meet is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Essick said, "the Oklahoma meet is one that the viewers will remember for a long time. It will be close all the way and the competition will be tremendous."
