SIU Theater Lists 5 Plays For Summer

Five full-length plays will be presented by the SIU Theater Department's stock company during the 1964 summer session.

The plays are "The Mousetrap" by Agatha Christie, "Look Back in Anger" by John Osborne, "The Millionaires" by George Bernard Shaw, "The Fantasticks" by Tom Jones and Harvery Schmidt and "Night of the Iguana" by Tennessee Williams.

"Students accepted for the company cannot be registered for any other courses," Jim Stephenson, associate professor of theater, said. Rehearsals, construction and painting of scenery and other work will occupy the mornings and afternoons, and performances will be given in the evenings.

Applications for admission to the company and two letters of recommendation should be addressed to Jim Stephenson, Department of Theater.

SIU Coed Wins Florida Contest

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. -- An SIU coed, Margaret Ruth Sanders, 18, has won the "Miss Fort Lauderdale" contest.

Her selection from a field of approximately 200 was announced by Geanne Smith, owner of the Gean Marie Botique in Fort Lauderdale. Mrs. Smith said Miss Fort Lauderdale will be eligible to enter the Miss Florida contest, a preliminary to the Miss America competition.

As winner of the Miss Fort Lauderdale contest, Miss Sanders will be awarded a $200 wardrobe, Mrs. Smith said.

Mrs. Smith said she will be eligible for the Miss Florida competition because of her family's winter visits there, and because she attended Pine Crest Preparatory School in Florida.

Mrs. Smith said Miss Sanders was informally interviewed for the Miss Fort Lauderdale contest while she was in Florida during the spring break. Girls who entered participating stores were interviewed without their prior knowledge of possible participation in the contest, Mrs. Smith said.

Miss Sanders, a sophomore majoring in theater, is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta. She is from Centralia.

She was home in Centralia Monday when the gift wardrobe arrived, according to her father. He said she was "stunned" by her selection.

Sectioning Asked Now

May 25-29 Is Last Week For Summer Preregistration

Final week for advance registration for summer quarter will be May 25 through May 29, according to the Academic Advisement Center. Fees must be paid at time of registration and sectioning.

Anyone who has been advised but has not gone through sectioning should do so immediately, according to Marion Trece, supervisor of the Sectioning Center.

Special registration for summer will be held June 11 and 12. Central registration for summer will be on June 15.

Advance registration for the fall term will be held June 29 through July 31 with special appointments being taken on August 1, 3 and 4. Advance registration for fall reopens Aug. 10 and runs through Aug. 21.

Students who have not yet been advised for fall quarter should make appointments immediately.

Homecoming Applicants

Sought for Committee

Homecoming Steering Committee applications are now available at the information desk in the University Center, according to Larry Lieber, Homecoming chairman.

The deadline for returning the applications is 5 p.m., May 31.

mediately unless they will be here during the summer term, according to Jack Graham, coordinator of Academic Advisement.

Students who do not advance register for fall now or during the summer term will not be able to register for fall until all new and transfer students are registered.

Graham also pointed out that students on scholastic probation should advance register for either summer or fall but not both.

Those planning to attend the summer quarter must wait until summer to advance register for fall, he said.

Graham urged students to take advantage of self advisement for fall and summer terms. In order to self-advise a student must:

- (1) have credit in at least 30 hours of course work,
- (2) not be on scholastic probation,
- (3) be continuing in the same academic unit and
- (4) have earned all his credits at SIU or have resolved all problems of evaluation of credits earned at other schools.

Maximum load for self advisement is 18 hours. Advisement forms may be picked up at the Advisement Center.

McKeefery's Viet Nam Report:

Guerrilla Fire Aimed At Dean's Airplane

William McKeefery, dean of academic affairs, reports that communist Viet Cong guerrillas shot at his plane just two miles from a military airport near Saigon last month.

McKeefery and his wife, on an around-the-world trip, stopped in battle-torn South Viet Nam to visit SIU staff members working with the U. S. Overseas Mission (USOM). "USOM would like to extend the SIU contracts until March 31, 1966, and has set aside funds to accomplish this," McKeefery said in a report to the administration on his trip. "There is a general feeling among USOM administrators that the SIU teams have done a good job and will soon have both the normal schools and the technical schools on a self-sufficient basis."

The McKeeferys left the United States on March 19 and returned to the campus May 10. They visited 17 countries, including Russia. They spent two weeks in Saigon where "large gatherings are not advised because of the fine art of grenade throwing." The SIU couple held a reception in Saigon's Majestic Hotel for parents of SIU students. They brought pictures of the students to give to the parents and snapped pictures of the parents to give to the students. In addition, former SIU students working in Saigon were visited.

Viet Nam, he reported, is a nation of contrasts: "In Saigon, life seems unruffled on the surface with stores well stocked and much traffic on the streets. But one soon notices the barricades on many streets, the pillboxes at many corners, and the check points at frequent intervals. Much of the traffic...is military vehicles and U.S. advisers who travel about in rather large-looking sedans."

McKeefery describes the Viet Cong strategy as one of demoralization. "The goal seems to be to get the majority of the people afraid of cooperating with the U.S. advisers or with their own army," he said.

The dean described bicycles, their frames loaded with TNT and a timer. They "are pedaled up to bars in Saigon and left to explode."

Also, "Recoilless rifles can disintegrate pillboxes with a demoralizing effect on the sentry assigned to them," he said.

McKeefery said that it would be difficult to generalize after only two weeks in the country, but "to say that our team is well-received and effective is fair, because this observation is shared by the communities visited, Vietnamese officials and USOM officials."

He reported, however, "a certain amount of confusion" among U.S. officials.

"USOM regulars are not convinced that anyone can perform a worthwhile service in two years, while the contract people point out how little was done before they (SIU personnel) came," McKeefery reported. "The Ambassador (Henry Cabot Lodge), Mr. (Robert S.) McNamara (Defense Secretary), Mr. (Richard M.) Nixon (former U.S. vice president), and now, I understand (Secretary of State) Dean Rusk, each has his own interpretation."

McKeefery said he was glad to be back.

WILLIAM MCKEEFERY

"It is spring now, it wasn't when I left," he said. "Flying over this country, it is a thrill to look down upon the peacefulness of the fields."

"In almost every other country of the world there are shortages of something," he said. "In the United States there are none. We have accepted this as normal, a concept unheard of in the countries we visited."

He reports a general concern in this country for Viet Nam.

"More people are concerned with Viet Nam than I realized," he said. "When I tell people that I spent two weeks in Viet Nam, they are concerned that someone would go there."

Seminar at Laundromats Coming? Life at SIU Adds New Dimension

By John Matheson

A new dimension has been added to higher education. Laundromatting.

Back in the dark ages, the sanitary student packed all his soiled skivvies into a mailing container and shipped it home to Mother.

Mother has subsequently discovered the laundromat and now sends junior a roll of dimes the first of every month, with a firm reminder that if he can master General Studies, he ought to be able to handle himself adequately in the washereria.

One mother sent instructions: It's sort of like a pinball machine, she explained. This made the entire operation very clear to her scholar, although he hasn't found the "tilt" indicator yet.

These devices are multiplying in geometric progression. No housing area is complete without its coin-operated washers and driers. No freshman is fully outfitted unless he's in possession of a bagful of detergent. The laundromat is something of a social center and serves the function formerly fulfilled by the Ladies Aid or the general store.

All this is not without hazards, however.

One near-sighted cat who was also colorblind jammed his week's laundry into a soda-pop machine. He plopped in two dimes and all he got was a torrent of bottle caps. He's been running around in an overcoat since that unfortunate happenstance.

A fraternity wheel sent a pledge over to retrieve his socks. The poor pledge was on his first mission to Coin-O-Rama and came back with three brassieres, two panty girdles, seven slips, assorted other dainties, and a diaphanous nightshirt.

All the brothers have been subsequently on sharp lookout for an unstructured coed.

The pledge has decided he'd rather stay in his rooming house.

At Southern Hills, two of the ladies became involved in sets, including barge navigation, into one of the nation's big chemical and manufacturing centers.

"It is likely that the major industrial development that would come along the Kaskaskia will be of the heavy-industry type," Morris said. "However, because of the unique situation of the canal in relation to St. Louis and to the industrial middle west, perhaps assembly-line industry and modern light industry will be attracted to the area."

The area must establish a new regional image, Morris said. "There is need to strengthen the ties with St. Louis, to mend the bridges between the two states. The Bi-State Development Agency represents a start in the concern for the region as a whole."

Zoologists to Hear Michigan Scientist

The zoology graduate and senior seminar will feature Jan Martan, postdoctoral fellow at the University of Michigan, at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Room 133 of the Life Science Building.

Martan will discuss "Cells in the Male Genital Tract."

Johnson Asks More Money For Viet Nam

WASHINGTON -- President Johnson asked Congress Monday for an extra $125 million to help step up the war against communism in South Viet Nam.

The money will go into increased support of both military and civilian operations of the Vietnamese.

In a special message, Johnson spelled out the needs and the intentions. He said that "by our words and deeds to a decade of determined effort, we are pledged before the world to stand with the free people of Viet Nam."

And he said two major changes have dictated the necessity for increasing financial help to Viet Nam:

"First, the Viet Cong guerrillas, under orders from their Communist masters in the North, have intensified terrorist actions against the peaceful people of South Viet Nam. This increased terrorism requires increased response.

"Second, a new government under Prime Minister Khanh has come to power, bringing new energy and leadership and new hope for effective action. I share with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge the conviction that this new government can mount a successful campaign against the Communists."

Johnson told Congress he wants an extra $70 million for economic help to the Vietnamese and $55 million for military purposes.

In the latter field, he said, additional equipment, ammunition, training and supplies will be needed, including more aircraft, pilot training and air field improvements.

Teachers' Strike Halts

East St. Louis Schools

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill.-- Only 3,000 of 21,000 students and 130 of 750 teachers appeared for classes Monday in East St. Louis public schools where a teachers' strike is being waged over a salary dispute.

Laotian Reds Seize Neutralist Command

VIENTIANE, Laos -- The command post of neutralist Gen. Kong Le on the eastern edge of the strategic Plain des Jarres fell to the communists Monday Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma reported.

newsmen the situation was "still critical" at Muong Phan, the village 100 miles northeast of Vientiane that Kong Le used as headquarters for his 7,000-man neutralist army.

Souvanna said pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops and North Vietnamese soldiers overran Kong Le's command post after two days of heavy shelling and bitter fighting. No estimate of casualties was available.

The renewed Communist drive has stirred concern in Washington that another Southeast Asian crisis is developing. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and President Johnson held urgent talks on the situation Sunday.

Souvanna showed newsmen photostats which he said were identity cards and other documents taken from the bodies of North Vietnamese soldiers last week.

"I know this is a strong accusation against a signatory of the Geneva accords," he said.

The 1962 Geneva agreements guaranteed Laos' neutrality and set up a coalition government of neutralists, right-wingers and pro-Communists. The system has proved shaky at best, with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao boycotting the government for a year.

Missile Kills Three

PANAMA CITY, Fla. -- A small missile being readied for test firing from an airplane blew up Monday at nearby Tyndall Air Force Base, killing three people and injuring eight.

Procession of Church Leaders Supports Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON -- Marching two by two in a silent, prayerful procession, clergymen and church laymen -- white and Negro -- from 40 states marched to the steps of the Capitol Monday to urge quick passage of a strong civil rights bill.

They paused on the way for a prayer at the steps of the Supreme Court, where the 10-year-old decision to end school segregation was praised.

The demonstration came as the Senate began its 11th week of debate on the measure, stalled by Southern oratory.

The Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre, dean of the Episcopal Washington Cathedral, led a prayer service before the march began at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, two blocks east of the Capitol. Some 200 persons, representing states from as far away as Alaska, took part in the demonstration, sponsored by the Commission on Religion and Race of the National Council of Churches.

Sayre, in the brief service, said civil rights, and particularly school segregation, was one of the most important moral issues of our time.

Then the group held an hour-long briefing session to plan the day. They also heard from staff assistants to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Sen. Thomas E. Kuchel, R-Calif., floor leaders for the civil rights bill.

John Stewart, Humphrey's legislative assistant, said he felt the civil rights bill "is in the home stretch." He urged the group to press for a debate limitation, which he felt must be imposed in the next two or three weeks.

Steve Horn, legislative assistant to Kuchel, said he felt "a formula for an acceptable bill is at hand."

Lodge Forces Back Rockefeller In California Primary Race

LOS ANGELES--The California Draft Lodge for President Committee threw its support Monday to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the California Republican presidential primary race--but only in the hope of eventually getting Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge nominated.

"In the California primary on June 2 there are two states of delegates on the ballot," said a statement read at a news conference by attorney Jack W. Crumley of San Diego, committee cochairman.

"The first is favorable to Gov. Rockefeller and the second is favorable to Sen. Barry Goldwater.

"We have studied the make-up of these two slates of delegates. We are convinced that the Rockefeller slate, which includes such men as Sen. Thomas Kuchel, Goodwin Knight and George Christopher, closely parallels the moderate Republican philosophy of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Maryland Primary Features Wallace

BALTIMORE, Md. -- Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, hunting Yankee votes in the third battle of his campaign against President Johnson, clashes with favorite son Sen. Daniel B. Brewster in Maryland's presidential primary today.

State Democratic Chairman Harry Troth Gross conceded Wallace 25 to 30 per cent of the Maryland vote--but added he doesn't think the Alabama governor stands a chance of winning.

Some Democratic leaders fear Wallace could capture his first primary victory. But they were not talking publicly.

TRANSFORMATION — It's in the dressing rooms that Southern Players transform from college students to kings, villains and other stage characters.

FLATTERY — Richard III (Dennis Immel) uses his knowledge of women to escape the end of a sword, held by Queen Anne (Helen Seitz). King Richard disproves the old adage that 'Flattery will get you nowhere,' and compliments the Queen until she casts the sword aside and eventually marries him.

Only King Richard's Horse Is Lacking In Colorful Shakespearean Production

By Ric Cox

"A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse."

The object of King Richard's wish was the only thing lacking in the Southern players' production of Shakespeare's "Richard III."

And judging by their handling of such seemingly insurmountable obstacles as fierce battle scenes, on-stage executions and majestic spectacles, the Players easily could have granted the wish. SIU's current production—a tribute to the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth—is a spectacle of beauty, precision and talent.

Despite the physical limitations of the playhouse, it could easily be said that the play is produced in technicolor and cinerama. The colorful costumes, enlarged stage area and talented cast provide a memorable performance.

The direction and execution of the battle scenes and of the lighting techniques were feats of precision. Richard's vision on the battlefield of his victims was a magnificent work of staging.

Although somewhat a hindrance to the actors' movements, the costumes exhausted the colors of the spectrum and, when combined with the lighting, created a visionary scene that would have caused a rainbow to blush.

Christian Moe's direction of the large cast was impressive. His aides, Darwin Payne, designer; Charles Zoeckler, technical director; and Eelin Harrison, costume designer, rate equal praise.

Gordon Chadwick's "improvised" music was wisely kept at a volume not distracting to the audience, but loud enough to add to the dramatic effect.

Dennis Immel was Richard III come-to-life. His portrayal of the ruthless and bloody King Richard was enough to make anyone want to send him to the Caribbean for the summer.

His attempt to quench his thirst for the throne of England, at the expense of breaking off the branches of his family tree, were accurately reflected in his expressions of madness.

Other members of the cast whom we especially enjoyed were Barbara Bergdorf, as Queen Elizabeth; Georgia Winn, who played the part of the Duchess of York with a spirit of youthfulness; Max Golightly, as the Duke of Buckingham; and Ralph Bushee, who wittily played the role of a moral-conscious assassin.

Publicized as an action-packed play, "Richard III" seemed to have packed most of the action into the mouth of King Richard.

When his wishes were executed—literally—the deeds were usually done off stage. We had the feeling the king's messengers saw more of the happenings than did the patrons of the theater.

However, the audience did have a closeup view of some vicious battles. Genuine weapons, which were adroitly handled considering the inexperienced swordsmen, and fierce blows that destroyed not only opponents but weapons as well, created a life-like battlefield.

If you care anything at all for Shakespearean drama, see this production. It's too bad Shakespeare has to miss it.

PERSUASION — The villainous Richard attempts to persuade Queen Elizabeth (Barbara Bergdorf) to woo her daughter for him. In a verbal battle between the two, Elizabeth pierces him with insults about his evil doings.

Shakespeare's play is currently showing at the Southern Playhouse, through Saturday night. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the box office for $1.25.

Shell-Shocked

If University personnel in offices near the Education breezeway have had a lean and haggard look recently, it's not surprising. They suffer from motorscooter shell shock.

We refer to some cyclists' practice of riding their motorcycles or scooters right up to—and into—the breezeway. To the unwary approaching the building, especially during class change, the sound is not unlike a squadron of B-29's warming up for a bombing run over enemy territory. The throbbing din should convince the owner of even the most diminutive mail-order scooter that he, too, sits astride a real machine. It's enough to curdle the cream in a relaxing secretary's coffee, not to mention jarring any coherent thoughts from an instructor's mind.

One rumor says the situation is a plot: cyclists hating education courses have teamed with the architect to make life miserable for the College of Education.

A simpler explanation is that some cyclists do not appreciate that, like bicyclists and drivers of cars, they are privileged characters. Their cycles provide the advantage of quick transportation without the musclepower requirements of bicycles or the expenses and sticker problems of automobiles. Along with that privilege, however, cyclists have the responsibility to consider others.

It's not too much to ask cyclists to turn off their engines when they leave the street and to wait until they reach the street before starting them again.

Old-Fashioned Patriotism: Has It Died at Southern?

Mr. Thomas Anton ("ROTC Defense: Remember Pearl Harbor?" April 30) states that the attitude of students on this campus toward ROTC is a shame. Let me add my own support to his statement. Perhaps, however, I see things a little differently than most students on this campus, because I served as a sergeant in the U.S. Army for three years before coming to Southern, and wore essentially the same uniform which I see disgraced every Tuesday on this campus.

Mr. Moore is wrong--the ROTC uniform is not an imitation. It is a regulation Air Force uniform merely worn with distinctive insignia. It is an insult to me, and should be to every citizen, to see that uniform which so many have worn and are wearing still with pride abused so carelessly. This is the uniform that made it possible for Mr. Moore and others like him to express their views.

The uniform itself means nothing--what it represents means everything that is held dear by all of us. Does this sound like flag-waving? Well, it is. Old-fashioned patriotism is not dead yet, thank God.

We owe our very freedom to the fact that we have an ever-ready military force on guard. What better way to insure that freedom than by universal military training? My experience tells me there is no better way. It also tells me that a little military training has never harmed even the most delicate flower of our young American manhood. If our freedom is priceless, then we must all be willing to accept, even for a short time, the responsibility of wearing this proud uniform. If our freedom is not worth that much, then the lifeblood of our forefathers was spilled on the battlefield for nothing. In the words of Dwight D. Eisenhower:

"Americans, indeed all free men, remember that in the final choice, a soldier's pack is not so heavy as a prisoner's chains."

Yes, Mr. Moore, I and many others like me choose to let you curse us today that you may thank us tomorrow.

My aspirations are only the highest--to serve as an officer in the forces which guard this nation.

Book Borrower Raps 'Shakedown' at Door

I understand most prisons have what are called "shakedown" inspections, in which guards inspect the prisoners and their belongings seeking contraband, on the presumption that the prisoners are guilty of having stolen some forbidden articles and hidden them on their persons or among their effects. I suggest that "shakedown," both as a word and as a principle, is appropriate in describing the search to which everyone leaving Morris Library must submit.

Even a city as corrupt and crime-ridden as Chicago (my home) doesn't find it necessary, in the interest of safeguarding the integrity of its public library, to shake down everyone who leaves the library to make sure he hasn't stolen books. I find this search procedure most objectionable in practice, and it seems to me indefensible in principle as well thus to impute guilt of theft to every person who leaves the library carrying a bag in which it is feasible to hide books. If I were less timid, I'd be tempted firmly and virtuously to say "Not!"

Wham's Warmth Stifles Students

It seems that the new Wham Education Building presents not only traffic difficulties. Students--and teachers--have a difficult time concentrating when the room temperature is very uncomfortable.

The building was constructed with windows that are kept locked; it takes a special key to open them.

Rumors report that the building has an air-conditioning unit. Perhaps University officials feel that the electricity cost would be too high if they put it into operation. In the future perhaps SIU will erect buildings similar to Old Main. At least it has windows that open to catch the small breeze.

the warden when next it is demanded of me that I prove my innocence of theft in the manner currently required, and call to wider attention thereby the objectionable nature of this practice.

I wonder if most of us wouldn't agree that it is quite in order to extend the limitations on search and seizure, established in our society at large, to the University community, in which I am not at all convinced the standard of honesty is lower than that in the country as a whole.

Norm Haugness

"I know of no open stack library which does not check as you leave," says Miss Elizabeth Stone, associate librarian at Morris Library.

Patrons of the University of Pennsylvania Library are checked as they enter and leave, and they must leave briefcases at a checkroom. At Iowa, policemen are on constant check. At Illinois, only graduate students are allowed to enter the stacks. They, too, are checked as they come out.

Between five and ten per cent of the budgets for the subject division libraries of Morris Library go annually to replace lost and/or stolen books, Miss Stone estimates.

"Many of these books are irreplaceable," she says. Others can be obtained only at great expense. When a book is lost and paid for, the money does not return to the library to pay for a replacement. It goes to Springfield as a part of the SIU income fund. A specific appropriation by the Illinois General Assembly is necessary to give Morris Library or any other state agency funds to spend.

Cost of cataloguing, ordering, marking and placing on the shelf a replacement is also considerable.

"It is a choice between going back to closed stacks or checking," she says.

Official at WSIU Wants AM Station To Serve Just University Students

Some letters you have printed recently convey the impression that WSIU is here to serve the needs of students only, and that since we already have WSIU, the campus doesn't need another radio station.

Well, they are in for a sad shock. WSIU is here to serve the needs of its listeners... of whom students comprise perhaps five per cent. As continuity supervisor, the writer of promotional announcements and campus activities for the station, I often have to turn down requests to put on announcements for some University School activity or campus club. The only campus information, except for the program, "From SIU," is the type which has value to all WSIU listeners--concerts, plays and so on. "From SIU," on Saturday morning, is the only campus-oriented time in all of WSIU's broadcast schedule. What SIU needs is a student station designed to serve only SIU. In other words, SIU needs that AM radio station.

JOHN HOTZ

GENE VINCENT

Scores: 12-1 and 3-1

SIU Beats Arkansas State Twice; Vincent, Hotz Winning Hurlers

Denny Gentsch, Ken Everett, Al Beczkala, Keith Bicker and Ed Walter are all pitchers by trade but the only pitching they've been doing of late is from the bench.

And the way that Gene Vincent and Johnny Hotz are going, the remainder of Southern's mound crew will be spending some more time on that bench.

Vincent and Hotz turned in two more fine performances last Saturday, as the pair beat Arkansas State 12-1 and 3-1 to guide SIU's baseball team to its 14th and 15th straight wins.

The lone run off Vincent in the opener came in the fourth inning but was unearned on a single by the Indian's third baseman George Glenn and an error by Kent Collins to bring in Jim Keller.

Vincent, however, allowed only one other hit—a base hit to Jerry Everett in the seventh—as he struck out eight while walking five to record his seventh win in eight starts for the regular season.

Notre Dame Game Ends Tennis Year

SIU's tennis team closes out its season today when the Salukis meet Notre Dame in a dual match at South Bend, Ind.

Although Notre Dame isn't known as a powerhouse in tennis, as it is in other sports, the record shows that the Irish have whipped Southern six times in seven meetings. The Salukis' lone victory in the series came early last year when they blanked the Irish 9-0. Notre Dame came back in the last match of the year, however, to even the score with a narrow 5-4 win.

The Salukis had won 14 straight matches before the start of this week, but they face two stiff tests before winding up the season.

Monday they met powerful Northwestern, and today they close the season with a match against the Irish. These two teams were the only ones to beat SIU last year when they finished with a 16-2 record.

Vincent had plenty of support, however, as the Salukis pounded out 15 hits—four by John Siebel and three by Jim Long—off Indian hurlers Jerry Hudgins and Jack Welch.

Siebel's four hits included two triples. The centerfielder drove in two runs and scored three himself.

In the nightcap, Hotz gave up two singles in the first inning but then settled down after that, allowing one more hit and no runs until the seventh (the last inning) when the Indians got to him on a single and a stolen base by first-time catcher Don Darling. After striking out starting and losing pitcher Jim McKay, shortstop Bob Browning got the longest Indian hit of the day, a triple to left-center to drive in Darling from second.

With runners on first and third with one out, Hotz got the next two batters on a ground out and a strike out to get his eighth victory of the regular season.

Al Peludat was the batting hero in the second game as he went three for three although Long and Denny Walter each drove in a run. Peludat got two hits in the first game to lead the Salukis at bat with five for seven on the day. Siebel and Long each went four for eight.

The Salukis have a tough series with Parsons College next weekend when they will try to defeat the unbeaten Iowans in three games Friday and Saturday.

Campus Lake Closed For Weed Treating

The Lake-on-the-Campus will be closed for four days beginning today, the Student Activities Office has announced.

During this period no swimming, boating or fishing will be permitted. The lake is being treated with a toxic solution to kill underwater weed growth.

The lake will reopen for regular use on May 23.

Regular Season Ends

Golfers Take 2 Victories, Lose One in South Bend

SIU's straight-shooting golf team closed a successful season Saturday with two victories and a loss in a quadrangular meet at South Bend, Ind.

Coach Lynn Holder's Salukis, who will compete in the NCAA golf finals next month, pushed their final season's record to 14-4 with wins over Illinois State and Aquinas College of Michigan. The Salukis dropped the key match of the day to powerful host Notre Dame, 28-8.

In finishing second in the meet, the Salukis defeated Illinois State 26-10 and Aquinas 19 1/2-10 1/2 but were stymied by the hot-shooting "Fighting Irish." On route to their romp, the Irish won five of six matches and tied the other in the 36-hole contest.

The only bright spot for Southern in the Notre Dame match Saturday was Jerry Kirby's 152-152 deadlock with Notre Dame ace Bob Reynolds. Kirby and teammate John Krueger turned in the best performances for the Salukis with their 10-over-par 152s. Krueger, of Bloomington, lost 145-152 to his opponent, Charles McLaughlin.

In other matches, veteran Jim Place lost 148-153, West Frankfort senior Gene Carello was narrowly outpointed 152-155, junior standout Al Kruse was dropped 150-154, and Leon McNair was defeated 148-157. The meet was the last regular season competition for graduating seniors Carello, Place and McNair.

The Notre Dame results: O'Connel (ND) 76-72-148 beat Place (S) 77-76-153, 4 1/2-1 1/2. Hinkler (ND) 75-77-152. Carello (S) 77-78-155, 5-1. McLaughlin (ND) 73-72-151, 5-1. Danaby (ND) 73-75-148 beat McNair (S) 78-79-137, 6-1. Reynolds (ND) 78-74-151 tied Kirby (S) 74-78-152, 3-3. Schaffler (ND) 73-75-150 beat Kruse (S) 77-77-154, 4 1/2-1 1/2.

Track Men Beat Purdue But Lose to Notre Dame

Perhaps Jack Richardson should travel with the Saluki track team more often. The Salukis came home with their first dual meet victory Saturday, although they also lost one in their double-dual meet with Notre Dame and Purdue.

Richardson substituted for coach Lew Hartzog who was at the Illinois High School meet.

At the Notre Dame stadium, the Salukis defeated Purdue 60-42, but were jolted by the Irish 107-33. George Woods, as usual, was the Salukis' only blue ribbon winner, as he won the shot put and discus events.

Recreation Expert Is SIU Consultant

One of the nation's leading experts in the outdoor recreation and education field is on campus this week as a curriculum consultant with the SIU Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education.

He is Harold D. Meyer, former president and now legislative chairman of the American Recreation Society and former chairman of the Department of Sociology at the University of North Carolina.

Meyer will be the guest at a noon reception today in the University Center and will be honored at a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in the University Center.

Meyer will speak at 10 a.m. Thursday to a meeting of the SIU Recreation Association in the University Center. He will also speak that day at the College of Education at 4:30 p.m. and at an 8 p.m. meeting of the Sociology Club in the Agriculture Building Seminar Room.

During his visit to SIU, Meyer also plans to accompany President Delyte W. Morris to Edwardsville on May 26.

Meyer will be the speaker at the Recreation Club's spring banquet at 6:30 p.m. May 27th in the University Center Ballroom.
