GOP Speakers Discuss Student Rights, Voting Age

By Don Mueller

Student rights, the possibility of lowering the voting age and the probability of instigating a state income tax were some of the points discussed by State Rep. Gale Williams and State Sen. John G. Gilbert at Thursday's meeting of the SIU Young Republicans Club.

Williams, seeking re-election to a fourth two-year term from the 59th District, said the adult citizens "must awaken themselves to the rights of young Americans." Addressing himself to young people, he said, "Problems can not be solved by demonstrations in the streets or by burning draft cards."

Williams' student rights bill, introduced on March 4, states in part that no college or university shall deny to any student the right to operate a vehicle on public highways while enroute to the institution to secure an education.

On the university property, however, the student would be subject to administrative regulations regarding vehicle privileges.

Arson Suspected

Fires At 3 Chicago Stores

CHICAGO (AP)—Fire and police arson experts probed Friday night the charred areas of three State Street department stores struck by fires within a span of three hours.

Thousands of employees and customers poured out of the huge shopping buildings and lingered at an intersection often called the world's busiest as a throng of firefighters extinguished the blazes.

The proximity of the stores and time interval of the fires caused authorities to launch arson investigations immediately. Police canine corps animals were hurried to the scene of the fires as a precaution against looting.

Williams said students "should have freedom of choice" to decide where they wish to live when they come to a university. He said facilities should be inspected by health authorities to be certain they meet standards.

Students should not be forced to live in university housing if "adequate facilities" with reasonable rates are provided by private business, said Williams.

Although in his introductory remarks Gilbert said "the interest of young people in politics is most encouraging to us people in the legislature," he later said chances are slight that the voting age will be lowered in Illinois at the present time.

He said major opposition to a lower voting age would come from "older politicians who feel young people may be too easily swayed by the emotional whims and by the personalities of the candidates."

Both Republicans said it was inevitable that a state income tax would be passed by the legislature at some later time.

With respect to the selective service system, both men felt there would always be a need to grant deferments. Gilbert said the lottery system might be a fair way of calling up men.

Gilbert, chairman of the state Senate higher education committee and member of the judiciary advisory committee, said the general theory of student rights should be under the jurisdiction of the university's administration. Student groups could serve in "advisory capacities," he said.

Attending a university is "a privilege, not a right," Gilbert said. "When a student enrolls in a university, he should agree to the university rules and policies."

Williams, who said he voted for open occupancy, said "open occupancy applies to minority groups other than Negroes."

"Guaranteeing people equal rights includes guaranteeing rights to students," he said.

Gilbert said he did not support open housing because he felt it was "unjustly taking away the rights of property owners."

Severe damage, although no dollar estimates were available, was reported at Carson, Pirie Scott & Co. and Montgomery Ward stores. A stockroom fire at Wieboldt's, Inc., was quickly extinguished and fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said that one may have been "coincidental."

Carsons and Wieboldt's face each other at State and Madison Streets. Wards is at the north-west corner of State and Adams, two blocks south.

Three separate fires broke out in Carsons almost simultaneously, Quinn said, and one ravaged the sixth and seventh floors at approximately 3,000 persons fled. The damaged sections housed the drapery, furniture and appliance departments.

Before the Carson fire was fully controlled, flames erupted in a third floor store-room of Montgomery Ward to the south, sending another 1,500 to 2,000 persons fleeing to the streets already jammed.

In all three fires, no employees or patrons were reported injured but several firemen required treatment for inhalation of smoke. Commissioner Quinn described the Carson fire as "one of the worst downtown fires I have ever seen."

Proposal on Hours Will Be Submitted Early Next Week

A revised report and recommendation on a proposal to liberalize women's hours rules will be submitted to President Delyte W. Morris early next week.

Ralph W. Ruffner, vice president for student and area services, said he met with Morris Wednesday and discussed the Student Senate proposal for liberalization, a recommendation from Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, and a recommendation from Ruffner.

Ruffner is gathering more information and will rework the report over the weekend for submission to Morris.

Moulton has stated that he is generally in favor of the Senate's position on the matter. Ruffner declined to reveal his position.

The Senate seeks no formal hours for women students 21 years of age or with 48 credit hours or more, and no formal hours on weekends for other women students.

Rendleman Tells SDX

University-Public Need Mutual Understanding

By John Epperheimer

the individual is the basic thing in education."

The major task facing higher education in the next decade is to reach an understanding and an accommodation among segments of the university community and the public, an SIU vice president said Friday.

John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs, said a major part of the task is to find a way to communicate with students. "The kind of attitudes we had as students just do not apply today," he said. "We must recognize that, or we will find that it's true that they can't trust anyone over 30."

"Students know what they want" because they have not had to live in a period of national crisis and have had a chance to be reflective and contemplative, Rendleman said.

Speaking in Carbondale before members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, Rendleman said that older generations must also realize that there is a whole new morality prevalent among students.

Rendleman told of the new automation and teaching aids which are being employed to handle the rapidly expanding enrollments on college campuses. But he cautioned that universities "can't forget that "Our greatest job is ... to teach desire and curiosity for knowledge," Rendleman asserted.

Rendleman identified basic challenges confronting higher education as changes in quality and quantity in education, vast increases in numbers and opportunities for education, and changes in the attitudes of constituencies on campuses.

FREE ENTERPRISE COLLEGE STYLE—Coeds greet the "Sandwichman," Barrett Rochman, part-time graduate student whose various campus businesses not only enable him to study for a master's degree and support a wife and family but have made it possible for him to establish two grants-in-aid totalling $250 per year for deserving students. Rochman's ventures provide part-time employment for 10 other students who are working their way through SIU. In addition to three sandwich wagons, Rochman also runs a birthday cake service and maintains an off-campus vending machine route.

Student-Businessman Makes Good, Wants to Help Others Get Ahead

Back in 1963 Barrett Rochman was having a rough time making ends meet as an SIU undergraduate. So he went into business.

Today, five years later, the 25-year-old father of four not only is able to study for a master's degree and support a family at the same time, but his campus "empire" has grown so large that it has long since become too much for one man to handle; he employs 10 students on a part-time basis.

Rochman's business enterprises all started when he concluded in 1963 that the 85 cents an hour he was making in a spare time job just wasn't enough to keep him going. Casting about for a way to expand his income he hit upon an idea—a birthday cake service.

After contacting several local bakeries which agreed to supply the cakes to order, he obtained a list of students' home addresses and began sending out letters to parents offering to deliver to their offspring on their birthday a specially decorated cake, with candles, and a greeting card from mom and dad.

"I had to hock my watch and radio to buy stationery and stamps and pay some coeds to help write the letters and do the addressing," he says. Also, to raise working capital, he sold "shares" in the business to about 15 students who put up two or three dollars each to get the venture started.

The birthday cake idea was an immediate success, and Rochman still operates it with the aid of several student assistants. He says that he gets orders from about 25 to 30 per cent of the letters he sends out and that to date he has sold over 9,000 cakes.

Shortly after this first business was off the ground, Rochman branched out with a line of sandwiches, bakery goods, fruit and soft drinks which he carried nightly to off-campus dorms.

That venture, too, was successful and he soon was hiring other students to help wrap the food items and to open up new "baskaroutes." In 1965 the student who had been operating a similar service for residents of on-campus dormitories graduated, so Rochman was free to move in and fill the vacuum, which he did. He purchased a light weight push cart which he could transport in the back of his car and set up a campus route.

His service became so popular in a short time that student demands soon made it necessary for him to buy several more carts and hire still more students to operate them.

To top it all off, not long ago Rochman branched out again by taking over the servicing of a small string of off-campus dormitory vending machines.

In gratitude for his own success and because of his empathy for other students who have to work, Rochman has established two grants-in-aid totalling $250 per year at SIU, one for a resident of the Thompson Point complex, and the other for a resident of University Park.

Rochman says he felt impelled to express his appreciation in this way "because the University has been good to me. If it were not for the help and cooperation I've received, I wouldn't be able to go to school and support a family."

Noted SIU Curator

Counts to Speak at Colleges

Activity hasn't begun slowing down for SIU's distinguished professor, George S. Counts, noted in the field of education for nearly a half century.

He will speak at Danville (Ill.) Junior College Monday; at Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio, Friday; at Randolph-Macon Women's College in Lynchburg, Va., April 10; and will sit on a scholarship selection committee of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in New York City April 26.

Only a week ago Counts talked into a microphone for three hours while a Cornell University representative taped his recollections and views on education and the contemporary scene in the 1930's and 1940's, when he was at Columbia University.

Author of 29 books and recipient of top awards including the American Association of School Administrators' Award for Distinguished Service this February and the 1967 Award for Distinguished Lifetime Service in Education in the Spirit of John Dewey, Counts was an original member of the garment union selection committee set up in 1958 to choose sons and daughters of members for scholarships and fellowships. Selections will be made April 26.

"They tell me none of our choices has been a dropout," he said.

At Randolph-Macon, Counts

will talk on "Soviet Education after Fifty Years." He made three extensive tours of the Soviet Union, driving his own car 6,000 miles through European Russia in 1929. His book, "The Challenge of Soviet Education," won the $5,000 American Library Association's Liberty and Justice Award as "the most distinguished book of 1957 on contemporary problems and affairs."

As far back as 1930 he wrote "The Soviet Challenge to America" in which he warned that the stage was being set for a dramatic confrontation between conflicting systems.

"Education and Catastrophe" is the unique title of an address he will give at both Danville and Heidelberg.

"Sure, education can serve any purpose—even in bringing catastrophe," said the man who won Columbia University's Distinguished Service Medal in 1954 and was elected to membership in the select National Academy of Education in 1965. "Two of our best-known examples were in Germany under Hitler and in Italy under Mussolini, where education in the philosophies of the two leaders brought catastrophe to both countries."

Counts will give two addresses at Danville. Before the Danville chapter of the American Association of University Women, he will talk on the subject, "The Challenge of These Times to Education." "Education and Catastrophe" will be his subject at a convocation of Danville Junior College Students.

$8,000 in Grants Provided For Archaeological Projects

Grants totaling $8,000 have been authorized by the National Parks Service to SIU's Museum for two archaeological salvage projects in southern Illinois during the coming summer, according to Philip Weigand, the Museum's curator of North American archaeology.

Foreign Students' Orientation Slated

A special orientation for all new international students at SIU will be held at the International Student Center, 508 S. Wall, Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Purpose of the program is to help the students from foreign lands become familiar with the school, the culture of the country and immigration regulations, according to the International Student Services.

Three-fourths of the funds will be used along the lower Kaskaskia River channelization project, between the confluence with the Mississippi and up to the New Athens area. This phase of the work will involve aerial photographs, completion of the ground survey and continued excavation at two sites near New Athens which are to be destroyed, Weigand said. Carl Kuttruff, museum field archaeologist, will act as foreman.

The other $2,000 will permit the finishing of work in the Rend Lake Reservoir area. Field archaeologist Sidney Denny and his crew will excavate at one site and will re-survey a section in which a substantial quantity of Mississippian culture pottery remains. This will be the fourth and last year for salvage work in this area.

Laboratory work on archaeological materials salvaged in both areas will be conducted next year, with Kuttruff and Denny each cataloging and analysing their own finds, Weigand said.

Seminole Indian Chief Osceola

Chief Osceola Famed Indian's Remains May Be Interred in Florida

The mortal remains of the legendary Seminole Indian Chief Osceola (1804-1838) may at last find a resting place of honor in Florida, according to Irvin M. Peithmann, SIU authority on American Indian culture.

Peithmann has just returned from Rainbow Springs, about 85 miles northeast of St. Petersburg, where he was called to serve as a consultant for the establishment of a memorial to the famed warrior. After a long, bitter, and still unresolved dispute between Florida and South Carolina over Osceola's remains, the Indian martyr's bones were finally returned to Florida two years ago after lying for 128 years in a prison graveyard at Ft. Moultrie, S.C. Osceola died there after he was captured by federal troops, and his people were forcibly resettled in the West.

Peithmann reports that the body—what was left of it—was disinterred clandestinely in January, 1966, by a former Miami city commissioner, Otis Shiver, who dug it up in the dead of night and spirited it away undetected. Since 1966 the remains have been locked away in a sealed steel box in a Miami bank vault.

The proposed memorial would be 40 feet square and made of cypress and stone. It would be placed in an area being set aside for an outdoor amphitheater. The design contains 28 cypress columns up to 21 feet tall surrounding a bronze plaque marking the new grave of Osceola.

Spitball Rule May Result in Nervous Pitchers

By Paul Corcoran
Copley News Service

Major league baseball pitchers will be well aware of attempts to legislate the morality of the game by rules dealing with use of the "spit-ball."

The intent is to outlaw the spitball, if you will excuse the phrase, by putting teeth in regulations governing the conduct of pitchers.

This is the way rule 8.02, subsection A, reads:

"The pitcher shall not (1) bring his pitching hand in contact with his mouth or lips. Penalty: ...The umpire shall warn the pitcher and if this action is repeated the umpire shall immediately disqualify the pitcher.

"(2) Apply a foreign substance of any kind to the ball; (3) expectorate on the ball, his pitching hand or his glove, person or clothing; (5) deface the ball in any manner; (6) deliver what is called the 'shine ball,' 'spit' ball, 'mud' ball or 'emery' ball. The pitcher, of course, is allowed to rub the ball between his bare hands."

Of course. The penalty for any of the violations from 2-6 is disqualification of the offender.

Outside of the obvious fact that the formal language sounds a little silly when talking about a spitball, the rule places a big burden on the umpire. And it may not do what the baseball men intended.

One of the first requirements for good legislation is that a law must be enforceable. A second is that it effectively does what is intended.

The new rule does not seem to fit the bill.

It should be a nervous season for pitchers, especially the nervous kind who move their hands and arms a lot.

A casual movement, even involuntary, might bring a "pitching hand in contact" with the mouth. A stern warning might make the poor fellow even more jittery and he might do it again. Then the long walk to the showers, probably accompanied by an infuriated manager.

The rule doesn't say anything specific about a pitcher taking his cap off to smooth his well-lubricated locks. Who's to say this upright fellow is loading up?

The feeling has existed for a long time that many of the game's pitchers occasionally have used a spitter to improve their effectiveness.

It is not difficult to see some honest rules makers trying to stop this sort of thing. But the new regulation hardly seems likely to make things better. It will complicate matters.

And, the more clever pitchers will continue to find a way to beat the rule.

Gymnasts Take Fourth Championship

By George Knemeyer

SIU easily won its fourth straight Collegiate Gymnastics Championship for Women Friday night, outdistancing its nearest opponent by nearly 25 points.

The SIU women chalked up 157.30 points to Centenary's 132.95. The small Louisiana school finished second. West Chester State College of Pennsylvania was the only other team to score more than 100 points, managing 109.70 for third place honors.

In the only individual title decided Friday, Linda Metheny of the University of Illinois dethroned Donna Schaezner for the all-around championship. Miss Metheny totaled 36.35 points to Miss Schaezner's 36.10.

SIU Coach Herb Vogel was surprised that the all-around score between the two women was so close. He had expected Miss Metheny to win, but thought the margin would have been greater.

"Miss Metheny is an excellent gymnast," Vogel said. "But she got into trouble on the (uneven parallel) bars and only scored an 8.65."

At that point, Miss Schaezner needed a 9.2 on her bar routine to capture the title, but she could manage only an 8.9.

"If Donna would have known she was that close to Metheny, she probably wouldn't have been trying to shoot for the big score that she was going for," Vogel said. "As a result, she made the little mistakes that cost her points."

SIU also captured the number three and four slots in the all-around championship race. Joanne Hashimoto totaled 35.85 and Linda Scott scored 35.80.

"Jo and Linda turned in pretty decent all-around performances," Vogel said. "Scott did the very best (in the all-around) that she has done since she has been here."

"As a team," Vogel said, "they were very, very good." In the afternoon session, SIU jumped off to a quick 27.0 to 25.75 lead over its main challenger, Centenary, on the balance beam. In that event SIU registered three of the top five scorers in the event.

Vaulting was next, and SIU scored 27.4 to make its lead over Centenary 54.40 to 51.50. This gave an indication of things to come.

In the trampoline competition, SIU as expected, overwhelmed the rest of the field. SIU captured three of the top four spots in that event, and totalled 24.85 points as a team. Centenary finished a distant six and one-half points back in that event. Southern had pushed its lead to 8.45 points at the end of the afternoon session.

The evening session found SIU once again dominating the meet, outscoring all other teams in floor exercise, uneven bars and tumbling. SIU scored 27.45 points in both floor exercise and bars, and topped off the pleasant day's work with 23.65 points in tumbling.

Today's afternoon competition at 1 p.m. will be for Class "B" competitors. Two entries for SIU are Eva Domolky and Lori Wesa.

Presentations for the team championships, individual and all-around champions follow tonight's competition.

Judy Wills Will Defend Three Individual Titles

Judy Wills jumped to a commanding lead in both trampoline and tumbling and will try to hold these leads in the finals of the individual championships at 7:30 tonight in the Arena.

Miss Wills, defending collegiate champion in the two events as well as vaulting, scored a 9.35 in trampoline to take a lead over Judy Johnson of Centenary, who scored an 8.2. She scored a 9.05 in tumbling to lead her teammate Donna Schaezner by 1.1 point in that event.

In uneven parallel bars, Miss Hashimoto holds first place with a 9.3 average, followed by Gail Daley of SIU with a 9.25 and Miss Schaezner with an 8.9.

In floor exercise, Miss Metheny is first with a 9.35, with Miss Schaezner (9.25) second and Miss Scott (9.15) third.

Following Miss Wills and Miss Schaezner in tumbling is Miss Scott with a 7.65 average.

Susie Rogers of SIU scored an 8.1 to finish third in the event.

In other preliminaries, Linda Metheny of the University of Illinois took the lead in balance beam with a 9.45 average. Trailing her is Linda Scott of SIU (9.25) and Debbie Bailey of Centenary with a 9.2.

In vaulting SIU holds down the top three spots after the preliminaries.

Donna Schaezner is first with a 9.20, Miss Wills second with a 9.15 and Joanne Hashimoto third with a 9.05. Miss Wills is the defending champion in the event.
