Goldberg Challenges Hanoi at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States challenged Hanoi Tuesday night to say privately or publicly what would happen if the United States orders a halt to the bombing of North Viet Nam. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg issued the challenge in the U.N. General Assembly, where he summed up U.S. reaction to the Viet Nam debate that has been occupying the assembly for almost four weeks. "We have made our commitment to a political solution and, therefore, remain prepared to engage in immediate discussions—through private, informal channels or through more formal negotiations." "Similarly, we have offered to take the first step toward de-escalation; to order a prior end to all bombing of North Viet Nam the moment there is an assurance that there would be a response. "We are given much advice as to what we ought to do in this area. We have considered it, we would like to know from Hanoi privately or publicly what would happen. "We have said repeatedly that we do not seek a permanent military presence in Viet Nam, and have offered to agree to a time schedule for supervised, phased withdrawal of all external forces. Goldberg recalled to the assembly the principles of the 1954 Geneva agreements, and said the United States believes they continue to provide a basis for peaceful and honorable settlement in Viet Nam.

1,300 Fail to Apply for Housing Okay

100 Clog Office Hall In Sit-In

About 100 students crammed the halls of the student affairs building for over an hour Tuesday to hold a sit-in in protest of housing regulations.

The group did not meet with Student Affairs officials.

Thomas L. Leffler, chief SIU security officer, asked Ray Lenzi, a student leader of the protest movement, "What do you want?"

"We are here protesting the housing rules," Lenzi replied.

"Do you want to see anyone?" Leffler asked.

"We would like to see Dean Graham (Dean of Student Affairs Jack W. Graham), but his secretary says he has appointments all afternoon," Lenzi said.

Graham, who came out of his office several times to ask students with appointments to step in, moved through the halls once. However, he held no conference with the protest group.

The students sang "protest songs" and clapped their hands. Persons moving through the halls were hampered, and secretaries had difficulty hearing while using the phones because of noise created by the protesters.

The sit-in, held at 1:30 p.m., was preceded by a rally in front of Browne Auditorium.

At that gathering Lenzi said he was disappointed in a letter by E. Claude Coleman, professor of English, which appeared in the Oct. 14 edition of the Daily Egyptian. In the letter Coleman asked students to stop protesting until after Thanksgiving.

Lenzi asked students to attend the Nov. 10 meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees in Edwardsville.

Lenzi cautioned the students who participated in the sit-in to leave if they were asked.

"We may have to go to jail to get our rights, but not yet," he told them.

Lenzi said that about 2,500 signatures have been obtained on petitions which were to be presented to an aid to Gov. Otto Kerner Tuesday night.

Approximately 250 students massed outside the University Center Tuesday night to demonstrate their protests to Gov. Otto Kerner.

Bard Grosse, co-chairman of the University Student Council presented the governor with information and petitions regarding the protest action now being taken.

THE SIT-IN COMES TO SIU

Sit-In Comes to SIU Via Trailer Route; 1st Awkward Attempt Has Humor, Songs

By John Epperheimer

The sit-in has come to Southern.

About 100 students gathered in the Student Affairs office Tuesday afternoon for SIU's first experiment in one of the more famous methods of rights protesting.

The students were protesting the housing rules which have forced many students to move from unsupervised quarters to "accepted living centers" this term.

Their mood was jovial, but they were somewhat hesitant. They had been instructed by one of their leaders to leave if asked to do so by police or Student Affairs officials.

Once inside, many were uncertain about whether they should remain, and some clearly seemed to be participating out of a sense of adventure.

They came dressed in everything from suits to jeans, white shirts to dirty sweat-shirts, boots to dress shoes. One girl was barefoot. Several boys sported beards or moustaches. Some had bookbags over their shoulders or large baubles hanging from pierced ears.

They talked seriously about the protest movement or joked about the sit-in. They took a head count and decided exactly 103 were present.

They sang many verses of "We shall not be moved," including the phrases "Order and light—now we want rights" and "Give us back our trailers."

When Jack W. Graham, University Dean of Student Affairs, emerged from his office, they sang "let the big shot by, we shall not be moved." Graham had no comment for the protestors.

Several pointed out that signs in the Student Affairs Office seemed strange in the context of the sit-in. These

Notifying Letters Sent by Zaleski

Approximately 1,300 letters posted by certified mail were sent over the weekend to students who did not make application to live in unsupervised housing.

The Off-Campus Housing and Undergraduate Motor Vehicle Regulations Office said this number was arrived at by accounting for graduate students, married students, commuters from home, students living in University housing, those inaccepted living centers and students who made application to live in unsupervised housing.

These figures were totaled and then subtracted from the estimated enrollment, and checked to see which students did not make the required application.

Joseph F. Zaleski, assistant dean for the office, said there should be no excuse for students failing to apply for permission to live in other than an accepted living center.

"I see no reason, unless there has been some mistake, that a student who knowingly failed to apply for this permission shouldn't be suspended from school for this quarter," Zaleski said.

Zaleski also discussed denials of permissions to live in unsupervised housing that were received by many students over the weekend. Any student who wants a review of his case will be heard, Zaleski said.

Students who have been denied permission to live at their present addresses, and who have contracts with their landlords for this year, have been asked to attend a meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday in Ballroom B of the University Center.

"The problem of a student being denied his housing request and having signed a contract to reside there, will have to be dealt with when the time arises," Zaleski said.

"I'm not sure of the legal points involved, but President Morris did make the statement that, 'We may not be able to tell a student where he can live, but we can tell him if he can go to school,'" Zaleski added.

Gus Bode

Gus says if Dean Zaleski will offer a laboratory course in early morning walking he'll grade the papers.

The Final Hour

In the first minute of the final hour, President Morris created the position of "vice-president - in - charge - of - the - first - and - second - floors-of-Morris-library."

In the second minute of the final hour, someone folded, stapled, or mutilated, and was promptly turned into a pumpkin.

In the fourth minute of the final hour, no pedestrian walked on a "bicycle only" path anywhere on campus.

In the sixth minute of the final hour, the motto of the Southern Illinois Universities was changed from "Deo Volente" to "E Pluribus Unum."

In the eighth minute of the final hour, all students with 8:00 classes in Wham were given 9:00 classes in Peck 201 in Edwardsville, 10:00 classes in Rock Jr. High annex in E. St. Louis, and 11:00 classes in Alton.

In the tenth minute of the final hour, the clocks on the north and east side of Furr Auditorium showed it to be the 23rd minute of the final hour, while the clocks on the west and south showed it to be the 58th minute.

In the twelfth minute of the final hour, SIU police raided a bar in Gary, Indiana, and arrested five under-aged SIU students.

In the fourteenth minute of the final hour, the Philosophy Department explained the significance of spelling "bullitine board" with an "e."

In the sixteenth minute of the final hour, President Morris declared the Supreme Court unconstitutional, and sent a letter to the parents of SIU students explaining why.

In the eighteenth minute of the final hour, a student watching a movie at the Varsity was devoured whole by a gigantic cockroach.

In the twentieth minute of the final hour, the Waring Auto

Theater showed the European version of Mary Poppins.

In the twenty-second minute of the final hour, Morris Library was moved to Neely Hall, so there could be 16 floors without any books, rather than just three.

In the twenty-fourth minute of the final hour, Lake-on-the-Campus was renamed "Lake-on-the-Campii," and shipped via Illinois Central to Alton, E. St. Louis, and Edwardsville.

In the twenty-eighth minute of the final hour, President Morris recognized Red China and invited her to send a representative to the 1967 annual Model U.N.

In the thirtieth minute of the final hour, President Morris dismissed all unnecessary vice-presidents, and national unemployment rose 12.9%.

In the thirty-second minute of the final hour, President Morris declared war on Poverty, and upped tuition to $125.80.

In the thirty-fourth minute of the final hour, someone on student government produced a crisis by coming up with an original idea.

In the thirty-sixth minute of the final hour, the Dean of Women was campused after being caught out after hours.

In the thirty-eighth minute of the final hour, President Morris, President de Gaulle, and Cassius Clay disagreed on the subject of "Greatness."

In the forty-second minute of the final hour, the philosophy department announced that for the first time in the history of the event, the winner and runner-up in the annual beard-growing contest were husband and wife.

In the forty-fourth minute of the final hour, the SIU football team dropped a 42-40 thriller to the University High Lynxes.

In the forty-sixth minute of the final hour, it began to get dark.

In the forty-eighth minute of the final hour, President Morris said, "Let there be light."

In the fiftieth minute of the final hour, it remained dark.

In the fifty-second minute of the final hour, President Morris said again, "Let there be light."

In the fifty-fourth minute of the final hour, it still remained dark.

In the fifty-sixth minute of the final hour, a terrible voice boomed from the blackening heavens, saying: "If there be ten honest realtors in Southern Illinois, I will spare the University."

In the fifty-eighth minute of the final hour, Bening Realty announced as fruitless all "Attempts to coerce, buy off, or get drafted that Big Realtor in the Sky," and announced that a delegation headed by President Morris was being sent up in one last attempt.

In the last minute of the final hour, God's parents received a letter from St. Peter, heaven's new vice-president in charge of admissions, stating that God had been fined 50 shekels and suspended from Heaven for driving an illegal chariot.

Hubie and Hog Jowls in Conference

One day the two leaders of a great nation were sitting around drinking Texas Tea (100 proof) and discussing the problems of state.

"You know, Hubie," said old Hog Jowls, "ah feels like there's somethin' that ah jest don't understand about them intellectuals. Seems like whatever ah do, ah can't git no understandin' from 'em. They jest goes out uv their way to make life miserable fer me."

"Now, now, Lyndon, don't go takin' things so hard. Just because your household intellectual got a better offer and left is no reason to think the academic community doesn't understand you. Why, I thought he made it perfectly clear that his leaving had nothing to do with his feelings toward you. He just felt that the office you gave him in the basement broom closet couldn't quite compare with the facilities at Princeton. And then, too, your library of the 150 best selling westerns was not quite adequate for his needs."

"Well, maybe you're right, Hubie. Sometimes them ivy-leaguers git a little uppity, and can't be satisfied with the simple life that us country boys are used to. You know, Hubie, that's one uv the things wrong with educatin' a country boy. He gits to puttin' on airs, and that ain't healthy." "You're perfectly correct, Lyndon, but, of course, that's not always the case. Take yourself, for example. You received an excellent education, and yet you are still able to communicate with the common man, and you certainly don't put on any airs."

"Why, thank you, Hubie. It makes me feel good to hear such an important man as yoreself say sech nice things. Ah've always tried to keep the common touch, but believe me, it hasn't been easy. When all those ivy-league schools wuz trying to hire me, it would have been easy to accept and lock my self away in an ivory tower, but ah refused, and ah've nevah regretted it. Ah don't nevah want to become one uv them fuzzy-thinkin' eggheads."

"That's it, Lyndon-boy, you really showed them. They still haven't recovered from the insult you handed them when you forsook academic life for the rough and tumble of politics."

"You're so understandin', Hubie. That's why ah likes to have you around. But you know, ah still can't understand why them intellectuals don't like me."

"A little more tea, Hubie?" "Don't mind if I do, Hog Jowls."

Local News in A Bombshell

Dean DeSade, of the Office of Undergraduate Harassment, has announced the latest in a series of University regulations concerning student transportation. No student living within fifty miles of Carbondale may own, operate or have possession of any form of vehicle powered by other than the operator's own muscle power. This includes cars, motorcycles, helicopters, goat carts, and rickshaws. No one except handicapped students may operate bicycles. Any physically handicapped student may obtain a permit by applying in person on the fourth floor of Old Main and paying a fifty dollar registration fee. A bicycle parking lot has been conveniently located on the Ag farm.

Students who were formerly allowed to operate cars as commuters may ride to school by bus or train. If no commercial transportation is available, the university has no objection to hitch-hiking, although this is against the law. Students apprehended by State Police may pay fines at the Bursar's office. (rl)

What Sort of Man Reads KA?

FACTS: More than 18,000 intelligent responsible STUDENTS read KA. Something the administration is beginning to ponder.

Deo is Dead, Morris Volente

The motto of Southern Illinois University is "Deo Volente," or "God Willing." And this is unfortunate, for it is increasingly obvious that in matters pertaining to SIU, policy is not determined according to the will of God, but according to the will of President Morris, upon whom, as nearly as I can ascertain, Christ did not build His church.

It being a demonstrable fact, then, that what goes on at Southern does not necessarily go on because God wills it (there is, for instance, the curious demand that students either a) break legally-binding housing contracts, thereby refusing to render unto Caesar, or b) get thrown out of school) I would like to initiate here a campaign to change Southern's motto.

I propose that the motto of Southern Illinois University be changed from "Deo Volente" (which, everything else aside, is probably unconstitutional anyway) to... to what? Well, "Morris Volente" would certainly be a more correct (and less presumptuous) motto. And "Morris Volente Arbitrarium" would be a truer motto yet. And "Morris Volente Arbitrarium et Absurdum" would probably be one of the truest mottoes ever mooted.

But there is, I think, a better

KA Prescribes A Speed Reading Course for SIU

As part of our campaign to be constructive, we would like to offer a suggestion to the Vice President of Academic Affairs. We would suggest that the university initiate a speed reading program that is large enough to accommodate all students desiring to take it. Possibly this could be a required course.

The value of a course such as this cannot be overestimated. For many students the ability acquire in a speed reading course is essential for their careers. The implementation of such a course would be greatly appreciated by many students.

motto still by which we might personify the true meaning of Southern Illinois University, a motto which capsulizes the spirit of the university, and which reflects the unparalleled quality of an SIU education: "Lasciate ogni speranza voi ch'entrate," ("All hope abandon ye who enter here") become the new motto of Southern Illinois University—Dante Volente.

Ka Hails The Daily Egyptian!

Congratulations to the Daily Egyptian for their reporting of the recent events on campus. Between the time we wrote our editorial two weeks ago on the campus newspaper and this week, there has been a tremendous improvement in the Daily Egyptian.

The coverage of RAM and that of the recent student movement cannot be compared. Keep up the good work and the respect you have gained will continue.

Credo of KA

KA is an independent publication dedicated to the free, written expression of student opinion on matters of concern to the University community. The policies of KA are the responsibility of the editors. Statements contained herein do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the administration or of any department of the University.

Communications should be

We Mustn't Yield Our Rights

We were appalled to read in the October 14 edition of the Daily Egyptian a letter from the chairman of the much-publicized Commission to study the Role and Participation of Students in University Affairs. The general tenor of his remarks were offered by way of chastisement of those students currently participating in the movement to restore the right of the student body to govern itself, and the private lives of its members.

Perhaps, for purposes of perspective, we might reflect back on the very causes which gave birth to the Coleman Commission a little more than a year ago. The Rational Action Movement, formed by concerned members of the student body to protest an abrogation of their rights was not unlike that currently in progress.

The culmination of the movements's efforts was a presidential promise to "consider the question of students rights and duties in the university and...to provide an on-going self-evaluation in the context of the continued growth of SIU."

After a rather prolonged study, the commission finally produced a concrete statement of their findings on the tenth of August. That report has, at this point, still not been officially released. The chairman's protestations to the contrary, we believe there is a somewhat obvious reason for this bit of administrative negligence.

The commission report (our opinion of which remains, at best, ambivalent) states, in part, that the university administration ought, in matters of significant consequence to the student body, to consult with and notify the representatives of those who must bear the consequences of their actions prior to the final enactment of policy. Needless to say, in the case of the recent extension of the motor vehicle regulations and the reinterpretations of the housing rules, decisions were made arbitrarily, unilaterally and without prior consultation, by fiat of the administration.

We have little cause to wonder, then, at the alarm of the central administration at the findings of the commission which it had taken such care to appoint. The immediate (and predictable) reaction was the stifling of the report until the frustrations of the students had abated. As the activity of the students has not waned, Dr. Coleman himself took to the pen to urge us to desist (at least until Thanksgiving brings the first snows).

Perhaps—in the words of Professor Coleman—"Students have no inalienable rights." Perhaps, as he suggests, the only way students may obtain the authority to make personal decisions is to fight for it. How, then, may students go about achieving what (Dr. Coleman to the contrary) we still believe to be our rightful place in the university community?

The strength of Southern Illinois University rests in its ability to procure additional allocations from the legislature. This success (enabling the university to continue building $14 million buildings without demonstrating the least concern about what goes on inside them) is predicated upon the maintenance of a fantastically successful program of public relations.

Almost by coincidence, the one weapon with which the student body may confront the efforts to deprive them of the responsibilities of life in a complex society is to create for the university the adverse public relations which remains its achilles heel.

Perhaps, in order to attack the administration, we must attack the university at large. This problem, however, seems itself to arise from the very identification of the two which seems a natural consequence of the administration's power to make all the decisions for the university. It is this very situation from which the student feels estranged, and which emerges as the source of his frustration.

While we deplore the necessity of attacking SIU, in order to protest the encroachments of its authorities upon our civil liberties, this seems to be the only alternative allowed us by the circumstances which have created the necessity.

Despite Dr. Coleman's appeals to authority and euphemistic ad hominem, we remain adamant in our conviction that students must have the same civil rights as non-students, and refuse to permit concession of those rights as a condition of entrance into the university community.

If ever a mad crowd rushed forth from an empty place
With a care for time or person

This is it—without control—
without a purpose,

Bent on pursuit of the devil

What can be said that is worth saying—

That they came and lanced

Assets Grow

Foundation Passes $3 Million Mark

Assets of the SIU Foundation have passed the $3 million mark, according to Kenneth R. Miller, executive director.

Value of the assets—investments, real estate and cash—has risen almost $1 million since the foundation's annual financial report of April 30. Holdings are derived from gifts, grants, scholarship and loan funds contributed to the University.

The financial report listing assets of $3,121,188.98 was submitted to the foundation's board of directors by Robert Gallegly, treasurer, at its recent meeting held in Clayton, Mo.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Robert Rankin, associate director of the Danforth Foundation, who outlined the organization's program of educational endowments. Rankin said nine SIU students now hold Danforth scholarships.

Arrangements have been made for SIU Foundation officials to meet Dec. 13 in St. Louis with the staff of the Danforth Foundation to discuss possible avenues of cooperation, Miller said.

A progress report and slides on the new residence hall under construction at VTI were presented to the board. The self-liquidating project is financed through the foundation, Miller said.

The board authorized award of a contract to Thomas A. Graman, Metropolis architect, for architectural and engineering services on a proposed $750,000 Inter-Faith Religious Center for the Carbondale campus, and approved arrangements whereby the University will advance from non-tax funds the architect's fees to the foundation, to be repaid as contributions are received in a projected fund-raising campaign.

Also approved was foundation participation in arrangements to bring Gardner Ackley, chairman of the U.S. Council of Economic Advisers to the campus as a speaker in the School of Business Lecture Series.

On invitation of Judge A. Ray Cagle, Marion, a board member, and Lew Nielsen, manager of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, the foundation board will hold its spring meeting April 13 at the Southern Illinois Golf and Country Club, Marion.

Student Wins Highest Award From Future Farmers Group

James R. Brumitt, a sophomore from Wolf Lake, Ill., received the American Farmer Degree, highest award of the Future Farmers of America Association, at the group's national convention in Kansas City, Mo.

The 17th Illinoisan to win the award, Brumitt received a $75 check, a gold pin, and a certificate from the National FFA Foundation. Degree qualifications include leadership, character and individual farming activities.

When his father died in 1964, Brumitt, then a freshman, assumed responsibility of the family's 350-acre farm. Last year he operated the farm and attended SIU part-time.

Brumitt was a productive farmer last year. He averaged 150 bushels of corn, 40 bushels of soybeans and 55 bushels of wheat an acre.

Now married, Brumitt will continue farming while carrying on his studies at SIU, where he plans to major in vocational agriculture.

Baptists Plan Missionary Meeting Here

A Baptist student summer missionary conference is scheduled for Friday and Saturday at the SIU Baptist Foundation.

The Rev. James Dodsoe, missionary in language in the Chicago area, will give two addresses at the conference. The meeting agenda includes report on experiences by the 1966 summer missionaries, selections by the Baptist Chapel Singers, social events, inspiration time, and report of a college graduate missionary program by two workers from the Chicago area.

The Rev. Robert C. Fuson, director of the Baptist Foundation, said the student missionaries are Georgian Phillips of Sesser, assigned to Texas; Phil McKown of Palatine, and Charles West of Caseyville, both to California; Tom and Karen Green of Centralia, to Pennsylvania; Lydia Elam of Vandalia, to Kansas; Ken Burzynski of Benton, to Maryland; and Ronnie and Donna Derry of Mount Vernon, to Oklahoma; Jenny Helm of Dongola, to Oregon-Washington; and Ray Wheatley of Pinckneyville, to California.

The conference, opening on Friday evening and concluding on Saturday afternoon, is planned by a committee with Lydia Elam, Revis Turner of Clinton, and Ray Wheatley as cochairmen.

TOP FRESHMAN SCHOLAR—Fred Dakak, left, coordinator of student financial assistance, presents the Borden Scholarship for outstanding freshman to Tai Po Tschang, Hong Kong. The first foreign student to win the award in the 11 years it has been given at SIU, he had a 4.980 grade point during his freshman year.

First Sit-In Has Humor, Songs

included a sign on the door to Graham's office that said "please come in." The students were told that Graham had appointments all afternoon.

One protestor, who didn't join in the singing, sprawled near a receptionist's desk and read a book entitled "A Guide to Greenwich Village." He wore a beard.

Some joked with plainclothes security police and mugged for photographers' cameras. Others made impassioned speeches. Several were worried that parents would see their photographs in the newspaper.

One woman who worked in the building was allowed access to a door, as were several others during the sit-in.

"You see," she told an observer, "I didn't have any trouble. I have always been nice to kids."

The most ironic happening of the day came near the middle of the sit-in. A student who has been an active supporter of student rights walked in and went to a receptionist's desk.

Within minutes he picked his way back through the crowd. "I can't believe it," he said. "I have an appointment with Dean Prusok and she won't let me in because she thinks I am one of the protestors."

Dance to Be Offered as Minor By Physical Education Unit

The Department of Physical Education for Women has announced a new minor in that department. Dance is now being offered as the subject for a minor.

Women students may receive first-level credit for GSE in required physical education from some of these minor courses.

Courses offered for winter term for credit are 113d, Beginning Contemporary Dance; 113e, Intermediate Contemporary Dance; PEW 313, Dance Production; and PEW 273, Dance Workshop.

The GSE courses in folk, social, and square dance will count as electives toward the minor.

Any of the courses offered for the minor are open to interested male or female students. Mrs. Jane Dakak, of Women's Physical Education, 3-2297, has more information.

Ground Hog Home Shown At Museum

The featured exhibit this month at the SIU Museum is "The Habitat of the Ground Hog."

This production was designed by Darrell Harrison. The artist was Mrs. Georgia Harrison and the taxidermist, Keith Hogan.

The background setting is sloping land created by erosion, and a stream bank. The slops is where the ground hog digs his home.

This picturesque exhibit represents a common scene during the summer months in Southern Illinois.

Another exhibit is "Indians of the Plains," with Frederick Schmid supplying the history through his research on their culture, customs and skills. Schmid plans to be an anthropologist upon completion of his studies at SIU. He is presently the curator of the exhibits at the museum.

As the curator he is in charge of all exhibit production, design and research. Darrell Harrison then constructs the exhibits and does limited design work.

Viet Nam Holds Attention Of Soviet Bloc Leaders

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet bloc leaders Tuesday began secret discussions of Vietnamese prospects in light of the U.S. military effort and Chinese obstruction to bloc aid to Hanoi.

Communist sources said Viet Nam was the main topic of the nine-nation summit conference, with the recent turmoil in China being discussed as factor in setting the bloc's future policy on Viet Nam.

Although the sources declined to specify the trend of discussions, they suggested that the review of the Vietnamese situation could lead toward efforts to arrange a peace settlement.

This same suggestion had been heard earlier in speculation by foreign embassies here. But there was no hard evidence to support the possibility that the summit conference pointed toward peace.

The discussions are expected to be recessed Wednesday without a formal communiqué. The Communist leaders then fly off to Soviet central Asia. According to informants, they will watch a space launching at Baikonur, the secret Soviet space center.

Reports were conflicting on just what would be launched. Early reports said it would be several cosmonauts in the first manned Soviet satellite in 19 months, but later reports spoke only of unmanned rocket shots.

The leaders of the nine countries - Bulgaria, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Mongolia,

U.S. Resumes Bombing of Buffer Zone

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. warplanes have resumed bombing the eastern sector of the buffer zone between the two Viet Nams after a voluntary lull since Sept. 27, the American command announced Tuesday.

Despite monsoon rains that restricted visibility, one bombing mission blasted a storage area in the eastern end of the demilitarized zone.

With the ground war in a lull, the Communist Viet Cong during the day staged five separate terrorist attacks in places from Saigon to the border area, killing eight Vietnamese and wounding 62 other persons, including five U.S. servicemen.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and other leaders were working to quiet unrest in the Cabinet in an effort to present a unified front at the summit conference in Manila next week. Reliable sources said Ky might make some concessions to dissident southern members of the Cabinet who charged the national police with high-handed methods.

Poland, Romania and the Soviet Union—are expected to be together until the end of the week.

They first met Monday night at a Soviet banquet. Missing from an official report was the location which indicated it was not held in the Kremlin, the usual place, but outside town. There was no sign of the leaders Tuesday in the Kremlin, at Soviet Communist party headquarters, or at a reception house used for previous Communist conferences.

A country house near Moscow is the conference site, one source said.

Cuban Minister Pledges Soldiers To Aid Viet Nam Communists

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa appealed Tuesday for all-out support of the Communists in Viet Nam in order to bring about a U.S. military defeat. He said Cuba would send volunteers to fight against the United States "when they are sought."

In a policy speech to the 121-nation General Assembly, Roa said it was time to "remove the claws of Yankee imperialism" in all parts of the world.

Roa spoke on the last day of general policy debate that has been dominated by the war in Viet Nam.

He denounced what he called "the so-called peace initiatives" of U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, who on the first day of the debate on Sept. 22 offered to end the bombing of North Viet Nam and agree to a supervised military withdrawal if there were matching steps by Hanoi.

Roa predicted nothing would emerge from the Asian summit conference on Viet Nam in Manila. He called it an example of U.S. foreign policy "that is doomed to failure."

Janos Peter, the Hungarian foreign minister, declared that peace would come in Viet Nam only when the U.S. proposals "approach and meet" the proposals from Hanoi.

Peter noted the recent statement of President Johnson seeking an improvement of East-West relations, but declared that the real problems of European security and German unification cannot be approached without recognition of both East and West Germany.

Search Continues For Victims of Earthquake

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Rescue teams searched wreckage in Lima and coastal towns and cities Tuesday after Peru's most savage earthquake in 26 years. By unofficial count, 82 to 87 were killed and 1,000 injured.

The State Department in Washington said unconfirmed

American estimates put the number of Peruvian dead at 125. No Americans were killed or injured.

Survivors of the quake poured into Lima's streets by the tens of thousands Tuesday to give thanks for their deliverance.

The rolling quake Monday leveled homes and buildings in this capital, the nearby port boring towns of Huacho and Huara, about 45 miles north of Lima. The latter two towns appeared hardest hit.

Tidal wave alerts had been put out after the quake, and the alarm spread to Honolulu, but no large seismic waves resulted.

In the old Spanish section of Rimac in Lima, many two-story houses dating to the 1700s crumbled under the impact. The death figure in Lima was given as 19.

In Callao, police said 95 buildings were destroyed.

Nurses on Strike

At Chicago Hospital

CHICAGO (AP) — Cook County Hospital, the nation's largest public medical institution, restricted admission to emergency cases Tuesday as some 350 practical nurses seeking pay raises continued their sick call boycott.

The nurses began telephoning in sick for Monday's morning shift and by midnight all of the 346 reported sick. A hospital spokesman said three nurses reported to work Tuesday.

Police Search for Weapon In Slaying of Church Leader

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police prowled roofs and sewers seeking a weapon and hoped an autopsy report might furnish a clue Tuesday to the vicious slaying of a man credited with guiding churches into civil rights activity.

Detectives reported no witnesses and no firm leads in the bludgeoning of Dr. Robert W. Spike, 43, of Chicago, whose raincoat-clad body was found Monday in a guest room at a campus religious center he helped dedicate Sunday.

Still missing after a search of roofs, garages and sewers for four blocks around the newly opened United Christian Center was the hammer or similar weapon used to smash Spike's head. Also still lacking was a firm motive for what Prosecutor C. Howard Johnson called "a vicious attack on him with intent to kill."

Detectives hoped an autopsy and other laboratory tests might furnish hints to be pursued.

Dr. Robert Evans, the coroner, said the autopsy report had been given police. He said it showed death was due to a blow on the head but "beyond that I shall make no further comment."

Police also declined to say what else the report said.

Officers also sought unidentified friends in nearby Granville, where Spike attended Denison University. He had told officials at the nondenominational religious center he planned to see friends there.

But, said a homicide detective, Ralph Decker, "we have not been able to determine who these friends are."

GE Strikers Told To End Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge ordered about 6,000 striking General Electric workers back to their jobs Tuesday at a plant near Cincinnati which produces jet engines needed for planes in Viet Nam.

U.S. Dist. Judge Carl A. Weinman issued the back-to-work temporary injunction in Dayton, Ohio, after President Johnson, in Honolulu, acted under the Taft-Hartley law to halt the walkout for at least an 80-day cooling off period.

Johnson said the strike "affects a substantial part of the military jet engine industry of the United States."

The White House said the President plans no action now against strikes which have idled about 25,000 workers at other GE plants in half a dozen states. But it added that the Defense Department is keeping an eye on the situation to see if any of these stoppages is slowing war production.

The strike against the Evendale, Ohio, plant—the subject of Weinman's order—is over local issues, as are the disputes in other GE plants.

St. Louis Man, 33, Charged With Slaying Black Muslim

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A warrant was issued Tuesday, charging Andrew Hoffman, 33, with first degree murder in the fatal shooting Monday of a Black Muslims member.

The victim was John Moore, 29, who died of a gunshot wound in the head. Moore and two other Negroes identified by police as Black Muslims were wounded in a shooting outside a Muslim-owned restaurant.

The other two shooting victims remained in serious condition. They are Clyde Jones, 36, also known as Clyde X, leader of the Black Muslims in St. Louis and Kansas City, and Timothy Hoffman, 28, brother of Andrew Hoffman.

Andrew Hoffman was arrested a block away from the scene of the shooting. Police said he was a former Muslim who had been dropped from membership in the sect.

'Blunderful World'

Four-Skit Revue to Satirize Campus, Town Life at SIU

"The Blunderful World of SIU," a satirical revue of campus and town life, will be presented at 10 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 29, in Shryock Auditorium.

The show is a sequel to last year's "That Was the Campus That Was." The all-new script was written by Judy Sink, a graduate student in theater. The show is directed by Paul Ramirez, a graduate student in theater.

The show consists of four skits. The first, "Saluki-henge," is the story of Dr. Upthefacts, an archeologist 1,000 years hence, who tries to figure out the strange placement of rocks around campus.

The skit, "The Return of Chelsey Continuity," tells of the trials and tribulations of a student in trying to register for classes.

"Boydstonia," a skit about the Athletics Department, tells of the problems which occur when the University tries to recruit Tarzan for the football team.

Three of the skits on student life satirize the recent problems of cycles, housing, student workers and the draft.

The fourth takes place at a city council meeting presided over by Mayor Brainy Dealer. This skit satirizes General Telephone, the Illinois Central railroad, the householders of Carbondale and SIU's world-famous imported rocks.

The show is a musical revue with a cast of 18 students. Al Hapke is music director, and Bob Pina is music arranger.

Miss Sink and Ramirez would like to establish a tradition of a student-written and produced satirical show every Homecoming.

The program will begin shortly after the end of the Homecoming Concert, which starts at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

There will be no admission charge to the revue.

For Fuller Interview

CBS Crew Turns Dome Into a Maze

By Laurel Werth

What happens when a major network staff descends on a town the size of Carbondale to interview a person for a television program?

This question was partially answered by being at the scene when CBS television's Walter Cronkite appeared Tuesday morning at the home of R. Buckminster Fuller, research professor of design.

Cronkite was in town to interview Fuller for a new CBS program, "The 21st Century."

"The program will ask general questions, such as, what kind of homes will we be living in during the year 2000, what kind of roads will we be traveling on, and what will we be traveling in," Cronkite said.

A crew of CBS television men set the scene for the interview.

Cameras had to be set up, the lighting put in proper places, and cords, cords and more cords strung to the lighting system, and the tape recording set up.

This was in a way a hindrance for anyone who was standing inside the geodesic dome in which the interview took place.

A few steps in any direction would bring a person into a maze of wires in which to trip over, more complicated than anything the Viet Cong might devise.

Although the geodesic dome, in which Fuller and his wife live, is larger inside than it appears from the outside, it wasn't big enough for the nearly 25 persons on hand to shoot the film, tape the interview and generally get things in order for the event.

Fuller appeared on the scene wearing a dark vest, a beige sport coat and dark slacks. Cronkite was wearing a dark suit and a white shirt. Everything was in order. Cronkite was introduced to "Bucky," as he is known to people the world over, and Cronkite made preliminary remarks.

A glance about the room showed that the interview was nearly ready.

Looking around the geodesic structure, sliding doors and floor-length windows could be noted in various places on the circular structure.

Such a building would be no place for a drunk to come home to after an all-night party.

Getting back to the interview, Fuller and Cronkite took their places. Fuller was in a white leather chair facing Cronkite, who was seated in a black swivel chair.

Everything was about to start. Then a voice said, "I'm sorry, but everyone but the CBS crew will have to leave. We have to have absolute quiet so the microphones won't pick up any outside noises."

Exactly what Fuller and Cronkite talked about remains a CBS secret.

Thinking back over the tangled wires, the lights hanging from their precarious perches and the cameras moving around, it was probably safer outdoors anyhow.

CRONKITE IN CARBONDALE—Walter Cronkite, (right), CBS news commentator, is shown preparing to interview R. Buckminster Fuller, (left), research professor of design at SIU. The interview took place Tuesday at Fuller's geodesic-dome home, and was for a new CBS program, "The 21st Century." Cronkite will be host on the 16-program series that will ask questions as "what will we live in during the year 2000, what will we wear and what kind of roads will we travel?" Cronkite paid tribute to Fuller by calling him the world's only comprehensive futurist.

If communications were good enough, you could stay in the sack all day

Moving your body around is highly inefficient.

If communications were perfect, you would never have to. Of course, you would still have to get exercise. But that's your problem.

We want to make it easier for you to contact people, learn, get information, attend lectures, and hold meetings.

We developed Picturephone® service so you can see as well as talk when you call. And be seen, too. We introduced Tele-Lecture service (two-way amplified phone calls) to let you hear lecturers in distant locations. And so you could ask them questions no matter how far away they were. Right now, many students can dial from their dormitories to a language lab. Soon a student will be able to dial into a computer thousands of miles away to get information for his courses.

Depending on the nature of the information, he might get his answer back audibly, printed on a teletypewriter, as a video image, or a facsimile print.

Some of these services are available now. Others are being tested.

For the next week or so, better get a move on.

Student-Powered Transportation

Design Class Solves SIU Vehicle Problem: Skateboards, Folding Bicycles, Monorails

By Leonard Boscarine

Miniature subways, monorails, skateboards and folding bicycles might prove to be an answer to SIU's motor vehicle problems.

These are some of the ideas proposed by students in a Design 215 class. The students had to come up with a means of campus transportation with this stipulation: no vehicles powered by anything other than man could be used on campus.

According to Davis J. Pratt, cochairman of the Department of Design and the initiator of the project, the idea was a serious one. "It wasn't a gag. It's just that some of the conditions inspired out-of-the-ordinary ideas."

Patrick Gillen suggested the use of a system of elevated sidewalks placed so that students and faculty could mount a special skateboard and coast to their next class.

No provision was made for the painting of faculty skateboards blue or student skateboards red.

John Wharton proposed the use of lightweight folding bicycles to travel from one class to another. The bicycles would be folded upon reaching the class and left on racks outside the classroom.

Ron Schaefer thought that a gravity-powered elevated vehicle running down a system of cables would furnish adequate transportation.

Carrying this idea a step further, the cable cars could be operated by carnival amusement ride operators who are generally unemployed during the winter months.

Kent Piper foresaw a monorail as the ultimate in SIU transportation. The cars could speed to campus points while high in the air without fear of traffic officers, locked gates, or even the Illinois Central train system.

Philip Shaw believed the solution to be a series of tunnels to the major buildings on campus. The tunnels could be heated in winter, air conditioned in summer, and when lined with major works from the Department of Art, serve as the longest art gallery in the educational world.

To William Pugh the solution took the form of roller skates. Each building could have a terminal where the roller skates could be checked in and given to another user.

Within a few years SIU would be able to capture first place in national and international roller skating competitions due to the efforts of its Thompson Pointers, a breed of skaters known not only for their speed but also their ability to dodge trees and necking couples.

Of all the students, Ron Williams deserves special credit.

His solution was a three-page typed paper on the joys of walking. Williams even went so far as to apply this to the objectives of SIU in that "it is impossible to exalt beauty within the confines of a vehicle."

Senate to Discuss Structure, Aims of Student Government

A bill defining the purpose and structure of student government will be brought before the Campus Senate meeting tonight.

The meeting will be held at 7:45 o'clock in Ballroom A of the University Center.

A resolution on the rerouting of the Illinois Central railroad tracks will be brought up for the first time at tonight's meeting.

The committee reports to be presented are on the National Training Laboratory, legal brief allocation, bus service and the election commission.

The Senate will also consider appointments for student government committee positions. Appointees to be discussed are Sue McGough, for the judicial board, Pat Schmalenberger, intercollegiate athletics, Sam Panavotovich, student services, and James Plante, representative to the University Center Planning Committee.

Ohio Psychologist To Speak Friday

Delos D. Wickens, professor of psychology at Ohio State University, will speak at the Psychology Colloquium at 4 p.m. Friday in Morris Library Auditorium.

His topic will be "Studies in Verbal Response Classes." After his undergraduate work at Centre (Ky.) College, Wickens received the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of North Carolina.

He has been on the staff of Oberlin College, the University of Colorado, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Pennsylvania and the University of California at Berkeley.

THE 'BACON BIN'

Class in Swine Bin

Hogs Get Air-Cooled Comfort

A new circular steel bin at the Swine Center of the SIU Farms, features eight air conditioners which will allow hogs to live and grow in a near-ideal environment.

The air conditioners, donated by the Whirlpool Division of RCA, were installed in a new circular steel bin built and donated by Black, Sivalls & Bryson, Inc.

Joseph E. Burnside, professor of animal industries, supervised construction. The air conditioners will help keep bin temperature within a comfort zone of 68-78 degrees, he said.

Animal body heat keeps the building warm in the winter, but summer heat necessitates refrigeration, said Burnside.

After circulating through a system of air chambers surrounding the bin, cool air enters through ducts.

Besides environmental control, research will include feeding systems, square and cubic footage for each hog.

Four Ag Students

Named for Grants

Four SIU agricultural industries students have been selected to receive Illinois Production Credit Association cash awards for the current school year.

Three will receive grants of $150, payable in three equal installments for the fall, winter and spring terms, and one will receive $100 divided between the fall and winter terms.

Students who will receive the $150 awards are Robert Leonhardt, Joliet; John Goodson, Route 3, Carbondale; and Charles Stoddard, Rochelle. Receiving the $100 award will be Mark Helmkamp, Bethalto. This is the seventh year the Illinois PCA has provided a grant to SIU for distribution by the SIU Scholarships and Loans Committee to deserving agricultural economics students selected by faculty members of the Department of Agricultural Industries.

'Ag Chili Supper'

Scheduled Today

The School of Agriculture will have an "All-Ag Chili Supper" at 6 p.m. Today in Muckelroy Auditorium in the Agriculture Building.

Students and faculty are invited to attend. Admission will be 35 cents.

The movie, "Agriculture at Southern," will be shown at 8 p.m.

and social problems created by tight confinement of swine.

A "pad and fan" cooling system is being installed in a greenhouse at the Illinois Horticulture Experimental Station of the SIU Farms.

James B. Mowry, professor of horticulture and superintendent of the horticulture station, said the new system will insure automatic temperature control in the building.

When heat raises the temperature above the thermostatically set temperature, a fan at one end of the greenhouse will turn on automatically, creating a vacuum, he said.

Labor-Management Relations To Be State Hearings Subject

SPRINGFIELD — The Governor's Advisory Commission of Labor-Management Policy for Public Employees will hold public hearings between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15 in Springfield and Chicago, Chairman Martin Wagner has announced.

Employer and employee organizations in the public sector will have an opportunity to state their positions before the commission at that time. They also will be asked to submit written position statements to the commission before the hearings.

These statements will include responses to a list of questions now being developed by the commission and may also present the group's position on other relevant issues. The list of questions will be available from Wagner on Nov. 1.

Dates and places for the hearings will be announced.

Interested groups wishing to be represented before the commission, either in Springfield or Chicago, should notify Wagner in advance at his office: Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations, University of Illinois, 504 E. Armory Ave., Champaign, Ill.

The commission was appointed by Gov. Otto Kerner in July to consider all aspects of employee-employer relations for state and local governmental agencies, to recommend appropriate policies, and to consider the need, if any, for establishing additional procedures and machinery to carry out the policies.

SIU Shows Improvement

Rainsberger Liked What He Saw

By Tom Wood

At the outset of the football season Coach Ellis Rainsberger stated that for the Salukis to win their share "we would need improvement from week to week, every week."

Saturday was the best example yet of what Rainsberger had in mind.

In appraising the 30-7 romp over State College of Iowa, Rainsberger said, "The offense, particularly the blocking and running, has improved 100 per cent since the beginning of the season, and the defense showed much improvement in just one week since the Youngstown game."

The offense showed a better ground game against the Panthers than they had exhibited in the past four seasons. The Salukis rushed for 260 yards with Charles Pemberton getting 99 yards, Hill Williams 59 yards and Roger Kuba 54 yards.

Back Roger Kuba Is Named Saluki Player of the Week

In a newly instituted practice, the SIU football coaching staff named Roger Kuba as the Saluki Player of the Week.

Flores Has Big Afternoon Statistically

NEW YORK (AP) —Tom Flores' outstanding performance against Kansas City moved the Oakland quarterback from sixth to fourth place among the American Football League's passers.

Flores completed 14 of 24 passes for 301 yards and three touchdowns in the 34-13 Sunday conquest of the Chiefs.

Len Dawson, of Kansas City, still tops the passers for the season, however. The other departmental pacesetters, rusher Jim Nance of Boston and pass receiver Lance Alworth also continued in first place for another week.

Dawson has clicked on 60 of 109 passes for 893 yards, 13 touchdowns and has had only two interceptions. Flores has completed 55 of 107 for 919 yards, nine touchdowns and had six intercepts.

Nance has rolled up 437 yards on 100 carries. Alworth has grabbed 31 passes for 517 yards and four touchdowns.

Booth Lusteg, the Buffalo placekicker, tops the scores with 48 points.

On the defense the Salukis held their opponents to 182 yards total offense and one touchdown, which came on a seven-yard run with only 8:55 remaining.

The pass defense was particularly effective, according to Rainsberger. The Saluki defenders intercepted four Panther aeriels and recovered a fumble.

Pass thefts were by Ted Schoch, Bill Hohs, Wayne Thames and Larry Cox. Hohs also recovered a Panther fumble.

According to Rainsberger, one of the bright spots lending to the Saluki victory was improved linebacking. He gave credit to Bob Roberts, who started his first game at that position.

"Both Roberts and Schoch contributed a great deal in performance and team leadership and both did an excellent job," Rainsberger said.

With the victory under their belts, the Salukis reach mid-season with a 2-2-1 record, already an improvement over last season's mark.

However, there's no time for Rainsberger and his staff to sit back and enjoy, for North Texas is next on the Salukis' agenda.

The Eagles went down to their first defeat last week against Tulsa by a 30-27 count. North Texas owns victories over New Mexico State, Texas Western, Louisville, and Tampa. Louisville succumbed to the Eagles 20-19 just a week after beating Southern 16-7.

The Eagles have one of the nation's best passing offenses, with quarterback Vidal Carlin ranked fourth in the country in passing and end John Love being the sixth most successful receiver in the nation. Eagle halfback Jim Russell is 19th in the country in the receiving department.

To these impressive figures Rainsberger added his appraisal of the Eagles. "They're the best football team we'll play this year. North Texas is a big, strong passing team with a good defense. They have one of the best passers in the country and very good receivers." "Carlin is as good a passer as Louisville's Benny Russell, and North Texas has better receivers than Louisville had," the coach said. "They have a well-organized offense. To beat North Texas we'll have to score a lot. They have scored often in every game this year."

Rainsberger is looking for a wide open game this week, since Carlin passed 54 times against Tulsa and has averaged 40 aeriels a game. The Eagles have also given up about 15 points a game themselves.

The Salukis will once again be without the services of quarterback Wally Agnew and possibly defensive back Norm Johnson, both suffering from injuries.

Rainsberger complimented Agnew's replacement, Doug Mougey, who, in Rainsberger's words, "did an excellent job against State College of Iowa."

Considering North Texas' credits, it appears obvious that the Salukis will have to show more of the improvement they displayed at Iowa when they journey to Denton Saturday.

If He Could Have Foreseen the Day's Events, Coach Lew Hartzog Might Have Stayed in Bed

By Tom Wood

It was just one of those days for SIU Cross-Country Coach Lew Hartzog.

If Hartzog could have foreseen the course of events that were to take place in the day, he probably never would have gotten out of bed Saturday.

To start things rolling in the wrong direction Hartzog's 15-year-old daughter, Gretchen, took a spill on the horse she was riding near the Arena. This occurred just before the Salukis' meet with Kansas. Gretchen is doing fine now, it is reported.

But things didn't get better for her father. Hartzog later watched the home fans unknowingly take a victory away from his Harriers as they crowded around the finish and caused such confusion with the runners that Southern's Jeff Duxbury quit short of the finish line and lost fifth place to a Kansas man—and the meet.

However, the sad finish to a well-run meet could not detract from an outstanding individual performance by Southern's Oscar Moore, who won an individual dual with Jim Ryan, the world's fastest one-mile and half-mile runner.

And Hartzog proved himself nothing less than a gentleman by not losing his "cool" and telling the pushy crowd just what might have been on his mind.

It was an unfortunate end to an outstanding team and individual performance and a frustrating day for Hartzog.

LEW HARTZOG

North Texas Salukis Play On Saturday

After three years of being devastated by the Golden Hurricanes of Tulsa University, the Salukis are not playing them this year.

But SIU is playing North Texas State Saturday and the Eagles indicated last week that they may be equally as tough because Tulsa barely defeated them, 30-27.

The Eagles, who had hopes of winning the Missouri Valley Conference, are the fourth MVC team this year for the Salukis. The others were Wichita, Louisville and Drake. The Salukis beat Wichita and lost to Louisville and Drake.

The loss to Tulsa was the first of the year for the Eagles, who had a 4-0 record going into the game, including a 20-19 verdict over Louisville. SIU and North Texas last played in 1964 when the Eagles spoiled SIU's Homecoming, 14-13.

SIU's 1966 Homecoming opponent, East Carolina, was the only other future foe to lose last week. East Carolina was beaten 20-7 by George Washington University, leaving the Pirates a 2-2-1 record.

The Salukis' other opponents won. Northern Michigan improved its record to 3-2 by blasting St. Norbert 37-0. Ball State beat DePauw 30-15 to make its record 3-1-1. And Southwest Missouri remained undefeated by stopping Central Missouri State 34-14.

Football Victories Become Fewer

SIU Winning Seasons Stopped in '62

By Mike Schwebel
(Third of a Series)

In the fall of 1962, SIU began its first season of football as an independent. In the same year, the decline of winning football began.

After a string of winning seasons, 1962 marked the beginning of a four-year losing skid.

For the record, it went 4-6 in 1962, 4-5 in 1963, and 2-8 for the past two years. In that period, two head coaches resigned and neither made his reasons for leaving much of a secret.

Coaches hate to lose, and even more, they hate it when they know they are going to lose. The talent wasn't there to match the opposition.

After stepping out of a conference which it had begun to dominate in every field, it seemed logical that Southern would step up the tempo as it did.

To find out why Southern has been a real loser for the past four years, all one has to do is take a look at the opposition.

This season's upset of Wichita State in the opening game must be considered as a classic example of what shouldn't have happened. To be brief, Southern won.

Wichita has 105 NCAA football scholarships in its program. Just how many the Salukis have is known by only a few people close to the situation, and they aren't disclosing the number. But a good guess is that Southern has few, if any, going for this fall.

Next came Louisville and a 16-7 loss by the Salukis. Louisville has 90 NCAA scholarships this year. SIU?

North Texas State, next week's foe, counts 95 scholarships. Ball State, another opponent, has just finished building a new stadium and plans to start on 75 NCAA scholarships next year.

All of this points out two things that must be said about SIU football in 1966.

Firstly, Ellis Rainsberger has done a hell of a good job to give the Salukis a 2-2-1 record thus far this season.

Secondly, while a review of the athletic program is under way at SIU, the opposition is escalating their football programs.

Whether or not the football situation at SIU changes may depend to some extent on the recommendations coming out of the current study of the athletic program.
