Elective ROTC Gets Approval

A new elective Air Force training program that will be expanded to the Edwardsville campus has been agreed upon by the Board of Trustees and the U.S. Air Force.

The Board approved the agreement Wednesday upon recommendation of President Delyte W. Morris.

Morris had been informed earlier this week by Lt. Col. James F. Van Ausdal, professor of aerospace studies at SIU, that Southern's elective training plan had been approved both in Washington and at the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama.

University authorities have been awaiting word from the Air Force on the plan following a campus wide poll in which students and faculty members indicated they favored elective military training.

Morris' recommendation provides for both four year and two-year voluntary programs on the Carbondale campus and a two-year voluntary program at Edwardsville, both leading to commissions.

Currently there is no program on the Edwardsville campus and at Carbondale there is a two-year compulsory Air Force program with advanced courses leading to a commission on an elective basis for those who have completed basic work.

Lt. Col. Van Ausdal explained that the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964 now makes possible the enrollment of cadets into a two-year program leading to a commission in the Air Force, both at Carbondale and Edwardsville. Before formal enrollment in this competitive program, however, candidates must attend and successfully complete a new six-week field training course.

At Carbondale, Van Ausdal said, the new two-year program will be available to students who have two years left in college, including transfer and graduate students. The Edwardsville program will be initiated under the new ROTC Vitalization Program.

Applications are now being accepted for the program.

Donald Canedy to Quit SIU For Indiana College Position

Donald G. Canedy, assistant professor of music and director of bands, has resigned to accept a position at Indiana State Teachers College, Terre Haute, Ind.

The Board of Trustees accepted his resignation which is effective June 17.

Canedy brought the SIU marching bands to national attention by revamping its playing style and putting it in flashy dress uniforms in place of the usual military uniforms.

VOTERS—Mike Williams manned one of the voting booths in Wednesday's referendum. Students voted on two plans dealing with the future of student government at SIU.

Protest 'Opinion Poll'

Student Government Leaders Boycott University Election

By Frank Messersmith

Most members of the Student Council and student government sat out the referendum Wednesday without helping the administration to choose one or another proposal that they have approved.

Ordinarily, they help operate and conduct student elections, but in a protest against the University, they refused to help Wednesday.

The refusal came after the University Council recommended that a third alternative for the referendum, proposed by the Carbondale Student Council, not be included on the referendum ballot.

Here are some statements by student government members as to why they didn't participate in operating the election booths.

Other staff changes approved by the Trustees Wednesday include the request of Harold L. Cohen, chairman of the Department of Design, to be relieved of his chairmanship. He was reassigned as an associate professor and lecturer in design.

Cohen also was granted a leave of absence to continue educational research at the Institute of Behavioral Research, Silver Spring, Md.

Robert J. Wenc, out-in-town senator, said, "It's not an election or a referendum, it's an opinion poll conducted by the administration to choose one or another proposal that they have approved."

"This referendum has made me wonder what happened to the concept of democratic freedom—especially in a University," Robert T. Drinan, Inter-Fraternity Council president and managing editor of Ka, said.

Carbondale student body president, Pat Micken, said, "It was the decision of the Student Council not to participate in an election which they neither initiated nor condoned. I must say that I agree with their thinking and would add that no real freedom of choice is available."

"As long as we must conform to the ill-conceived section of the statutes," he continued, "we will face this problem."

Stephen E. Wilson, off-campus organized men's senator, offered three reasons for not helping conduct the election.

First, the referendum offers no real choice to the students, according to Wilson. "While the two choices on the referendum are modifications of student council proposals, they were modified to such an extent that they completely

Robert Hill of Kent State To Replace Henry J. Rehn

Robert E. Hill, currently a professor of economics at Kent State University in Ohio, has been named dean of the SIU School of Business.

Hill succeeds Dean Henry J. Rehn who is retiring as dean after 20 years because of poor health.

Appointment of the 40-year-old educator was made

Wednesday by the board of trustees at its meeting in Edwardsville.

Hill, who attended Blackburn and Illinois Wesleyan Universities for his bachelor's degree, received his master's at Indiana University and his Ph.D. in 1957 from the University of Alabama.

He served as a master sergeant in the infantry during the Korean War and has taught at the University of Illinois and at Kent State.

His was one of more than 70 appointments and changes in personnel made by the board Wednesday.

Among the continuing appointments made to the staff was George C. Ackerkund as professor in the Education Division at Edwardsville; Ikua Chou as professor of government at Carbondale; and Hugh D. Duncan, as professor of sociology and English at Carbondale.

Ackerlund, a native of Chipewa Falls, Wis., has been director of the Division of Education at Northern Montana College.

Chou, a native of Chinghai, China, has been a professor at the College of William and Mary and has served here before. Duncan was born in Scotland and has served as visiting professor at Carleton College and Rice University.

Other continuing appointments included Ralph Anderson, assistant professor of English; Henry T. Boss, associate professor in the Education Division; Jan H. Brundvand, research associate professor in the Humanities Division; and Dale O. Dillard, assistant director of the Labor Institute.

Also Charles G. Drake, associate professor in the Business Division; Neal E. Poland, associate professor of mathematics; John C. Gardner, associate professor of English; David L. Gobert, associate professor of Foreign Languages; and George H. Goodwin, associate professor in the Education Division.

Only 512 Vote In Referendum At Carbondale

Only 512 students on the Carbondale campus voted in Wednesday's referendum to decide the structure of student government at SIU for the coming year. Some 14,000 were eligible to vote.

Jack W. Graham, dean of students, released this breakdown of the vote:

- Alternate A—161
- Alternate B—159
- Marked void—178
- Unintentional invalidation—11

Marked both A and B—3
The "marked void" ballots were the result of a hastily-mounted campaign by members of the Rational Action Movement to protest the referendum.

Along with some members of the student government, RAM members objected to the referendum because officials had turned down a request from the Student Council at Carbondale to add a third choice in the type of structure students would be permitted to vote on.

Graham said that the polls at the Edwardsville campus would be open until 9 p.m. because of the number of night classes. Final tally of the Edwardsville vote was not to be completed until after the Daily Egyptian's press time.

Graham pointed out that officials could make no comment about the vote until after the Edwardsville count was completed.

The alternatives on the ballot stated that a new student government must be formed by the end of the fall quarter of the 1965-1966 academic year. However, officials pointed out that this was a target date, not a deadline.

If a new student government isn't formed by then, there will be a reassessment of student government by all concerned.

The Carbondale Student Council Monday night sought a third alternative. It proposed that student government would continue in its present form until a change is approved by the students. However, the University Council recommended that President Delyte W. Morris reject the proposal. He did.

5 SIU Students To Live With Foreign Families

Five SIU students will share a living experience with families in another country this summer through funds provided by a non-profit, educational-cultural organization called "The Experiment."

The students, and the countries where they will stay, are David Bailey and Helen Mahrenholz, India; Robert P. Quail, Australia; Stephen D. Threlkeld, Austria; and the group leader and campus representative, John Ludlam, Japan.

The Experiment's programs are based on the theory that one learns most about the world's peoples by "living among them as a member of the family."

Those interested in the program may obtain further information from Ludlam at the Student Activities Office in the University Center.

Spring Antics, Fun Plague SIU Doctors

By Edward Rapetti

It was an unusually quiet evening at building T-44. Dr. Richard V. Lee was in an office enjoying a cup of coffee during what is normally a busy Monday night.

Somewhere between 200 and 300 students usually walk through the door of the Health Service every day seeking diagnosis and treatment for ailments ranging from simple colds to fractured ankles.

"There really isn't a time of year when we're not loaded down with more than we can handle. In past years the warmer weather usually brought down the number of cases but this year we are getting an appreciable number of accident cases usually involving cyclists or swimmers," Dr. Lee said.

Commenting on the numerous cycle injury cases he has treated, Dr. Lee said these injuries, many occurring late at night when the students have been drinking, are avoidable.

"The motorcycle is an inexpensive means of transportation and fun to ride, but too many of our young people are ignoring the risks involved."

"I'm not condemning having fun or even taking risks for the exhilaration of it, but one should use a little caution."

He cited as an example the sky-diving clubs of recent popularity. "Those boys and girls are doing something that seems insane just for the thrill involved and yet they prepare for the risk they take with safety equipment and training from qualified people." Compare that to careening down Route 13, two on a cycle, after having a beer party at the lake and you wonder whether it isn't safer to jump out of planes.

Dr. Lee thinks 90 per cent of the accidents treated are avoidable in nature, especially those occurring in and around the lakes. Many a severely cut foot and other injuries incurred around lakes and picnic areas could have been avoided by a little common sense.

He cited the tragic example of what happens when the rules of water safety are ignored by referring to the coed who was killed in a boating accident at Crab Orchard Lake. "Hindsight is always easier than foresight, but if that girl hadn't been sitting on the edge of the boat or if she had a life preserver, she might have been saved."

There has also been an increase in the incidence of gonorrhea and other venereal diseases, mainly due to the increase of student population. But Dr. Lee added, "There seems to be either ignorance or unconcern about the prevalence and seriousness of these diseases."

Dr. Lee also noted that he has treated some poison ivy cases where the tell-tale rash was located on portions of the human anatomy which arouse some suspicion as to how it was incurred.

A Disheartening Failure

SIU was almost the scene of an American phenomenon this spring.

A student action group nearly achieved its purpose without violence or demonstrations. But somehow the Rational Action Movement lost its momentum after reaching its first goal, a meeting with the administration. Since those meetings began, student involvement and enthusiasm has all but disappeared. No longer do posters proclaim mass rallies or do bulletin boards furnish the latest RAM news.

This apparent failure is disheartening in itself. It is unfortunate that a movement with some admirable ideas and a fairly large measure of student support has not succeeded.

But even worse is the state of affairs that produced the need for a RAM at SIU. Basically this involves a failure of the administration to communicate with the students. Neglecting to inform the rest of the University about policies well in advance could not help but lead to discontent.

Added to this has been a student government that has seemingly devoted its time to haggling among its members and not taking action. This organization, too, has not communicated. Several students have remarked to this writer that they did not remember what the student body president looked like, much less having heard him speak. And this same president waited until much of the committee action had been taken on the new plan for student government to announce to the campus in Ka that he was opposed to the new concept. Finally in this maze of misunderstanding comes the image of President Morris. No matter how much he is available to students, his image as the inaccessible head of a University bureaucracy remains. The problem is that students don't see him enough, don't get to hear him talk on campus issues as he did at the Sigma Delta Chi news conference.

It is obvious that President Morris is extremely busy, but perhaps an effort by him and by other administration officials and student government leaders to seek student opinion and listen to their problems would do much to clear the air at SIU. It certainly would be less painful and probably more fruitful than another student action movement.

Change of Campus Base Pay Unjust, Grad Students Say

If we were student workers, we would be standing on a table right now screaming, "Injustice!" In fact, we are not student workers but graduate assistants and when we read the article in Thursday's Egyptian we launched immediately into a 20-minute exposition on the proposed base pay increase in which we screamed "injustice" several times.

As we understand your article, all student workers hired after July 1 will begin work at $1 an hour while present workers remain at the present base rate.

Let us examine the possible consequences of this system. Mary starts work this spring and Joan this summer, in the same office, performing essentially the same task. In July, Mary's supervisor cannot honestly say that she has worked "long enough and hard enough to be receiving $1 an hour on the old system of wages."

Therefore Mary will be earning 85 cents per hour and Joan $1 per hour and if the girls' abilities etc. are fairly equal this wage discrepancy will remain as long as they are employed by this office.

This is unjust, but to a larger or smaller degree this situation will be duplicated thousands of times this summer. Any union member in the country would walk right off the job if asked to remain at work under a system such as described in the Daily Egyptian. (In fact, a student such as Mary would actually be able to increase her wages by quitting her present job and beginning anew if her present wage is less than $1 an hour.) Most of our student workers cannot do this, however. Most of them could not continue their education without the financial assistance supplied by student wages.

If the Student Work Office feels that it cannot afford an across-the-board 15-cent increase for all then it should make it a common 10-cent or even a 5-cent increase but not this arbitrary division of new workers and old workers. We sincerely hope that this decision is reconsidered.

Mrs. Marie Adele Humphreys
Miss Maureen J. Fleming
William Burriss Owen

(Editor's note: Frank Adams, director of the Student Work Program, said any student who is working for less than $1 an hour will automatically go up to $1 on July 1. Students hired on or after July 1 will get $1 an hour.)

'Campus That Was' Unfair to Campus That Is

The little revue "That Was The Campus That Was," which was glowingly reviewed in an article in the cynics' page, Ka, (May 22) and reported as "depicting the sheer absurdity of life at school here" is a matter of serious concern to all thinking people. Staged ostensibly in the spirit of "good natured fun," the revue betrays an underlying, pathological attitude on the part of those involved in it.

While it sketched the many complaints of at least the idea men, script writer and actors, it also dramatized their and many students' cynical, critical attitude toward existing conditions on and off campus. This unhealthy attitude, which is often expressed in carping criticism, verbal and actual, is symptomatic of maladjustment to the limitations and inadequacies of their environment. It prevents them from making the best of what there is; gains them nothing worthwhile.

In view of their criticism and peevishness, one begins to wonder if these students came here expecting to live and study in a paradise. As it is, most of the conditions these maladjusted students are peeved at very likely exist in other universities and places, too. For it is doubtful that there is a school and a city that could ideally suit everyone.

If the state of things on campus are as unsatisfactory as B.L. stated in his article, SIU would have lost many students and remained static in spite of the population explosion. It has not, and it does not appear that it will.

Certainly, many things need to be improved or simply can't be helped, while others have been improved. What is needed of students is patience and understanding, not criticism and pettiness.

Those malcontents who constantly find fault may find it to their own good to remove themselves to other schools elsewhere and take with them their sour grapes too.

There are thousands of more serious students who are here and will be coming to get an education and withstand some inconvenience. The university and community more properly belongs to them.

Negro Voter-Rights Bill Approved by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Amid echoes of a bitter Southern assault, the Senate Wednesday passed President Johnson's Negro voting rights bill and sent it to the House.

After a 25-day debate, Johnson's top-priority measure won Senate passage on a 77-19 roll-call vote.

"It has taken us 100 years to catch up with this problem," said Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois who helped write the bill and chart its course through the Senate.

"Not since Reconstruction has the Senate permitted this Union to be so perverted and subjected to such a diabolical attack," said Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La.

The outcome was never in doubt. Sixty-six senators—more than enough to pass the measure—sponsored it in the first place.

The major hurdle was cleared Tuesday when the Senate voted to stop talking about the bill, which would suspend state literacy tests and authorize federal registration of voters in wide areas of the South.

Ellender said the Johnson bill violates the Magna Carta, the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, and the Constitution.

Dirksen called the bill practical and enforceable. "This may yet be an epochal day in the life of this country," he said.

Actually, there were three Senate votes on the measure. All three were on the same terms.

First, the Senate adopted, 78-18, the amended version it has been considering, and substituted it for the measure recommended April 12 by the Judiciary Committee.

The next step was approval of the revised committee measure. It came on a voice vote.

Then came passage of the bill.

Despite repeated overhauls in the Senate, Dirksen said some minor changes still should be made. He said they can be handled when House and Senate work out a final, compromise version of voting rights legislation.

A similar bill has been recommended by the House Judiciary Committee. Its terms are not identical. House leaders have been marking time on the bill, awaiting Senate action.

It came after a final chorus of Southern opposition.

With each man limited to one hour of talk, Deep South foes of the voting rights legislation rose one after another to fire final charges of tyranny, coercion and unconstitutionality.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., said the measure would touch off violence.

And Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said it was anticlimactic anyhow. "The formality of a final vote is nearly at hand," he said. "The nation has witnessed an almost unparalleled display of political power."

Advocates of the measure wrote in a last-minute amendment seeking to make sure its new voting rights guarantees go swiftly into effect.

Antics of Pickets, Protesters Take Spotlight At Chicago Un-American Activities Hearing

CHICAGO (AP)—Antics of pickets and protesters stole the show from a witness Wednesday at a hearing by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

They provided the action inside and outside the hearing chamber while a retired steel worker, "an unsung hero of our times" in the words of the committee chairman, told of gathering information for the FBI while he was a Communist Party member.

The weather took some of the edge off activity at the second of three days of hearings by the committee in Chicago.

A heavy downpour drenched early arrivals for parade duty around the former U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals building on North Lake Shore Drive. The result was that the groups of pickets, some opposing, others supporting, the committee's proceedings, were markedly smaller than Tuesday's turnout. The 125 spectator seats in the chamber were not all filled.

And U.S. marshals made places for 12 more by carrying or escorting out men and women, most of them young, who interrupted the testimony by shouting protests such as, "This farce has gone far enough," and "HUAC should be abolished."

HUAC stands for House Un-American Activities Committee.

Joseph Tierney, U.S. marshal, said those taken out and arrested have been charged with impeding a committee of Congress in exercise of its proper process of investigation.

Among the pickets were three men in military uniforms with armbands bearing the Nazi swastika. They carried placards reading, "Communism is Treason," and "God Bless HUAC."

Other pickets supporting the hearings appeared to be individuals acting on their own rather than as members of an organization. Opponents of the committee's work said they had lined up representatives of 30 organizations for demonstration duty.

Lucius Armstrong, 65, a retired steel mill hand, told the committee that he joined the Communist Party in 1931. He said he left it twice, in 1934 and again in 1958, but rejoined in 1963 when the FBI asked him to keep an eye on party activity.

In speaking of his evaluation of the Communist Party in this country today, Armstrong asserted: "The American people better wake up.

"Today the Communist Party in America is a frustration group," Armstrong testified.

When Armstrong had concluded Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said Armstrong and others who spied on the Communists for the American government "are the unsung heroes of our time."

Tornadoes, High Wind Hit Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Tornadoes and high wind battered the Chicago area yesterday and caused extensive property damage.

No serious injuries were reported, although several persons were bruised or cut by flying glass.

Several were treated for cuts at O'Hare International Airport on Chicago's Northwest Side after winds up to 54 miles an hour shattered two huge windows in the main airline terminal.

Winds up to 48 m.p.h. blew through Midway Airport on the city's Southwest Side, destroying one private plane and damaging two others.

Five patrons were cut when a twister blew out the front window of the Lakeside Grill in Addison, west of Chicago.

One tornado blew off the roof of Our Lady of Hope School in Rosemont, but none of the children was injured.

Four passengers were bruised when a Chicago Heights bus was blown against two power poles, temporarily disrupting power in the area.

One home was demolished and a dozen others damaged by a tornado in Sauk Village. Mrs. Dottie De Foe, whose home was destroyed, was in the house with her 4-year-old daughter when the tornado hit, but both escaped serious injury.

A farmer in Plainfield reported he and the tractor he was operating were lifted off the ground by a tornado. A woman in Skokie told a similar story about herself and her car. Neither was hurt.

Judith McKinney, 22, a speech therapist at Addison's Old Mill School, reported seeing a garage flying in the air about a block and a half from the school. She said it was circling up above the house. Then it began flying apart. Boards flew away, shingles flew.

Torrential rains followed in the wake of the tornadoes.

Airline service at O'Hare was delayed for an hour. A number of buildings at the airport were damaged along with some parked cars. One small plane was overturned.

The Illinois Public Service Co. said the tornadoes caused considerable damage to its facilities in Lisbon, Morris, Manhattan and Plainfield.

University Budget Passed by Senate

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Legislation providing $80.5 million in operating funds for SIU for the next two years has been given final legislative approval.

The bill was passed by the Senate and sent to Gov. Otto Kerner. The figure was the same as that approved earlier by the Illinois House of Representatives.

This figure had been adopted by the Illinois Board of Higher Education to cover salaries and other operating expenses at Carbondale and Edwardsville from 1965 through 1967. SIU originally asked for $95.5 million for the budgetary period. This figure was reduced by the Board of Higher Education, and SIU officials said they would accept the lower figure.

SIU's present two-year budget is $56.3 million.

Scientist Says It's Possible To Stay 20-30 for 40 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—"There's no theoretical reason," said Dr. Robert R. Kohn Wednesday, "why we should not be able to keep people as they are at age 20 to 30 for another 40 years."

"Assuming society would want it," he added.

Kohn, a Western Reserve University pathologist, said "If we put as much effort into this as we do in getting to the moon, we might do it."

But another scientist said that even with such prolonged youth, general wear and tear would still exact its toll.

Kohn made his comments at a conference on research progress and trends in aging, sponsored by the National Institutes of Health.

Defining aging as "a normal biological process with onset sometime around maturity," Kohn suggested it's primarily due to progressive changes in collagen, a chemical occurring in the connective tissue outside the body's cells.

Kohn said studies of a muscle disease in animals indirectly suggest the possibility of using a chemical called beta aminotriple to slow down collagen changes, and possibly inhibit aging.

Dr. F. Marot Sinex, a Boston University biochemist, conceding that collagen changes might be one of the factors in aging, forecast that the secret of the physiological process of aging eventually will be tapped.

But even if it is, he said, "there will always be a mortality force."

"There will always be wear and tear," whatever that is," he said. "No one is immortal... I don't think our bodies are perfect... the human lung, for example, could not breathe polluted air forever."

Investigation Sought In Liston-Clay Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House member proposed Wednesday that Congress investigate the Liston-Clay heavyweight fight.

The call for a probe of Tuesday's night's fight came from Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., who called the encounter "quite a fraud" and "a disgrace to boxing."

Vietnamese 'Spine' Attacked

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. bombers concentrated much of their attention Wednesday on a single section of North Viet Nam's seaward spine, the Vinh area. Four raids centered in and around Vinh, a garrisoned town midway between the border and Hanoi.

The Soviet news agency Tass said one attack was made on a point in Ninh Binh Province only 60 kilometers—37 miles—from Hanoi. But its Hanoi dispatch gave no details and independent confirmation was lacking.

The closest approach cited in Saigon briefings covering strikes by more than 60 planes was a raid on three PT boats in the Song Ba River near Thanh Hoa, 80 miles south of Ho Chi Minh's Red capital. The closest previous announced strike was 55 miles from Hanoi.

Hanoi has been immune throughout the raids that started last Feb. 7 and the Russians now are reputed to be helping stiffen its defense.

The U.S. State Department said earlier this month a Soviet missile site was in preparation there and Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a Washington news conference Wednesday there may be a second site in the immediate Hanoi area.

In the ground war, paratroopers of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade went hunting Viet Cong for the second time. Helicopters landed a detachment for an assault on a hill.

Council for Mentally Retarded To Hold Convention at SIU

The Illinois Council for Mentally Retarded Children will hold its 15th annual convention June 4 and 5 at Southern.

The program is designed to celebrate the 15th year of the founding of the Illinois Council and the National Association for Retarded Children.

On Friday, the members will be taking tours, attending leadership training sessions and enjoying a buffet dinner hosted by the Egyptian A.R.C.

A keynote address, "The Second 15 Years" will be given on Saturday by Dr. Herbert J. Grossman, director of the Illinois State Pediatric Institution.

A professional symposium on mental retardation, held on both days, will explain the problem of retardation and how it involves many professional fields, such as medicine, psychology, public aid, education and social work.

Anyone who works directly or indirectly with the mentally retarded is invited to attend the symposium.

Speaker at the Saturday luncheon will be Dr. William Sloan, director of the Division of Mental Retardation Services in the Illinois Department of Mental Health.

He will discuss the "Preliminary Report of the Governor's Advisory Council on Mental Retardation."

Representatives of the SIU faculty are expected to take part in the program which will be attended by lay people as well as professionals working in the field of mental health.

Reservations for the convention can be made through the Egyptian Association for Retarded Children, Box 753, Carbondale.

New ROTC 2-Year Program Broadens Students' Eligibility

The Air Force has announced that eligibility rules have been broadened for college students interested in obtaining Air Force commissions through its new two-year ROTC program.

Specifically, the newly launched program will provide for the first time an opportunity for students having two academic years remaining to count both undergraduate and graduate work within those two years.

Lt. Col. James F. Van Ausdal, professor of Aerospace Studies at SIU, says applications are now being accepted for entry into the required six-week field training course, which is prerequisite for enrollment into the two-year commission program this fall.

Since the Air Force will conduct two of the summer training sessions, applicants will have an opportunity to select the one which will best fit their particular summer plans. The first training period will begin June 13, and the second Aug. 1.

The field training courses will be conducted at two selected Air Force bases, Maxwell Air Force Base, in Montgomery, Ala., home of Air University, the Air Force's professional schools, the Air War College, the Air Command and Staff College, and the Squadron Officer's School will train approximately 200 applicants.

Keester Air Force Base at Biloxi, Miss., will handle the remaining candidates at its major Air Force Electronics School facilities. Both bases will conduct two sessions.

Upon satisfactory completion of the six-week training session, candidates will be enrolled in the new two year AFROTC program when they enroll in school this fall.

Under the terms of the program, cadets will receive $40 per month while attending the field training courses. The number of classroom hours required to complete the course has been reduced in keeping with today's crowded academic schedules.

Upon successful completion of the two-year program, graduates will receive active duty assignments as professional officers in career areas related to their field of study.

Van Ausdal said that applications will be accepted at SIU as long as sufficient time remains for applicant processing. He pointed out that applicants who begin processing early would have the best chance for selection of the particular field training session they want.

James W. Hughes Succeeds Turner as Job Center Head

Resignation of Director James D. Turner and appointment of James W. Hughes as his successor headed a list of 67 personnel appointments and changes at the Breckinridge, Ky., Job Corps Training Center operated by SIU.

The Breckinridge appointments were confirmed by the University board of trustees Wednesday.

Turner, who drafted the original proposal resulting in SIU's selection as contractor by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity, is leaving Aug. 15 to accept a position as vice president for academic affairs at Humboldt State College, Arcata, Calif. Prior to assuming charge of the Job Corps Center he was professor of higher education at SIU.

Hughes, presently deputy director of the camp, was named director, effective July 15. Formerly he was director of corrections for the Commonwealth of Kentucky. He received his bachelors and masters degrees in education at Temple University. He taught at Indiana and Kentucky universities.

The appointments list included 37 instructors and 18 training supervisors, two physicians and a dentist.

The Center is scheduled to receive 88 young men each week through June, then 44 each week until the capacity of 2,000 trainees is reached. Plans call for basic education, work training and vocational skills.

The Center is located at Camp Breckinridge, a World War II Army training center near Morgan field, Ky.

Sahara Coal Co. Grants

Four Receive Scholarships To Study Forestry at SIU

Four students have been selected to study forestry at Southern next year. The scholarships are granted by the Sahara Coal Company.

These persons receiving the $225 grants which cover a year's tuition and fees at SIU are Dale R. Baer of Summerfield, Robert L. Marlow of Herrin, Ray A. Newbold of Marion, and Eric Larson of Wyanet. The first three hold the scholarships this year and are SIU forestry students. Larson will enter Southern as a freshman next fall.

Ninety SIU forestry students have been aided by the scholarship grants. Twelve of these students have continued their schooling with graduate study in forestry, and three are working on doctoral degrees. Others work for the United States Forest Service, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, the Peace Corps, and in state and private forestry positions.

The scholarships are the final grants from a $9,000 grant from the Sahara Coal Company of Chicago and Harrisburg to SIU in 1961 to provide scholarships for SIU forestry students over a four-year period. The firm's purpose was to help students interested in forestry careers because of the need for trained persons in this field.

Golfing Was Family Affair

Brothers Muehleman Play 'About Even'

By Joe Cook

Who's the better golfer of the two Muehleman brothers? Ask Bill or his younger brother Tom or their teammates and you get a variety of explanations and opinions, but no concrete answer.

"I respect my brother's game, but I'm not afraid to play him," said Tom who seemed to sum up both boys' veivis in that one statement.

Said Bill, "I used to beat him a lot when we first started, but we play about even now."

Bill and Tom Muehleman started golf at an early age. Bill was 12 and Tom was 10 when their uncle took the whole family out to the Branson, Mo., golf course one day.

"There were at least eight of us in the group, and it must have taken us four hours to finish 18 holes," said Bill. "Neither Tom or I played much after that until we attended Alton, Ill., High School."

Bill was more interested in baseball than golf at first and didn't go out for the golf team until his senior year.

That one year was a big one for Bill. He was the conference and district golf champion.

Meanwhile Tom lettered three years in golf, but his success was not as rapid, as he let his temper get the best of him most of the time.

Bill enrolled at Southern his freshman year but didn't break into Coach Lynn Holder's starting lineup until this year. He competed in only three matches his sophomore year and three his junior year.

His performance last year at Springfield, Mo., helped his team win the NCAA college division championship. Bill finished fourth with a 36-hole total of 215.

Tom, now a junior, broke into the starting lineup last year, but a hand infection sidelined him for much of the season. Tom recovered in time for the NCAA meet and finished 13th with a 36-hole total of 223. Tom had the low round the second day when he posted a four underpar 68 for 18 holes.

This season the records of the two boys have been close with each boy staying within one or two strokes of the other.

Last week's match against Parsons College was a typical example. Bill shot a 75 for 18 holes and Tom fired a 76.

"We don't worry about beating each other," said Bill. "We just worry about beating our opponents."

Cycletron Revised To Avoid Hazard

The motor bike maze event in the Cycletron competition has been changed as a result of a protest by two cyclists. The deadline for new entries has been extended to 5 p.m. Friday.

Larry Lindauer and Frank Koncewicz protested to the Cycletron steering committee that it was dangerous to hold the motor bike maze, a timed event combining accuracy, speed, and precision on an asphalt course as originally planned.

Lindauer and Koncewicz were assigned to lay out the course for that event. They plan a timed event in the spirit of European trials over a 100 yard dirt course with slalom features. Each contestant will be penalized one second every time his foot touches the ground; two seconds each time he violates the boundaries; and three seconds for each dead stop or fall.

Warm-Up for Tourney

Salukis to Take On St. Louis Saturday

SIU's baseball team can go back to concentrating on its regular season finale, now that it has accepted a bid to defend its NCAA College Division Mid-East Regional Tournament title.

The Salukis will play tough St. Louis University Saturday in a twin bill starting at 1 p.m. The contests will be SIU's final tuneups for the playoffs which open at SIU a week from this afternoon.

The four-team tournament had originally been scheduled for next Wednesday and Thursday but has now been moved to Thursday and Friday.

There will be two games both days with the first game starting at 12:30 p.m. each afternoon. The championship game will be the second game Friday. It will be preceded by a consolation contest.

Saturday's tournament could prove to be one of the toughest tests the Salukis have had. The Bills won the Missouri Valley Conference Title last week for the third straight year.

The St. Louisans opened play in the NCAA District 5 major college playoffs Wednesday night against Missouri at Busch Stadium in St. Louis. The best 2 out of 3 games in the series continues this afternoon.

The winner will advance into the College World Series to be played June 7-11 at Omaha, Neb. So the Bills, with a 21-5 record going into Wednesday night's game, could come into Carbondale as one of the eight major college division finalists.

The test, meanwhile, for Glenn (Abe) Martin's team will give the Salukis' pitching staff a final workout. Both aces Gene Vincent and John Hotz were razor sharp in the Parson's series last weekend.

Hotz fired a fire-hit shut-out in the series opener and then Vincent pitched one of the best games of his career in the second game.

The 21-year-old right-hander from Rockport, Ind., pitched a no-hitter for six innings and allowed only two singles all afternoon. He struckout six and walked one while picking up his seventh win of the season against one setback.

SIU hitters however didn't have the same success. Although they scored 14 runs, five of them were unearned. However, the team did collect 29 hits in the three games which was almost up to its average of 10 a game.

Centerfielder John Siebel and team batting leader Kent Collins led the hitting attack. Siebel, the senior lefthanded swinger from St. Louis, Mo., had six hits in 14 at bats including four out of five in the series finale.

Collins meanwhile had 4 for 11 but his batting average dropped 10 points to .436. Siebel boosted his average 17 points to .330. Most of the other Saluki players lost points, however.

SIU to Play Ohio Wesleyan In First Round of Tournament

The four-team field for the NCAA college division regional baseball tournament to be held in Carbondale next week was completed Wednesday.

Western Illinois University of Macomb and Ohio Wesleyan University of Delaware, Ohio, were named to the field.

Host SIU and Union University of Jackson, Tenn., were selected Tuesday.

Union will play Western in the tournament's first game at 12:30 p.m. June 3 with SIU to meet Ohio Wesleyan in the second game immediately after the opener.

Union will carry the best record of any team into the tournament with a 23-0 mark. Western Illinois is 21-6, SIU 17-2 and Ohio Wesleyan 11-4.

The teams were chosen from a 10-state area that included about 180 eligible teams. Selections were made by a four-member NCAA selection committee of which Andrew Vaughn, assistant professor in the Department of Health Education at SIU, was chairman.

Others on the committee were Jack Rafeld of Mount Union, Ohio, Jack Russell of Union University and Bill Wall of MacMurray College.

SIU is the defending regional champion, having defeated Union 7-2 in the championship game last year.

Newcomers Club to Sponsor Children's Swimming Course

Swimming lessons for children aged 6-12 and junior life saving instructions for children aged 12-15 will be offered this summer at SIU's Lake-on-the-Campus.

Registration for the lessons will be at the Student Activities Office in the University Center from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays, and from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday, during the week of May 31-June 5.

The lessons will cost $6, and all checks should be made out to the SIU Newcomers. There will be no refunds.

During the first session, children in junior life saving, which is only offered during the first session, will meet at 9 a.m., beginners at 10 a.m. and intermediates at 11 a.m.

During the second session, intermediate swimmers will meet at 9 a.m., beginners at 10 a.m. and advanced at 11 a.m. During the third session, beginning swimmers will meet at 9 a.m., intermediates at 10 a.m. and advanced at 11 a.m.

Student Government Leaders Boycott University Election

subvert the original intent of the proposal," he said.

Wilson's second reason stemmed from the fact that "The president, (Delyte W. Morris) refused to allow the duly constituted representatives of the student body to present their own alternative."

The third reason was based on the fact that in the referendum, the voters could not refuse both of the proposals; it was an either-or situation, he said.

John C. Henry, Thompson Point senator, said, "By participating in this type of an election, we are conceding to a point that a higher body has the right to change the internal structure of student government."

"It appears to me," he continued, "that the administration, by calling Alternative C illegal by the statutes, are really working under a premise that any form of student government is illegal unless it conforms to some of their ideas."

William H. Murphy, president of the University Student Council, said of the Council's refusal to help with the election:

"The Student Council and its leaders are trying to do anything in their power to thwart any kind of rational action to find a workable solution to student government."

"They're not trying to do anything constructive," he said, "they're like babies if you take their spoon away from them."

BILL MURPHY... "they act like babies..."

Fall Undergraduate Admission 1,064 Higher Than Last Year's

September admission of new undergraduate students to SIU is running almost 40 per cent ahead of the same time last year, according to Leslie J. Chamberlin, director of admissions.

Records compiled through the end of April show 3,804 entering freshmen and transfer students tentatively accepted for fall quarter on the Carbondale campus. The figure last April was 2,740.

There are no plans for curtailing fall enrollment, except as already limited by entrance requirements. Southern has effectively limited fall quarter admission of freshmen primarily to higher ranking high school graduates. Others, if eligible for admission, must enter in the summer, winter or spring quarters.

Chamberlin said admissions policy has successfully spread new student enrollment throughout the school year, helping the University to meet demands of the heavy surge of qualified students.

City to Purchase Garbage Trucks

Carbondale garbage collection is expected to be improved this summer with the purchase of two new "packer-type" garbage trucks. Mayor D. Blaney Miller said the City Council has approved purchase of the two trucks and an ordinance is being drafted to authorize the purchase.

Three Students Fined $100 In Theft; 1 Fine Suspended

Two students paid fines of $100 each and $10.30 in court costs and were placed on one-year probation in Williamson County Circuit Court May 21 on theft charges. A third student, who also drew a one-year probation, had his $100 fine suspended.

The two who paid fines were Roger Clapp, 19, a freshman from La Grange and Jerry Goff, 19, a freshman from Lawrenceville. Ronald Swintek, 20, a sophomore from Evergreen Park drew the suspended fine.

In addition to the fines, all three were restricted from the Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge, and from Crab Orchard, Devil Kitchen and Little Grassy Lakes.

A spokesman for the Student General Affairs office said the three were arrested May 15 on charges involving the theft of a traffic counter from Crab Orchard.

All three were requested to invite their parents to a conference with University officials before a decision was made on disciplinary action.

Instead, they withdrew from school, the spokesman said. He said none will be eligible for reentry until first cleared by the Student General Affairs office and he doubted that they would be able to transfer to another school with disciplinary action pending against them here.

The spokesman also said authorities found two microphones in the students' room which one of them admitted had also been stolen. In addition, they found packets of paper plates and cups in the room and in the trunk of Swintek's car. The spokesman said it was reported to him that these matched paper plates and cups had been taken in the recent burglary of a local store.

He said a Security Office official had sent a notice to one of the students, who was not named, informing him that burglary charges were being placed against him. The spokesman said it appeared that others might have been involved in the burglary.

City Council Approves Plan For Off-Street Parking Lot

The Carbondale City Council has authorized contracting proceedings for construction of an off-street parking meter lot to be located behind the Varsity Theater, on Illinois Avenue.

The authorization was made at the request of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, at the City Council meeting Tuesday night.

The move will call for a 10-year lease from the Rogers Theater Company. The lot will provide for 51 parking spaces near the downtown area. The council also approved the installation of parking meters on Jackson Street, and on the east side of Marion Street.

The council also adopted an ordinance allowing for the vacating of an alley west of University Avenue, behind the First Presbyterian Church. The action came at the request of the church, which owns the property.

Mayor D. Blaney Miller said, "The alley has no further use to the city, and will be closed to the general public."

The area will be made into a parking lot for the church. The first reading was held on an ordinance imposing penalties on persons or firms violating an ordinance concerning coin-operated amusement devices. All of the devices, excluding juke boxes, require a $10 license fee.

"Other communities are imposing violators with $100 and $200 fines, which I feel are not unfair," said Mayor Miller.

W. E. Eaton, finance commissioner, told the group that the fiscal budget for the next year, beginning June 1, would allow for only one major improvement. Members of the council and some other city employees will receive a pay boost ranging from $15 to $50, retroactive to May 31. The pay increase goes along with added responsibilities which must be assumed by those named, Eaton said.

Eaton said he disapproved of the size of the budget, and declared that any other major improvements would have to come from other sources. Among these, he listed a state sales tax and a tax on local utilities as possible sources.

A recommendation by Mayor Miller that council meetings be moved from Tuesday to Monday nights was approved by the council.
