Plans to remove Pulliam's asbestos

Plans to remove asbestos-containing insulation from Pulliam Hall will finally begin after delays in the project pushed the project back eight months.

Services Inc. of Alton will begin the removal of asbestos-containing insulation from Pulliam Hall on March 14, the project architect, said. The firm's lead architect, said. The firm's lead architect, said. The firm's lead architect, said.

removal project was expected to begin in late February but was pushed back when original bids were too high and had to be reviewed by the state's Capital Development Board.

Costs of the asbestos-removal project were originally estimated at $600,000, but were lowered to $400,000 by the board. The funds left over from the asbestos project will be reallocated for the building's renovation.

Ehnsack said the removal is expected to take about four months. Allen Haake, Physical Plant supervising architect, said he hopes have the work done in three months.

"We're pushing them" since the project is running behind schedule, Haake said.

Haake said the bidding process for the renovation of Pulliam Hall should be completed before the asbestos removal work is finished. When the asbestos is removed, the renovation work will begin.

Bidding for the renovation will begin after the plans are circulated to contractors on May 1, Haake said.

Renovation of the building had begun in 1986, but was abandoned in July 1987, when architects discovered that much of Pulliam's insulation contained asbestos, ruining plans to use parts of the

Leader in hiding, group calls strike

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Deposed President Eric Arturo Delvalle remained in hiding for a second day Sunday as opposition groups worked to resuscitate a nationwide strike to protest his dismissal by supporters of military strongman Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Leaders of the Civic Crusade, a coalition of opposition business, professional and civic groups, vowed to "paralyze" Panama when they called an immediate strike. But after a feeble response Friday and Saturday, on Sunday they rescheduled the stoppage for Monday.

The strike was called to protest a National Assembly vote deposing Delvalle in a pre-dawn emergency session Friday, hours after the president surprised all observers by ordering the removal of Noriega as chief of the Panamanian Defense Forces. The National Assembly named Noriega ally Manuel Solis Palma as acting president.

There have been few public signs that Panamanians opposed Delvalle's ouster, although privately many support Delvalle. On Sunday morning a group of worshippers at a downtown Catholic church waved white handkerchiefs and briefly shouted anti-Noriega slogans when they left a morning mass service.

Delvalle said his ouster was unconstitutional and he retreated to his home Friday vowing to form a new government. When police surrounded the house Friday night and Delvalle got word Noriega wanted to deport him, Delvalle slipped over a wall in his backyard, dodged police guards and went underground. To quash rumors he left Panama or sought U.S. sanctuary, Delvalle told ABC News by telephone Saturday. "I'm here in Panama. ... I'm not moving anywhere."

President Reagan received updates on the Panamanian situation through the weekend from the National Security Council staff. Officials confirmed the administration was considering ways to increase pressure on Noriega, including economic sanctions. The United States suspended most aid to Panama in July.

Stressing the administration was "looking at all the options," one official also underscored the need to "move on this somewhat slowly" and to avoid "precipitous action."

Noriega aide Mario Rognoni warned on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday the United States should not intervene in Panama or ultimately the Panamanian government would "have to take steps with regard to the government of the United States."

He later criticized U.S. senators for getting "involved in our problems."

The United States and other countries have said they still regard Delvalle as the legitimate president of Panama. Delvalle claims he remains in power.

An emergency meeting of the Organization of American States yielded strong support for Delvalle Saturday night, even though the OAS did not cast a vote on the crisis.

The political crisis in Panama marked perhaps the lowest point in relations between Washington and Noriega — the real power behind the civilian government — since Noriega's supporters attacked the U.S. Embassy with stones last June.

Jackson is Maine surprise of caucus

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Jesse Jackson ran a surprisingly strong second to Michael Dukakis in Maine's Democratic presidential caucuses Sunday, while George Bush apparently won all 22 of the state's national convention delegates in the Republican caucuses.

Jackson, the civil rights leader from Chicago, won narrow victories in Portland and Bangor, the state's largest and third-largest cities. Dukakis, governor of nearby Massachusetts, easily took Lewiston, the second-largest.

With 383 of 504 cities and towns reporting, or 76 percent, Dukakis had won 1,059 delegates to the state Democratic convention (43 percent of the available delegates), to 663 delegates for Jackson (27 percent), 110 delegates for Illinois Sen. Paul Simon, 73 for Missouri Rep.

Richard Gephardt, 41 for Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore and 22 for former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart. Another 497 delegates, were uncommitted.

A straw poll of voters entering the caucuses showed the margin even closer, 39 percent for Dukakis to 29 percent for Jackson.

"We consider this to be an overwhelming victory," said Ivan Suzman, a Jackson spokesman in Maine.

The Democratic caucuses choose most of the 3,553 delegates to the party's May 13 state convention in Portland, which will select 23 of Maine's 27 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. The others are appointed by party leaders.

State Democratic officials said the caucus tally likely would result in about 12

Iran shells Iraqi port city to avenge weekend raids

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Tehran said its warplanes bombed an oil refinery in the strategic Iraqi port city of Basra Sunday to avenge weekend air raids against Iran, and Baghdad vowed to "reply firmly" to the most recent shelling of its cities. An Iraqi military spokesman said Iranian forces shelled civilian districts in Basra and three other cities along the 900-mile battlefield Saturday and Sunday, killing scores of Iraqis.

Israelis intercept suspected guerrillas, kill 2

TYRE, Lebanon (UPI) — An Israeli naval patrol traded gunfire with suspected Palestinian guerrillas attempting to sneak into Israel aboard a rubber dinghy, killing two of the gunmen believed on a terrorist mission, Lebanese sources and the Israeli military said Sunday. The dinghy caught fire and sank late Saturday, but three suspected guerrillas escaped, sources said.

Pakistan officials discuss Afghan peace plan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — President Mohammad Zia-ul-Haq called Parliament into emergency session Sunday to debate whether Pakistan should sign an accord with Afghanistan on a Soviet troop withdrawal or hold out for creation of a transitional Afghan government. Officials disclosed that support from Iran and other allies of Pakistan was weakening for Islamabad's demand for an interim government.

Shultz: Middle East peace package promising

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz, after visiting Israel and three Arab countries, said Sunday he believes the United States and Egypt have a "package that is promising" for breaking the stalemate in Middle East peace efforts. The optimistic assessment was contrasted with his talks Saturday when he found Jordan and Syria unyielding on their demand that an international conference include the Palestine Liberation Organization and dictate the Arab-Israeli negotiations that would follow.

Ex-member testifies at supremacists' trial

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — A former member of the religious-paramilitary group known as The Covenant, the Sword and the Arm of the Lord testified in a federal trial that he left the organization because of its plots against federal officials. Fourteen white supremacists have been on trial for three weeks, 10 of them accused of seditious conspiracy to overthrow the federal government and five accused of plotting to kill U.S. District Judge Franklin Waters and an FBI agent.

Doctors turn off life support for Texas baby

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (UPI) — A Texas baby born missing most of her brain was breathing on her own Sunday after doctors turned off life-support systems that had helped to preserve her organs in a controversial transplant program, officials said. With the parents' consent, physicians at Loma Linda University Medical Center removed Baby Evelyn from artificial breathing equipment late Saturday, seven days after her birth in San Antonio.

U.S. students do poorly on international tests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The scores of American students from elementary through high school on international science tests paint a dismal picture of science education in the United States, a National Science Foundation expert said Sunday. American students placed in the middle at best and more often landed at the bottom among test takers around the world, the study showed.

AIDS forum to focus on queries, complaints

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

People with questions or complaints about Illinois' AIDS laws will have a chance to speak out at a public hearing at 11 a.m. today in the Student Center.

"Anything anyone wants to say is welcome," Tom Schafer, spokesman for the Illinois Department of Public Health, said. "The issue of AIDS is so important that we want to give people throughout the state a chance to comment. Things that we don't think about internally may come out in the hearings."

AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, is a virus that breaks down the body's immune system. It can be transmitted through blood, semen and other bodily fluids.

People can speak for up to 15 minutes at the hearing or submit testimony in writing to the public health department.

Each comment will be reviewed and evaluated by the department. The department will then decide whether or not the policy should be changed based on what people say, Schafer said.

Last spring, Gov. James R. Thompson signed 200 pages of AIDS rules and regulations into law. The policy was proposed by the public health department and approved by the Legislature.

The hearings are designed to make sure the AIDS legislation is acceptable to the people of Illinois, Schafer said.

The draft rules include guidelines for:

- Implementing premarital testing;
- Contact tracing; confidentiality standards;
- Blood and human tissue testing requirements for the AIDS virus;

—Laboratory protocols for AIDS antibody testing;

—Written consent and counseling of persons being tested for exposure to the virus.

Today's hearing is the last of six hearings. Other hearings were at Springfield, Rock Island, Wheaton and two at Chicago.

"The hearing is a success if anyone shows up to comment," Schafer said. "The other AIDS hearings had fairly good size crowds and about four people testified at each (hearing)."

Drakeford found guilty of murder

By John Mohler
and Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

A Murphysboro woman found guilty of the second-degree murder of her sister may be sentenced in six weeks, Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons said.

Dianne Drakeford, 31, faces a prison sentence of between 4 and 30 years for second-degree murder and armed violence convictions, Clemons said.

Clemons said the Probation Department has revoked Drakeford's probation and she remains at Jackson County Jail. She will be taken to Dwight Correctional Center after sentencing by Judge William Lewis, he said.

Public defenders Robert Van Derhoff and Andrew Zimmer could not be reached for comment.

Clemons said he was satisfied with the second-degree conviction. "I had hoped for a first-degree (murder conviction)," Clemons said. "But I can understand how they arrived at that."

The jury returned the verdict at about 10:30 p.m. Friday, after deliberating for five and a half hours.

State's attorney hopefuls speak at forum

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Jackson County needs elected law officials that will combat racial discrimination, hire minorities and respond to the needs of blacks, people at a NAACP candidates forum said.

About 20 people attended a National Association for the Advancement of Colored People forum Sunday to hear Jackson County state's attorney candidates and an Illinois Supreme Court candidate talk about their qualifications and campaign platforms.

Blacks demanded concrete examples of what candidates will do to help them.

W. Charles Grace, candidate for state's attorney, said he will hire black assistants in the state's attorney's office, be responsive to complaints and assist blacks in dealing with law enforcement agencies.

Grace said that he will deal with problems like police harassment in an ongoing fashion and not wait for volatile situations to arise.

"I'm (the state's attorney) the only person who looks at all law enforcement efforts, whether good or bad, and deals with them effectively," he said.

Guice Strong, candidate for state's attorney, said he will ensure that blacks are not discriminated against in the hiring process. Strong added that he'll serve as a mediator between community groups, police and government.

"I'll make sure that everybody gets a fair shake and that everybody is treated with dignity," Strong said. "I don't have a crystal ball, but I will listen to and address the problems."

Charles Kolker, a candidate for the Illinois Supreme Court, said that he can't discuss issues that may come before the court, but he asked people to look at his past.

Kolker said he was chief legal advisor for the East St. Louis branch of the NAACP, has been involved in the civil rights movement for 20 years and lives in a black neighborhood in East St. Louis.

Elbert Simon, chairman of Carbondale's NAACP Political Action Committee, said the NAACP won't endorse candidates because people have different views on different issues and it's not fair to make people conform to one view.

"All candidates are invited to the forum to address the issues," Simon said. "We let people decide for themselves."

Fill the Arena for Steve Middleton

TONIGHT MARKS THE end of an era for Saluki basketball.

Steve Middleton, the heart and soul of the men's basketball program since his sophomore season three years ago, will play his last game in the Arena at 9 p.m. against Bradley.

Since coming to SIU-C from Brooklyn four years ago, Middleton has given Saluki fans his best and has gotten little support in return. Crowds in the Arena have been small and quiet for most of Middleton's career. In fact, it seems the only times Saluki fans come to the Arena is to see the opposing teams' stars.

THE LARGEST CROWD in Arena history was in 1979 when Indiana State's Larry Bird came to town. More recently, such players as Wichita State's Xavier McDaniel, Missouri's Derrick Chievous and Bradley's Hersey Hawkins have been the main draws at the Arena.

It makes sense for fans to get excited about seeing an opposing superstar play. But it makes very little sense for fans to stay home when they have a chance to see SIU-C's own superstar, Middleton, even when the opposing team is other than Bradley or Missouri.

Granted, Saluki basketball has not had much success since Mike Glenn graduated in 1977. At times the team has looked so bad, one had to wonder whether it could beat the Lincoln Jr. High School seventh-graders. But those years are past.

SALUKI BASKETBALL IS on its way up and the main reason for optimism is the foundation built almost single-handedly by Steve Middleton.

It is hard to imagine how many games Middleton has won for SIU-C. But one thing is sure — without him, the Salukis would not have done nearly as well as they have.

Tonight's game has everything a fan could ask for. Not only is it Middleton's grand finale, but Bradley's Hersey Hawkins, the nation's leading scorer, will be there. Also, the game will be televised on SportsVision, a Midwestern cable network, but will be blacked out in Southern Illinois.

Let's pack the Arena just once before Middleton hangs up his maroon and white jersey for the last time. Steve Middleton deserves it.

Aerosmith review way off base

I'm disgusted with the bad rap Richard Nunez gave Aerosmith in his concert review in Tuesday's paper. It made me wonder if he was at the same show I was.

I've been an Aerosmith fan since their first album came out — and have seen them several times. I must say Sunday's concert was the liveliest yet.

The last couple times I've seen them they couldn't get through a show without lead singer Steven Tyler falling off the stage.

The Feb. 21 show was a far cry from their past infamously horrible concerts.

As for the audience, I believe its show of enthusiasm translated as approval. I don't think it was to encourage the band to perform better. I think the fact that the audience stood for most part of the show is a clear indication the band's performance met its expectations.

If Nunez had seen Aerosmith before Sunday's concert, as he implied he had in the review, he would have known Tyler has always been the center man. I can't figure out how he came up with the idea that Tyler was whispering to band members to "be a little livelier." If the band members all acted like Tyler, none of them could have played their instruments.

Tyler made Mick Jagger look like a school librarian. That's pretty good, considering Tyler will be 40 years old this year.

I agree that "Walk This Way," "Sweet Emotion" and "Dream On" were the classics. If Nunez had been paying attention, though, he would have noticed a bit of a rumble from the crowd when the band played "Dude looks like a lady" from their newest album.

Just to set the record straight, Sunday's concert was great. I think Aerosmith deserves a little more respect than Nunez gave them. They've cleaned up their act (drug-wise) and have survived regrouping.

They also have made a successful comeback in the unpredictable world of rock and roll — and for that I'm sure bands like Bon Jovi, Europe and Dokken are glad to have someone to look up to. — Jode Rimar, Carbondale.

Students voice concern over Black Studies

We enrolled at SIU-C to acquire knowledge and skills to participate as responsible citizens in our multi-racial world. We have a right to expect the University to provide us with this well-rounded education.

Black American Studies is an essential element in this process. We, the Academic Affairs Commission, are disturbed by the rumors concerning the denial of tenure to Dr. Luke Tripp and the undermining of the Black American Studies program.

If Black American Studies is in jeopardy, we want the facts. The Academic Affairs Commission is investigating these rumors and contacting people directly related to this issue. We believe the loss of Black American Studies would be severe loss to the students. Anyone interested should contact us at the Undergraduate Student Organization office. Stephanie Bending, Academic Affairs Commissioner, and Larvester Gaither, East Side Senator.

"I entered the event on the spur of the moment," he said. "Since I was a sophomore, Ron Harrer and I have been rivals in the egg drop. I entered the pentathlon to see if I could beat him and I did on the first try."

The aircraft design competition was won by John Heydt, a freshman. His plane flew 43.5 feet and stayed in the air for six seconds.

Harrer, a senior in engineering mechanics, won the mousetrap marathon. His vehicle traveled 115 feet and 5 inches.

Kenneth Tempelmeyer, dean of the College of Engineering and Technology, won the precision pacing event. Participants in the event paced out a course and determining the distance between the points. Tempelmeyer guessed 176.5 feet on an actual distance of 177.5 feet.

The Wheel of Fortune competition was won by Bill Roffman, junior in electrical engineering. Competitors guessed engineering terms. Bridge Over No Man's Gorge was won by Jeff Hillard, senior in civil engineering. His bridge held 856.87 grams.

Marc Feghali, senior in civil engineering, won the Castle Gray skull event for building the highest free-standing structure out of playing cards. Quick Fingers was won by Jong Uk Moon, senior in engineering mechanics. The event tested participants' speed in solving a mathematical problem with a calculator.

Linda Helstern, public information officer for the College of Engineering and Technology, estimated 200 people participated in the pentathlon. An additional 200 people participated in tours of laboratories, exhibits and demonstrations, she said.

building during the renovation.

The University an unwritten policy of removing asbestos when buildings are remodeled, John Meister, director of University Pollution Control, said.

"There isn't a law that says we have to remove asbestos," Meister said. But since the costs of asbestos removal aren't expected to get any lower, "the University has taken a position to do something with it when we have a chance," he added.

Breathing asbestos fibers has been linked to lung cancer and other respiratory ailments. Although the asbestos at Pulliam Hall is not crumbling, large amounts of asbestos fibers will be released during its removal, so the building will be closed to the public during the project, Haake said.

When the asbestos is removed it is treated like any other hazardous waste material, Meister said. "By law it is put in a sealed container (usually a plastic garbage bag) and disposed of in an approved landfill," he said.

The closing of Pulliam Hall began last semester. Classes scheduled in Pulliam Hall for the fall semester were moved to other locations. No classes were scheduled there this semester.

The renovation project doesn't involve the school of Art's metalwork, pottery and glassblowing studios or the swimming pool area, Haake said. The pool and the art studio areas will be sealed off from the rest of the building during the asbestos removal, he said.

The total cost for the renovation of Pulliam Hall is estimated at about $5 million. The project is expected to take about four years to complete.

The renovation includes making access easier for the disabled and installing an air conditioning system. The building currently does not have air conditioning.

Police Blotter

A Carbondale man is being held on $20,000 bond at the Jackson County Jail after being arrested on two charges of intimidation at Mae Smith Hall Saturday night, security police said.

Eddie Bell Shaw, 27, of 520 N. Springer St., was arrested after University police received a complaint that Shaw threatened a female student, police said. Carbondale police assisted in the arrest.

A University student was arrested by Jackson County sheriff's deputies after a high-speed motorcycle chase Saturday morning in Carbondale, the Jackson County sheriff's office said.

Andrew J. Aken, 24, of Makanda, was released on bond from the Jackson County Jail after being charged with driving over 100 mph in a 55-mph zone, aluding police officers and reckless conduct with a motor vehicle, the sheriff's office said.

Police saw Aken speeding on a motorcycle two miles north of Carbondale on U.S. 51 at 2:07 a.m. Aken attempted to flee officers and crashed at the intersection of Maple and Poplar streets. Aken was not injured, police said.

A vandal slashed tires and broke antennas on five cars parked at a lot west of the Neckers Building Saturday night, University police said.

A patrolman found two flattened tires on all five of the cars and broken antennas on four of them at 11:40 p.m. Police said total damage amounted to $750.

The April state convention in Bangor chooses three national delegates from each of Maine's two congressional districts and 16 delegates at large. Bush staffers said their showing in both congressional districts would ensure all 22 for the vice president.

An unofficial count by the Bush campaign Sunday showed with 212 towns reporting, Bush had won 583 delegates to 128 for former television evangelist Pat Robertson, 73 for Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, 14 for Rep. Jack Kemp of New York

"This isn't tiddlywinks," McKernan said. "We're talking about the next president of the United States. So we couldn't afford to have the national story out of Maine be that Robertson comes in a close second."

Envoy sent to Iran, paper says

LONDON (UPI) — The Observer newspaper said Sunday the United States sent an envoy — possibly a close friend of President Reagan — to Iran two weeks ago for secret talks.

In Washington, the White House responded only with the statement that "there's been no U.S. government-sponsored mission to Iran."

The unidentified American official went to Tehran to discuss the possible re-establishment of diplomatic relations and presumably the fate of American hostages in Lebanon, The Observer said.

"The United States has sent a secret envoy to Tehran in the first visit there since the ill-fated mission which led to the arms-to-Iran scandal in November 1986," The Observer said.

The story did not identify the official, but said he "apparently" traveled under the name Clark. The report also said he was "apparently" a close friend of President Reagan," but did not elaborate further.

Ford drops swashbuckler roles for more dramatics in "Frantic"

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

There is no denying the acting abilities of Harrison Ford.

For years, Ford has been considered a wooden actor who has been given roles based solely on his popularity as a leading man. Five of the top money-making movies in box office history have starred Ford. Those movies include the "Star Wars" trilogy and the two Indiana Jones movies.

In the last few years, Ford has shied away from the swashbuckler movies and taken on serious roles. "Witness," "The Mosquito Coast" and now "Frantic" have extended Ford's reputation as a serious actor.

In "Frantic," Ford plays a heart surgeon — a bland, ordinary man on a business trip in London with his wife, played by Betty Buckley of "Eight is Enough" fame.

After his wife disappears, Ford goes on a desperate search through the backstreets and alleys of London to find his wife. The only clue to her whereabouts is a suitcase that she had picked up by mistake at the airport. This leads him to the apartment of the young woman — played by Emmanuelle Seigner — to whom the suitcase belongs.

"Frantic" has all the qualities of a good Hitchcock film, including a famous backdrop, a victim of circumstance and a plot that twists and turns through a labyrinth of events

Directed by Roman Polanski ("Chinatown" and "Rosemary's Baby"), the movie is a dizzying, suspenseful thriller that owes a lot to the master of suspense, Alfred Hitchcock.

"Frantic" has all the qualities of a good Hitchcock film, including a famous backdrop, a victim of circumstance and a plot that twists and turns through a labyrinth of events.

But what makes the movie so successful is the humor. Polanski injects wonderfully humorous scenes that slow down the desperate pace of Ford's search for his wife.

In one scene, Ford is walking across a steep, slanted roof while trying to carry the suitcase. The suitcase pops open and the contents, which include the one crucial piece of evidence, slide down the side of the roof and scatter on the street below. A few minutes later, Ford discovers which of the items contains the evidence and sees it dangling from the edge of the roof.

Ford's role seems to be a deliberate parody of his swashbuckler roles. In "Frantic," Ford's character is a bumbling, blindly searching man who is maced, kicked in the head and becomes winded from climbing stairs.

It is refreshing to see Ford so willingly shed his superhero image and tackle the more dramatic and demanding roles.

"Kernels You Won't Find on the Cob" is the title of the address to be given by St. Louis radio personality Max Stewart at the College of Agriculture's All-Agriculture Banquet Friday in the Student Center ballrooms.

Stewart, farm director of KXOK, host of "Morning with Max" and author of the syndicated newspaper column "Country Comment," says his job on the banquet circuit is to humor and motivate. However, he also touches on the serious issues that farmers deal with.

In 1985, Stewart was selected as "Communicator of the Year" by the Illinois Pork Producers Association and "Broadcaster of the Year" by the Illinois Beef Association.

The banquet is sponsored by the SIU-C Agriculture Students Advisory Council

Swaggart thanks his supporters while attending church service

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Television evangelist Jimmy Swaggart, banned from the pulpit for three months because of a sex scandal, briefly took the podium Sunday at his Family Worship Center to give thanks for expressions of support.

Swaggart and his wife, Frances, who also spoke to the congregation, took their customary seats on the front row of church elders and officers on the righthand side of the stage.

He wiped tears from his eyes with a handkerchief during a hymn early in the service. When the Rev. Jim Rentz, co-pastor who took over for Swaggart, introduced the Worship Center founder, the congregation stood and applauded.

"This has been the darkest week we have experienced," Swaggart said. He said he was bolstered by words of support not only from members of his Assemblies of God congregation, but also from other religions, including Catholics, whom he has attacked from the podium.

He expressed thanks to all who had conveyed messages of caring and love, and said the ministry would continue.

"This ministry belongs to God," Swaggart said.

His wife followed him to the podium with a similar message.

"This has been a million weeks rolled into one week. The days never ended, and the nights never ended," Frances Swaggart said.

"I stand here strong in (God's) love, and his grace and his power, and he is going to see us through."

As the service was closing with an "altar-call," when members of the congregation approach the altar for special blessings, Swaggart and his wife shook hands and hugged worshippers.

In contrast to the standing room only crowd last Sunday, when Swaggart tearfully confessed to a sin against his wife, his family and the church, the 7,500-seat Worship Center was about about 85 percent full.

Rentz delivered a sermon based on Corinthians and did not refer to Swaggart's difficulties with the church as a result of the scandal.

The Louisiana District Council of the Assemblies of God banned Swaggart from the pulpit for three months and ordered him into two years of counseling following his confessed sin of moral failure. The sin reportedly involved hiring prostitutes to perform obscene acts for him.

The Executive Presbytery of the Assemblies of God in Springfield, Mo., last week reviewed the case and remanded it back to the Louisiana District Council amid reports they wanted Swaggart to step down for a year.

The Executive Presbytery has forbidden all church officials and ministers from talking about the proposed punishment, when a decision might be reached or any other aspect of the matter.

Legislature starts Mecham's trial

PHOENIX (UPI) — Charges of obstructing an investigation into an alleged death threat will be the first to be heard against Gov. Evan Mecham when his impeachment trial begins Monday before the state senate.

Opening arguments are scheduled for Monday morning, kicking off a trial that is expected to take up to eight weeks on 23 individual counts listed in articles of impeachment drawn up by the Arizona's state House of Representatives.

The articles are broken down into three main charges — trying to block a state investigation into a death threat made by one former gubernatorial aide against another; trying to conceal a $350,000 campaign loan on state reporting forms; and misusing state funds by loaning $80,000 from his protocol fund to his car dealership.

The death threat centers on Lee Watkins, formerly head of the state's prison construction program, and Donna Carlson, who formerly was Mecham's legislative liaison.

Watkins is accused of making the death threat against Carlson through another state worker — Peggy Griffith, head of the state office of Women's Services. Watkins does not face criminal charges in connection with the threat.

Mecham is accused of telling state Department of Public Safety officials not to cooperate in an investigation into the death threat conducted by the state attorney general's office.

Mecham's new team of lawyers has had only a few days to prepare the governor's defense. Attorney Jerris Leonard of Washington, D.C., and Phoenix lawyer Thomas Crowe were hired Wednesday. They joined Phoenix lawyer Murray Miller on the case, but Miller quit late Thursday.

The Senate rejected a second motion to delay the trial after pushing it back a week from its original Feb. 22 starting date. Mecham's lawyers have tried several avenues to get a second postponement, but have been turned down in each case.

The senate denied a request to postpone the impeachment hearings until after Mecham starts trial in state court on felony charges of perjury and fraud relating to the $350,000 from Tempe developer Barry Wolfson.

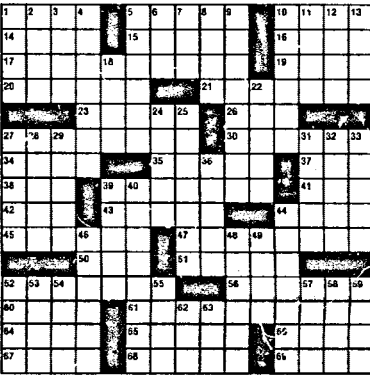

The State Supreme Court on Friday refused to order a postponement of the impeachment trial, but left open the possibility that it might halt the proceedings later.

Killers, DJs, others vie for Mecham's job

PHOENIX (UPI) — Gov. Evan Mecham's troubles, while giving tourism promoters headaches, have done wonders for the image of his office.

Everybody and his mother these days wants to be governor of Arizona.

At last count, 106 hopefuls had signed for the high post, including one roaming food critic, one disc jockey and one candidate whose hopes for the office might be tempered by the fact he could commute his own sentence.

Candidate Joe C. Smith Jr. (address: P.O. Box B-36085, Arizona State Prison) was convicted of killing two teenage girls in 1975 and 1976.

"I guess he figures he has nothing to lose and a world to gain," said Florence Ariz., prison official said Sunday. Yet to declare officially is rock star Alice Cooper, a Phoenix native. His campaign slogan: "A troubled man for troubled times."

Indeed the state has never seen such a torrent of applicants for the top job.

"A lot of people obviously thought they could do a better job than the present governor," an election official said.

Mecham, himself a four-time loser before gaining office, stands trial in the Arizona Senate this week, facing impeachment on a raft of charges including concealing a $350,000 campaign loan.

The roster of candidates, at least those who have taken out nomination papers for the May 17 recall election, runs the gamut.

with 1:43 left but lost the ball as Hollifield picked off a Middleton pass. Taphorn hit a 18-foot shot to tie the game with :27 left.

The Salukis played for the last shot. Middleton drove into the lane and missed a 12-foot shot.

The rebound squirted out of Saluki forward Todd Krueger's hands and came to Shipley who was clobbered by Illinois State's Cliff Peterson as he went up for the shot.

After a slow start, Middleton exploded in the second half and scored a game-high 27 points. He was limited to just three points in the first half where he was forced to sit out the final 12 minutes after picking up his third foul.

"I was concerned at half-time because we were behind and Middleton hadn't really made a significant contribution," Illinois State coach Bob Donewald said. "He got going in the second half."

The Salukis built a 36-33 lead at the half after the Redbirds' strategy backfired.

The Redbirds were playing for the last shot when guard Jeff Harris prematurely shot and missed a three-pointer. Saluki guard Sterling Mahan scored off a fast break as the first half ended to give the Salukis the three-point advantage.

"That gave us the spark we needed," Saluki coach Rich Herrin said.

Tim Richardson led the team with 12 rebounds in 23 minutes of play.

Women take Gateway indoor championship

By Stephanie Wood
 Staff Writer

The women's track team broke five school records on its way to capturing its second straight Gateway Conference Indoor Track Championship. SIU-C scored 119 points in Bloomington this weekend, followed by Wichita State with 89 and Drake, 82.

"When the prelims were done, it looked pretty evident we were going to win," Coach Don DeNoon said. "It was definitely over long before the fat lady sang."

Christiana Philippou won the triple jump with a record leap of 40 feet. She finished fourth in the long jump with 18-8. In the triple jump she was followed by Brenda Beatty in third, 37-5 1/4, and Carmen Robbins in fifth, 35-1 3/4.

Rosanne Vincent set two school records, in the 800-meter run and the 4 x 800 relay. Vincent broke her own 800 record of 2 minutes, 14.59 seconds with a run of 2:12.3, which was good for fourth.

The 4 x 800 relay team of Vincent, Jane Schumacher and Danielle and Michelle Sciano finished third in a record 9:59.60.

Vivian Sinou broke the record in the 3,000-meter with a time of 9:42.70 for a second-place finish. Lisa Judisack finished third in 9:49.5.

Dora Kyriacou finished second in the 200-meter dash in a record 25.28 seconds. She placed second in the 400-meter run in 56.5.

Felicia Veal won the 55-meter hurdles in a time of 8.18. Sinou won the mile in 4:54.30 and Judisack finished fourth, 4:57.45.

Judisack and Sinou finished third and fourth in the 5,000-meter run in times of 17:27 and 17:28.3.

Danielle Sciano finished the 500-meter dash in 1:14.6 to capture third place. Robbins placed third in the pentathlon with 3,264 points.

The 4 x 400 relay team of Michelle and Danielle Sciano, Vincent and Veal finished second in 3:53.33. The 4 x 200 relay team finished fourth in 1:43.9.

"Even though we went into it favored, we had to do everything right to win," DeNoon said. "It was just a good solid performance on everyone's part."

Today the athletics department plans to announce the selection of another national search committee. The committee needs to be pragmatic and get on with its task quickly.

Spring training starts in three weeks. The early days of practice are important; they are the foundation on which the entire season is built.

Also important for those on the selection committee is to remember what is needed. The team does not need an academician, it does not need an administrator and it certainly loses not need a philosopher.

What SIU-C need, is an old-time football coach, one who will do what is necessary to bring home win — not one who spends time wet-nursing his players through school.

What may prove difficult on such short notice is being able to find someone with the attributes of a Vince Lombardi toward the aspect of winning football games. The next coach also needs to have a love for Southern Illinois as a place to play and stay.

The selection of a football coach can be accomplished in a reasonable period of time. The University of Illinois spent only 16 days to replace Mike White with John Mackovic. It took Ohio State 45 days to replace Earle Bruce with John Cooper.

That is not to say a quick replacement is at all preferable to a quality replacement, but time is at a premium.

It's crunch time for the football team. The players, the facilities, almost everything is shipshape and ready to go. The search committee needs to put the Saluki football program back on course.

Mature Middleton thanks SIU-C for the opportunities

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

Just when you think you've seen everything, Steve Middleton would go one-on-three, penetrate into the valley of the giants and bank in a shot off the glass.

While the third-leading scorer in SIU-C history has been making opponents look bad for the past three years, he has paid more attention to other parts of the game and developed into a complete player this season.

"I'm starting to really get a grasp on what I can and cannot do," Middleton said. "Maybe that to a certain extent, is what's making me play well."

COACH RICH Herrin attributes Middleton's improved play to a change of attitude.

"He believed in scoring so much as a younger player that it was a high priority to him," Herrin said. "It was too high. There are more important things that you get more satisfaction from — winning, passing the ball, rebounding."

"Steve Middleton can do what Steve Middleton wants to do. I think sometimes Steve lacks the motivation. If he really doesn't think it's important, Steve Middleton isn't going to worry about it. I think there are lot more important things to Steve than there were a few years ago."

HERRIN HAS had a large impact on refining Middleton's play. Like a good jockey with a prize-winning thoroughbred, Herrin has let his star player run wild but has cracked the whip when needed.

"I make sure he goes to class and does everything right," Herrin said. "If I have a problem, I just call his dad. I think Steve knows if there's a disagreement between the two of us, his dad is going to be on my side."

Middleton agrees that, at times, he needed the guidance.

"When I was a little bit younger and a little bit more immature, I had to do things my own way a lot more," he said. "At that time the only people who could get through to me were my parents. So it was a reliable source for him (Herrin). It worked."

DURING HIS four-year career at SIU-C, Middleton has watched players with equal or lesser skills receive more attention.

"He probably hasn't gotten the appreciation he really deserves," Herrin said. "Unfortunately for his sake, he didn't have the privilege to play on a winner. It's not Steve's fault. We were just a little short of talent."

Middleton hopes the fans appreciate the effort he put forth on the court.

"To many fans, my style of play will never sit well with them," he said. "To many fans, I'll always be a gunner."

"But to the true fans, and I don't know how many I do have, I hope they'll tell the others 'He could play and he played hard. He played for the team.'"

DESPITE THE Salukis' 46-65 record in the last four years, Middleton doesn't have any regrets about becoming a Saluki.

"I've matured into manhood here," he said. "I came to this campus as a 17-year-old young man from the ghetto in Brooklyn, New York. I've had the opportunity to play three great years of basketball. I've had the chance to travel. I have met some people in my life who have changed me and the way I think about things. I thank Southern Illinois University a great deal for that."

Once Middleton finishes playing basketball at SIU-C, he has two goals left.

"PLAYING IN the NBA is a dream, getting my degree (in history) is a reality," he said. "I will follow that big dream until it can't be followed anymore. I will also lead with my head and not my heart."

Next season will be Herrin's first without No. 24 at guard. The Saluki coach knows exactly how much Middleton's and 6-7 in the Valley, have won four straight and have clinched at least a tie for fourth.

Bradley, 22-4 and 11-2, owns a seven-game winning streak. The Braves have sewn up at least a tie for the Valley title and can win it outright with a win tonight.

There will be no need for the 45-second shot clock. The two top-scoring teams in the Valley get nervous if they hold on to the ball for more than 30 seconds.

The Braves light up the scoreboard for 92.0 ppg while the Salukis score 82.8 ppg.

Stan Abbeck's relentless offense is directed by point guard Anthony Manuel (13.4 ppg, 3.5 rpg), who has the second-highest assist average in the nation at 12 per game.

Other probable starters include forwards Jerry Thomas (6.5 ppg, 2.6 rpg) and Trevor Trimpe (6.8 ppg, 3.7 rpg) and center Luke Jackson (8.5 ppg, 7.3 rpg).

Forwards Paul Wilson (5.8 ppg, 2.6 rpg) and Greg Jones (4.3 ppg, 3.6 rpg) and center Donald Powell (12.0 ppg, 7.0 rpg) come off the bench.

In the first meeting this season, the Salukis lost 99-93 in Peoria.

Spikers win 4 in St. Louis

The volleyball team started its spring season on the right foot, capturing first at a friendship tournament Saturday at Washington University in St. Louis.

The Salukis won four matches and lost one. They defeated St. Louis University 2 games to 0, Eastern Illinois 2-1, University of Missouri at St. Louis 2-0 and Washington 2-0.

Southeast Missouri defeated the Salukis 2-1.

Middleton vs. the 'Hawk'

By Dave Miller

Game time: 9:08 p.m., Arena
(Televised: SportsVision of Chicago)

Two of the fastest guns in the Valley will shoot it out when the Salukis play the 14th-ranked Bradley Braves at 9:08 tonight at the Arena.

Hersey Hawkins (35.6 points per game, 7.1 rebounds per game) will bring the nation's top scoring average into the duel. Steve Middleton (24.9 ppg, 6.4 rpg) will bring the Valley's second leading scoring average into the confrontation.

"Hersey knows when he comes down we're going to get after him," Middleton said. "I don't think he'd have it any other way. This time, maybe he'll be able to guard me and I'll be able to guard him. That's the one thing I'd like to do. I hope that might even be a little challenge.

"The thing that's most important to me is winning. I want to make sure people understand Steve Middleton is playing this game as SIU against Bradley — not as a Hawkins-Middleton contest."

It will be the last home game for Middleton and Tim Richardson. The seniors have yet to beat Bradley in their careers.

"I don't think Bradley respects us," Richardson said. "We're going to gain respect from Bradley one way or another."

Both teams bring winning streaks into the game.

As even the best snip is rendered helpless when it's steering mechanism breaks, so now lies the Saluki football program, helpless in a sea of uncertainty following Ray Dorr's abrupt resignation.

While broken rudders may have sunk more than one ship, that same end result doesn't need to apply to the Salukis' situation. At least not now.

Fortunately for SIU-C, there are no scandals such as the ones that have recently rocked Southern Methodist University and the University of Illinois.

There are no known NCAA infractions being investigated at SIU-C.

There remains a nucleus of seasoned veterans on the football team, not to mention 31 newly signed recruits.

The stadium's impressive facelift, the addition of the weight room and other improvements made to the football program in the past few years all are positive aspects and certainly good selling points for coaches on the lookout for a new team to lead.

Rick Shipley, No. 40, scrambles for an offensive rebound with Illinois State players Saturday at the Arena. Shipley made a free throw at :06 to give the Salukis a 68-67 victory.

With its fourth straight win, the Salukis will finish in the top half of the Missouri Valley Conference standings for the first time since the 1978-79 season.

Steve Middleton exploded for 24 second-half points and led the men's basketball team past Illinois State 68-67 Saturday at the Arena.

The Salukis, 12-14 overall and 6-7 in the Missouri Valley, clinched the first-division finish and will play the winner of tonight's reighton-Drake game in the first round of the conference tournament.

Against Illinois State the Salukis, not known for their defense, looked like the best defensive team in the Missouri Valley.

"We played some of the best defense we've played all year, especially down the stretch," Saluki forward Rick Shipley said.

Shipley hit the game-winning free throw with :06 left after being fouled as he tried to put up a shot after rebounding a Steve Middleton miss.

Shipley missed the second attempt but Illinois State's Tony Hoffield three-point try to win the game bounced off the rim as time expired.

The Salukis took a 67-65 lead with 2:11 remaining after Middleton scored his 13th straight point. Illinois State forward Matt Taphorn then dribbled the ball off his foot out-of-bounds.

Men runners are champs; one qualifies for nationals

The men's track team won the Missouri Valley Indoor Track Championships by upsetting three-time defending champion Illinois State in Bloomington this weekend.

"We were underdogs and the way our team performed was unbelievable," Coach Bill Cornell said. "The difference (from last year) was that they believed in themselves."

Brian Bradley led the way, qualifying for the national indoor championships in the long jump with a jump of 25 feet, 7 inches. Bradley's distance was good for MVC and SIU-C records. His previous best was 24-10.

"It kind of surprised me," Cornell said.

Modiba Crawford finished sixth in the long jump at 22-6 1/2. Ron Harrier, who qualified for nationals in the 35-pound weight last weekend, won the event with a throw of 59-11 1/2. Eric Bomball placed fifth at 49-9.

Harrier and Bomball finished second and third in the shot-put with throws of 54-9 1/4 and 52-10 3/4.

The Salukis had three pole vaulters in the top five with Shane Weber finishing second at 16-6. Mike Michels finished third, 15-4, and Derek Pahl finished fifth, 14-6.

Demetris Theocharous placed fourth in the high jump at 6-10. Leonard Vance placed second in the triple jump with a leap of 48-10 3/4. Crawford went 47-11 3/4 to finish fourth.

Bret Garrett, still trying to qualify in the 800-meter run, won the event in 1:55.73. Qualifying standard is 1:50.50.

Garrett placed second in the 600-meter run in 1:18.3.

All-American Andy Pettigrew won the mile in a time of 4:08.30.

Erick Pegues and Kevin Steele finished first and third in the 400 with times of 48.35 and 49.25.

Jobie Kelly won the 1,000-meter in 2:28.64 followed by Joe Taylor in fourth and Pettigrew in fifth.

The mile relay team of Garrett, Steele, Billie King and Pegues won in 3:15.5.

Guy Sikora placed second in the 55-meter dash in 6.48.

SIU-C scored 160.5 points followed by Illinois State with 144.5 and Indiana State with 120.

Women's basketball team knocked from GCAC race

By Troy Taylor

The season and any hope for playoff action ended for the women's basketball team Saturday.

In the last regular season game, the Salukis shot a dismal 29 of 75 (38.7 percent) from the field and lost to Northern Illinois 79-67 at Chick Evans Field House in DeKalb.

The loss was SIU-C's fourth in a row, putting the final record at 16-11.

Then, in Des Moines, Iowa, Drake defeated Southwest Missouri 74-56 and knocked the Salukis out of the Gateway Conference race.

The Salukis were 12-6 in the conference, finishing fifth behind Illinois State, Eastern Illinois, Indiana

State and Drake. The top four teams get bids to the conference tournament.

After trailing 38-24 at halftime, the closest the Salukis got to Northern Illinois was six points, 57-51, with 5:36 left.

Ballhandling errors plagued the Salukis. The team committed 25 turnovers to Northern Illinois' 17.

Three Salukis, Diane Beideck, Amy Rakers and Mary Berghuis, fouled out. Northern Illinois went to the free throw line 36 times and made 27 for 75.0 percent.

Berghuis paced the Salukis with 18 points and seven rebounds. Bridgett Bonds added 13 and Cathy Kampwerth had 10 points and nine rebounds.
