The two students burned to death in the collision on May 9, Clinton County Coroner Ben Moss said. They were John Rolofson, 22, of Blandinsville and Jerry Cobble, 21, of Westville.

They were on their way home for Mother's Day.

One of the motorists in the crash, Edward Roach of Beckemeyer, attended a hearing Tuesday but did not testify. No charges have been filed.

Witnesses at the hearing testified that Roach, a field agent for the Illinois Department of Public Aid, tried to pass another vehicle and his collided with the auto occupied by the students.

U.S., Russia Announce Treaty Providing for Consular Offices

WASHINGTON -- President Johnson announced Wednes-day an historic consular treaty day an instoric consular treaty with the Soviet Union and termed the event "a significant step" in building understanding between the American and Soviet peoples.

The treaty, announced simultaneously in Washington and Moscow, will provide for the opening of consular of-fices in the two countries. It is the first treaty ever negotiated between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson, citing the advan-tages which he expects this tages which he expects this country to receive as a result of the agreement, said that when the treaty takes effect "Americans detained in the Soviet Union for any reasons will be assured of access without delay to American consular officials,"

George Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked

Mervin D. Field's California Poll, based on samplings May 20-23, put the New York governor ahead of Goldwater, 46 to 33 per cent, with 21 per cent undecided.

The May 4.9 current interview.

The May 4-9 survey, just before Rockefeller's Oregon victory, favored Goldwater, 43 to 27 per cent, with 30 per cent undecided.

The latest results indicated Rockefeller had picked up not only some "don't know" vot-ers but some Goldwater supporters as well.

Rockefeller, however, showed no letup in speech making and hand pumping. He said another victory here next Tuesday would provide "tre-mendous impetus" to his quest for the nomination at the par-ty's national convention in July, Eighty-six delegates are at stake in the California primary.

Rockefeller also didn't relent on his contention that Goldwater fails former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's definition of "responsible Republicanism."

is retiring in June after teaching 36 1/2 years in Illinois schools.

Miss Whitesel is a native of Charleston and a graduate of Eastern Illinois University. She has seven brothers and sisters, all of whom attended Eastern, making theirs the largest family to do so at that school.

She received her master's degree from Columbia University. She also studied at the American Academy of Art, the American Academy of Art, the Fashion Academy of Art, the Fashion Academy at Rockefeller Center, New York, and Syracuse University.

Before coming to SIU in 1955, she was at the University of Illinois for 10 years.

Prior to that, she taught at Hindsboro, Evanston, New Trier High School in Winnet ka, the school of Domestic Science and Arts in Chicago, Stevens College, Western Illi-nois University, Indiana State Teachers College, and the University of Wyoming.

She has also been a designer and dressmaker in Chicago.
Miss Whitesel credits

Evanston and New Trier High Evanson and New Frier right Schools as giving her her best background in teaching, since they require better-than-average teachers, she noted. She said that while she was teaching at the University of Illinois, many students asked her for her philosophy of teaching. She set up 16 points she said she has always tried to use as her guide and to pass to use as ner guiue and to pass on to others.

The points include being humble, being a teacher not a dictator, having respect for individual differences, treating students as you want to be treated, being fair, honest, sincere and not being afraid philosophy continues with being tolerant, sympa-thetic, understanding, giving credit where credit is due, trusting your students and having confidence in them, being a person of your word and having a sense of humor.

It concludes with not being afraid to stand up for what you believe in and for what is right, not being afraid to work, being cooperative, having faith in justice, and always putting your best foot forward.

When students ask her how when students ask her now she wants them to do a par-ticular task, she replies, "It's not how I want it done, but the way it will be best."

While at SIU, Miss Whitesel has staged style shows of a professional nature with her students modeling clothes made in her classes. She has also helped these students in obtaining summer jobs giving them experience in that type

When asked how she feels about present designs, she suggested that people in Southern Illinois do not try to copy high fashion models.

She said high fashion is for debutantes and not for us. She suggests that people wear what is becoming to them and to their environment.

One student, Kathleen Cagle from Marion, wrote a poem to Miss Whitesel in which she commended her teaching and personality. She closed the poem with these lines.

"Thank you for being so kind and all the patience you have had, And having you as a teach-er the words I find are I'M GLAD, I'M GLAD!"

at the crossroads. Now that it has approved bond issues for schools, parks and street improvements, the time has come for this com-munity either to make a transition to a larger scale and more efficient method of city operation or to remain under the same system used by the city's founding fathers. Carbondale still functions under the city council system.

Although this democratic procedure received hearty ap-proval of citizens back in great - grandpa's day and proved to be quite adequate too, it is doubtful if the same would hold true in this age of exploding populations, ex-panding cities and soaring costs.

Five little governments headed by five city council-men are responsible for the major facets of Carbondale's daily affairs. True, the city council serves as a general overseer for the five departments but each individual member is naturally more concerned with his own department.
What the city needs is one man who could handle the dayto-day administration of these five departments and keep them functioning on an "all for one" basis.

In other words it needs a person to administer its af-fairs under the direct supervision of the elected council-

Why should Carbondale try to change the system of local municipal administration? Within the next three decades, Carbondale will decades, Carbondale will probably have a population ranging between 50,000 and 80,000 people according to some estimates. Accompany-ing this fantastic rise in residents will be an equally fantastic rise in traffic problems, sanitary needs, zoning regulations and protection problems, just to name a few.

A city council composed of laymen will not be capable of city administration. Even wise citizens are elected, they will probably not be able to understand the complex problems confronting the Car-bondale of the future.

The solution is a city manager plan.

Under this democratic system an appointed manager coordinates and supervises the city's affairs but is responsible to the city council for orders and policies.

Educated in public administration, a city manager could greatly aid Carbondale's future. At the same time he could solve some of today's problems.

Citizens should:

1. Discuss the proposal with each other; consult reliable sources on the plan's efficienand consider the problems both today and tomorrow which are will face Carbondale.

2. Organize a campaign to support petitions calling for a general election to vote-in city manager proposal.

the city manager proposal.
3. Actively support the proposal prior to the election.
4. Favor the issue on election day with an overwhelming
"yes" vote.

5. Volunteer for a committee to help select a city manager for Carbondale and help make the transition from a council to a council-manager form of government.

A city manager plan in Car-bondale would eliminate much of the confusion characteristic of several phases of local government today.

The city manager plan is the plan of today which will work tomorrow.

New View of Forced ROTC: Student Reaps Cultural Gain

I have read with interest and a growing uneasiness the flatulent outpourings pro and con (many pro--few con) com-pulsory ROTC. It seems to me that these pettifogging pro-lixities generate much heat and little light.

and little light.
Viewed objectively, can it be said that there is any fundamental difference between ROTC and any other required course in the General Studies curriculum? I daresay that a reasonable number of students might be found who are hitterly conneed. found who are bitterly opposed to being compelled to devote their valuable time to English, chemistry, music apprecia-tion, mathematics or physical education, when they would much prefer to concentrate in familiar fields.

The desirability of broad exposure seems to be well established. A student who comes to the University with little or no knowledge of the in the same manner as he derives benefit from enforced exposure to arts, physical sciences, languages, social sciences, and the like. True, there is a distinction, not really a difference, between ROTC and other subject matter in that the wearing of a ter in that the wearing of a uniform sets it apart. This, uniform sets it apart. This, too, is part and parcel of the education process which seeks to acquaint the student with as many new and varied thoughts and experiences as possible.

Don't sell ROTC short. Some students like it; just as there are some who like the required courses in literature, music, mathematics, physics and history. The University administration apparently believe that our students need to acquire some knowledge of the military. There has been no evidence that they are mistaken.

Democrats in GOP Disguise Brew Convention Confusion

The SIU Mock Political Convention nominated Henry Cabot Lodge on the fifth ballot when 400-plus Goldwater delegates swung their support to Lodge while the support of Lodge (unrealistically, Nixon was not even nominated) to prevent complete domination of the convention by Democrats posing as Republican dele-

The convention's major defects were obvious to the casual observer. Delegations were split between Democrats and Republicans, Several were
"chaired" by Democrats,
Three even chose their chairmen from the ranks of the Student Peace Union and Student Nonviolent Freedom (committee This group case) Committee. This group, con-trolling entire delegations, was narrowly able to prevent Goldwater's nomination on the first ballot in which he more votes than Rockefeller and Lodge combined.

Delegations clearly mitted to Goldwater in July erroneously cast their ballots for a variety of candidates to stop Goldwater.

Confusion reached its peak when the Arizona chairman refused to nominate Goldwater refused to nominate Goldwater because its chairman was a Democrat. On the second ballot Arizona did no better, splitting its delegation for the liberal candidates. Southern delegations voted for liberal candidates although reality will see these states committed to a strong state's rights candidate.

However, Indiana, Missouri, Texas and South Carolina were more realistic than the maiority of delegations. They voted for the candidate most likely to receive the actual vote at the Convention.

vote at the Convention.
SIU Young Republicans should be given credit for stemming the forces representing the "liberal persuasion." YR's do not mind a dispute within their own party ranks, but they do not believe in nominating a candidate backed by Democrats.

The convention was a significant step toward encouraging the participation of young people in politics. Regrettably this SIU Mock Political Convention was a complete failure vention was a complete failure if it was to represent the actual proceedings of the Grand Old Party's 1964 convention. The outcome could be the same, but the convention will be composed of Republicans dedicated to principles around which they can all unite.

Residence Council Seeks Help in Drive For Radio Station

On Wednesday night, May 20, the Residence Halls Council unanimously voted their full support to the campus closed circuit AM radio station. This was not a novel idea for us. For the past few years R.H.C. has been solidly behind this idea, and now, we renew our pledge of support to this necessary complement to campus.

I urge anyone who is interested to take action on this in the form of petition, letter, or any other means. I ask anyone who can help us to do so, whether they are staff, faculty or students. Our campus needs this station; let's prove beyond a reasonable doubt that we want it.

1st Meet Is Friday In New Track Setup

Southern will be the host for the first Illinois Track and Field Federation meet in Stadium Friday afternoon and night.

Although disappointed by lack of interest in the meet, SIU track coach Lew Hartzog maintains the affair will be one of the better sports at-tractions in the near future.

Hartzog, who is president of the recently formed Illinois chapter of the U.S. Track and Field Federation, said, "We simply are not organized well enough yet, but should be much better by this time next season."

The meet, which is open to any amateur athlete, will be in McAndrew Stadium, with oreliminaries slated for preliminaries slated for 1 p.m. and the finals at 7 p.m.

Hartzog foresees the meet as one which will attract the finest collegiate track and field stars in Illinois, as well as the top prep performers.

"There's no reason in the world why this particular meet could not develop into one of the state's outstanding sports events," Hartzog said. "Illi-nois has some of the finest young track stars in the nation and we hope to have at least two divisions in the meet eventually."

Salukis to Meet Billikens in Season Closer; Youngstown First Foe in NCAA Tourney

Southern's baseball team closes out its regular season doubleheader in St. Louis against the Missouri Valley Conference champion Billikens. The Salukis might not be concentrating too hard on the Bills, who figure to give them a rough time of it, because of the recent acceptance of an NCAA small-college reg-ional invitation.

The NCAA bid, received late Tuesday morning, was immediately accepted by Athletic Director Don Boyds-ton and coach Abe Martin. "We're real excited at having an opportunity to par-ticipate in a post - season tournament," said Martin after he received a phone call from the NCAA committee. The Salukis, who had won 17 in a row, had their string snapped last Saturday by Par-College in the final game three-game series at Fairfield, Iowa. However, the Salukis will have to concenmeaning the Bills -- if they want to take a 19-1 record into the four-team tournament to be held June 4-5 at Jack-son, Tenn.

Although Martin is un-certain as to which of his two star pitchers he will use against Youngstown Univer-sity in the opening tournament game, the veteran coach will employ both Gene Vincent and Johnny Hotz against the strong Billikens.

Legislation enacted by the General Assembly calls for a test of public warning sys-tems at the same hour the first Tuesday of each month, There will be a one-minute steady blast of the alert signal, followed by one minute of silence before one minute of wailing tones or short blasts of the "take cover" signal.

The Civil Defense warning The Civil Defense warning differs from the weather signal in that there is no alert given for a storm, and that intermittent blasts are the only signal for taking cover.

The pair of strong-armed right - handers has virtually dominated Southern's mound chores this year and both have established new records as a result.

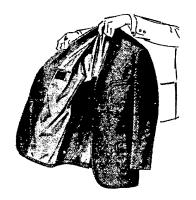

In addition to his 9-0 regular season record, Vincent won one of three decisions on SIU's spring trip through Texas making him the winningest pitcher in Southern's history.

Hotz, meanwhile, has col-lected 86 strikeouts to top the former record of 82 set by Ron Ayres in 1956.

In addition to to SIU Youngstown, Union College and Mount Union College of Alliance, Ohio, will compose the regional field at Jackson.

finals June 10-12 at Spring-field, Mo. Coach Lynn Holder's Sa-lukis, who recently finished the season with a fine 14-4 record, will meet some of the best small college teams in the nation at Springfield.

Twenty teams are expected to compete in the college division meet, which is a pre-liminary for the NCAA university division finals to be held June 14-15 at Colorado Springs, Colo.
Southern will be represented by a six-member squad at Springfield. Three members of the squad--Gene Ca-rello, John Krueger and Jerry Kirby--were chosen on the basis of their regular season performances while the other three-Bill Muehleman, Tom Muehleman, and Leon McNair--qualified after competing in a 54-hole intra-squad playoff earlier this week. Bill Muehleman, an Alton junior who did not compete in any regular season matches, took top honors in the elimination match with a score of 209 (72-70-67).

Saluki standouts Jim Place and Al Kruse will not con-pete in the NCAA tournament because of other commitments.

According to Holder, the top 10 individual players and his starters have the ability to finish among the first 10, but added that they "will really have to be in the groove if they expect to qualify for the NCAA finals."
