Leasure assistants resigning posts

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two assistant provosts, under departing Vice President for Academic Affairs Keith Leasure, have resigned and a third has hinted that he may also resign.

Monday was the last day of work in Leasure's office for Dean Stuck, who earlier had disclosed his intentions to leaving when Leasure left his post. Leasure announced his resignation last December. July 1 has been set as a target date for naming a replacement.

Although she has not officially informed Leasure of her resignation, Karen Craig said Monday that she, also, would not be working in Leasure's office after he leaves.

Both Stuck and Craig cited the need for Leasure's successor to name his own assistants as the basis for their resignations, but Craig added that she has other reasons, but would not release them. "I'd prefer not to say since I haven't even submitted any papers yet," she said.

Leasure's other assistant provost, John Baker, said Monday he has "no specific plans" regarding resignation. "I don't know what's going to happen. I've got several things I need to do before July 1," he said, adding that it "wouldn't be unusual" for him to resign when Leasure does.

Stuck will fill a teaching vacancy recently created in the Educational Administration and Foundation Department. He will replace Kenneth Ripple, who will head the SIU "Program for the Military."

Stuck handled the matters of tenure, promotions, sabbaticals, and other people-related areas in the academic affairs office.

Craig said she may go back to teaching in the Family Economics and Management department, but added she may teach in another department, which she would not identify. Craig was named to the post last April.

Leasure expressed little surprise over the resignations of the assistant provosts, saying, "I think any vice president should have the freedom to choose his own assistants."

Deadline set in search for new VP

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The search committee for a new vice president for academic affairs has picked April 15 as a deadline for selecting finalists to be interviewed, Willis Malone, chairman of the committee, said Monday.

Malone said the committee has tentatively narrowed the number of applicants to 14, but will go through an additional 35 applications Friday.

These 35 applications came in response to a letter President Warren W. Brandt sent to presidents of land-grant institutions throughout the United States requesting nominations for the position.

Malone said the candidates' identities may be released when the finalists are selected. He said most of those contacted indicated approval for the release of their names if named as finalists.

The committee is seeking a replacement for Keith Leasure, who announced his resignation last December, but agreed to stay on the job until a replacement is named. Malone said the committee has targeted July 1 as the date for final selection.

Malone said the committee discussed several points as it reviewed the applications. It looked at the current position of the individual, (and) whether he had a responsible post in an academic area."

Other criteria Malone said the committee has discussed includes:

—the applicant's involvement with budget and academic planning, —whether the applicant is known nationally via publications or appearances at national meetings.

—whether the applicant has served in a "comprehensive university," which Malone explained as one which grants degrees ranging from associate to doctorate.

In considering the situation of the vice president for academic affairs post at SIU, Malone said the committee would probably interview the applicants on their views on tenure, quotas, and how they would handle situations in which budget cuts might have to be made.

"We would have to know his conception of the role of higher education and the directions it should go," Malone explained.

He stands before the judge's bench wearing the smallest size of green coveralls the Jackson County jail provides.

He has been through the system before and it holds no terror for him. He is the chronic juvenile delinquent and the number of cases similar to his nearly doubled last year in Jackson County, says Howard Hood, state's attorney.

"Jackson County went from 35 juvenile cases in 1973 to 65 in 1974. With the number of cases we have had so far this year, we may top 70," Hood said.

The law considers anyone under 17 a juvenile. Youths under 17 must be charged under juvenile statutes. After reaching 17, they can be charged under adult laws. Hood said charging as an adult carries a more severe sentence. The emphasis in juvenile action is not punishment but reform, he said.

The increasing number of repeat offenders is a major reason for the past year's rapid increase in case numbers. Hood said he blames the Illinois Department of Corrections for its "very early return of juveniles to the community" from correctional institutions as a major contributor to the rise.

"I am very critical of the way the state handles the juveniles. They return them to the community within a short time and do not give them the kind of supervision they need," Hood said.

Hood said the corrections department usually returns juveniles within six months to a peer group of similar hard-core offenders with little discipline and no supervision.

Hood said the severity of crimes that juveniles commit is increasing. Before, shoplifting was the most common crime but now burglary and even armed robbery are becoming common.

"Two types of juvenile offenders exist.

The first type usually comes from a good home but commits a crime on a dare or for some reason other than monetary need. They usually do not commit another crime because they have adequate home supervision," Hood said.

"The second type is the hardcore offender who comes from either a broken home or a family background of poverty and criminal incidents. They become repeat offenders because they have no home supervision and run with a peer group from similar backgrounds," Hood said.

Judge Richard Richman said, "Burglary is up. Violent crimes are up. More and more repeat offenders are coming back into court."

Because the courts realize the inadequacies of the juvenile corrections system, an effort is made to keep juveniles out of the system by putting them in community programs of

Four freight cars derail near city

By Mary Whitler
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Four Illinois Central Gulf (ICG) railroad cars derailed early Monday morning during a switching operation in the ICG yard just north of Carbondale near Carbondale Mobile Home Park.

The derailment occurred at 1:15 a.m.

No injuries were reported, E. E. Walters, trainmaster said.

Walters said the cause of the derailment has not yet been determined.

The railroad cars were carrying about 72 new automobiles, including Fords and Chevrolets, said James Harrell, assistant superintendent of the ICG St. Louis Division office at Carbondale. The value of damages to the autos was estimated to be $15,000, Harrell said.

When the cars were overturned, their oil leaked out. Walters said the oil will be replaced by the railroad. Some of the cars were visibly dented.

The train was going to New Orleans, La. from St. Louis. Harrell said the rest of the 80 car train continued on its route, delayed by about two hours.

The train cars are being rerailed. Walters said. About 30 people worked on the rerailing operation, using a locomotive train and a rerailing truck. The tracks are expected to be in use noon Tuesday. Walters said the only cost to Illinois Central Gulf, outside of paying for repairs to the automobiles, will be the wages of the rerailing crew.

Harrell said the derailment "did not disrupt other operations," because it occurred in the ICG yard and did not affect the two main tracks.

supervision and guidance, Richman said.

Hood said this local supervision is often undermined by the corrections department policy of "authorized absence." In this procedure, Hood said, the juvenile is allowed to leave the corrections center before his sentence is up and does not have to report to anyone.

"We have an authorized absence in the county now, just wandering around the streets of Murphysboro without reporting to the probation department or anybody," Hood said.

When asked about the policy of "authorized absence," Jackson County juvenile Probation Officer Byron York replied, "I didn't even hear that question. That is an interdepartmental matter and if I have any criticisms of my superiors policies we discuss it internally. They would not appreciate reading in the Daily Egyptian that I criticized department policy."

York said he did not think the juvenile offender fits any particular pattern. "We try to deal with each case on an individual basis," York said.

York said many concerned agencies in Jackson County are helpful in counseling and doing volunteer work with the juveniles.

"We are fortunate to have agencies in this county like the SIU Clinical Center and other human resource services," York said.

York said the willingness of persons in the area to volunteer time has kept the juvenile problem from becoming worse than it is.

"We try to do the best possible thing for the juvenile. Juvenile Court itself is an effort to do the best thing by keeping them separate from adult cases," York said.

Hood said, "I would be happy not to file charges again and again against some of these kids if somebody from their family would come and take care of them. But many times these are just kids no one wants."

Many of the chronic delinquents become wise to system. They learn what police can and cannot do, Hood said.

"They take advantage of their youth and say 'you can't lock me up, I'm a juvenile.' Of the cases we had last year, I would say about 12 are already incorrigible and another 12 are headed that way," Hood said.

Hood said the juvenile problems are compounded because Jackson County is near the southern tip of Illinois and has a large transient population.

"It's really part of the social phenomena. The rising divorce rate, the drug culture and society's mobility all have caused the juvenile problem to multiply," Hood said.

Until some way can be found to legislate better families, Hood said he felt the juvenile problem will get worse.

News Roundup

North Vietnamese forces continue advances

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—North Vietnamese forces pushed toward South Vietnam's lower coast virtually without resistance Monday, touching off an evacuation of some Americans from Saigon.

Refugees fought to escape fallen Da Nang—many drowning or dying of exposure before Communist shelling ended U.S. rescue efforts.

The Viet Cong called for the overthrow of the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu and said it would hold talks with a new government "standing for peace, independence, democracy, national concord and strict application of the Paris agreement."

Hanoi radio said the Viet Cong "is ready to hold talks with such an administration to quickly settle all the affairs of South Vietnam."

North Vietnamese infantrymen and tanks sliced east and south along the coast, probing deep toward the major cities of Phan Rang and Phan Thiet and within 100 miles of Saigon.

President gives views on Vietnam debacle

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—President Ford feels the current debacle in South Vietnam was caused by Hanoi violations of the Paris accords and the failure of Congress to grant his most recent aid request, an aide said Monday.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen gave this information to newsmen aboard Air Force One as Ford returned here from a quick trip to Bakersfield to inspect the huge military oil reserve at Elk Hills.

Court sidesteps pollution case controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court declined on Monday, at least for the present, to step into two environmental controversies over possible cancer-causing industrial agents.

The court rejected a request by three Midwestern states and a number of environmental groups that it set a two-year deadline for an end to pollution of Lake Superior by Reserve Mining Co.

Reserve Mining discharges taconite waste containing asbestos fibers, identified as a possible cause of cancer, from its iron ore processing plant at Silver Bay, Minn.

Suspect held in bizarre Easter killings

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Police had a suspect on Monday but no motive and little idea of how 11 family members who gathered for Easter dinner could be killed without any sign of a struggle.

"We can't seem to find a motive for this," said Hamilton Police Chief George McNally. "This kind of murder usually has a motive like sex, greed or jealousy. We can't find any of those things here. Some aspects of this case just leave us puzzled."

Hamilton prosecutor John Holcomb said James Ruppert called police about 9:30 Sunday night and reported bodies in the house. When police arrived at a two-story frame house in a middle-class neighborhood, they found Ruppert, 40, standing inside the door.

Mid-May seen as target date for selection of new student life dean

By Peggy Sagona
Student Writer

A new dean of student life should be selected by mid-May, says Terry Buck, chairman of the dean of student life search committee.

The special search committee was appointed in November by Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne to fill the vacancy created when Emil Spees, former dean of student life, resigned from the position.

In the meantime, Loretta Ott, associate dean of students, has served as acting dean of student life and will continue to do so until a permanent replacement is found.

Nominations for the position will be accepted until April 15, according to Buck. The search committee will be meeting on Fridays to study applications until they compile a list of the ten top candidates.

The list of ten will then be forwarded to Swinburne who will work with the committee to decide the five best prospects according to their credentials, recommendations and general qualifications.

The next step will be to invite each of the candidates, one at a time, to the campus for a two-day visit. The new dean of student life will be selected shortly afterward.

Buck said a list of ten candidates should be decided by the committee by April 22.

The search committee is composed of Kathy Jones, president of the Graduate Student Council; Dennis Sullivan, student body president; Edgar Philpot, chairman of the Black Affairs Council; Julia Muller, west campus coordinator of student life; Loretta Ott; and Buck, dean of student services.

Will Travelstead, assistant dean of student life and a nominee for the open position, said the entire student life office staff participated in writing up the job description for the dean's position.

The description asks that a potential candidate have a doctoral degree or at least five years experience at a major university. The candidate must also be able to take the position no later than August 15.

Persons submitting nominations are requested to enclose a current resume of the person along with a letter to the search committee in care of Buck.

Chicago voters expected to give Daley easy win

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago voters are expected to give Mayor Richard J. Daley an easy victory Tuesday that will mean four more years in the office he has held since 1965 and another chance to play presidential power broker.

Daley, who thumped three challengers in the February Democratic primary, faces Republican John Hoellen and Willie Mae Reid, candidate of the Socialist Workers party.

The Democratic juggernaut in the primary election gave Daley nearly 58 per cent of the vote in a four-way race. It was the first time any Democrat mounted a challenge to Daley.

That victory was so decisive Hoellen was moved to remark immediately afterwards that he felt like dropping out of the mayoral race. One of the reasons for Hoellen's pessimism was his own loss in the primary of the aldermanic seat he had held since 1947.

Rivers moving toward flood crests

By The Associated Press

The Pecatonica and Rock rivers in Illinois receded slowly Monday while the Ohio and Mississippi moved toward flood crests in Southern Illinois.

The Ohio is above flood stage from Louisville, Ky., to Cairo, Ill. The river was 17 feet above bankfull at Shawneetown, Ill. At Cairo, the river was at 55.2 feet Monday and the forecast was for 56.2 feet on Wednesday. Flood stage is 40 feet at Cairo.

The mainstem of the Mississippi was spilling over its banks from Quincy to Alton, Ill. At St. Louis, the Mississippi was at 25.9 feet and expected to reach 26.3 feet Monday night. Flood stage is 30 feet.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers in St. Louis said, "We are all right downstream of St. Louis. We've got no problems."

He said no levees were threatened along the Mississippi and there has been no sandbagging or evacuations.

The National Weather Service predicted the Rock and Pecatonica rivers would be back in their banks by the end of the week.

More than 1,000 persons moved from their homes in lowlands along the river banks last week and few of them had returned by Monday. Civil Defense officials said the flooding in Winnebago and Stephenson counties in northern Illinois will exceed $10 million in damages.

Elected leaders

Under the provisions of the 25th Amendment, we have a president and a vice president who have been appointed, not elected, to the nation's highest offices.

Presumably, when the amendment received Congressional approval and final ratification in 1965 and 1967, respectively, no one foresaw the circumstances which would cause both Spiro Agnew and Richard Nixon to resign during the same presidential term.

Although the 25th Amendment allows the president and vice president to govern without the mandate of the people, it stands as considerable improvement over the old system of presidential succession. Under present law, if a president leaves office before his term expires, the vice president succeeds him. Under previous law, if a vice president left office, there would be no one to succeed him until the next election. This situation has occurred 16 times in American history. In 1947, the Speaker of the House, regardless of party, was made to be next in line for the Presidency.

The 25th Amendment now makes it possible for the president, elected or otherwise, to name his choice for a vice president to serve until the next Presidential election. The most important result of the 25th Amendment is that it provides for a speedy and smooth Presidential succession.

The main drawback to the amendment is that the play of power rests within the upper branches of the federal government and not the voters. A special election each time an elected president or vice president leaves office would restore the mandate to the voters.

Yet the process would involve time-consuming, cumbersome party conventions, lengthy, lavish and possibly public-financed campaigns and costly elections.

The advantages of the amendment are clear: the president nominates his own "running mate" from his party. The nominee must receive a majority vote confirmation from both the House and Senate, which is, in effect, the people's mandate.

In order that the offices of the president and vice president are not too far removed from the power of the voter, a parliamentary style government should also be implemented to back the 25th Amendment.

Under the 25th Amendment, the vice president and principal officers of the executive department or some other body approved by Congress may declare the President "unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office."

A parliamentary style government would assume a larger scope than merely inability "to discharge the powers and duties of his office" and leave the ultimate decision to the voter. If (Congress) gives a "no-confidence" vote to the administration in office, a special election would be held. This would be an alternative to impeachment, a relatively drastic and frightful remedy.

Congressman Henry Reuss, (D-Wisconsin), has introduced a "no-confidence" amendment based upon the parliamentary system. This would provide for a new presidential election "whenever each house of Congress, by a three-fifths majority, votes 'no confidence' in the existing administration."

Reuss' amendment would provide the "safety clause" which would make for a more effective 25th Amendment. The main point is that it would remind those in Presidential power, elected or appointed, that the ultimate power rests with the voters.

The women's swim coach needs a good dunking

By Diane Solberg

Almost three weeks ago, five swimmers left SIU to compete in the AIAW (Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women) nationals in Arizona. The swimmers never got the chance to prove themselves because of careless filing errors made by the coach, Michael Dumin.

Dumin did not catch errors on the entry sheet his secretary typed. He also missed the entry deadline for the 200-meter medley. After two days in Arizona, the swimmers were told that because of the errors they would not be able to swim in some of the competitions they had planned. One swimmer, Karen Keegan, did not swim at all. Others swam in competitions they were not familiar with. Diane Friedman was barred from two breaststroke events—events that she expected to place in because she claims this had been her peak year for swimming.

"The thing is, I've been swimming competitively since I was six... Everything I worked for just went out the window. I've never been shot down so emotionally, so physically."

Three of the swimmers said that in order to perform well, it is necessary to have complete trust in a coach.

But, according to the descriptions of the way Dumin handled the team, Dumin had never been a responsible coach.

Friedman said Dumin's disorganization had grown steadily worse as the season progressed.

In an interview shortly after the swimmers returned, Friedman bitterly blasted Dumin's management of the team. "This was the epitome of what he has been all year... He's totally irresponsible and totally unorganized. He should never have such a position of responsibility."

Four of the swimmers interviewed (three asked not to be identified) gave various examples of Dumin's helter-skelter methods of management. One swimmer said that Dumin's carelessness includes mixing up travel schedules, mixing up names of airlines and making filing errors at the Illinois State Championship.

Swimmers said that on a few occasions they asked Dumin to be more careful with paperwork and other procedures.

"It would work for a while and then he would go back to his old ways," one swimmer said.

Maybe, if the swimmers would have lodged a formal complaint with Charlotte West, director of Women's Athletics, the nightmare could have been avoided.

The swimmers gave various reasons for not filing complaints.

One P.E. major said that even though Women's Physical Education is separate from Women's Athletics West fears retaliation from instructors in the department.

Although West has been out of town the last two weeks, Joanne Thorpe, chairwoman of the P.E. department offered some thoughts on the swimmers' statements.

She said she wanted to stress the fact that "it's absolutely not true that there would be retaliatory effects from complaints about the staff."

She added, "Whoever wants to speak should speak. We do not subscribe to a retaliation policy for people who exercise free speech."

Swimmers said they planned to file complaints at the end of the year.

"It wouldn't have done any good to complain in the middle of the year. They didn't have anybody to replace him (Dumin)."

According to Thorpe, Dumin was hired temporarily to fill a position of someone on sabbatical. Otherwise he is an instructor in the P.E. department.

No one can say for sure what would have happened if the swimmers would have taken some course of action against Dumin. But the swimmers should have had the guts and foresight to file a grievance with West. West cannot keep track of the workings of each sports team, especially at this time when SIU (among several other universities) is trying to work out a definition of equality between men and women's sports.

Even a faculty member on tenure is subject to investigation (which Dumin is not on) if there are complaints filed.

According to Thorpe only a few complaints concerning grading have been made about Dumin, but she said she has heard "a lot of things through the grapevine."

The above statement which she refused to elaborate on suggests that the athletic faculty was aware of some of Dumin's shortcomings, but did not take the time to look into Dumin's activities.

Questions remain. Why was Dumin hired in the first place? Were his abilities checked? Is the one of many instances that occur due to the relatively low-budget for women's athletics.

Hopefully, the incidents will be reviewed carefully, and the swimmers will have a coach they can trust.

Activity fees: Who's spending your money?

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of five stories analyzing the student fee structure at SIU. Staff writers Jim Murphy and Gary Marx relied heavily on the report of the special Illinois Subcommittee on Student Fees—the Hirschfeld Report—in looking at SIU and the fee system here.

By Jim Murphy
and Gary Marx
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

Last year, four faculty members and administrators had a say in recommendations on how over $200,000 in student activity fees would be parceled out to various student activities and programs.

The four, along with five graduate and undergraduate students, made up the Joint Fee Allocation Board (JFAB).

This year, it won't be that way.

Jim Wire, chairman of the Student Senate finance committee, announced early in March that an allocation committee comprised of 18 students will conduct the fee allocation process formerly handled by JFAB.

The all-student board proposed by Wire is in line with the recommendations of the Hirschfeld Report, an Illinois House of Representatives Education subcommittee investigation into mandatory student fees charges at 13 major Illinois public universities.

The Report concluded with a finding that the SIU activity fee allocation process "has hurt student power."

"...students ought to determine how their

money is allocated..."

Named after the subcommittee chairman, Rep. John Hirschfeld, R-Champaign, the report detailed the fee structure of each Illinois public university.

On the SIU activity fee of $5.25 per semester, the report states:

"Students have the major voice in determining how fees will be spent, but the administration also has a major voice in the process. The funding method has drawn criticism from students because of the administration's interference in lower level decisions affecting student money.

"The Joint Fee Allocation Board's composition is determined annually by the administration and several non-students are on the board. Administrators have been involved in the activity fee allocation and this has hurt student power."

The report concluded by supporting the concept of student control in campus decision-making processes that affect the use of student fee monies.

"We recognize that the university president and the university's governing board are legally responsible over any campus decisions and we believe they should act in cases that might adversely affect the university. Students, however, should wield the major campus influence over their fees."

The Joint Fee Allocation Board has allocated student fee money since its creation in December, 1972. At that time, then Dean of Students George Mace signed an agreement with student government officials creating JFAB.

Mace said recently that JFAB was created as an alternative to the allocation of student activity fees by the student senate finance committee.

"JFAB was an attempt to retain input from the administration while leaving student voice intact," he said.

"It's purpose was to assure participation by the widest number of groups possible." Mace added that JFAB was an agreed upon way for the administration to convey their point of view on the allocation of student money.

Last spring, JFAB allocated $206,981 in collected student activity fees. The money figure is based on projected enrollment for the fiscal year in which it is to be allocated. Wire said the figure his committee is planning on working with "should be right around $200,000."

Funds were granted to 27 of 53 campus organizations submitting budget requests last spring. Of the total figure, $51,424 went to Student Government Activities Council (SGAC). Undergraduate student government received $34,094 compared to $27,000 for Graduate Student Council (GSC).

Student radio station WDB received $14,000 and Black Affairs Council (BAC) $12,000. Campus organizations of lesser priority received the remaining $68,463.

The nine-member Joint Fee Allocation Board consisted of five students, two administrators and two faculty members.

Wire's plans call for three six-member student committees to hear the budget requests for next year. Twelve of the members will be drawn from the Student Senate, with nine of these coming from the senate's finance committee. Wire said Student Body President Dennis Sullivan will pick the remaining six students.

"It's student money and students ought to be able to determine how it's allocated," Wire said of the activity fee money.

Wire said JFAB was only an ad hoc committee of the student senate. "Under the Board of Trustees statutes, it didn't exist," he said.

Mace, now acting vice president for administration and campus treasurer, said the new allocation plans may be in for some difficulty.

"The Dean of Students holds the responsibility for the allocation of student monies," Mace said. "By law, it must rest that way.

"It would be imprudent for the Office of Student Affairs not to participate," he added.

Kathy Jones, president of the Graduate Student Council (GSC), said she favors Wire's plan, "but only if he is talking about the allocation of undergraduate fees."

Jones said recently that she would prefer to see student activity fee money first distributed to the GSC and Student Senate from where it would then be allocated.

"I'm totally opposed to the student senate allocating graduate fees," she said.

Wire said Sullivan could use his appointment powers and pick six graduate students to balance off the committee's representation.

"Anything we do will be highly provisional," Wire said. "I plan to go both ways until any word is given," he added.

The Hirschfeld report noted in its findings that students at SIU pay "a relatively low amount" for their activity fee. The $10.50 each full-time SIU student pays yearly for the activity fee is less than any public university in the state except the three campuses of the University of Illinois.

Wednesday: An in-depth look at the $22.50 per semester fee each full-time SIU student pays for the Student Welfare and Recreation Fund (SWRF).

Chicago art institute shows Monet exhibit

CHICAGO (AP)—In what is becoming an increasingly rare exhibition, the work of Claude Monet, the artist who invented impressionism, is explored in a major exhibition at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Nearly 50 years after his death it is difficult to understand how Monet's pictures could have provoked critics to such ire.

Accepted as one of the most original painters in the history of fine art, Monet painted bright, beautiful canvases which now rarely evoke anything other than awe and admiration.

During his lifetime, 1840-1926, he painted some 6,000 pictures. The Art Institute's exhibition, which opened in March, displays 120 major examples from this extraordinary output, including the 32 Monets in its own famous collection of impressionists.

Other canvases for this show, continuing through May 11, were loaned by museums and private collections in the United States and Europe.

Such exhibitions as this one are becoming increasingly rare because of the costs of insurance and shipping and the reluctance of owners to loan their pictures.

The Monet pictures are conservatively valued at more than $40 million, and the museum is spending $185,000 mostly for insurance and transportation on the show. The cost is lower than usual because so many of the pictures are owned by the museum.

The most recent comparable show at the Art Institute, devoted to Renoir, was mounted in 1973 and drew 337,000 visitors in two months.

Museum officials say attendance at the Monet exhibition is expected to approach or exceed that figure. This exhibition, like the Renoir, will be seen only in Chicago.

Impressionism was a derogatory label applied by a hostile critic in 1972 who seized upon the title Monet gave one of his pictures, "Impression: Sunrise."

Other artists of the period, such as Cezanne and Van Gogh, were to paint the same style, a radical departure at the end of the 19th century.

Impressionism is just that-it incorporates into pictures how the artist feels about what he sees beyond the photographic image of what he paints.

Artists of this school used small brush strokes and bright colors. Their pictures often look as though they are seen through a veil.

The exhibition includes some pictures painted before Monet turned to this style. The images are sharply defined and not so interesting as the later work.

Eleven of Monet's well-known series devoted to water lilies are included. These pictures were done at a pond in his garden.

Blues and greens are used extensively in many of his pictures, as would be expected of an artist who devoted so much of his attention to the water and the sky.

And his pictures of dahlias and gladioli and other flowers are almost as brilliant as the flowers themselves.

Unfortunately, the museum has hung the pictures on mud-gray walls, casting something of a pall over the show. However, the pictures themselves are a refreshing and joyous experience.

Free Christian concert Tuesday

"Malcolm and Alwyn," Christian rock musicians from England, will give a free concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Student Center Ballroom D.

Malcolm Wild and Alwyn Wall from Nottinghamshire, England.

Trip planned

The Friends of Morris Library are planning a two-week tour of England which will be open to all current or new members.

The trip is planned for Aug. 9 through 24. Its projected $795 per person cost will include air and ground transportation and first class hotel accommodations, according to Glennie King, secretary of the organization.

Additional information can be obtained by writing Friends of Morris Library, SIU, Carbondale, Ill., 62901.

are the two members of the group. Their concert is sponsored by the SIU Students for Jesus and WCIL's Jesus Solid Rock show.

"Malcolm and Alwyn" are considered one of England's top Christian music groups. They have been in the Christian music ministry since their conversion three years ago.

Prior to that, they played pop music together. At one point they auditioned for a contract with Apple records but were turned down. In London, they studied Eastern meditation with George Harrison, formerly of the Beatles.

Although they retained their rock style, the content and meaning of their songs changed after they became Christians. They work with the Musical Gospel Outreach, a Christian youth organization in England. Through this organization they have made several concert tours of Europe and the U.S.

They have recorded two albums, "Fool's Wisdom" and "WildWall."

Broadcasting for handicapped

The first national conference on Radio Reading Services (RRS) was held March 10-13 in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Radio Reading Services uses open or closed circuit radio channels to broadcast the contents of newspapers, magazines and books to blind and handicapped persons.

Frances Ambrose, graduate student in Home Economics, attended the conference which was held to exchange ideas and to establish guidelines for existing and future RRS operations.

Rafferty wasn't going anywhere, anyway.

University slates interviews for IRS work-study program

The Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance is interviewing juniors with at least six semester hours of accounting for the Internal Revenue Service co-op work-study program.

The cooperative education program gives work experience to undergraduates in accounting and related fields and provides IRS an opportunity to employ and train top quality students during their undergraduate years.

IRS co-op students will assist agents as they examine records, take testimony concerning tax liability, serve and execute warrants for search and arrest, seize property and conduct surveillances. Student employees also will get training in tax and criminal law, investigating techniques and enforcement procedures and techniques.

Repetitive performance of routine duties will be held to a minimum. Co-op students may not work for IRS more than 16 hours a week while attending school.

Candidates must be enrolled in SIU in a curriculum leading to a bachelor's degree and must have successfully completed 12 semester hours of accounting at the time of graduation.

The co-op nominations are made to the IRS by the Student Work Office. IRS will consider the total qualifications of the student including achievements, demonstrated leadership, motivation, personal characteristics, professional potential, sincerity and an interest in the job. Grade-point is important, but is not the primary consideration. No written test is required.

A co-op student can expect to be appointed an IRS agent upon successfully completing the co-op work-study program and receiving a bachelor's degree. The co-op program requires a minimum of 26 weeks (1,040 hours) work experience in a pay status as a co-op student.

The beginning pay rate is $3.75 per hour. A car is required to get to the job. Appointments to discuss the co-op program can be made with James F. Moore, Student Work Office.

KKK launches membership drive

AURORA (AP)—The Ku Klux Klan is coming out in the open in a new organizing effort in Illinois.

The Klan has launched a membership drive in the state, and has proposed setting up state headquarters in Aurora, a city some 30 miles west of Chicago.

The proposal has caused sparks to fly.

Local blacks voiced concern and the Aurora City Council passed a resolution unanimously this week that residents shun the Klan and its teachings. In addition, a state legislator has called for an investigation into the Klan's activities.

"Let 'em investigate," said Wilburn W. Foreman, 37, a local KKK leader. "We aren't doing anything illegal."

Foreman, a construction worker from Mississippi whose father also was a Klansman, said, "We decided to bring it out in the open. The Klan is coming out in the open all over."

KKK Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton appointed Foreman to organize Illinois.

Klan leader Dennis Milam of the Chicago suburb of Cicero, said, "We're just people whose only desire is to live in peace without the necessity of fighting to survive in one's home."

The KKK has taken steps to re-establish itself in Illinois, such as attempting to organize white prison inmates as members.

Foreman says he thinks Klan membership will climb. To that end, he has begun a newspaper and literature distribution drive for new members in various parts of the state. Police estimate there are between 500 and 1,000 Klan members statewide.

Though the Klan has stayed strong in Indiana and parts of the South, in Illinois its members have had their difficulties.

Recently two guards at the Menard Correctional Center in Chester were dismissed for offenses allegedly including preaching the Klan philosophy. The prison chaplain left under pressure last year for organizing inmates in the KKK. Officials have launched an inquiry into Klan activities at Menard, which has a majority of white inmates.

Three policemen were dismissed from the Chicago Police Department in 1968 after their KKK affiliation became known.

The Klan claimed credit for organizing anti-civil rights activities during the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Chicago visits in the 1960s.

Past Klan operations have been most closely associated with such issues as civil rights and prohibition. But some authorities fear that religious and racial animosities created by competition for available jobs due to the nation's economic problems may give the Klan another such issue to attract persons.

Road name irks residents

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP)—It wasn't street or traffic conditions that caused the recent stir over an Eddy County residential road just north of Carlsbad.

It was the name. Some of those who live on or near it complained that Who Who Drive isn't a proper name for a street.

H. W. Gilbert, who lives on Who Who Drive, is plenty sore about the name.

"It's not funny. It's devalued my property," Gilbert, 61, told the Eddy County Commission in a bid to get the name changed. "Two guys got together and just rammed this down our throats," Gilbert said in a telephone interview. "The first I knew about it was when they put up the sign. Nobody was consulted in picking the name. A real estate agent couldn't show my property without laughing."

His feelings were echoed in a letter to the Carlsbad Current-Argus by Carole Walterscheid, 13, who lives on nearby Sandy Lane. "Who Who Drive is a silly name and ought to be changed," wrote Miss Walterscheid.

Attorney Mike Mc Cormick, who represented Gilbert at the commission meeting, said he found it "hard to be serious since the name of the street does not lend itself to seriousness."

"In fact, the name Who Who Drive doesn't lend itself to anything," McCormick told the commission.

The man who picked the name Who Who Drive said he did it because he once saw a street by that name in Texas and got a chuckle out of it.

Besides, "If you were to canvass people of Deep Drive you would find that three-quarters of them don't like that name either. A lot of people don't even like the name their parents gave them," he told the commission.

"In this day and time it doesn't hurt anyone to slow down and smile a little," he added.

Commissioners apparently bought the argument. They declined to offer a motion to change the name of the street.

Gilbert's wife, Katharine, has a partial solution to the situation. "I don't use the name of the street," she said. "I just use my post office box number."

Feminist group branches out

The Feminist Action Coalition (FAC) has formed two branches to deal with the two types of interests which have evolved within the organization.

According to Noel Kumins, chairwoman of the FAC, the two branches will concentrate in different areas. One branch will work within the community on projects in different areas of interest.

The other group will focus more on discussing issues dealing with feminism, interrelations and problems women face.

"We find we have two separate interests within the group," the chairwoman said. "In order to meet both needs effectively, we have decided to form a branch for each."

Members can be active in both groups if they want to, Kumins said. "We are not separating into two organizations. The reason for the branches' forming is that it will make our organization operate more efficiently than it already does," she explained.

Meetings will be separate for each branch to allow persons to participate in both. The two branches will meet together once a month to share experiences, problems and achievements, Kumins said.

The group dealing with problems women face and feminism will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday night. No meeting time has been set for the project oriented group.

'Feeling Good' returns to WSIU-TV

A shorter version of the television series "Feeling Good" will return to WSIU-TV, Channel 8, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, focusing on the problems of the aged in its first program.

Ex-talk show host and author Dick Cavett will host the new half-hour version of the adult-oriented health series, which had met adverse critical review in one-hour format.

"Feeling Good" re-debuts with a report on the dilemmas of aging as it affects the aged and their families.

Cavett will interview Maggie Kuhn, a founder of the Gray Panthers, a group of young and old people working together to change society's attitudes toward aging and the aged. One of the group's concerns is what it calls "agism," discrimination because of age.

"Feeling Good" is the first adult-oriented production of the Children's Television Workshop which has previously created the award-winning series "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company."

Internship applicants sought

An offshoot of Ralph Nader's idea of supplying the public with an analysis of legislators' performances is the subject of a paid internship program for which a Chicago-based organization is seeking applicants.

The program is called Profiles of Legislators and Lobbyists (Project POLL), and it will employ five interns this summer, Bill Burgent, a POLL intern, said Monday.

Burgent said POLL is a non-partisan group headed by a board of about 40 men and women, with Marge Benton, vice president of the Illinois Better Government Association, serving as chairperson.

The interns will conduct research and interviews on the legislative process, key legislative issues, legislator attitudes and will help write profiles of each legislator.

The profiles will be assembled and published in pamphlet form to be distributed in each legislative district in the state, Burgent said.

Burgent said salary arrangements will be made on an individual basis because of the varying job circumstances, and that specific criteria for the selection of the interns have not been established. Credit may be earned through Sangamon State University for work in the program, and Burgent said students may also consult department officials in their individual schools regarding academic credit. To apply, undergraduate and graduate students may write to Ken Bode, POLL director, 73 W. Monroe, Chicago, 60603.

Financial aid cut during summer session

Basic Educational Opportunity Grants will not be available for the summer session.

Candy Karraker, staff assistant at the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, said the nine-month financial aid program does not cover summer sessions. She explained that a new short-term BEOG application process could not be handled by the financial assistance office because of the excessive amount of work required for processing fall semester applications.

She suggested that students interested in securing financial aid for the summer apply for the National Defense Student Loan (NDSL).

"The NDSL is awarded to the student on the basis of financial need and availability of funds," Karraker said. She added that a student must have a current family financial statement on file in order to be considered for the loan.

Karraker said students should apply for the NDSL as soon as possible, since the funds are limited. Forms are available in room 207, at the Financial Assistance Office in Washington Square, Building B.

Survey to show SIU's ability to serve on foreign projects

A survey of various international talents available through SIU is being undertaken by the University Office of International Education.

A questionnaire has been sent to all faculty, staff and Civil Service employees and retirees, asking for background information on their international expertise. It also will be made available to alumni, students and interested persons not affiliated with the University.

Respondents have been asked to indicate whether they would accept overseas assignment or would serve as non-salaried volunteers. Plans for international research, instruction abroad or technical consultation during the next two years also are requested in the questionnaire.

"We want to update our records and to maintain an inventory of the University's international capacity," said Kenneth Serfass, dean of University Programs.

"We would like that inventory to reflect not only the capabilities of the faculty and staff, but also those of interested students, retirees, alumni, and citizens of the area served by the University," he said.

Joseph Chu, director of the Office of International Education, said he frequently receives short-notice requests for personnel to serve on various international projects, and often is charged with welcoming foreign dignitaries.

"We need to maintain a current list of those who have served professionally abroad or who possess some language or other international competence," Chu said.

Serfass said the inventory also will be used to plan "a more definite program of international activities and projects."

Work-study program may develop with Haiti

Richard Thomas, a professor in Community Development, is hoping to develop a work-study program in which SIU would assist in the rural development of Haiti.

Thomas is working with a community development agency within the Ministry of Education of Haiti. "We're exploring ways in which SIU could be helpful to Haiti in the rural development of the country," said Thomas.

Thomas explained that the work-study program would consist of a 12-week period in which 20 students and three faculty members from SIU would spend a summer in Haiti. He said the first two weeks would be a period orientation, followed by a four-week session in Port-Au-Prince, the capital of Haiti.

"In this session, there will be intensive work on a rural project" selected by the Haitian government, said Thomas.

Thomas said the next four weeks would involve a seminar in which participants from SIU and Haiti study a problem-solving method in child development. The last two weeks would be used to evaluate the planning that would result from the work-study program.

Thomas said that the work-study program is subject to approval by SIU and Haiti.

Fasting is revived to protest hunger

By the Associated Press

Fasting, an ancient Judeo-Christian practice to foster temperance and self-discipline, is being widely revived nowadays, but with a special contemporary emphasis—to boost concern and support for the world's hungry.

The custom has spread among all sorts of groups, from Roman Catholics to Southern Baptists, from denominational cafeterias to family dining tables, from Methodists and Mormons to college campuses and among some of the U.S. Congress.

"Asceticism for our time," the president of New York's Union Theological Seminary, the Rev. Dr. Roger Shinn, called the trend.

United Methodist Bishop Francis E. Kearns of Canton, Ohio, in urging members in his area to skip at least one meal a week, says it helps to sensitize Americans to "the agony and suffering of great multitudes of people."

But the fasting also had a practical aim—those participating were asked to contribute the money saved to church programs of food aid. These programs, in turn, were mounting rapidly in volume.

"The Christian response must reflect the challenge of Jesus—I was hungry and you gave me food," said Catholic Bishops John Roach and Raymond Lucker of St. Paul-Minneapolis, in calling for two days of fasting weekly, with money saved going to relief abroad.

Fasting, which means eating only one full meal for a day, is the general pattern of the new wave of self-denial that has caught on and spread within the past year in this richest country of the world.

"Giving up one main meal a week should be the minimum response," says the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Marshall, president of the Lutheran Church of America, whose governing convention asked its three million members to take up the practice.

The nation's Roman Catholic bishops, in their annual meeting, pledged to fast at least two days a week, and urged the 48.5 million American members to "join with us" in doing so, with resultant savings going to relief services.

That the appeal was getting extensive results showed up in diocese after diocese where bishops issued special pastoral letters about it, and by groups that signed pledges of participation.

"People are 'responding to this more positively' than to any other recent church effort, says Archbishop Joseph Bernardin of Cincinnati, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Americans are ahead of the government in demonstrating concern about the world's food crisis, says the Rev. J. Bryan Hehir of the Catholic justice and peace secretariat. They "are not willing to accept starvation for millions abroad as a tragic but inevitable fact."

Israel festival set May 4-11 in St. Louis

Israel Expo '75 will be held May 4 through May 11 at the Jewish Community Centers Association (JCCA) Building at 11001 Schuetz Rd. in St. Louis.

A replica of the Dead Sea scrolls, the only copy in the United States and only one of four in the world, will be displayed, a JCCA spokesman said. The scrolls will remain in St. Louis after Expo '75.

A replica of the Western Wall will also be on display, as well as a model of Herod's Temple. Many foods and products of Israel will also be on display.

Under construction is a walk-through model of a Tel, an archeological dig, while local teenagers are erecting an outdoor pioneer-working kibbutz, the spokesman said.

The event is sponsored by the Jewish Federation of St. Louis and JCAA.

Spring Festival planning meeting set for Tuesday

A planning meeting for Spring Festival will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Iroquois River Room at the Student Center.

The Spring Festival will be held on campus May 1, 2 and 3 and is sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council. David Epstein, chairman of the Spring Festival Committee, said all interested persons are welcome to join the committee.

Student mentors work overtime without pay

By Les Chedik
Student Writer

One of the most time consuming of all student work jobs may be that of the mentor, or peer counselor to Developmental Skills students.

For this job a maximum 15-hour work week can get stretched to 35 hours without extra pay, says Delores E. Robinson, mentor supervisor at Developmental Skills. "Mentors are assigned to a maximum of 11 students. The mentors help students get accustomed to life at SIU, help them decide on a major and learn to communicate with advisers and instructors, try to teach them to be assertive and help them with homework and registering," Robinson said.

"Mentors are required to meet with each of their students on an individual basis for an hour a week. Many times these one-hour meetings last for three hours, though," Robinson said.

In addition to individual meetings, mentors are required to hold a one-hour group meeting where all of their students meet at the same time. They must make weekly reports on all their students.

Mentors are also required to attend a weekly, one-hour training session. They also are active in Developmental Skills classrooms. They help run reading machines, answer questions and sometimes have to help students with special projects.

One such project, which is being carried on now, is helping Developmental Skills students in writing a research paper and in using the library.

Robinson said many students come to college with no idea on how to write a research paper, "so we're teaching our students how to do this."

Robinson has several criteria for hiring mentors. They must have at least a 4.0 grade point average and be juniors or seniors.

"I also prefer to choose those with people-helping majors like psychology, sociology and social welfare but we do have a few in history, biology and radio and television," she said. There are 13 mentors at Developmental Skills.

"I screen them very heavily. I can tell if I can trust them to be reliable," Robinson said. Mentors are responsible for holding all required meetings and for reporting how many hours they work.

"They are paid according to the number of students they see per week. If a student doesn't show up for his meeting, the mentor doesn't get paid for that hour. If a meeting lasts for three hours, the mentor gets paid for only one hour," Robinson said.

"At mentor training sessions, they have been getting empathy training, which teaches them listening skills. They learn to listen in order to understand a student's problems and to help him work out his own solutions to those problems," she said.

"At first it was difficult for them to get into listening but I think the results have been good. We're not trying to give them a particular style. They're free to develop or use whatever method they want," Robinson said.

Mentors are also taught how to get students to come to their individual and group meetings.

At group meeting, interpersonal skills activities are used. Mentors and students do role playing, exercises in memory and cooperation games.

No outsiders are allowed at group meeting. "It's hard enough to get eight to 11 people together and build good rapport without having spectators," she said.

Jobs open up in Europe

Twenty-five cents will provide a listing of applications for temporary jobs in Europe, according to Student Overseas Services (SOS).

The group reports openings in hotels, resorts, offices and restaurants in Northern Europe for students between the ages of 17 and 27.

SOS says working periods vary from 60 days to one year, but that some students have stayed longer. No previous experience or foreign language skills are required. Wages range from $250 to more than $450 a month, plus free room and board, according to SOS.

Jobs and working papers are provided on a non-profit basis, and brief orientations are given in Europe prior to going to work. These sessions speed adjustment to European culture and help to ensure that all goes well on the job, SOS says.

Any student interested in a temporary job in Europe may write directly to Student Overseas Services, Box 5176, Santa Barbara, Calif. 93108.

Information and applications can be obtained from Helen Vergette, Woody Hall, Room 230 B., 453-2357.

Deadline is near for applications to honor group

Friday is the deadline for applications for membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternity, according to local chapter officials.

One initiation is held each school year. To be eligible for election to Phi Kappa Phi, an undergraduate student must have completed one semester of full-time work or the equivalent at SIU, have completed 60 semester hours of work with a scholastic average of 4.75 to be invited as a junior and two semesters of work with a scholastic average of 4.75 to be invited as a senior and rank in the upper 10 per cent of his class.

A graduate student must have been registered as a full-time master's level student for one semester or completed 24 semester hours at the Ph.D. level at SIU and have a scholastic average of 5.0 to be eligible for election to Phi Kappa Phi.

Eligible persons may contact June Burger, Business Education Department.

SIU Security names Harris to assistant director's post

SIU has a new No. 2 man in the Security Office.

Robert S. Harris, a nine-year veteran of the SIU police force, has been named assistant director of security by Director of Security Virgil F. Trummer, effective Mar. 24.

Harris, who joined the SIU police force in 1966 after stints with the Anna and Murphysboro police departments, has directed the training program and police-community relations activities for the SIU Security Office, in addition to serving as second shift supervisor since June, 1974.

One of the things Harris hopes to accomplish as assistant director of security is to foster better relations between the SIU police and students faculty and staff.

"We've worked hard to get good relations with students, but we seem to have let faculty and staff slip," he said. Harris said he doesn't see any real problem in the relations between the SIU police and the rest of the campus community, but even a good thing can be improved.

"I don't see any problem with it," Harris said. "I'd like to see it better."

A new program of police officer speakers initiated through the police-community relations program at SIU should improve understanding between the University community and the police. Harris said. This idea includes a letter of invitation sent by the security director to department chairmen and other faculty members outlining topics and presentations available from SIU police speakers. These include drug abuse, self-defense for women and an explanation of Illinois "implied consent" drunk driving law.

Harris said officers also have spoken to classes on such topics as search and seizure, justifiable use of force and general descriptions of the size, equipment and authority of the SIU police force.

STC sets competency tests

Nationally recognized tests designed to validate competency in skilled trades or occupations will be given at SIU this month.

Tuesday is the final date for registration for tests scheduled April 19 through May 3, according to Donald Harbert, associate dean of the School of Technical Careers.

The testing program covers 23 fields ranging from air conditioning and refrigeration to welding. It is intended for individuals who need to present objective evidence of their competency to become vocational teachers, to obtain academic credit or to become certified.

Test results are recognized by SIU for application to associate or bachelor's degree programs of STC, Harbert said.

STC is the designated National Occupational Competency Testing Center for Illinois, and it also serves part of Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The program includes both written test and a performance test for each skill area. The fee is $100, plus a small supply charge for certain tests.

Skill areas in which tests are available are air conditioning and refrigeration, airframe and powerplant, architectural drafting, auto body repair, auto mechanics, cabinet making and millwork, carpentry, civil technology, cosmetology, diesel engine repair, electrical installation, electronics communication, industrial electrician and electronics, machine drafting and trades, masonry, mechanical technology, plumbing, quantity food preparation, sheet metal, small engine repair and welding.

Cow chips to fly

Any and all known records in such bucolic sports as cow chip throwing, greased pig catching, calf scrambling and chicken sleeping could be challenged when the Block and Bridle Club stages its annual competition Saturday. Activities begin at 9 a.m.

Also under assault will be standards in corn shelling, goat herding, egg throwing and hog calling, not to mention milking.

Club members will get down to serious business in showmanship competition, which involves swine, beef and dairy cattle, sheep and horses.

Bifocal or single vision contact lenses can be fitted now with the aid of a computer. Bifocal lens has no segment or line to distort the vision and look like a single vision lens.

With the use of a PhotoElectric Keratometer called PER Mark III a photograph of the eye is made. The photo, along with the prescription is sent to the Visual Data Center in Chicago where they are put into a computer. The computer calculates the structure, size, rear layer and the RX required.

The advantage of the lens is usually more comfort and longer initial wearing time.

A workshop for graduate women and women interested in attending graduate school will be held from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Saturday at the Student Center Mackinaw Room. The workshop will form small discussion groups to share experiences and information, explore resources and look at alternatives to the problems graduate women face.

Jogging will be initiated Sunday as a new intramural activity for SIU women. Participants will meet at Davies Gymnasium at 2 p. m. each Sunday.

The Family Economics and Management Department will offer couples a free five-week workshop, "Money and Marriage" beginning 7 p. m. Thursday, April 10 at the Home Economics Building fourth floor. The course offers individual counseling to couples (married or otherwise) in addition to general instruction.

Katherine Pedersen, assistant professor of mathematics, will deliver two lectures to the 28th annual Illinois State University Mathematic Conference on April 12. She will speak on "The Concept of Distance, K-8."

Silas P. Singh, coordinator of specialized student services will be a guest speaker Thursday and Friday at the Spinal Cord Injury Seminar jointly sponsored by the National Paraplegia Foundation of St. Louis, St. Louis University and the Veterans' Administration. Singh will speak on employment of the handicapped at the St. Louis symposium.

Rules meeting set for office seekers

Candidates for the student election are required to attend a meeting at 4 p. m. Sunday in the Student Government offices to receive a packet of election rules, said Mike Jenkins, election co-commissioner.

Jenkins said there is a limitation on campaign spending and a requirement that a cost itemization be given to the Election Commission three days before the election.

Cafeteria survey indicates football players pick Grinnell

By Tom Liaz
Student Writer

Just about every SIU student has eaten in one of the three dormitory complex cafeterias at least once in their college career. Some members of the SIU football team, however, have the pleasure of eating in them
the entire time they are here.

So who better to poll on the relative merits of the cafeterias than a bunch of hungry Salukis?

Each football player who participated in the impenitent—and unscientific—survey has lived in both Thompson Point and East Campus dorms.

And since man does not live by bread alone, the inquiries dealt with atmosphere as well as quality of food. And since atmosphere has its social aspects, players were asked to rate the women in each area.

In the bread and butter area of sheer nourishment, Grinnell Hall ranks as tops with the gridders.
Lentz Hall was rated even with Grinnell by several of the respondents. Mark Henderson, senior in political science from Newark, Del., said, "At least the milk is cold in Grinnell. At TP I think they didn't have refrigeration."

As far as atmosphere the cafes ranked pretty evenly. Just as many gridders enjoyed the lake setting of Thompson Point as the high-rise complexes.

Joe Laws, junior in health education from Memphis, says, "I like the high-rise better because there are more blacks and it's much more interesting than TP."

In the final category—women—

Lentz Hall took a beating. Not one football player indicated TP women superior to or equal with the high-rise women.

"There's a saying we had that three out of four girls that go to SIU were good looking—and the fourth lives at Thompson Point," declared Mark Counts, a senior in graphic arts from Des Plaines.

"I go where the women are at—the high-rises," chipped in Primus Jones, a junior in health education from Cahokia.

All of the footballers, if given a choice, would pick Grinnell Hall to chow down in for one reason or another.

On the other hand there's the reaction of Steve Weathersby, a junior from Chicago, who may speak for a larger viewpoint.

"I ain't crazy about any of them."

Students get Faner beautification funds

There just might be $550 worth of hope for Faner Hall, after all.

Several design students have been granted $550 in University funds for purchasing materials for the beautification of the enormous concrete building.

The plans to humanize Faner Hall were "approved out of our office," said Rino Bianchi, director of Facilities Planning. The money to purchase materials comes from

"non-appropriated operating funds," he added.

The proposal was also approved
by SIU President Warren Brandt and Vice-President T. Richard Mager.

The students working on the plan are enrolled in Design 499, an independent study course.

Blueprints have been drawn showing five locations for the artwork. Most of it will be in the 'B' wing, and one wood hanging will be placed outside, near the bicycle racks.

"The students want to see all the artwork completed, but, "first, we have to see how far $550 will go," said Carol Schmidt, a senior in design. "We will also have to work fast, and see how much we can get done by the week of April 7, when Faner Dedication Week is scheduled to start."

Energy crisis topic of lecture series

A series of five public lectures on various aspects of "The Energy Crisis" will begin Wednesday under auspices of the Geology Department. The series is called:
"Geoscience Colloquium: The Energy Crisis."

The sessions will be at 8 p.m. each Wednesday during April in Browne Auditorium. Geology Department Chairman Russell Dutcher says the series will deal with fossil fuels and alternate energy sources and the environmental, legal and economic problems connected with developing and using these resources. The sessions will be open to the public.

The general topics:
April 2—Worldwide, regional and local outlook for finite fossil fuels:
Oil, coal and gas. SIU geologist
Frank Ethridge will head a panel including Roger Nance of the Illinois
Geological Survey and Marshall
Daniel of a Mount Vernon-based oil production company.

April 9—W.D. Klimstra, SIU wildlife researcher, and Howard E.
Hesketh, thermal-environmental engineer, will explore the problems of energy requirements vs. environmental impact: Pollution and land reclamation.

April 16—SIU geologist Charles O.
Frank will lead a session on the potential of alternate energy sources: Nuclear, geothermal, solar and tidal.

April 23—The economic and legal aspects of the energy crisis will be explored by Charles Stalon, SIU

economist, and Andrew Onejeme and Hiram Lesar of the School of Law faculty.

April 30—The final colloquium session will feature a free-wheeling discussion by professionals from industry, government, and colleges on what communities and individuals can do to resolve energy problems. SIU geologist Stanley E.
Harris will moderate.

Evergreen residents slate program about home safety

A presentation on fire and home safety by Ray Schlager, housing safety officer at SIU, will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Evergreen Terrace's Building 150.

The presentation will touch on such issues as consumer protection, the use of fire extinguishers and changing federal and state attitudes concerning safety.

"A large number of people are not even aware of state laws on safety," Schlager said.

The main purpose of the presentation is to answer any questions of the audience.

The program is sponsored by the Evergreen Terrace Activities Council as part of their monthly meeting and is open to the public.

Injuries costly in track win

By Dave Wiesorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Salukis whipped the Tigers from Auburn, 101-52, last Monday (March 24) in Auburn, Ala., but their trip could prove to be disastrous. Senior Lonnie Brown and sophomore Mike Monroe both suffered injuries that threaten to keep them out of the Illinois dual meet coming up in two weeks.

Neither man ran in the finals at the Florida Relays five days after the Auburn meet.

SIU started the outdoor season on the right foot, capturing 12 first places and 13 seconds out of the 18 events.

Senior Phil Robins was the only record-setting Saluki, winning the triple jump with a leap of 50-feet-9 $\frac{1}{2}$ ". The old record was 49-9 $\frac{1}{2}$ ". Saluki Ken Lorrway took second place at 49-6.

Distance runners Jack St. John and Jerry George showed they are beginning to round themselves into shape for the outdoor season by finishing 1-2 in the three-mile run. Both runners were clocked at 14:41.1 for the race.

The Salukis split with the Tigers in the two relays. Auburn won the 440-relay with a time of 40.9. SIU's time was 41.4.

SIU bounced back in the final event of the day, the mile relay, and the team of Scott Dorsey, Dennis Kern, George Haley and Earl Bigelow easily beat Auburn. The Salukis clocked 3:16.3 to Auburn's 3:20.2.

Lorrway surprised Brown by taking first in the long jump, soaring 23-2 $\frac{1}{2}$ to Brown's weak 22-11. A heave of 49-2 $\frac{1}{2}$ by Jack Warren earned him a first place in the shot put. Brown came back in the 120-yard high hurdles and took first with a time of 1:14.4. Freshman Bob Roggy tossed his javelin 200-8 for top honors.

Another frosh, Gary Hunter, went 16 feet to win the pole vault competition, while Kern and Bill Hancock finished first in the 800-yard run and discus throw, respectively. Haley won the 440-yard 440-intermediate hurdles with a time of :53.4.

"The kids did a good job at Auburn," coach Lew Hartzog said of his team, "although I didn't feel that the times were particularly outstanding. I think the flight down there and the rain right up until meet time had some effect on the team."

He added, "Auburn had some good kids. It was a good meet overall."

Monroe never had a chance to run at the Auburn meet, injuring his hip while warming up for the 440-relay. Brown injured his groin when he took off from the slippery long jump surface spread eagle.

Both men ran in the preliminary races in the 440 and 880 relays at the Florida Relays and helped qualify the team for the finals in each event, but Hartzog thought it too risky to run Monroe and Brown in the finals when they were not at full strength. Both Brown and Monroe in the preliminary 440-relay, the team qualified for the NCAA meet with a time of :40.7.

SIU failed to finish first in any one event, but Hancock had several personal bests and probably finished the meet with the best individual performance on the team, considering the competition he faced.

"Bill set a school record by scoring 7591 points for only a fifth place finish, but really and truly, the decathlon at this meet was like the Olympic trials," Hartzog remarked. "The Olympic committee flew in people from all over the country to compete in the decathlon."

In the first day of decathlon competition Wednesday, Hancock tossed the shot put 42-1, a personal record for him. His 15-5 in the pole vault and 137-2 in the javelin, were his best ever in decathlon competition. Hancock's total qualified him for the NCAA championship by more than 400 points.

According to Hartzog, the wind affected Hancock several times, but the coach expects things to start Hancock's way later in the year. Robins had himself a record in the triple jump before. Fillini of Mississippi State bettered Robins' best of 52-11 $\frac{1}{2}$; on his last jump, going 53-1.

Haley finished second in the 440-intermediate hurdles, but his 51.8 time set a school record. The old record was set in 1973 by Brown.

:52.9. Haley lost to Harold Schwabb of the University of Pennsylvania, one of the top hurdlers in the nation.

"We feel that George will be a 50-second hurdler this year," Hartzog predicted.

Haley teamed up with Kern, Bigelow and Carmody to wind up in sixth place in the mile relay with a time of 3:14. That same combination ran a 3:12.7 mile in the preliminary event.

Hunter, Warren and Hancock all finished equal in their specialties. Hunter equaled his outdoor school record with a leap of 16 feet. Warren improved on his put at the Auburn meet and tossed the metal ball 51-8.

Hancock, after competing in the two-day decathlon, managed to come back in the high jump and leap a respectable 6-10. Kim Taylor finished fifth in the same event at 6-8.

The only SIU first place was picked up by Roggy in the javelin. He competed in the freshman division of the meet and posted a 207-8 effort. St. John was runnerup in the six-mile run with a time of 30:02.

"I would have been real satisfied with the Florida meet if we had had the relays running at full strength," Hartzog commented. "I felt a few of the fellas absorbed too much sun, and that didn't help."

"We've got two good meets under our belt and the distance runners did well," Hartzog said. "These two things alone made the trip worthwhile."

The Texas Relays is the next scheduled meet for the Salukis, but Hartzog said the team may not make the trip to Texas next weekend due to injuries. He said he would know by Tuesday what will happen.

If SIU does not go to Texas, the team will have two weeks to prepare for the Illinois meet—a meet it has been aiming for since the second place finish to the Illini in the state indoor meet back in early February.

Although winning only three of four matches, the SIU tennis team concluded its southern trip with some impressive play.

Of the seven teams the Salukis faced, four were ranked in the top 10 nationally, and those four accounted for the SIU defeats.

Nonetheless, coach Dick LeFevre was quite pleased with the team's performances.

"It was a good trip," the coach said after practice Monday. "Everyone played well. Several teams discounted us because we lost our top three men from last year, but we surprised them."

The team's spring trip began in Tuscaloosa, Ala., against the 12th-ranked University of Alabama in a 7-2 loss. It was the Crimson Tide's 12th match of the year. Felix Ampon defeated Sam Vuille, Alabama's No. 1 man, who earlier in the year had beaten the No. 1 men from Michigan and Houston.

Gary Staines won the other match for SIU and wound up with the best individual record (5-2) of the trip.

The Salukis settled down after the initial loss and defeated Florida State which already had at least a dozen matches under its belt, 6-3, and Florida Tech, 9-0.

Mel Ampon was the star in the Florida State match, defeating Clive Rothwell in four sets. Rothwell had lost just two matches in the last two years.

Next came three consecutive losses to Miami, Princeton and Florida, before finishing the trip with a victory over Ohio State. According to LeFevre, every match was close with the best tennis being played by Gary Staines.

He won his singles match over Ron Meyers of Miami, 7-6, 6-7, 7-5. Staines then teamed with Mel Ampon in the No. 1 doubles match and won in two sets. Miami is rated No. 4 in the country.

The Staines-Ampon combo won several victories on the trip, including a win over Bob Fisher and Eduardo Centile of Princeton in straight sets. Princeton clobbered SIU 8-1, but the match was at 9 a.m. the morning after the Salukis battled the Hurricanes. Princeton is generally considered the best team in the East.

The Salukis suffered another 8-1 setback by Florida. This time the No. 1 doubles team lost 6-7, 7-5, 6-3, but the No. 2 team came through with a win.

The whole trip ended on a happy note as the Salukis squeezed by the Buckeyes of Ohio State, 6-3.

Swimmers at best, but still finish 16th

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Sometimes your best just isn't good enough. Bobby Knight, coach of the Indiana basketball Hoosiers more than admitted this when his team lost to Kentucky, saying, "We got beat by a better team."

SIU swimming coach Bob Steele did not put it in those words, but he would be first to admit that his team gave its best at the NCAA championship over the weekend, but it just wasn't enough.

In finishing 16th, SIU broke 13 school records and out of 25 total swims, 22 were lifetime bests. "It was pleasant with the times and I think most of the guys were too," Steele said Monday morning. "I would have been more impressed with a higher team finish."

Steele and his team had been hoping to finish in the top ten. The University of Southern California won the meet for the second year in a row and Indiana took second place.

SIU's big three, captain Dave Swenson, Jorge Delgado and Mike Salerno turned in respectable performances and were responsible for the team's 25 points.

Swenson, a sophomore, set a school record in the 1650-yard freestyle by dropping eight seconds off his previous best time and going the distance in 15:34.7. He missed finishing sixth by only a second. Swenson also swam a personal best for the first 1,000 yards of the 1650 with a time of 9:28.1. His previous best had come at Michigan when he broke the record set there by Indiana's John Kinsella.

Swenson returned to the water to swim in the 800-freestyle along with Delgado, Dave Boyd and Rick Fox. That combination finished 15th and broke the school standard by more than two seconds with a clocking of 6:54.5.

Delgado took sixth in the 200-butterfly and set a school record with a 1:49.2 in the preliminary swim and a 1:49.6 in the final.

"Jorge just ran out of gas," Steele said of Delgado's disappointing finish. "His legs felt like lead. I think maybe we worked him too much on speed and didn't do enough endurance work previous to this meet."

Steele said Delgado usually walks around prior to a race to relax but may have walked too long this time and "walked himself right out of the race."

Besides the 800-freestyle, Delgado swam in the 400-freestyle relay and 400-medley relay. Boyd, Fox, Delgado and Dennis Roberts, was the foursome that stroked to a 15th place finish in the 400-relay and set a school record with a time of 3:05.2.

Salerno, Delgado, Roberts and Steve Jack combined efforts in the 400-medley for 16th place finish and another school record with a mark of 3:28.7.

The junior Delgado also claimed two 14th places and two more school records. In the 200-freestyle he was clocked at 1:40.7 and, in the 500-freestyle, Delgado stroked to a time of 4:31.1, eclipsing the old mark by more than four seconds.

Sophomore Salerno also notched a sixth place finish in the 100-backstroke with a time of :51.2. In the preliminary race he set a school record with a :51.1 time. In his other individual event, Salerno collected a 15th and a school record with a 1:52.7 mark in the 200-backstroke.

The only other individual school record established was Paul Schultz's :59.7 in the 100-breaststroke. That marks the first time a Saluki has broken the one minute barrier in that event. The one-minute record was held by Steve Jack.

Two more school records were set, but these came as relay splits. Fox swam his split of the 400-freestyle relay in 45.7, and Jack swam his split in the medley relay in a time of 58.9, both new marks.

"The times and competition were utterly fantastic," Steele said, shaking his head in amazement. "The scoring went to 12 places, and the times for all of those places were just fantastic."

He pointed out that the times for 12th place this year probably would have taken sixth or seventh place at last year's meet.

"There were nine American records set and 11 NCAA records," Steele said. "The reasons for the times are, for one, the facilities. The pool was really fast. And the other reason for the good times is the science in the coaching."

He concluded, "Without a doubt, this was the best competition ever at an NCAA championship."

The swimming season isn't over yet. SIU will compete in the national AAU meet in two weeks at Cincinnati.

Diamondmen start slow

Recordwise, the Saluki baseball team is off to a rocky start.

And "recordwise" is the extent of the problem, as far as head coach Itchy Jones is concerned. "Regardless of the scores, considering that the caliber of competition was better than in the past, I thought we played well in most of our games," Jones remarked Monday, reflecting on his team's 3-6-1 mark to date.

"We lost two 15-0 games, but after the score reached about 7-0, we cleared the bench and took looks at other players," he said. "We're okay, but we need to start putting together some wins now."

The Salukis return home briefly for a home-opening twinbill against Winona State Tuesday at 1 p.m. at Abe Martin Field. Wednesday they travel to Jonesboro, Ark., for a doubleheader against Arkansas State.

"The condition of the field amazed us," Jones said Monday afternoon. "The dirt part is dry enough for us to play on today, and we're covering the field tonight and hoping the tarpaulin doesn't leak."

The situation will be changed drastically from the recent Western swing, where all the opponents already had about 20 games under their belts.

The Arizona Wildcats carried a 20-2 mark into SIU's first encounter on that trip and left with a 22-3-1 mark. A win, tie and loss against the Salukis was sandwiched around a Wildcat win over the Oakland A's.

The first battle ended in darkness after 10 innings with the teams even at 4-4, the second was all Arizona, 15-0, and the last was all SIU, 11-6.

"In that first game, Ron Hodges and Tim Verpaele held them to their lowest score all year," assistant coach Mark Newman said.

"Arizona has a real solid offensive lineup, so those were excellent pitching jobs."

Solid pitching jobs, however, became rare from there on out, and that's where the Salukis ran into problems. After lefty Robin Derry was bombed in the 15-0 loss, Hodges came back to go the distance in the 11-6 win, giving up four of those runs in the final two innings when he tired.

That third loss came in Riverside, Calif., where the Salukis were involved in a tournament that accounted for the rest of the games on the trip. Leftfielder Steve Shartzter set an all-time tourney record by driving in eight runs in that contest.

Stanford then handed the Dogs the first of three straight losses, 5-1, over Verpaele, and Santa Clara followed with an 11-2 win, thanks in part to starter Bill Dunning's wildness. Host California-Riverside, the surprise tourney winner, then overcame a 4-0 deficit to dump the Salukis and Derry, 7-4.

SIU straightened out to win two of its last three games. Lefty Jim Kessler was the winning hurler in a 15-7 slugfest over Southern Methodist, Hodges, on three days' rest, was ripped by Washington State 15-0, and Verpaele evened his record in a 10-9 win over Cornell.

"Overall, I felt we played well defensively," Jones said, "and, offensively," he played as well as we ever have. We learned a lot and came back with a regular lineup, something we never know when we go."

That lineup has a few surprises from the prospective one the team opened its season expecting. Catchers Frank Hunsaker and Dan Herbst both hit so well (.360 and .333, respectively) that Jones has moved Hunsaker to first base, opening the mitt chores to Herbst.

"That's our best lineup," Jones said. "Frank has been hitting well and gives us a quick arm at first, and nobody's going to run on Herbst."

Completing the infield are second baseman Howie Mitchell, shortstop Rich Murray and third baseman Jim Locascio, as expected. The senior Mitchell is hitting .325 after what Jones termed "his best stretch of eight games since he's been here," while the freshman Murray was named to the all-tournament squad.

Locascio, hitting just .237, center-fielder John Hoescheidt (.194) and freshman rightfielder George Vukovich (.257) have alternated in the fifth and sixth spots in the batting order with unproductive results thus far.

"To be a good ballclub, we need more RBI's from the fifth and sixth men," Jones said. "We are probably leaving 10 men on base a game, and our pitchers are walking about eight batters—although I'm just guessing."

"I think we'll improve in both," he continued. "Jim Kessler (2.95 ERA) and Jim Adkins (4.50) looked good as new pitchers, and I feel our other pitchers will come around to give us a good five- to seven-man staff."

The Salukis take a team batting average of .269 and pitching mark of 5.20 into Tuesday's doubleheader. Kessler's 1-0 record is the only winning one on the staff, while Shartzter tops the hitters with two doubles, a triple, a homer and 10 RBI's.

Broken arm derails Ivicek

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

For Jim Ivicek, it's his lowest moment in gymnastics.

For Bill Meade, it doesn't approximate the lowest ebbs in the sport for him.

Both realize, though, that Ivicek's injury in a horizontal bar accident last Tuesday has robbed the Saluki gymnastics team of a shot at another national title.

"For sure, this is the worst thing that's happened to me in gymnastics," the senior star said Monday, suffering from a broken radius bone in the right forearm. "It would have been my last meet at SIU, and we had a really good chance of winning the nationals.

"It's the whole idea," he remarked. "Coach Meade letting me come here on scholarship even though I go a whole year of school without competing. Then the one most important meet, I get hurt.

"I kind of feel like I let some people down, although I suppose it couldn't be helped."

Meade, however, is trying hard not to become depressed over the freak accident. Ivicek's hand grip broke as he was finishing a routine, sending the New Mexico transfer twirling off the bar, eventually hitting the floor forearm first.

"Of course, there was Gary Morava," Meade pointed out, recalling worse incidents he had been associated with in

Softball set

A meeting for all managers of men's intramural 16-inch softball will be held Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Morris Library Auditorium. League play will begin Saturday.

Any student interested in officiating league games should attend the rules interpretation meetings, set for Wednesday and Thursday, April 2-3, at 4 p.m. in Room 121 of the Arena.

The pay for students eligible for student work is $3 per game.

the sport. Morava, an all-American, died in a mini-trampoline accident a year ago, costing the Salukis a probable national title in 1974.

"Then there was four-time NCAA champ Frank Schmitz," he continued. "He was killed in a plane crash the day before his 21st birthday, two weeks before he was to return to school for the '67 season."

The defending champion Salukis still managed to retain their title that year.

"Then there was John Arnold's death in 1970," Meade recounted. "He was killed in an accident in which six guys were involved. Oddly enough, that was when Morava first hurt his shoulder.

"That cost us the national championship in '71, even though we got second," he added. "Then we won it in '72."

"This has certainly cost us a good shot at it again this year. I thought we were in a good position to win the national championship.

"We had the experience of a good season and a lot of good meets," Meade said. "We have met most of the top teams, and top people that will be there."

Ivick, who will leave with the team for Terre Haute, Ind., and the finals Tuesday for the competition beginning Thursday, shouldered much of the blame for the whole incident.

"I was breaking in a new pair of grips," he explained. "That takes a while, because they're almost like cardboard and you have to wear them a couple of times a day.

"I had been doing that all week, but I couldn't use the new ones for the routines," he said. "The old ones wore through and I fell, with the centrifugal force carrying me away from the bar.

"I kind of lost where I was in the air, and I guess I was trying to protect my neck and head. You know you're not supposed to put your hand down first—it's happened to so many people—and I remember that going through my mind."

With Ivick out of the meet with an injury for the first time in his career, Meade has reorganized his goals to more realistic levels.

Measuring the fallen star's worth at "10 or 12 points," the Saluki mentor has set a new goal of 418 points. That's about 10½ under the team's total in the regionals.

"That won't be enough to win, so the question is how many teams we can pass on the way," Meade remarked. "The kids have responded well, and I'm hoping for pleasant surprises.

"I'm going to shoot for fifth, which may be a little optimistic," he said. "There's always a lot of funny things happen at the NCAA, so it's a question of minimizing our mistakes."

Glenn Tidwell more or less will take over Ivick's role in the nationals. Ivick is relegated to the sidelines for at least eight weeks.

His cast comes off in six weeks and the pin inserted in the right forearm after a skin graft from his hip will come off in eight weeks. He doesn't figure to be ready for the Pan Am trials in June, but Meade hopes the Olympic committee will consider placing him in the final 12-man competition in August.

"He had the highest qualifying score in the compulsories and optionals," Meade pointed out. "That's why they had him as the favorite for the nationals.

"I feel really sorry for Jim and the rest of the kids," he said. "It's always great to be on a championship team, and it would've helped the young kids for the coming years.

"I never have looked back, though, and tried to second guess. We'll just go on. A lot of times, a lot of kids become new men at that time and new stars arise."

Women gymnasts win regional tournament

By Martha Sanford
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The women's elite gymnastics team attended the regional qualifying meet at Illinois State March 21-22 with only the intentions of achieving the 96-point qualifying score.

But after the chalk dust had settled, the women had not only qualified, but had won their fifth consecutive regional title, with a score of 106.7.

Of the nearly 150 women entered in competition, the Salukis captured first place in each of the four events and in all-around, and were one of only three teams from Region Five to qualify.

Michigan State and Kent State, the other two teams to qualify, were well behind Southern's score, Michigan only scoring 102.7.

In all-around competition, the familiar names of Sandi Gross and Stephanie Stromer came up first and second. Gross and Stromer also placed first and second in vaulting, with the order reversed for first and second in floor exercise.

Senior Ginger Temple placed first in beam with a score of 9.15. The first place title resulted after Temple successfully completed her front aerial on the beam. She was followed by teammate Gross, who placed third in that event.

Bars was the Salukis' best event, as they captured the first three places. Freshman Lynn Govin, competing in her only event, took first, followed by Gross and Stromer.

The competition at regionals was not as tough as expected, especially when it was learned that Diana Sepke and Phyllis Draper were not competing. Sepke, from the U of I-Chicago Circle, was expected to be in the running with Southern competitors in all-around competition, but has been out most of the season with a stomach injury.

Draper, from Indiana State, is out with knee injuries and would also have been a key contender in the all-around competition.

Individually, the only other woman to look for was Kathi Kincer from Michigan State, a member of the second place team.

After intensive practice over spring break, the gymnasts will be leaving Tuesday for the collegiate nationals to be held in Hayward, Calif., April 4-6.
