Reagan rebounding; Brady may recover

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan rebounded Tuesday from gunshot surgery in "exceptionally good condition" and with a strong dose of humor as he spoke of his economic bill and the resumed command of the country, Vice President George Bush said the chief executive was "roving"-checked and looked robust as he took up presidential business from his hospital bed early in the morning. Bush, meanwhile, assumed the president's day-to-day White House schedule.

The 70-year-old president was described by doctors as being in "excellent spirits," fewer than 24 hours after an assailant's bullet was removed from his left lung.

The bullets fired outside the Washington Hilton Hotel on Monday at 1:32 p.m. EST also felled White House press secretary James Brady, a Secret Service agent and a District of Columbia police officer. Brady, shot Monday in the forehead, was described by Dr. Dennis O'Leary as having suffered "fairly extensive damage." to the right side of the brain.

"We believe he is going to live, but we have no idea where he is going to end up," said O'Leary, a George Washington University hospital official serving as a leukemian. Later in the day, Speakes said he was "very optimistic" about Brady.

White House Chief of Staff James Baker said that after Reagan was attacked Monday, Gerry Farr, the chief of the Secret Service's presidential protection detail, ordered Reagan's limousine to return the president to the White House. But on the way, the president complained of soreness of the ribs and "he may have complained of difficulty in breathing," Baker said. The course was changed and the limousine headed for the hospital.

Baker said his deputy, Michael Deaver, called from the motorcade and told him the president had not been struck in the gunsite. Until the president "collapsed" in the emergency room after walking in from his car, did adds note Reagan was wounded, Baker said.

At the White House Tuesday, lunchtime crowds milled about outside the black iron fence under sunny skies. Inside the gates, aides took pains to portray the government as functioning normally.

Bush directed a Cabinet meeting, met with congressional leaders, and greeted the visiting prime minister of the Netherlands, Andreas A.M. Van Agt. White House press secretary Larry Speakes said "there's not a lot of difference from him (Reagan) being in the Oval Office."

"We're fully prepared to take care of anything," Speakes said. "He's fully able to function as he would be anywhere in the world."

Chief of Staff James Baker said that shortly after the wounded president reached the hospital Monday, "full communications" were opened between the medical center, the White House situation room and the airplane carrying Bush back to Washington from a speaking trip to Texas.

Baker insisted the administration was prepared at all times "for any contingency that might arise."

WASHINGTON (AP) - Justice Department sources said Tuesday they have found what they described as John Warnock Hinckley Jr., accused in the shooting of President Reagan, had wanted to "go out and do something to get himself killed."

Hinckley was given tranquillizers and held in bond at a Marine base in Virginia, where he is testing to determine if he is competent to stand trial on charges of attempting to assassinate the president and another official.

The Justice Department sources, who declined identification, revealed that federal investigators found an unspecified letter written by the accused assailant in which he indicated he wanted to do something to get himself killed.

The letter, the sources said, was addressed to an 18-year-old movie actor. The letter reflected that Hinckley, the 25-year-old son of a wealthy New Jersey family, didn't care what happens too me,'" frame said.

Administration and congressional sources, who declined to be identified, said Hinckley's letter spelled out his plans in detail but they did not elaborate.

The youthful actor played a pre-teen prostitute in the movie "Taxi Driver" and made her stage debut last week in a student production at Yale, where he is a freshman.

In that play, he played a drama entitled "Getting Out,"" she played a teen-age prostitute, he who has murdered a taxi dancer."

Earlier Tuesday, Sen. Paul Laxalt, R- Nev., said authorities were led on an attempted assassination, in which Hinckley's target was the president, to his press secretary and two other officials. They were shot. Hinckley, Laxalt said, refused to divulge details, and there was no word on Hinckley's condition or whether the discovery of Hinckley was linked to the suspected motive.

Hinckley, confined to a 6- by 10-foot private cell, was being guarded around the clock by at least two U.S. marshals and Bill Dempsy, a spokesman for the U.S. Marshals Service.

Hinckley appeared subdued and unemotional throughout a 42-minute hearing at midnight before federal magistrate Arthur Burnett.

An attempt on the life of a president is a federal crime carrying a maximum of life imprisonment, and an attacker may be found guilty even if the victim's agent is punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Charges were yet to be filed in connection with the shootings.

"We're taking it very seriously," President Ronald Reagan's press secretary James Brady and a local police officer.

Ad hoc committee to study IAC duties

Thailand generals overthrow year-old constitutional rule

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Thai army generals overthrew the year-old government of Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda on a pre-dawn coup Wednesday and established a Revolutionary Committee to rule the country, Radio Thailand announced.

The coup came one day after Thailand allowed Indonesian commandos to assault a hijacked Indonesian jetliner at the Bangkok airport and free 32 hostages, but there was no indication that was connected with Prem's ouster.

A radio announcement said the generals, considered pro-Western as was Prem, seized power "because of the deteriorating situation. Several political parties are undermining the stability of the government with an intention of taking over the country and changing it into a dictatorial state."

It reported that Gen Sant Chitpatrimon, deputy commander-in-chief of the army, was the head of the Revolutionary Committee and that Prem had resigned as prime minister and commander-in-chief of the army.

The constitution was abolished and the Cabinet and Parliament dissolved by the committee, which took over at 2 a.m., according to the broadcast made at 5 a.m.

Sant, 59, is a close personal friend of Prem. He was scheduled to assume Prem's duties as army commander last October when Prem became 60 years old, the mandatory retirement age for that post. Top military officials decided to give Prem one more year as army chief.

Bangkok appeared quiet and normal after the coup announcement, with sparse traffic and no sign of military movements.

The broadcast said, "The Revolutionary Committee, comprising members of the army, navy and air force, have taken over and have appointed Gen. Sere目的是 Supreme, supreme commander of the armed forces, as an adviser to the committee."

Solidarity supports strike call-off

GIANSK, Poland (AP) - The Solidarity leadership voted Tuesday night to accept independent union chief Lech Walesa's decision to call off a general strike despite dissatisfaction with the agreement Walesa worked out with the government.

Soviet land, sea and air military exercises were reported continuing in and around Poland, and Polish officials mounted urgent missions to the West for economic aid.

The vote agreeing to call off the strike was 24-1, but there were many abstentions among the membership of 55.

American Nazi leader resigns

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) - Harold A. Covington announced Wednesday he is resigning as head of the National Socialist Party of America and said members of the Nazi organization will go underground because of government harassment.

Covington, who has led the party since December 1979, said he will continue to act as a public spokesman for Nazi philosophies and will continue his public activities although he will have no official position with the party.

Covington said the new head of the national party will be Michael Allen of Chicago.

Nine drug ring members convicted

CHICAGO (AP) - Nine members of a million-dollar drug ring that operated on a West Side street corner were convicted Tuesday in Circuit Court, but a mistrial was declared in the case of an alleged leader of the ring.

After 4-1/2 days of deliberation, an eight-man, four-woman jury returned guilty verdicts against "Mad Dog" Walesa, 38, who prosecutors said was in charge of the operation.

As a result of the mistrial, Cannon will have to stand trial again, prosecutors said.
Prisoner rights lawyers condemn treatment at Marion

By Scott Canon

Prison administrators at Marion Federal Penitentiary play mind games on inmates there, according to two lawyers from the Marion Prisoners Rights Project.

Speaking to about 25 people in the Verna Room of the Student Center Monday, Jim Roberts and Martha Easter-Wells accused the prison officials of abandoning rehabilitation practices and concentrating their efforts on coercing prisoners.

Prison administrators deny inmates of more privileges than necessary for security. Easter-Wells said, "The things about Marion that make it so innocuous are the mind games they're playing with prisoners." She said, "The goal at Marion is to dehumanize the prisoners--to break them."

Inmates are denied religious freedom, visits with outsiders, access to legal advice and other privileges by prison policies, she said.

Those policies prompted a 1 1/2-day work strike. Easter-Wells said. The work stoppage was halted when the administration removed some of the prison's industrial equipment and mothballed the rest.

When the prison ended the strike economic reasons were cited for removing the industries. Prison spokesman Rich Phillips said the federal prison system had a large investment in the industrial equipment.

Roberts said he believed the prison is not going to move the industries as it indicated. "I've heard reports that prisoners are being transferred out of there so they can have a more viable population to work in the industries," Roberts said.

Phillips denied Roberts' charges.

Director resigns suddenly, early

The director of the Division of Human Development resigned suddenly Monday for reasons which have been called "quite ambiguous" by Samuel Goldman, dean of the College of Human Resources.

Elas McMullen had planned to leave the University in June to head the Department of Home Economics at the State University of New York at Orono. Goldman said he received a letter from McMullen Monday which informed him that her resignation was effective immediately.

Contacted at home Monday, McMullen declined to comment about her resignation, saying she preferred not to "publicize a lot of personal details."

Goldman said he hopes to appoint a temporary replacement for McMullen this week.

Friends from Anna need you

She told me that some had no conception of discipline. They didn't know what year, month, or even day it was. Yet somehow, instinctively, something stirred. On Thursdays, their spirits were high. They bailed out at every chance of talking excitedly of the volunteer warming. As it grew nearer and the sky darkened, they trotted by. The wind was restless. Someone couldn't keep the car doing. They yelled down to us, and more people. We organized our group and entered the doors of the Anna Newman Center.

Last night I was taken to a different section where there was a conference room with a table and some people. They were discussing something about the city (and the media) on the plight of the poor. For that she deserves credit.

Quotable quotes

Black, beware of false prophets

I would caution all people, especially black people, to beware of false prophets. Black people have realized that their condition and plight in this society has produced much bitterness and even some hatred among some of their leaders. If it is wise to be on guard against all forms of oppression, then the black man who has suffered because he has learned this bitter lesson, is no longer finding some tangible solution in human form to solve all the riddles and problems of racism. —Jim Jones, Elijah Muhammad, and others.

Put more pizzazz in ticket sales

With delight I read another hard-hitting episode of your serial “Pristine Parker vs. No Parking.” Zealously, the forces of light were again trounced by the bureaucratic forces of darkness.

Please, do live up future scripts. The previous two are generally always ruthlessly cited for parking offenses of the most minor sort. Really, to argue that they only intended to stay a few minutes, without a ticket, is not the point. It is not a question of the ticket office being too busy, or being in the wrong place, or not having the right ticket. It is a question of the ticket office, in general, being too busy, or being in the wrong place, or not having the right ticket. It is a question of the ticket office, in general, being too busy, or being in the wrong place, or not having the right ticket.

Incident posed no threat to nation, say professors

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

The process of federal government may have looked more shaky and wounded it on the president was Monday afternoon following the assassination attempt in Washington, D.C., but two SUI- political science professors said Tuesday that in their opinions, there was no serious threat to the nation or the chain of command.

Professors Randall Nelson and John Jackson, while not complimentary of the way the Reagan staff handled themselves during the first frantic hours following the shooting, both said they believed the legal and communications systems developed around the office of the president kept the nation functioning and out of danger throughout the ordeal.

"The only reason, but in watching the television networks Monday afternoon, I had a feeling that there was excessive pandemonium around the incident, and that the Reagan people could have behaved in a more disciplined manner. No one in government or on the networks, really seemed to know what was going on," Nelson said.

Nelson said that although there were many references to the Constitution's 25th Amendment, which covers some aspects of presidential succession in times of crisis, there was no mention of the Presidential Succession Act of 1967. That law, Nelson said, had the answers to many questions being asked by government and media people.

The 1967 act draws the line of presidential succession from the vice-president to the speaker of the House of Representatives to the president pro tem of the Senate and to the secretary of state. Nelson said, and there were times Monday afternoon when it appeared to him that no one involved in government or media knew the line.

Secretary of State Alexander Haig called a press conference Monday afternoon to explain what was happening at the White House as the wounded president was in surgery, and at one point announced that "I am in charge pending the return of the vice president from Texas."

It was speculated later Monday that Haig had made the statement in light of the current labor crisis in Poland to signal to the Soviet Union that the government was still functioning, and they should not attempt to take advantage of the situation, but Nelson rejected that argument.

"If the Soviets are aware of our form of government and our communications systems, which I presume they are, they could have determined that Haig was without power to act and very quickly," Nelson said.

Jackson described the administration's activities as "rather ragged for a while" following the shooting, but said he had seen "no serious threat or problem because there appeared to be no plot to shoot large numbers of officials," and stop the government.

"Given the communications network that is so well formed around the president, there was no problem with any of the functions of government or question of our ability to act. It is rather remarkable that no one in the press or government didn't seem to know who was in charge," Jackson said.

A Murphysboro woman was listed in guarded condition Tuesday afternoon following the accident in a Carbondale Hospital in Carbondale with head wounds she received after the motorcycle she was driving collided Monday afternoon with a car on New Era Road, a hospital spokesman said.

According to the Carbondale police, Kimberly Baskin, 28, was driving a motorcycle at about 1 p.m. on New Era Road, just north of Illinois Route 114, when she collided with a northbound car driven by Charles Gallatin, 21, a junior at SUI-C, according to witnesses.

Witneses told police that Gallatin made a left turn in front of Baskin, causing her to strike the car. Police said Baskin's head hit the windshield of Gallatin's car. Gallatin was not injured, police said.

Man sentenced for DeSoto robbery

A Murphyboro man was sentenced to 13 years in prison Tuesday for his part in an armed robbery committed just seven days after his release from state prison in sentencing.

Bruce Griffin, 20, was convicted Feb. 24 of driving the getaway car for his two brothers, Dan and Bob, when they held up the Han-Doe Mart convenience store in DeSoto on Nov. 17. Circuit Judge Richard E. Richman delivered the sentence that will send Griffin back to Menard where he served three years for a forgery conviction prior to the robbery.

Griffin and his brothers, who have also been convicted of the Class X felony, face armed robbery charges in Williamson County.

Conrail postpones rail abandonment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conrail has postponed its request — originally scheduled for Tuesday — to abandon a 14-mile stretch of track in Southern Illinois until May 1, the railroad's public affairs office said.

Simon said Conrail needed more time to gather data to support its request to abandon the Cairo rail line.

The delay will also give five railroads negotiating with Conrail to buy the rail line to continue negotiations.

The prisoners' diets were another point of concern. Easter-Wells said the inmate demands for better food and optional vegetarian meals were also denied by the prison administration.

Another area criticized by conservative and successful.

Mitchell said that at this time with so little information, it is dangerous to speculate if Hinckley falls into one of these two categories. He said there may be other reasons Hinckley, the son of a wealthy Denver physician, may have acted as he did.

"There is always the possibility that he's totally psychotic," Mitchell said. "He may have been completely out of touch with reality. In some ways paranoid that the president controls his life and that only by killing him could be free."

"Another possibility is that Reagan is a symbol of Hinckley's father, who is wealthy, successful and a conservative."

Black Affairs Council bids farewell to ‘Mom’

By Vicki Olgerst
Student Writer

The Black Affairs Council’s “mother” will be leaving SIU-C April 1.

Dorothy Smith, coordinator of student development, will return to Mississippi Valley State University to resume her duties as director of the Academic Skills Parlor, a learning resource center similar to SIU-C’s Center for Basic Skills.

Smith was tagged “mother” by this year’s BAC members for the help she has provided to the group in management, leadership development and programming, she said. Richard Gardner, coordinator of BAC, presented her with a plaque inscribed “mother” at a program paying tribute to the black church on Feb. 8.

Smith, 32, came to SIU-C in August 1978 as a doctoral student in higher education and graduate assistant for non-traditional students. In the spring of 1980 she accepted her present post.

“I thought the job would just be a part-time endeavor. I soon found out that working with students is a delicate process that takes at least 12 hours of my day,” Smith said.

“Students have become a major part of my personal and professional life.”

When Smith accepted her job, she heard complaints from students about a communication barrier between the students and the administration.

“Students kept telling me that the university administration wouldn’t listen to them and that the faculty wouldn’t come to their programs,” she said.

“This first thing that I did was to invite the administration to the 1980 spring BAC orientation,” Smith said. “I invited everyone’s surprise but my own. They came.”

“Communication is the key to solving any problem,” Smith said. “I have tried to extend programs beyond the walls of campus. The black church tribute was very successful at including students, university administration and town residents in one event.”

Smith said her office is running informally and her hours are

Smith said she bases her philosophy of self-determination on a quote she heard years ago: "The world will step aside for any to pass if he knows where he’s going."

"If you really want and believe in something, put it in effort and fight the odds," she explained. "Be sure you know what you want to do."

Smith’s office in the Student Center is decorated with many awards. She was named an Outstanding Young Woman of America" in 1978 and 1980.

which is a national recognition given for outstanding contribution to the community she said. "I have become quickly attached to SIUC," said Smith. "I believe that home is not the place - it is the people in the place that count."

Smith first postponed her departure date from March, then she switched it to April because she wanted to help select her replacement:

"I just have to remind myself that there are as many warm people at home as there are here," she said.

ATLANTA - An 18-year-old black youth whom police had labeled a runaway was identified Tuesday as the 21st victim in Atlanta's string of child deaths. Two other youngsters have been reported missing.

Dr. John Feegel, associate medical examiner, said Timothy Hill apparently died of asphyxiation at least a week before he was found in the Chattahoochee River on Monday. It's one more of the same—black male, teen-age, no marks, no mutilation." Feegel said

“My working presumption is that he was probably asphyxiated in some way and put in the river,” he told a news conference. “My present working is that he was not alive when he went in the water, but I'd be willing to be unbiased in that belief if we had some evidence.”

Hill had been considered a runaway by Atlanta police, who turned his case over to their missing persons bureau rather than the special task force investigating the deaths and disappearances of 22 other black children since July 1979.

These concerts and recitals are free and open to the public.

Carbondale woman abducted, raped

A Carbondale woman was raped and sexually assaulted Monday night by two men who abducted her while she was standing in front of her residence on the 700 block of East College Street. The victim told Carbondale police.

The victim, a 20-year-old white female, told police she was raped by one man and forced to perform, a deviant sexual act on the other man, after the men abducted her at about 4 p.m. and drove her to the southeast section of the city. The victim was then driven back at about 6 p.m. to her residence by the suspects. The victim told police.

Police said they have two suspects, a 26-year-old man and a 16-year-old juvenile although no arrests have been made.

Luzinski hopes to give Chisox more than their money's worth

Eleven that night.
The enthusiasm surrounding the world of sports was dampened Monday. With the first graders expected to have fun and games was difficult, to say the least. Others consider them forms of entertainment. The NCAA and SBC evidently felt the show had to go on Monday night, and Indiana was an easy prey.

But the atmosphere surrounding the game and the fact that the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences postponed the Oscars to get everyone they felt could help them in 1981.

And since they had backed themselves against the wall with an excess of outfielders when they acquired Matthews, they were forced to take what the veteran outfielder apparently was worth on the market.

Luzinski had laughed at reports that he had no value on the baseball market. He admitted that maybe his skills were on the downgrade, but insisted he still had a few good years with the big bat that for seven years threw fear into National League pitchers.

Luzinski didn’t particularly want to leave Philadelphia, but realized he had no future on a team where his feud with the manager was legendary. Luzinski, who has had operations on both knees, felt Green had not given him the proper chance to rehabilitate and make a comeback. He made his dislike of the manager very clear.

Although Green insisted that he liked Luzinski, he made it clear that nobody played for his Phillies on past reputation.

The beginning of the end for luzinski was in 1979 when he slumped to .252. and followed that by a .281 batting average. His defensive ability had slumped to .259. His embarrassment to the manager had no failure on a .499 average.

By the Associated Press

The decision to play the NCAA basketball championship game as President Reagan lay wounded from an assassination attempt was blasted on some of the nation's sports pages Thursday.

"It makes me want to cry," wrote Dave Kindred, a sports columnist for the Washington Post.

Meanwhile, other sports writers, fans and the two coaching teams involved in the title match defended the action.

"I think the kids felt as we all did about the tragedy, that both teams were here to play—nothing we could do," Indiana Coach Bob Knight and South Carolina Coach Frank Martin said.

Auld confirmed that both teams had been notified Thursday afternoon of tragic developments.

"A faint might suggest that if we stopped the world every time one of us got shot, we might never start at all," Knight said.

Had there been any questions about President Kennedy's recovery, playing the game would have been "obscene," Knight added.

Sports events lost their glitter Monday

MONDAY HAD PROMISED to be a sportswriter's dream on a cold, rainy national level. Allen Van Winkle, a 3-2 entering Wednesday's meet at Muncie, Indiana, was favored to win the men's basketball championship in the NCAA's history. The announcement followed weeks of speculation. And NBC's Block said that both teams would be playing for their lives.

Auld had been convinced that both teams would be playing for their lives, NBC's Block said that both teams would be playing for their lives.

"As I am writing this, the president of the United States has been wheeled out of surgery and his press secretary is fighting for his life," Block said, quoting the news release. "But don't.

Sports editor Bill Davre of the Milwaukee Journal com­pared the decision to play the contest with that of the National Football League to play its full slate of games the Sunday after President Kennedy was assassinated in November.

But some writers defended the N.C.A.A. stand, including Joe Gilmartin, sports editor of the Phoenix Gazette.

"A civic might suggest that if we stopped the world every time one of us got shot, we might never start at all," Knight said.

Had there been any question about the president's recovery, playing the game would have been "obscene," Knight added.

Netters acquire two recruits, prepare for Memphis State

By Scott Satter Sports Editor

"Wait till next year," would be a ludicrous thing for women's tennis Coach Judy Auld to say. After all, her team is 13-2 going into Wednesday's meet at Muncie, Indiana State and this weekend's Southern Collegiate Tournament.

But Judith Block is among the most enthusiastic to next year because of two top recruits. Alessandra Molinari of Stockholm, Sweden, and Ann Wilson of England were signed with SIU-C. Auld confirmed the signings Tuesday.

Auld said she learned of the G. G. Molinari, Sweden's seventh-ranked player, from Missouri State coach at St. Louis University.

"From the letters I've gotten and talking to her, it seems she'll be a strong doubles player and her neat volleys and overhead shots. Auld said, "In singles, her weaknesses could be her mobility. She's very consistent, but I'm not sure what else." Auld said that Alessandra will be a real big boost to our program. She'll have to make a transition to the humidity here in August."

Auld said Allen "could be the best doubles player I've recruited in my six years at SIU." At Galesburg, Allen teamed with Heidi Eastman to finish second last fall in doubles play at the Illinois High School Association state meet.

"Amanda is a very intelligent doubles player," Auld said. "She's not a highly aggressive player because her partner was an overly aggressive player. Amanda was a very good player, but she and Singles-wise, she'll probably be in the top 10 of the league by the end of the year."

"With these two people," Auld said, "and perhaps one more recruit, I think we'll be even stronger next year. We still won't be able to beat Northwestern, the state's top women's team, but we'll be competitive."

Auld hasn't lost track of the present, however, as the Salukis will face Congo on Wednesday at Muncie State. The Lady Tigers defeated SIU-C last fall, 7-2 and captured a narrow 6-4 decision last spring.

"I feel we can beat them, but we have to play every point like it's the last point," Auld said. "We just have to play them like we want it. We thought we could play them much closer than we did in the fall and possibly beat them."

Auld said the Salukis will shoot for a finish in the middle of the Southern Collegiate, which will include several nationally-ranked teams. In the past, Mississippi, Mississippi Staff photo by Mark Sims

United Nations representative to speak at mock UN session

To David Murphy
Staff Writer

Students interested in learning about international relations will have a chance when a simulated United Nations, complete with a speaker from the United Nations in New York City, comes to SIU-C next week.

The simulation, which will take place April 9-11, is being sponsored by many campus groups, including the Undergraduate Student Organization, Graduate Student Council and the Donald F. McHenry Society.

"This is a great chance for people to learn about international affairs," Mike Wolter, a third year law student and coordinator of the simulation, said. "We need people to be either ambassadors or delegates."

The ambassadors and delegates will meet in assembly and committees over the three day period and try to draft resolutions on subjects such as international food development and arms limitation, according to Wolter.

On the second day of the simulation the assembly will hear an address by Donald Kimmel on the role of the United Nations in preventing world hunger. Kimmel is the North American representative to the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations.

Ambassadors in the simulation will be responsible for making sure their delegates are present at sessions for the votes. They may also have to speak to the assembly at various times.

Social frat suspended

Phi Beta Sigma, an off-campus social fraternity, has been suspended by its national organization, according to Nancy Harris, director of student development.

Harris said her office received a telephone call from the fraternity's national headquarters notifying the University of the suspension. She said written correspondence is expected later this week confirming the suspension, but until then she would be unsure of the reason for the action. She said the University would take no action until the letter is received.

Willie Scott, faculty advisor for the fraternity, would not comment on the suspension, saying Monday he would wait for further information.

GSC to hear El Salvador resolution

By Carol Knowles
Staff Writer

Reconsideration of a resolution calling for an immediate withdrawal of U.S. military support for the regime in El Salvador will be the main order of business at the Graduate Student Council meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

Opposition to reconsideration of the motion was voiced at the last meeting, and after some confusion over procedure, a vote to consider the original motion was defeated.

The resolution also called for recognition of the rights of the citizens of El Salvador to self-determination, active opposition at the state and federal level to any policy adopted by the U.S. government calling for political involvement in El Salvador and utilization of legal means to expose and stop all foreign assistance there.

The council is also expected to consider a resolution requesting an apology to the GSL member who introduced the resolution on El Salvador, stating that one of the goals of the GSC is the expression of ideas in an open debate.

Reports from the Student Health Program policy board and an ad hoc committee on sexual harassment are also expected to be given.

Counselors set series on majors

The Career Counseling Center has scheduled a series of meetings entitled "How to Choose a Major" for undecided freshmen and sophomores.

The sessions will begin Monday, April 6, and will continue at 3 to 5 p.m. each Monday for four weeks. Career counselors Jean Person and Jim Scales will conduct the sessions to help people undecided on fields of study to clarify their interests, abilities, values, skills and options.

Persons interested in attending are to meet initially at the center's reception area, Woody 8-204.
