U.S. blamed as Israelis shell Bekaa

By G.G. Labelle
Of the Associated Press
BEIRUT (AP) — Israeli tanks shelled positions in Syrian-held Bekaa Valley Sunday for the first time in a year and Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan met with the Soviet ambassador and criticized the U.S. failure to secure an Israeli withdrawal.

The rightist Christian Voice of Lebanon radio said Israeli tanks took positions on hills just north of the village of Medoukha, about 30 miles southeast of Beirut, and shelled Syrian positions.

It also said there were heavy exchanges near the villages of Sultan Yacoub, Yanta and the western slopes of Mount Hermon whose summit is at the Syrian-Lebanese border, 40 miles southeast of the capital.

The Israeli military command said its artillery attacked and destroyed two guerrilla command posts in the Bekaa Valley that had been used to prepare attacks on Israeli troops. It said the shelling was a response to recent attacks that wounded eight Israeli soldiers.

It was the first time in at least a year that Israel used artillery on guerrillas in Syrian-held Lebanese areas, although Israel has used planes against them.

No casualties were reported in shelling exchanges between the Lebanese army and Druse gumers in the mountains east of Beirut or in sporadic sniping along the "green line" dividing Christian east Beirut from the city's largely Moslem western sector.

Wazzan, caretaker prime minister expected to leave office once a new Cabinet is formed, met with Soviet Ambassador Alexandre Soldatov.

"We are turning a new page and we have to get benefit from all our friendship in the international and Arab world," Wazzan said. "Since the Israeli occupation, we contacted the United States, which has the most influence on Israel. Despite this, the United States itself announced its failure in its effort to secure any Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon."

He did not specify what U.S. announcement he referred to.

Shiite Muslim militia leader Nabih Berri also criticized the United States in remarks published in Beirut newspapers. He urged Lebanon's government to complain to the U.N. Security Council over Israeli actions in southern Lebanon and suggested it had failed to do so earlier for fear of a U.S. veto in the U.N. body.

"Let our relations with America be cut. The United States is a total partner with Israel in south Lebanon," he said.

In a magazine interview, Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk el Sharaa said Lebanese leaders failed to reach agreement at their recent talks in Switzerland because of "continual Israeli and American interference behind the scenes. Syria is more zealous and sincere than any other non-Lebanese party in wanting Lebanese national accord to be achieved. It will be as much in Syria's and the Syrian people's interests as in the interest of Lebanon."

Council to consider revised cable report

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council will review the revised report of the Cable Television Special Negotiating Committee when it meets at 7 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

The report was revised by the committee following a public hearing March 5. The channel lineup was expanded to retain KMOX Channel 5 of St. Louis. The revised lineup would provide 23 channels of service on 21 channels through a time-sharing arrangement.

The majority of suggestions at the public hearing were to retain KMOX. The council promised that the suggestion would be considered by the negotiating committee before a report was submitted to the council for final consideration.

The report recommends that the city require the proposed 23 channel service to be operational within one year of approval of a proposed $2.50 rate increase for basic cable television subscriptions.

Under the revised suggestions, Carbondale Cablevision would also be required to meet minimum Federal Communications Commission technical performance standards.

Carbondale Cablevision would also be required to provide an annual financial statement to the city and allow city inspection of the company's financial records under the revised recommendations.

The council will also consider acceptance of deeds and easements from Eleanor Steinbach and Jack and Mary Lou Atwood for properties in the downtown redevelopment area.

The council authorized City Manager Bill Dixon March 19 to complete negotiations for the purchase of three properties in the 200 block of South Illinois Avenue for an amount not to exceed $220,000.

The properties specified by the council were the former home of The Fetish at 212 S. Illinois Ave., the former Southern Barbecue at 220 S. Illinois Ave. and the former Atwood Drugs building at 224 S. Illinois Ave.

The council will review a memo from Dixon recommending that the city pay the cost of a rate increase for employee health insurance.

U.S. aid called destructive by El Salvadoran

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

Saul Antonio Solorzano, an El Salvador native, says that more U.S. military aid to the government of El Salvador is "a campaign of death and destruction against our own people."

Solorzano, who fled San Salvador when he was 12 years old, told a group in the Student Center Thursday that by aiding the El Salvadoran regime in its battle against leftist insurgents, the U.S. government is supporting the armed forces that brought oppression on the country over 10 years ago.

Solorzano said he fled in January 1981 after being placed on the government's "hit list" for his work with church groups bringing literacy and health programs to people in the countryside of El Salvador.

"The government of El Salvador and its armed forces, through this type of repression, are the ones protecting the status quo," said the 21-year-old Solorzano. "It is this type of government that the U.S. continues to supply with money and arms used to carry out a campaign of death and destruction against our own people."

"It's like putting more wood on the fire," he said.

Solorzano, now living in Philadelphia, is far away from his family and his country's problems, telling the people of the United States to urge their government to stop the aid to El Salvador. His visit to SIU-C was sponsored by the Coalition for Change and the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador.

His struggle becomes even more intense, he said, as it

Supplies sent to tornado victims

By Dave Saelens
Staff Writer

Martha Berkel and her family loaded up two big boxes with food and clothes Saturday and took them to the Marion Senior Citizens Center. The boxes were one part of 20 tons of relief supplies donated over the weekend by area residents to be sent to tornado victims in North and South Carolina.

"We got a lot of help when the tornado hit us, and we really appreciated it," she said. "I think they will too."

Berkel is one of the many residents of Marion and the surrounding area whose homes were destroyed by a twister in 1962. Many people, like Berkel, who know what it's like to live through a tornado, brought food and clothing to the Marion Senior Citizens Center — headquarters for a three-day effort to collect supplies for the 3,000 people left homeless after 16 tornados swept through the Carolinas last week.

"I've never seen so many people wanting to help," Berkel said.

Ellora Aikman, director of the Marion Senior Citizens Center, said the response from area residents has been "absolutely tremendous."

"There are just no words to describe it," she said. "The people in Marion have so much compassion."

Aikman said that by mid-afternoon Saturday, a 40-foot semi trailer and a city dump-truck had been loaded to capacity with supplies including clothing, canned goods, bedding and linens. The supplies were taken to the Williamson County Airport Sunday and were loaded onto two North Carolina National Guard transport planes heading for the Carolinas.

Aikman said the collection, organized by the Marion City Council, began Friday and by the end of the day nearly one ton of items had been collected. She said about 25 people donated supplies each hour, and the center had 18 volunteers working to put the supplies into boxes.

Aikman added that the council decided to use the center as a headquarters because it is the biggest facility for such efforts. She said the center was used to collect supplies two years ago when Marion was hit by a twister.

The Marion police and fire departments also helped in the effort by picking up donated supplies from residents' homes Friday and Saturday, she said.

Aikman said Sunday that the center was in the process of loading a railroad car with supplies scheduled to leave for Bennettsville, S.C., around noon Monday.

The mayor of Bennettsville, S.C., Johnny Weaver, said Bennettsville is normally a quiet town. The 44-year-old mayor, who took office last May, said the major emergency turned his part-time job into a full-time one, and he really did not know what to do.

Despite public demonstrations, Chilean leader still in power

By Richard Boudreaux
Of the Associated Press
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A resurgence of mass protest has locked Gen. Augusto Pinochet and his foes into what many Chileans fear will be a long, violent struggle over the country's future.

Nearly a year after the first widespread demonstrations against him, Pinochet remains one of the few entrenched strongmen in Latin America and sounds as determined as ever to stay in power.

A mixture of military force and concessions has failed to weaken the labor and political movement seeking to drive the 68-year-old army commander from the presidency and restore democratic rule to the 11 million people of Chile, the long, narrow country along South America's Pacific coast.

These Marxist and centrist

forces mobilized popular discontent over Chile's severe economic crisis to disrupt life in major cities last Tuesday during the first "Day of National Protest" in five months.

Their effectiveness in diminishing public transport, school attendance and commerce has encouraged talk of an attempted general strike as the next step in trying to convince the armed forces that Pinochet cannot govern the country.

But deep ideological divisions — aggravated after the 1970 election of Marxist President Salvador Allende and still unhealed — have kept the opposition from devising a widely accepted alternative to the authoritarian constitution approved by voters in 1980 and extended to 1989 by Pinochet's mandate.

Allende died Sept. 11, 1973, the day Pinochet seized power in a military coup.

A small guerrilla force has shadowed the largely peaceful protest movement with frequent sabotage of rail and power lines, blacking out Chile's 1,000-mile long central valley three times since mid-December. But this has heightened middle- and upper-class apprehensions about a quick return to civilian rule and has strengthened Pinochet's hard line.

In last week's nationwide demonstrations, five Chileans were shot to death.

Marvin Gaye dies after shooting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marvin Gaye, the smooth-voiced soul singer who topped the charts in the 1960s with such hits as "I Heard It Through the Grapevine," was shot in the chest Sunday and killed, authorities said.

Gaye was at the home of his parents when he became involved in a fight and was shot several times with a handgun. Police later questioned his father, Marvin Gaye Sr., about the shooting, said Lt. Robert Martin.

Benzene exposure limits may drop

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A study of rubber industry workers exposed to benzene, a widely used chemical linked to leukemia, has reached a point where officials think they can convince courts that a tougher exposure limit is needed, a researcher said Sunday.

The study of 748 workers found they are six times more likely to die of leukemia, but so far that has not been enough to justify tougher limits on work exposure, said Robert Rinsky, epidemiologist with the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health in Cincinnati.

Mattel develops X-rayable plastic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prompted by a request from pediatricians, toymaker Mattel Corp. has developed a new type of plastic that shows up on X-rays with the hope it will help doctors reduce deaths and injuries among children who swallow or inhale small toy parts.

Drs. H. James Holroyd of the University of Southern California, and Joseph Greensher, chief of pediatrics at Nassau Hospital on Long Island, N.Y., announced the development of the so-called radiopaque plastic at a meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics in Phoenix last week.

Lower limits on asbestos expected

By Merrill Hartson
Of the Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, trying for 13 years to cut worker exposure to unhealthy asbestos, is about to propose new and sharply lowered limits, sources say.

"It's down to a matter of a sentence or two" before the proposal is accepted by the Office of Management and Budget and sent to printers by OSHA, said one well-placed source involved in developing the government's new workplace asbestos protection standard.

He and other officials said they could not comment publicly until after the proposal appears in the Federal Register, a daily government publication, probably sometime this week.

Several sources said the proposed new limit might be as low as two-tenths of a fiber per cubic centimeter of air, against the current limit of two fibers per cubic centimeter. A cubic centimeter is about the size of a small sugar cube.

OSHA Administrator Thorne Auchter, whose resignation took effect last Friday, exercised himself from the final development of the standard because he is becoming president of B.B. Andersen Cos. Inc., a Kansas construction firm, another source said.

But Auchter, who has been harshly criticized over three years by labor groups as too pro-business in handling job safety issues, was at the center of the government effort to produce a new and tighter regulation, sources said.

appears that the U.S. government is bent on approving a $61.7 million military aid package to El Salvador. The recent presidential election, supported by the Reagan Administration, sheds even more uncertainty on the situation in El Salvador.

Jose Napoleon Duarte, who received the most votes from the 2.5 million ballots cast in the election, has called for negotiations to halt the fighting, while Roberto d'Aubuisson, who has been linked to the right-wing death squads, wishes to continue the struggle, said Solorzano.

Francisco Jose Guerrero of the conservative National Conciliation Party, third in the voting, has said he would not negotiate with the opposition, "because they choose to prolong the war," said Solorzano.

The two leading candidates will be seeking Guerrero's support in the May 6 runoff election, forced because no candidate received a plurality of the Salvadoran vote.

"For us, it's better if all the political forces are interested in solving the problems," he said, with the assistance of a interpreter. "Foreign military forces have to be far away from the problems in the country."

In El Salvador, Solorzano said, the biggest problem is illiteracy. He said that 60 percent of the 5 million people cannot read and write. But working to end that problem labeled Solorzano a "communist."

Solorzano, who was then 14, got involved with a Catholic church group which helped people learn to market the crops grown on the little land they owned.

Security forces labeled these groups 'enemies against the state," he said. In the early 1970s, the oppression drove these people to speak out against the government. Solorzano said. They demonstrated in the streets of San Salvador, with resistance from the government security. Some tried to escape, others obtained guns and fought back, he said.

"Violence created to maintain the oppression was met with a violent response," he said.

Solorzano said he believes the problems cannot be solved politically. The fighting will cease, he said, when the economic and social injustices are corrected.

Solorzano said he knows his parents and four sisters are still alive, and they know he is all right. "If I write, I just tell them I'm OK," he said, because the government has access to all incoming mail.

"I have no political interests," he said. "But I have to tell people of the problems, because if we can communicate with people as people, it's better to understand the problems."

A telephone call from Marion Mayor Robert Butler last Friday gave him hope, Weaver said.

"He told me, 'I know what you're going through. You will survive,'" Weaver said, "That phone call gave me the little grasp of hope I needed to survive."

Weaver said there were no deaths caused by the tornado in Bennettsville, but the city lost a great deal financially.

"The tornado went through our largest shopping center, and also through our nicest subdivision," he said.

Weaver speculated that three of the 16 tornados that ripped through the Carolinas last Wednesday went through Bennettsville. "I don't know exactly how many went through, but the one that did did a hell of a lot of work," he said.

Weaver added that the city is finding out it has more friends than it realized.

"With people like the citizens of Marion, we've got all the friends we need," he said.

U.S. Sen. Charles Percy said Sunday that the areas hit by the tornados have been declared a national disaster area.

He said that, after viewing the areas from a helicopter, he was "impressed not only by the intensity of the devastation, but also by the intensity of cooperation in the community."

Blue CrossBlue Shield, the city's health insurance carrier, has notified the city that an increase of 32 percent will be required for next year.

The tentative fiscal year 1984-85 city budget allows for a 10 percent increase in health insurance premiums. An additional $25,139 will be needed to cover the increase, according to Dixon's letter.

The council will also consider approval of the 1984 Motor Fuel Tax maintenance program.

Carbondale will receive $271,634 in motor fuel tax funds in 1984 for the maintenance of city streets and highways.

The council reviewed a proposed street maintenance plan on March 26 which was revised to delay resurfacing of Monroe Street between University and Illinois avenues in the event that sewer work is required for an as yet undetermined downtown redevelopment project.

Rape victims' names don't belong in press

THE NEWS MEDIA have long exercised a self-imposed censorship on publicizing names of rape victims — a practice born of the belief that naming the victim will aggravate the trauma she has suffered and may discourage other women from reporting sexual assaults.

However, in the trials of six men accused of gang-raping a woman in a New Bedford, Mass., bar, the media were blinded to those beliefs by something which outweighed concern for the victim — competition.

After Superior Court Judge William Young permitted Cable News Network to broadcast live testimony from the trial which revealed the victim's name, area newspapers, television and radio stations diverted from the traditional policy. Editors and station managers argued that Young had taken away the reason for the policy — protecting the victim's identity.

But in the heat of the race for ratings and circulation, the press failed to recognize that a dangerous precedent was being set which could not only embarrass and humiliate future victims, but could also seriously diminish the already low number of women who are willing to report rapes.

A COUNSELOR with the New Bedford Rape Crisis Project said that prior to the trial, about one-third of her clients were willing to report the crime. Once the trial got underway, she said, "reporting diminished to zero."

Rape already is the most underreported of all major crimes. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration estimates that about 58 percent of all rapes are reported to police. Rape crisis counselors put the number at 20 percent. Even fewer victims go through with prosecution, chiefly because they fear publicity.

Advocates of disclosure say that anonymity for the victim perpetuates the social stigma associated with rape. They further argue that the embarrassment the victim feels shouldn't afford her special treatment not given other crime victims.

Herman Obermayer, editor of the Northern Virginia Sun, which abandoned its nondisclosure policy in 1978, contends: "Stabbing, mugging, robbery and kidnapping victims also suffer emotional and psychological trauma. But they get no special treatment."

THIS JUSTIFICATION is weak — only in a rape case is the victim made a defendant. Only in a rape trial is the victim made to prove that not only did the accused commit the crime, but that the crime actually occurred.

Disclosure proponents oversimplify the issue with the argument that reporting rape victims' names will magically erase archaic social attitudes that "nice girls" don't get raped — women who cry rape were "asking for it."

With education about rapists' motives and victims' ordeals, society may one day reach the point where rape can be treated as any other crime and women can report rapes without fear of public humiliation.

But we aren't there yet and disclosure of rape victims' names will only impede progress.

The press rightfully is not bound by law to withhold victims' names. But it should look beyond its own interests and recognize that it is ethically bound to do so.

Synergy support appreciated

The volunteers, staff and board of directors of Synergy would like to thank all of the individuals, organizations and businesses that helped to make Synergy Week '84 successful. The purpose of the week of special activities was twofold: to increase the awareness of our agency and its services within the University and Carbondale communities, and to raise funds for the agency in order that those services be continued.

We feel that both of these goals were achieved. More than $3,400 was raised for Synergy. The expressions of support and encouragement received from many different quarters indicated a definite awareness — indeed, an endorsement from many friends that we didn't know we had.

We invite anyone to stop by the agency, which is located in the geodesic dome at 905 S. Illinois Ave. We certainly hope that anyone in need of our services will feel welcome to use them. They include 24-hour walk-in and phone-in crisis intervention, short-term and long-term counseling, emergency food and shelter, drug information, resource referral and a speakers bureau.

Thanks again to all who helped us continue to be of service. —Dan Whitfield, Synergy Executive Coordinator

What's the word? Nuke Noah and learn lexicomical sniglets

NOAH WEBSTER thought he had a word for everything. But he didn't, because he didn't have a book titled "Sniglets."

Sniglets, as defined by author-comedian Rich Hall, are words which don't appear in the dictionary, but should. Sorry, Noah.

When a copy of this book was handed to me, I remembered seeing Hall on "Late Night with David Letterman" talking about — of all things — sniglets.

He told us about "express'es" — those people who try to sneak more than the eight items or less into the express checkout line. And we heard about the "idiot box" — the part of the envelope that tells a person where to place the stamp when they can't quite figure it out for themselves.

BUT THE BOOK, published by Collier Books and scheduled for release in mid-April, has dozens more sniglets than an eight-minute spot with Letterman could reveal. For example, consider these entries:

"elevatoration" — The mistaken notion that the more you press an elevator button the faster it will arrive.

"hozone" — the place where one sock in every laundry load disappears to.

"inactomangulation" — Manhandling the "open here" spout on a milk carton so badly that one has to resort to using the "illegal" side.

"optocutionis" — The kid in school who can turn his eyelids inside out.

"thermaloophobia" — The fear when showering that someone will sneak in, flush the toilet and scald you to death.

You get the idea.

Jay Small
Staff Writer

NOW IF I WERE Johnny Carson reading these entries to you, and Ed McMahon were sitting next to me, he'd say something stupid, like this:

"Boy, you know, that's really an amazing book. Yes, sir... front to back, cover to cover, page for page, it's all there. In fact, I'd wager that EVERYTHING you ever wanted to know about sniglets is right there in that book!"

And in response, I, as Johnny, would produce an equally stupid wisecrack, like this:

"You are wrong, Britannica breath!"

Why? Because, as Hall more or less concedes (he leaves a blank in the back of the book for contributions to snigleterian), this valuable reference text is far from complete.

I can think of a few additions myself. For example:

"yolksonitis" (yolks-on-YOO-tis) — The principle of physics which dictates that egg yolks never break when you couldn't care less if they did, but always break when you wish them to remain intact.

"linearmination" (lin-earm-in-A-shun) — Another physical principle, dictating that the person in front of you in line will close out that line. In a bank or grocery, the teller or checker will go off duty as you step up. In a bakery, the chap in front will buy the last chocolate éclair — the one you wanted.

"Charcodor" (CHAR-cod-ur) — The stench which rises from your oven as you bake, caused by spilled mozzarella cheese burning to ashes on the bottom.

"subponaflee" (sub-PEE-nuh-flee) — The act of heading out the back door every time federal marshals appear at the front door.

"burgafistic" (burg-uh-fit-ih-stik) — Possessing the ability to make raw hamburger just the right size so it fits exactly on the bun after shrinking.

"jamlining" (JAM-line-ing) — The ability of some newspaper headline writers to make a 1,000 word story on a major political confrontation sound like a baseball game: "Dems balk at GOP strategy."

"anthospeak" (AHN-tioh-speak) — the language of SIU-C officials, which makes an administrator's office into a "vice-presidential area" and almost made General Academic Programs into the "School of General Undergraduate and Interdisciplinary Studies." Can also be seen in tendency to refer to tax hikes as "revenue enhancement programs."

"hysterreaction" (hiss-ter-ree-AK-shun) — The look on students' faces as a pop quiz is announced.

Finally, there's "chucklemilk" (CHUH-kul-milk) — The act of taking someone else's effort at comedy and trying to stretch it for a laugh.

Oh, but I would never do that.

King's pure blues captivates audience

By Jay Small
Staff Writer

Concert Review

There must be a million ways to take 12 bars and a handful of musicians and create the magic of the blues.

B.B. King doesn't know all of them — only the best ones.

The crowd in jam-packed Shryock Auditorium didn't have to be convinced Thursday night. The people knew what to expect — King received a standing ovation before playing a single note.

Following a film on the blues and two instrumentals from his six-piece band, King emerged. Strapped to him was Lucille, his hollow-bodied electric guitar, as big as life — but not as big as King.

"Every day, ever / day, every day I got the blr...," he sang. Who could deny it?

King stared skyward as he performed, grimacing, slapping his hands and gyrating as if appealing desperately to some high authority. On the slow-blues tunes in particular, he seemed to feel every word and every note, almost agonizing at times as Lucille cried out. Every gravelly lyric from King and every sweet peal from his guitar was pure, no-frills blues.

Volunteers sought at Crab Orchard

The Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge is looking for volunteers to aid in their campground programs Saturday nights from Memorial Day through Labor Day.

Requirements for the positions include that applicants have an interest in wildlife, possess a valid state drivers license, be willing to work Saturday nights and enjoy people. Volunteers will receive a minimum of four hours training from the refuge staff.

Applications are available at the refuge subheadquarters on State Route 148, two miles south of new Route 13. For more information contact Jim Cameron at 997-3344.

Although blues songs are tales of misery and poverty, there's something strangely satisfying in the music and the message, especially when a brilliant performer such as King is the interpreter.

Blues styles appear in virtually all modern music from Culture Club to Chuck Mangione to King himself. The music is emotional, fundamental in meaning. King is an emotional, powerfully straightforward performer — the combination works.

His talent is not basic, though. He and his band knew when to restrain their instruments and when to sizzle into a crescendo. King made Lucille hum quietly through bluesy licks that drew chants from the audience, then fired off riffs of an intensity that drew goose bumps.

When drawn by standing ovations into two encore appearances, King expressed his gratitude to the crowd by singing, "Someone really loves you... guess who."

And following an ovation, he said, "Why don't you let me come and stay a few days?"

Nobody would have argued. By that time, King was in control, heads in the crowd swayed as feet thumped the floor with every beat.

How blue are King's blues? Let him sing them to you:

"Nobody loves me but my mother," warbled B.B., "and she could be jivin' too." That, friends, is blue.

Design flaw may help in plant switch

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A design problem at the moth-balled Marble Hill nuclear plant may play a part in whether the unfinished nuclear plant is converted to a coal-burning facility.

Spokesmen for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and Public Service Indiana disagree on the effect that a design fault in two key buildings had on the utility's decision in January to bow out of the project.

An NRC inspection found that steel beams and connections in two buildings at Marble Hill did not meet federal earthquake standards required of new nuclear plants. Marble Hill is in southern Indiana, along the Ohio River.

Correcting the fault would have been costly and set the construction schedule back significantly, NRC spokesman Jan Straasma told the Indianapolis Star.

"I understand that this was one of the factors why PSI elected to halt the project. It was both too much time and additional money," Straasma said.

Replacing or repairing these beams and connections in the auxiliary and containment buildings would have meant a large increase in the estimated cost of the project, Straasma said.

But PSI spokeswoman Julie Van Utt said that strengthening, not retrofitting, was required to correct the flaw.

"Very little had to be torn out," she said.

"It may have contributed to our problems, but our decision to quit construction was all related to finances and some government intervention," she said.

Ms. Van Utt said that by the time PSI halted construction on Marble Hill this winter, the correction was more than half complete.

However, any resumption of nuclear construction would require that the steel problem be fully corrected before the plant could be approved for an operating license.

The containment building for which some of the steel had to be strengthened is a skirted structure where the nuclear reaction occurs.

AN SPC CONSORTS PRESENTATION

Go Go's should wave it bye-bye

By Andrew Zlamer
Student Writer

"Shut your mind off for a while. Concentrate on the latest style, and everything's all right" — lyrics from the song "Yes or No" from the Go Go's latest LP, "Talk Show."

That's good advice when listening to this latest bit of trash from those California cuties who, incredibly, are still able to ride the wave of their smash debut album, "Beauty and the Beat." If someone were to look up the term "beginner's luck" in the dictionary, he'd likely find a picture of those smiling no-minds called the Go Go's.

If they'd stopped after that first album, the Go Go's would have been considered rock legends. Who can forget hits like, "Our Lips Are Sealed," "Skid Marks On My Heart" or "We Got the Beat"? Well, they don't have the beat anymore. Not only that, but had they stopped then we would have been spared the misery of such current classics as "Yes or No," the cut that brings such compelling lines as "You're alone and I am too. You're my idea of a pretty view. You can move or so it seems. I bet we'd make a decent team."

The lyrical themes of desired love, broken love, tough love and no love fill this album. And while most musicians are able to treat these emotional topics with some feeling, the Go Go's manage to reduce them to the level of two high school girls talking on the telephone.

Cliche after cliche, the Go Go's turn rock to schlock. Each harmony-laden cut comes off sappy and irrelevant. I know, you're not supposed to pay attention to the lyrics when listening to Go Go's stuff. Just dance! But when you combine the limited, strained, ever-cracking voice of lead "vocalist" Belinda Carlisle, the repetitious, bland, rudimentary beat laid down by drummer Gina Schock and bassist Kathy Valentine and the basic pop fills of guitarist Charlotte Caffey, you may just want to dance out of the room, or dance on top of

Album Review

"Mercenary," the tale of a cold-hearted woman who's ripping the heart out of another love victim. If Chrissie Hynde were singing this song, it might have a chance.

However, the attempts the Go Go's are making to grow musically aren't working. They have nothing new to offer. What's worse, they're not even easy to dance to anymore. It could be time for these girls to pack up their make-up kits and head back for the beach. All music lovers would be better off.

your turntable.

Besides the obvious lack of musical talent here, even the catchy nature of successful Go Go's material is gone. There are even obvious attempts to be serious. A good example is

Report: Step up searches for missing

CHICAGO (AP) — Police can improve the way they respond to missing person reports, two state agencies say.

Police should end their practice of waiting at least 24 hours before following up on some missing person reports, said the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority and the Department of Law Enforcement.

In a report to be delivered to the Illinois General Assembly on Monday, the agencies also urged police to enter timely missing person reports into a statewide computer system.

Carbondale man convicted of rape

Carbondale, was found guilty of rape, deviate sexual assault, armed robbery, armed violence, home invasion and residential burglary in Jackson County Circuit Court Friday.

After about two hours of deliberation, a jury of eight women and four men found Simmons guilty of all six charges brought against him in connection with an incident on June 19, 1983, when a 23-year-old woman was raped in her Freeman Street apartment.

Simmons faces a possible 30-year prison sentence, according to prosecuting attorney Paul Panno. The sentence could be doubled, however, if the court finds the circumstances of the crime "extremely brutal and heinous," Panno said.

"That's a possibility, but I can't say a probability at this time," Panno said.

Simmons will remain in Jackson County Jail until his sentencing on May 4.

They also suggested improvements in how the system maintains missing person statistics.

The report was the result of a six-month investigation into the problems of missing 17- to 20-year-olds. The investigation was made in response to a resolution sponsored by Rep. Doris Karpel, R-Rosele, and approved by the Illinois House of Representatives last June.

"We hope this report makes a lasting contribution to improving law enforcement procedures for dealing with missing persons of all ages," said William Gould, chairman of the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority.

The report did not recommend legislation to regulate individual police department practices when dealing with missing persons reports.

Instead, it asked the Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police and the Illinois Sheriffs' Association to develop professional guidelines for how law enforcement personnel should handle missing person reports.

Men, women ruggers post wins

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

For both the men and women Saluki rugby teams, Saturday was a great day to have Fan Appreciation Day at the SIUC Rugby Pitch.

With a turnout of more than 500 people, the men fought off a 3-3 tie to beat highly touted Springfield 7-3 and the women beat the Lake Shore Rugby Club 14-6. In the men's "B" game, Springfield bounced back to win that one 14-0.

With free refreshments and hot dogs being served along the sidelines, the Saluki men's team (3-0) opened the scoring midway through the first half Saturday as Saluki Don Berda chipped in a 30-yard penalty kick to put the Salukis up 3-0. But near the end of the first half, Springfield retaliated as Greg Campbell tied it at 3-3 with a 25-yard penalty kick.

Both teams played good defense throughout the game. It was hard for the backs to gain yardage because of the mud-plugged field. The Salukis missed several scoring opportunities because of fumbles and smart defensive out-of-bounds kicks by Springfield.

Near the end of the game, Saluki Steve Euker pop-kicked one into the Springfield's zone that was recovered by Saluki Steve Rocko, who dumped a pass back to Dan O'Neil who danced his way into the try zone. Berda's two-point after kick was no good but the Salukis held on to win.

Springfield came to Carbondale with a 3-1 record and the Salukis were worried that this game might be a hard one to win.

"We were worried all week because we knew they were a well organized team," Saluki

Davey Nolan said. "I'm just glad we pleased the fans who came out here to cheer us on at Fan Appreciation Day."

Saluki Coach Mac McCurdy had different views about the game.

"We won because of our overwhelming intensity and pride," McCurdy said.

Women netters extend winning streak to four

By Jim Lexa
Sports Editor

After starting the spring season with eight straight losses, the SIU-C women's tennis team is on a roll with four consecutive wins. The Salukis beat Kansas State and Southwest Missouri State Friday at Springfield, Mo.

The Salukis, 4-8 this spring and 15-13 overall, were scheduled to play Stephens College (Division II) on Saturday, but the match was snowed out.

SIU-C Coach Judy Auld said her players are beginning to acquire the mental edge needed to pull out their close matches, something that they did not have on a 0-7 spring trip.

"We did start off slow," Auld said, "and everybody's confidence was shaken."

The Salukis are 2-0 in the Gateway Conference this spring, after their 6-3 win over Southwest, and are still unbeaten overall in the GCAC with an 8-0 record.

In the Salukis' 6-3 win over Kansas State, Auld had to juggle her lineup when she withheld No. 1 singles Alessandra Molinari from the match because of a sore shoulder. Everybody in the lineup moved up a notch, and Kathy Harney received her second dual-match start of the season when she played No. 6 singles, a three-set loss to Lisa Creighton.

SIU-C won the other five singles matches, and had the match clinched heading into the doubles competition. Auld again withheld Molinari from competition, and the No. 1 doubles team of Molinari and Heidi Eastman had to default. Mary Pat Kramer and Amanda Allen teamed up at No. 3 doubles for a 6-0, 6-2 win over Sue Peugh and Ericka Anderson to keep the Salukis from being shut out in doubles play. Stacy Sherman and Harney lost at No. 2 doubles in three sets for the Salukis.

Maureen Harney won 6-3, 6-7, 6-4 over Judy Miller at No. 3 singles. Her match took a long time and Harney was "very tired," Auld said, which were two of the reasons why Kathy Harney played No. 2 doubles with Sherman.

Auld later realized that it was a good move to keep Maureen Harney out of doubles action. Harney was involved in a three-set match that night, a 6-4, 3-6, 7-6 (11-9) win over Southwest's Lenn Waldan at No. 4 singles.

Although Molinari (2-11) had plenty of rest for the Southwest match, she still fell 3-6, 3-6 to Helena Olin. Auld said Molinari is going to have to work at getting her shoulder back into shape.

"She had it (the injury) before, maybe from the cold weather, maybe from overuse," Auld said.

Eastman lost at No. 2 singles, while Sherman and Maureen Harney lost at No. 2 doubles.

Kramer lost just five games in her two wins Friday. Kramer and Sherman both have their records above 500. Kramer is 9-7 and Sherman, with six straight wins, is 7-5. Three Salukis are nearing the break-even mark. Eastman and Maureen Harney are each 7-9, while Allen is 6-8.

Kramer and Allen have won their last four doubles matches to raise their record to 5-8. Molinari and Eastman have a 6-9 doubles mark, while Maureen Harney and Sherman have combined for a 3-8 record.

against each other because a meet was canceled."

Debra Davis, the only senior on the Saluki team, exploded past Illinois' Rolanda Conda at the midway point as easily won the 400 in 55.31, a meet and stadium record.

McCausland shattered the meet, stadium and outdoor school record in winning the discus with a 160-foot-1 throw.

Saluki Cynthia Joy won the javelin (133-0), and Angie Heitz of Illinois won the shot put (43-1.5), setting a meet and stadium record. McCausland finished second in the javelin (127.7) and the shot put (42-9.5).

The Salukis' Sally Zack (37:00.67), Lisa Hicks (37:21.61) and Odette James (38:30.60) turned in surprising performances, taking second, third and fourth, respectively, in the 10,000-meter run. It was the first time that the trio has run the event in the outdoor season. Kayla Skelly of Western Michigan easily won the race in 35:25.89 to set a meet and stadium record.

Other solid Saluki performances were turned in by Sue Anderson, Bartley and Karen Cooper.

Anderson set a school record in the triple jump (34-10.25) to place third and finished in a four-way tie for third place in the high jump (5-4). Bartley finished second in the 200 (25.50) and third in the long jump (17-7.75), and Cooper was third in the 400 hurdles (1:04.65).

Esposito sits out season finale

CHICAGO (AP) — Veteran goalie Tony Esposito defied management Sunday by refusing to play in the Chicago Black Hawks' National Hockey League season finale against the Detroit Red Wings.

Esposito, 41 and in his 17th season, has not appeared in a game since a 4-3 loss to Hartford Feb. 5 but was expected to get the call Sunday.

"He had announced to us Wednesday he would play," said Coach Orval Tessier. "I was the most surprised person in the world when I found out that he had refused to play in Sunday's game."

"I was just trying to put it out of sight," Sayre said about his attempts at 18 feet. Teammate Andy Geiger finished second with a 16-6, his best of the season.

The world's No. 1-ranked 400-meter man, Indiana's Sumder Nix, showed everyone why by taking first (49.97) in the event, and setting a meet record. Nix did not participate in the 1,600-meter relay because of a minor leg injury.

Saluki Mike Elliott turned in a gutsy performance in the 800-meter run. Elliott turned on the speed near the end of the race to pull away from Indiana's Darren Kern and finish with a 1:52.24.

The usual four of Duncan, Adams, Forde and Franks carried the Salukis to another win in the 1,600-meter relay and established a meet and school record with a 3:07.08 in the day's last event.

Other Saluki first-place finishes were: John Smith in the shot put (57-10.75) and discus (167-5), David Greathouse in the long jump (23-16.50), Gavin Harshbarger in the triple jump (47-8.50) and Stephen Wray in the high jump with a 7-2.

The Salukis were without Sam Nwoesu (leg injury) in the intermediate hurdles.

Hartzog was not surprised by his team's performance.

"The kids always compete well," he said. "I can never remember an SIU team which performed poorly in front of the home crowd."

pected them to be hitting .300 and driving in some runs."

In Friday's nine-inning contest, the Salukis sent no more than four hitters to face Reburn in all but one inning, and a Louisville error made that possible. Gary Bockhorn, who fell to 2-2, saw his 90 mph fastball and 10-strikeout performance go for naught in that game.

"I was pretty much in command," Reburn said. "I had good velocity and my slider was working well."

Most, but not all of the news was bad from Louisville. Scott Bridges had five hits in 10 trips. Terry Jones was four for 12, and Blumhorst drove in the go-ahead run with a pinch-hit single in the 7-6 loss.

In that game, Saluki starter Jay Bellissimo was rocked in the first inning (four runs) for the second straight time. But the junior right-hander found the groove after the first, yielding just two hits before giving way to Wooden.

SIU-C will try to get untracked in its home opener Tuesday — a double-header against Evansville.

"The Salukis are a much better team than their record indicates," Mann said. "Their problem is that they haven't played at home because of the bad weather."

Brinkman claims U.S. swim race title

By Jim Lexa
Sports Editor

Saluki Gary Brinkman won the 400-meter freestyle over the weekend at the U.S. Swimming Championships at Indianapolis, Ind., to highlight the SIU-C swimming teams' performances.

The men's squad placed 12th in the meet with 53 points, while the best of the women's team could come up with were a pair of top-20 finishes.

Brinkman swam the 400 in 3:55.23, which set a school record. With 100 meters left in the race, Brinkman was in fourth place and five yards behind the leader.

"It was really a great swim for Gary," SIU-C men's Coach Bob Steele said. "He beat some quality people. All the Olympic hopefuls were there."

Brinkman is just the third Saluki to win an event at the U.S. championships. He also captured third place in the 1,500 freestyle, with a school-record time of 15:36.4.

SIU-C's 800 freestyle relay team (Brinkman, Barry Hahn, Erwin Kratz and Gerhard vonderWalt) took ninth place, and also set a school record with a time of 7:35.0.

Roger VonJouanne, a graduate student competing with SIU-C, took seventh in the 200 butterfly with a time of 2:09.4.

Bob McAdam, who Steele said will transfer from Decatur Community College to attend SIU-C next year, took sixth in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:04.9.

Wendy Irick led the women's team by "aking 19th in the 200 backstroke (2:23.3) and setting a school record in the 100 backstroke (1:06.0).

The 800 free relay team (Claudia Zeirold, Janie Coontz, Stacy Westfall and Wendy Irick) took 15th with a time of 8:30.78.

"Emotionally, we weren't up for this meet as we were last year," women's Coach Tim Hill said. "It was a beneficial weekend for us. The big thing was for us to compete long course. I'm pleased that the girls had a chance to compete long course."

SIU-C swimmers usually compete short course, so the meet was a change of pace for them.

Hill said that a "good majority" of the swimmers that he is recruiting were at the meet. Four of the swimmers that have verbally committed to attend SIU-C next year were there, Hill said.

SIU-C's Stephen Wray leaped 7-2 to win the high jump and helped the Salukis defeat Indiana 94-58 Saturday at McAndrew Stadium. SIU-C is 3-0 in outdoor dual meets this season.

Men down Indiana, set 5 school records

By David Wilhelm
Staff Writer

It was Mike Franks' day. It was his parents' day, also.

Franks, SIU-C's outstanding sprinter, helped carried the men's track team to a devastating 94-58 defeat over the Indiana Hoosiers Saturday at McAndrew Stadium. Three stadium and five school records were shattered.

What was just as pleasing to Franks was that his parents were watching him run in person for the first time.

Franks broke meet, stadium and SIU-C records in the 100- and 200-meter dashes and anchored the mile relay team, which also set a meet and school record. With two first-place finishes from Franks and 11 more from the rest of the Salukis, the Hoosiers were getting ready to park their bags for their trip back to Bloomington earlier than expected.

For the first time in four meets, the Salukis and Hoosiers did not have to worry about rain. The temperature was about 55 degrees at meet time before cloudy skies and cooling temperatures set in.

The meet was expected to be close, but the Salukis quickly took control and never lost the lead, evening their series record with Indiana at 4-4.

Edison Wedderburn got the record-breaking day off on the right foot for the Salukis with first place in the 3,000-meter steeplechase. Wedderburn set meet, stadium and school records and also qualified for the NCAA championships with a time of 8:37.95. Chris Bunyan took second, running his second-best time ever in 8:53.27.

The Salukis' baton passing practice on Tuesday paid off Saturday in the 400-meter relay. The team of Parry Duncan, Tony Adams, Elvis Forde and Franks established a meet record of 40.28 in turning back the Hoosiers (40.55). Franks' late burst of speed in the final leg took him past Indiana's Albert Robinson. Robinson had to get used to second place for the day, because, unfortunately for him, Franks was in each race that Robinson was in.

Franks' time of 10.02 in the 100-meter dash broke meet, stadium and school records as did his 20.31 in the 200-meter dash. Robinson took second in both events.

Franks was pleased with his record-breaking feats, and he said he was glad that they happened in front of his parents, who made the trip to Carbondale from St. Louis.

"Things are going real well," Franks said. "The records came as a big surprise. I'm shocked and overwhelmed. It hasn't sunk in yet."

Both of Franks' records broke 12-year marks held by former Saluki Ivory Crockett.

Saluki John Sayre had a noteworthy day, too. Sayre broke the stadium record in the pole vault with a 17-foot-4, then took first in the javelin with a 196-3 toss, second in the 110-meter high hurdles (14.75) and fourth in the shot put.

Coach Lew Hartzog was happy about Sayre's stadium record in the pole vault. Sayre had been down with a cold and he missed three days of practice last week. Hartzog said that breaking the school record was "all he cared about."

Sayre missed three attempts at 18 feet, but he was happy about breaking the school record.

Blackman hurt at meet as women nab 4 firsts

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

SIU-C's women's track team took four first-place finishes in Saturday's non-scoring 1984 Saluki Relays at McAndrew Stadium.

Illinois led the seven-team field with seven first places in 18 events and the Salukis were runner-up with the rest for.

SIU-C Coach Dan DeNoon said he was pleased with his team's performance.

"The kids ran very well and rose to the occasion today," DeNoon said. "I think it is all coming together and we're realizing we have the potential to compete against the best, and it is either uphill or downhill from there."

Murray State won three events and Illinois State and Western Michigan each won two. Southwest Missouri State and SIU-E failed to win any events.

The meet was costly for the Salukis because sprinter Denise Blackman pulled her right hamstring while running the anchor of the 4x100-meter relay. It is the same injury she sustained in the opening meet of the indoor season and she is sidelined indefinitely.

Jennifer Bartley, Debra Davis, Cathy Davis and Blackman teamed together to finish second in the 4x100 relay (47.41 seconds). Murray State (47.25) won the event and set a meet record in the process.

Blackman won the 100 by defeating Maxine Best of Murray State, 12.19 to 12.60. Blackman, though, ran a quicker time (12.03) in the preliminaries.

"I was scared and apprehensive," Blackman said. "I was looking for Maxine Best because she can be real tough. I ran against her at home (in Barbados) two years ago and last year we didn't compete

Salukis' losing streak hits six

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Desperate for a slump-breaking win, the Saluki baseball team lost three straight games at Louisville, Ky., last weekend to extend its losing streak to six.

While falling to 6-11, SIU-C tied a school record for consecutive losses, set in 1983. That team started slowly also, 4-7, but bounced back with eight straight wins. Whether the Salukis can display the same resiliency as the 1983 team remains to be seen.

Saluki Coach Itchy Jones, furious and "embarrassed" Saturday about the way his club

"gave away" the first game of Saturday's double-header, said Sunday the past must be forgotten, since Missouri Valley Conference action starts this weekend.

"The Valley will be our new season," Jones said. "The players have to realize that every team will be 0-0, and that all the individual statistics start at zero."

The Salukis were chased home by the hard-hitting Cardinals, who are off to a 15-3 start. SIU-C fell Friday to Scott Return, now 5-0, by a 4-2 score before losing 7-6 and 11-2 Saturday.

The 7-6 loss, the opener of the twin-bill, was probably the most frustrating of the year. The Salukis had fought back from a 5-2 deficit and grabbed a 6-5 lead with a four-run fifth inning, but tossed it down the drain when two errors led to Louisville's game-winning runs in the bottom of the sixth.

With a runner on first and one out, Louisville's Joe Kilgore hit a pop foul on a 3-2 count to the first base side, but Greg Severin dropped it, giving Kilgore a second chance off loser reliever Mark Wooden. Wooden then walked Kilgore, putting runners on first and second for Bo Cleveland.

Cleveland lined a single toward the left field corner, scoring the tying run from second and sending Kilgore to third. Scott Bridges wisely threw to second base, but Mike Gellingner mishandled it, allowing the go-ahead run to score.

"We had the game but we gave it back," a fuming Jones said.

The Cardinals then jumped on the staggering Salukis in the second game with four home runs, by Doug Inghram, Mark Cambron, Bill Gray and John Brooks. Steve Thompkins went four for four, including three doubles. Loser Lee Meyer (2-1) and Todd Neibel were the victims of the Cards' slugging barrage.

"It looks like our hitting has been the key to our success," said Cardinal Coach Derek Mann, who added that he is pleasantly surprised by his team's hot start.

SIU-C's lack of hitting continued to falter, particularly at the No. 4, 5 and 6 positions in the order. Those spots, filled by several, including Robert Jones, Mike Blumhorst and Severin, combine for four hits in 30 at-bats in the three games, a .133 average.

"I know our kids are disappointed," Jones said, "but we were anemic with the bats. Blumhorst and Severin are struggling. I would have ex-
