Regulated ethanol sales may lead to cleaner air

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

The U.S. Senate adopted an amendment to the clean air act last week that mandates the sale of ethanol during winter months, a step that could lead to cleaner air in Illinois and a boost for the state's economy.

Sponsored by U.S. Senators Paul Simon, D-Makanda and

Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, the amendment requires the sale of oxygenated fuels, including ethanol, during the late fall and winter months, when pollution problems are the worst, to help reduce carbon monoxide auto emissions.

At this point, the amendment targets only large cities by 1992, including Chicago, where pollution problems are the very worst, Pamela Huey, Simon's press secretary, said. Other cities include Los Angeles, Baltimore, Houston, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia and San Diego.

Fuel sold in those cities would have a minimum required oxygen content of 3.1 percent. Gasohol, which is 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent ethanol, would have an oxygen content of 3.5 percent.

If pollution levels in the larger cities are lowered by the plan, mid-size cities would be affected by the legislation.

"The ethanol provisions in the bill are a clear winner for Illinois," Simon said. "This probably will be the biggest boost of ethanol use in the nation's histo-

First in a series of three stories concerning the use of ethanol.

Strike violence

Bus driver critically wounded by highway sniper near Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A bus driver wounded by a sniper while carrying passengers for strikebound Greyhound Lines Inc. was in critical condition Sunday and Greyhound vowed not to be cowed by allegedly union-linked violence.

"We will not be intimidated by terrorism," Greyhound Chairman Fred Curry said at a news conference at the Nashville Greyhound terminal 11 hours after the driver of a Southeast Trailways bus was shot in northern Tennessee by a sniper in a passing pickup truck.

The driver, David E. Bryant, 58, was shot about 11 p.m. Saturday as his bus traveled northbound on Interstate 65 near Cross Plains, about 25 miles north of Nashville, police said.

Curry said the company will continue to refuse to negotiate until there is an end to violence associated with the strike, which began March 2. Asked if he thought strikers were responsible for the latest and most serious shooting incident, Curry said: "You can draw your own conclusions."

Union officials "say they deplore the violence but do nothing about it," he said.

Greyhound last week called off plans for renewing contract negotiations with its employee union, citing recent threats and violence by striking drivers. The company has offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any bus snipers.

Bryant's Southeast Trailways bus was carrying passengers for Greyhound from Nashville to Detroit, Greyhound spokesman George Gravely said. The bus sniping was the 26th since the Greyhound strike began March 2.

Election set on issue of collective bargaining

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

SIU administration and professional staff will vote on the issue of collective bargaining representation May 9.

The University and the Illinois Education Association-National Education Association agreed to hold an expedited election. The election date was set by the Illinois Education Labor Relations Board last week.

William S. Capie, executive director of SIU personnel and labor relations, said the date needed to be set before the spring semester ended, because many staff members schedule their vacations during summer break.

"We wanted to make sure we would have as many people eligible to vote as we could," Capie said. "We share that goal with the IEA, to get the highest percentage as possible of eligible voters voting."

The May election will differ from the November 1988 election, which had both faculty and AP staff voting on three choices: collective bargaining representation with IEA-NEA, representation with University Professionals or no representation.

No union representation won the election with 53 percent of the vote. IEA received 33 percent of the vote.

Earth First! gathers at Shawnee

By Phil Pearson
Staff Writer

Despite the changing weather and persistent mud, spirits were high and determination steady among the participants in the Earth First! Midwest Regional Rendezvous.

Over a hundred Earth Firsters, some from as far away as Pennsylvania, gathered this weekend in a scattered camp a few miles into the Shawnee National Forest from Pomona to socialize as well as discuss problems facing the environment and how to "radicalize" those issues.

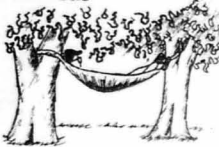

Earth First! is a loosely organized movement that promotes preservation of nature and often takes drastic steps to make a point.

Three Earth Firsters were arrested in the Trail of Tears State Park last fall for blocking a logging road and preventing employees of East Perry Lumber Company from getting to work for a few hours.

Orin Langelle, spokesman for Big River Earth First of Pacifica, Mo., said, "We are all upset about the rape of our public land!"

Newspaper thefts linked to environmentalists

By Chris Walka
and Phil Pearson
Staff Writers

The disappearance of an estimated 5,000 to 7,000 Friday copies of the Daily Egyptian from several drop points left readers wondering where their daily paper was.

According to DE employees, the first calls from people wanting to know where the newspapers were started coming into the paper's business office about 7:10 a.m. Friday. By 12:55 p.m., calls were still coming into the paper.

Tom "Trey" Herb, head of promotions for the Student Environmental Center here, said a small faction of the environmentalist movement Earth First! was responsible for taking the papers.

"I'm sorry it happened to the paper but I support Earth First! doing it once," Herb said, emphasizing the latter portion of the comment.

Herb said the group responsible for taking the papers was also responsible for posting garbage bags on trees in Thompson Woods last Monday.

"It made a statement that they (DEs) should be recycled," Herb said.

Herb said the comments were personal and not the position of SEC.

Flyers posted at various locations around campus said the papers could be claimed at 220 S.

Washington, the address of Southern Recycling Center.

Hank Dews, the assistant manager for the firm, said he called the DE's business office when the center opened at 11 a.m. to ask why the papers were put on the front loading dock of the recycling firm.

Brett Hagedorn, the student circulation manager for the DE, said the papers were picked up

Tiananmen Square controlled by police on anniversary date

BEIJING (UPI) — Police cordoned off most of Tiananmen Square until dusk Sunday and fire trucks with water cannons stood by as authorities braced for signs of a revival of last year's crushed pro-democracy movement. "This just proves how terrified the leadership is," a Chinese official said. The security precautions came days after the government issued a warning to avoid the square from April 1 to June 4, a two-month span encompassing a series of sensitive anniversaries marking the rise and then the bloody dismantling of last spring's protest movement.

Romanians demonstrate against government

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — About 10,000 demonstrators marched through the capital Sunday in an unofficial celebration of the Romanian revolution's 100th day, chanting anti-government slogans and stopping to salute an opposition presidential candidate. As thousands knelt beside red lines where barricades once stood, many in the crowd rose to their feet and began chanting "Down with communism" and "Down with Iliescu."

Authorities investigating London tax riot

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard opened an investigation Sunday of a protest of a newly imposed tax that degenerated into a riot, with mobs overturning cars, setting fire to buildings and looting shops. Scores of people were hurt as the rampage spread through central London Saturday night. Seventy-five civilians and 58 police were treated for injuries and four people remained hospitalized Sunday afternoon. Police arrested 341 people, mostly on public disorder charges, Scotland Yard said. More than 400 crimes were reported.

Wounded U.S. airmen critical but stable

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — Two U.S. airmen seriously wounded in a rebel sniper attack were in critical but stable condition Sunday and were to be returned to the United States as soon as feasible, officials said. Eight members of the U.S. Air Force were wounded Saturday when members of a leftist rebel group opened fire on a bus returning 28 U.S. airmen from a vacation in northern Honduras.

EPA head acknowledges miners' job loss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief of the Environmental Protection Agency acknowledged Sunday that a proposed new clean air law will put some coal miners out of work, but said he is hopeful that technology can save jobs. "We are going to see some losses in those jobs. ... We are not pleased about that. It is not something we want to see happen," EPA administrator William Reilly said on NBC's "Meet the Press." "We are prepared to work very carefully with those workers and with the state to try to ensure that we have as good a safety net and unemployment retraining provisions as possible," he said.

Plane crashes in residential neighborhood

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A small plane crashed into a residential neighborhood Sunday, setting at least three homes on fire, authorities and witnesses said. There was no immediate word on casualties from the plane or on the ground. The plane, believed to be a twin-engine craft, crashed about 3:30 p.m. MDT, a police dispatcher said. Kristy Turner, who lives about three miles west of town, said she was working in her driveway when she heard the loud noise of a plane engine coming over the Continental Divide.

Fuel slick works its way down Allegheny

FREEPORT, Pa. (UPI) — A 30-mile-long fuel slick created by a punctured pipeline worked its way down the Allegheny River Sunday, forcing the closing of water intake pipes and prompting water conservation orders for about 1 million people in a dozen communities. The pipeline owner, Buckeye Pipeline Co., reported that the broken pipeline released 98,000 gallons of fuel and that crews had recovered 20 percent, Thomas said. But county emergency management officials were suspicious of the estimate, he said.

Students spoof campus with Noriega plan

MIAMI (UPI) — A student newspaper scored an April Fools' spoof with a prank story saying Manuel Noriega had been freed from prison under a work-release plan and would teach "Geography of Coca-Growing Regions" at the University of Miami. "A lot of people thought it was real," said Tom Higgins, editor of The Miami Hurricane. "Even administrators. Students were threatening to drop out of the university." The headline in Friday's issue, the last published before April Fools' Day, said, "University arranges work-release plan, frees Panama's ousted leader."

Civic Center input session nets favorable responses

Survey data shows citizens favor Illinois Avenue location

By Nora Bentley
Staff Writer

The yeas outnumbered the nays for the proposed Carbondale Civic Center at a public input session Thursday.

The session was held to get more suggestions for the development and use of the facility before the Carbondale Civic Center Authority Board decides whether to apply for state funding by the July 1 deadline.

City Manager Steve Hoffner said that if the deadline is missed, the city would have to wait another year to get the state funding. 25 percent of the project will be funded locally with 75 percent coming from the state, he said.

Informational brochures and surveys have been sent to a number of Carbondale organizations over the past month. A majority of those returned have shown support.

Questions included in the survey were: What types of facilities should be included; how often would you use each of the facilities; what fee would you be willing to pay for each use; where do you think a civic center should be built; what types of events would you like to see held at the center and would you be willing to help build this center?

James Prowell, executive director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, said that a survey done on March 6 showed support for the civic center on Illinois Avenue between Monroe and Walnut streets.

"We need to provide a facility to get our young people off the streets"

— Carol Felder

"Most comments we have received have been in support," Prowell said.

William C. Westberg, state director of the American Association of Retired Persons, said that his group is in favor of the center.

"Civic centers are very important to groups like ours. We would very much like to see this in Carbondale," he said. Westberg expressed a need for meeting rooms and space for exhibits, receptions and banquets.

Jeanette Stephens, chairwoman of the citizens advisory committee, said that although she supports the concept of the center, her group doesn't have any specific uses in mind yet.

Stephens also said that her group would have more suggestions for promotion of the center at a future date.

"I feel the presence of a civic center will help the downtown area," Mike Diamond of the Carbondale Industrial Corporation said. He said the idea of a civic center promotes economic development in Carbondale.

Carol Felder, a citizen of Carbondale, said she is concerned about the lack of a community-wide facility and said that in the consideration of a center the ideas of local young people should be involved.

"We need to provide a facility to get out young people off the streets," she said. "As a parent I can ask (that) as you think about what you want, you listen to the parents and even get input from the young people."

Felder said that more people need to be contacted about the center.

Jim Kirk, owner of Horstman's Cleaners and Furriers, questioned the need and the location of the proposed center.

He asked the board if the center was a vehicle to a new city hall since it has been proposed that a new city hall, excluding the police department, be adjacent to the center.

Helen Westberg, an authority board member and former mayor, said "It's not the intention to duplicate available present facilities (SIU facilities)."

She also said that downtown location consultants have identified the area on Illinois Avenue as a first priority and a keystone for downtown development.

Another authority board member, David Christensen, said that the building of a new city hall with the center is a practical way to piggyback and make the possibility of both better.

Hoffner said that the city is open to more suggestions for private development in the downtown area.

Exxon verdict sign of weak law efforts

A FEDERAL COURT'S verdict on the Exxon Valdez case makes one wonder what environmentalists think about the environment. With little mistaking, the decision to let the Valdez skipper Joseph Hazelwood off the hook really helped us put our views into perspective.

BUSINESS FIRST, THEN its consequences, right? No, wrong.

While no one is sure why nothing more has been decided in the way of retribution and, most of all, responsibility, Hazelwood's acquittal of drunken sailing was a result of sloppy work.

HAZELWOOD WAS ACQUITTED of operating a watercraft under the influence of intoxicating liquor because, jurors said, law enforcement officials failed to test the skipper's blood alcohol content relative to the disaster.

LAW ENFORCEMENT officials must be more diligent in their line of work, especially because they occasionally encounter people or corporations willing to slide through their long arms.

A more worthy effort of law officials is a goal those who handed the Exxon case should keep in mind.

AMA survey to find lucrative Arena acts

THANKS TO THE American Marketing Association's branch in the College of Business and Administration, members of the University community might have better odds at seeing performances they want to see.

A survey of 400 graduates and undergraduates selected randomly will help determine which performers will end up at the Arena next year.

HOPEFULLY, THE END result of the survey not only will produce better acts, but could offer a more cost effective season at the Arena. One intent of the survey is to increase student attendance. So far, only 20 percent of concert audiences are students. A more competitive lineup may mean a jump in attendance figures.

NOW WE HAVE to put our trust in the 400 lucky people who will help decide the future of Arena shows.

Bomb-building project halted

Special Howard News Service

The following editorial appeared in Sunday's New Yorker.

Thank you for elaborating upon the... U.S. and through... with the help of... companies... illegal... to buy... it will take a lot more international cooperation to halt illegal trafficking in nuclear weapons material and put a permanent dent in Iraq's bomb-building project and others like it.

The Western industrial nations have restrictions on the export of nuclear materials and technology. But too many firms willingly violate their own country's export controls. And too many countries close their eyes to violations; the West Germans, in particular, are reluctant for looking the other way at illegal shipments. They all need to crack down.

Outlaw countries like Iraq must be made to pay a price for illicit arms-making and other undesirable nuclear behavior. U.S. sanctions for an arms-made cutoff of economic and military aid to any country seeking illegal nuclear exports for their own nuclear explosive devices. These sanctions should be stiffened. Companies as well as countries engaged in illicit nuclear trafficking should be denied access to U.S. markets and financing.

Like drug-dealing, illicit trafficking in nuclear items is never going to be completely eradicated. But with cooperation among responsible nations, projects that threaten world peace can at least be slowed down.

Letters

Student tells Palestinian point of view

In response to the letter of March 21 concerning Israel, in which we are led to believe that Israel is somehow judged by a double standard. The audacity of the American Zionist lobby and its supporters never cease to amaze me. For the last century the Zionist movement has had things go in its favor, to the point of occupying Palestine against all international laws, except the laws of the Jews which hold them to be superior to the gentiles. They still follow the laws which were followed by Joshua who conquered and slaughtered the Hebrews' neighboring gentile tribes, and this was sanctioned, according to the Bible, by God.

So the Zionists are feeling a little pressure from the world community, they are not used to be so openly criticized. So now they are crying "bloody murder" and they are pulling out of that old, and by now rotten, scapegoat of "anti-semitism."

I invite the writer, Dean, to come to the Morris Library where

I may be able to give him a tour of our microfilm section, in which is stored American newspapers, which will prove to him that Zionism has had its way for the last half century. Using its vast Zionist propaganda machine, it has depicted Israel as the "weak and oppressed democracy" which continues to exist by its mere will to survive, against the onslaught of its "lustful" Arab neighbors who are bent on its destruction. Well all I can say to that is wake up! While this may continue to effect some of the public, it has absolutely no place in scholarly circles.

Dean has mentioned the tragedy of Arabs Killing Arabs, but he left out the tragedy of Jew killing Jew. Furthermore, all the Arab deaths he mentioned would never have happened if Israel wasn't forcibly placed like a bleeding wound in the region.

Dean in his article also made a comparison to land lost by Mexico to the U.S. First of all this is not similar to the Palestinian intifada because where there may be "former Mexicans" as he so brilliantly put it, according to my knowledge there are no "former" Palestinians.

Anyway this comparison has no bearing on the matter to begin with because although the U.S. stole land from Mexico, the Spanish-Mexicans, and everyone else for that matter, stole that same land from the American Indians.

He would have us believe that might makes right, well if that is the case then I have no sympathy for the victims of terrorism, because terrorism can be compared to the abuses of a drowning man who commits terror (injustice) in his quest to strike out against injustice.

Finally, I invite the reader to sincerely study the world situation. Dean has given us some new information. He is however, hiding something from us, that something is the truth.—Abduljawwad Natsheh, Carbondale.

Preserving Mother Earth's resources first priority

Earth Day 1990 is approaching, and by writing this letter I'd like to set an example.

Since environmental issues are finally getting media attention, and especially since we're at a university, I'd hope that we all have at least a basic understanding that we can't neglect the earth any longer. The gaining of knowledge and information is the first step. If we aren't actively seeking information is the first step. If we aren't actively seeking information by taking environmental classes and/or reading anything from papers to magazines to journals, we can at least passively absorb the information television and radio gives us.

I'd like to mention that how we get information is important—I was taught in school that manifest destiny was right—but that isn't my point. My point is further communicating this information. That's where writing a letter comes in.

Earth Day is Mother's Day for Mama E. I'm sure you call your mom or send her a card on Mother's Day.

Why? Because she'd probably get upset if you didn't. So why shouldn't you do a little something for Mama E. at least on Earth Day? You think she don't get upset? As Dave MDC wrote, "When nature warned us gently the point is often missed. But when she shakes and floods and burns you know Mama's pissed."

Here's a few suggestions you can do for Mama E. this Earth Day if you don't have any ideas. (All the letters only have to be a few lines, short and sweet.)

Write (or stop in) National or County Fair (or wherever you shop) and tell them that you want them to label organically grown produce, so you can choose whether or not you eat chemical residue in your food. Write to any or all newspapers and magazines you can think of urging them to use recycled paper (recycling is useless unless the recycled material is used).

Go to events sponsored by the city and environmental groups on Earth Day. Write to congress people and/or George to let them know how you feel.

Above all, stay informed and act on your knowledge. We owe it to Mama E to love and respect her. And we owe it to ourselves to put profits and losses second to actions and reactions.

The Marketplace of Ideas needs more vendors—pass it on.—Mark Groble, senior, radio-television.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

EARTH, from Page 1

The rape Langelle referred to at a press tour in Pomona Saturday is the commercial use of public lands, such as logging operations in the Shawnee Forest.

Besides demanding the immediate resignations of Forest Supervisor Rod Sallee and Murphysboro District Ranger Larry Burkhardt, Langelle demanded a complete moratorium on timber harvest in the Shawnee.

The environmentalists say that logging in the forest is for purely economic gain and doesn't consider the whole picture of uses and the animals that live in them as well as other plants.

According to Brookport resident Jan Thomas, who claims not to be an Earth Firster but a spokesperson for the people of Illinois, said the current forest plan provides for a total of 36,000 acres of hardwoods — mainly oak and hickory — to be harvested in the forest in the next 10 years.

Members of the movement have repeatedly accused Forest Service officials of abusing their authority and breaking federal laws to promote commercial interests. Nothing has ever been taken to court. At a press event at the Murphysboro Ranger Station Friday afternoon, a copy of the forest plan and a copy of the 1986 settlement agreement were cut up as a symbol of the environmentalists' unhappiness with the plan.

The 1986 plan gave all concerned parties a say in recommendations: for a revised forest plan Rod Sallee, forest supervisor, said.

Thomas said the hearing were secretive and full public input wasn't sought. She also claims that the Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists, which was the leading environmental organization in Southern Illinois at the time, did not sign the agreement.

Rod Sallee, forest supervisor, said Friday that "this whole process was open to the public. Anyone could have appealed. They're just trying to create a picture of cloak and secrecy."

During a mass trek Sunday through Fairview, a site proposed by the Forest Service for timber harvest, Randal Thomas, RACE member and Brookport resident, said that the original plan of the Forest Service was to clear cut 150 acres of hardwoods in the area. After public pressure came to bear, he said, the plan was changed to selective harvesting of over 600 acres.

Clear cutting is the process of harvesting in which everything is cut out of an area. Selective harvesting calls for only large, mature trees to be harvested.

"Personally, I'm against all (timber harvest) in our national forests," Thomas said. "There are plenty of land to grow trees in Illinois without cutting on public lands."

He as well as other environmentalists said they didn't oppose tree farming, but felt the public lands should be left untouched.

Rene Cook, from Murphysboro, used the weekend rendezvous as the backdrop for the announcement of the formation of the Shawnee Earth First! and is dedicated to a complete moratorium on timber harvest in the forest.

"We feel like corporations and big business have come first and its time for the earth to come first," she said.

ry." Because the main ingredient in ethanol is corn, the state's economy will benefit strongly from the new amendment. The Illinois ethanol industry is the largest in the nation because of the great amount of corn produced in the state.

The amendment is expected to triple the demand for ethanol.

Lyle Solverson, acting chairman of the agribusiness economics department, said the new amendment will help the Illinois corn economy.

He said Illinois and Iowa are the leading producers of corn, with Illinois contributing 1 billion bushels of corn annually. The total corn production for the United States is 7 billion a year.

"Illinois produces a tremendous amount of corn, one-seventh of the total amount produced," he said.

Solverson said 55 percent of all corn produced goes to livestock, 28 percent for exports, and the remaining 17 percent goes to feed, seed and industry. Of the remaining 17 percent produced, 15 percent goes to the production of ethanol. "Only a small portion of the total corn production goes to ethanol, but that could change with the legislation," Solverson said.

The majority of corn produced goes to feed livestock and not to make ethanol. Ethanol production takes up only a small part of corn production, but that could change if the demand for the fuel becomes greater, he said.

Industry analysts estimate the ethanol business has grown to a domestic fuel industry that produced and marketed over 840 million gallons of fuel in 1988, the amendment said. The industry has helped reduce oil imports by nearly 40 million barrels.

Current predictions from the Environmental Protection Agency suggest the use of ethanol blends will reduce motor vehicle emissions of carbon monoxide by more than 25 percent.

Sen. Dixon said he too was a strong supporter of the ethanol amendment.

"It's time that we recognize the importance of ethanol in solving our smog and air toxics problem,"

Dixon said. "It's good for our air. It's good for our farmers. It's good for reducing dependency of foreign oil."

Simon said he the ethanol amendment may offset some of the economic devastation Illinois may suffer if the clean air bill is adopted.

President George Bush's proposed clean air bill places the burden of cutting down acid rain levels on states, including Illinois, that produce coal with high sulfur concentrate.

"Although I'm concerned with the acid rain provisions of the bill, I'm very pleased with the ethanol amendment," Simon said. "It's really going to help Illinois."

Because Southern Illinois produces coal very high in sulfur content, Illinois taxpayers will pay the enormous costs to clean the coal.

U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, is making speeches in Congress to persuade the lawmakers mandate the entire United States help with the cleanup costs, instead of the states bearing the burden.

The AP staff will be voting without the faculty and will have only two choices in the May election: representation with IEA-NEA or no representation.

Employee organizations such as UP do have a 30-day posting period from the election notice to file an intervening petition.

Capie said he does not know whether or not the absence of division among union supporters would make a difference in the present election.

John Holmes, membership chair of the SIU-C AP staff-IEA, said people have grown more accepting of the IEA since the 1988 election.

"Obviously, the longer you stay, the more ingrained you get," Holmes said. "We have tried to get the sense of the needs of the campus. There is quite a bit at stake here."

The IEA filed a petition for a second election after waiting the required time of one-year beyond the 1988 election.

Holmes said the AP staff must work with one another and with the University if collective bargaining is to be successful.

"It doesn't make any sense to establish something that works against the University," he said. "That's like biting the hand that feeds you."

Capie said the University has no plans to seek legal counsel at this point. The University was criticized by the IEA for paying $300,000 for the legal services of Seyfarth and Shaw during the 1988 election.

The law firm helped the University establish ground rules for the collective bargaining unit and defended the University on nine unfair labor practices. The University was not found guilty on any of the labor practice charges.

"(Seyfarth and Shaw) were not used for the election or during the election itself," Capie said. "The key to using the firm was identifying those who were eligible to vote; it was the first time the University had to deal with that. This time we're going to have an expedited election."

One of the major fears of AP staff members during the 1988 election was that only a few union activists would represent the AP staff in bargaining.

Holmes said collective bargaining is a structure, not a panacea, out of which a large number of people can get their grievances met.

"People make collective bargaining work," Holmes said. "If I stress anything, I want to stress the need for people not to think in terms of what bargaining is going to do for 'me.' As a campus, the Carbondale campus is going to make a difference in collective bargaining."

Selecting the correct leadership is a key factor, he said.

"Leaders have to be selected who understand how the University functions and how it operates and understand the perception of the little person as related to the structure," Holmes said.

"I'm not going to say this is going to be easy, and I'm not going to say there is not going to be problems," he said, "but there is a little less emotional involvement. Collective bargaining comes in and says 'We have got this problem,' and it could smooth out the process."

Voter eligibility requirements and polling locations have yet to be posted.

Audience fight forces cancellation of fundraising event in Grinnell Hall

By Chris Walka
Staff Writer

A fight that erupted between audience members attending the Battle of the DJ's in the basement of Grinnell Hall forced the cancellation of the event Saturday night.

Dwight Gunn, communication chairperson for the Black Togetherness Organization, said about 15 to 20 people attending the event were involved in the fight.

Gunn said security personnel broke up the fight, and the event was cancelled. Gunn estimated between 500 to 600 people were attending the event.

When the activity was broken up, the fight continued to the outside of Grinnell Hall where a larger force of University security personnel were enlisted to break it up.

The event was sponsored by the Black Togetherness Organization and the Flacks in Business organization. The DJ battle is slated to be finished over WIDB at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Although the fight cancelled the DJ show, the event was successful as a fundraiser for Blacks in Business, said Ray DeBarross, president of Blacks in Business.

DeBarross said he did not know how the fight started.

Blacks in Business made approximately $1,000, DeBarross said. This money is to be used for a field trip to St. Louis, where the organization will tour Anheuser-Busch, AT & T, and McDonnell Douglas to attempt to establish contacts with potential employers and to establish internships, he said.

A University Police spokesperson said reports on the incident were incomplete, thus no comment on the altercation could not be issued.

from the recycling center between 11:30 a.m. and noon Friday. By 12:30 p.m., the papers were back out on campus, Hagedorn said.

Approximately 1,000 newspapers were lost due to witness, Hagedorn said, and these papers were left at the recycling center.

John McHale, of the SEC public relations committee, said that though he had no prior knowledge of the theft and couldn't speak for the organization because the subject hadn't been discussed, the SEC promotes efforts to increase "public awareness of the environment."

The Daily Egyptian, a free circulation newspaper, does not use recycled paper for the production of its newspaper, Hagedorn said.

Gary Buckles, production superintendent at the Daily Egyptian, said recycled newsprint may be in the DE's future.

"Recycled newsprint is not as available as some people believe," Buckles said. "The quality has really just improved in the past year and we're on contract with our current paper supplier until July. I think we'll definitely be looking at the recycled newsprint option when the next bids come up."

Wanda Harris, acting manager editor of the DE, said the DE is supportive of recycling efforts.

"We support the effort on campus to recycle paper and other materials and we have encouraged our readers to recycle," Harris said. "But the disruption of the service of a newspaper to its readers is a negative way to try to make a positive statement," Harris said.

The irony is that the paper the bulletins were printed on was not recycled, Mike Fleming, assistant manager for Kinko's Copies, said.

Fleming read the watermark — a hidden lot number on sheets of paper — and after checking references found the watermark to indicate paper made from trees.

Symbols such as the one on the bulletin — a circle around a cross with six rays emanating from the circle and six dots outside the circle — have been seen around campus on sidewalks around Lawson and Fanner Halls.

Herb and others questioned identified the symbol as that of a "small group of local Earth Firsters" whose focus is recycling.

According to several Earth Firsters, is more of a movement than an organization. There are no membership rolls and very little structure. Earth Firsters have been "monkey-wrenching" for the past several years, using civil disobedience as a tactic to promote preservation of nature.

Government shakeup fails to quell discontent in Nepal

KATHMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — King Birendra, responding to burgeoning demands for democracy, fired nine Cabinet ministers Sunday but the move did little to quell popular discontent in the Himalayan kingdom.

Thousands of pro-democracy protesters armed with knives, sticks and sickles took over the streets hours after the king's announcement, while 95 percent of doctors and health professionals refused to go to work, virtually shutting down all the kingdom's hospitals and clinics.

Schools were closed because of the "lack of academic atmosphere."

Throughout Saturday night, bands of citizens had set up road blocks and patrolled their neighborhoods in Kathmandu to fend off parties of police that have reportedly been raiding private homes to make arrests.

The city was plunged into darkness as protesters snuffed out lights, using the bells in Hindu temples to warn of approaching policemen. There were no reports of violence but the capital and the nearby historic city of Patan were tense. The Harvard-educated King Birendra announced he was retaining Marich Man Singh as his prime minister but he fired nine other ministers. He named Soviet-trained engineer Hari Bahadur Busney as foreign minister to replace Shailendra Kumar Upadhyaya, who resigned Friday in protest when police fired on demonstrators in the town of Patan, killing two.

There are 11 full Cabinet ministers, seven ministers of state and seven assistant ministers in the Nepalese government. Among those fired Sunday were the ministers of housing, labor, justice and land reforms.

King Birendra also retained minister of state for home affairs, Nirajan Thapa, suggesting a continuing tough approach to opposition, political analysts said.

But minister of state for communications, Kamal Thapa, was given a new job as minister of state for forests. As communications minister Thapa implemented a repressive policy towards the press that included newspaper seizures and the arrest of at least 36 journalists. An estimated 7,000 people, many carrying knives, sticks and sickles and chanting "we will retaliate murder with murder," took to the streets in Kathmandu to protest the repeated firing by police upon protesters.

At least 16 people have been killed in violent pro-democracy demonstrations since the movement was started a little over a month ago by opposition members who want an end to the kingdom's 29-year ban on political parties.

Doctors and health workers staged a general strike to protest the imprisonment of medical professionals involved in the month-old movement for the establishment of a democratic system of political parties. About 95 percent stayed away from work. Most of the 300 private clinics in the Nepalese capital also remained closed to protest the arrest of two doctors, the Nepal Medical Association said.

Hospitals provided emergency services, but the medical strike virtually paralyzed other health services in the kingdom.

Desmond Tutu rails at 'trigger-happy' police

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Archbishop Desmond Tutu, intervening in a wave of violence across the country, appealed to President Frederik de Klerk Sunday to stop a "trigger-happy" police force in a bid to save stalled peace talks with the African National Congress.

In an endorsement of the ANC's decision Saturday to suspend a historic round of talks set with de Klerk's government for April 11, Tutu said Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok's failure to control his forces "has thrown our country into crisis." ANC leader Nelson Mandela said Sunday he would meet informally with de Klerk "in the near future" on the decision to suspend the talks, but reiterated de Klerk must take "effective measures to stop police brutality."

"Just as everyone was looking forward to obstacles to negotiation being removed, Mr. Vlok's men have derailed the process and thrown the country into gloom," Tutu said after visiting the township of Sebokeng.

After canceling a trip to the United States and returning to South Africa from Kenya within hours of the ANC announcement, Tutu said the shooting appeared to have been unprovoked.

He called on de Klerk to appoint an independent inquiry into the incident and raised the possibility that orders by black police to allow the demonstrators to disperse peacefully were reversed by white officers.

On Friday, the ANC canceled a joint peace rally by Mandela and Inkatha leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi scheduled for Monday.

Illegal club crackdown in full swing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police slammed shut 23 more illegal social clubs early Sunday hoping to prevent a repeat of the blaze that asphyxiated 87 young partiers last week at a Bronx social club.

The crackdown came as the bodies of 48 victims of the fire arrived in Honduras, the impoverished Central American country mazy had left in search of a better life in the United States.

Other bodies have been flown to Puerto Rico, Ecuador, and the Dominican Republic.

A special police task force has issued vacate orders to a total of 346 illicit clubs since a sweep by the city began last Sunday, said Officer Anthony Mazzola, a police spokesman.

Happy Land itself was issued a vacate order last fall for numerous fire code violations, but managed to stay open by falling through the cracks of regulatory red tape.

The Cuban immigrant accused of torching the club in a fit of jealous rage was indicted Friday on 174 counts of murder by a Bronx grand jury.

Julio Gonzalez, accused of the worst mass killing in U.S. history, was charged with 87 counts of second-degree murder for showing "depraved indifference to human life" and 87 counts of felony murder for arson.

The indictment also charged Gonzalez with two counts of arson, one count of attempted murder and one count of assault.

Relief workers, meanwhile, said the real tragedy of the fire has only now become apparent.

Many of the Honduran immigrants were sending money back home and those families will now have to make up for the loss of their primary breadwinners, said Ken Curtin, director of Disaster Services for the Red Cross of Greater New York.

"We're trying to deal with the special needs of people not only in the Bronx, but also those supporting families in Honduras," he said.

"There are children in Honduras, teenagers, who were planning to come to New York to be with their parents," Curtin said.

Time left, help available for filing income taxes

By Rob Coné
Staff Writer

If you've been putting off filing your Illinois or federal income taxes, there's still a couple of weeks left before the April 16 deadline.

The Illinois Department of Revenue has once again extended its hours to help those taxpayers flirting with the filing deadline.

Persons who need assistance with their state income tax returns can call toll free 1-800-732-8866 or visit any Department of Revenue office. Toll-free assistance will be available:

- Today-April 6 from 7:30 a.m. until 6 p.m.
- April 9-13 from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.
- April 14 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.
- April 16 from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Help can also be obtained by calling (217) 782-3365.

Walk-in assistance at the Willard Ice Building in Springfield will be available from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m., April 13 and 16 and April 14 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Illinois taxpayers can inquire about their current taxes by calling toll-free 1-800-624-2459.

The Internal Revenue Service has a special tax form available for those who aren't able to file their federal income taxes before the deadline.

To get a four-month extension for filing your 1040 or 1040A, fill out and mail in a Form 4868 by this year's deadline.

However, the IRS says, filing the extension form does not give you extra time for paying owed taxes and payment of any taxes due must be included with the extension form.

According to the IRS, you will owe interest on any taxes paid after April 16.

Filing a Form 4868 and mailing it by April 16, says the IRS, will help you avoid the much larger filing penalty that can amount to as much as 25 percent of the unpaid tax.

Six finalists chosen at University for Student Employee of the Year

By Dale Walker
Staff Writer

Six finalists have been chosen. One will be named SIU-C Student Employee of the Year at an awards ceremony at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center.

The competition is part of National Student Employment Week which runs from Sunday to Saturday.

The student employee, chosen from over 5,000 at SIU-C, can go on to represent SIU-C at state, regional and possibly national competition. Janet Finnerty, public information specialist at the Financial Aid Office, said,

Student employees were nominated by SIU-C fiscal officers. The criteria students are evaluated on are reliability, quality of work, initiative, professionalism and uniqueness of contribution, Finnerty said.

The finalists are Cary L. O'Dell, from the Department of Radio-Television, Tim Daiber, Department of Animal Science, Food and Nutrition, University Farms-Horse Center, Ramona Morris, College of Education, Herberto Santana, Center for English as a Second Language, Laura Israel, Department of Physiology and Michael Pence, Department of Physiology, Finnerty said.

SIU-C has one one of the largest student work programs in the country, she said. There are student workers in every department at SIU-C.

"National Student Employment Week is an opportunity to say a special thanks to the student workers for all their hard work and determination," Finnerty said.

The selection committee is made up of SIU-C Financial Aid Office staff persons, Finnerty said. The winner of the SIU-C competition could compete at the state competition for a certificate and a $50 savings bond. The award at the regional level is a plaque and a $200 savings bond. The national award has not yet been determined, Finnerty said.

Statewide tuition freeze topic of ISA conference

By Richard Hund
Staff Writer

Student representatives from SIU-C and the Illinois Student Association will discuss the strategy for a 1991 statewide tuition freeze at 8:30 a.m. today in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

"We want to debunk the myths of how the tuition freeze would have negative effects on the University," Brian Monahan, field director of ISA, said.

He called the freeze "more than justified" because of the two-year income tax increase installed last year.

"Tuition is going up much faster than the student is able to pay," he said. "More than 50 percent of the state looks to students as a source of income."

ISA contends the cost of tuition and fees has risen more quickly than inflation, the Consumer Price Index and Higher Education Price Index.

Average tuition and fees have more than tripled in the last 10 years at Illinois' 12 public universities, ISA contends.

The mean-weighted average for tuition and fees in 1979 at the state's 12 public universities was $750. The figure in 1989 was $2,222, Monahan said.

Monahan said his group is not calling for a tuition freeze at the state's two-year schools, where he said tuition increases had been more gradual.

The largest tuition and fee increase between 1980 and 1990 was at the University of Illinois-Champaign, where tuition rose from $634 to $2,070 for freshmen and sophomores, and to $2,316 for juniors and seniors, Monahan said.

The smallest increase was at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where undergraduate tuition and fees climbed from $567 to $1,461.

Student Trustee Bill Hall said he would ask the General Assembly, which has the ability to set tuition levels through legislation, and citizens to support a tuition freeze. He also will ask for support of the Illinois Board of Higher Education's recommended budget to Gov. James Thompson and the General Assembly.

Charlie Ramsey, Graduate and Professional Student Council president, said he will show concern for the possibility of large tuition increases at law and medical schools.

Other speakers will include a representative from the office of State Rep. Larry Woolard, D-Cartersville, and Lisa Sproule, vice-president of Undergraduate Student Government.

ISA, representing about 200,000 students at seven of the state's public universities and at four two-year colleges, has scheduled eight news conferences across the state Monday on the tuition freeze.

United Press International contributed to this report.

Thompson to visit museum; will view remains of Indians

LEWISTOWN (UPI) — Gov. James R. Thompson will walk the halls of a western Illinois museum for the first time in his 13 years in office, but the drawing card that prompted the visit — an Indian burial exhibit — may close after the smoke clears.

Thompson has scheduled a visit to the Dickson Mounds Museum for Monday to view the burial mound of 234 pre-Columbian Indians believed to be the only U.S. museum where human remains are still on public view. The action comes about six weeks after Thompson originally said he would see the display firsthand before making a final decision on whether to close it.

Aides have said the governor's tight schedule has delayed the visit, not politics.

Opponents and advocates of the closing have said they also will travel to the museum to make a showing and answer the governor's questions.

Men's tennis splits a pair of matches

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The SIU-C men's tennis team (5-10) split a pair of matches this weekend as it played host to the Saluki Invitational at the SIU-C tennis courts.

Iowa State (9-5) took a 5-4 beating from the Salukis in an early Sunday match.

Junior Joe Demeterco, at No. 2 singles, (4-6, 6-4, 6-1), freshman Yan Lerval at No. 4 singles (2-6, 7-6, 6-3) and No. 5 senior George Hime (6-3, 5-7, 6-4) won their singles matches over their Iowa State opponents.

Freshman John Brown and Hime at No. 2 doubles teamed to win their match in three sets 6-7, 7-6, 6-1, as did Demeterco and freshman Tim Derowin at No. 3 doubles, 7-5, 6-4.

"We had beaten them earlier in the fall and I wasn't real sure how we would do against them since we haven't played in two weeks," SIU-C coach Dick LeFevre said.

The Salukis were upset by Southwest Missouri State (8-6) 5-4 Saturday morning. After defeating Southwest Missouri State earlier in the fall season in Springfield Mo., the Dawgs dropped four singles matches in the losing battle.

Senior Mickey Maule at No. 1 singles, and Lerval won their singles matches and also teamed to defeat their doubles opponents.

Demeterco and Derowin, at No. 3 doubles, also were victorious in their doubles' efforts.

"We didn't play well at all against Southwest Missouri," LeFevre said.

Women's tennis loses, winning streak halted

By Peter Zalewski
Staff Writer

All good things must end. The women's tennis team lost for the first time since Feb. 10, ending a streak of nine straight victories. The Salukis are 11-2 for the spring season and 18-5 overall.

Coach Judy Auld's team lost to the University of Arkansas-Little Rock, 5-1. The doubles teams did not even compete because of the outcome of the singles matches.

An optimistic Auld said the loss actually played in the team's favor, making the players aware of their weaknesses.

Lori Gallagher was the only bright spot for the Salukis. She won in straight sets 6-3, 6-1.

"The scores of the matches were better than the final results," Auld said, "but the team was a little rusty."

The Salukis entered Saturday's match against Memphis State without No. 2 player Missy Jeffrey.

A shoulder problem is restricting Jeffrey's serve, Auld said. She attributed the problem to overusing the shoulder in practice during spring break.

The No. 2 doubles team is 12-2 during the spring season and the No. 3 team is 13-1.

Every player moved up one position to take over for Jeffrey.

Wendy Varnum playing in the No. 2 spot and won in straight sets 7-6, 6-1.

It was good for the players to win the match without Jeffrey, Auld said. She said the team would have to take every match a step at a time.

The No. 2 doubles team of Varnum and Gallagher won in straight sets 6-2, 6-4. The No. 3 team of Beth Boardman and Michele Toye also won in straight sets 6-1, 6-2.

The No. 2 team is now 12-2 for the spring while the No. 3 team is 13-1.

Auld said the doubles play would be very significant in all conference matches. She said the doubles teams played outstanding.

Softball wins invitational at Missouri

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The Saluki softball team upset three nationally ranked teams to win the Mizzou Invitational this weekend in Columbia, Mo.

The Salukis defeated Missouri, No. 12 in the nation, 1-0 in the championship game Sunday afternoon to take the title.

Invitational Most Valuable Player, Jennifer Brown, threw a one hit shutout to lead the Dawgs. SIU-C scored its only run in the first inning, but it was enough to hold off the Lady Tigers.

The Salukis slapped five hits and committed one error.

SIU-C improved its record to 15-6, while Missouri dropped to 19-3.

To get to the championship game the Salukis upset Big Ten powerhouse Indiana, ranked 13th in the country, 6-5 in nine innings.

In the top half of the ninth, junior Shannon Taylor led off with a double. She was sacrificed to third and then scored on a ground out by junior Mary Jo Fimbach.

"Shannon did a beautiful job of running the bases," SIU-C coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "She waited until the fielder threw the ball to first and then took off...it was a very heads-up play."

Freshman Angie Mick, in her first outing of the spring, relieved junior Lisa Robinson and sophomore Dede Darnell to record the win. The Salukis had 13 hits and committed no errors in the contest.

In Saturday's round robin tournament, the Salukis lost to Indiana 5-1 in the opening game. They beat Louisiana Tech 2-1 and lost to Missouri 3-0 in the nightcap.

Darnell, 7-1 on the spring season, picked up the win against Louisiana Tech.

"Defensively, we're going to keep it real simple — just line up and play real hard," Smith said. "We're doing some experimentation there with the defensive alignments."

The 6-foot-five, 245 pound Hochertz said he was waiting for the opportunity to get back on the field after a dormant winter. He said the fighting is fierce on the field but not so bad that it spills over after practice.

"The guys are really getting after it," Hochertz said. "The freshman are working hard to try and get into the rotation. Everybody wants to play next year. After you're done with contact drills, then you slow it down a little bit and go over what you did with the position coach."

Preparation for the fall began as soon as the 1989 season ended.

"We started lifting weights, running a little bit," Hochertz said. "Over Christmas break it carried through. A lot of people were working out on their own. It was a good winter program. Everybody made a lot of gains."

The first couple of days of spring practice involved a lot of retaching.

"After November, your technique is not as fine-tuned as well as it was during the fall," Hochertz said. "Next week it will start sharpening up a little bit. Everyone is anxious to find out where they're at compared to last to last year."

Quarterback Scott Gabbert started five games last season, set five offensive records, and is looking forward to making an impact again this fall. The 6-3, 176 pound junior looked upon spring practice as an opportunity to fine tune some of Smith's offensive schemes.

The biggest difference between spring football this year compared to last is that Smith is entering his second season as head coach, Gabbert said. The veterans are more comfortable with the offensive and defensive schemes, giving them an opportunity to improve upon what they learned from scratch last year.

"Mentally we're starting out with almost a new beginning," Gabbert said. "The coaches are making things simpler for all of our new guys to learn. I guess my part as a player from last year is to help out the younger guys learn the system."

"The less things I have to worry about as a quarterback, I can concentrate more on what I'm doing on the field and make sure everybody does their job," Gabbert said. "If I can do that, then we can be a more successful team."

Spring football ends with the Maroon-White scrimmage April 21 at McAndrew stadium.

"We're ready for spring football to finish up with a climax on the 21st. Everyone's ready for the big show," Hochertz said.

"They're doing everything we have asked them to do in the way of drills and effort," Smith said. "We're trying to do the same thing for them in preparation and effort."

Women's track whips on foes at unscored Calhoun Relays

By Peter Zalewski
Staff Writer

The dominance of the women's track and field team was shown Saturday at the Lee Calhoun Relays.

Coach Don DeNoon took his team to Western Illinois to compete in its first outdoor relay.

The Salukis captured 12 of the 19 events while establishing four meet records in the non-scored meet.

The quartet of Theresa Lyles,

Angie Nunn, Crystalla Constantinou and Nacolia Moore won the 4 x 200 meter relay. The team set a meet record with its time of 1 minute 40.37 seconds.

"A good attitude helped us get off to a early start," DeNoon said. Jamie Dashner set a meet record by winning the javelin event with a throw of 130 feet, 7 inches.

"We were hungry for competition and we ate it up," DeNoon said.

game situation." "It takes an eternity to play the last three minutes of the ball game," he said.

Steitz said potential cures for that include cutting back on the number of timeouts, stopping the clock after each basket in the final two minutes or increasing the penalty for fouls.

Steitz also issues an annual survey in which coaches from all levels, referees, administrators and media reply. Those results show that respondents want to keep the lane at its current shape and size and a recommendation that the shot clock only be reset after the ball hits the rim.
