Major Campus Parking Changes Recommended

By Nick Harder

Recommendations for parking and registration fee increases and major parking policy changes have been submitted to SIU Carbondale campus Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar by the University Vehicle Traffic and Parking committee. The committee issued the report following the receipt of numerous complaints of vehicle owners associated with the University.

After MacVicar reviews the report, it will be sent to President Delyn W. Morris for his analysis. The committee's report will be introduced in the August 10 Board of Trustees' meeting along with any comments by Morris and possibly other administrators. Only parts of the recommendations need be approved by the Board. The University legal counsel is reportedly working on them.

In the proposals to gradually improve the SIU parking situation, faculty and staff members would be charged $125 per year to register and park their cars; red decals would cost $15 and basic registration fees, which would also include silver and orange stickers, would be hiked to $5. Present parking and registration fees are only $2 for all decal types. All vehicles must be registered whether or not they are parked on campus.

Though at least four types of decal colors would be issued, the University will basically classify only red and blue decals as the two major divisions.

A major policy change will permit students previously qualifying only for silver stickers to purchase red decals at the increased fee and park in lots closer to the heart of campus.

The committee's recommendations also prohibit parking on campus drives. Though parking on these drives is listed as illegal in bulletins on motor vehicle regulations, SIU Security Police were ordered in the fall of last year to permit limited parking by vehicles with blue decals.

During the past year, faculty, staff and some graduate students along with disabled students were the only persons granted blue decals and permitted to park in the more central location around the campus area.

Red decals were issued to other graduate students, married students and Carbondale residents satisfying the parking section's requirements. Lots limited to red decals were integrated with a few blue sticker lots and others located on the fringes of the inner campus area.

Silver and orange stickers were issued to all other students not covered in the red or blue sticker category and yet permitted by the parking section to register and lodge their vehicles in remote lots.

Dean of students Wilbur Mouton said that there would be a crackdown on the issuance of blue, disabled student decals. He said that reliable sources have informed him that a great many decals have been given to the L Grammy.

A sum of $26,000 was appropriated for the development of international and inter-cultural understandings, according to Mr. House, chairman of the Department of Music explained. "We are fortunate to have a specialist on our campus who is qualified to conduct our introductory course, emphasizing the concept of music as an aural phenomenon, in various cultural settings.

The instructor will be Mrs. Charlotte Fritsch, a graduate of Smith College, a master's degree graduate in ethnomusicology from Wesleyan College, and a Ph.D. candidate in anthropology at the University of New Mexico, specializing in the study of New Mexico's music and dance.

Working on Survey

Two June SIU forestry graduates are working on a forest survey at the Southern Forest Experiment Station, New Orleans, La. They are Gordon D. Smith and Samuel R. Resor of Oney.

Cole, while a student, spent five months in the fire control work with the U.S. Forest Service.

Resor was a construction foreman with the U.S. Forest Service during the summer of 1967 and worked with the Soil Conservation Service the previous summer.

Ethnomusicology Class To Be Offered in Fall

A course in ethnomusicology will be offered jointly by the Department of Music and Department of Anthropology at SIU's Carbondale Campus during the fall quarter.

"This subject is one of growing importance in the development of international and inter-cultural understandings," Robert J. House, chairman of the Department of Music explained. "We are fortunate to have a specialist on our campus who is qualified to conduct our introductory course, emphasizing the concept of music as an aural phenomenon, in various cultural settings.

The instructor will be Mrs. Charlotte Fritsch, a graduate of Smith College, a master's degree graduate in ethnomusicology from Wesleyan College, and a Ph.D. candidate in anthropology at the University of New Mexico, specializing in the study of New Mexico's music and dance.

Marvin Blickensstaff, prize-winning concert pianist, will be presented in a guest concert Aug. 19 at 8 p.m. in the Home Economics Building auditorium. The public is invited without charge.

Blickensstaff was one of the young artists recommended as a soloist for symphonies by the New York State Council on the Arts and was a finalist in the 1963 Art Auditions of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

He was recently selected for the Piano Teachers Congress of New York as the most outstanding performer to appear on its programs during the 1967-68 season.

A bachelor's graduate of Oberlin College with top honors, he completed the master of music degree at Indiana University, graduating "with highest distinction.

In 1959-60 he studied under a German government grant at the Frankfurt School of Music, and in 1964 received the Diploma du Concerts in an international piano competition in Lisbon.

During his current concert tour, Blickensstaff is giving concerts or participating in clinics in Minnesota, North Dakota, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan and Wisconsin as well as in Illinois. In addition to the SIU appearance, he is performing in Des Plaines, Peoria, Galeburg and Bloomington.

Litter Dumped at Hospital

The front lawn of Holden Hospital is rapidly becoming a garbage dump for empty cream containers and wrappers, with a resultant increase in flies and other insects which are attracted to the sticky remains.

This lawn, with its shade trees and grass, is one of the very few park-like areas in Carbondale. For many students and residents, it has become a quiet, cool place to sit and relax during the recent warm evenings.

A hospital administrator warned, however, that if persons continue to litter the lawn, a fence or at least "no trespassing" signs would have to be erected. He noted it was especially considerate of persons to expect the hospital grounds keeper to clean up their messes.

He added that the litter, debris, and insects create a definite health hazard for patients in the hospital.

It is interesting to note that many of the people who litter the area seem to be dressed in many aspects like American Indians, with beads, bells, moccasins, etc. Unfortunately, many of these indiginites camping on the hospital lawn do not act like real Indians, who prided themselves on their ability to preserve nature and to leave the earth the way they found it—CLEAN.

"Obnoxious" TKE's Apologize

To the Daily Egyptian:

The brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon would like to apologize to our fellow students and Dave Wilkinson for the "flagrant lack of respect" that we showed on the morning of July 23, 1968.

At this time, we would like to thank the hundreds of SIU students, faculty and staff that helped us to raise over $200 in order to help send Dave Wilkinson and two other wheel-chair athletes to Tel-Aviv in November in order that they might represent SIU at the Para-

Olympic Games.

What Kind of World?

By Robert H. Butchins

For many years I thought student attitudes were not of much importance. They would not last. The students could not gain the support of their elders or their contempor-araries. And they could not pass the torch on to their juniors.

The weakness of all youth movements, I thought, is that young people grow older. Before you know it things will say you can't trust anybody over 30 are 30 themselves.

So the apparent weakness of all student movements is that students graduate. Only in those countries in which student groups are part of political parties and are managed by them can they hope to be passed along.

Then they sacrifice their independence, as the Students for a Democratic Society found out in West Germany when they were dissolved by the Socialist Party.

But we may be living in a new day. Student movements may now be giving us an early warning of sentiments, ideas and convictions that, originating with the leaders of the younger generation, may become more and more widespread and that may lay the foundation of a new moral, intellectual and spiritual order.

Or, if this is too grandiose, let us say that the attitudes of students all over the world today are telling us that the ideals and practices of the industrial society, which have dominated the West for a century, and which have been adopted everywhere, will not be satisfactory to succeeding generations.

To state the proposition in its mildest form, students are living in a system that they believe is disintegrating. They are not interested in the objects of that system, which they see as production and consumption. Although they are not indifferent to material goods, they do not accept them as the aim of life.

What they want is a life, a style of life, appropriate to human beings. They see this as made possible for the first time by the influence that humanization and computerization can supply.

They have no very clear ideas about the style of life they want. But the central notion appears to be creativity—of the maximum development of every human being. Some of their experiments in this direction, especially those with drugs, I regard as deplorable. I believe the overwhelming majority of young people are now of the same opinion.

In form the modern university is largely preindustrial. Its organization and traditions originated in the Middle Ages.

In aim the modern university is industrial. It trains the technicians required by the industrial state.

But its students will live in a society that is postindustrial, a society that is beginning to take shape but that may be decades in the making.

University students everywhere are therefore dwelling in three worlds: one that is gone, one that is going and one that is struggling to be born.

People subjected to such tentions deserve sympathetic understanding. That is obvious enough.

What is not so obvious, but is more important, is that the future of all of us may depend on the effort of the younger generation to formulate the ideals and institutions of the postindustrial age.

Role of SIU Probed
By Administrators

Push a button and 108 lights flash on, Push another button and the homesteads of the foreign students at SIU burst into light. Push more buttons and the extent of SIU's involvement in international education comes to light on the display panel in University Center by the International Services Division.

The 108 lights pinpoint the countries where SIU's student body members have taught. The homes of foreign students are located in 83 countries. SIU's participation in international education is part of a country-wide program which has mushroomed during the past 20 years.

In some cases, 'foreign countries' have been a controversial over the goals, hopes and aspirations for international education.

William J. McKeefery, dean of Academic Affairs on the Carbondale campus, believes international education should bring understanding to this country's students about other peoples of the world, and provide a degree of academic freedom for students. International education "is meant to make the University aware of the way other people live, to make it an international one, where one can take courses in any country he is interested in," said McKeefery, who is also acting dean of International Services on the Carbondale campus.

Dave Wantling, acting dean of the Education Division, said the international education ought to be concentrated in undeveloped countries to help the less fortunate.

Straddling the path between Wantling's and McKeefery's views, Oliver J. Caldwell, dean of International Services Division, said the purpose of international education is "to instill an awareness of morality" among the peoples being educated, "to instill special skills" among the underprivileged, and to promote understanding between all countries, developed or undeveloped.

People don't realize this year's per capita income for the United States will be about $3,000, while 40 percent of the world's population will have a per capita income of only $50.

Turning to the question of whether understanding between nations of different ideologies should be promoted by international education, Caldwell said, "Education across cultural boundaries makes it possible for people to understand and to know the actions of other people. We don't like to do that."

"It is an 'Alice in Wonderland' education that ignores one-fourth of mainland China. Yet, during the past 10 years, not more than five persons got their Ph.D.'s in Chinese at SIU...." Concording with Caldwell, McKeefery said that "universities are largely Western. We want them to learn about other cultures."

The views of McKeefery, Wantling, and Caldwell, whether merging into one another or directly opposing each other, are distinctly different, and an agreement on the goals is not currently needed.

Perhaps an agreement on these goals can come from the reorganization. One of the goals is an extension of the reorganization that has been going on since the ISD's creation in 1964.

Caldwell, McKeefery, Wantling and Alfred June, assistant vice president for Student and Area Services, make up a task force for the reorganization.

A Reorganization
Task Force Formed

The group has been instructed to report on the international dimensions of the University, develop new proposals for further involvement of SIU in international education, and to evaluate the ISD organization and international education programs on the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

The task force is to report to Ralph Ruffner, vice president for Student and Area Services, in September.

The goals of international education, as formulated by the International Council on Education's Commission on International Education, might well serve as a guide for the task force in crystallizing ISD's goals.

In a statement issued in April, the council said that international education ought to be a two-way-street; it ought to include both the teaching of skills and the promotion of understanding between countries, not by countries.

While the council's goals are intended to further the common interests of all men, they are also aimed at keeping politics out of international education.

The creation of the International Studies Institute in the United States Office of Education to centralize the government's efforts in international education was announced in March.

While the objectives of international education seem to be in a state of confusion, the ideology is clearly rooted in the belief that men can and should be perfected.

All Mankind Viewed
As Basically Good

"If man is not perfectable, we've had it," Caldwell.

"If you want to perfect man, you cannot destroy the institution (education) which is perhaps the only hope for avoiding catastrophe," Caldwell added.

Wantling said, "Not only has the university the right, but the deep obligation to the state and this country to try to perfect man through international education."

McKeefery's confidence in the theories of international education is demonstrated by the fact that he is sending his daughter to a foreign country for the summer.

"If you believe man is worth saving, you've got to fight to save him. You have to check your biases and prejudices," he said.

Believing that international education holds the key for world peace and the avoidance of World War III, Caldwell said, "That's precisely why I spent the last 23 years in the area of international education."

SIU Leader in International Study

SIU is one of the leading universities in the field of international education, according to officials of International Services Division.

The International commitment of SIU is fast becoming equal to or greater than that of any other university in the United States. Michigan State has been the leader in the past but SIU is catching up, Oliver J. Caldwell, dean of International Services Division, said.

William J. McKeefery, dean of Academic Affairs on the Carbondale campus, said, "We have a good many students here, about 800. I'd have to say we are doing about as much in our international program as a majority of the other universities across the nation. Some do more, some do less."

Caldwell said 700 faculty members have served overseas and that some 300 courses with emphasis on more than one culture are offered on campus.

At a meeting in Washington, D.C., Graham Sullivan, Department Commissioner of Education, was impressed with what he heard about the polycultural education programs at SIU.

Clarence Hendershot, assistant dean and director of International Students Service, said he expects the number of foreign students to reach 1,000 next year.

Dave Wantling, acting dean of the Education Division, said SIU has four AID contracts and one Ford Motor Company contract.

The most recent growth in ISD's program has been the creation of Intercla, an undergraduate program which began in January.

During the winter and spring quarters, anthropology, geography, economics, and government with emphasis on Asia, Africa, Latin America were offered.

This summer, courses in philosophy and the humanities, plus summer study abroad in such countries as England, Germany, Mexico, Italy, Russia, Vietnam, Nepal, Afghanistan, Nigeria, India, Zambia, Japan, and countries in South America were taught.

Housing Board Meets
To Discuss Complaint

Carbondale's Fair Housing Board met Tuesday night to discuss a charge filed by a student against a former manager of an off-campus dormitory.

Roger Fortune, a junior from Brooklyn, N.Y., filed formal complaints last spring under Carbondale's 1967 fair housing ordinance against Carl Alexander, then manager of Imperial West Dormitory, and the owner, Jerome A. Robinson and Associates of Springfield. The charges against Robinson were later dropped.

L.I. Bresheev Reported Ill
During Czech-USSR Parley

PRAGUE (AP) — Leonid I. Bresheev was reported mildly ill and absent from the closing session Wednesday of the summit talks in which his Soviet delegation sought to swing Czechoslovakia back from its liberal course to orthodoxy communism.

There was no immediate announcement of results of the conference between the Russians and their recallable allies. Some sources said the meeting had shown "a certain softening" in the Soviet position.

The nature of Bresheev's illness was not disclosed. Informants said, however, they understood it was nothing serious. A report in Vienna, capital of neighboring Austria, said he had suffered a spell of faintness.

City Receives Spillway Bid, Repair Plans

The Carbondale City Council has accepted a low bid of $8,861.65 from Edgar Stephens and Sons, Inc., for repairs of the Carbondale reservoir spillway.

The only other bid for constructing a wall to eliminate undercasing was submitted by Pool Construction Company in the amount of $9,830.00, according to the Public Works Department.

Other Council action Tuesday included approval of the proposed motor fund for the tax year budget at $409,500 for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Councilman William Eaton voted against the proposed budget on the basis of the priority given street improvements.

Projects of importance by B. J. Schwengman, director of public works, were:

1. Widening Wall Street from Freeman to Park.
2. Rehabilitation of Sycamore from Oak­land Avenue west to Illinois Ave. 13. Wash­ington from Monroe to Grand Marion from Fisher to College and College from Wash­ington to Illinois Avenue.
3. Construction of Sunset Drive from Em­erald Lane to Parrish Lane.
4. Completion of traffic signals.
5. Completion of street bond issue pro­gram—Walnut Street railroad crossing in particular.

Eaton said he believed the motor fuel tax monies should be used for major street con­struction rather than improvements.

He said he agreed with Council members that the improvements are needed but thought it "more important to build major streets" to alleviate the city's traffic congestion.

Earlier the Council authorized engineering of part of Sunset Drive between Gray Meadows and Parrish Avenue subdivisions by J. T. Blankenship and Associates of Mur­physboro.

The question of cost-sharing by the city and property owners in the area was referred to the Board of Local Improvements upon its formation.

Fee Hike In Recommendations

The committee further rec­ommended that fees be increased to $45 and $25 dollars per year to $60 and $35 in 1970-71 for blue and red decals respectively.

There is a concern that this fee hike will also be inaugurated this fall or sooner if installation of the meters can be speedily achieved and the commit­tee's recommendations can be quickly approved, Mouton said.

Metered lots will include the library and administrative building blue decal parking areas and the Technology Building parking lot, a red and blue decal area.

The library lot for will be metered a maximum of three hours. The agricultural and technology lots would re­ceive from 15 to 20 meters each for faculty, staff and visitors needing only a park for short periods. According to Mouton, it was his under­standing that the library lot will be open to any­one.

All new blue stickers sold after this fall quarter begins will be issued at a ratio of one-and-one-half per parking space. The committee felt this policy would guarantee parking for the above decals whereas, since not all of them would be expected on campus at any one time and eliminate the need for exten­sive campus drive parking.

According to an administra­tive officer who wished to re­main unnamed, the Board of Trustees must then approve the fee hikes and policy changes submitted by Morrisey. This approval, he said, was more a perfunctory action since the recommendations came from Morrisey and were submitted after careful study.

The University will require an additional 80 acres of parking areas by 1975, according to a planning consultant for EUR Southern has about 40 acres in campus lots now.

The administration official said other administrators who were involved in the parking discussions argued strongly for immediate hikes of at least $60 or more. The hope of these administrators was that the University could obtain enough funds quickly this way to participate on a 50-50 con­tribution basis with the Illinois Building Authority for con­struction of a 224-car underground parking garage. Garage re­served parking spaces would be sold at $125 per year.

The vote of the committee issuing the recommendations was reportedly 11 favoring them, one against.

Nixon Calls for Crusade on Crime

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon called for a "militant crusade against crime" Wednesday and two other big GOP guns, Ronald Reagan and John V. Lindsay, joined in a bombardment of the administration's anti-crime record.

The first vice president sent a special message to the Republican Platform Committee hearings declaring that the party has a duty to "re-establish domestic peace—to restore freedom from fear to the American people.

Neither the poor nor the rich are above the law, Nixon added, saying: "Poverty, despair, and crime cannot be allowed to continue or justify violence or crime or lawlessness ."

The day's hearings underscored some predictions that crime in the nation's streets may be made the GOP's biggest campaign issue, outranking Vietnam and poverty.

New York's Mayor Lindsay hit at crime in his personal platform hearing appearance. Gov. Reagan of California hit it even harder—and got the biggest laugh of the preconvention hearings.

Reagan was greeted with equal cheers and handclapping by some 150 supporter of the young women—as he entered the lobby of the plush Fontainebleau hotel. He is finally a favorite son candidate, his Cheeroers had Reagan.

Just Doing His Job

KANSAS CITY — President Johnson's son-in-law was reported to be taking the same chances as any Marine in Vietnam—ducking enemy fire and dodging for cover against ambush and grabbing anything he could get his hands on.

"He's a good leader, trying to do his job like the rest of us," one Marine for any special treatment, Marine Capt. Richard Cavagnol of suburban Kansas City, who is enlisting for peace with love and sympathy for the condition of the ghettos where violence and hatred are bred.

Fulbright Survives Arkansas Primary

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Sen. J. W. Fulbright survived his sternest election test in 24 years in Tuesday's Arkansas primaries but perhaps faces another stronger challenge in November against a Republican who has the all-out backing of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's organization.

Fulbright polled about 53 per cent of the vote against three Democratic foes who accused him of giving aid and comfort to the enemy because of his outspoken opposition to U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

He will be challenged in the Nov. 5 general election by Charles T. Bernard, 40, a wealthy farmer and congressman of Earle, who was unopposed for the GOP nomination.

Rockefeller, the state's first GOP governor since Reconstruction, won renomination easily over Sidney Roberts of Little Rock.

Pope Asks Obediance of Birth Edict

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Paul VI, in an attempt to heal anguish in his Church, pleaded Wednesday for Roman Catholics to understand and obey his encyclical regarding the ban on artificial methods of birth control.

A statement issued at his summer palace was the first comment made since he issued his encyclical letter "Humanae Vitae," on Monday.

The knowledge of our grave responsibility caused us no small suffering," he said. "We were guided by the feeling of charity, of pastoral concern for married Christians," his statement continued. "For this reason, we gave to the chief position in marriage, and added pastoral instructions to the doctrinal teaching ."

The Pope said he hoped his document will be accepted for its truth and "above all, that Christians married couples will understand its teaching but the manifestation of their trust ."

The 70-year-old pontiff later told a general audience that his encyclical was the most agonizing decision of his five-year reign.

As in the 33-page encyclical, Pope Paul left the door open for future proclamations of the Church on the matter.

Counseling and Testing Center Handles Diversified Problems

By Gale Okey

"People have two opposing misconceptions about us," said Clayton Ladd, director of the Counseling and Testing Center.

"On one extreme are the people who think that we only provide for the severely disturbed, that their own problems may be too small or insignificant to bother us with. On the other extreme are those who think we deal only with minor or vocational-educational problems, that if they have a serious problem only a psychiatrist or an analyst is equipped to deal with it. In this case counseling is an unfortunate label.

"Ladd stressed that the Center's staff is comprised of a diversified enough to handle any kind of psychological problem, small or large.

"The center, in Washington Squares A and B, is composed of two basic types of counseling services.

"One is vocational-educational, which is rather short-term and consists of three to five hours of testing and discussion of the results. The test results act as a stimulus for thought and discussion.

"The counselor does not simply tell the student what kind of work he should do but, in advising him, takes into account the student's abilities, past achievements, interests, values, interpersonal needs and motivation. The counselor also makes the student aware of facts concerning the type of work he is considering and the world of work in general.

"We deal with a person's value judgments, philosophy of life and basic needs, in terms of asking him if the type of work he is considering satisfies his needs," Dr. Ladd said. "The second type of service is personal. This consists of either individual psychotherapy to help the student understand his wishes and motives, or one of the new behavior therapies, such as operant conditioning or desensitization. Therapy for personal, emotional, or social problems may be done in a specialized group, such as a group of persons with difficulties interacting socially.

"Although some students might hesitate to get involved in something which seems time consuming, Mr. Ladd said that with some of the newer methods, such as desensitization, a substantial improvement can frequently be accomplished in five to fifteen one-hour sessions.

"Of the 1,500 to 2,000 who come for counseling each year, more than half are short-term contacts. An average length of contact is six to eight sessions.

"About half come for vocational-educational and half for personal counseling. The center has between 15 and 15 counselors available, and there are no waiting lists. One may simply walk into the Counseling Center, see an intake counselor and immediately be given an appointment within a few days with an appropriate counselor.

"A common concern of the students who visit the center and of the staff of the center is confidentiality," Dr. Ladd stressed that information received in counseling sessions is not released to anyone without written permission of the student involved.

"It has been remarkable growth of the center. In the last six years, mainly in the expansion of services, but that there is still a need for more research.

"Dr. Ladd added that he had been talking only about the counseling half of the center. "The testing would be a whole different story," he cautioned.

"The Counseling and Testing Center staff wants to not only apply knowledge but believes we can help many people—but also to train others and acquire new knowledge through research. We at least have an obligation to clearly demonstrate that our treatment is helpful," Dr. Ladd said.

Dennis Immel and Janice Owen rehearse their roles for the Summer Music Theater Company’s upcoming production of “West Side Story.” The popular musical, based on a book by Arthur Laurents, will be presented Friday-Sunday, Aug. 2-4 and Aug. 9-11. The fourth summer production of the music-theater company, “West Side Story,” will be presented in Huckleberry Auditorium in the Agriculture Building. Tickets for the production are on sale at the Information Desk in the University Center or may be obtained at the Communication Building box office. The first three musicals will return for an August engagement following “West Side Story.”

Hudgens Accepts New Edwardsville Position

Bill D. Hudgens, director of business services at SIU’s Carbondale campus, has been named chief business services officer at the Edwardsville campus. He succeeded James F. Mercal who has been named director of finance.

Edwardsville Chancellor John Rendleman said Mercal is uniquely qualified for the new position and that Hudgens is particularly experienced in directing the business service activities of a large campus.

Hudgens, a Carbondale native, will assume his new duties in August. A 1948 graduate of SIU, Hudgens received a bachelor of laws degree at Washington University, St. Louis. Before joining the SIU staff in 1962 he served for nine years as vice president and manager of Mercantile Mortgage Co., in Carbondale. Hudgens came to SIU as assistant director of Auxiliary and Service Enterprises and was named director in 1963. His promotion to director of the Services Division was in 1965.

SIU Student Has Magazine Article Printed

Craig S. Tatar, an SIU senior, has had an article printed in the July, 1968, issue of Mental Hygiene magazine published by the National Association for Mental Health. Tatar, a Chicago resident who is now living at 408 1/2 E. College, Carbondale, is majoring in psychology and will graduate from SIU in August.

Tatar wrote this article entitled, "The Marriage Counselor-A Neglected Member of the Psychotherapy Team," while working as a psychiatric aide at the Institute for Psychosomatic and Psychiatric Research and Training in Chicago.

The article is "a critique of the psychotherapy team in mental hospitals in general. It proposes a solution to the problem of the neglected spouse of the mental patient," said Tatar.

The article was written as a class requirement for a marriage counseling course at Northern Illinois University.

"It took a long time to think through the idea but not very long to put it down on paper," Tatar said.

This is the second article Tatar has had published. The first was entitled, "The Marriage Counselor A Member of the Psychotherapeutic Team."

Tatar has submitted another article for publication entitled "Psychology-A Neglected Instructional Unit of Illinois Secondary Schools." He conducted research for the article under Clarence D. Sanford, chairman of the Department of Secondary Education at SIU.

Carbondale Seeks Trading Stamps For Station Wagon

Trading stamps are being sought to purchase a station wagon for use in an unusual community project. One thousand Top Value stamp books are needed to acquire a station wagon. The station wagon is to be given to the Jackson-Williamson Community Action Agency to help meet emergency transportation needs of Carbondale residents.

The station wagon will make transportation available to any Carbondale resident needing to go to the clinic or to other doctor's and dentist's offices, to the rehabilitation center, for job interviews and similar purposes, according to the Jackson-Williamson Community Action Agency.

The undertaking is a community project sponsored by the Church Women United in Carbondale. Residents may help obtain the vehicle by giving Top Value stamp books to church women in any of the 15 churches which are members of the Church Women United in Carbondale. Book donations can also be made to Mrs. Roy Grisbel, who lives at 505 Orchard Drive (457-2232).

Many business establishments are cooperating in the project by matching stamps which their customers place in boxes provided at their stores, or by making special stamp contributions.
Handicapped Participate in Phys Ed

By Dave Palermo

David Meador pulled back on the bow and sent the arrow flying—infines above the target about 50 feet away. His next arrow missed the bull’s-eye. No bad shooting—especially when you consider that he’s totally blind.

Meador is enrolled in a recreation class at the University of Georgia and consists of students not able to participate in the regular physical education program.

“He’s also a good softball pitcher,” said Meador’s teammate, who plays golf well.

Southern has one of the finest physical education programs for the physically handicapped.

All students, regardless of physical condition, are required to take a year of physical education courses.

EdwardShea, chairman of the Department of Men’s Physical Education, told a reporter that all students should be treated equally, and the disabled student should not be deprived from a complete physical (as well as mental) education.

The philosophy of the department is that we have an obligation to educate all students, and that includes the handicapped. There has been a national movement, person as an equal.

Spoontells us that one great thing about SU is the University’s policy to educate the whole person—physically as well as mentally—be continued, we have found that the handicapped students are excused from our physical education program, and then it’s only because their physician requested it.

Students are enrolled in restricted physical education courses are referred to the University Health Service where recommendations and adaptations for student’s activity are made. These students then are scheduled for treatment at the physical therapy clinic where Norman Greene and Ted Okita, SU physical therapists, make cross-appointments.

Southern’s physical education programs consist of activities as golf, croquet, modified softball and sping-casting in the summer months, bowling, weightlifting table tennis, and corrective exercises during the winter months.

Courses in restricted physical education are informal. Activities meet the interests of the students and primarily are skills with carry-over value: that the student can continue after college and into other classes.

Some students are released into already-existing programs such as bowling, swimming, and golf.

The course is like any other class in physical education and the students learn as well have a good time.

“It’s not just for fun,” Greene said. “We try to get from them some activity. It was just fun they wouldn’t learn anything. Many of these students have never been able to compete with other people. Few high schools have such adapted physical education programs and the handicapped students just sit in study halls.

Southern’s physical education program is one of the best in the country. The classes have an average enrollment of 30 to 40 students with disabilities ranging from minor ortho-pedic problems to wheel chair bound.

“What makes Southern’s physical education program

University Center Alley Seeks Summer Bowling Enthusiasts

By Barb Leebens

The temperature outside soars, but inside it’s cool. There isn’t the usual sound of balls rolling down the lane or pins smacking together as they fall. The University Center bowling alley is completely deserted.

"The bowlers in the summer are cut in half," John D’Orazio, an attendant at the desk, said. "I suppose the reason is that there are fewer students enrolled in summer school and more outside activities take away the bowlers.

The bowling business picks up in the morning and on weekends. In the morning three instructional classes are scheduled and it “keeps the place hopping for awhile.” Bowling really perks up on the weekends because of dates and more free time.

D’Orazio has noticed four specific types of bowlers during his employment at the bowling alley. First, there is the regular bowler who comes once or twice a week to improve his bowling. Second is the date bowler who brings his date to bowl before or after a show. Third, the time-killing bowler, who wants to spend his in-between class time in the bowling alley. Finally, the married couple (a lot of the teachers who have been attending the eight week sessions of summer school) bring their children to come and relax and have a good time.

"I like my job very much as I like to watch people bowl and have a good time," D’Orazio said. "We have 16 alleys and lots of room for everyone to bowl!"

D’Orazio and 15 others work in three-hour shifts. Bill Pontrello is the student day manager and Henry Vallani is the general manager.

There are several rules for everyone to follow. One, socks must be worn with all university rented shoes. Two, people are asked not to put their feet on the furniture. Three, ball rolling is not appreciated. Four, good conduct is called for at all times.

In the summer there is a four-team league made up of the Vanguard, Vive Five, US, and the Pinspothers. In the fall the leagues increase two or three times, according to D’Orazio.

Instruction is offered through both the men’s and women’s Department of Physical Education. No instruction is offered through the bowling alley.

"I’d like to see more people come in and make use of the bowling facilities," D’Orazio added. "All you need is your student ID and this summer’s fee statement. It’s cool in here and very relaxing."

Edwards, Schofield Beef Up Cardinals

NEW YORK (AP) — It’s what up front that counts with the St. Louis Cardinals, but the National League’s 1967 runaway winners are even better this season because of what comes next.

Manager Red Schoendienst has been able to play some of his regulars less and still enjoy it more because he now has catcher Johnny Edwards and infielder Dick Schofield. Edwards, 30, acquired after two terrible years in Cincinnati, has filled in for Tim McCarver by hitting .266 with 20 runs batted in only 141 times at bat. He also is second on the club in game-winning hits with eight.

Schofield, no ball of fire his last four years with four different clubs, has hit .256 while spelling Dal Maxvill and Julian Javier.

The pair replaced catcher John Romano, who hit .121 with two RBIs behind McCarver, and Ed Bressoud, who hit .134 with one RBI as the utility infielder.

With almost the same starting line-up as last season’s world champions, Edwards and Schofield have supplied that extra from the bench and the Cardinals are speeding even faster toward another pennant.
