Eagleton dropped from Demo ticket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern said Monday night that Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton was stepping down as his vice presidential running mate. McGovern made the announcement in a joint news conference following three hours of closed meetings between the two senators in an anteroom off the Senate floor.

McGovern said the decision was reached because controversy over Eagleton's past history of psychiatric treatment was diverting public attention from campaign issues.

The presidential nominee said nothing about a possible successor to Eagleton for the No. 2 spot on the party's national ticket.

It would be up to the Democratic National Convention to formally name a new nominee even if McGovern expresses a preference.

McGovern said he was fully satisfied with Eagleton's health after conversations with the Missouri senator's doctors and work with him since the Democratic National Convention nominated both candidates.

Eagleton followed McGovern with a brief statement saying he would submit his withdrawal formally to the party Tuesday morning. He vowed to continue in public life despite the furor which has dogged him for the past seven days.

Eagleton's 'disclosure last Tuesday that he had been hospitalized in 1964 and 1966 for nervous exhaustion and fatigue kicked off the week of discussion over the Missouri senator's suitability to serve as vice president.

He said at a news conference Monday that he had been treated for the care of a psychiatrist and underwent electric shock treatment in 1960 and 1966 for depression.

The disclosure stirred public controversy about voters' willingness to accept Eagleton's assessment that he has totally overcome his medical problems.

"I've learned to pace myself now," he said.

Another issue raised in public debate was Eagleton's failure to inform McGovern of his medical history before the South Dakota senator asked him to be his running mate at the Democratic National Convention July 13.

Model Cities building construction to start

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Construction of the Carbondale Model Cities Neighborhood Facility Building will soon be underway after nearly three years of planning.

A ground breaking ceremony to start construction of the facility is scheduled at 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 12. Work should be completed in about 15 months, Bob Stalls, director of Model Cities, said Monday morning.

"It will be finished in 16 months," he said. "Demolition is practically completed. There are only two houses on the site now and those will be cleared by the end of the week.

Stalls said that the plans and a new name for the facility was approved at a city council meeting in April.

The facility will be the farm of the Carbondale Model Cities Program. Presently, the Carbondale Model Cities Program and provides day care, health and other social services.

The new facility will provide more social services," he said, "It will provide preschool and day care facilities, senior citizen facilities, family services and youth programs.

Stalls said that the facility will accommodate 200 pre-school children and will be 28,000 square feet with kitchen facilities as well as administrative offices.

Carbondale City Manager Carroll Fry announced Monday that the award of $185,311 in federal and state grants to the Carbondale Police Department.

Anticipated activities include the establishment of a school liaison program, a public information program, a speakers bureau, a storefront center and specific problem liaison activities with various groups in the community.

The grant will fund the creation of an intelligence section of the police department, a school liaison program that will be responsible for providing assistance to the schools, a speakers bureau that will provide speakers on the subject of police work, and a storefront center that will provide a place for the public to meet with the police department.

The program will be funded for two years and will be evaluated after one year to determine its effectiveness.

Bremer is ‘weird,’ lawyer tells court
By David Gerler
Associated Press Writer
UPPER MARLBORO, Md.—The lawyer defending Arthur Herman Bremer on charges of shooting Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace told a jury yesterday that the defendant’s life would never be the same because of his actions.
Lipsitz indicated he would contest prosecution’s eyewitness testimony to the wounding of Wallace and three others May 2 July, but he devoted most of his 30-minute statement to projecting psychiatric testimony designed to support Bremer’s plea of innocence by reason of insanity.
Bremer, a 21-year-old former busboy and school janitor from Milwaukee, is accused of assaulting Wallace with a .38-caliber revolver carried in alleged violation of Maryland gun laws.
Lipsitz also said the FBI laboratory was unable to find any traces of gunpowder on paraffin “fisks” taken from Bremer’s hands by county police shortly after his arrest at the shopping center.

Sheriffs from 18 counties endorse
Dan Walker against former sheriff

Dan Walker, Democratic candidate for governor, has been endorsed by the sheriffs of 18 counties in Southern Illinois. Announcement was made Monday.
Walker is opposed to Gov. Ogilvie.
Wallace is running as an independent.
Walker, representing the Workingman’s ticket, was unseated in the endorsement.
In their resolution endorsing Walker against Ogilvie, the sheriffs’ association speaks for Walker in particular, for effective law enforcement in Illinois.
Walker, speaking on the endorsement, said, “This state has an important role to play in aiding law enforcement. For example, I favor state laws requiring speedier trials, mandatory sentences for crimes committed with guns and imprisoned in correctional institutions.

6 die, 30 injured in Irish bombings

LONDONDERRY. Northern Ireland (AP)—Stung by British army occupation of their stronghold, the Irish Republican Army struck back Monday with a series of bombings that killed six persons. Thirty persons were injured.

The British hailed for even grimmer retaliation as defiant Roman Catholics, the barricades in their districts leveled, proclaimed: "We will rise again." The IRA announced the start of a "people's resistance.

The predawn invasion into barricaded IRA sectors of Belfast and Londonderry swept into Catholic areas in five other Ulster communities was the largest operation mounted by British troops in the three years of sectarian strife in the province.

About 13,000 troops, backed by armored cars and 35-ton tanks and under an umbrella of helicopters, carried out the operation.

So much importance did the British attach to the operation that London took the unprecedented step of notifying several foreign leaders "in person" that included President Nixon, U. S. Secretary- general Kurt Waldheim and Prime Minister Jack Lynch of Ireland.

The offensive objective was to restore peace to the turbulent province and open the way for a political settlement between the million Protestants and half-million Roman Catholics.

William Waughlaw, Britain's administrator for Northern Ireland, said the immediate aim was "to enable the security forces to move freely throughout all areas and so protect the whole community.

Three hours after bulldozer-tanks and troops smashed the IRA barricades, Whitelaw announced the British forces "now are in occupation and control throughout Northern Ireland."

Later three car bombs exploded in Clady, a town 12 miles southeast of Londonderry, and killed six persons.

The deaths raised to at least 485 the toll of lives in the province since 1969.

Bernadette Devlin, firebrand member of the British Parliament, said the invasion of Londonderry's Bogside District was "the regression of the British army in its darkest and most naked form."

The 25-year-old Miss Devlin told a crowd of 300 persons: "The voice of Free Derry will be heard."

Catholic defiance accompanied the barricade smashing in some places, notably in the Bogside and Creggan districts of Londonderry where 30,000 Catholics live in IRA- ruled sections barred to British troops for the past year.

Review board interviews set

p. Student body president Jim Taylor is interviewing applicants throughout this week for eight openings on the Student Conduct Review Board, according to Bill Clarke, a Taylor assistant.

The review board hears disciplinary appeals by students and also considers other matters referred by the University or student administrations.

Student applicants should have a desire "to serve the University community," Clarke said. Grade point averages will be considered although there are no set requirements.

Interested students should call Student Government at 335-2614 and make an interview appointment.

In using that technique, Dakin said, officers will employ both plain and unmarked vehicles, as well as other modes of transportation.

Dakin said the third phase of the program calls for an increase in the city's detective force by two.

Fry said the new programs should enable the city to "effectively reduce" the city's crime rate. Car- bondale's crime rate was the fifth highest in the state in 1971, ac- cording to the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement.

Dakin added that the crime rate has been rising steadily since 1968, and attributed the rise in Carbon-dale's crime rate to new computerized methods of tabulating crimes.

Fry commended the criminal justice planning staff of the Greater Egypt Regional Planning and Development Commission for their "irreplaceable assistance" in helping the city plan the programs and secure state and federal funds.

Jim Rush, director of criminal justice planning for ERGDC, said that the two projects were both firsts in Illinois. He said the city's willingness to undertake "innovative" approaches to solving its problems contributed to the ILEC decision to fund the programs.

Rush also singled out the SU Security Office for its efforts, and cited its recently initiated in-service training program for its officers in police community relations.

HARRIS - CARBONDALE - M. FRANKFORT
Editorials

Man vs. machine

The machine age has arrived and with it has come frustration, violence and embarrassment. Those who invented the machines have less brains than the machines themselves. Carbondale is a typical area for the placing of such disgusting demons. Really, with as little as 10 days in jail, it is inexcusable to watch the vending machine.

Win by losing

With newspapers and television newscasts full of prognostications on impending election scenarios, another type of manic political optimism is specialising in upcoming presidential elections. Sen. McGovern and Rep. Kennedy are in the lead of the voting war will save George McGovern from being eaten alive by the well-financed Republican juggernaut. Others join Stewart Alsop in proclaiming that only Ohio, Michigan, New Jersey, Florida, California, New Alabama, and either North Carolina or Indiana. As everyone knows, Meany is publicly wishing for the fact that the participatory 11 states in the Electoral College if carried out with planning he gets about 23.6 million out of the total votes than others and everything should be of the electoral vote. Among 29 states lose and which to take.

The entire play is based on the electoral college concept, which is (approximately) that if a candidate gets one vote more than the others in one state, he wins all the electoral votes of the state in question. Add the additional fact that some states have more electoral votes than others and everything should immediately become clear. Not yet? Okay, here's how it works.

Our well-planned candidate is determined to win the presidency the easy way, so he concentrates his organizing and vote-getting skill, and by luck and planning he gets about 23.6 million out of the 133.6 million votes potentially available in the election. Not many to a margin, but McGovern and Machevailian political will figure it: out. 29 states lose 25.3 million votes, 29 states win 8.3 million votes, and style and skill, this strategy is guaranteed. The crucial part is in choosing which 29 states to lose and which to take.

VD alarm sounded

To the Daily Egyptian:

This is not meant to be yet another alarmist letter; however, I was recently appalled by a rather typical routine situation which I encountered at the SIU Health Service last week. As a firm believer in preventative medicine, I strongly endorse a semiannual, or at least annual, pelvic examination for all women of college age or older. In the past, I have always visited my personal physician; unfortunately, at this time it was highly inconvenient. I was not able to get away from job and classes in order to see a gynecologist. Discounting the radical publicity they have received, I am an appointed with Health Service for a pap test. The contrast in treatment was startling.

First, no urine specimen is required at the time of the examination. While urinalysis would detect the presence of albumin (indicating pregnancy), Health Service personnel, such added early diagnosis is important. Gonorrhea is the most frequent to receive prompt treatment. Where does VD from that famous dirty toilet seat. Sex is normal and healthy; venereal disease is abnormal and unhealthy. The only immunogenic disease is failure to receive prompt treatment. Where does SIU Health Service stand?

Age of myths

Gene Charleston
Student Writer

To the Daily Egyptian:

Every age has its own myths. The academic community has a duty to analyze these myths and establish the extent of their validity. Two recent editorials—verv perceptive and very thoughtful—have brought the question of the McGovern Campaign into focus. Let us examine the myths and facts.

Fact One is that most of the academic community is for McGovern. There are historical and emotional reasons; I shall not go into them. Suffice it to say that as one of the two Senators who belong to the Ph.D. Trade Union, he has sort of a claim on the bozos. I was rather disappointed at an article by Mr. O'Neal deals with the excellent nature of McGovern's campaign. The primary season was spread over a period of many months. Many volunteers have traveled from state-to-state and were very effective. The general election is a different ballgame, and the relation between the effectiveness of the candidates and the diffusion of its numbers has to be taken into consideration. McGovern's anti-war position enjoyed, is likely to be a liability and not an asset. If the years 1964-1968 were the years when the media challenged the ad-ministration's credibility, the next four years are the years when the credibility of the media is being challenged. And the resolution of the Journalists' Guild, affirming support for McGovern did not help it either, in spite of the disassociating ads in the Washington Post.

Myth Two is that 1968 will repeat and with a slight push by the super-spectacular Hart-Steiners-Mashkiewicz combination, the election would be McGovern's for the taking. The 1968 holdouts were of the political Left, who would not have voted for Richard Nixon under any circumstances. The 1973 holdouts are pragmatists—like mayors and labor leaders whose political thinking is more akin to Agnew-Nixon than to Rauch-Lownstein-Nelson-Kennedy-Newstead-McGovern.

The Democratic Party was a coalition, where the poor, working-class people, labor the muscle, and intellectuals exercised the power. Now the so-called open convention with an average income of $20,000 and with 45 per cent past graduates kicked the muscle out and initiated the process of the control of the nominating process. The new McGovern is the control of the party by the bored faculty who cannot play bridge. One of the things in all humility to the editors who supplied the caption to Gene Charleston's excellent article, that the real credit should go to the people who modernized the status of the records of Smith, Landon, and Goldwater.

A look at a changing Viet Center

New center director explains his goals

By Bernard F. Whalen

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"I never met Ho Chi Minh, but I saw him at a distance." The man who saw Ho Chi Minh is Nguyen Dinh-Hoa, born in Hanoi, North Vietnam, in 1934. Hoa came to the United States in 1948, the year the American Museum of the Far East was founded at SIU. It was an event which has been called by critics "imperialistic," "an extension of the war on campus," and "a training camp for CIA agents.

The Center for Southeast Asian Studies

Who is Nguyen Dinh-Hoa? Who is this man who has been the center of controversy for some time? The son of a minor government clerk, Hoa was one of ten children. "We were a poor family," he recalls. He attended the Ginno High School in Hanoi, then "sold my soul" and went through school to stay in school.

Hoa has relatives in North Vietnam. He didn't have any jobs as a youth, adding "in Vietnam, being a student is a job, students study and..." He was happy when I got scholarships to pay for my schooling," he said. "I was always at top of my class.

Hoa is recognized internationally as a top-notch Asian scholar. He received a philosophy-Lettres degree from the Geze du Protecteur in Hanoi in 1944. From there he went on to study law at the University of Hanoi until 1948. While in Viet Nam he also taught high school English.

In 1948, Hoa was the first Vietnamese student to be given a U.S. scholarship attending Union College in Schenectady, N.Y. He received his bachelor's degree in English from Union in 1950. Hoa then went to the University of Texas at Austin to receive a master's degree in English education from New York University in 1952 and a Ph.D. in 1956.

Hoa then went to Columbia University to lecture in Vietnamese from 1953-57. He then traveled to the University of Saigon where he was named professor of Linguistics and English and Dean of the Faculty of Letters until 1966.

In 1966, Hoa moved to the U.S. in 1966 to act as visiting professor of Vietnamese language and literature at the University of Aston in Birmingham, England. Hoa has been assistant of cultural affairs for the ministry of education, 1962-64, and as secretary-general of the Vietnam national commission for UNESCO. At the University of Saigon, Hoa also acted as chairman of the Department of English.

In summer 1966, Hoa left for the University of Hawaii, where he attended Vietnamese language and literature as a visiting professor.

Then it was back to the U.S. for Hoa, who went to Washington, D.C., becoming counselor of the Vietnam embassy for cultural and educational affairs until 1969.

"I wanted to try out the embassy job, but I wasn't a career diplomat," Hoa said. "I am a career educator and wanted to eventually get back to teaching."

Hoa then told me about the center at SIU. Hoa said. The center was underway and the AID grant was still in its embryonic stage. Ralph Raffner, then vice president of international programs, asked Hoa to come to SIU to be interviewed by former president DeLave Morris. Hoa accepted.

"I had always taught but now I had an opportunity to run a Viet center." Hoa joined SIU in September, 1969.

Hoa started out as associate director under H.B. Jacobson and also became director of the IPIRG foreign language department at the rank of professor. His first job was to coordinate some of the research being done by IPIRG. Hoa brought with him an impressive background in Vietnamese language studies. Hoa's 17 books have been published in Washington, New York, Saigon, Tokyo and Carbondale.

Hoa's English Phrase Book for Vietnamese speakers was published in Saigon in 1962. The next year Hoa's "Say it in Vietnamese" was issued. His two books published at SIU in 1971 were "IPIRG decision criticized"

To the Daily Egyptian:

The recently elected Board of Trustees of the University of Southern Illinois has voted to close the IPPIRG funding proposal in favor of Mace's half-baked check-off system goes beyond the asinine. It is not only every student and faculty member of the Board of Trustees, but all of us in the university and our community who disagree with this rationale.

The action of the board implies that IPIRG's activities are not only non-essential, rather, I am drawing a distinction between the nature of their functions. IPIRG is the only student organization whose activities affect not only every student and faculty member on this university, but every citizen in and around the Carbondale area. IPPIRG's activities have even reached into surrounding communities in its attempts to raise money for its cause. The non-profitable nature of these activities include meat, grocery and drug sales which have been published in the Egyptian. One

To the Daily Egyptian:

It is true that the Women's Center will offer opportunities for women for many more years, but that's not the issue. To say that the Women's Center is a "man" (Daily Egyptian, July 22) is not one of them. Opportunities for women can only be increased at the Women's Center; failure to recognize this fact is to misunderstand one of the basic causes for the need for a Women's Center.

Rita L. Moss

Committee for the Women's Center

Editor's note: The phrase to which Ms. Moss refers appeared in a letter to the editor, "If a woman's issue is not being overlooked in proofreading. The paragraph should have read:

What does a woman do if she wants to meet a new friend, get over being mad at her man, find a babysitter, decide to give her or his birthday a chance to have a special night out?"
European classes planned

Proposals are now being accepted by the Office of the Division of Continuing Education from those faculty members who are interested in conducting credit courses in Europe during the summer of 1973.

Course proposals should be brief, descriptive and intuitive. They should explain the value of offering such a course, the place and time it will be offered, and how it will be submitted by Aug. 15.

Each faculty member should estimate his total expenses, including transportation for the period of enrollment, not to exceed $3150. This will be totalized by 15.

Any faculty member attracting fewer than 15 students will receive the proportionate amount for his personal expenses.

If more than 15 students are registered in the course, the money may be refunded, spent for the group, or kept in the instructor's name.

All program proposals should be submitted to the chairman of the department concerned. They should then be forwarded to the academic dean, and finally to the Division of Continuing Education.

A committee will select the best proposals and notify those persons involved.

Vets organize to support McGovern

A new political campaign organization has come to Southern Illinois.

Illinois Veterans for McGovern, an affiliate of the National Veterans with Congresional District, has offices in the Developement Campaign Headquarters, 417 S. Illinois Ave.

The group boasts over 80 war veterans from both Vietnam and Korea who believe that the United States "cannot stop political change in Southeast Asia by continuing the war," according to Ronald L. Graves, one of the organizers.

"The American public stands a good chance of being told what's expected, too, because McGovern and the program has suggested a better hope for the best chance to continue the traditions of our military," Mr. Graves said.

Graves urged all veterans to join the organization in support of McGovern. Veterans interested can contact the group at the Democratic headquarters or by calling 549-7888.

Rent hike plan for Evergreen awaits decision

Action concerning a proposed rent hike for the Evergreen Terrace apartments is "still awaiting the decision of the Federal Housing Authority," (FHA) J. Joseph Gehricke, assistant to the housing director, said Monday.

The proposal, submitted to the FHA in April, requests an increase from $41 to $42 per month for two-bedroom apartments and from 81 to 82 for three-bedroom apartments at Evergreen Terrace.

If that increase is in effect to be beginning Sept. 21.

Grocer named to park job

Richard Kelly has been appointed as manager of the Evergreen Terrace Park District and Robert E. Breech has been appointed as treasurer. Mr. Kelly is the Kelly Big Star Food Center on East Raymond, and Mr. Breech is a service captain at the Carbonale Park District. Former District Manager Jim Higdon resigned to take a job in Colorado.

Breeler, assistant bursar at SIU, was appointed treasurer replacing Allen Kiser who has moved from the area.

Allen's homers lead Sox to 8-1 victory

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—Dick Allen raced around the bases to tie the Chicago White Sox past the Minnesota Twins 8-1.

Allen, legging out his 38th and 37th home runs of the season, rifled a line drive to center field in the first inning and rounded the bases with two runners ahead of him after center fielder Bob Darwin slipped. Before Darwin recovered, Allen was rounding third.

Then in the fifth, Allen unloaded a towering drive to left center. Darwin attempted to make a backhanded catch. The ball bounced by him and bounded off the wall 430 feet from home as Allen wound up with a two-run homer.

The only other modern player ever to hit two inside-the-park home runs in one game was Ben Chapman of the New York Yankees.

Chapman's came off Detroit July 9, 1932. He also hit a third over the right field fence in the second game of a double-header.

Allen, whose 13 home runs in July set a White Sox record, struck out and reached first on an error in his other appearances.

Bert Blyleven, 24, was the victim of Allen's footwork.

Ed Herrmann hit his fifth home run of the season with the bases empty in the sixth.

Stan Bahnsen checked the Twins on six hits to raise his record to 10-11.

Muskies, Church top VP list

WASHINGTON (AP) — With two names dominating speculation, Sen. George McGovern said Tuesday night he would announce his new running mate “within a few days.”

The announcement by McGovern’s office came after he canceled a 16-minute speech scheduled for national broadcasting, saying the networks had refused free time.

Two sources close to the presidential candidate said the leading contenders to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton following his precedent-setting withdrawal Monday night appeared to catch everyone off guard.

Sen. Frank Jordan, National Broadcasting Co. bureau manager in Washington, said, however, he understood Tuesday night the discussion would be only of reasons that led to Eagleton’s dismissal and that McGovern also were about to announce his choice as a running mate.

McGovern’s press secretary, Richard J. Donovan, said the networks refused to give the candidate free air time to talk about the Eagleton matter unless McGovern also were to announce his choice as a running mate.

And Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who turned down the offer once before, was probably still McGovern’s choice, according to all sources contacted.

McGovern had planned to discuss the Eagleton matter on television Tuesday night, but three hours before the talk was scheduled it was called off.

A McGovern statement said he would combine the statement with disclosure of his choice for a new running mate within a few days.

In a related development Tuesday, columnist Jack Anderson announced he will retract his claim to have located evidence that Eagleton had been arrested for drunkenness and reckless driving.

Anderson, who made the charges over his regular network radio program, told newsmen after visiting Eagleton that his retraction was “qualified” and “in total.”

Following Anderson’s statement, Eagleton commended Anderson for courage and called him a “distinguished journalist.”

There was in Missouri, meanwhile, bitterness over the loss of a native son national candidate.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes termed the withdrawal “a severe blow” and said on national TV that he would take part as a National Committee member in seeking an Eagleton successor to be recommended by McGovern.

The loss of Eagleton will cause “great danger” to the Democrats chances for success in the November elections, Hearnes said, refusing to predict that President Nixon will be defeated in Missouri.

Democratic offices to open Saturday

By Larry Glowacki

The Jackson County-Carbondale Democratic Headquarters will officially open at 417 S. Illinois Ave. on Saturday, Aug. 5.

A specific date for the official opening will be set soon and “all the candidates on this side are to attend,” Miss Pat Hartman, secretary-pro tem of the McGovern for President organization, said Friday.

Although the headquarters will be maintained mostly by McGovern and Bushbeu funds, Ms. Hartman said the office will be open to all Democratic candidates. “There is a possibility that other candidates will help share the expense of the office,” she said.

Their first campaign, Ms. Hartman said, will be for people.

“We need everybody,” she said. “We’re going to try to get people involved in the campaign to help share the expenses.”

Ms. Hartman said the main efforts of the office will be centered in the 34th congressional district, which includes 21 counties. McGovern’s campaign will in no way be limited to this area, she said.

“We’re going to work for the entire ticket,” Ms. Hartman said. “But because we feel our candidate is not as well known here in Southern Illinois, a lot of our efforts will go to educate the people about McGovern.”

Ray Chancey, Jackson County Democratic chairman, said the Carbondale headquarters will be the base for the McGovern campaign. Another headquarters will open in Murphysboro the day after Labor Day, he said.

Chancey said his organization plans an active campaign for McGovern out of the Carbondale office.

On the question of a vice presidential candidate, Chancey said “as a county organization, we will endorse the ticket from top to bottom.”

Council may meet on Mondays

By Warren Walker

A recommendation for city participation on the Greater Egypt Regional Planning and Development Commission was received favorably by the Carbondale City Council Tuesday afternoon.

The council also discussed the possibility of changing council meetings from Tuesday night to Monday.

James Rayfield, Carbondale planning director and former planner with the commission, said city participation on the commission will give the city some input into the regional planning process and will also mean increased benefits to the city.

“The commission serves five counties totaling about 300,000 people and Carbondale has nearly 30,000 people,” he said.

He explained that the commission consists of 20 members, four chosen from each of the five counties which consists of Jackson, Williamson, Jefferson, Franklin and Perry counties. He said cities participate on the basis of population.

Appointment must be made by the council board,” he said, “and there is now a vacancy.”

Jerry Maxwell, assistant city manager, said Carbondale constituted about 40 percent of the population in Jackson County and should have some input into the decision making process.

The council decided to bring the recommendation up at the formal meeting next Tuesday night for action.

In a discussion about a change in city council meetings date, city manager Carroll J. Fry said changing the day would give the administrative staff more time to do the necessary research and prepare the agenda for the council meetings.

There is enough time to do sufficient background work and research, he said, effectively bringing the issue before the council.

Councilman Hans Fischer pointed out that the administrative staff had as much as two weeks to prepare because formal action takes place every two weeks.
