NEVER TOO COLD- Rutha Porietis, a freshman student from Maywood, found Thursday's raw weather just right for eating an ice cream bar near the Lake-on-the-Campus. Today's weather forecast called for somewhat warmer temperatures with-would you believe-a chance for showers.

Student Reported Suspended in Case Of Vehicle Misuse

By George M. Killenberg

An SIU student has reportedly been suspended from the University and charged with theft of an SIU vehicle by deception as the result of an auto accident he was involved in Oct. 30.

Charles Svihlik, a sophomore from Brookfield, said he had been suspended for 1 1/2 quarters "for conduct unbecoming an SIU student."

Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton, whose office handles most disciplinary cases, refused to comment on Svihlik's alleged suspension, explaining that it is University policy to withhold from the public any personal information involving students.

Svihlik said that he felt that it was unfair for the University arbitrarily to suspend a student over an incident that was still pending in court.

Svihlik is presently awaiting trial in Jackson County circuit court after pleading not guilty Nov. 6 to a charge of theft by deception. He is now free on $1000 bond.

Although Moulton would not release any particulars on the case, he did say that the University does not automatically discipline a student for involvement in criminal or civil offense as Svihlik contends.

"Just because a case involving a student is before a court does not mean that we are obligated to take action against the student nor does it mean that we are unable to take action," he said.

Although facts surrounding the case are not clear, because of the University's silence, Svihlik apparently was charged by SIU with theft by deception after an SIU auto he allegedly obtained without authorization was demolished in a one-car accident Oct. 30.

According to SIU legal counsel C. Richard Gruny, Svihlik is accused of forging the signature of the adviser of the student spelunking club to obtain an SIU auto for a trip to line up caves for future exploration.

University records show that the auto was checked out by Svihlik for a trip to Evansville, Ind. However, state police reported that the accident Svihlik was involved in occurred 10 miles north that of Benton, Ill., on Interstate 57, which is in the opposite direction of his proposed destination of Evansville.

According to the state police, Svihlik apparently fell asleep at the wheel, causing the auto to veer off the highway, overturning several times. Svihlik was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

Gruny said that University insurance is in effect only if the car is used for the purpose it is signed out for. However, Gruny did not know whether the University would hold Svihlik responsible for damages to the car.

According to Svihlik's attorney, Richard White, SIU has not filed any damage suit against his client.

Work Reform Questionnaire Results Called 'Disappointing'

By Charles Springer

The results of a recent questionnaire dealing with issues of student work reform have been termed "disappointing" by Student Senator John Foote.

Foote, head of a special committee to study the problem, disclosed Thursday that of 3,500 questionnaires distributed, only 763 had been returned to Student Government officials. The majority of the forms returned had been completed by upperclassmen while only 131 freshmen students had participated.

To the question of whether the students felt that a permanent Student Worker's Union would be able to correct shortcomings in the present program, a total of 48 per cent voted "yes" while 36 per cent voted "no." The remainder of the students listed other alternatives.

A majority of 76 per cent of the participants felt that the present pay structure does not provide adequate compensation to meet student expenses. Only 16 per cent answered "yes" that they could meet expenses with grants or scholarship aid, while a mere five per cent answered that present pay was adequate. Student Government is seeking a minimum wage of $1.50 instead of the present $1.

A convincing majority of 71 per cent felt that present conditions are adequate while 27 per cent felt they were not.

In contrast to the vote expressed on working conditions, 55 per cent felt that the University administration would not correct shortcomings brought to its attention. Thirty per cent expressed the opinion that action would be taken. Other opinions were expressed by 15 per cent.

Confusion was obvious as to the participants' understanding of the Federal Work-Study Program. A total of 72 per cent did not know whether they were eligible or not while 55 per cent indicated they were not in the program.

Fifty-one per cent felt that the job experience would not be helpful in their future careers, 46 per cent felt the experience would be of assistance. Student Work Office officials recently indicated that the program was valuable for its educational value.

Foote said that the results of the questionnaire will be evaluated by his committee and discussed in a 1 p.m. meeting Monday in Room H of the University Center.

College Bound St. Louis Columnist Compares British, U.S. Journalism

By Tim Ayers

Allan Hale says he is going back to school to "knock my head against some other people's ideas."

Hale is presently a columnist for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, and in January will begin classes at Stanford University on a fellowship. He was on campus Thursday for a series of talks sponsored by the Department of Journalism.

Hale, 37, left school when he was 14. He said that he is looking forward to the opportunity of sitting in on classes again.

He has been working in the U.S. for three years. Prior to making St. Louis his home, he worked for British newspapers for 12 years.

"The Globe is a good shop" said Hale. But he feels that the trend of many American newspapers is to become larger and larger is unwarranted.

"I can't see the utility of a newspaper that is so large that it is difficult to handle" he said.

He pointed out that the cost of paper in Britain is very high and as a result the papers are smaller and more concise.

Hale likes to see shorter stories "that contain many nuggets of hard information." He feels that there is a place for long interpretive pieces, but the reader should not be forced to wade through them on the news pages.

U.S. newspaper coverage of Great Britain also came under criticism by Hale. But as he pointed out, it works both ways.

"There is good will but not understanding" he said. Both are interested in the other's "zany" aspects.

He said that it would be much easier to sell a story to an English editor about a dog that is listed in the Manhattan telephone directory than a piece of good interpretive reporting on America.

Hale said that he enjoys St. Louis but would like it better "if it didn't smell and have such a high crime rate." He said that, except for these two points, St. Louis is a good-looking city, "in a country that has some of the ugliest cities in the world."

After his stay at Stanford, Hale plans to return to work at the Globe-Democrat.

Daily Egyptian Editorials

For the Record

For the record, Dennis Nix did not write an editorial for the Daily Egyptian. He wrote a letter to the editor, a privilege which is open to all students of the University and one which has been exercised in the past by Nix, Student Senator Gary Krischer, and others.

Nix is employed by the Daily Egyptian as a proofreader. He has no connection with the news room operation or the production of the editorial page.

Nix has no voice in the selection of material to appear on the editorial page. He had no voice in how or when his letter to the editor was used.

Nix submits cartoons to the Daily Egyptian for possible publication, but he is not the staff cartoonist. Other persons also may submit cartoons for possible publication.

Nix was not unethical in his actions. He submitted the letter in advance, but because of an unintentional oversight, the letter was printed the day before the election.

Letters to the Editor:

Dialogue On the Roots of Evil

To the Editor:

The righteous cry of society to stamp out crime is fully justified. Most of the men with whom I am in daily contact agree with the cry. I am a convict--and there are among us many who wish that crime had been stamped out in a previous generation. "Weed out crime" is the slogan of our great society. Agreed. To do this we must "destroy its very roots." Agreed. These words are not new; for if society was born the day that language was invented, as many sociologists proclaim, I am quite certain the very first dialogue went something like this: Bobby Ape and J. Edgar Ape were walking (swinging?) along and Bobby said to J. Edgar, "How in the hell can we stop Jimmy Baboon from stealing our banana?" (No doubt that the answer to this query led directly to the invention of the cage.)

If the words "weed out crime" and "destroy the roots" are well-founded the words which follow these, to wit: destroy the slums; remove the ghettos; burn the skid rows; are the asinine mutterings of someone pretending ignorance. These propositions presuppose one major acquiescence on my part: That slums, ghettos, skid rows, and other "Riviera's of the broke" are the roots of crime. If the supposition is wrong it shall remain wrong no matter how many give voice to the fact that it is right.

If a tank division Commander ordered all his tanks across a river and it was too deep for the tanks and all the men drowned, what would we do? I know what you're thinking. "We should immediately destroy the factory that built the tanks, right?" After all, that's where they were made so that's where the root of the trouble must be. Ridiculous? No more so than the above suppositions. I contend that slums, ghettos, et al, are the fruit of an obnoxious plant whose roots are called upper crust moral compromise, and until we attack these roots we shall never eradicate crime from society.

Come along with me on a mythical journey through the make-believe land of Upper Southern Anywhere (abbreviated USA for convenience) and watch as a youngster is taken on a tour of the country by one of the great ideological moral teachers, Premier Lets B. Joyful, (abbreviated for obvious reasons--initials are easier to type--LBJ). The lad is from a family who belong to the NAAPWS (National Association for the Advancement of the Poor Working Stiff). His name is Hey Boy. We join the mythical journey near the end of a speech that LBJ has delivered to Hey Boy.

LBJ: So that's about it, Hey Boy. You have been to church and you know the 10 commandments. To these we have added a few more, 119,873 to be exact, for OUR mutual protection. You know that it is wrong to steal and to jay-walk, to commit adultery and speed, to lie and to ride in the front of the bus, and so on. If these rules are violated you will be removed from society and placed in an institution where it will be impossible to violate them anymore. So hop in my car and I'll give you a practical demonstration of ideal morals in the USA.

HB: Gee! Youse a nice guy, tanks alot.

LBJ: You catch on quick, don't you?

HB: Geeze, LBJ, din't that sign say 15 MPH? We're doin' over a hunnert. Ain't that against one of them mutual protection things you was talkin' about?

LBJ: Well, those are mainly for you. We, the leaders, are above this type law; we are permitted to use our own discretion. That's something you don't have as of yet, discretion.

HB: Wow, LBJ, what's that area over there with them high walls all aroun' it?

LBJ: That's where men are taken who do not obey our rules. Incidentally, we have to stop here for a minute because I have release orders for 35 of the men.

HB: Oh, they lernt their lesson, huh, LBJ.

LBJ: Not exactly, Hey Boy, but they have lernt. . . ah. . . been taught to discriminate. They realize now that we are the right leaders so they each contributed a few pennies to keep us as leaders; so, as a sort of favor, we release them a little early. Most of them are only doing life anyway, and a life sentence is about like a life-time guarantee, it can run out in a year.

The lessons could go on indefinitely. How it is wrong to steal but is perfectly legal to take undeserved money from an insurance company. Immorality is illegal--unless you have a valid reason or are very discriminating. Certainly it is all right to pad the expense account and to employ useless relatives provided, of course, someone else is paying their salaries.

On and on it goes till Hey Boy is brainwashed, or rather, till he is taught. Let us return with Hey Boy to his home area. It is a well lighted (it's noon) area and quite compact (290 people per square yard). As Hey Boy steps from the car he is deluged with questions from other members of the NAAPSW: What's it like out there? How can we get out? What did you learn???

HB: Well, youse guys, it's like this. Just as soon as we kin learn to be discriminating we only gotta obey two of them commandments and a couple of their morals. One: we gotta pay the guys that deserve pay, the leaders, and two: if we want to really have a ball, we gotta become leaders, 'cause they have all kinds of names for the same things we call laws.

We steal, but they receive gifts. We say bribery, but they say campaign contributions. We say perjury, but they say trading favors. We say kill, but they say electrocute. So I found out right and wrong really ain't right and wrong at all. Right and wrong depends on how high up the ladder you can go, and it takes money to get up the ladder; so tonight we're gonna break into this here . . .

Healthy Protest

To the Editor:

In response to W.F. Montfort's expressed concern for the well-being of our son (Daily Egyptian Letter, Nov. 28), we would like to assure him that our son is an extremely healthy boy.

Contrary to Mr. Montfort's belief, cold weather is invigorating and healthy for a young child as well as any adult, as long as he is properly dressed. Rosy cheeks are not necessarily frozen.

Mr. Montfort would do better to look at what the peace committee stands for than to criticize a child who is enjoying an hour out of doors.

Campus News Gets Around

To the Editor:

This letter is to inform you that I am receiving the Daily Egyptian. I get them regularly and they are usually 10 to 12 days in getting here, which isn't bad considering the circumstances.

Right now it is very wet and depressing in Vietnam and being able to keep up with the campus life at Southern is gratifying.

I want to thank you people for withholding my subscription while I was in transit from the states to Vietnam and for continuing it as soon as possible after receiving my present address.

I was surprised and happy to see that Southern beat Tulsa. It must have been an exciting game.

Misleading Headline

To the Editor:

On page two of the Nov. 29 edition of your paper you have a seriously misleading headline--"SIU Student Charged In Narcotic Raid." The news item concerned a young man who was arrested for alleged possession of marijuana. Calling marijuana a narcotic is wrong.

According to Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition, a narcotic is "a drug which in moderate doses allays sensibility, relieves pain, and produces profound sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma or convulsions."

It is widely agreed among those who have examined the effects of marijuana, including governmental agencies (see New York's LaGuardia Report and recent statements by Dr. Goddard of the FDA), that it is definitely not narcotic.

Having written many headlines under the stress of academic work and a press deadline, I can sympathize with awkward headlines, but not with false or misleading ones.

Island of Aphrodite

Tempers Flare Over Fate of Cyprus

By Antero Pietila

Like a challenge cup, Cyprus throughout its entire history has passed from hand to hand without having too much to say about its own fate.

Often described as "the island of Aphrodite", Cyprus received its first Greek colonists in the second millennium B.C. After being part of the Persian, Roman, and Byzantine empires, it became a Frankish kingdom in the 12th century, and a Venetian dependency in the 15th.

In 1571 it was conquered by the Turks and in November, 1914, annexed by Britain, which had actually controlled the island during the last three decades of the Turkish rule. When Cyprus, after five years of fierce guerilla warfare on August 16, 1960, finally became independent, the treaties between Republic of Cyprus, Great Britain, Turkey and Greece precluded both Enosis (unification with Greece) and partition.

Much time has been spent in discussing which Archbishop Makarios wanted, Enosis or independence. And the outcome has always been the vague position that maybe it was both. Anyway, when Greek and Turkish prime ministers and defense ministers agreed to negotiate this September in two small border towns they concluded reportedly that "the safest solution" for the Western defense system would be Enosis. The Turkish delegation, however, expressed its concern for the balance of power and the need to safeguard the security of its own country and that of the Turkish community in Cyprus. So it came with a proposal that in return for two military bases and 10 per cent of the island's territory, Turkey would be willing to agree to Enosis for the rest of the island.

The Greeks had nothing against Enosis but they rebuted the Turkish proposal as its claim of territory would lead to partition.

And so the game that has been played for years continued, with the island's 105,000 Turks jealously watching every move of the 445,000 people Greek majority. Even this recent crisis blazed up in the mean surroundings of two small villages in Central Cyprus when Turkish Cypriots tried to change a local security arrangement with the U.N. This was the beginning of a chain reaction that almost pushed Greece and Turkey to war over Cyprus.

At this writing the present crisis has not been solved, but the immediate danger of war between the two countries seems to be over. The tension continues to be high, with Turkish reconnaissance jets flying over whole crisis has been got up by the NATO partners to force a union between Greece and Cyprus so that the island can be made into a big NATO base. Yet, as Dev Murarka of the London Sunday Observer reports, "the official policy is to support an independent Cyprus. The Russians want to avoid a choice between the Scylla of Enosis, or the union of Cyprus between the Turks and the Greeks."

That the United States and NATO have so desperately tried to avoid war between the two countries is understandable enough considering the nature of the complicated situation in which they would find themselves in case of war. An open conflict most probably would mean disaster for the NATO, of which the two countries are members. It would find itself most inefficient in such a situation especially as its Scandinavian members, Denmark and Norway, have strongly criticized and openly questioned the right to a membership of the undemocratically ruled Greece.

The solution of the current crisis is to begin with the withdrawal from Cyprus of the thousands of Greek regular troops. The Turks claim that there are 12,000 such troops; the Greeks put the number at 6,000. Whatever their actual number, the 1960 Zurich and London agreements permit only 950 such troops.

But even if this is done and several Greek and Turk Cypriot paramilitary organizations are disarmed, the basic hostility between the two populations remains. It cannot be solved by Enosis, nor by the partition of the island since all the major towns have mixed populations, not to mention the mixed villages of the countryside. Partition, therefore, would cause as many economic and human problems as the removal of Turk Cypriots to Turkey.

Prejudice and distrust, centuries old but fostered by today's situation, are impossible to overcome. In the meantime, indigenous Cypriots seem to be mainly onlookers in the contest of the neighbor countries over their island. Certainly Cyprus must be the island of Aphrodite as this kind of fierce fight is usually waged over a woman.

"Don't call us—we'll call you!"

Crockett, Washington Evening Star

the island and both Cypriot population groups ready to fire if necessary.

Between them stand nearly 5,000 blue-helmeted officers and men of the United Nations Emergency Forces. There is indeed a great difference between their peace-keeping duty and that of the Brazilian troops that, unable and unallowed to do anything, finally secluded to a concrete depot in the Gaza strip of Egypt during the Mideast war after having painted in the outside wall a desperate appeal: "U.N., Don't shoot!"

But there are other differences too. Even if one doesn't subscribe to the theory Lt. Gen. John Glubb, former commander of the Jordanian Arab Legion, presented in Carbondale and later in The Christian Science Monitor that the Soviet Union masterminded the Mideast war knowing well the outcome, it is easy to see how differently Russia has now operated.

In the Cyprus crisis of 1964 the Russians supported the Greek Cypriots. But now with an ultraconservative military junta ruling in Athens, Moscow has acted very carefully, especially because it has done so much to improve its relations with Turkey.

Major Battle Reported Shaping Near Cambodia

SAIGON (AP)--American infantrymen supported by fighter-bombers and point-blank artillery fire beat off wave assaults by hundreds of troops Thursday on a Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border, where U. S. commanders believe the Communists may be trying to lure allied units into another major battle.

The action occurred as the U.S. Command announced the number of Americans killed in the war passed 15,000 last week. It said 212 were killed in the week, compared with 225 the week before, bringing the total American battle deaths to 15,058.

A mixed Viet Cong and Vietnamese force fell back from the U.S. camp at Bu Dop under a storm of napalm and shrapnel bombs after reaching a seven-foot concrete cross in a Roman Catholic cemetery 50 yards from American lines.

Bu Dop, 80 miles north of Saigon, is four miles north of the Bo Duc government district headquarters partly overrun by Communist attackers Wednesday. It is also near Loc Ninh, scene of a week of heavy fighting early in November.

At Loc Ninh, the enemy was believed aiming to divert large American and South Vietnamese forces away from important rural pacification duties. Four U.S. battalions were moved in as reinforcements and the 272nd Viet Cong Regiment paid a stiff price--more than 900 killed.

Elements of the same regiment were reported to have lost at least 98 men in the latest fighting around Bu Dop and Bo Duc.

A single battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division was flown in Wednesday to strengthen the Bu Dop camp.

American officers said they were hoping to egg on the enemy to a massed attack in which superior allied firepower could take a heavy toll.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Bu Dop that enemy mortars, antitank rockets and machine guns opened up late Wednesday night. The firing from rubber trees 100 yards away buried three Americans under five feet of earth and exploded gasoline stores.

As 400 or more of the enemy tried to charge well dug-in American positions, U.S. planes lit up the area with flares. Helicopters began firing machine guns and rockets and Air Force jets dropped bombs and napalm. U.S. artillery shells exploded so close that shrapnel fell on American lines.

Tax Increase Dead in 1967, Mills Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Johnson's tax increase proposal was ruled dead for 1967 Thursday, but given a chance of enactment next year--provided the administration cuts spending much deeper than it has yet proposed.

The verdict was rendered by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, which controls tax legislation.

The administration submitted a tax-economize package proposing spending cuts estimated at $4.1 billion. Mills told administration spokesmen before his committee, elaborating for newsmen afterward, that the economizers should be able to do $2 or $3 billion better than that.

Such action, the Arkansas Democrat said, "would enhance the acceptance of a tax increase by the American people."

Johnson is asking a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes, with a corporate tax speed-up and maintenance of excise tax levels.

Together, these moves are estimated to produce $7.4 billion additional revenue during the rest of the present fiscal year. Mills especially emphasized the $11.9 billion figure, demanding assurances that the government would not simply step up spending to absorb it.

"Yes sir," Budget Director Charles L. Schultz replied. He said he would have to make a reservation only in case of a presently wholly unforeseen major stepup of the Southeast Asia war.

Later, Mills said that Schultz's assurances on the 1969 budget were one of the more encouraging results of the current hearings on spending cuts and taxes.

McCarthy Announces Presidential Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy posted his Vietnam war challenge to President Johnson Thursday, announcing he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968--and hinting that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy could become the political beneficiary.

McCarthy said he will enter the primaries in Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon and California, and possibly those in Massachusetts and New Hampshire as well.

He said there is so much dissatisfaction in America over the Vietnam war, its conduct and its effects at home, that "there is a good possibility" Johnson will be denied renomination.

"I believe there's a good chance that we can win two or three primaries," the tall gray-haired senator said.

The White House was silent on McCarthy's announcement. So was Kennedy, for the moment.

Kennedy said on Nov. 15 he "perhaps will have something to say" about his announced support of Johnson in view of McCarthy's move. He has called McCarthy's candidacy a potentially useful step to take Vietnam dissent out of the streets and into the political process.

Could Kennedy fall heir to any support McCarthy may build in his primary races? "He might," McCarthy said.

"There would be nothing illegal if he or someone else were to take advantage of what I am doing. I have no commitment from him to stand aside all the way."

McCarthy said he would have been glad to see Kennedy step into the race himself. "If he had, there would be no need for me to try," McCarthy said.

Would he step aside should Kennedy seek the nomination?

"I don't know whether it would be a question of stepping aside," he said. "It might be less voluntary than that."

Peace Envoys Leave Cyprus

ATHENS, Breece (AP)--- Greece and Turkey spiked their guns Thursday and three international peacemakers who headed off a possible war between them over Cyprus either left for home or were preparing to depart.

Greek leaders were struggling with the communique that is supposed to be issued in Athens and Ankara at the same time. It is expected to be issued by Friday at the latest.

The task was more difficult for the Greeks, having given up more on the surface--withdrawal of illegal troops from Cyprus. The Turks surrendered only the threat to invade the eastern Mediterranean island where 430,000 Greek Cypriots and 180,000 Turkish Cypriots live.

The form of the announcement was important to both Athens and Ankara because of the steps which then must be taken.

These include withdrawal of some 8,000 to 10,000 Greek soldiers, infiltrated to Cyprus in small batches over many months in violation of treaties, and indemnity for Greek Cypriot attacks on two Turkish villages which touched off the crisis Nov. 15.

The speed of withdrawal appeared to be one of the more ticklish points to spell out. The Turks want it rapidly. The Greeks are not well-equipped to do so in ships or planes and resist any steps that seem to show undue haste.

Some quarters speculated that the U.S. Air Force may be asked to help in the withdrawal.

27,000-Mile Network

ICC Authorizes Merger Of Five Railway Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) --The Interstate Commerce Commission Thursday approved the merger of five railway lines to form a 27,000-mile network extending from the Great Lakes and the Mississippi River to the Pacific Northwest and California.

The merging railroads are the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Pacific Coast and the Spokane, Portland and Seattle companies.

They will be brought together in a new company called Great Northern Pacific and Burlington Lines, Inc.

The commission's action reverses a decision of April 1966 that rejected the application for the merger.

The commission said that since that earlier denial, the applicants had reached agreements to protect jobs of workers and had concluded traffic agreements with the principal opponents over the merger, specifically the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad Co. and the Chicago and North Western Railway Co.

Despite Placing 15th at International Show

Livestock Judging Team Closes Good Season

The SIU livestock judging team ended the current season by finishing 15th among the 38 teams competing in an intercollegiate meet at the International Livestock Show in Chicago.

Coach Howard Miller said this season was one of the most successful in spite of the team's showing at Chicago.

SIU teams finished second and third among 18 teams entered in the Southeastern Contest in Blacksburg, Va. last spring, and finished second in an 18-team field at the Mid-South Fair's livestock judging contest in Memphis last fall. At the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, the SIU squad placed third among 26 teams.

Five students represented SIU at the Chicago meet, and 11 SIU students participated in at least one of the other three meets. Coach Miller will choose a new team to begin competition in the spring. Retiring members of the SIU team are John G. Hill, Benton; Timothy Rhine, Chicago; David W. Mills, Clinton; William Johnson, Crete; Lawrence Hurley, Ellery; Larry Boggs, Macon; Michael Kleen, Minonk; Daniel Koons, Shirley; Gerald Henry, Tolono; Charles T. McGuire, Warrensburg; and Larry L. Jones, Winchester.

Students May Apply For Tournament Week

Applications will be available Friday for SIU's annual Tournament Week, sponsored by the Activities Board, to be held Jan. 8-21.

Bridge, chess, bowling, table tennis, pinochle and billiards are open to both male and female students to compete in separate categories.

To be eligible for competition, a student must be currently enrolled at SIU and must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.0.

Preliminary competition is now being held at University Park for the residents of that living area. Other living areas to have preliminary contests are Thompson Point and VTI. Winners of these contests will compete in the finals to be held in the University Center. Awards will be given to the top male and female in each category.

Applications may be picked up at the Student Activities Center.

Students to Play At Music Recital

SIU's Department of Music will present a student recital at 8 p.m., Monday Dec. 4 in Davis Auditorium. Featured performers will be Mrs. Gloria Cox, piano, and Ann Tarvin, oboe. Rita Sanford will be the accompanist for Miss Tarvin.

Mrs. Cox will play "Clair de Lune, Opus 46, No. 2" by Faure, Prokofieff's "Gavotta, Opus 32, No. 3," and two Brahms selections, "Intermezzo, Opus 76, No. 7" and "Rhapsody, Opus 79, No. 2." She will also play "Suite For Piano" by Norman Dello Joio.

Miss Tarvin will perform "Sonata" by Paul Hindemith, "Concerto in C Minor" by Benedetto Marcello, and three French works, "Capriccio" by Murgier, "Fisherman's Sons" by Andre Jolivet, and "Serenade" by Robert Planet.

Mrs. Castor Aide

The correct spelling of the name of the new assistant to the Dean of Students is Mrs. Carol Castor, instead of Carol Kasper as reported in yesterday's Daily Egyptian.

Mrs. Castor will serve as a liaison between the Dean of Students office and the student government, not as the liaison between the student government and the Off-campus Housing office as the article stated.

Evaluates Victim's Work Limits

SIU Cardiac Service Aids Patients

A heart patient who has a happy family life is given a much better chance of making recovery. A patient with a nagging spouse and demanding children is "just about sunk."

These are observations of Mrs. Gladys Wakeley, who interviews heart patients and helps evaluate their cases at the unique Cardiac Work Evaluation Unit headquarters in SIU property on West Mill Street.

"There are at least 55 such units in the United States and ours is the only one not attached to a hospital or medical school and which serves such a diversified rural area," said Mrs. Wakeley, social worker and unit coordinator. "We serve all of Illinois but concentrate

Eight Coeds Join Advertising Group

Eight coeds of SIU have become the first initiates on campus into the Gamma Alpha Chi national professional advertising fraternity for women.

Although no GAC chapter has been established at SIU, permission was received from the fraternity headquarters for the girls to be inducted into the group in ceremonies conducted by members of the SIU chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity for women.

It is planned to form a Gamma Alpha Chi chapter at SIU in the spring, according to Donald G. Hileman, associate professor of journalism at SIU and executive secretary of Alpha Delta Sigma.

All the girls are majors in the advertising sequence of SIU's Department of Journalism. They are: Francine Kolcz, Chicago; Cathy Lavin, Springfield; Jacqueline Fancher, Salem; Barbara Wilson, Steger; Serine Hastings, Chicago; Maggie Simpson, Chicago; Susan Fuhrhop, St. Louis; and Jody Erwin Legendre, Pinckneyville.

our work in the lower 33 counties."

Contrary to the idea of some people, the unit's job is not to diagnose or treat heart patients.

"Our responsibility is to evaluate the work potential of those who have suffered heart attacks," Mrs. Wakeley said, "It's very important for heart patients to work, but to work within their limits. Our task is to determine these limits."

Last year the largest number of referrals came from family physicians, followed by the Veterans Administration doctors and the Illinois Heart Association. Ages ranged from 18 to 77. The past year the largest age bracket of referrals was from 56 to 65, compared with 46 to 55 in 1965-66.

Anyone is eligible for the service.

The unit functions as a team, which consists of an internist, a psychologist, and a social worker. This team approach is based on the philosophy that three points of view and three people can gain more knowledge of a patient than any one person. Each specialist interviews the patient.

The team makes a re-evaluation of each patient after six months, then continues the examination on a yearly basis. Mrs. Wakeley said changes that have taken place in patients have been amazing.

There is no charge for the evaluation service, funded by the Illinois Department of Health with some help coming

Army Predicted to Beat Midshipmen

NEW YORK (AP)—The mule is a stubborn animal and the goat gorges himself on tin cans. For that reason we are compelled to pick the Army mule over Navy's goat in Saturday's blue ribbon inter-service football game.

In compiling an 8-1 record compared with the Midshipmen's spotty 4-4-1, the Cadets have shown an alert, swarming, ball-hawking defense. Navy's John Cartwright has an edge in the air over Army's Steve Lindell but the game will be won or lost like all military battles—up there with the infantry.

The picks are: Army 21, Navy 15: Jim Beavans and Bud "The General" Neswischeny should be able to hold Cartwright and his mates to two touchdowns. Meanwhile, look for Lindell, with his wobbly passes, and Charlie Jarvis, with his slashing runs to get at least three for the Black Knights.

Tennessee 28, Vanderbilt 7: It's too late for the Vols to win the No. 1 ranking but they'll pour it on their traditional rivals.

Alabama 15, Auburn 13: When these two teams come to grips, fasten your seat belts, man the seismographs.

Oklahoma 23, Oklahoma State 13: Another rivalry in which records mean little.

Holy Cross 20, Boston College 7: New England's version of the Battle of the Bulge—the Crusaders' bulge should be larger.

Mississippi 14, Mississippi State 7: Picking this one is almost as easy as picking cotton.

Texas A&M 20, Baylor 15: The Horned Frogs win their fifth in a row after dropping their first five—a bizarre reverse.

Rice 10, Baylor 7: It's another case of "Wait 'Til next year" for the unfortunate Bears.

Tulsa 24, Louisville 8: The Hurricanes seem to have re-found their force after dwindling to a zephyr in mid-November.

Utah 30, Hawaii 6: The Hawaiians have some good hip-swingers but none to compare with Utah's Charlie Smith.

NIT Champs Take on Bearkats Tonight

By George Knemeyer

Someone said that when you win something, everybody tries a little harder to beat you from then on.

If that is true, then southern's defending NIT champions have 22 teams that are going to try a little harder to beat them this season, starting with Sam Houston State college at 7:30 tonight in the Arena.

"Sam Houston is a good ball club from a strong basketball conference (Lone Star)," Saluki Coach Jack Hartman says. "This year they're not too big, but you can expect a full court press for 40 minutes."

The Bearkats from Huntsville, Tex., and the "K" in their nickname is correct, had their most successful season in 26 years last year when they finished 20-10 a nd-second in the Lone Star Conference.

Sam Houston has only three returning lettermen, four sophomores and two freshmen on the squad, but they will have one advantage over the Salukis tonight--the Bearkats have already played three games.

The standout of the returning lettermen, and perhaps the whole team, is Bill Mehrens, a 6-4 senior who will start at forward for the Bearkats.

Mehrens was the leading scorer for Sam Houston last year with a 13-point average. Coaches in the conference call him an outstanding outcourt shooter in addition to being one of the team's better rebounders.

The other returning lettermen are Tom Stein, a 6-3 junior who'll start at forward, and Darrel Hunt, a 6-foot guard, who plays the key role in Sam Houston's pressing defense.

The other spots in the Bearkats' lineup will not be as easy to fill.

Two sophomore transfers to Sam Houston, Bill Bracey and Dave Myers, may see a lot of action at either guard or forward. The center position is the real question mark, as three players are vying for the spot. They are Orvil Coborn, Albert McCaskill and John McCreary.

The tallest players on the squad are only 6-4, McCaskill and McCreary.

The SIU lineup is a little more predictable, as four starting positions are filled and one is still up for grabs.

The four starters for sure will be Rex Barker and Willie Griffin at guards, Dick Garrett and Chuck Benson at forward and either Bruce Butchko or Juarez Rosborough at center.

Butchko started at center in the varsity-freshmen game, but Rosborough replaced Butchko in the first half and looked impressive.

No matter who starts at center, the Saluki lineup will be composed of three juniors and two sophomores. Garrett, Griffin and Benson are juniors and Barker, Butchko and Rosborough are sophomores. The varsity is composed of three seniors, six juniors and five sophomores.

In looking over last year's final statistics, here is how each of the probable starters finished.

Garrett -- averaged 15.8 points per game as a starting forward with a 5.9 average per game in rebounds.

Benson -- averaged 5.4 points as a reserve center and forward.

Griffin -- averaged four points per game and looked impressive the second half of last year.

Cagers' Yearbook

On Sale Tonight

For the first time at SIU, a yearbook of the basketball team will be available.

The yearbook will include an outlook on this year's team as well as a review of the NIT championship season last year.

Also included in the yearbook is a 90-page section with clippings from newspapers about last year's team. The clippings, from different papers around the country, trace the 1966-67 basketball season from the start until NIT finish.

A limited number of yearbooks will be on sale tonight and Saturday night at the games. They will also be sold throughout the basketball season for $1.25.

Butchko -- rewrote some freshmen records held by Walt Frazier. He averaged 23.4 points on the frosh squad and got 11.8 rebounds per game. Rosborough--averaged 9.5 points as a forward with an 11.3 average in rebounding. Barker -- averaged 11.4 points as a freshman last year, hitting on 77 per cent of his free throws.

The game is scheduled to start at 8:05 p.m. The ticket office in the Arena will be open from 1 to 4:30 p.m. today and tickets will also be available before the game at the South entrance of the Arena starting at 7:15 p.m.

Seniors Beat Underclassmen In Intrasquad Gym Contest

By Carl Courtmier

Seniors on the SIU men's gymnastics team outscored the underclassmen 125.3 to 100.3 in the tenth annual intrasquad meet.

While his collegiate acrobats polished off their routines Wednesday night, former USGF coach of the year, Bill Meade, took over the public address system and treated the Arena spectators to a taste of gymnastic commentary.

Evaluating the meet, Meade said, "This was the best intrasquad yet, the boys showed the best form and level of execution and variety of routines I've seen this early in a season," he said.

"Wayne Borkowski did the outstanding job of the meet," Meade commented, "he really came through well."

Borkowski, a junior letterman from Chicago, turned in one of the two first place exercises for the underclassmen team, "the Hamburgers." He scored a surprising 9.45 upset of top-seated senior veteran Fred Dennis. Dennis scored a 9.35.

The other "Hamburger" first went to junior Stu Smith, a transfer hailing from Brooklyn, Mass. Smith scored a 9.05 on the high bars beating the again favored Dennis, who scored an 8.85.

Senior Dale Hardt's trampoline routine was judged a 9.4 performance, good enough for first for the upperclassmen "Hot Dog" team.

The rest of the meet was written pretty much with senior All-American Paul Mayer in the lead. Mayer, from El Cerrita, Calif., grabbed the firsts in all other events, including floor exercise, side horse, long horse vault, and parallel bars.
