SIU expenditures questioned by auditor

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

The SIU System has failed to meet requirements of some state laws, regulations and guidelines in its expenditure of state funds, according to a report issued by Illinois Auditor General Robert Cronson.

The auditor general's report covered a two-year period ending April 30, 1981.

According to the report, about $531,000 in tuition and fees for SIU-C students' tuition has not been charged to outside agencies and foreign governments for the 1981 spring semester.

Warren Buffum, vice president for financial affairs, said Monday that SIU-C has "had some problems and the billings were late, but all the billings have been processed."

However, he said that he "can't say for certain" all the money has been collected, but "I would expect that most of it should have been collected by now."

The report also stated that the SIU System has "increased the risk of errors and irregularities" in the collection and processing of cash receipts by failing to establish adequate controls.

During a routine check conducted by the SIU-C Bursar's Office in September, $2,000 was discovered missing, and Buffum said at the time that there was "no reason to suspect anyone of theft."

Buffum said, "We've established better controls in the Bursar's Office that should prevent those things from happening in the future." Access to the "control area of cash" has been limited, Buffum said, and "we've simply established internal points of control for the flow of cash within the office."

The auditor general's report further stated that the system doesn't have sufficient controls for the timely collection of student accounts and loans.

"The Billing Receivables System has improved controls in the accounts receivable area," Buffum said.

He said that he "was not sure what the report was talking about in the loan area," but his office and the Bursar's Office have been working together to improve control systems.

Cronson said the report also "pointed out quite a number of deficiencies" in the SIU System's data processing systems and a lack of strict enforcement of regulations governing travel reimbursement procedures for system employees.

In addition, the report said that an overall budget for activities financed by both state and federal funds is not prepared by the system.

John Baker, special assistant to SIU-C President Albert Somli, for budgeting and planning, could not be reached for comment.

City looking at 'party policies' to end noise-level problems

By John Schrag
Staff Writer

Carbondale city officials, seeking a solution to residents' complaints about noise levels at student parties, are looking at a plan used in another Illinois college town.

Don Monty, director of community development, said a city staff committee told the city council last week it should consider adopting a "party policy" similar to the one used in Normal, home of Illinois State University.

He said although there is a statute prohibiting disturbing the peace, Carbondale doesn't have a residential noise ordinance. He said people who are bothered by nearby parties are often reluctant to sign formal complaints against party hosts, which hampers efforts to quiet the party down.

Monty said a public hearing will be held on the subject on Dec. 14, after Assistant City Manager Scott Ratter and Police Chief Ed Hogan discuss noise ordinances with Normal officials in a meeting to be held there Dec. 11.

"Right now we have a system that is not workable and they seem to have one in Normal that is workable," he said.

David C. Lehr, Normal chief of police, said that party hosts in Normal who do not obtain a city permit are prohibited from producing "loud and raucous noise" that can be heard 50 feet away from amplifying equipment. Residents with a permit are allowed to have noise audible up to 100 feet from the equipment.

Monty said that Carbondale may want to modify this ordinance to prohibit sound from being audible 50 feet from the property line instead of from the amplifying equipment.

"The point we're trying to get at is that once noise becomes a nuisance beyond the property line, it's a problem," Monty said.

He said the council also expressed interest in promoting the establishment of an organization similar to the "Student Association Party Patrol" set up by the student government at Illinois State University.

Lehr said the Party Patrol has five student volunteers on duty Friday and Saturday nights to respond to residents' complaints about loud parties. He said residents can call the Party Patrol directly or reach them through the city police. If it is a first complaint, Lehr said the Party Patrol will be sent to talk to the students, evaluate the problem, inform the students that a complaint has been made and then report to the city police. He said usually two students from the Party Patrol are sent to the scene with a city patrol backup which "pretty much stays out of the picture." "We send the city patrol just in case the situation gets out of hand," he said, "But so far they haven't had to step in."

Lehr said if a second complaint is made, a city patrol is sent to give a second warning. A third complaint ends the party, he said.

"This system has gotten good community response," he said. "It's a procedure that both students and residents are aware of, and it allows us to act quickly and predictably."

He said the Party Patrol, which "went into full force" last fall, usually clears up the problem in its first effort. He said during one month the patrol responded to 48 complaints—of which three-fourths did not receive a second complaint.

Chuck Webber, student association president at ISU, said response to the Party Patrol has been very good.

"Students aren't as defensive when they're approached by another student as when police show up," he said.

Monty said city officials will probably discuss the idea of a Party Patrol with the Undergraduate Student Organization after Ratter and Hogan return from the meeting in Normal.

Also to be discussed at the Dec. 14 public hearing will be accountability for trash and lawn violations in rental properties. Monty said city officials often have trouble locating tenants who violate such city ordinances, and would like to make the landlord and tenant "jointly responsible" for laws and trash problems.

Two men indicted on cocaine charges

By Douglas Hamm
Staff Writer

A federal grand jury in East St. Louis has indicted two Miami men in connection with an investigation of a cocaine ring that allegedly operated from Miami to Carbondale.

Francisco Jose Tobon and Gregory Palmis were indicted Nov. 18 on charges of conspiracy to distribute cocaine, distribution and possession with intent to distribute cocaine, unlawful use of a communication device and interstate travel in aid of racketeering.

Nine other persons were listed as "unindicted co-conspirators" by the grand jury, according to the U.S. attorney's office in East St. Louis.

Named as unindicted co-conspirators by the grand jury were: Maria Adelaida Restrepo de Tobon, Alvaro Enrique Fernandez-Tamayo, William S. Fiorillo, Barry K. Olson, Christopher T. Jacobs, Steven S. Sonen, James O. Luke, Matthew A. Colandra and Brian D. Steiner.

The 18-month investigation culminated three weeks ago in Miami with the seizure of 20 pounds of Colombian cocaine and the arrests of five Colombian nationals.

Thirteen persons were arrested in Carbondale during the investigation and eight pounds of cocaine was seized in what Drug Enforcement Administration agents labeled "the largest cocaine seizure ever in Southern Illinois."

The investigation was conducted by the DEA, the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group and Carbondale and SIU-C police.

A conviction on all counts of the indictment would result in maximum penalties of 39 years imprisonment and $90,000 in fines.

In a separate case, the grand jury also indicted Everette J. Rieckenberg and Bobby L. Arnett of Perry County on five counts of distribution of a controlled substance. The indictment was based on information developed in an investigation conducted by the DEA.

U.S.-Israeli agreement reached on Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel and the United States agreed formally Monday to cooperate militarily against any threats to the Middle East by Soviet-controlled forces from outside the region.

It was the first agreement of its kind between the two countries.

One of the few details released by the Pentagon said the two countries would conduct "joint military exercises, including naval and air exercises in the eastern Mediterranean."

In an obvious effort to reassure Arab countries that the United States and Israel would not act together against any of them, a joint statement by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon said the new agreement "is not directed at any state or group of states within the Middle East."

A four-page "Memorandum of Understanding" described the agreement in general but left most details to new U.S.-Israeli bodies, including a "Coordinating Council" and "Joint Working Groups." The first will meet in January.

Burriss says state economy is 'dark,' 'not heartening'

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — As a chilly rain fell outside the Statehouse, the Illinois comptroller issued an equally dismal assessment Monday of the state's financial condition.

"The Illinois economic picture is not heartening," said Comptroller Roland W. Burriss in his monthly report on the state's fiscal condition.

The report projected "darker days ahead for the state's economy, plus the probability of still more Illinoisans out of work."

In addition to the weak condition of the overall economy, the state's cash flow situation was struggling, according to the report.

"The state's fiscal health continues to be anemic but far short of intensive care," the report said.

Hardest hit by high interest rates and recession are industries producing durable goods such as transportation equipment, metals, electrical equipment and lumber and wood products, the report said.

As a result, Illinois and other Midwest states producing durable goods are suffering higher-than-average unemployment. The trend is likely to continue, Burriss said, until the national economy improves.

Illinois' jobless rate in October was 8.3 percent, compared with a national rate of 8 percent. It was 10.4 percent in Ohio in October and 12.7 percent in Michigan.

The report, which included financial information gathered through the end of October, blamed the recession on the Federal Reserve Board's tight money policies, aimed at lowering the inflation rate.

"Just as consumer credit controls of the spring of 1980 caused a brief recession ... the extraordinarily high interest rates which have prevailed over the past 20 months have finally caused a collapse in the purchases and production of durables."

Alcohol discovered in Wood's blood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Natalie Wood, angry over an argument between her husband, Robert Wagner, and actor Christopher Walken, stormed off the Wagners' yacht and apparently fell into the sea while trying to board a dinghy, Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi said Monday.

She had been drinking before she accidentally drowned early Sunday and her blood-alcohol level was above that of legal intoxication for drivers, Noguchi said.

"Apparently there was a non-violent argument between Mr. Wagner and the other actor," Noguchi told a news conference. "Apparently this was the reason she (Miss Wood) separated herself from the group."

Noguchi said Miss Wood's blood contained 0.14 percent alcohol. Normally, 0.10 percent is considered intoxicated when driving, although Noguchi said he would not really consider her drunk. He said the blood-alcohol level was consistent with having had seven or eight glasses of wine with dinner.

"This was one of the factors involved in her not being able to respond in case of emergency," Noguchi said.

He said the accidental death ruling was supported by the fact that the dinghy had been untied and that there was a scratch on

Miss Wood's cheek consistent with a fall in which she might have hit her head on the yacht or the motorized rubber dinghy.

She could not cry out, he guessed, because she had swallowed water.

He said investigators had nothing "concrete" on the nature of the argument between Wagner and Walken. Walken had been costarring with Miss Wood in a film being shot on Catalina.

Earlier, the coroner's office released a written statement saying there was "no evidence of foul play" in her death.

Nuclear arms race talks begin

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — U.S. arms negotiator Paul H. Nitze and Soviet Ambassador Yuri A. Kvitsinsky met for 1 1/2 hours Monday at the start of talks aimed at checking the nuclear arms race in Europe.

Calling the introductory session "cordial and businesslike," the 74-year-old veteran U.S. negotiator told reporters he and Kvitsinsky agreed there would be no public disclosures on what is being negotiated in the months ahead.

Reagan aide being paid by firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michael K. Deaver, one of President Reagan's top three aides, has been receiving deferred payments on the pre-inaugural sale of a firm which, at the same time, bought out a similar enterprise headed by national security adviser Richard V. Allen.

Senate records show that since the Reagan administration took office, the firm, the Hannaford Co. Inc., has quadrupled the number of domestic and foreign groups for which it is a registered lobbyist.

Governor accused of 'twisting arms'

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson is "twisting a lot of arms" to keep Republican leaders from backing state Sen. Donald Totten's bid for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor, Totten said Monday in naming U.S. Rep. Tom Corcoran to head his drive.

Totten is seeking the GOP nomination in March to be Thompson's running mate against the governor's handpicked choice for the No. 2 post, Illinois House Speaker George Ryan of Kankakee.

Although candidates for governor and lieutenant governor run as a ticket in the general election, they run separately in the party primaries.

University relations VP interviews scheduled

By David Murphy
Staff Writer

Interviews will begin here Wednesday with the first of three finalists for the job of vice president for university relations.

William J. Farrell, 45, associate vice president for educational development and research at the University of Iowa, will be on campus for two days, according to Terry Mathias, doctoral assistant to the president.

Farrell will meet with the search committee in charge of finding a new vice president, leaders of campus constituency groups and President Albert Somit, Mathias said.

Farrell, a native of Milwaukee, Wis., received a bachelor's degree in English from Marquette University. He has a master's and a doctorate in English from the University of Wisconsin, and he holds a master's degree in business administration from Marquette University.

Two other candidates for the position will be interviewed next week, at which time their names will be released, according to Mathias.

An open session for members of the campus community to interview Farrell will be held Thursday from 3:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Illinois Room of the Student Center.

The vice presidential position was vacated May 12 when George Mace took a leave of absence to become an executive consultant with the American Council on Education in Washington.

The 12-member search committee was appointed in September by Somit.

After the candidates have been interviewed, Somit will appoint the new vice president.

You can't put laughter in an envelope.

Sometimes a letter just doesn't say it. What's more, a letter never says anything back.

There's something about picking up the phone and hearing your best friend's voice the very next second, long distance. You can give her the lowdown, get the scoop, confide, complain, console—share everything—in the time it takes you to hunt down an envelope.

And a phone call has neither rain nor sleet nor dark of night to contend with at the other end.

Opinion & Commentary

The American media: A monster gone wild

Beyond the question of Richard Allen's guilt or innocence, the controversy swirling around him provides a revealing glimpse of that monster gone wild: the American news media.

There seems little doubt at this point that Allen's goose is cooked.

For those who have not bothered to read a newspaper or watch TV news the last few weeks, the White House national security adviser is the media's latest villain — a distinction he has gained because he committed the blunder of accepting $1,000 for arranging a Japanese magazine interview of Nancy Reagan.

Allen admits that he exercised "bad judgment" in accepting the envelope in the first place, but he insists that he was not aware of its contents and that he completely forgot about it after placing it in his office safe. Perhaps. But that explanation will not save his hide. He has become the latest target of the news media's insatiable desire for another scandal and it is a battle he cannot win, whether he is innocent or not.

Allen confirmed his surrender on "Meet the Press" Sunday when he announced that he was taking an "administrative leave." But he did not roll over and die without taking a few parting shots at the treatment he has received at the hands of the media.

Since the controversy began, he said, members of the press have gathered outside his home every day at 5:30 in the morning, have been climbing trees to get a better view of the inside and, on one occasion, attempted to interview his 6-year-old daughter.

None of these statements were challenged by the members of the press questioning him, undoubtedly because it is an accurate description of the madness outside his home.

Not that the story of Richard Allen's alleged misdeeds is unworthy of the media's attention. When a government official is suspected of taking gifts there is reason to be concerned about his ethics or lack thereof.

But in pursuing the Allen story, some members of the media have only raised significant questions about their ethics — or lack thereof. The hunger to break a story about scandal in government has become an all-consuming passion — a passion which disregards an individual's right of privacy and the right to be presumed innocent until proven otherwise.

It is difficult to understand what information can be gained by peering into the windows of someone's home and interviewing 6-year-old children, and it is simply unconscionable that a man should be driven out of his job before a legal determination of his guilt is made. But there you have it. Such is the reckless use some "journalists" make of their power.

If the media can play judge and jury with a Richard Allen, what's to stop them from playing havoc with the careers of people less deserving of criticism? It's almost as if Watergate was less a boon to investigative journalism than a portent of its debasement.

Hope for Saluki basketball

The men's basketball team won a game last Saturday. After a long drought, including the longest losing streak for basketball in SIU-C athletic history, the win was particularly sweet.

The team seems to have rebounded from that foul season. There is reason to hope the Salukis will do better. A few new faces, including a new head coach, dot the SIU-C bench. And there was real enthusiasm shown on the part of the players.

It's great to see the team with so much gusto at the beginning of the season, and also very heartening for the fans. However, it must be remembered that Southeast Missouri State, the team the Salukis beat Saturday, is hardly a basketball powerhouse. The Indians are picked to finish near the bottom of their conference and they had no players taller than 6-foot 7-inches.

The caliber of competition is only going to get tougher for the basketball team. The old adage is that when the going gets tough, the tough get going. It is hoped the men in the maroon and white can keep on going — and that the fans will be tolerant if the Salukis happen to lose a few.

Co-op should deal in credit

This idea seems so simple, I really wonder why it isn't being used. I'm writing about the proposed Undergraduate Student Organization book co-op. I think the co-op should deal in credit instead of cash.

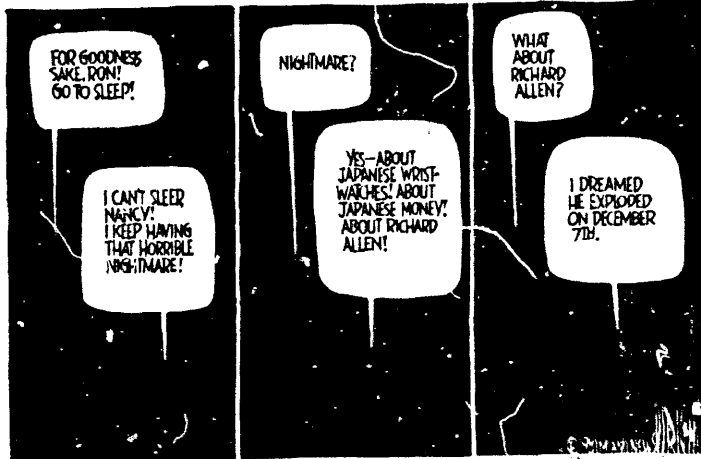

When a person sells his book to the co-op, he can receive a coupon redeemable for another book of equivalent value. It's so simple — coupons are given for books instead of cash and the books needed the next semester are bought with these coupons. Nobody wants to wait a month for their money. A person without coupons can buy books with cash. That will give the USO cash which they can pay people who didn't want to trade their coupons for books.

Now the only problem I can see with this is that some creative person might try to forge coupons and put themselves through school with the money. This problem can be worked out. By using water-marked coupons like stamps, it can be made impossible to alter an existing coupon and very difficult to forge one.

Even if it's too late to use this credit method of book exchange for spring semester, I think it should be used in the long run.

Pre-charging consumers for pipeline is 'new-style' free enterprise

SEN. Howard Metzenbaum (D-Ohio) is no mincer of words, which is well enough known. But he does not mince on offering his time or energies either.

In the Senate a few days ago, in debate of a resolution that would greatly help an energy consortium and banks to move ahead with the construction of the Alaska natural gas pipeline, Metzenbaum told his colleagues that the resolution "reflects greed... If you think that this deal can be justified in your state, go out and talk to your people and tell them what is in it. If you want me to come along, I will come along and debate you publicly. This is a raw deal. You should not be doing it."

Metzenbaum had no takers. That wasn't surprising. What senator, favoring waivers to several current energy laws, would want to go before citizens and be defenseless against the pro-consumer, pro-fairness and pro-free enterprise arguments that Metzenbaum would offer?

IT WAS much better — because it was much quieter and speedier — to engage in a quickie hour-long debate that ended in a 75-19 vote in favor of the resolution. One of the waivers would require that consumers be pre-charged — through their monthly gas bills — the costs of the pipeline, even if it is never finished nor a drop of gas delivered.

An examination of the debate is worthwhile because the House is scheduled to vote soon also.

The pipeline is projected as running from Alaska's North Slope to California in one branch and to Illinois in another. With the $40 billion, 4,790-mile project hailed as history's greatest earth-removal program, the issue now is dollar removal.

WHOSE dollars? Metzenbaum says that "the major banks have scrutinized this project and decided that there is a major risk that the pipeline might not be completed or that the Alaskan gas might not be marketable."

With the banks and consortium unwilling to lend their money, that leaves the consumers. "Modifications" to the laws, as passed by the Senate, mean that they would be stuck with the bill should the risky project not be completed on schedule by 1987.

The bills won't be small. Estimates range from between $118-$200 million per year per residence in Michigan to $82-$89 million per year in California. Citing these figures, Metzenbaum says the bills would continue for 20 years. The money would begin being paid in 1987 if any of the pipeline's three segments are completed, even though the gas is undelivered because the overall project is uncompleted.

SUPPORTERS of the waivers argued that consumers — residential and industrial — shouldn't worry. The risk is minimal that they will be required to pay. But Metzenbaum asked precisely the right question: "If the risk on noncompletion and delay is as small as the pipeline sponsors claim, then they should not be borne merely by consumers who face the danger of seeing their gas bills go up sharply in 1987 when getting nothing in return."

Four years ago Congress accepted assurances from the energy consortium that consumers couldn't be brokered into this game as unwilling financial backers. But now Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.), favoring the resolution, argues that "we must approach these difficult issues pragmatically. We must adapt to a changing, dynamic world."

Jackson's clichés are as squishy as the Alaskan permafrost in spring. The world hasn't changed so dynamically since 1977 that the rules must now be drastically altered.

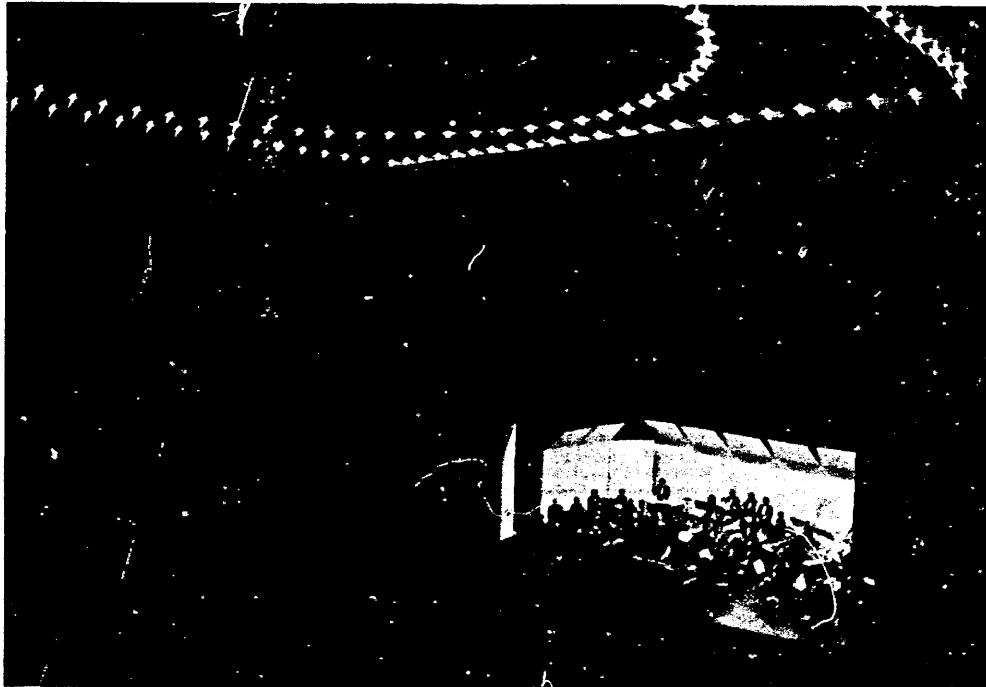

THE PIPELINE consortium — well-financed in its Washington lobbying effort — has been playing on congressional fears about national security: to go against the waivers is to oppose the delivery of Alaska's gas. It isn't. The vote against the waivers is a vote in favor of corporate resourcefulness. If the project is economically sound, then surely the wealthy energy industry — never bashful in boasting of its can-do creativity — can figure out a way to build and finance it. If the pipeline isn't able to hold its own in the marketplace, why continue?

The upcoming vote in the House will center on what kind of free enterprise the public deserves. In the old-style kind, the consumer paid his bill when the seller delivered the goods. But in new-style free enterprise, preferred by the energy companies and their banker's, the consumer pays whether he gets the goods or not. Old is better. It had to do with basic American fairness. — (c) 1981, The Washington Post Company.

DOONESBURY

Funding, community support named as keys to SIU-C orchestra's future

The SIU Symphony Orchestra has been in existence for 20 to 25 years. But according to Daniel Mellado, its conductor, the orchestra has yet to become a major cultural impetus on campus.

Mellado conducted the orchestra Nov. 19 through its first performance of the school year, a concert featuring distinguished alumni performing as soloists.

At universities across the nation, the symphony is considered to be of vital importance in terms of the school's cultural atmosphere.

According to Mellado, the development and prosperity of the orchestra could be extremely beneficial to the image of SIU-C.

"These days, we're in the era of big names," said Mellado. "People go to see a name and miss out on the central literature of a performance. If we could develop a first-rate orchestra and then bring in some names, we would bring in some money and help improve Carbondale's burned-out image at the same time."

Mellado said the orchestra currently faces two problems—lack of scholarship money and lack of support. The quality of its musicians is improving, but the orchestra is limited to one effort a semester due to rehearsal time, Mellado said, while other Illinois schools can present as many as three performances in a semester.

According to Mellado, although the Music School has been treated equally in comparison with other departments, the orchestra just doesn't have adequate scholarship money.

"It's not uncommon for other universities to entice string players with yearly scholarships of $3,000," he said. "SIU just isn't coming up with the money for specific orchestra scholarships."

The group's other problem, lack of support, can't be blamed on the faculty, Mellado said.

Faculty support for the symphony is strong. In fact, 10 of the symphony's 50 members belong to the faculty.

However, Mellado said, support from the community and the University as a whole are lacking.

According to Mellado, many look upon the arts as unnecessary.

"We only value that which we measure quantitatively. You can't measure a work of art by numbers. Just because we can't put it on paper doesn't mean it isn't important."

Although the orchestra's problems haven't been solved yet, Mellado sees things going in a positive direction.

"The discipline and experience are already there. If we can continue good programming, the community support will follow," he said.

In its concert, the symphony featured soprano Jeanine Wagner performing two operatic arias: "Vorrei spiegarvi" from Mozart's "Il curioso indiscreto" and "Casta cava" from Bellini's "Norma."

Wagner received two degrees in music at SIU-C and is currently enrolled at the University of Illinois in a doctoral program.

Also featured were Wilfred Delphin and Edwin Romain, duo pianists who performed Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Major" for two pianos. Both musicians received master's degrees in music at Carbondale and are currently pursuing performance careers together, specializing in literature for two pianos.

GSC to vote on athletics resolutions

A resolution opposing the merger of the men's and women's athletics programs will be considered by the Graduate Student Council at its meeting Wednesday.

The council, which will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room, will vote on two other resolutions, one opposing the addition of six scholarships for the football team, and the other urging the administration to make a decision on what will be done with surplus money from the women's athletics program.

Debbie Brown, GSC president, said the council's executive committee opposes the athletics merger partly because there is no evidence that it would save money.

The resolution opposing the additional six football scholarships proposes that the scholarships be awarded to men's sports not as heavily financed as football in order to help promote a broader sports program.

A third resolution calls for the administration to decide how it will allocate a surplus of about $125,000 from the fiscal 1981 women's athletics budget. The surplus was carried over to this year's athletics budget, but the administration has not yet announced how the money will be spent.

Sam Rinella, director of University Housing, will give a presentation on a proposed 11.5-percent rent increase for Evergreen Terrace for next year at the meeting. Many graduate students live at Evergreen Terrace.

Evergreen Terrace's house council has voted to support the increase, and the GSC may consider a resolution on the increase following Rinella's presentation, said Laura Nelson.

TENDONITIS PROBLEMS

If you have a muscular pain in any part of your body, it may be caused by a condition known as tendonitis (inflammation of a tendon).

The joints in your body, in addition to bone and muscle, include tendons. These are fibrous cords that attach the muscle to the bone. When a tendon becomes inflamed it can cause pain as sharp as that associated with bursitis. The cause may be excessive stress caused by muscles out of balance.

time and with the right amount of pressure. If the muscles are out of balance, this can result in excessive stress on the tendons, causing irritation and inflammation.

Treatment to restore muscle balance and to check for any misalignments in the spine and nervous system may eliminate the source of the problem and the pain.

Burglars active over holiday

Carbondale and SIU-C police reported burglaries over the Thanksgiving break that resulted in losses totaling over $5,000.

A resident of Mae Smith Hall told SIU-C police she found a man burglarizing her room at about 9:25 p.m. Sunday. Maria Malahy said the suspect fled down a stairwell and escaped. She reported stereo equipment, two radios, a camera, a calculator and cash stolen, with an estimated loss of $750. She gave police a description of the burglar.

Keith A. Seeger, of the 400 block of West College Street, told police that stereo equipment, a camera and tools, valued at $3,500, were taken from his basement apartment. Kathryn D. Farman, of South Ash Street, reported a camera, stereo equipment and headphones, valued at $675, were stolen from her apartment.

Two SIU-C students with apartments in the 400 block of East College Street reported burglaries. Jerry Thomas, 21, reported over $300 in goods taken from his locked apartment. George Danakas, 21, reported stereo equipment, books, clothing and food, valued at $285, stolen from his apartment.

Theodore Bessette, a Mae Smith resident, reported two headphone sets and a cassette player, valued at $250, stolen from his room.

SIU-C, Argonne scientists look for coal research funding

By Kathy Kamienski
Staff Writer

Because federal funding of study on more efficient uses of coal has been sliced, SIU-C and Argonne National Laboratory scientists hope to coax coal-related industries into helping finance research.

Researchers are trying to convince the Illinois coal industry, coal-using utilities and high technology industries that they all have something to gain by pursuing the potential of magnetohydrodynamics or MHD—a method of generating electricity from the high-temperature combustion gases of burning coal.

Kenneth E. Tempelmeyer, dean of the College of Engineering and Technology, says scientists are trying to put together a consortium of coal and technology industry interests who want to pursue the research.

Before coming to SIU-C, Tempelmeyer had been involved in MHD research for the past 10 years with scientists from Argonne and the University of Tennessee.

During that time the federal government has spent $400 million on the project.

But, like most researchers, artists and others, scientists were hurt by this year's initial budget, which allotted nothing for MHD research. Congress restored $30 million of MHD funding, Tempelmeyer says, but that is less than half of last year's $75 million appropriation.

Researchers would first like to work on a model retrofitting project with a utility using a coal burning system.

"We'd take an existing coal-burning boiler and retrofit it, it's a matter of adding equipment to the facility, and they'd be able to use MHD," Tempelmeyer says. "It's significantly more efficient and it costs about one-fourth or one-third what a new steam plant might."

An old steam plant could increase its efficiency by about 5 percent, in one instance the researchers have studied. "In the utility business, five points is significant," Tempelmeyer says.

Second, the scientists want to work out a cost analysis and to see just what an MHD power operation would look like.

Coal burning utilities would reduce their costs, coal producers would see more coal to be used in the process and high technology industries would expand their product lines by making new components for the system, Tempelmeyer contends.

MHD technology isn't new. It was pioneered in this country in the 1950s and early '60s. The Soviet Union began research in the 1960s and has kept at it more persistently. As late as two years ago the United States and Soviets were cooperating in MHD research and development.

In fact, Tempelmeyer was within a week of boarding a military transport plane bound for Moscow with a $12 million U.S.-built generator that was to be connected with a Soviet boiler to further test MHD research theories.

But Soviet troops invaded Afghanistan and the United States cooled its cooperation on the MHD project as well as many others.

The process essentially produces more energy than traditional steam turbine generators because the combustion gases from burning coal conduct electricity. A chemical compound is added to the gases to produce the electrical energy, eliminating the need for some components of a traditional energy system.

The electricity is moved into a duct and generates a current. The duct takes the current out and produces energy directly, instead of having to pass it through the turbine and power the generator.

For a utility it would mean about 50 percent more energy produced from a pound of coal, Tempelmeyer says.

MHD's basic advantage is its efficiency. It also eliminates emissions of sulfur dioxide pollutants by 90 percent and uses all types of coal, not just cleaner-burning Western coal.

There are disadvantages, however, Tempelmeyer says. Very high temperatures—about 5,000 degrees as compared to 2,500 degrees in a traditional steam plant—reduce the lifespan of certain plant equipment.

The average steam plant operates about 7,000 hours a year without stopping, except partially, for routine maintenance. MHD operations have an average lifespan of 1,000 hours because the high temperatures cause more wear to components.

competed in the 190-pound class. Team scores were not kept since the open was held early in the season. The Salukis lost their first dual meet 37-7 at Southwest Missouri State Nov. 24. The grapplers were 1-9-1 for the 10 weight classes. Sophomore Gerald Richards won the 118-pound class, while juniors Keith Abney settled for a tie in the 126-pound class. The team opened its season Nov. 20 at the St. Louis Open at Forest Park Community College. Team scores were not kept.

Six gridders make all-MVC team

The familiar bad news is that the Saluki football team barely failed to win its conference this season. The fresh good news is that the Salukis, who finished a half-game behind co-champs Drake and Tulsa, placed more players on the United Press International All-Missouri Valley Conference team than any other Valley team.

Six Salukis were named to UPI's first team last week, while five members from both Drake and Tulsa were named.

Three Salukis made UPI's first-team offensive squad—senior tailback Walter Poole and seni offensive linemen Chris Lockwood and Darren Davis.

Poole rushed for 1,092 yards despite missing his last two games with a knee injury. Poole's 121 yards-per-game rushing average was second to Drake's Amero Ware, who rushed for 123 a game and ran for 1,353 during the season. Ware was also named to UPI's first team.

Saluki senior Tom Striegel was UPI's selection as first-team punter. The Carbondale native finished second in the nation with his 45.9 average, which is third-best in MVC history.

Two Saluki juniors, end John Harper and safety Greg Shipp, made UPI's first-team defensive unit. Harper had five tipped passes and Shipp grabbed four interceptions this season.

Two Salukis received UPI honorable mention—junior quarterback Rick Johnson and place-kicker Paul Molla. Johnson's 564 completion percentage was tops in the conference and Molla finished first in MVC scoring with 68 points.

Senior offensive lineman Chester Cropp made UPI's second team.

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

Low Hartzog's men's cross country team placed 15th out of 23 teams at the NCAA National Championships Nov. 23 at Echo Hills Golf Course in Wichita, Kan.

Texas-El Paso, the defending national champ, had its runners place 1, 2, 3, 5 and 6 for a team total of 17. UTEP's nearest competitor was Providence, which tallied a 109. Arkansas was third with 175. Wisconsin took fourth with 179, UCLA was fifth with 187. Eastern Tennessee had 223, Arizona scored 253, Florida State had 257, Clemson tallied 300 and Illinois rounded out the top 10 with 375. The Salukis, ranked 11th nationally in a pre-season poll by Harrier Magazine, scored their 15th-place finish with 384 points.

"I am disappointed about the way we ran and so are the kids," said Hartzog. "We could have run much better than we did. But we still placed 15th in the United States."

Tom Ross was the Salukis' top runner, placing 64th. Ross was the team's third runner going into the national meet.

Mike Keane, who led the Salukis in all but two meets this season, placed 72nd. Captain Karsten Schulz was the Salukis' third runner, placing 75th. Bill Moran was next at 81st, Tom Breen was 92nd, Gary Munson finished 100th and Bill Laser crossed the line at 142nd.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

The women's swimming and diving team splashed to a double-dual meet victory over Northwestern and Wyoming on Nov. 20 at Evanston.

Paced by a pair of triple-event winners and by winning performances off the diving boards, the Salukis beat Northwestern 94-53 and Wyoming 94-54.

Barb Larsen and Janie Coontz each won three events. Larsen won the 100-meter individual medley in 1:01.56, the 50 freestyle in 21.5 and the 500 freestyle in 5:10.2. Coontz won the 100 freestyle in 54.2, the 400 IM in 4:35.3 and the 200 freestyle in 1:53.7.

Pam Ratcliffe qualified for the nationals with her winning time of 30.8 in the 50 breaststroke and she claimed the 50 butterfly with a 27.2.

All-American senior Tracey Terrell and freshman Sandra Bollinger took first and second respectively in both the one- and three-meter diving events.

MEN'S SWIMMING

The men's swimming team won both meets held at the Missouri-Rolla Nov. 20-21.

The Salukis won 12 of 11 events and set 11 pool records as it won the seven-team Moeer Classic. SIU-C tallied 532 points to take first place and the Salukis were followed by Drury with 346 and Missouri-Rolla with 138.

Senior Roger Von Jouanne won the 200-yards individual medley and both the 400 and 200 butterfly.

Keith Armstrong won the 50 and 100 freestyle events and Mike Bond won the 400 IM and the 1650 freestyle. Other double winners for the Salukis were Pablo Kestrepo, who won the 100 and 200 breaststroke, and Conrado Porta, who won the 200 breaststroke and the 500 freestyle.

SIU-C set meet records in four events and scored 346 points to win the Miner Relays. Missouri finished second with 288 points and was followed by Drury with 282 and Missouri-Rolla with 248.

VOLLEYBALL

The volleyball team finished third at the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Region V Tournament in Macomb Nov. 24-21.

It was the best finish by a Saluki team since the first AIAW region tournament held in 1971.

The Salukis went undefeated in pool play but fell to No. 3-seeded Ohio State in the semi-finals, 10-15, 8-15, 15-12, 5-15. SIU-C won the third place match over Central Michigan, 15-9, 15-8. The Salukis finished the season with a 30-17 record.

Junior middle blocker Sonya Locke was named to the all-region team and was the top vote getter. Locke also was nominated for All-American. Twelve players will be named to the AIAW All-American team sometime in December. Locke has an excellent chance to be named to that team since she was the top vote receiver in the region, according to Coach Debbie Hunter.

WRESTLING

Junior Tim Dillick and senior Dale Shea each placed fourth in the Oklahoma Open at Norman, Okla., Nov. 27-28. Dillick wrestled in the 142-pound weight class and Shea

Cagers blow 13-point lead; 61-58 loss evens record at 1-1

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's basketball team wasted a second-half 13-point lead and lost 61-58 at the University of Charleston Monday night.

Charleston, a Division II team located in West Virginia, never led in the turnover-filled game until there were 16 seconds left. It was then that point guard Buddy Valensky dumped in two free throws to slide the Golden Eagle ahead 61-58.

"We have to do a better job on half-court offense," Saluki Coach Allen Van Winkle said on his post-game radio show. "We have to find some inside people who want to play. Except for Charles Nance, all of our big people have to prove themselves."

The biggest player on the Saluki squad, 6-10 center Rod Camp, played about three minutes in the second half. He shot once, lofting an air-ball, and committed a foul and a turnover.

Nance finished with eight points. He fouled out with about five minutes left, when the Salukis had a six-point lead. From then on, the Salukis scored only six points. The Eagles scored 14, tattering the Saluki defense that had contained them the first half.

"We played man-to-man half the time and zone half," Van Winkle said. "When we played man, we got fouls called."

Man or zone, the Saluki defense was stung in the first half. Charleston scored 27 first-half points, hitting only 11 of 33 field goal attempts.

The Eagles' two biggest scorers, center Sheldon Watlington and forward Johnny Johnson, were nearly shut out the first half. Johnson failed to score and Watlington had only two points. In the Eagles' previous pair of wins, the two had averaged 34 points.

Saluki forward Darnall Jones covered Johnson throughout the game and had the chance to further embarrass an already humbled Johnson with 2:20 left.

With 2:20 to go, Johnson grabbed Valensky's errant lay-up attempt and slammed it in to tie the game 58-58, but the 6-7 forward held onto the rim and was given a technical foul. Jones took 15 consecutive successful free-throw attempts to the line. His miss was his first of the season. A couple of turnovers later, with a minute to go, Johnson blocked Jones' shot to keep the game tied.

With Johnson and Watlington held down through the game, the Eagles had to hope someone could make up for the lack of scoring. Davi Daniel did in the second half. Held to two points in the first half, Daniel scored 11 in the second.

Valensky led Charleston with 14 points. Forward Keith Creighton had 12.

Jones and guard Johnny Fayne divided 32 points down the middle to lead the Saluki scorers. Nance was next with his eight.

The win hoisted Charleston to 3-0 and dropped SIU-C to 1-1. The Salukis opened the season Saturday by clipping Division II opponent Southeast Missouri State 91-67 at the Arena.

Jones led the Saluki scorers with 15 points against SEMO. Fayne pitched in with 13, guard Jim Copeland had 12.

Sophomore guard Susan Wright aims a shot for the Salukis as Indiana's Julie Johnson guards her.

second half but it really didn't have a great effect on the Saluki offense. Plab along with back-court mates Beth Stevens dribbled out of the full-court pressure by themselves.

Indiana was led in scoring by Julie Fronenberger who pumped in 20 points. Deb McClurg nine rebounds for Indiana.

The win upped the Saluki record to 2-0. SIU-C dumped Murray State Saturday in the opening game of the season by a 68-62 score at Murray. Four Saluki players scored in double figures with sophomore guard Sue Wright leading the way with 15 points in only 17 minutes of play.

The Saluki front line of Faber, Connie Price and Char Warring combined for 29 points and grabbed 23 of the team's 29 rebounds.

SIU-C connected on 51 percent of its shots and used a half-court trap zone to limit Murray State to 39 percent.

The Salukis hit only 50 percent of its free throws and saw a 16 point lead evaporate in the final five minutes.

Lady cagers edge Hoosiers; Plab sparks stalled offense

By Keith Mascitti
Staff Writer

For the first 37 minutes of the women's basketball game against Indiana, the Salukis were in control. At one point in time SIU-C led by 17 points. At the final buzzer the Salukis had won by only a point, 77-76.

For much of the game, the Salukis used a slow offense which allowed them to exploit the Hoosiers' smaller forwards and maintain its game-long lead. At the 15:00 mark of the second half SIU-C went to the fast break, which featured the Saluki forwards firing the ball to their quick guard D.D. Plab and quickly built a 61-44 advantage.

After padding the lead, SIU-C played conservative basketball and didn't get off the good shots and passes as it had been for the majority of the contest. Indiana played scrappy defense and with 43 seconds left to play the Hoosiers took the lead for the first time on a Denise Jackson bank shot.

At this point Plab took things into her own hands. Getting the ball into her forwards hadn't been working and SIU-C was turning the ball over consistently at crucial times. Indiana stole the momentum and ran the ball like the Salukis did

With 18 seconds left, and the offense gone stagnant, Plab hit a daring jump shot from 15 feet to put the Salukis ahead to stay.

Besides reviving the stalled offense in the final seconds, the 5-7 guard scored 25 points and dished off four assists. Plab also was able to sneeze in the backdoor of the Hoosier defense as quietly as a drunken husband does in the early morning.

But more importantly, her outside shooting and drives to the hoop opened the door for forward junior Sue Faber who pounded in 26 points and grabbed 16 rebounds.

The Hoosiers applied full court pressure for much of the and quickly built a 61-44 advantage.
