GSL program to feel budget crunch

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

It's too early to tell how the Guaranteed Student Loan program may be affected by the deficit-reduction deal struck last week by Congress and the Reagan administration, education officials say.

The package — designed to trim the nation's budget deficit by $76 billion over the next two years — calls for a $250 million cut in the GSL program. The deal still must be passed by Congress and signed by President Reagan.

Mike Becker, a spokesman for the federal Department of Education, said Monday it is too early to speculate on possible effects of the cut.

"To speculate on what Congress is going to do or what the budget situation is going to be is ludicrous," Becker said.

But Tom Lyon, also of the Department of Education, predicted the impact would be negligible. The department had anticipated a cut in the GSL program under the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law and took several steps to lessen the impact, Lyon said.

Under the Gramm-Rudman law, $23 billion in automatic spending cuts went into effect Nov. 18. However, those cuts could be canceled if Congress approves the package of tax increases and spending reductions agreed to by White House and Congressional

Haitian election pledged

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Haiti's military leader says a new president will be inaugurated by Feb. 7 despite the election day bloodbath that killed at least 34 people and stopped voting just hours after it began.

The aborted election was to have been the first in Haiti in 30 years.

Rafael Faustin, administrator of Port-au-Prince's main hospital said 22 people had been killed and 67 wounded, most by gunshot, in Sunday's attacks and were taken to the hospital.

But Meridien Merite, director of the hospital's morgue, said Monday that 12 people had died of wounds overnight, bringing the death toll to 34. Faustin refused to allow a journalist to count the bodies in the morgue to verify the report.

City streets were tense but quiet early today with an occasional tap-tap — a private bus that is the mainstay of transportation — seen on the streets. Apparently few workers traveled to their jobs and there was no sign if stores would open or not after Sunday's frenzied violence.

The National Governing Council, the ruling junta, served notice over state-run Radio National that it will remain in power and suspended the Provisional Electoral Council, whose elections Sunday would have restored civilian rule to the impoverished Caribbean nation.

The leader of Haiti's military-run government, Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, declared

Thousands mourned former Chicago Mayor Harold Washington, who died last Wednesday of a heart attack.

The first mayor to win successive terms since Richard J. Daley, Washington was buried Monday.

Chicago says farewell to Washington

CHICAGO (UPI) — National, state and local politicians joined thousands of Chicagoans Monday in saying their final farewells to the city's first black mayor, Harold Washington.

More than 4,000 people, including Democratic presidential candidates Jesse Jackson and Paul Simon, jammed Christ Universal Temple for a two-hour service to mourn the death of Washington, who suffered a fatal heart attack Wednesday. He was 65.

Church bells rang throughout the city as the funeral services began, drowning out at least temporarily the political jockeying for the mayor's office that began at almost the same moment that Washington was pronounced dead.

The tributes, however, to the first mayor since the legendary Richard J. Daley to win re-election to a second term were peppered with political language aimed not only at Washington's supporters, but also at the mayor's enemies.

"We who live must keep the team together," Jackson said. "Harold's latest slate (candidates for county office) is a monument to his vision of the city and urban America."

Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson remembered Washington on a more personal note, bringing laughter to those in attendance when he said, "He gave a new meaning to rhetoric. When you were denounced by Harold, you were denounced. When something he thought needed to be exposed, it was exposed."

Student sues instructor over crash

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

A flight school student injured last year in the crash of a University plane is suing a former instructor for negligence.

The suit, filed Nov. 13 in the Jackson County Circuit Court, seeks an unspecified amount of money from the instructor, James J. Wakeford. The money would be used to cover medical costs and other expenses incurred by the student, David A. Meyer, as a result of the Dec. 5 crash.

Meyer, who is still a student in SIU-C's Air Institute and Service, suffered permanent injuries to both legs, his left foot and ankle; a skull fracture; a spinal fracture; and other injuries in the crash, the suit alleges. Wakeford, who now lives in Algonquin, also was injured in the crash.

The plane, a Cessna 152, was being piloted by Wakeford when it crashed in a soybean field near Vergennes about an hour after takeoff. The suit says, Wakeford was training Meyer on how to handle stalls, steep turns and other aircraft maneuvers.

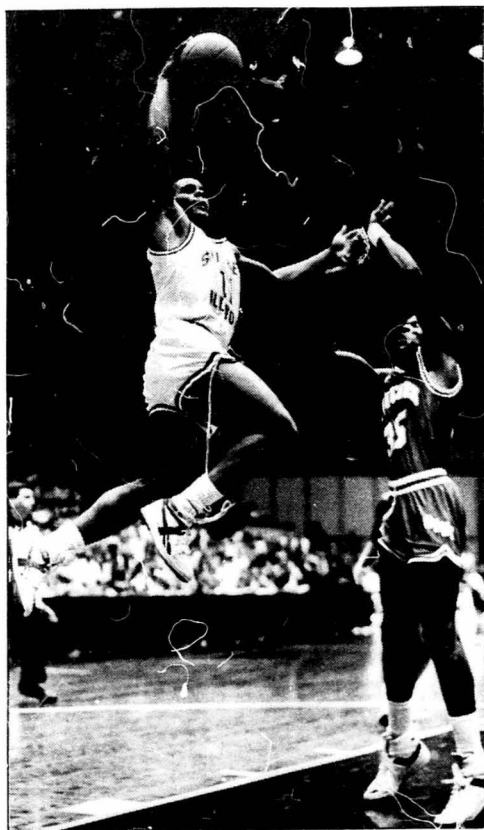

The suit gives the following scenario of what happened during the flight:

Wakeford piloted the plane for about 45 minutes after takeoff. He then pulled the engine throttle back to idle to simulate an engine failure and told Meyer to "demonstrate emergency procedures under circumstances where engine power has been lost."

Meyer took the plane down to about 250 feet above the ground, told Wakeford he had no experience flying below 250 feet and turned control of the plane back over to Wakeford.

Cagers edge Murray

Herrin's hoopsters triumph in cliffhanger

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The Salukis came out of a dogfight with a 77-70 victory against Murray State Monday night in Murray, Ky.

Steve Middleton scored at the crucial times while Tim Richardson helped SIU-C rebound Murray State, 44-35. Middleton had 17 points and Richardson scored 16 with nine rebounds.

"Tim Richardson had a great comeback," Saluki assistant coach Scott Howard said.

Murray State forward Jeff Martin finished the game with 34 points but was held in check by Middleton in the closing minutes.

"Jeff Martin is a NBA-type player," Howard said. "We put Steve Middleton on him at the end of the game and Steve did a great job stopping him."

The win gives the Salukis a 2-0 start. Murray State dropped to 1-1.

Both teams started slow and finished tied at 33 after the first half. The Salukis shot 42 percent from the field and Murray State shot 39 percent. There were nine lead changes in the opening 20 minutes.

Martin, who scored 24 points a year ago against the Salukis, had 18 first-half points.

The Salukis raced to a 6-2 lead on a 15-foot jumper by Middleton. Terrence Brooks tied the game for Murray

State, completing a three-point play after being fouled.

The Saluki zone defense confused freshman point guard Paul King and the Murray State offense. King started in place of Don Mahan, suspended by Murray State's disciplinary board, along with two other players, after a dormitory incident.

Murray State jumped to a 21-16 lead on the hot shooting of Martin. The Salukis tied it at 25-25 on a basket by Middleton. The teams traded baskets the rest of the half.

The Salukis built an eight-point lead during the opening five minutes in the second half. During the next seven minutes, Murray State went on a 17-8 run to take a 56-55 lead. A Middleton score gave the Salukis a 57-56 lead. The teams exchanged baskets for the next four minutes.

With the score tied at 65-65 with less than three minutes to play, Randy House scored on a baseline drive to put the Salukis ahead, 67-65. Murray State answered with a Brooks score. The Salukis then reeled off eight consecutive points and were perfect at the free throw line in the final 1:30. Middleton hit four free throws and Shipley connected for two.

Three other Salukis finished in double figures. Kai Nurnberger had 16 points. Rick Shipley added 12 and House chipped in 10. Off the bench, Sterling Mahan had four and Erik Griffin had two.

Saturday, the Salukis opened the season by beating SIU-Edwardsville 82-73 at the Arena.

House led the Salukis with 25 points, missing only twice in 13 field goal attempts.

"I thought the key was SIU-C's shooting," SIU-E coach Larry Graham said. "He (House) really hurt us."

The Salukis hit seven of 15 three-point attempts. SIU-E made three of 10, but all came late in the game.

"We come down and let it fly," House said. "We're not bashful about putting it up. We're going to live by that and we're probably going to die by that."

The Salukis built an 11-point halftime lead on House's 16-point scoring spree and seven points from Mahan off the bench.

Eight minutes into the game, Middleton broke the 1,000 career-point barrier with a three-point shot. He began the season with 999 points.

The Salukis stretched the lead to 15 points with nine minutes remaining. Shipley took control of the boards. He grabbed 11 of his game-high 15 rebounds and made seven of eight free throws in the second half.

IOWA CITY, Iowa — The Saluki women's basketball team followed tradition in its season-opener, that of losing it. Tenth-ranked Georgia defeated the unusually nervous Salukis 58-53 Saturday in the first round of the Amana-Hawkeye Classic.

SIU-C rebounded Sunday with a convincing 69-51 thumping of Missouri in the consolation game.

Iowa defeated Missouri Saturday and beat Georgia 66-56 Sunday to win the title. Against Missouri, 13 of 14 players scored including three freshmen. Preseason all-conference pick Mary Berghuis led the balanced Saluki attack with 13 points. Center Cathy Kampwerth and guard Dana Fitzpatrick netted nine points each.

The Missouri win was in sharp contrast to the Saluki loss to Georgia.

"Our kids were a lot looser before the Missouri game and our defensive intensity was outstanding," coach Cindy Scott said.

The fired-up Salukis held the Tigers to 20 points in the first half and started with a 23-5 run in the first 11 minutes of the second half.

"I think after the Georgia game we were ready to throw in the towel and forget this year. We feel better today," a relieved Scott said.

SIU-C hit 28 of 48 shots for a .583 shooting percentage while limiting the Tiger offense to .328.

"We go into our offense much better than we did against Georgia. If we can get that kind of balanced play and balanced scoring throughout the season we may be a half-way decent team after all," Scott said.

Georgia dominated the boards with its quickness, throwing up a zone defense that completely stymied the Saluki inside game.

"They can jump three times and we're still starting our first jump. If I was going to coach against this team I'd zone us the whole night," Scott said.

The Salukis also committed 30 turnovers against the tenacious Lady Bulldogs.

"We have the personnel to play a full-court press and from our stand point that was the difference," Georgia coach Andy Landers said.

SIU-C made a minor run at Georgia late in the game, but the young and inexperienced team held its composure.

"These kids are freshmen and sophomores. Maybe they didn't know it was time to spit the ball up and throw it away," the controversial

Swim teams suffer losses

By Todd Mounce
Staff Writer

Despite outstanding individual performances, both Saluki aquatics teams lost dual meets against Louisiana State University Nov. 20 because of depth problems, coach Doug Ingram said.

"We had some good swims, but we suffered in not being able to back up our top guys," Ingram said.

The men's team lost 69-44 and the women lost 77-35.

"It was a long course to beat," Ingram said, explaining that the Salukis usually compete in swimming events gauged in yards. Periodically, the team competes in metric pools, such as the LSU Natatorium.

Sophomore Harri Garmendia won the 200-meter individual medley in 2:12.75 and the 200 butterfly in 2:03.37.

Sophomore Scott Roberts, another double winner, won the 200 freestyle in 1:57.83 and the 200 backstroke in 2:08.92.

"Those guys really stood out," assistant coach Jimmy Tierney said.

Senior Suella Miller was ill and could not swim, thinning the ranks of the women's team even more.

Senior Lori Rea won 50 freestyle in 28.06, and senior Amy Witherite won the 200 breaststroke in 2:56.64.

Seniors Iris von Jouanne and Jackie Taljaard, sophomore Kathi Wire and Rea won the 200 freestyle relay in 1:53.62.

Poles reject referendum proposing radical changes

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poles voting in a rare national referendum rejected a fast-paced version of a government economic and political reform pack... the government said Monday. Government spokesman Jerzy Urban said 44.28 percent of those eligible to vote approved a "radical" version of the reform program that asked whether Poles would accept two to three years of relative economic hardship in exchange for better conditions in the future.

Terrorist bomb linked to Korean jet crash

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — South Korean officials Monday initially linked the crash of a Korean Air jetliner with 115 aboard to an explosion of "a time bomb-like device" possibly set by terrorists seeking to disrupt planning for the 1988 Seoul Olympics. The four-engine Boeing 707 airliner with 95 passengers and 10 crew members went down Sunday in dense jungle in Thailand near its border with Burma, about 125 miles northwest of Bangkok.

9 bodies recovered from S. African jet crash

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Searchers Monday sprayed chemical repellent in the Indian Ocean to drive off sharks feeding on the victims of Saturday's crash of a South African Boeing 747 that carried 180 people. Nine bodies were recovered by midday Monday, all but two of them so badly mutilated in the crash and by sharks that their sex could not be determined, according to an official at Plaisance Airport in the Mauritian capital of Port Louis, where the plane was to land.

Iranian, Iraqi warplane attacks leave 1 dead

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran and Iraq said their warplanes carried out destructive air raids Monday, and shipping sources confirmed Iraqi strikes on two tankers in the Persian Gulf off the Iranian coast. Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency said Iranian warplanes attacked a petrochemical complex in Mosul, about 120 miles west of the border, at 7:45 a.m. Monday, causing "substantial damage" before returning safely to base. Iraq said one person was killed and one wounded in Iranian attacks near Mosul, but did not identify the target.

7.4 earthquake rattles Alaska, Canada

PALMER, Alaska (UPI) — A powerful earthquake rocked Alaska and Canada's remote Yukon Territory Monday, sending thousands of coastal residents fleeing to higher ground in fear of giant sea waves and knocking out power to at least one fishing hamlet. No injuries were reported. The quake was centered in the Gulf of Alaska about 300 miles southeast of Anchorage and was measured at a magnitude of 7.4 on the Richter scale, the Alaska Tsunami Warning Center in Palmer said.

Market tumbles 110 points before rebounding

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market plunged nearly 110 points Monday before a final-hour rebound as traders reacted to the dollar hitting record lows overseas and expressed skepticism at budget-reduction efforts in Washington. The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 3.15 last week, fell 76.93 to 1833.55. It was the index's eighth-largest daily point loss on record. The Dow had been down nearly 110 points at 2 p.m. before a final-hour rebound.

Cuban inmates in Atlanta keeping hostages

ATLANTA (UPI) — Cuban convicts refused to free their 90 hostages Monday at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary despite the peaceful resolution of a weeklong prison takeover by their countrymen in Oakdale, La. In Washington, Bureau of Prisons Director Michael Quinlan warned the Atlanta inmates could be prosecuted if they threaten hostages with physical harm. As the Atlanta prison uprising entered its second week, negotiations with rebellious Cuban inmates were at a standstill with no new meetings scheduled, authorities said.

Louisiana inmates transferred as siege ends

OAKDALE, La. (UPI) — Cuban inmates at a federal detention center, their rebellion ended by a signed agreement, Monday one-by-one left their burned-out compound to be scattered around the federal prison system. Leaders of the 989 inmates, who rioted Nov. 21 over the possibility of being deported back to Fidel Castro's Cuba, on Sunday released their 26 remaining hostages and ended the 8-day-long ordeal.

Flea spray still on shelves

By Laura Milbrath
Staff Writer

Hartz Blockade flea spray for dogs and cats is continuing to be sold in several local stores despite consumer claims that using the pesticide could cause illness or be fatal to pets.

The Environmental Protection Agency has not removed the product from the national market. However, many stores nationwide have begun removing it from their shelves.

The problem received national attention last week on a "20-20" segment. Reports from some consumers claim that after their animals were sprayed with the pesticide, the animals became paralyzed, suffered convulsions and died.

THE PRODUCT has been removed from Walgreens and Kroger food stores in Carbondale but continues to be sold at National food stores and Wal-Mart. Sponsors at several of the stores said they could not comment on why the product continues to be sold.

George LaRocca, product manager in the office of pesticide programs of the EPA in Arlington, Va., said that two of the active ingredients in the pesticide, Deet and Fenvalerate, had been tested and each had proven to be safe when used on its own.

HOWEVER, WHEN the EPA began to receive reports that the combination of the two chemicals might be poisonous, testing resumed. In August, the EPA requested more data on the testing of the pesticide from Hartz. The completed data should arrive at the agency in March of 1988, LaRocca said, adding that the EPA will make its decision about removing the product from the market in May or June.

"If there is no adequate margin of safety with the product, we could cancel the product, depending on the results of the data," LaRocca said.

The sickness in the animals might be caused by "either the combined products and the active ingredients or it may be because of how the product is applied," LaRocca said.

PHIL HUTTON, supervising biologist in the insecticide and rodenticide branch of the EPA in Arlington, said the agency is testing to see if certain breeds of animals may be more susceptible to the pesticide than others.

"For any pesticide, a certain very small percentage of animals will have a toxic reaction," Hutton said. "You always try and spray a small amount on the animal first and observe it closely for a couple of hours. If the animal is going to have a reaction, you want it to be with a low dosage."

The EPA did take steps to warn consumers about the possible dangers of the product by requiring Hartz to hang a warning tag on each container, LaRocca said.

"IT'S A warning to consumers to indicate they should not overapply the product and if they do observe any signs of toxicity, they should notify their vet immediately," LaRocca said.

The label also advises consumers not to use the repellent on dogs less than 3 months old, cats less than a year old or on debilitated, old or sick pets.

Consumers often overapply the pesticide to their pet, Hutton explained. The container is designed to provide five or six applications but often consumers use most of container in one or two applications.

However, not everyone who has used the product has had complaints about it. Hutton said, adding that Hartz sold five and a half million units of the pesticide in one year.

"HARTZ'S CONTENTION is that they have sold more of this product than probably any other product in a short period of time," Hutton said. "There have been maybe 600 incidents reported out of that five and a half million units. That's roughly one in 10,000."

The EPA received many of its reports on the pesticide from the Illinois Animal Poison Information Center at the University of Illinois, Hutton said.

He cited figures showing that from March through October of this year, 415 cases of sickness in animals from use of the repellent were reported. Of those 415 cases, 57 animals died, Hutton said.

"THERE IS no doubt that some animals have had a reaction to the product," Hutton said. "But we can't just yank a product off the market because we suspect something. It has to be fairly well confirmed."

Michael Goldstein, an attorney from Oceanside, Calif., represents 25 clients who claim their pets have suffered because of the repellent. Ten of his clients' pets have died.

"These animals are being poisoned and Hartz is doing nothing," Goldstein said.

Goldstein filed a lawsuit against Hartz in August and a hearing was held on Nov. 20 when Goldstein sought a temporary restraining order and asked the court to issue a nationwide recall of the product. The court called for the hearing to be continued until January, Goldstein said.

HE ALSO explained that it would cost Hartz $9 million to recall its own product from the market. However, if the EPA orders them to remove the product then the EPA must pay the bill.

"Hartz is dragging their feet so the EPA will issue the recall and (Hartz) won't have to spend the money from their own pocket," Goldstein said.

He added that he believes the warning tags on the containers are ineffective.

"We've got a lot of animals that are dying," Goldstein said. "The magnitude of the numbers kind of rules out any coincidence."

WILLIAM PERLBERG, vice president of research for the Hartz Mountain Corporation, issued a statement on the problem. In the statement, Perlberg said, "The use of any product on the market to control fleas on pets is associated with a degree of hazard to the animal insecticides in the Pyrethrin category, which include the Hartz Blockade, have been reported to be among the safest insecticides available. We believe Blockade is the most effective product for repelling fleas and ticks."

Student directories available Thursday

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

They're here. About 12,000 copies of the 1987-88 student directory will be distributed this week, David Steck, assistant to the Undergraduate Student Organization president, said Monday.

Distribution will continue today and Wednesday to dorms students. Directories will be placed in student mailboxes in the campus residence halls, Steck said.

Off campus students can pick up a directory Thursday and Friday at a table on the first floor of the Student Center, he said. Students must present a valid ID.

This year the directories are free to the students, can be used through the summer and are of the highest quality, Steck said.

"We have one of the few directories in the state that was not paid for by student fees," Steck said.

In the past directories have been printed by the University or a student organization, he said. Production was expensive, ranging from $12,000 to $14,000, he said. "We couldn't afford it anymore."

The USO contracted University Directories, a company in North Carolina to produce the directories.

University Directories covers the cost of production and makes a profit by selling ads to appear in the directory. SIU-C receives a percentage of the profit and students get a free directory, he said.

Foreign enrollment needs policy change

EXCUSES AND accusations are flying fast and thick concerning the falling foreign enrollment at SIU-C.

Regardless of who or what is to blame, the results are hitting home. SIU-C, long considered one of the most culturally-diverse universities in the nation, has dropped from eighth-highest foreign enrollment in the nation in 1983 to No. 12 in 1987. From the fall of 1986 to this year, foreign enrollment dropped from 1,965 to 1,789 students.

JERRE PFAFF, associate director of admissions and records, told a Daily Egyptian reporter that as a state-supported institution, SIU-C gave Illinois residents precedence in admissions this year, sometimes at the expense of foreign students. Undergraduate applications were up 25 percent this year, meaning, as Pfaff put it, that SIU-C couldn't "be all things to all people."

SIU-C should not be knocked for putting Illinois students first, and should continue doing so. In another country we would expect native applicants to be given precedence over their American counterparts, and to expect otherwise is unrealistic.

But the University could benefit from rethinking its across-the-board policy of giving Illinois applicants precedence over foreign applicants, a policy which has been implemented not only at the expense of foreign students, but also at the expense of the University as a whole.

SOME ACADEMIC programs are hurting for students this year, a few with enrollment so low that they are in fear of extinction. At a time when admission applications and enrollment figures are up (and foreign applications are down), SIU-C should be finding and drawing in those foreign students who would fill the greatest academic need.

Foreign applicants applying for needy programs should be given precedence over those applying for programs that have overflowing enrollment; in the meantime all foreign applicants should be encouraged to apply for these programs to increase their chances for admission.

A major-by-major admissions policy for foreign applicants, in which each academic program's need for students would be assessed and then measured against a student's chosen major, would do more for alleviating the problem and strengthening the University than simply drawing a line on foreign student admissions.

Letters

Matalonis, Asa letter a 'racist' tactic

As a minority student at the law school, I deeply resent the scurrilous attack upon the law school faculty and staff by Paul Matalonis and William Asa in the Daily Egyptian on Nov. 19.

Since I have enrolled in the law school, I can say without fear of contradiction that at no time in my life have I ever encountered people who, both as teaching professionals and as human beings, exhibited a greater degree of caring and understanding than I have found here.

The Law School, beginning with Dean Strickland and continuing down through the most junior member of the staff, has gone beyond the call of duty in endeavoring to recognize and remedy the problems which face all law students, especially minorities and women.

Once again, in an uncivilized manner, the National Lawyers Guild has resorted to demagoguery and innuendo to accomplish its goal of destabilizing American institutions.

The National Lawyers Guild is merely one among many such groups that uses the loathsome tactic of "race baiting" to accomplish an end.

But America has said "no" to Hitler, it has said "no" to the KKK, "no" to infidels and "no" to communism, and we will say "no" to the National Lawyers Guild.

I call upon all students, and especially my fellow minority students, to repudiate the National Lawyers Guild and its none-too-subtle brand of racism. — Hardy Cumby Jr., first year law student.

ACT survey an irritating mystery

The ACT form that everyone fills out before attending college determines a student's financial needs for the fiscal school year. Many students here at SIU-C are in need of this aid.

A new ACT law requires the administration to survey the financial aid needed by SIU-C students. At the last minute, Joe Camille and Jean Paratore have created a make-do survey, which is being sent to a random 10 percent of the student population.

Who are the 10 percent of SIU-C which this survey is being sent to? Are they the students who really need financial aid, or are they the students who have cars bought for them, their rent and bills paid and credit cards provided to them by their parents - in other words, are they students who really don't need financial aid?

When questions are asked about this survey and the random 10 percent is being sent to, these questions always go unanswered. I would like these questions answered. — Marvin Tanner, freshman, geology.

Reagan defends budget program despite $9 billion in new taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Monday his budget compromise with Congress will not hurt the economy or jeopardize the nation's defenses despite higher taxes and cuts in military spending he fought hard to avoid.

Appearing before a group of business leaders at the White House, Reagan called the plan to trim $76 billion from the deficit over the next two years "an adequate deal, the best we can get." He promised to do all he can to see it enacted.

"To those who say that falling into this agreement was a misfortune, I only say now that we are in it. For anyone to pull us out would be a calamity," Reagan said. "The entire world has been looking for a sign that despite political differences, America is getting its fiscal house in order and has rightly taken the budget accord as that sign."

The agreement calls for $9 billion in new taxes in fiscal year 1988 and $5 billion in military cuts, measures Reagan's traditional conservative supporters do not like.

The proposal worked out during 20 days of negotiations between Congress and the White House would produce $30.2 billion in savings for 1988 and $45.85 billion in 1989 through higher taxes, better tax collections, user fees, cuts in spending and sale of government assets.

"It's worth the support of everyone here and of those who've stood with me for so long in the Congress," Reagan said. "And I say that for two very important — no, two absolutely crucial — reasons: keeping our economy strong and keeping our national defenses strong."

The president said that despite higher taxes, the overall tax rate still will be the lowest since 1931.

"Here's the bottom line on taxes in the budget deal — no rate manipulation, no tampering with indexing, no new broad-based taxes such as a sales tax or a new excise tax, no revenues other than the kind what we called for in our budget, the one I submitted last January," he said. "And, as I said, this agreement does not preclude me from vetoing a bad tax bill — and I will."

Debate team sweeps tournament

The Saluki debate squad captured first and second places at the competition at the University of Wichita.

The victory kept the squad in the No. 1 position in the Cross Examination Debate Association competition and increased its chances to win a third straight national championship.

The team of Scott Parsons, Wadsworth, Ohio, and Mike Korcock, Carbondale, placed first. The team of Mary Keehner, Akron, Ohio, and John McHale, Bartelsville, Okla., came in second.

They beat teams from Central State University of Edmond, Okla., who placed third, and William Jewell College of Liberty, Mo., who placed fourth in the 59-team tournament.

SIU-C's John Lapham, Seattle, Wash., and Mark Crislip, Wadsworth, Ohio, came in ninth. The team of Mark West, Bainbridge Island, Wash., and Bill Christoff, Granite City and the team of Valerie Sulfaro, Berkeley, Mich., and Brian McGee, Calesburg, tied the 17th.

In individual scoring, West was fifth, Parsons fourth, Korcock third, Keehner sixth and McHale 11th out of 108 competitors.

The squad gained 35 points toward the national championship, Jeffrey Bile, director of the University's forensics program, said.

in a televised statement that a new president will be inaugurated in February, but did not say when a new election will be held.

Security remained high today with troops standing at intersections of Boulevard Jean-Jacques Dessalines, the battered capital's main commercial thoroughfare, and trucks loaded with police and soldiers rolling through major arteries.

The only one of the city's 13 radio stations to broadcast today was Radio Metropole, Port-au-Prince's most dependable source of news.

The Dominican Republic, Haiti's neighbor to the east on the island of Hispaniola, announced it closed border crossings because of the unrest.

Through Sunday night, the city, darkened by an electrical blackout, crackled with the sound of automatic gunfire and occasional grenade blasts. The extent and duration of the blackout and its cause could not be immediately determined.

In Washington, the State Department announced it was cutting off military assistance and suspending economic aid to Haiti, because of the postponement of the elections.

"The CNG (National Governing Council) ... reiterates its determination to carry out the established electoral timetable ... which will culminate with the installation on Feb. 7, 1988, of the president freely elected by the Haitian people," Namphy said.

The Provisional Electoral Council canceled elections after bands of roving gunmen fired at random at voters gathered in polling places. At least 22 people were killed and scores were wounded in Port-au-Prince, the privately-run Radio Metropole said.

A 15-minute attack by 50 to 100 masked men on a downtown school serving as a polling place left 10 people dead and seven wounded, said Gilbert Mercier, a French television cameraman who saw the assault.

"We have seen a massacre," he said. "Bodies of the dead, including women and children, lay atop one another in rooms surrounding the school's central courtyard."

Wakeford then took the plane down to tree-top level to "demonstrate what it looks like during an actual emergency landing." He accelerated the engine to full power and banked the plane left. The plane stalled, the nose of the aircraft rolled left, the plane's left wing hit the ground and the plane crashed.

Since the crash occurred while Wakeford was employed by SIU-C, University insurance will pay for his defense, Sheri Rhode of the SIU-C Legal Counsel, said.

Meyer is seeking compensation from Wakeford for disability and disfigurement; past and future medical expenses; transportation and lodging expenses related to his medical treatment; loss of future wages and earning capacity; loss of tuition, fees, room and board and other educational costs; and past and future pain and suffering.

Meyer's lawyer, Barry Barash, refused Monday to disclose the amount of money Meyer is seeking or to discuss any other facets of the case. Wakeford also refused to comment.

budget negotiators. The cuts closely paralleled the across-the-board cuts called for in Gramm-Fudman. Social Security was the only federal program spared any cuts under the agreement.

Becker said the department prepared for the budget cuts by raising the GSL origination fee and cutting loan subsidies to banks. The origination fee is the amount of money the department charges companies that administer GSLs, do the paperwork and carry out other administrative tasks for the program. The fee was raised $12.50, from $137.50 to $150, Becker said.

"There are ways to meet budget cuts," Becker said. "Either you raise the money or you cut the money. They (the changes) meet the demand of the budget cut."

While no changes in federal student aid programs are likely this year, Becker predicted that programs other than GSLs may suffer next year as a result of the cuts. He cited National Direct Student Loans and the College Work Study program as examples.

By the time Congress comes up with a deficit-reduction package all parties are satisfied with, the GSL program may not face any cuts, Becker added. The program is very popular on Capitol Hill, he said.

"It would be very difficult to cut it," he said. "Nobody's looking to take money away from people who need it to go to school."

Telefund collects $194,805

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The SIU Foundation telefund ended 58 nights of calling on Nov. 19 with a total of $194,805.25, exceeding last year's total by more than $50,000.

The $75,000 goal was reached at 8:57 p.m. on Nov. 17 with a $25 donation taken by Grace Poppen for the Rehabilitation Institute, Mike Miller, assistant director of annual giving for the Foundation, said.

The School of Law, the last school to call for pledges, collected $19,590. Its goal, set at $15,000, was exceeded the first night of calling, he said.

The College of Education collected the most money with a total of $53,535.25, surpassing a goal of $50,000. The College of Technical Careers collected $20,720 and the College of Communications and Fine Arts collected $18,551.50, said Miller.

All three of these colleges "went way over what we expected," Miller said.

The College of Engineering and technology collected $7,262.50; the College of Human Resources, $2,408.50; and University Studies, $472.

The College of Business and Administration finished with $30,078, the College of Agriculture, $15,805; the College of Liberal Arts, $14,697.50; and the College of Science, $11,685.

Miller said the average gift was $31.39, but there were several $1,000 gifts. The largest gift was to the College of Education for $1,500 and the smallest was $2 donated Nov. 17 when the goal was reached, he said.

Volunteers numbering 1,327 completed 20,839 telephone calls and collected 6,205 pledges. Miller said all but three colleges showed an increase in the amount of money pledged to them.

Donations have already started pouring in, he added. The College of Education has already received over 50 percent of its money.

It usually takes about two weeks after the college finishes calling before any money is received. Money is usually still coming in by March, Miller said.

"It's been fun," he said, adding that the Foundation did not expect to make much over its goal.

Chinese professors to discuss changes in country's politics

By Deedra Lawhead
Staff Writer

Three professors from China will hold the first of three discussions tonight on political and economic changes that have occurred in their homeland during the past nine years.

The professors are visiting campus as part of an exchange program between SIU-C and the Northeast Normal University in China, said Ikuu Chou, a University political science professor.

Chow, who is running the exchange program, said the United States Information Agency has provided about $60,000 in grant money that allows the cultural exchange between the two universities.

Cheng Yun Tang, head of the History Department at the Chinese university; Qun Yu, a history professor; and Zhao Hui Jin, an economics professor, will speak on economic reforms in China since 1979 at 7:30 tonight in Lawson 131. A question and answer session will follow.

Deng Xiao Ping became leader of China in 1978 and began to launch changes to modernize the country in 1979, Chou said.

Tang, Yu and Jin will discuss political reforms in China since 1979 at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Lawson 121. China's foreign policy will be the topic of the final discussion from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday in Wheeler Hall, Room 212. Chou will be the translator for the discussions.

As part of the exchange program Chou will spend three summers, beginning in 1988, in China teaching international relations to Northeast University students.

At the end of their training, Chou's students in China will receive an SIU certificate as special graduates from the SIU extension program.

Police Blotter

Thieves took advantage of students away for Thanksgiving break and burglarized at least three apartments and two vehicles, Carbondale police reported.

Police believe reported burglaries will rise as students return to Carbondale.

—Electronic and stereo equipment was stolen from 401 E. College. The equipment, belonging to Viadimir Mikle, 21, is valued at more than $2,000;

—An electronic typewriter, VCR and television, valued at $1,300, were taken from the residence of Rachel Trunk, also at 401 E. College. Carbondale police said the burglar forced entry into the apartment through the front door;

—A burglar at 500 E. College cut a screen and entered the residence of Joseph Vincent, 29, through a window. A tape player and cassette tapes, valued at $384, were missing, according to reports;

—An AM-FM cassette player was stolen from a vehicle parked in lot 123, behind Brush Towers, University police said. The victim, Allison Walsh of 1705 Neely, was notified at home about the burglary. A burglar had broken the left rear window to take the tape deck; —Tools, valued at about $70, were taken from a vehicle parked in lot 123, University police said. Police said the burglar broke the left door vent window to enter the vehicle of James Babits of 109 Wright III.

Anger can be used in healthy ways

Anger is one of the most intense and perhaps most damaging of all human emotions. Instead of trying to understand what our anger is about and then transform it or express it in healthier ways, most of us try to repress it hoping it will go away on its own.

Repressed or improperly channeled anger inevitably emerges in subtle ways, often affecting our relationships with others, our health, and our happiness. A person who is chronically angry cannot feel love or express warmth because anger by its very nature blocks love and other positive emotions. Anger also thwarts creativity, limits your ability to concentrate and impairs memory - all crucial characteristics for success in school and career.

Many physical and emotional conditions can be correlated directly to un-

To Your Health

pressed or inappropriately expressed anger. Anger produces a stress response in our bodies which triggers a rise in blood pressure, increase in pulse and respiration rates, increased muscle tension, altered blood chemistry and as a whole, most of other physical and psychological changes. Prolonged and chronic stress contributes to a breakdown of adequate functioning of the immune system, the body's defense system against illnesses. This impairment can contribute to increased susceptibility to colds and flus, and the development of or increase in the severity of asthma, headaches, ulcers, colon disease, arthritis, muscle tension and depression. Prolonged stress triggered by chronic anger can even contribute to the development of heart disease and some cancers.

Not only does repressed or uncontrolled anger have a direct negative effect on our physical state, but it also may cause us to act in self destructive ways - drinking too much, driving too fast, or getting into fights. However it is expressed, our anger almost always does far more damage to us than to those whom our anger is directed against.

Most frequently anger results from our needs and wants not being met - not getting what we want, when we want it, and refusing to accept it. Children sometimes respond with temper tantrums. Adults often disguise their own true feelings of anger and are more indirect. Passive aggressive behavior, (being aggressive in a quiet covert way), making others miserable, making ourselves miserable and showing everyone how miserable we are, are some of the many indirect ways that adults express anger.

In order to deal with anger and its negative effects on our health it is very important to bring angry feelings to surface and into our conscious awareness. Only when anger is correctly identified can we begin to learn to appropriately channel, transform, or let go of it. Recognizing that most anger arises from thwarted desire helps us examine our wants and perceived needs. We often must find new and more effective ways of meeting these needs. When this is impossible, we must learn how to adjust our attitude toward our unfulfilled desires and accept our imperfect situation with understanding, compassion, forgiveness and love.

High-sulfur causes mine to shut down

FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS (UPI) — Peabody Coal Co. will shut down its Will Scarlet surface mine in Southern Illinois and lay off about half of the mine's 144 employees, effective at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday.

A company spokeswoman at Peabody's Illinois Division office blamed the closure on adverse raining conditions and difficulty in competing in the current coal market with the mine's high-sulfur coal.

The company said it "regretted" the decision.

Forestry to sponsor tree sale

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

Part of the fun of the Christmas season is picking out a real Christmas tree that is the right height, shape and color. One of the several places tree shoppers can look for a Christmas tree is at the Forestry Club Christmas tree sale.

The club will hold the tree sale from 8 a.m. to dusk Friday through Sunday at the east side of McAndrew Stadium.

The tree sale is an annual money-making event for the club, and has been held for the past 25 years, John Burde, faculty adviser, said.

The trees, which are Scotch pines, are shipped from western Michigan, and range from 3 to 8 feet. The cost is $3.25 per foot.

"The Scotch pine, is the kind of tree most people around here get," Ric Wilson, president of Forestry Club, said. "It's just your standard, every day kind of Christmas tree."

Last year, the club sold all 425 trees that were ordered. This year 500 trees were ordered.

"The tree sale is the basic big fund-raiser," Wilson said. "Anything we want to do the rest of the year, comes out of this."

Working with the club on the tree sale is a Christmas tree class that organizes, advertises and sets everything up for the sale.

Soviet man, wife to reunite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Andrei Zhitkov, a young Leningrad resident, will be reunited with his American wife in Chicago, the latest "divided spouse" case settled in the prelude to the superpower summit, it was announced Monday.

The Zhitkovs met while Elizabeth was studying in Leningrad on an exchange program from September 1986 until last January. They met three days after she arrived and were married March 2.

"This is a joyous day for Elizabeth and Andrei," Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said in a statement released by his office, which announced the decision by Soviet authorities to issue an exit visa to Zhitkov.

The Zhitkovs were told of the decision late last week.

Elizabeth Zhitkov said she and her husband are "ecstatic" and hope to be reunited by Christmas. They plan to live in Chicago, where she is employed as a secretary at an engineering firm.

"Let's hope in this new spirit of openness that the Soviets will live up to international agreements made in Helsinki in 1975," Simon said. "Let's hope that they will not deny human beings the simple request of living with the ones they love."

Elizabeth Zhitkov had planned to travel to Washington for a meeting between President Reagan and members of the Divided Spouses Coalition, a group of Americans organized to gain freedom for their Soviet mates. Coalition members will discuss human rights issues with Reagan in preparation for his meeting next week with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Two years ago, eight Americans were reunited with their Russian spouses in the days following the Geneva summit. Soviet authorities announced their decision to resolve the cases in a dramatic pre-summit gesture.

Authorities last month announced they would allow three refusniks married to Americans to leave the Soviet Union. Since then, a case involving a San Francisco woman was settled.

Divided Spouse Coalition members estimate there are 19 or 20 remaining divided spouses and blocked marriage cases.

Leadership Excellence Starts Here

Reagan calls for Soviet withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan vowed Monday to press Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev next week to set a date for a troop withdrawal from Afghanistan and "put an end to these destructive, wasteful conflicts around the world."

Hitting on what could be an area of movement at next week's superpower summit, Reagan said the Soviet-backed government in Kabul is "discredited and doomed," its days so numbered that even the Soviets "are writing off that regime."

"The Soviets pride themselves on recognizing objective reality," he said. "Well, it's time for them to bite the bullet."

Reagan used his appearance before a luncheon sponsored by the conservative Heritage Foundation to reassure longtime political allies that his ideological principles will not be compromised for political or diplomatic gains in his talks with Gorbachev.

Laying out a summit agenda that includes a discussion of human rights and Soviet support for Marxist-led regimes and insurgent movements around the world, Reagan minimized the role of a showcase arms agreement that has encountered sharp opposition from some conservative Republicans.

At the same time, he sought to alleviate their concerns about that accord, which would eliminate U.S. and Soviet ground-based nuclear missiles with ranges of 300 to 3,000 miles by pledging the most stringent efforts ever to monitor compliance and by again promising that his "Star Wars" antimissile program will not be bargained away.

His criticism of "some in Congress" who would cut funding for the program or "bind us to an overly restrictive interpretation" of the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, inhibiting its development, seemed to ignore a delicate compromise designed to avert a major showdown during 1988 over ABM testing.

There has been speculation that in addition to signing the agreement on Intermediate Nuclear Forces, Gorbachev might be prepared to use the summit to announce a change of position on Afghanistan, where some 116,000 Soviet troops remain mired in an 8-year-old war against Moslem guerrillas.

1987 FALL EXAM SCHEDULE

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00	T	Th
09:00 - 10:50	W

The listed starting time for the first line of entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Fall '87 Final Examination Schedule to be Tuesday, Dec. 15 at 7:50-9:50 a.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

"A Christmas Carol" comes to the Shryock stage at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Classic play returns to Shryock

The musical production of Charles Dickens' Christmas classic "A Christmas Carol" will bring the Christmas spirit to the University at 8 p.m. Saturday in Shryock Auditorium.

A 18-foot human puppet for the Ghost of Christmas Future will highlight the production's sets, special effects and costumes. The Nebraska Theater Caravan performed to a sold out Shryock Auditorium last year.

Remaining faithful to the text published in 1843, the theater troupe brings song and dance to the story of Ebenezer Scrooge, a crochety old miser whose life of nose-to-the-grindstone money changing is changed by visits from Christmas ghosts.

About 300 seats are left for Saturday's performance,

Hageman said. Tickets are $10 and $12 and are available at the Shryock Auditorium box office from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays. Charge by phone at 453-3378 from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays.

Shryock Auditorium will not be offering student rush seating because it is not a Celebrity Series event. Series

By Curtis Winston
Entertainment Editor

Modern and jazz dance will be featured by the Southern Illinois Repertory Dance Theatre in "Dance Expresso" at 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium.

The dance concert will feature dancing and choreography by students and faculty and also will feature the Black Fire Dancers, another campus-based dance company.

General admission tickets are $4 and are available at the Student Center central ticket office and at the Shryock Auditorium box office on performance evening.

The concert will culminate three months of hard work and rehearsals, coordinated by Donna Wilson, assistant professor in the Department of Physical Education.

Works featured include "Fishbowl," choreographed by Wilson. The dance is a study of movement confined to a limited space.

The dancing promises to have a lot of punch and energy, Wilson said. "The dances use modern and popular music and are influenced by martial arts, internal conflict and contradiction and simply the joy of dancing," she said.

The Southern Illinois Repertory Dance Theatre is a registered student organization that receives partial funding from the Undergraduate Student Organization, Wilson said.

Spikers' best not enough against N. Iowa champions

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa — The women's volleyball team put together one of its best matches since mid-season, but against top-seeded Northern Iowa it wasn't enough.

Northern Iowa got 31 assists from MVP senior-setter Mary Bernhardt to defeat the Salukis 15-12, 15-8, 15-10 in the semi-final round of the Gateway Conference Tournament held Nov. 20 before 844 fans at the NU Fieldhouse.

Northern Iowa (34-4, 9-0) dispatched Southwest Missouri (21-9, 8-1) in three games for the conference title and an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament.

Sophomore Nina Brackins kept the Salukis (15-19, 6-3) in the running with 19 kills and a .400 hitting percentage. "It felt good, like we could've won, like we should've won," Brackins said.

Brackins delivered several devastating spikes. In the third game she had six kills, including one that tied the score at 4-4.

"That would have to be one of her best matches this season," Saluki coach Debbie Hunter said.

Dawn Thompson had 23 assists. Several went Brackins' way. "Dawn was mixing it up pretty good for me," Brackins said.

"Both teams had shining moments and weaknesses," said Northern Iowa coach Iragde Ahrabi-Fard, Gateway coach of the year. "SIU's offense made mistakes trying to avoid the block and our offense wasn't sharp."

Northern Iowa had 17 hitting and 11 service errors while the Salukis had 18 hitting and 13 service errors.

Although the Salukis tied the score seven times and even built an 11-5 lead in the first game, they could not capitalize on the advantage.

"We talked about those critical moments. We never converted at those times," Hunter said.

Northern Iowa had no difficulty coming through with the big plays when needed. Maryellen McCann led the Panthers with 10 kills while Bernhardt drilled a free-ball to end the second game in explosive fashion.

"We had more depth in our offense," Ahrabi-Fard said. Bernhardt, McCann, and Bobbi Becker made all-Gateway first team and Kris Schroeder was honorable mention and newcomer of the year.

Despite the talent of the opposition, the Saluki squad would not surrender. It even managed to go ahead 7-5 during the third game.

"We pressed Northern Iowa all the way through," Hunter said. "There was more pursuit on our part. A willingness to go to the ground, to get friendly with the floor, kept us close."

Top Saluki defenders were Joan Wallenberg with 17 digs, Thompson with 14 and Beth Winsett with 12 digs and three blocks.

Dorothy Buchanan, the Salukis' junior-middle blocker, made the all-Gateway second team and Thompson was named honorable mention.

The title was Northern Iowa's second straight. Southwest Missouri was runner-up for the fourth time in five tournaments. Illinois State (15-12, 6-3) was third.

The Salukis finished their season Saturday in a 15-3, 15-5, 15-11 non-conference loss to Nebraska in Lincoln, Nebraska.

Nebraska, an NCAA tournament qualifier, finished its season with a 28-4 record.

Wallenberg led the Salukis with seven kills. Buchanan had six and Winsett five.

Nebraska had 55 kills while the Salukis managed just 29. Nebraska also outblocked the Salukis 8-1.

Thompson and Wallenberg each had two ace serves for the Salukis. Thompson also had 21 assists.

Intramural basketball participants should attend informational meetings scheduled this week, intramurals coordinator Buddy Goldammer said.

The one-on-one tournament will be discussed at 5 p.m. today in the Recreation Center, Room 158. Teams interested in the Schick Superhoop three-on-three tournament will meet at 4 p.m. Thursday in Room 158. All participants must register at the Center's information desk.

The one-on-one tournament begins at 5 p.m. Wednesday in the Center's gym. There are men's and women's open divisions, and a men's six-foot-and-under category. Winners in each division receive a leather basketball.

The Schick tournament begins Monday. Men's and women's teams are restricted to four members.

All participants will receive razors and the first 20 teams to sign up will receive shaving kits. Tournament champions will receive gym bags and the chance to compete in a regional at Chicago or Indianapolis.

Floor hockey championships begin at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Pulliam Gym for men's, women's and core divisions.

In the men's A division of the intramural flag football championships, Top Dogs beat Full Force, 40-22. Sensual Death defeated Play For Pain, 20-6, in the women's division, and Superstars 2 beat The Traitors, 12-8, in the core division. The Boys defeated The Air Cav, 25-13, in the men's B division.

Shean Curtis, Ron O'Brien and Herman Williams tied in the preliminaries of the men's division Turkey Shoot free throw competition. Each made 23 of 25 attempts. Williams won in a five-shot shoot out.

Sonja Crider won the women's division with 21 of 25, and Phil Born won the wheelchair division with 15 of 25.

Cross country star ends career; Sinou takes 48th at NCAA finals

By Jim Black
Staff Writer

Senior cross country star Vivian Sinou fell short in her bid to become SIU-C's first All-America at the NCAA finals Nov. 23 in Charlottesville, Va.

Sinou finished the 5,000-meter race in 17:12 to place 48th. The 25 top finishers were named All-Americans.

Sinou, unbeaten through the first seven races this season, was the first woman Saluki harrier to qualify for the NCAA finals.

"She ran as hard as she could every step of the way," coach Don DeNoon said. "The competition was certainly keen. It was a whole different level than we've been competing on all year."

DeNoon said Sinou may have hurt her position by running the first part of the race very fast, but said that she felt she had to start out hard in order to have a chance to place well.

"The strange thing about the race is that it went out so fast," he said, adding that Sinou was in about 25th after 600-800 meters.

While Sinou failed to reach her goal of becoming an All-America, DeNoon said something positive may have come out of the race.

"I think she had something to learn — and she learned," he said.

Sinou and junior Lisa Judiscak competed Saturday in the TAC national cross country finals in the Bronx, N.Y. The TAC race is the qualifying race for the United States team at the world cross country championships.

Sinou ran the 6,000-meter course in 21:45 to finish 58th and Judiscak finished 75th in 22:10.

"The quality of the top 25 was awesome," DeNoon said. "She (Sinou) ran tough, but not tough enough."

Landers said.

Saluki point guards did not fare well against the Georgia zone.

Junior guard Deanna Sanders shot 1-13 from the floor and was charged with six turnovers in 45 minutes of play.

Junior guard Tonda Seals scored eight points but turned the ball over six times against Georgia. Seals tallied five points with no turnovers against Missouri.

"Until we settle on a point guard we're not going to gel like we need to. We've got to sit down and get this position resolved," Scott said.

Fitzpatrick was the only Saluki to earn all-tournament honors. Fitzpatrick scored a double of dubious nature against Georgia, 14 points and 12 turnovers.

"Dana played very well in the Missouri game, but we were very disappointed with pass selection against Georgia. She works so hard on the defensive end you can't get down on her too much," Scott said.

The Salukis next game is 7:35 p.m. Saturday at the Arena against Scott's alma mater, Memphis State.

SIU-E closed the lead to seven with 2:51 left but did not come any closer.

"Our guys battled and were tough down the stretch when it counted," Saluki coach Rich Herrin said. "Our problem was we did a good job defensively but we didn't keep them from rebounding that second shot."

On Nov. 20, the Salukis beat the New Zealand national team 84-65 in an exhibition game at the Arena.
